A great furor has been stirred up in local Democratic circles over the succession to the impending vacancy on the Common Pleas bench to be created by the resignation of Judge Dillon. The appointing power lies with the Governor and the scramble for the title and emoluments of "Jedge," even if it is to last only a month or so is something terrific. The Democratic patriots and lovers of their country are one and all hopeful that the lightning will strike them and that they will be able to disport themselves for at least 30 days under the euphonious appelation of "Jedge." But sad to relate, for the other patriots, the race has narrowed down to two competitors,—one the Democratic Thurlow Weed of the Tenth Ward, D. D. Ulrey, who has the support of the local Democratic machine, the main spokes in which are the gold dust twins of reform and decent politics, "Jeems" Ross and John Joyce. The other contestant, who has not been put out of the running is the well-known Demosthenes of the local bar, W. H. Jones, who has the backing of the Columbus Railway and Light Company and other benevolent, charitable and eleemosynary corporations. Both of these interests benevolently insist on putting their own candidate on the bench for the good of the public and the uplift of humanity. The laboring masses will watch the titanic struggle of these Napoleons of the bar with bated breath, each lustily applauding his favorite when he scores a point. In the meantime the fight for an independent judiciary proceeds with unabated vigor and whoever gets the job, a great popular victory is assured.

The Booster's Column

By F. E. JOHNSTON

GOOD. The past week has been very encouraging from a subscription standpoint. You Boosters are beginning to get back to your old pace. Right now when other sources of income are at a low ebb, it takes the united effort of all loyal class conscious Comrades to keep things moving.

Get them boys and girls, it makes no difference if it is only one 25c sub., that helps along. Scour the workshops and factories. Visit your neighbor, make up a nice list of subs., and bring them in. This is absolutely the only unmuzzled paper in the city of Columbus. Tell them that, and show them they can not trust the capitalist press for anything at anytime. Do everything you possibly can to boost along right now and we will soon be on the road to Washington. If you Comrades could see the unbounded enthusiasm manifested in the country every Saturday evening, it would inspire you to do greater things. The people are falling all over themselves to get our literature, and at every point, we are welcomed, given the glad hand, and invited back. As one farmer put it, last Saturday evening at New Albany, "We are disgusted with the two old parties, and we want to find out what the Socialist Party stands for." Comrade Bachman was vigorously applauded at the conclusion of his address. Let's put them all on the sub. list. Everybody all together.

ON TO VICTORY!

List of Comrades with one or more to their credit: Fisher, Suddick, Allis, Dean, Meyer, Marquette, Swope, Lyda, Lightle, Foster, Krum, Henderson, Bues, Albright, Bohnert, Miller, Jones, Kazle, Wilson, Smith, Poole, Kinnear, Van Schoyck, Deardorff, Hina, Ebright.

Comrade Emil Hartman of the First Ward sends in the cheering information that that Ward has appropriated $10 to put new subs. on the list until after election. The flies don't get a chance to light on Comrade Hartman or any of the First Ward bunch of hustlers.

FAIRFIELD SOCIALISTS ARE UP AND AT 'EM

Full County Ticket Nominated and Platform Adopted.

The Socialists of Fairfield County in session at historic Sugar Grove, named a full ticket as follows:

For Representative, C. E. Matheny, Sugar Grove; for Clerk of Courts, George W. Johnston, Sugar Grove; for Sheriff, H. E. Spangler, Lancaster; for Auditor, S. F. Sheets, Sugar Grove; for County Commissioners, Jos. K. Marshall, Sugar Grove, I. N. Matheny, Sugar Grove, George Cole, Lancaster; for Treasurer, J. A. Bradley, Lancaster; for Recorder, Pearl L. Wells, Lancaster; for Surveyor, A. E. Bretz, Lancaster; for Prosecuting Attorney, Wm. Fetheroll, Lancaster; for Probate Judge, Frank Forshaw, Lancaster; for Coroner, Wm. Springer, Lancaster.

Fairfield County Socialist Platform.

We, the Socialists of Fairfield County, Ohio, in convention assembled this 22nd day of June, 1912, at Sugar Grove, Ohio, reaffirm the State and National platforms of the Socialist Party of America and the principles of International Socialism as demanding the collective and public ownership and the Democratic management of all natural resources and the means of wealth production and distribution.

The Socialist Party is the political expression of the economic interests of the workers. It is a party founded on the science and laws of social development. It proposes that, since all the social necessities of today are socially produced, the means of their production and distribution shall be socially owned and Democratically controlled.

The working class includes all those who are forced to work for a living, whether by hand or brain, in shop, mine, or on the soil. We vastly out-number the capitalist class but, lacking effective organization and class solidarity, our class is unable to force its will.

Given such class solidarity and effective organization, the workers will have the power to make all laws and control all industry in their own interest.

We demand, for the workers, access to the machinery of wealth production and to the land at all times and the full social value of their toil.

We demand the initiative, the referendum and the recall.

We demand equal suffrage for all men and women.

We demand strict investigation and the proper enforcement of the laws in regard to all of our public institutions.

We demand direct hire of labor on all public improvements; thus eliminating all fraudulent contracts and opportunity for grafting afforded by the old contract system.

We demand the improvement of all public highways and water ways.

We demand proper protection of all the workers in the industries and upon the public highways.

We demand better management and the abolition of all grafting and immoral concerns at our County Fairs.

We demand absolute freedom of speech and of the press and the right of public assemblage.

We demand public inspection of all County records at any and all times.

We demand the free administration of the law.

We demand a workers' vote on all labor questions.

STRICKLAND MEETING.

Comrade Fred G. Strickland spoke to an immense street meeting at High and Broad Thursday evening of last week. It was good to hear Strickland on the soap box, just like he was years ago when that was all we had to stand on. The way he held that crowd, answered questions and sold literature warmed the hearts of all the old-timers.

THE BIG SALE

Attention is called to the Big Clothing Sale now going on at The Capitol Clothing Co., Russell & High Sts. The Purchasing Agents of this company, located at 568 Broadway, N. Y., found a wholesaler with 3600 suits on hand that he could not dispose of owing to the Eastern dullness in the clothing business. The Purchasing Agent offered him $6.00 per suit, cash money and the offer was accepted. These suits, 400 of which are blue Serges, are being sold at $7.77, absolutely the biggest bargain ever offered in this city. This firm is not a member of The Retail Merchants Asociation. While it is true that the price of clothing has gone up 20 per cent, this sale gives the public a chance to stock up at a figure that makes it necessary to see the goods to appreciate the saving.

FOR SALE or trade—Equity in five-room house on Gates Street, close to car line. Paved Street. Call N. 3446.

REAL ESTATE

6-Room Frame, modern, located at 46 Maynard Ave., one of the best locations in North End. Price $3000.

THE CITY CENTRAL COMMITTEE

CITY HEADQUARTERS AT 835½ SOUTH HIGH STREET.

"AS YE SOW, SO SHALL YE REAP."

By W. E. Bues.

Turn where you will,—among the workers in the mines, mills and factories, strangers thrown in each others' company on street cars and street corners, traveling men in hotel lobbies and even housewives in converse over the back door fence—'tis the same word—something is wrong.

Capitalism, glutton that it is, with its insatiable appetite for profits, not content with the workers toiling long hours in fire-trap factories, amid unsanitary conditions and operating dangerous machinery without the proper safety appliances, not content with the workers on the railroads, in the mines and mills jeopardizing their lives on account of the lack of necessary protection—and for all this eke out only a bare existence for themselves and children; adds insult to injury by ignoring the worker's cry for justice while the parasites of this system riot and revel in luxury, occasionally throwing to the workers from their festival tables a crumb in the form of charity.

Isn't it enough to make the people think? Yes, the workers are thinking and have already determined that there is something wrong and with that same determination they say: "There's got to be a change."

The capitalist system, leech-like as it is, has sucked the life-blood of the working class until it has reached the bursting point and to the limit, where the workers have reached the stage of revolt.

But where to turn is the question? They are looking for a Moses—but he comes not.

The man back from Elba (he of the big tooth) did appeal to them, but even he, now unmasked and the brand of Wall Street's die—($)—exposed, is doomed to political oblivion. So no hope is there.

Those of the workers who have been reached with the message of Socialism embrace it with an everlasting hug. Their minds, prepared by capitalism's lash (the fear of want) are in a receptive mood for the Socialist message.

Millions are now reading it.

They are quickly convinced and are flocking to the Socialist Party by thousands.

That is true everywhere. But in Columbus and Franklin County the possibilities are even greater.

The voters of this district rudely awakened from their lethargy by the Stewartism of two years ago, and the present high prices of necessaries are more than eager for the message of your Socialist propagandists.

Your oportunity is here. But we must have an organization to make the best of it.

We must pay our dues promptly to finance the organization and its campaign of education.

You should respond at once to your Ward organizer's call for precinct workers.

On August 4th there will be a house-to-house distribution of literature.

The National Campaign Committee will furnish us enough of twelve different sixteen-page pamphlets to supply every voter in your congressional district. Approximately 700,000 pieces of literature. Enough for twelve weekly distributions. Material for a remarkable campaign of pamphleteering.

All the candidates, from your Congressman down to the last man on the ticket, in addition to the work of their speaking tours, have volunteered to do their share.

If there are any Comrades—men or women—members or sympathizers—who have not been asked to take part in this great work and wish to enlist, now is your chance.

Telephone or mail in your name to W. E. Bues, City Organizer, S. P., and you will be assigned to territory and on election day you will be rewarded by the election of your whole ticket.

The field is yours.

Capitalism has "worked up" the ground to a high state of fertility, and the seed is at hand to be sown, and "As ye sow, so shall ye reap."

WORD FROM CITY ORGANIZER

Members of all Branches Socialist Party, Local Columbus

To have a uniform system of Ward organization for the whole of Local Columbus the following has been adopted. If you do not already practice this system see that it is taken care of at your meeting. Wards should be organized for the collection of dues from delinquents and for the distribution of literature.

Collection of dues should be divided between two members who would qualify as collectors. A call for volunteers for this work and their appointment will give better material than their choice by election. Financial Secretary to furnish the collectors at the first of every month a list of names of members in arrears more than three months.

Volunteers for precinct captains should be appointed and be held responsible for all work in their district except the collection of dues of delinquents. They should be provided with a list of names of all members in their precinct so that they can be in constant touch with them and enlist them in the work, thereby making it a pleasure for the many instead of a hardship for the few.

Ward organizers to oversee precinct work and also that dues collectors are on the job.

We need dues to finance our campaign of education and the workers to systematicaly distribute the literature.

An organizers' meeting will be held at 108½ South High Street, at 9:30 next Sunday morning and you are requested to instruct your organizer to be present to thrash out detail work.

W. E. BUES,
City Organizer.

Socialist movement for reform. This happened to the Populist party and will happen to us. For instance, if the Democratic party agitated an old-age pension scheme this fall, it would be just as logical for us to assume that if the Democrats got into office we would quickly get old-age pensions, and being that we will not be able to carry the election ourselves, this fall, that we, for pay, loan some of our speakers to the Democrats in making their campaign, thereby assisting in bringing about this constructive program of old-age pensions. If Ella Bloor wants to agitate Woman Suffrage, let her do so from the Socialist party's rostrum. It's plenty large enough. At present the National Socialist party is routing Luella Twining throughout the State in the interest of Woman Suffrage.

So the party membership must beware of these pitfalls that look so innocent on the face of them. To hold our organization in tact, we must have discipline. No matter how popular the speaker, the organization must at all times insist that we hew close to the lines. If not, we will be betrayed as the Populist movement was, on the shoals of middle-class reform.

Regarding the acceptance of speakers approved by the City Local Committee we have been very lax. Local Committees as a rule do not like to turn a Comrade down, when making application for the State's available list, especially if he is a good talker, for fear of hurting his feelings. In this manner Comrades are recommended to the S. E. C. who are absolutely unknown to the committee who must of necessity turn them down. At once the charge of bossism springs up from him and his Local, creating bad blood between them and the State Office. The Comrade generally, who can't qualify feels that he knows all about it and more than those who criticise him justly.

A great deal of bad feeling could be eliminated from this source if the applicant had to appear personally before the S. E. C. wherever possible and answer for his qualifications. If not he should mail a copy of his prospective speech with his application for reference. If this occurred their would be fewer objections to speakers and only those properly qualifying placed on the available list.

If your S. E. C. should not have power in this matter then take it away from them and open the way for free lancing. Some years back we had a taste of this. If you want another, throw down the bars, the picking is good, but pray to your God to save the Socialist movement, as it will fall into the hands of political mountebanks, charlatans, etc., winding up in Reformism, A. P. A. ism, Anti-Unionism and a thousand and one brands of Socialism, emphasized by as many individuals.

Therefore, think well before you act against your State Executive Committee. Remember they have a right to be heard in this matter. They are as jealous of the party's interest as you are. Don't hastily talk about recalls. Recalls hastily initiated as a rule create party discensions.

Prejudice manifests itself to strongly these matters, that party loyalty becomes a secondary consideration. If some one has been done an injustice, this matter will rectify itself in time. Prejudice at a momentary hasty action, engenders misrepresentation, such will tear the vitals of party loyalty, Comradeship and discipline that has taken years to establish, into a thousand shreds, and retard the growth of your movement proportionately.

Yours, for the cause,
PETER KINNEAR.

COMMENT.

This paper gathered up the plain facts in regard to the State Office, not from the Capitalist sheet, referred to, but from Comrades selected by the C. C. C., of Local Columbus, and other trustworthy Comrades. After investigation, we were free to admit that the Capitalist sheet, had thing about as near correct as it were possible for them to get it.

The fact was, that the State Office chuckling in goulish glee at the opportunity to take a slap at Political Action, gave out the "interview" to the reporter, and the reporter states that he will stand back of it.

As far as the S. E. C. not being I. W. W.'s, is concerned, is no argument at all. The fact is that few, if any of them are eligible for membership in that organization. They seem to be getting in better work on the outside.

The attempt to defend the S. E. C. for their action in taking off speakers who advocate Political Action, is so flimsy that it does not deserve serious consideration. It is merely an attempt to cover up the dispicable actions of a bunch who have read themselves out of the Socialist party.

As to Mayors Shook and Pape, these two incidents form the brightest pages in the history of the party in Ohio, showing absolutely that the membership of the party are clean, and do not intend to stand for political office-seekers. The party is in the position of a child learning to walk. A mistake is made now and then, which only serves to clear up the situation.

Our explanation of "Direct Action" was correct. Force and strikes lead to violence and violence to Anarchy. The membership throughout the State are beginning to understand it thoroughly.

The attempt to whitewash the S. E. C. and the State Office as well, will fail. The membership is sometimes slow in waking up, but they are now aroused and there will be a house cleaning, that will put the Shook and Pape case in the shade.

SOCIALISTS IN ACTION

News from the World-Wide Movement of the Workers

NEWS FROM NATIONAL SOCIALIST HEADQUARTERS

Referendum C, 1912.

The referendum proposed by Local Branon, Texas, first published in the Weekly Bulletin of June 15, "That J. Mahlon Barnes be at once removed as Chairman of the National Campaign Committee and that the National Campaign Committee be instructed to name his successor with the sanction of the presidential and vice presidential candidates," has been seconded by more than five per cent of the 1911 membership, located in more than five states.

Twenty-sever locals and branches did not state their number of members.

Membership represented by those stating their number of members, 5363. Number required, 4236.

The ballots have been shipped to the State Secretaries and to the Local Secretaries in the unorganized State and territory.

"I move that a call be sent out to the Party membership for funds for the Brotherhood of Timber Workers."

Also on an amendment by Hillquit as follows;

"I move as an amendment to the motion of Comrade Irvine submitted under date of July 15th, that the letter of Jay Smith addressed to the National Executive Committee and describing the condition of the timber workers in the South, be published in the Bulletin and in the Party press."

Correspondents who write to the National Office are requested to confine each letter to one subject. Otherwise, it has to be switched from one department to another, which causes delay and confusion. It is particularly necessary not to mix other matter with letters to the lyceum and campaign departments, as they have separate files for their letters.

If it is permissible to enliven this grim report, Louis Kopelin, the National Office's press correspondent in Washington, D. C., reports as follows:

"With Congress marking time during the old party conventions and Comrade Brewer away from the city, I was up against it to get stories suitable for publication for a few days last month. But it now seems we shall have a grand wind-up of the session with Berger planning to rush in the Co-operative Commonwealth before Congress adjourns."

"Toledo, O., July, 15, 1912.

"Local Toledo, S. P., with 335 members in good standing, in regular meeting, adopted the following resolution and calls for seconds to same and its submission to national referendum of the Socialist Party.

"Whereas, The National Executive Committee has built up a machine inside the Socialist Party by establishing a National Lecture Bureau and

"Whereas, The National Executive Committee is the sole judge of all speakers and who they shall be, while the will of the party is not considered in any way, and

"Whereas, Some of the members of the National Executive Committee at Indianapolis publicly declared that the N. E. C. was running the national convention and proved the statement to the enlightenment of everyone before the convention closed, and

"Whereas, The National Executive Committee was able to carry out its program with the assistance of its employes, the majority of the Lyceum speakers,

"Therefore be it resolved, That the Lyceum Bureau be at once abolished in order to do away with ring rule in the Socialist Party and for the purpose of replacing the management of the Party in the hands of the rank and file."

NATIONAL CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE RED LETTER DAY

July 26—That's the Day!

Whether you got a One Day Wage Fund card or not—you might have been missed, only 180,000 cards were sent out—a letter and your contribution are expected on that day—July 26—by the National Socialist Campaign Committee.

The North, South, East and West will all be there. Letters from California and Maine and the Canadian border and the Everglades will meet and mingle—all together—that is the way! THAT IS CO-OPERATION. Every punch in a card is a punch at capitalism. Your individual contribution will add steam to the blow.

Remember, July 26—Red Letter Day in the Socialist Campaign. YOUR letter is awaited.

J. Keir Hardie, the miners' representative in the Parliament of England, has accepted the invitation jointly issued by the National Executive Committee and the National Campaign Committee for a tour of America.

Comrade Hardie will arrive about August 31st in New York City, and will most probably be the Labor Day speaker in Boston, Mass. He will make a six weeks' tour of the country, being assigned mainly to the coal mining districts and large centers of industry.

Comrade Adolph Germer, now in Amsterdam, Holland, as delegate from the United Mine Workers of America to the International Congress of Mine Workers, in a letter says that he had a conference with Comrade Hardie, and that Hardie is an excellent speaker and will do good work everywhere in the campaign, especially in the mining districts. Applications for dates for Comrade Hardie should be filed at once with the Campaign Committee.

ACTION BY CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE: "Motion, That Campaign Manager Barnes be instructed to circularize the membership, informing them that a large variety of campaign material is to be gotten out and sold by the Campaign Committee, and requesting them not to patronize private companies furnishing such supplies, but to withhold their orders for same until they can be supplied by the Campaign Committee, in order that such profits as may accrue therefrom shall go into the campaign fund of the Socialist Party rather than into the pockets of private manufacturers."

A campaign tour is being made up for Comrade W. R. Gaylord for the month of August in the Central and Southern Central States.

The Federal Laws relating to publishing expenses provide that candidates for Congress must file four expense certificates, one before and one after the primary or convention, and one before and one after the election. Applicants can secure the blanks and copies of the law by writing to the Chief Clerk, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.

State Secretaries are requested to send in all full name, address, occupation and district number of all congressional candidates.

Comrade Emil Seidel, candidate for Vice President, during the past week has had very successful meetings, with large and enthusiastic audiences at East Chicago and Fort Wayne, Indiana, Hamilton, Ohio, and Bellpville, Illinois. Since the spring election Comrade Seidel has made a number of trips of a few dates each, and says he can feel distinctly the swell of the rising tide of the campaign from meeting to meeting.

Comrade Louis J. Engdahl has been selected by Comrade Seidel to accompany him as publicity agent.

ERIE COUNTY SOCIALISTS NOMINATE GOOD TICKET

Enthusiastic Convention Held at Sandusky Tuesday of Last Week.

The Socialists of Erie County met Tuesday of last week at Sandusky and named the following ticket:

For Representative, E. B. Robinson; for Probate Judge, William H. Watts; for Clerk of Courts, William S. Collins; for Sheriff, Philip J. Rey; for Auditor, W. Irving Jackson; for Treasurer, Charles P. Fuchs; for Commissioners, Oscar A. Hertlein, Herman Frey, Charles A. Abele, Sr.; for Surveyor, A. H. Osterman; for Recorder, William E. Albers; for Cororner, M. C. Selvey.

The Socialists are preparing to make a lively campaign this fall and will have a number of speakers here, including their candidate for governor. The convention Tuesday was enthusiastic. One of the nominees, Charles P. Fuchs, was formerly a Democrat and served the city as water works trustee.

The platform, as reported by a committee consisting of Dr. G. P. Maxwell, Theodore L. Miller, F. E. Fick, C. W. Morton and W. S. Collins follows:

"We, the Socialist Party of Erie County, O., in convention assembled, reaffirm our allegiance to the national and Ohio State platforms of the Socialist Party, and to the principles of international Socialism and demand the public ownership and Democratic control of all our national resources, factories, mines and means of transportation, communication and exchange and to the worker, the full product of his toil."

Editor Socialist:

This is to inform you that Sandusky Local has procured a new hall in the Moore building, on Columbus Avenue, opposite the Post Office, third floor front. It is in a very prominent location, it being on the main street crossing of the town. It is well advertised by two signs on the front of the building and one at the entrance and a 20-foot sign streched across the front of the hall in front of the building.

We have a free library of about 40 books, several good class struggle pictures, etc. The hall is open all the time; any Comrades coming into town can go up there and make themselves at home. We have business meetings every Tuesday night, though there are some Comrades there almost every night.

Fraternally,
F. E. FICK, Secretary,
Sandusky Local.

INDIANA STATE NEWS

James Oneal, State Secretary, 118½ Ohio St., Terre Haute, Ind.

The expected applications for charters from Columbia City and South Whitley arrived this week, the first with five signautres and the second with twelve.

Word comes from Millersburg in Elkhart County that the Socialists there are ready to organize and that instructions will be appreciated. These are in the hands of the Comrades and a local will be organized there soon.

The old local at Duncan, in Floyd County, after many months of inactivity, has been revived and now starts with eight members.

Local Pleasant Ridge in Jackson County after being dormant since last March, has reorganized and will co-operate with other locals in organizing the County and placing a full county ticket in the field.

Local Vicksburg, in Greene County, reports a constant increase in membership, and that people come a distance of two and three miles to learn how Socialists conduct their meetings.

Comrade Condo revived local Midland, in Greene County, last week, and the report from there is that a large number of people are becoming interested in the Socialist movement and its program.

At one meeting in Muncie held by Comrade Millard thirteen applications for membership were received. The Comrades are also going to arrange for meetings for him at Daleville and Yorktown in the same County in August.

Down at Floyd Knobs, in Floyd County, some good Catholic defender of capitalism gave expression to his Christian toleration by assaulting a local Comrade at a meeting addressed by Florence Watties. No doubt this gentleman would enjoy a revival of the use of the rack and thumb screw for all those who can not appreciate his peculiar brand of piety and "religion."

From all parts of the State come reports of continued activity on the part of the locals and large quantities of literature are being sold by the State speakers. This is no doubt the biggest Socialist campaign ever waged in the State.

Wilson and Wind—Taft and Graft Take your choice, Mr. Working man.

OHIO'S NEW CONSTITUTION

By Harry D. Thomas.

The Labor Amendments—Mechanics' Lien—Workmen's Compensation.

This amendment adds to Article 2, Section 33, and is necessary to permit the laws been passed, making secure the payment of wages to mechanics and laborers for work performed, and the material men for materials furnished.

It is estimated that, in Cleveland alone of the cities and towns of Ohio, that this amount lost in wages in building and other constructive work, amounts to over $35,000 per year, due to the fact that owners let their contracts to cheap, unreliable or fraddulent contractors.

Just what the conditions are in other cities and towns I have no knowledge, but is safe to predict that the total loss in wages to the workers of Ohio, due to the fact that we have no adequate law, will not fall short of $100,000.

Clark's Mechanic Lein Law passed in 1904 was very effective in remedying this condition for a few years, but as this law was passed for the benefit of the working people, the first chance Ohio's Supreme Court got at it, it was declared unconstitutional, hence the need of writing into the constitution this Section 33, authorizing the legislature to pass a lien law that cannot in the future, if this amendment is adopted by the votes of the people, be declared unconstitutional.

Number 10 In Official Ballot, Welfare of Employes.

This amendment adds Section 34, to Article 2, of the constitution and provides that,

"Laws may be passed fixing and regulating the hours of labor, in establishing a minimum wage and providing for the comfort, health, safety and general welfare of all employes; and no other provision of the constitution shall impair or limit this power."

This amendment is necessary to make sure that all new laws passed for the benefit, protection and general welfare of the working men, women and children of this State cannot be declared unconstitutional after we have been to the trouble of having the legislature or the people through the initiative and referendum enact them into laws. In the absence of a provision of this character in the constitution, there is now and always has been great doubts as to how the Supreme Court of Ohio would construe labor laws and previous to the last election when some changes were made in the personnel of the court, most labor laws were knocked out as being unconstitutional. The recent decision of the present Ohio Supreme Court in the new workmen's compensation, and women's fifty-four hour week law were held to be constitutional by what is known as a divided court, four of the Judges voting in favor of the constitutionality of these laws, while two of the Judges were in favor of having them declared unconstitutional, and as new questions as to the constitutionality of these laws may arise at any time in the future, changes in opinion of one or two of the Judges may declare both of these laws void. Modern changes that are being continually made in our industrial life make it necessary that humane laws be continually passed to meet these new, mordern industrial conditions; personally I consider this particular amendment of more importance to the general welfare and protection of the working people of Ohio than all the other labor amendments put together and a special effort should be made to see that every working voter as well as his friends, votes for this particular amendment.

Number 11—Workmen's Compensation.

This amendment adds Section 35, Article 2, of the constitution and will constitutionally legalize the present Ohio workmen's compensation law in such manner so that there may be no fear in the future of having laws declared unconstitutional, that provide compensation for injuries, death due to industrial accidents or disease. The decision of the Supreme Court on this compensation law was decided by a divided court of 4 to 3, the question raised being on the expenditures of State funds by the present State liability board of awards. There is no telling just how soon this new law of ours, may be attacked on some other ground, hence, the need of writing in the constitution this particular provision. The advantage gained for the workmen of Ohio who are employed in dangerous occupations and are specially subject to accidents or disease, is best told by the fact that workmen who are in the employ of manufacturers who are contributing to the State insurance fund, promptly gets paid their two-third wages when they meet with an accident and their families get properly cared for in case they are killed.

Where the employer does not go into the State fund, his defense in a suit in court for damages are all taken away from him and in a few recent cases that have been tried out in Cleveland within the last few weeks, settlements aggregating from $4,000 to $20,000, have either been made direct with the families or, judgment rendered in the workers' favor in the city of Cleveland.

"The Norris and new workmen's compensation law, which makes the collecting of damages for death or injury of workmen easier, is resulting in Cleveland corporations agreeing to settlements.

"Every week a dozen or more settlements are made in Probate Court, where there is none of the delay customary in the upper courts.

"Damages fixed by attorneys for the death of a workman run from $40 to $8,500. The low prices is where doubt is that collection could be made by suit."

To make sure that this new workmen's compensation law of this State for the protection of our working people, every voter should be prevailed upon to vote for number 11.

STATE NEWS

The Crawford County Insurgent, published at Crestline is now an 8-page weekly, with R. T. Shroyder as manager and John Dinsmore editor. The Comrades in that part of the Lord's Vineyard are certainly going some, when they can get out such a paper.

Political Outlook, the Socialist party paper at Lorain has given the old politicians and the Times-Herald of that city the jim-jams, by offering to publish the city advertising at 50 per cent of what is now paid or have the printing let out by competitive bids. The Columbus Socialist made the lowest bid here last winter, but the printing went to one of Mayor Karb's heelers, who had been publishing a railway time table. The Outlook at Lorain is putting the grafters up there on record, which is just what this paper did in Columbus.

The Cleveland Socialist says: "William D. Haywood stirred strong feeling as the principal speaker at the annual picnic of the Socialist Party held at Luna Park, Cleveland, on the 16th. His powerful address aroused tense enthusiasm in the vast audience of over 5,000 people. The applause, which burst out sharp and strong on occasions, quickly subsided, so eager were his hearers to receive the message of the speaker. There was no wild and insane hysteria such as marked the recent conventions of the Republican and Democratic parties. Comrade C. E. Ruthenberg, Socialist candidate for governor of Ohio was the first speaker of the evening. He made a strong address in which he declared that more Socialists would be made in this campaign in the State of Ohio than ever before. He said that the struggle between the Republican and Democratic parties was simply a fight between two sections of the capitalist class, and that the Republicans, the Democrats, Roosevelt and all political parties except the Socialists uphold the fundamental injustice of the capitalist system.

The Socialists of Hamilton County, Ohio, Kenton and Campbell Counties, Kentucky, held a monster picnic at Coney Island, near Cincinnati, last Sunday. It was the big annual demonstration of that section. Comrade Emil Seidel, candidate for Vice President, and Comrade Anna K. Storck, of Lorain were the speakers. Comrade Gus Tegenkamp, of The Columbus Socialist staff was down to enjoy the day and reports that it was beyond description.

TO THE WORKING CLASS

(Written Especially for the Columbus Quartet.)

By Elliot M. Spates.

Strike boys while the iron is hot
Weild a mighty blow,
We need not fear, the time is here
To let the whole world know.
Abreast and breast we'll march in line
We'll show just what we've got,
Two hundred thousand strong is fine
To strike the iron while hot.

Go get your brothers, yes your mothers,
Get your fathers too;
And add them to the ranks, boys
To strike the iron with you.
Don't ever stop, for in the shop
You'll find the workers there,
Are just the same as you, boys,
They're that way everywhere.

The masters brave, they cannot save
This country from our hand,
We'll meet them on the battle field
And take our final stand.
This war will not be one of blood,
not a single shot,
We'll win the day when all will say, strike the iron while hot.

SCHENECTADY'S ICE SOLD AT AUCTION

In Spite of Injunction, Poor Will Pay 25 Cents a Hundred for Ice.

Schenectady, N. Y.—The several thousands of tons of ice which the local Socialist administration harvested last winter with the intention of disposing of it to the poor of this city at 25 cents a hundred pounds, which is about 15 cents less that the trust price for the commodity, was, in accordance with an order of the Supreme Court at Albany under injunction proceedings brought against the administration by a local ice dealer, sold at public auction today for $175. The ice was purchased by D. J. Sweeney, who, it is said, representing a private association formed by Mayor Lunn and other officials, will reimburse the city for the cost of harvesting and then sell it to the poor.

The injunction was originally issued in the name of D. V. Maxwell, 714 Crane Street, an ice dealer and grocery man. Maxwell is alleged to be a tool of the local ice trust, which sought to preserve its profits through restraining the Socialist administration from underselling it in the trade with the poor.

The injunction was served on Socialist Mayor Lunn and several of his associates on July 3, and was calculated to prevent the administration from disposing of its ice on the Fourth to about 1,000 customers who were expecting it. But the Socialists were much shrewder than their foes reckoned they were, and the ice they were restrained from selling as officials they disposed of as individuals. The poor of Schenectady got their cheap ice, in spite of the greedy ice combine.

When a man or group of men own the means by which others must live, they own the most powerful weapon in the world to force others to stand and deliver.

MACHINISTS' VICTORIES

Washington—Local machinists of Kansas City, Mo., have signed up a three-year contract with the breweries for an eight-hour day and a minimum wage from 48 cents in 1912 to 50 cents in 1913 and 53 cents per hour thereafter. At Cincinnati the local made a yearly agreement for a eight-hour day at 40 cents. At St. Louis the rate was made 50 cents per hour. A satisfactory agreement was made by the Cincinnati local the General Machinery Company of that city and on the New Orleans, Mobile and Chicago Railroad an agreement was made on a federation basis to include machinists, boilermakers, blacksmiths and sheet metal workers, including all apprentices and helpers, the rates being, machinists 39 cents per hour, apprentices 8 cents, first year; 10 cents, second; 17 cents, third, and 28 cents fourth year. At St. Paul, Minn., an advance of 2 cents per hour was obtained for 45 machinists employed by the Nott Fire Engine Company. On the Western Maryland Railroad a very satisfactory agreement was reached, making the minimum rates 34 cents and 36 cents per hour for journeymen, according to grade, and 10 cents and 16 cents per hour for apprentices.

The Bohemian printers of New York City secured advances of $2 per week to machine and job hands, machine operators time reduced to 7 hours per day. At La Crosse, Wis., the printers signed up another shop which heretofore has been opposed to the organization.

ROLLING MILL MEN'S CONTRACT

Washington—The Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers has signed a new scale with the French Mill at Oakland, Cal., and wit the Standard Chain Company at Columbus, O., thereby securing an increased rate of wages.

USUAL DETECTIVE STUNT

Topeka, Kan. — In an action brought against Ezra Day, an organizer for the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes, on the complaint of a detective of the Topeka Railway Company, charging assault and battery, Day was acquitted by a jury in just three minutes and the costs taxed against the complaining witness. Under the statute if it is found that prosecution is malicious the complaining witness can be taxed for the costs and committed to jail in default of payment. In this case it was found that the prosecution was malicious, and the judge directed that the detective, Fred L. Howard, be committed to jail until the costs were paid. The detective, however, had disappeared before the court order was executed.

CLEAN CUT VICTORY FOR BUILDING TRADES

Washington—The Carpenters District Council of Dupage County, Ill., won a strike for an increase of 5 cents per hour all over the district. At Hinsdale they received a 7½ cent per hour increase. This strike was brought about by the contractors declaring for the open shop. The strike lasted four weeks. All the building trades resisted as a unit. The contractors reversed their position and signed the union shop agreement, gave the increase in wages, an agreement for two years, conceded the painters and building laborers an increase of 5 cents per hour and confined operations to eight hours per day and four hours on Saturdays.

WORKMEN CANNOT WAIVE "RIGHTS."

Washington—The United States Supreme Court in a recent decision, upheld that feature of the Employers' Liability Act which prevents an employe from waiving his rights in order to obtain employment from a railroad by signing a contract for benefits in a company's so-called "Voluntary Relief Association." It cannot in the future be held as a defense for the railroad and a prevention from the recovery of damages in case of negligence. A brakeman employed by the Washington Terminal Company lost his arm in a collision. A suit for damages followed. The District of Columbia Court ruled the section of the Employers' Liability Act, relied upon by the Company, was unconstitutional. The case was appealed and was reversed. Another trial was had which resulted in the court directing a verdict for the company, this time upon the ground that it was not a common carrier. The District Court of Appeals ruled the company was a common carrier. The United States Supreme Court now finally settles both issues by deciding in favor of the crippled brakeman and allowing him $7,500 damages.

COMMUNICATION FROM COMRADE P. KINNEAR

Editor Columbus Socialist:

Dear Comrade—Replying to your article of July 18th and 20th inst., entitled, "Plain Facts," and the interpretatoin applied to to this article by the Comrade of Kenton, O., infering that the I. W. W. had control of the State Office and affairs, I wish to state that in this the Executive Committee and State Secretary, has been done an injustice.

Not a member of your State Executive Committee, or State Secretary are members of the I. W. W. However, this assertion was spread broadcast over the State by one of the capitalist papers of thisis city, and the management of the Socialist could have ascertained this fact in a very few minutes by telephoing to the State Office, instead of giving it further credence, thereby performing a public function in nailing an insidious lie.

Your definition of so-called "Red" or "Yellow," is not to the point. The Yellow is not the Socialist feeling that carrying 51 per cent of the voting strength of this country, that he has accomplished his purpose and established the Socialist Republic. The Red is not the Socialist, advocating force, violence and Anarchy to gain his end.

The definition of "Red" and "Yellow" sprang up at Indianapolis in the heat of the Socialist Convention. There were those that later in the convention became known as the Reds, who advocated the principles that Comrade Debs has been advocating for years, namely: the question of endorsing industrial unionism, as the correct economic weapon or arm, with which the workers could bring about better economic conditions for themselves on the industrial field and ultimately their emancipation from wage slavery. In our Ohio State Convention your delegates put themselves in favor of this industrial program by a vote of 77 to 38.

To combat this program at Indianapolis was another group that later became known as the Yellows. This group took the position that the Socialist Party should not take a position either one way or another on this question, but ignore entirely. They admitted that craft organizations had outlived their usefulness as a weapon to win victories on the industrial field for the workers. However, they contended that if we indorsed the industrial principle, that the leaders and great mass of workers within the ranks of the American Federation, would become openly offended at our audacity and refuse to srpport the Socialist Party ticket at the polls this fall.

As the worthy chairman of the Labor Committee, Comrade Ameringer, expressed himself before the Committee had come to an agreement upon this all-important question, "That preachers, doctors and lawyers, did not know anything about the labor movement, therefore they had no business to mix in." This was true of the convention in a sense, but there were those who did know from the ranks of the working class, some of whom were preachers, doctors and lawyers, who kept insisting that a labor program was absolutely necessary.

In the bitterness that sprang out of these contentions, pro and con, ensinated the expression "Red" and "Yellow." The "Yellows" were termed this from the viewpoint that they admitted the contentions of the radical working class element, but were too cowardly to take an open position in favor of progress for fear that we might lose some votes at the polls.

The charge that all speakers routed from the State Office being "Direct Actionists," can be more clearly explained as to what is really meant by "Direct Action."

If by "Direct Action" is meant those who advocate force, violence and anarchy, then this charge is absolutely false. This charge the Comrades throughout the State can readily refute, especially those who have had speakers routed through the State Office.

If by "Direct Action," is meant those who are firm believers in industrial unionism, then the charge is true. However, at this juncture your State Executive Committee is only carrying out the policy of the Party as outlined and adopted by your State Convention. If you wish this policy changed then you must reconvene your convention and rescind your action. Your State Executive cannot be anything else but the open expression of tactics as adopted by your party membership. It would be a difficult matter to make me believe that those Comrades of the State Executive Committee, having the respect and the loyalty of the Comrades throughout the State for years, have all at once become open advocates of the policy of destruction.

Your party in mass convention had vividly protrayed before them the object lesson in political action alone, by the betrayal of the Party's interest, by Mayors Shook of Lima and Pape of Logais. They saw the pitfalls that capitalism was preparing for us, and the necessity of action against political oportunism that smacked of middle-class reform. Your delegates heard the plea of Comrade Wilkins of St. Marys, its present Mayor, who insisted that our program had to be changed to a revolutionary one insofar as the industrial field was concerned. Well, he portrayed how the capitalist class was using its economic power, control of jobs, by discharging Socialists, who, jobless, had to leave town and seek employment elsewhere and that these tactics almost disrupted the Socialist Locals, and that those who still belonged to the party, feared to be active or attend the Socialist meetings. Consequently your State Executive Committee, with these conditions in mind, have been insisting that speakers with some conception of the class struggle and revolutionary Socialism be placed in the field, insisting on economic organization as well as political, as a means to protect the workers political rights.

Further, the charge is made that the speakers dropped off the available list, were dropped because they believed in political action alone. If this be true, your State Executive Committee would be compelled to go over the list again and drop some others. The fact that others remaining on the list were not dropped is evidence of the fact that this is not true.

The reason is given that Comrade Bloor was not available because she had accepted employment at the hands of the Woman Suffrage League, I believe was right and proper. To take any other position in this matter would be a dangerous precedent to establish. On the face of it, it looks perfectly harmless and I would not question the good intention of Comrade Bloor in the matter. The question of the party having taken a position in favor of Woman Suffrage cannot be considered as a qualified reason. For instance, members of the Ohio Progressive League, fathering the initiative and referendum have approached me to accept employment at their hands to stump the State in the interest of the I and R. Our party has also taken a position in this matter. I have refused this proposition for herein lies the danger. If we are going to allow our speakers, for pay to affiliate with these different reform movements, agitating certain principles, when they will for pay (and the price can always be made large enough) jump the traces into progressive reform movements with a constructive program.

Once our discipline becomes lax in this matter our speakers will quickly take advantage of this precedent and for pay prostitute the revolutionary

BERGER'S SPEECH MAKES GREAT CAMPAIGN MATTER

Unseating of Judge Hanford is Admitted Socialist Victory—Pennsylvania Very Patriotic

(By National Socialist Press.)

Washington—That Representative Berger's recent speech on Socialism, delivered before the House, promises to become the dominant campaign document is evidenced by the flood of orders and letters pouring into the Socialist Congressman's office daily.

Several thousand requests for the speech have already been received. Campaign Manager J. Mahlon Barnes has ordered 100,000 copies. The "copy" for the speech is now in the hands of the Government Printing office and will not be ready for distribution for two weeks.

Nearly every speech made by Berger in Congress has received a tremendous circulation. All told, 1,300,000 copies of his speeches have been distributed in this country. Most of these have been sent through the mails under Congressman Berger's frank.

The speeches he has made heretofore have dealt with legislative subjects pending in the House or introduced by Berger. For instance, Berger's maiden speech was a tariff speech. His second effort was on the subject of old age pensions. Others gave the Socialist point of view on low wages, the eight-hour day and militarism.

But the speech he delivered on July 18, as reported in the press, was an address on economic and political conditions and the remedy—Socialism. It was the longest speech he has made since being in Congress. It provoked more discussion from his old party colleagues than any other address he has made. From a practical point of view Berger has criticised the Democrats more bitterly than he did the Republicans. The Republican party is less dangerous than the Democratic party in this coming campaign, according to the Socialist Congressman.

Hundreds of capitalist papers have not only printed news reports of his speech, but have treated it also in their editorial columns. A most amusing thing in this connection is that the Republican papers praise Berger's attack on the Democratic party and condemn his attitude toward the Republican party. The Democratic papers reverse this order. But both Republican and Democratic papers, as a rule, approve of Berger's comments on the Bull-Moose party.

Socialist agitators throughout the country noticed that this latest Berger speech has created a great deal of interest among all classes of people. Hence this flood of letters and orders. Berger predicts that this speech will receive the greatest circulation of any speech he has made during his service in Congress.

Cheer When It's All Over.

Now that Judge Hanford has resigned, scores of Republican and Democratic Congressmen are giving Socialist Representative Berger the "glad hand." They are profuse in their congratulations. All say that Berger was courageous in instituting the impeachment proceedings against the corrupt judge of the Pacific Coast.

This is typical of the old party Congressmen. Every one of them knew the facts that prompted Berger to action. Particularly is this true of the Representatives from Washington and the other Pacific States. Yet not one voice, with the exception of the Socialist Congressman, was raised against the besmirching of the Federal bench by Hanford.

Congressman Humphrey, of Washington, represents the Seattle district where Hanford was in league for many years with corrupt lawyers, politicians and capitalists. Humphrey not only remained silent regarding Hanford for many years, but, when Berger impeached this judge, he inserted in the Congressional Record a resolution of confidence in Hanford, adopted by the Seattle Chamber of Commerce.

The story now is that Representative Humphrey will succeed Judge Hanford. It is well known that Humphrey, who is a favorite of the same gang that controlled Hanford, has been trying to land a Federal Judgeship for a long while. Humphrey made his bid for Hanford's job the other day when he made his speech in defense of Taft's stolen nomination. And Taft no doubt appreciates kind words on this delicate subject.

Pennsylvania's Latest Patriot.

Pennsylvania is apparently strong on patriotism. A year ago Representative J. Hampton Moore, of Philadelphia, introduced a bill to compel, under penalty, proper respect for the stars and stripes. Now, Representative Charles Matthwes, of New Castle, is out with a bill along the same lines but with an additional provision for the red flag. New Castle has a Socialist administration.

Patriot Matthews evidently wants to show his old party friends that he is going to bring the wrath of the Federal Government down upon the heads of the triumphant Socialists who parade the red flag of human brotherhood on the streets of New Castle. Of course, the old party yokels don't know that introducing a bill is one thing and having it appear on the statute books is quite another thing.

Just how gray matter will act under certain conditions and environment is aptly demonstrated in the following masterpiece of proposed legislation:

"Whereas it has become a common practice to carry in public processions and parades or displaying from houses and buildings, flags of other nations and the red flag, also disfiguring the United States flag for purposes of advertisement, and so forth, to the dishonor of our national colors, which tends to breaches of the public peace, and against the good order of society, Therefore

"Section 1. Be it enacted, etc., That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons, firm, or corporation, to write, print, paste upon, or attach, or cause to be attached, to any flag, standard or ensign, of the United States of America any words, signs, symbols, or characters, whatsoever, as advertisements or for any other purpose, and any person or persons, firm, or corporation so doing shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be subject to a fine of not less than three hundred dollars and undergo imprisonment for not less than three months, or either, at the descretion of the court before which convicted.

Sec. 2. That in all public parades and processions, political, religious, or otherwise, in which flags, banners, and other symbols are carried and displayed, the flag of the United States of America shall be carried unfurled in the advance, or at the front of such parade or procession, and any person or persons neglecting or refusing to do so shall be subject to a fine and penalty, as provided in the first section of this act: Provided, that the foregoing shall have no application to foreign embassies or consulates.

"Sec. 3. That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to display in any public assemblage, or from any house, building, pole or other structure, the red flag except in subordination to the flag of the United States of America, or for any person or persons knowingly or wantonly, by violence to pull down, or remove any flag, standard or ensign of the United States of America, carried in any parade or procession, or displayed from any house, building, pole, or other structure, or to wantonly stand upon, trample, befoul, mutilate or otherwise deface the same, and any person or persons so doing shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be subject to a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars and undergo imprisonment not exceeding one year, or either, at the discretion of the court before which convicted: Provided, that the foregoing shall have no application to the use of red flags for danger signals and for the purpose of warning persons of possible injury to life, limb, or property."

Patriot Matthews, according to the Congressional Directory, is engaged in manufacturing and banking. Also, according to inside informations, Patriot Matthews is afraid that a Socialist may succeed him next fall. If New Castle continues as it so well began, Patriot Matthews will take the above bill back home next winter as a souvenir of a brief stay in Washington.

"BULL MOOSE" LEADERS TRYING TO FORM PARTY

The so-called Progressive "leaders" to the number of 65 held a meeting at the Neil House last Tuesday evening and took preliminary steps towards the nomination of a State and County ticket. King G. Thompson was elected delegate and Randolph W. Walton, Henry W. Backhus, J. A. Metcalf and Robert Allen were elected alternates to the National Progressive (Bull Moose) convention in Chicago August 5, with instructions to use their influence at Chicago to have a third party State ticket placed in Ohio this fall.

In its report of the affair the Citizen says:

"Democrats and Socialists, as well as Republicans, will be asked to join in the new party. There is already talk among the new party leaders of endorsing Samuel L. Black, a Democrat, for Probate Judge of Franklin County and of endorsing J. L. Bachman, Socialist, for Congress. It is not expected that either will join the new party, but if the Bull Moose men want to endorse them they will not object."

As-so-far as Comrade J. L. Bachman is concerned he gives to The Socialist the following statement:

"I notice in Wednesday's Citizen a statement to the effect that there is talk among the leaders of the proposed Progressive party to endorse me as a candidate for Congree. While I cannot prevent an endorsement of my candidacy by any body of electors nor prevent any person who so desires from voting for me, yet I cannot and will not, allow my name to be printed upon any other than the Socialist ticket and if any other party or organization places my name upon their ticket I will require the board of elections to remove it."

This ought to show just where Comrade J. L. Bachman stands. He is too old a bird to be caught by the "Bull Moose" salt.

SOCIALIST LAWN FETE AT SCHILLER PARK

Monday Evening, August 26th.

The arrangements for the lawn fete for the benefit of The Columbus Socialist are being completed and will be announced next week. The celebration will constitute the Socialist Fall Festival, just prior to the opening of the last whirl of the Fall campaign.

There will be ice cream, cake, pop, buttermilk, together with a fish pond, good music and instructive speakers. Tickets have been mailed to workers in the various Wards and Locals and all are asked to get busy. It is necessary to raise, by this means, a sum of money for three purposes: First, to tide The Columbus Socialist over the dull season, between Summer and Fall. Second, to pay off some indebtedness hanging over the paper. Third, to make up the deficit caused by the demands upon the party for campaign expenses.

A long pull, a strong pull and a pull altogether will put The Socialist on its feet financially. The Comrades of Columbus and Franklin County have stood by this paper through thick and thin. They will not fail now, we are certain. Come in and get tickets. Our list of names is not complete. We desire to have every friend of The Socialist and political action rally to the support of a paper without a muzzle.

The Rev. Frederick Guy Strickland, Saturday, August 17.

In our program last year Dr. John Wesley Hill was announced to speak upon "The Perils of Socialism." Some of our Socialist friends suggested that it would be fair to give both sides a chance. We have therefore secured the Rev. Mr. Strickland to present the claims of Socialism. It is an exceedingly live, interesting and important subject, upon which we cannot receive too much information. He comes not to combat but to convert, and promises to keep you good natured whether you agree with him or not. He is a speaker of wide reputation and great ability.—Official Program.

Comrade Strickland will speak Saturday, August 17, at 2 P. M. on, "The Evolution of Society"; in the evening at 7 o'clock upon, "A New Appreciation of Jesus."

HELL BREAKS LOOSE IN WEST VIRGINIA

State is Owned by Coal Barons and Reign of Terror Prevails in Coal Regions.

Charleston, W. Va.—Three companies of State militia from Mt. Gretna, Pa., arrived by special train, and marched on the Paint creek mining section, where a dozen men are reported to have been killed in fighting between Baldwin detectives and striking coal miners.

No complete fatality returns were available, but a mining official, fresh from the scene of the trouble, replied to questions: "Hell has broken loose. We hope the soldiers will put a stop to it."

The private guards of the mining companies are believed to have instituted the bull pen and other repressive measures which resulted in the bloodshed.

The known dead are William Stringer and Gus Pinson, private guards. William Phaup, chief of the Baldwin detectives, is in Sheltering Arms hospital with bullet wounds in both arms. He will recover. The miners' losses in the fight around Mucklow are not known.

For a distance of 13 miles around the mouth of Paint Creek, the center of one large company's operations, the inhabitants are said to have lapsed into a state of primitive savagery, spurred on by the depredations of the private guards. Frightful stories of attacks on defenseless women and raids on homes reached here.

The strike of the miners has been on for three months now, and the people who were desperately poor when they went out to enforce a demand for higher wages are now in an unspeakably horrible condition of poverty. The strike began to take on an interesting phase only when reports of clashes between "detectives" and miners began to be reported.

Then from Charleston, there were sent such highly colored and inflammatory tidings as this: "For a distance of twelve miles around Paint Creek, the center of one large company's operations, the inhabitants are said to have lapsed into a state of primitive savagery. Stories of attacks on defenseless women and raids on homes have reached here."

Most of the women in the district belong to the families of the strikers, as do most of the homes. The miners are not raiding their own homes nor are they attacking their own women. The homes of the others are guarded by the detectives who were brought in and the stories of attacks on any women probably originated in Charleston and were intended to back up the demand that the Governor of West Virginia send troops to the scene of trouble.

Raiding homes and attacking women are the perogatives of those who are engaged in breaking strikes. There has been scarcely a strike in any of the mining districts in the East or the West, where is has not been done. The list of outrages is a long and black one, and Paint Creek will add as hideous a count to the record as Westmoreland County, Pa., did.

There is one part of the peport that is probably true. Outraged as they have been, the strikers are showing those traits of the primitive savage of which complaint is made. A savage refuses to starve when there is plenty of food about. He fights back as best he can when attacked. He possesses a courage and self-respect that sometimes can be "refined" out of him only with a bullet.

That is the way the "primitive savages" of Paint Creek are going to be handled. The detectives on the ground are not able to cope with them, and troops are being rushed to their aid. About 400 of those inhuman scoundrels called private detectives have been at Paint Creek for the last two months. They have had several clashes with the strikers and have done all in their power to stir up trouble. Friday they were successful and a battle occurred in which the detectives fired 3,000 shots. This did not kill or cow the strikers, so troop are coming.

West Virginia has been ruled as any State where starving people are likely to become primitive savages should be. Though the power of such men as Elkins, whose daughter nearly had the honor of marrying the Duke of the Abruzzi, and of Henry Gassaway Davis, who ran on the Democratic ticket for Vice President and was supported by Sam Gompers, labor unions have been crushed, wages have been battered down, Socialist organizers have been run out of the State, all opponents of ring rule, mine boss rule, have been silenced, and West Virginia furnished news only to the effect that the mines had shut down and consequently the miners were in dire want.

West Virginia is a good Republican State in spite of Henry Gassaway Davis, and the bosses can be depended upon to force relatively as good a vote for the Republican ticket as Tammany can for the Democratic ticket. Industrially and poltically it is one of the rottenest States in the Union, so rotten in fact that Elkins was able to squeeze out of the workers enough money to make his daughter near-eligible for a royal marriage. He took a good deal of that money out of the primitive savages who are starving in the mountains there, but who still possess enough of human instinct to fight back when an army of occupation comes to crush them.

This matter of the power of the private detectives and their superiority to all law is one of the most important that confronts the American people. They really constitute a standing army that can be called upon at any time to break a strike and shoot the strikers. They have committed scores of murders in the past few years. All of them have escaped without punishment. Most of them have escaped without arrest. They have added to their list of murders through their work in the Paint Creek district. Now the militia is being brought in to add to the total.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IS PROMOTING SCABBERY

Trying to Flood the City With Idle Workers for Benefit of Bosses.

The scab-promoting Chamber of Commerce last week gave out the word that there were from 3000 to 5000 places open for men looking for work in this city.

"On the contrary there are from 3000 to 5000 men looking for work in Columbus," said James Henderson, president of the Columbus Federation of Labor.

Will F. Hauck, superintendent of the State free employment bureau, said that over 400 men and women had applied at that office for work during the last week, and only 185 were given positions.

"There seems to be a big demand for carpenters," said Mr. Hauck, "and there is lots of concrete work and outside work, but many men cannot take these jobs. They cannot stand the hot sun."

The statement from the C. of C. is an evident effort to flood the city with men from other towns so that the employers can get labor at the cheapest possible price. In the meantime there is so much "prosperity" that men by the hundreds are sleeping, by permission of kindly cops, in the Statehouse yard and public parks. The owners of the shops and factories are in the mountains or at the seashore enjoying the pleasures of summer resorts. They will return in the fall and make speeches next winter at Trinity House about the labor question.

THE GANG'S IN THE SADDLE

The cluster light poles and city bridges are to be re-painted, but no painter is being employed upon this work who is not a Karb-Democrat. This the blunt tip from the Director of Public Service.

STATE ORGANIZER BEERY IS BUSY

Comrade M. J. Beery, State Organizer, is on the job every minute. In the week before his last report, he has organized Socialist locals at the following places: Buckeye, Senecaville, Mogadore, Liberty Center and McClure. He was in Columbus last Tuesday for a few hours and left for Steubenville. He is billed for Mahoning, Columbiana, Summit, Trumbull and Ashtabula Counties. "Jack" makes good everywhere he goes.

OHIO'S NEW CONSTITUTION

The Labor Amendments—Conservation of National Resources—Eight-Hour Day on Public Work—Regulating State Printing.

By Harry D. Thomas.

This amendment adds Section 36 to Article 2, and confers on the law making powers of the State the authority to encourage forestry, to protect streams and lakes and to regulate the use of the water power.

There has been so much discussion through the daily press and magazines on the "Conservation of Natural Resources" that everyone it seems to me must have been convinced by this time of the importance of providing in our constitution for "Conservation of what is left of Ohio's Natural Resources" for the use of all the people both for this and future generations.

The labor part of this amendment is included in the two last lines as follows:

"And to provide for the regulation of the methods of mining, weighing, measuring and marketing of coal, oil, gas and all other minerals."

The Ohio miners are specially urging the adoption of this latter clause, as at present they are unable to secure the passage of an effective "Screen law" due to the fact that Ohio's Supreme Court declared the Screen law passed some years ago "unconstitutional."

Senator Green endeavored at the last session of the legislature to have a new law passed, but it was defeated by the reactionary Senators.

To those unacquainted with the methods of mining, it may be news to inform them that the coal miner only gets paid for that part of the coal that he mines that passes over a screen, generally with about an 1¼ inch space between the wires or rods, all of the rest of the coal, that is, that part of it that passes through the screen, the coal baron gets without cost, and sells it as slack or steam coal to the manufacturing, heating, lighting and water plants, and is the coal that is generally used in firing these plants that generate steam for heat and power; in addition to this the miner also claims that the present laws do not provide a proper method of weighing the coal, and that he is defrauded both in the screening and the weighing to such an extent, that he rarely gets within two-thirds of the amount he should get for his day's output.

The miner puts his life in danger every minute that he is employed, and we all enjoy the comforts that come from the work that he does, it therefore becomes every citizen's duty to vote into the constitution the necessary powers to pass laws for his protection and welfare, and every elector should vote for No. 12.

No. 13—Eight-Hour Day on Public Work.

Eight hours for work, eight hours for sleep and eight hours for recreation and education, has been the slogan of the Socialist Party for so many years, that it certainly ought to be unnecessary to do any urging to get working men to the polls to vote an eight-hour day on public work, Uncle Sam and nearly every State in the Union now have laws making eight hours a legal days work. Ohio's Supreme Court as usual on labor matters declared the eight-hour law passed in 1904 unconstitutional, hence the need of writing it into the constitution by voting for amendment number 13.

No. 13—Regulating State Printing.

The constitution at present requires that the printing for the executive and other departments of the State shall be let on contract to the lowest bidder. The amendment adds to this the right of the State to do its own printing by the establishment of a State printing plant, if it so desires, and as this is in accord with the Socialist platform it should receive the hearty support of all Comrades

HOW TO CAPTURE POLITICAL POWERS

At this time it is well for us to consider plans for capturing the political power in Franklin County for the purpose of enacting and enforcing laws and measures tending to ameliorate the condition of the working class and to take one more step toward the emancipation of the worker.

Now, Comrades, there is just one way to capture the political power, as now constituted and that way is for us to organize on the political field, the Socialist Party. We have been doing that bravely, but now that a campaign is near at hand which will arouse the workers to a high pitch of enthusiasm, it behooves us to take advantage of the opportunity and build up our party numercally, educationally and financially. Many members have been dropped for lack of attention. Many have been lead away chasing false Gods. We must give our attention to those who need attention, we must find a way to collect dues and get new applications. Don't let us be disturbed by the cry of Direct Action, or no action. Let us act now if we are active and those who are loyal to the Socialist Party will get busy and keep busy, we need have no fear of the disrupting influences now so evident in the party. We can tide over this supposed disaster and come out not only on top, but with a man in Congress, to help our class.

Let the Red and Yellow question go by the board. Let us make Socialists, it don't make any difference whether they are Red, Yellow or Brown, or Black, we need them to help fight this terrific class struggle. To all who are back in their dues, come up and pay up and stay in. Attend the meetings of the party, see that the party is not lead away, chasing rainbows and that we march triumphantly on with head erect to the great day in which the word freedom will be a reality and not a dream in which we can enjoy life as our Maker intended and then when we have accomplished this we can say well done. Pay up Comrades. Come in working men and all who desire better conditions on this our earth.

SHALL EMERSON DIE?

Brother Comrades, Fellow Workers:

On Sunday evening, July 7th, 1912, while the Brotherhood of Timber Workers were holding a mass meeting on the public road at Grabow, La., thugs concealed in the office of the Galloway Lumber Company, fired upon our people with rifles and pump guns loaded with buckshot; when the firing ceased, three men were found to have been killed outright, several mortally and seriously wounded and thirty odd others injured, the great majority being union men. Immediately following the "riot," as it is called by the capitalist class, President A. L. Emerson, who was our chief speaker on the occasion, and other members of the brotherhood were arrested, denied bail and placed in the county jail at Lake Charles, which prison is totaly inadequate to accommodate the number of men now confined there and is in a deplorably insanitary condition, besides. Despite the condition of this prison, sick and wounded men are confined there, the authorities giving the excuse that there is no room in the hospital for them, and our boys are still being arrested.

This, so far, is the outcome of the "riot" at Grabow. That our boys were neither looking for nor expecting any such trouble is borne witness to by the fact that many of them had taken along their women and children and, that none of the last were killed by the trust's gun men, is a miracle.

All the news and evidence so far reported shows that our men were not only ambushed but that the "riot" had been carefully planned by the lumber trust, and we have every reason to believe that, hidden in the office of the Galloway Lumber Company, were gunmen who had been sent over from other places by the Southern Lumber Operators Association. The "riot" was but the culmination of a long series of outrages against the brotherhood and all other union labor and was staged by the Operators Association for the purpose of crushing out the unions in the Southern timber districts and terrorizing its workers back into meek submission to peonage. This has been the boasted purpose of the Operators' Association: "To crush all union labor out of their mills and camps, drive all Socialist speakers out of their towns, and run things as they damned please." For twenty-four months we have fought this mighty and merciless combination of capital, this vicious combine of grafters and gunmen, and, because they have not been able to whip us back into their mills and slave pens, they have planned the massacre of Grabow and, failing there to kill our president, Emerson and his bravest associates, they have taken him and them to jail and are preparing to stage another legal murder. And so, brothers, all, we appeal to you to come to our aid in this our time of great trial with the funds necessary to defend our president and fellow workers, to help us save their lives and freedom, to tear from their throats the blood stained hands of the Southern Lumber Operators Association, as we appeal to you to help us while we have splendid chance to succeed to break up forever the infamous labor condition existing in the South.

Brothers, Fellow Workers, Comrades all, we appeal to you! Send all funds to Jay Smith, Secretary of the Brotherhood of Timber Workers, Postoffice box 78, Alexandria, La.

Yours for the united working class, and life and freedom for all the workers.

JAY SMITH, Gen. Sec.

TAFT STANDS BY THE JESUIT ORDERS

The resignation of Robert G. Valentine, commissioner of Indian affairs, which was placed in the hands of the President some days ago, was not voluntarily submitted, but was requested by the President, became known Monday. Two specific reasons for the President's attitude toward Valentine are mentioned. One was the order issued by the commissioner prohibiting teachers in Indian schools from wearing uniforms in the performance of their duties. It was accepted that this order was directed at religious orders. A protest followed and the President rescinded the order.—Catholic Citizen. Milwaukee, Wis.

This is the consummation of Jesuit plotting with the President that confirms every suspicion and is a point blank negation of President Taft's claim that he is not favoring the Roman Catholic church.

This punishment of Valentine is a blow in the face of every Protestant denomination that uttered its protest against the President's order suspending the commissioner's direction forbidding religious garbs in the government Indian schools.

The forced resignation of Mr. Valentine presents the issue to the American people so clear cut there is no possible way for it to be misunderstood. Romanism and Protestantism have locked horns upon the fundamental proposition of the separation of church and State.

If Catholicism is to be pushed upon us by Jesuits forcing the hand of the President, well and good. To avoid the issue is to temporize wit the Inquisition. If the President is forced to do an unfair thing—punish a faithful official because he has performed a constitutional and legal act that offends Rome, what may not be done to any one of us at the behest of the cardinal, or the pope's representative, or the Catholic cabal at Washington, D. C.?

By this last act of the President you may know that the Inquisition is set up in America, and the boycott and the political guillotine is here.

Beware of the Roman spy—the wife in the confessional—the servant girl who whispers the family secret into the priest's ear, and he to the bishop, the bishop to the cardinal, and the cardinal to the pope!

My God! What is this country coming to any way, when the very foundations of the home are being undermined by spies, and the highest offices of the government made submissive to the pope's dictation?

LAW VIOLATING RAILROADS

Washington, D. C.—Railroad officials are evidently a blind set of men and apparently imagine they can continue to fool the whole of the American people all of the time. They water the stock with impunity, they charge exorbitant rates for service, they attempt to cheat the tax collectors in every conceivable way in every State, they manipulate party politics for their own interest. They furnish unsatisfactory and lamentably dangerous service, they harass the organizations of labor and discriminate wherever possible against members of trade unions. They oppose the enactment of humanitarian laws, they have persistently attempted to block the passage of every safety appliance measure, they claim the right to abuse the writ of injunction and make the Federal Courts the police officers for the nation in their interest and they definantly and brazenly violate State and national laws on every hand, as witness the following summary of violations of the 16-hour law, compiled by Warren S. Stone, Grand Chief Engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, from the monthly report of the railroad corporations to the Interstate Commerce Commission. This table shows that in eight months, or from July, 1911 to March, 1912, inclusive, 29,000 violations of the hours of service law were committed in the employment of engineers alone and does not include other workmen in road service to whom the law applies. N. Y. C. & N. R. R. 11,200 violations. B. & O. R. R. 5,631. Erie R. R. 4,264, N. Y. H. H. & H. R. R. 415. B. & H. R. R. 382. P. R. R. 3,976. Wabash 1,403. L. S. & H.S. 1,038. C. C. C. & St. L. 691. Total 29,000 violations on nine of the large roads east of the Mississippi River. What the whole total would be upon all of the railroads and among all of the men in road service is left to the imagination of the reader.

EMPOLYERS CANNOT COERCE WORKMEN—IN KANSAS

Washington—The Supreme Court of Kansas has handed down a decision on the constitutionality of the law known as the "Coercion act of Kansas," which was enacted in 1909. The act prohibits any employer, agent, etc., from demanding or influencing "any person or persons to enter into any agreement either written or verbal, not to join or become or remain a member of any labor organization of association as a condition of securing employment or continuing in the employment of such employer, etc. Any violation of this act shall be a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof (the employer or agent) shall be fined in the sum not less than $50 or imprisoned in the county jail not less than 30 days. The United Brotherhood of Leather Workers tested this law when several of their members were discharged by the Ackenhausen Saddlery Company, because of their union membership. The District Court held the act unconstitutional. The case was then appealed to the State Supreme Court. That court reversed the District Court and remanded the case for a new trial. A second case under the same statute was before the court by the Kansas State Federation of Labor against the St. Louis and San Francisco Railway Company for discharging three members of the Switchmen's union because they refused to sign the following agreement: "Mr. T. P. Coppage, Superintendent Frisco Railroad Line, Fort Scott, Kans. We, the undersigned, have agreed to abide by your request, that is, to withdraw from the Switchmen's union while in the service of the Frisco Company." The superintendent was fined $500. The company appealed to the Supreme Court. The two cases were disposed of by the court at the same time. This decision has been handed down at a very opportune time. It is expected it will put a stop to a vicious practice that has been growing up in Kansas for some years. The court said: "An individual employe cannot coerce his employer from remaining a member of his association, but the individual employer may so coerce his employes unless restrained by law. The individual employe is in such a case pitted not only against his employer in contracting the conditions of employment, but also against the aggregation of associated employers. Such a condition tends to reduce employes to mere seridom. * * * Our statute denounces as crime the requiring or coercing of an employee to make a written or verbal contract as a condition of employment that he will not join a labor organization. The employer has no right to interfere with the liberty of the employe. * * * Labor unions are lawful and not inimical to the rights of employers. * * * Liberty of lawful action being and inviolable right, the legislature was within the exercise of its proper power in denouncing, as criminal, any attempt to coerce an employe under the resistless pressure of necessity to bargain away his liberty. * * * An employer has no constitutional or inherent right to coerce or compel his employe to make any contract or agreement written or verbal, which he does not wish to make, whatever may be the condition or purpose." The United Brotherhood of Leather Workers and the Kansas State Federation of Labor have rendered the people of Kansas a great service in securing the enactment of this law and testing its provisions in the Supreme Court.

THE THRILLING STORY OF THE ANT THAT WRIGGLED IN AND OUT

By EDGAR WOOD, Columbus, Ohio

"Be it not so, most noble king, the story is not yet ended. Another ant wriggled in and took a grain of corn, and wriggled out again. But Oh, King, one good turn deserves another. Were it not for the accidents and sickness caused by the system under which the railroads and other corporations operate it might not be possible for these ants, in the shape of accident and life insurance companies to wriggle into the knot hole and take a grain of corn and wriggle out again so often. It also makes it possible for a great number of doctors who would be otherwise idle, to wriggle into this knot hole and take a grain of corn and wriggle out again, not to mention the great number of ants in the shape of lawyers who wriggle into this knot hole and take a grain of corn, for carrying on the lawsuits of the railroads and other corporations, the accident and life insurance companies and the people who are maimed or killed, and wriggle out again.

"And, Oh King, the courts of the nation makes the Standard Oil Company defendant in a law suit. These ants in the shape of lawyers, from both sides, wriggle into this knot hole and take their grain of corn and wriggle out again. The courts wriggle into this knot hole and take their grain of corn and wriggle out again. The Standard Oil Company wriggles into this knot hole and take it's grain of corn and wriggles out again. The expense of wriggling is great and who who can blame the Standard Oil Company for wriggling into the 16,000,000 homes of the nation and making the people who burn oil dig down in their jeans and cough up 20 cents for a gallon of oil that used to be bought for 8 cents a gallon and wriggling out again.

And, Oh King, there was a time when all the people of this nation owned the bit of ground whereon they lived, but there has been so many ants wriggling in and out of the public storehouse that at this time 50 per cent of the farming places are rented. The landlord hold the land and the man that farms must first pay the owner for the privilege of working. That is alright, or it will be shortly as some one will most likely find a way for a man to get off the earth that has no interest in it. You may look to the homes of this nation and you will find that of the 16,000,000 homes, there are over 8,200,000 of them rented and over 8,180,000 of them mortgaged. Thus it is, Oh King, that capitalism is destroying the home. And another ant wriggled into this knot hole and took a grain of corn and wriggled out again. And, Oh King, another 6,468,964 ants, in the shape of the unemployed, in this great and prosperous nation, wriggled into this knot hole, and took their grains of corn, in the shape of the crusts of charity that was given them to ease the conscience of those who have exploited them, and wriggled out again.

And, Oh most wise and virtuous monarch, in one of the great churches of the land we have record of how that church with its lawyers and the courts of the nation wriggled into his knot hole and fought to the highest tribunals in the nation as to whether or not that church should obey unquestionably righteous sanitary laws designed to safeguard poverty, halt ills, save dying infants. The decision of the court has been a necessary step in forcing the great Trinity church of the greatest city in the land, to do that share of the uplifting of mankind which is also forced from every person who owns a storied mound for human ants on the dense East Side of that great city, and wriggle out again. Thus it is, Oh King, that the homes are being fostered. Thus is it that the might of the nation is brought to bear to force the great Trinity, to do its share of the work of God in bettering the conditions of humanity. In one block of this city there are so many people existing (3511) that if all the buildings in that block were taken away, and all of them were to stand erect, they could not stand with arms outstrentched from their sides without striking one another. If each person there should own the ground they stood upon they would have the total of 65 inches square. What must be the misery of those people in the hot summer months? What a great thing it would have been for Dante, when he was writing his Inferno, if his imaginative brain could have conceived of such a torment?

At these words the king was very wroth, and in his anger he cried out: "Varlet, knave, fool, would you have it that every man should own his own home? Wretch, would you dare to say that the church does not represent the business of God? Must I listen to you compare the tenement districts of one of the world's proudest cities to Hell?

And the man replied, "Oh, King, when I started to tell this story you promised me that you would listen to the end. I am not yet finished, and all I ask is that you permit me to finish and if you hear me out you may have my head and welcome."

"Speak on, thou blasphemous heritic, and by all the powers I promise thee anew that when thou art finished thy head will decorate the highest pole of my kingdom," spoke the king.

"Oh, most wise and righteous ruler, you speak of me as an unbeliever. You have erred again. We the same as other people believe in God and we at the same time do not believe in the church as it is conducted. Christ cleansed the temple and threw the money changers into the street. The God we believe sits on his throne of majesty the same as the one the others seem to worship, if we are to judge by the conduct of the churches. On His face we see the smile of pity for those who are unable to compete with this system, but when we look through the stained glass windows of the church we seem to see a smile of arrogance and disdain that would wither the soul of a man repentant.

"But, Oh, King, another ant wriggled into this knot hole and wriggled out again: And there was another bunch of ants, in the shape of the politicians of the country who wriggled into this knot hole every few years and wriggled out again. In one national election it is claimed that the campaign expenses of the highest elected officer was $15,500,000. And, Oh, King, conditions have reached such a state that many more ants are wriggling into the homes of the country and taking away the mothers and children of the family to mold their bodies into dollars in the industries of the country. And the prosperity of the nation was great. In the railway business the 1,700,000 workers received $840,000,000 in one year. In the steel business 14,921 workers received $8,763,346 in one year. And it was hardly necessary for an ant to wriggle into this knot hole, to get its grain of corn and wriggle out again. And, Oh, King, in the great workshops of the nation the 5,470,000 wage earners received a total of $2,611,540,000 in one year. If you take the time to figure this out, Oh, King, you will be able to appreciate how luxuriously and magnificently the most generously paid workers maintain themselves and family. And, Oh, King, as I stated before, great must be the contentment of the people who have their savings deposited in the banks of the nation. The banks of the nation have issued receipts for nearly four times as much money as has ever been issued in coin by the government. And some day there will be million and millions of ants wriggle into this knot hole and take their grain of corn and wriggle out again, but will it be there, Oh, King. And Oh, King, the people went unto this great bin, wherein they had stored their corn and started to distribute it to the people who were in need. At first all was well, but when they had removed that part of the corn that lay next to the top they found nothing but the cobs and husks remaining. Thus it is, Oh, King, that although there appeared to most people to be plenty in the bin, in reality the treasure had been consumed long ago. Thus it was, when the bin became a necessity it was found that in some manner the corn had been carried away. Thus it is with this nation today. The vast wealth in natural resources that seem a blessing to the people of this great nation, have through the profit system been gathered unto the few. And there was in this great and wealthy nation, million and millions of people who were not able to sustain themselves, without labor, for a period of one month. The workers of the nation, in the shape of ants, had wriggled into this knot hole so often and taken their grain of corn and wriggled out again, that the wealth of the land had been exhausted."

"Enough, 'tis finished. Thy blood shall be the price of thy wisdom, spoke the King. You would have us believe that the rich men of this nation have robbed the government of the wealth they now possess. You would have us believe that the men who are at the head of this government have not the right to give unto any whom they choose, the natural resources of the earth. You should be thankful that there are men with ambition enough to gather together the gifts of God to humanity, and distribute them to the people. It must always be remembered that the interest of capital and labor are identical. What, pray tell me would you have done if it had not been for the people who have employed you? No answer is necessary. It is an evident fact, you would have starved to death for want of something to do. It is not enough for the people of this nation who own the means of production, to support you and your family by keeping you at work gathering up the wealth of the nation, but you must come here and abuse them, by telling a story about an ant wriggling into a knot hole and taking a grain of corn and wriggling out again. Would that all of your stripe had come to tell me a story, then this blot, this home betrayer, this free love society could be exterpated at once. To the block and may your fate be a lesson to all your fellows."

Most grand and noble monarch, pardon me, I have yet to bring out the moral of the story. When this people discovered the fact of the cobs and husks they were astounded. They marveled that such a thing could be. How was it that the bin had been filled to overflowing and now that the famine had come, there was nothing but the cobs and husks? And, Oh, King, committees were appointed to investigate and learn how this thing could be. This committee started in by calling together in one of the principal cities of the land, witnesses of the fact of the corn having been put into the bin. After spending much time it was proven that the bin had been filled to overflowing. Another committee proceeded to learn how the corn had disappeared. They examined the walls to see if any one could have made an opening at any place. The wall was perfect, not even a crevice was to be found. They were at their wits' ends. How had this thing happened? Finally they thought to examine that part of the crib that lay next to the ground. When they had got under the bin and almost finished, they discovered this small knot hole. It could not be that all this corn had gone through this knot hole. Still as they looked they saw an ant wriggle into this knot hole and after a time the ant wriggled out again, and Oh King, he had a grain of corn. And Oh, most noble monarch, another ant wriggled into this knot hole and wriggled out again with a grain of corn. And Oh, King, another ant wriggled into this knot hole and wriggled out again, and behold it had a cob. And still another and wriggled into this knot hole and wriggled out again, and believe it or not, he had a corn husk. And still another ant wriggled into this knot hole and wriggled out again with a—

"Enough, I have listened to you empty that bin a grain at a time of the corn and I suppose, after I hear you empty it of all the cobs and husks you will come back with another committee and show how it all happened and then perchance you will have another committee tell us how to guard against such things in the future. I see by the time you have finished I will have been dead, so in order to save my life take my daughter and welcome, but cut out the wriggle."

(The End.)

Workers Are Realizing the Significance of Vile Plot—Two Rousing Philadelphia Meetings.

The healthiest sign of the existence of a spirit of solidarity and class consciousness in the ranks of the working class of this country is demonstrated in the overwhelming number of protest meetings in behalf of Ettor and Giovannitti that are being held the country over by organizations of different political and economic conceptions.

The stacks of mail that pour into the headquarters of the Ettor and Giovannitti Defense Committee, at Lawrence, Mass., containing large and small contributions and resolutions pledging moral and material support to the defense of these men, are another sign. These communications come from conservative and radical trade unions, from literary clubs and fraternal orders, from organizations of various creeds and languages.

The United Association of Journeymen Plumbers, Local 24, of Newark, N. J., at an unusually well attened meeting, passed a vigorous resolution denouncing the authorities of Lawrence for making common cause with the owners of the Wool Trust in this foul conspiracy to send two innocent men to their death. The sum of $25 was voted to the defense fund of these two men, and the organization pledged itself to do more should the necessity arise.

Rev. Roland D. Sawyer, Socialist candidate for Governor of Massachusetts, in a lecture delivered at Haverhill, Mass., last week, told the history of the Lawrence strike, and made clear the circumstances under which Ettor and Giovannitti were cast into prison. The lecture was illustrated by stereopticon slides. The audience was extraordinarly large, and a strong Ettor and Giovannitti resolution was passed unanimously.

Philadelphia now falls in line, adding to its already numerous activities in behalf of Ettor and Giovannitti with two rousing mass meetings.

INTERESTING BROCHURE

Washington—There has just been issued jointly by the Central Labor and Building Trades Councils of Los Angeles, a neat and interesting brochure, entitled "Struggles of Organized Labor in Los Angeles," compiled from special articles published in the San Francisco Bulletin. The pen picture of the indescribable and unspeakable Otis is a character study that is indeed true to the subject. The pamphlet is well worth the time spent in its perusal.

If you would like to have a home and a job of your own, it means that you want what Socialists are seeking in a practical way to provide for you. It will be two weeks after judgment day before you can accomplish your ambition under the present order.

This ought to hold the fossils for awhile. Dr. Louis Kauffman Anspacher, eminent lecturer, dramatist and economist of New York says:

"Think of it, 6,000,000 women in this country are working for an avefage of $6 a week—$6 a week the average, mind you! Just think how many there are who must be working for $3 a week in order to make that average. Not enough to pay room rent or laundry. And you talk morality to these women, and condemn them for what they do? You have just as much moral right to tell a woman she shouldn't sell herself as you have to tell a starving man not to steal a loaf of bread. Talk about immorality, degradation among the women of the so-called underworld, talk about natural depravity! Natural rubbish! You've got to get at the root to eradicate evil, and the economic dependence of women is the answer today.

"As for women never having done anything to warrant her having the franchise as some people like to present—it's a silly argument, because neither have men, nine out of ten, done anything eminent enough to entitle them to franchise. But even so, in a democracy we don't need the people who do need the ones who can do common things conscientiously."

PREACHING TO DEAF EARS.

It is the turn of the old party political spellbinder to preach to ears that hear not, to audiences growing ever more indifferent to the old party shibboleths, slogans and catchwords that once were all potent to delude the masses, while the Socialist remained apparently unheard. But a few years ago a Socialist poltical meeting larger than that of even a comparatively unimportant capitalist politician was an unheard of thing. Today to outnumber their best is a commonplace, one might say, an everyday occurrence. An ordinary Socialist candidate now sometimes attracts a greater audience than a Presidential candidate of the capitalists parties, and the thing is accepted as in the ordinary course of events. And the respectful attention given the two furnishes, in the case of the Socialist speaker, a contrast rather than a comparison.

It is, however, but the working out of the law of compensation. Once the public would not listen to us—now they will not listen to the other fellow. Once they regarded the exposition of Socialism as a vain repetition of impossible things—now they know that the vain repetitions come from the mouths of the enemies of Socialism.

This is our year. Steadily and surely Socialism is attracting the attention of the masses, while the preaching of the worn-out and discredited doctrines of capitalism become of ever less effect.

This is partly due to the development and decay of capitalism, two processes which, paradoxical as it may seem, progress together, and partly due to the persistence with which Socialism has been spread by its indefatigable expounders. Our campaign was always on. We worked while the others slept.

And no word for Socialism is ever lost. As an old veteran said, "They have heard it, anyhow."

"Many hundred years passed over, have they labored, deaf and blind;
Never tidings reached their sorrow, never hope their toil might find.
Now at last they've heard and hear it, and the cry comes down the wind,
As their host comes marching on."

ROOSEVELT BUILDS HIS OWN PLATFORM.

Theodore Roosevelt is a lucky man, for he is not only going to call his own convention but he is going to select himself as candidate and stand on his own platform. Most other persons have to take their chances of getting the nomination, and when they get it they stand on the platform made and provided for them. They select whatever planks suit them and remain silent on the rest. Not so Roosevelt. Everything is to be his, and he will take the credit of all that is said and done.

As the time for his convention approaches, interest in it generally seems to subside. Munsey is in Europe, Perkins has not had much to say about the business court that is to take over governmental affairs and run them on a business basis. But McCormick and the Harvester Trust are plugging steadily on, and there is no doubt the financial substructure of the platform will be ample and broad.

Roosevelt's doctrines, most of which are resurrections or reincarnations from the political discard, would have been looked upon as radical a few years ago. Now they arouse no fear whatever. Big Business trusts Roosevelt because its members know the one thing in which he is sincere is his opposition to the working class. Those of his honest followers who are impressed by his program merely delude themselves into thinking he has progressed since he left the White House. But he is the same spiked-club, gag-rule advocate now that he was then. For the interests he will be just as safe and sane as either Taft or Wilson, and the interests recognize the fact. The only opposition he will receive from them will be on the ground of personal animosities, and when money is concerned these can easily be overlooked.

His idea of the "square deal" is for him to be permitted to stack the cards. When he was President he did it continually, and in every working class issue he not only gave them the dirty deal but he also backed it up with all the power of the nation.

OPENING OF THE SUCKER FISHERY SEASON

About this time, when the fish are biting and visions of piscatorial delights rise before the heated imagination of Mr. Common People, according to long established custom and with due regard to the approaching season, the political fishers of men are also beginning to prepare their nets, hooks, baits and traps for the purpose of ensnaring the bulk of the working class sucker crop when the anticipated great haul of such fishes comes off next November.

As a consequence we see the Democratic anglers busily engaged in repairing and furnishing up their fishing gear for the enticing of the unwary—or to slightly paraphrase the familiar saying—the skinny denizens of the deeps of political ignorance.

Realizing that Wilson's working class bait may be old, stale and unattractive, not to say stenchfully repellent, the Democratic party, with Congressman Sulzer as chief fisherman, is attempting to deodorize it somewhat by what the press calls "securing labor legislation through the creation of a department of labor," and the addition of another attraction in the form of "a commission to investigate the causes of social unrest." The main purpose of the former is stated to be the bringing about of mediation in labor disputes, which perhaps reflects somewhat on the competency of that distinguished body known as the Civic Federation. The purpose of the other thing—the commission to investigate causes of industrial unrest—is—well, it is hard to say just what it is, though perhaps Gilbert's description of something "intended to give artistic verisimilitude to a bald and unconvincing narrative" might fit the situation somewhat loosely.

This Democratic activity on behalf of Wilson, to some extent at least, shows a growing lack of confidence in the ability of Mr. Gompers to deliver his quota of the "labor vote," estimated at a modest 80 per cent (by Mr. Gompers), to Mr. Wilson and the Democratic party. It may also, however, indicate increased caution and more thorough preparation, dictated by a resolve this time to let no guilty—or innocent—sucker escape that can be possibly netted or induced to bite.

On the other hand, the Republican fishers of men are equally busy, and while preparing their bait are accusing the Democrats of stealing the same. Taft, it is claimed, must have the credit of "first advocating legislation to create an industrial commission to study the relations between employers and employes." In due time, when all these preparations are complete, the rival hosts of political St. Anthonys will sally forth to preach to the fishes, while a horde of political piscators will dilligently ply net, hook and line and swap the usual fisherman's yarns about the enormous gudgeons they caught in past seasons, and the ones they hope to catch during the present one. It must be admitted, however, that such yarns are really much more truthful than those related by ordinary fishermen, for the political yield has been most immense in past seasons, and the suckers caught have been enormous—sometimes in size, but mostly in quantity.

We Socialists are also in on the game of preaching to the fishes, but our object is different; we want to spoil the fishing for the other fellows. For that purpose this paper is published and this article written. Working men who are tired of being suckers and getting the hook should subscribe for this paper and listen to its preachments, for between now and November we are going to have considerable to say on the subject of political piscatorialism. And in addition we may observe that we—that is, the Socialists—are just now beginning to place competent speakers on the various street corners of Columbus and adjoining towns for the purpose of delivering the warning and informing the working class how to avoid the hook, the frying pan and the fire.

The moral of all which is, that working men who are tired of being played for suckers should study Socialism, join the Socialist party, work for it, establish it, and finally put the devourers of their kind out of the fishing business permanently. A word to the wise is usually sufficient, but it requireth many words and constant repetition of the same to pound wisdom into the sucker.

The Booster's Column

By F. E. JOHNSTON

The past week has been exceptionally good from a subscription standpoint, yet it is not up to the top-notch of what it should be at this time.

Next Sunday morning there will be a general distribution of literature all over the city. This will be an execcelent opportunity to take subscriptions for the paper, while distributing the literature. Many subs can be picked up in this manner if you Comrades will remember this.

Last week we mailed out to a great many Comrades tickets to our lawn fete and entertainment to be given in Schiller Park, August 26, for the benefit of the paper. We want to ask all those who received these tickets to dispose of them as quickly as possible, as we want to makke this a big affair. Good reports are being received from many who have already sold out all tickets they received. If any Comrades will sell tickets, who has not received any, drop us a line, or come up to the office and you will be cheerfully supplied. Let's all get together on this proposition, and make it one big, grand success.

Don't fail to use those red tickets Comrades and purchase from our advertisers. This is important and should not be neglected.

WHAT LA MONTE WROTE SOME FIVE YEARS AGO

"But, though Socialist today are able to define more clearly the limitations of pure and simple political action, it remains as true today as when Plechanoff wrote that, 'every class war is a political war.'

"Those portions of the militant labor movement that discard political action inevitably tend to dissolve into small groups of rioters or into bands of Anarchistic braggarts who prate loudly of revolution while doing their utmost to disrupt every revolutionary organization, and who, too often, prove by deeds their complete emancipation from bourgeois respect for the rights of private property. This is no mere empty rhetoric, unfortunately. A small band of repudiators of political action recently proclaimed themselves the "nucleus of a revolutionary organization of the working class." One of their number proposed 'that anybody who was not an atheist should be debared from membership in their contemplated organization!' and that nobobdy should be admitted who, 'has not been a tramp or a thief.'

"Of course it is unnecessary to say that such a grotesque farce as this has nothing in common with either Industrial unionism or Socialism, but the very fact that young and ignorant would-be Revolutionists can be misled by such arrant nonsense as this is ample proof of the necessity of drilling all our new members in such fundamental truths as Plechanoff has so well expressed. Here are two quotations which I wish could be kept standing in bold-faced type and red ink in every Socialist and Labor paper in America: 'Every class struggle is a political struggle. Who-so-ever reepudiates the political struggle, by this very act gives up all part and lot in the class struggle.'

"Error has its logic as well as truth. Once you reject the political action of the working class, you are fatally driven—provided you do not wish to serve the bourgeois politicians—to accept the tactics of the Vaillants and the Henrys."—American Introduction to Anarchism and Socialism, by George Plechanoff—Robert Rives La Monte.

STATE OFFICE NEWS.

The state office of the Socialist Party of Ohio is now located in Room 68, Wesley Block, North High Street, Columbus, where commodious quarters are available.

By the recent referendum vote of the Socialist party of Ohio, the platform, resolutions and constitution passed by the state convention were adopted by a vote almost unanimous.

The state committee is now voting upon names submitted to fill vacancies now on the state ticket for nominations for the offices of Supreme Judge, Attorney General and School Commissioner. Comrades Primmer, of Hamilton, Williams, of Norwood and Ladoff of Cleveland named in order for these places have declined.

USE THE RED TICKET.

The Socialist has distributed thousands of red tickets to our readers and has more to be given out. When you buy anything from a dealer who advertises in this paper, hand him the red ticket. He will understand it. The time has come when the purchasing power of the working class must be used to boost its own paper. Get busy with the red tickets.

The "Social unrest" is not due to agitators, but to capitalist conditions that are agitating every man and woman who thinks.

RUTHENBERG RALLIES TO SUPPORT OF THE RING.

Twists and Misstates Facts in His Vain Endeavor to Help.

Comrade C. E. Ruthenberg, of Cleveland, a member of the state executive committee of the Socialist party is sending throughout the state a letter concerning the storm raised by his committee through its recent action. The letter is a long, verbose conglomeration of misleading statements.

One section is particularly untrue and we reproduce it as an example of entire effusion:

"The Columbus Socialist, which was the first Socialist paper to take up the matter, QUOTES A COLUMBUS CAPITALIST PAPER AS THE SOURCE OF ITS INFORMATION. A few days after the meeting of the state executive committee there appeared in all parts of the state IN CAPITALISTIC PAPERS the story that certain speakers had been dropped because they did not believe in "direct action". IT WOULD BE INTERESTING TO KNOW WHO GAVE THE CAPITALISTIC PAPERS THE STORY AND WHY IT WAS SO COLORED AS TO CREATE DISSENSION IN THE SOCIALIST PARTY.

"So far as the two Socialist papers which accepted the story as true are concerned, they simply swallowed a capitalist newspaper lie and helped along the dirty work of these papers. It seems to me, however, that the fact that the name of the editor of the "Columbus Socialist" and the name of an associate editor of the "Miami Calley Socialist", the two papers in question, still appear on the list of available speakers should have served to arouse some doubt in the minds of those in charge of these papers in regard to the truth of the capitalistic newspaper story."

In the first place The Columbus Socialist secured its information directly from the State Office through the Secretary of Local Columbus who went there under instructions from the Local. The report in the Columbus Citizen was reprinted to show the stand of the state office as that office supplied the statements to the Citizen reporter and his reputation for truth and veracity is second to that of no man in Ohio.

As to Ruthenberg's claim that leaving the name of the editor of this paper upon the speakers' list with that of Comrade Strickland of the Dayton Socialist we need only repeat that Strickland had just been elected as a member of the S. E. C. by almost a unanimous vote. The chairman of the S. E. C. informed the Secretary of Local Columbus that the name of E. B. Lewis, editor of The Socialist, would have been stricken from the list also but it was not thought wise to take all the Columbus speakers off. The fact is that this action of the S. E. C. was simply an exhibition of "peanut" politics only possible on the part of people of small calibre.

An exchange states that great trouble is experienced in securing men to join the army and navy. Which proves that the workers are getting more wisdom. But let the workers not forget that the capitalists will find recourse to the Dick Military law and compel conscription if this attitude manifests itself to any marked tendency in the next few years. With the present situation in the political affairs of government the capitalists—who are the government—will not attempt to arouse the people by an act that would wean popular support from their political mountebanks, but just so sure as the election is passed will the arm of the government reach out across the length and breadth of the land and force men to rally to the cause of war and the shedding of human blood.

SOCIALIST ACTIVITY

Six propaganda meetings were held in the rural districts of Franklin County last Saturday night with good results. Seventeen speakers were "loaded" with literature at The Socialist office last Saturday afternoon and went out by twos and threes to wake the people up. There is life in the Socialist party around here, and don't forget it.

CANDIDATES FOR SENATOR NOMINATED

The Socialist Senatorial delegates elected at the primary last May in this, the Tenth district, met last Sunday and nominated Comrades J. M. Suddick and T. J. Johnson as candidates for State Senators. These Comrades had already been named by a referendum vote of the party organization.

Dissatisfied at the lonely life of a single man, Comrade Curtis M. Rose, 24 of the 13th ward, took a trip to Newport, Ky., july 27 with Miss Grace M. Turvey, needless to say they returned as man and wife. The Marriage was a complete surprise to both families. The Comrades throughout the city join in wishing them both a happy life and trust they may both live to see the institution of the Co-operative Commonwealth.

CIGAR MAKERS' UNION

Cigar Makers' Union No. 75, gave an enjoyable smoker last Saturday night at Kulls Hall on Mound Street. The local union is seeking to educate the public to use only union-made cigars and desire support.

The finance committee of the United States Steel Corporation is considering the question of reducing the hours of labor of its employes, many of whom now work twelve hours per day for thirteen days and then vary the monotony by putting in twenty-four hours on the fourteenth day. It remains for these human vampires to say what shall be done in the matter. Is a system right that leaves it to a few men to say how long thousands of others shall work? Socialism will let the workers themselves say how long they shall work, and will give them the full social value of their labor's product.

Remember the Appeal and this paper both for one year for $1.00. Absolutely the best combination ever offered.

SEARCHLIGHT FLASHED ON OUR STATE OFFICE

More in Sorrow than in Anger We Must Tell the Truth tho' the Heavens Fall.

As stated in our last week's issue, this paper and the Socialist party stands absolutely for industrial unionism. We are in business for the purpose of carrying the message of Scialism to all the people. We want to see every person opposed to the capitalist system with a red card in his or her possession. Our business is to make Socialists, knowing that every time you make a Socialist, you make an industrialist. We are also in business for the purpose of cleaning out all gangs and rings that are formed on the inside of the party for the express purpose of disrupting it.

This office has been cognizant of the fact that "something was rotten in Denmark," so far as the State Office and the S. E. C. was concerned for some time. For the past several months every I. W. W. Anarchist who happened to hit town, has made the State headquarters his stamping ground. Why? It is because the State Office believes in and preaches "direct action," and all Anarchists recognize their kindred spirits.

C. E. Ruthenberg, candidate for Governor is out in a lengthy letter, attempting to stem the rising tide of revolt against the S. E. C. He evidently had not seen the letter in last week's Miami Valley Socialist, from a member of the S. E. C. which stamps his own communication as a pure and simple fabrication and places him beyond the pale and should place him outside the Socialist party.

It is no concern of ours whether we poll ten votes or one million, we have first got to come before the people with clean hands, and a clean program, but with such men in control of party affairs, we will soon land upon the rocks of Anarchy.

The S. E. C. claims it's made no distinction in taking off speakers because they believe in Political Action. THE FACT REMAINS THAT ALL THOSE TAKEN OFF WERE MEN AND WOMEN WHO BELIEVE IN POLITICAL ACTION.

That the statement of the S. E. C. is false, WE POINT TO THE FURTHER FACT, THAT ESSLER, OF DAYTON WAS REFUSED MEMBERSHIP IN LOCAL DAYTON BECAUSE HE MADE THE STATEMENT IN THE PRESENCE OF SEVERAL WITNESSES THAT HE DID NOT BELIEVE IN POLITICAL ACTION, OVER THE PROTEST OF LOCAL DAYTON HE WAS GRANTED A MEMBERSHIP CARD AT LARGE AND LATER ENDORSED AS A SPEAKER AND IS NOW SPEAKING IN THE STATE. This is in violation of the State Constitution.

F. G. Strickland of Dayton, would have been taken off the list, had the gang not discovered that he had such an overwhelming vote for S. E. C. that in their craven hearts they were afraid to do it.

Another thing, they have passed a motion that in the future votes do not have to tabulated by locals and printed in the Bulletin. All that will be required will be to print the tabulated vote in full. WHY?

Schawe is using State money to send out a circular to the Locals attempting to defend the S. E. C. in tempting to defend the S. E. C. in reference to the attempt by the S. E. C. to declare Bates of Toledo re-elected, at the last meeting of the S. E. C. In fact she was declared elected and the same was reported in the Appeal and the minutes of the S. E. C. stated that the four who had received a majority of votes be declared elected. It so happened that Comrade Suddick of Local Columbus was in the State Office when these votes were counted. After the votes were totaled up Schawe made the statement, "That they would declare all receiving over 800 votes elected." Comrade Suddick knew that this was not a majority for Bates, but held his peace, and the next night reported it on the floor of the C. C. C. of Local Columbus. THE STATE OFFICE THEN DISCOVERED THAT A MISTAKE HAD BEEN MADE AND PUT BATES AT THE HEAD OF THE SECOND BALLOT.

We want to call the attention of the Comrades to the Ohio column in the Appeal to Reason.

The Appeal allows the State Office $10.00 per week for this work, which requires very little time. The Appeal undoubtedly intended this money to go to the State organization, but the S. E. C. could not stand it to see this money go into the State Treasury, so they decided they would divide the plum up amongst themselves.

They decided they would vote amongst themselves as to who would get it. Amongst the aspirants for this literary honor was Josephine Bates of Toledo, and J. H. Henderson of Columbus, it seems, corralled enough votes to elect himself, providing he got Bates of Toledo to vote for him, and he voted for himself. In order to swing Bates into line he wrote her stating that if she would vote for him, he would be elected, and would then turn the job over to her. This furious "Red" who is so concerned about keeping the party straight accepted the proposition, voted for Henderson who was elected and then—horrors! Henderson kept the job himself. Bates had been trapped and didn't dare complain.

DO YOU THINK THIS IS A LIE? IT WAS TOLD THE WRITER BY THE STATE SECRETARY HIMSELF, AND NOT ONLY THE WRITER BUT OTHERS, ALSO. In this connection we wish to say that this paper has repeatedly tried to get news from the State Office and been side-tracked. Comrade Murphy of the Fourteenth Ward is authority for the statement, that Miss Minturn, the assistant, who is getting part of the Appeal money, told him, when he asked why such news was not in the Columbus Socialist, that "We send the news where we get paid for it."

Comrades throughout the State, do you intend to stand for such petty schemers in control of State Affairs? This is the bunch that preaches "direct action" to kill the party. Stand firm. Local Columbus went on record 8½ to 1 in favor of expelling all who preached it from the movement. Clean them out of the State Office, and out of the Executive councils of the party. In the time of Marx all such were known as the "Blacks" and Marx, with biting sarcasm resigned as Secretary of the Working Men's Alliance; and told them that it would take fifty years' education before they would become worthy of political power. He told them that he would stand for no organization that stood for force or violence in any form. That the only thing he would stand for was education and agitation.

The way is clear. Ahead is the star of hope. Turn not sideways nor backwards, press forward! WEED OUT THE TARES, and soon our children shall reap the harvest from the seed sown by Marx, and the thousand of martyrs of our noble cause.

BOSTON STREET CAR STRIKE WON BY MEN

Columbus "Scabs" Can Now Return To Bosom of Rail-Light.

Boston—The strike of the conductors and motormen of the Boston Elevated Railway Company, which has lasted for 58 days and is estimated to have cost $1,028,000, was ended last week by the agreement of the company officials to the terms of settlement, the strikers winning every point sought. The strikers will begin to go back to work tomorrow.

The terms of settlemtn state that the company will show no discrimination between union and nonunion employes, and will meet their employes, individually or as committee from any organization, to discuss grievances. The determination of what ratings will be given the strikers upon their return, and at what time they shall be taken back, is left to the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration and that board is given the power to settle future differences.

The scabs sent to Boston by the Columbus Rail-Light can now sneak back home and resume their old jobs—perhaps. Their noble efforts in the East have failed.

The strike will be necessary as a weapon to try and keep up the price of labor power, as long as the workers remain in ignorance of the power of the ballot and the principles of scientific Socialism.

NEWS FROM NATIONAL SOCIALIST HEADQUARTERS

Caroline A. Lowe has resigned the office of General Correspondent of the Woman's National Committee, to take effect August 8.

The National Secretary has appointed Winnie E. Branstetter to fill the vacancy. The appointment has been approved by the Woman's National Committee.

C. W. Hills, National Organizer, organized the following locals during the month of June: Carlin, Nevada, 14 members; Gardnerville, 9; Virginia City, 20; new members secured for existing locals, 16.

Under authority given him by the National Executive Committee to select five additional organizers for the South, J. E. Snyder has appointed four of them as follows: Thomas L. Buie, W. M. Doyle, H. F. Kendall and W. C. Seigler.

"I move that the wages of all speakers and organizers sent out by the National Office or any department of it, shall be $6.00 per day and railroad fare; they to pay their own hotel bills and other incidental expenses."

Proposed Referendum.

"Local Fifth Ward, Socialist Party of Everett, Wash., calls for the following national referendum;

"Shall Job Harriman be recalled from the National Executive Committee?"

Membership in good standing in the local 109.

NATIONAL CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE.

Telegram, Seattle, Wash., July 25th.

"Comrade Barnes: Have sold out four thousand seats in one hall (for September 1st.) Must have additional meeting, either night or afternoon. Will you give us afternoon meeting also? If not, will Debs divide time between two halls, if we secure another house hold two thousand people? If you cannot give us afternoon and night, we plan two night meetings, Debs to speak one hour each place. Wire immediate answer."

Cobmrade Emil Seidel, candidate for vice president, has had very successful meetings during the week at Cincinnati, Louisville, Ky., Memphis, Tenn, Hattiesburg, Miss, and Shreveport, La. He reports that "the Southland is receptive and, moreover, hungering for the light that will usher in the new day of emancipation for the workers."

Comrade Seidel's dates for next week are: 28th, Dallas, Tex.; 29th, Rockdale; 30th, Austin; 31st, Fort Worth; August 1st, Durant, Okla.; 2nd, Okemah; 3rd, Tulsa.

Comrade J. Keir Hardie will leave Glasgow August 22rd and should reach Boston on August 30th. He will tour the country for six weeks, visiting mainly the large centers of industry. The terms for a date are $50.00. Applications should be filed at once. Half of his time has already been applied for. Hardie was the first member of the working class elected to the English Parliament. He is a miner by trade.

Urgent and insistent demands from everybody, everywhere for an extension of time on the One Day Wage fund will make it necessary to reissue cards. These cards will be good all during the month of August, closing August 31st. The great possibilities of this plan have been fully demonstrated. We will raise $500,000, and every division of the party will have funds the day after election to make good on the perpetual campaign. Cards will only be sent upon specific orders and in quantities requested.

We are now prepared to fill orders for Debs buttons, Debs and Seidel buttons, campaign drinking cups, neckties, watch fobs, pocket knives, pennants, etc., also campaign envelopes bearing pictures of Debs and Seidel. Send for printed price list.

J. MAHLON BARNES,
Campaign Manager.

TO THE STATE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE AND COMRADES OF OHIO

By A. B. Shinn.

Comrades—The positive outcome of the social revolution depends entirely on our line of action.

If industrial action leads the way with the powers of government against us the fight is neither safe nor sane.

If political action leads, then we get command of the army, navy and the elective departments and all the powers of government will be ours. This we shall win—we cannot lose. With political power the revolution will be peaceful and victory is sure. With political power against us the revolution will be long and bloody, and its outcome will be uncertain.

You may say industrial action has caused the capitalists to take notice. Yes, that is true. It has put them on their guard, they have doubled the number of recruiting offices and are preparing for the conflict.

Of course no thinking toiler can look upon his chains as being sacred, whether they be made of steel or statute codes. Whether the means be bloodhounds, bayonets, bull pens or bosses, statutes or injunctions. Kings if they grant subjection and exploitation they fulfill their calling.

In freeing ourselves, shall we break our chains or fight with them rivited about us?

Shall we take legal control of the bayonets, bull pens and injunction powers or shall we let the masters use them as chains to bind us?

Is it logical to take the injunction king off the throne or leave him there to help the enemy?

To advocate the breaking of the king's decrees is admitting that we had not sense enough to take his power away from him, when it is by votes that he retains this power.

One of the speakers now routed by the State Office, said (a few days ago), that, "Politics has absolutely nothing to do with Industrial Exploitation" this I deny. I maintain that with the powers of government we cannot lose. Without the powers of government we are giving the enemy the most powerful weapon in the entire field.

Yet on every scene of action the party members have proven their loyalty to the toilers by assisting them in their struggles.

Now, the Executive Committee has taken my name from the list of available speakers because of my view of political action. So let it be until such time as the State Committee or party membership shall inform the Executive Committee that the Socialist party is a political expression of the social revolution and is not an industrial union.

A. B. SHINN.

GENERAL SOCIALIST NEWS

In a special election for member of the Parliament in New South Wales the Labor party candidate was victorious by a margin of 338 votes.

At the elections for the Gotha State Legislature in Germany, the Socialists gained two seats. This little Parliament is now composed of 9 Socialists, 8 Agrarians and 4 Liberals. The Socialists' control of the Legislature by a tie vote in the drawing.

Socialists of London undertook to feed the children of the dock strikers and found it a greater undertaking than they expected at the outset. But they stuck to their bargain and sent out a call for funds and were fairly successful in raising money to continue the work.

Another member of Parliament was elected by the Socialists in the district of Bolligen, Switzerland. In Chaux-de-Fonds the Socialists captured the government for the first time at the recent election, securing 40 members of the Legislative body to 28 for the Radicals and 12 for the Liberals.

The Olsson Defense Committee at Seattle, Wash., has issued an appeal to the Socialist organizations and sympathizers for funds with which to appeal the decision of Judge Hanford in robbing Leonard Olsson of his citizenship papers. The committee says that even with Hanford off the bench the decision stands until reversed by a higher court.

Carl Legien, general president of the Federation of Trade Unions in Germany, who made a tour of this country under the auspices of the A. F. of L., and the German Socialists of New York for several months, departed for home last week. Legien was well satisfied with his reception in this country and expressed the opinion when leaving that the industrial and political movements of America will come closer together during the next few years irrespective of the wishes or actions of a few leaders, adding that the country is ripe for a great change in economic conditions.

GUERNSEY COUNTY HEARD FROM

Comrade Editor:

I have read your article copied by "The Evening World," on the state of affairs in the State Office. CONGRATULATIONS.

For some time prior to the State Convention I feared there was something "rotten in Denmark." When Comrade Bates of Toledo was so strongly boosting the State paper, I began to see a light. I know her leanings and had by that time about taken the measurements of the S. E. C. That was one reason why I opposed the State paper at the convention. But since I voted for it in referendum, believing we WOULD control the S. E. C. by recalling them and and placing SOCIALISTS there instead of Anarchists.

Now, Comrade, we in Guernsey County are with you in your fight against the would-be bosses. We'll send evidence later. We are also preparing to start a paper of our own. But as evidence of my own wishes I enclose $1.00 for which please put me on your list. I am enclosing some Guernsey items and in conclusion, I say (without profanity), "GIVE 'EM HELL!!"

Yours for a real revolution,
CLARENCE B. TIGNER.

GUERNSEY COUNTY NOTES

Clarence B. Tigner, Secretary.

As is the case in many other parts, the Guernsey Valley is just now slowing down in activity, but plans are on foot to wake up the voters as never before. Summer is a hard time to hold everybody to the task. The workers are forced to give every ounce of their energy to the masters, and added to this, the heat of midsummer, does not leave us much power to do anything outside regular working hours. But the Comrades are realizing that only by supreme sacrifice can we accomplish the revolution and so are beginning to rally to the front.

We have had Comrade Beery this month, and he did some valiant service during his week here. He organized two locals and was honored by an organized fight against his meeting at Buffalo, by the old party politicians. Drunks and semi-drunks, provided with fireworks of various kinds, did systematic work, against him, but only aroused the ire of the crowd and even the women went after the rioters and finally gave them the worst of it. As is usual the incident served to create a new interest in Socialism and defeated the very purpose of the old party politicians and great good will come of it. Comrade Beery acted spendidly and his ability as a speaker was shown in fine shape.

A new local has been organized at Buckeye, that gives promise of good work, but at present the Comrades are handicapped by lack of work for the members and consequent weakened finances. This local is a result of the Beery campaign.

Local Senecaville has also been reorganized, (by Beery) and will be a live one from now on. At the last municipal election, they came so close to carrying the village that the plute parties came near dying of convulsions. They WILL next time.

Comrade Shinn lectured in Cambridge on the 16th, and caused a goodly number of "heathen" to see the light.

Guernsey County is preparing to secure a stereopticon with good slides to illustrate the Socialist principles and the present system, and will adopt it to the Guernsey Valley. This will be kept busy during, and after the campaign.

The County Secretary and the County Organizer, have been filling a few dates in the Valley and having good meetings. The Secretary filled a return date at Pleasant Valley the 27th, and will speak at Kimbolton, August 3d, and Quaker City August 10th.

The campaign for a County paper is advancing and it is thought the paper will be a reality in another six weeks. Over half the amount necessary, $1,500.00, has been pledged and only about a quarter of the field covered.

The County will hold a picnic soon, the place and date to be decided by referendum. These meetings have been very successful in years past and this year will far exceed former years. Speakers of national reputation will be secured.

As an illustration of the class character of the local newspapers, a resolution condemning the "Knights of Methodism," a military organization of the First M. E. church of this city, was refused publication, although nothing of a personal nature or attacking the church was incorporated in it. The Daily Jeffersonian, the largest and most influential paper in the city had been publishing notices and news items of a Socialist nature, when given them, but balked on anything anti-military, refusing even to mention the fact of its adoption. Another instance was their refusal to publish the fact of our candidate for Governor," Comrade Ruthenberg's coming to the city, except by publishing in an obscure corner, a ten line announcement, signed by Comrade Eynon, the local Secretary.

A foreign importation of the Bull-Moose variety lectured a-la-Socialist style in Cambridge Saturday evening the 27th. He made a fine Socialist speech, but said Socialism was dangerous and advocated the Progressive (?) party as the only escape from the Socialistic pitfalls. He was very much surprised at the avalanch of questions hurled at him by the Comrades, but gave them all a fair answer.

At the meeting of the County Executive Committee on July 28th, a list of "available speakers" was made up for local propaganda work. They are as follows at present:

George D. Eynon, Cambridge; D. Lewis Davis, Byesville; J. S. Blancett, Cambridge; Clarence B. Tigner, Cambridge; O. L. Sayres, Cambridge, Route 7; W. H. Crawford, Sr., Pleasant City, O.; W. B. Lewis, Cambridge; Robt. Ellis, Kimbolton, Route three. These will be used to the exclusion of the State speakers, until such time as the Anarchists have been weeded out of the State office.

Money is not value; it only represents value. Money in itself has no value except the use value of the metal of which it is composed. It is only a medium of exchange and represents stored up labor power. Nobody worns for money. It is what the money will buy is what counts.

MERCHANTS LEARN A LESSON

Springfield, O.—The Retail Clerks Association has added 100 new members during the last two months, and has established a uniform nine-hour work day, excepting Saturdays. A fifty-four-hour-week law for women was enacted by the last general assembly, but the law exempted mercantile establishments engaged in retail business. The larger merchants in Springfield were instrumental in placing this exemption in the statute. Many women and girls are employed in the factories and printing offices in this city. The result of the fifty-four law has been to drive girls into those institutions where they cannot be worked over 10 hours per day and not more than 54 hours per week. Their wages are even greater than what are paid in the retail stores. The merchants are handicapped for female labor. They are now sorry they obtained the exemption of the statute and are now seeking an amendment to the law to make fifty-four hours uniform for all employers of working women. This proves the strength of the economic force in the trade union, when combined with its political strength in the State legislature.

CARPENTERS STEADILY ADVANCING

Indianapolis, Ind.—Members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners are steadily making headway in all sections of the country as the following record shows: Sioux City, Iowa, wages increased from 40 cents to 45 cents per hour, no strike of any consequence. Providence, R. I., wages increased from 45 cents to 50 cents per hour, only 150 out of a total membership of 1,400 found it necessary to stop work for a few days. Santa Fe, N. M., wages increased from $4 to $4.50 per day, no trouble. Bar Harbor, Me., wages increased from $3.25 to $3.50 per day; there are no non-union Carpenters, Painters, Masons or Tinners in Bar Harbor. Springfield, Mo., hours reduced from 9 to 8 per day. Council Bluffs, Ia., partial success in movement for increase in wages from $3.00 to $4.00 per day. Penn Yan, N. Y., wages increased from $2.80 to $3.75 and the nine hour day established. Peoria, Ill., 44-hour week schedule made, wages increased to $4.40 per day. Lynn, Mass., a new scale gives journeymen 50 cents per hour, formen 60 cents per hour, week's work 44 hours, previous rate $3.88 per day. Kingston, Ont., wages increased from 25 cents to 37½ cents per hour, strike lasted one day. South Farmington, Mass., wages increased 5 cents per hour, week's work 44 hours. Canonsburg, Pa., wages increased 25 cents per day, no strike. Corpus Christi, Texas, wages advanced 5 cents per hour, only one small contractor objected. Buffalo, N. Y., agreement made with 115 contractors, 15 of whom are members of the Contractors' Association; wage scale increased from 45 cents to 50 cents per hour, with Saturday half holiday during June, July and August. Port Colborne, Ont., after strike lasting one day, contractors agreed to grant raise of 5 cents per hour. During the two years ending June 30, 1912, the United Brotherhood of Carpenters paid out of its national treasury $563,697 in death and disability benefits.

THE SOCIALIST CO-OPERATIVE BOOMING.

The annual stockholders' meeting of the Union Mercantile Association Company was held Monday night, July 8, at their store, 1304 Walnut Street.

A very enthusiastic gathering it was, and the clansmen for the first year of its existence gave every encouragement for greater achievements. The treasurer reported total receipts of $6,916.31 from July 1, 1911, to July 1, 1912.

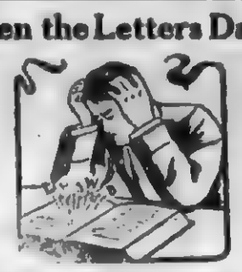
Four new stockholders were accepted, making a total of forty-eight, and the secretary reported 184 purchasers' certificates in force, a gain of 105 since February 1, 1912.

The annual election of officers was then held and as all its stockholders must be Socialists, their names will sound familiar to our readers.

The following were elected:

President—A. S. Matter.

Vice President—Tom Hammerschmitt.



Secretary—Joseph Riestenberg.

Treasurer—Ben. Kloks.

Directors—W. J. Wehner, Fred Liebenthal, E. V. Clarke, Emil Kuhn, Henry Weber.

Auditors—Theo. Faigle, U. Huenemeyer, J. P. Weber.—Cincinnati Socialist.

"WHAT'S THE MATTER UP AT COLUMBUS."

The Miami Valley SOCIALIST is in the business of making Socialists. It turns aside from that with reluctance to warn the organized Socialists of an amazing, an unbelievable move by the State Executive Committee. Treachery seems at work.

On July 8 the capitalist press reported that the Socialist State Executive Committee had dropped from the list of available speakers, Alvah C. Ebby, former candidate for mayor of Columbus; Walter J. Milliard; R. H. Gwynner, of Ashland; A. B. Shinn; and J. F. Allen, of Lima—all time-tried, faithful, splendid workers for Socialism on soapbox and platform.

The reason assigned was, "BECAUSE THEY FAVOR POLITICAL ACTION."

If true, then the State Executive Committee has simply read itself out of the National Socialist Party. It will be necessary to tie the Recall to that Committee and send it yelping into the outer darkness of Anarchy—where the traitorous "INTERNATIONAL SOCIALIST REVIEW" is already grinding its teeth in impotent hate.

If there are not enough faithful Socialists in the Ohio Locals to accomplish this, then the National Party will have to revoke the charters and reorganize the State. Better to have a house cleaning now than after the election.

Dayton Socialists refused at first to believe that the State Executive Committee could have committed such an act of insane treachery. But confirmation of the report comes from other sources besides the mendacious capitalist press.

Comrade Ella Reeve Bloor informs us she also has been dropped. She was State Organizer up till the time she was called to Europe to visit her daughter. She had arranged to resume the Socialist platform by the first of August. But, returning a month earlier than expected, she has been filling in the spare time campaigning for Woman Suffrage—one of the principles of Socialism. She asked the Committee to restore her to the list of approved speakers, that she might be in readiness to resume the Socialist platform next month. The Committee refused. It struck her name from the list "because of her having accepted employment under the Ohio State Suffrage Association, the officers of which are opposed to Socialism."

That reason is only a filmsy pretext. The proof lies in the fact that FRANK MIDNEY'S NAME HAS LATELY BEEN ADDED TO THE APPROVED LIST—ALTHOUGH MIDNEY HAD PREVIOUSLY BEEN A PAID EMPLOYE OF THE PERSONAL LIBERTY LEAGUE — WHOSE OFFICERS ARE OPPOSED TO SOCIALISM.

There is something back of this sudden audacious attempt to disrupt and wreck the Socialist movement in Ohio just before the November elections. It is notorious in Socialist circles that a large fund was provided for a meeting of capitalists some time ago, to send paid disruptors into the Socialist ranks. And the "JOURNAL OF COMMERCE," a Wall Street organ, and other capitalist papers which are peculiarly on the "inside" of capitalist doings, HAVE BEEN RECENTLY PROPHESYING A SPLIT IN THE SOCIALIST PARTY!

Thank our lucky stars, the rank and file of the Ohio movement are rallying splendidly from the sudden shock. A storm is gathering that will sweep the traitors out of the offices they have betrayed.

The City Central Committee at Columbus has already demanded that the State Executive Committee rescind its action, under threat of the recall.

Our former fiery critic, THE COLUMBUS SOCIALIST, is out in an article denouncing the attempt to disrupt the Ohio movement. Locals all over the State are sending their protests to the State Committee to overrule the action of the State Executive Committee.

Unless all signs fail, the Ohio movement is going to redeem itself from the imputation of repudiating the principles of the Socialist Party.

Now is the time for every true Socialist to stand by his colors. The traitors must be kicked out. The Recall is the thing next in order.

THE CLEVELAND CITIZEN'S OPINION.

"Just as the Democrats are going back to the good old Grover Cleveland tariff days, and just as the Republicans are spliting up as they did in the war between the Quay-Platt machine and President Harrison, only worse, so the Socialists are harking back to the good old Dan DeLeon days for a season of ghost-hunting and brilliant performances on the part of a few egotists, who are to pass judgment as to whether this or that speaker and member is "clear" and "loyal" to a mythical S. T. and L. A., now called the I. W. W."

NOTES ON WOMAN SUFFRAGE CAMPAIGN

The Socialists of Ohio are all boosting for the campaign for Woman Suffrage, which is now growing very intense as September 3rd draws near—the day which will decide whether the working women shall have anything to say about the laws made by men, which so directly govern their work and in which they have no voice in the making.

In Bellefontaine, I went to a foreman of the car shops there and asked permission to speak in the shop at noon, he looked at me a moment and said, "Why, of course, Comrade Bloor, we're all with you here."

And I guess they were, for I never saw so many red buttons on overalls, inside a shop as I saw that day, and every man soon had a yellow button alongside the red one—with "Votes for Women" inscribed upon it, also had a wonderful street meeting in the evening there. At Fostoria, Findlay, Sandusky, Piqua, Troy, Sidney, Dayton, Lima, all along the line the Comrade are fulfilling their pledge to work for equal political rights for women. Not for a moment would a Socialist who believes the ballot for MAN line up with the Ohio Manufacturers' Association—the Personal Liberty League—old line politicians and the STATE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE in their stand against Suffrage workers. The Ohio Woman Suffrage Association for the sole purpose of getting the vote for ALL WOMEN is certainly deserving of the co-operation of all who are really in earnest in desiring the emancipation of the woman wage slaves as well as the men and for the sake of the Socialist Party which we believe is the means by which we shall gain Socialism. Let us prove that the rank and file are intelligent enough to know what this campaign really means.

Rose Schneiderman, one of the leaders of the Shirt-Waist strikers in New York is giving her entire time to the campaign doing valiant work in Dayton, Columbus and other places in shops, unions, and out-door meetings. Her loyalty to the Socialist Party to which she belongs has not been challenged by the State Executive Committee of New York.

No Brothers and Comrades, the State Executive Committee that discredits its State speakers because they work for an organization fighting to the very death for a fundamental principle of Socialism while carrying on the list, names of men known to have been paid by organizations opposed to Suffrage and Socialism must be exposed and out of justice to the loyal rank and file of the Socialist Party, let it be known that the blight put upon the Ohio Suffrage Association, by the State Executive Committee, was not one approved by the Socialist Party, which unqualifiedly stands for Equal Suffrage and that the State Executive Committee represents but seven individuals, who have not seemed very keen in the last few months to build up an inteligent VOTING POWER for MEN OR WOMEN in this State, but that's another story.

We want the ballot because we need it, and the working women of Ohio will be as intelligent as the working women of Los Angeles, where the very first chance they had to vote nearly 30,000 of them voted for their OWN INTERESTS, that much could not be said for the working men of any State.

This week I shall be among the miners of Guernsey County, and will tell you about it next week.

ELLA REEVE BLOOR.

CAPITALISM'S FETTERS ON PRODUCTION.

By C. E. Ruthenberg, Candidate for Governor on the Socialist Ticket.

It is an economic law, proven by the history of production under slavery and feudalism, that when an industrial system, instead of promoting production, becomes a hamper upon the productive potentialities of the ever improving industrial technique, it has outlived its day and is ready to give way to a new industrial system.

If we apply this test to the capitalist system at its present stage of development, we find that capitalism, in place of using the existing productive forces to supply the necessities and wants of society, is hampering and limiting our productive powers. We find that capitalism does not dare use to their fullest extent the productive forces of our present age. Its very existence depends upon limiting these forces.

There are a number of ways in which this limiting of production may take place, but all involve fundamental principles of the profit system.

Under capitalism the production of wealth is carried on for profit. The desire for profits is the motive force which drives the capitalist class to use its capital in the production of wealth. In order to secure profits the workers must be exploited. Part of the product of their labor must be turned over to the capitalist class in the shape of interest and dividends. The result of this robbery of the workers is that they are unable to consume what they produce, because their wages represent only a small part of what they produce and will not buy back all that they produced. The capitalist class cannot use up all the products which the workers cannot buy back, and when these accumulate further production becomes unprofitable. The result is that production is cut down or stops entirely for a time. Then we have the anomaly of millions of people suffering, not because we cannot produce the things we need but because we have produced too much.

Capitalism also hampers and limits the production of wealth by keeping thousands of workers in unemployment. The census department tells us that in one year 39 per cent. of the workers were out of employment at some time during the year and two million workers were out of employment from four to six months of the year. If these workers were allowed to use their brain and muscle in the production of wealth we could materially add to the amount produced.

But this limitation of production by denying employment is necessary to the continuance of capitalism. The army of unemployed is a club in the hands of the master class with which the workers are kept in submission. If there were no unemployed, no strike would be lost. The workers could dictate their own terms to the capitalist and their terms would be that they receive for their labor the equivalent of what they produce. The reserve army of unemployed, however, gives the capitalist power to enforce his terms and continue the exploitation of the workers. The capitalists must, therefore, keep part of the workers in unemployment and deny society the benefit of their productive power.

The third limitation put upon production by capitalism is in hampering and preventing the complete socialization of the production of wealth. The development of the machinery of production has led inevitably to the trust stage of production. The trusts and great corporations have eliminated a great deal of waste and duplication. We can organize our productive forces on a more scientific basis. We can today produce more wealth and can produce with less expenditure of labor power than we could during the days of competition in those industries now consolidated. But we have only made a beginning. Production today is still in a chaotic condition. Our further progress toward order and efficient organization is hampered and hindered by the clash between the interest of society as a whole and the interest of the owners of industry under our present system of production. We see this clash in the anti-trust legislation, and the outcry against capitalism which has found its most recent expression in the Democratic platform. The development of our method of production is toward further elimination of competition. But so long as the industries are privately owned society does not receive the benefit of this development, but rather suffers further exploitation. Private ownership therefore becomes a hindrance to the new method of organization and enhances productive powers. The clash between private ownership and the new organization will inevitably result in the bursting of the bonds which now limit production and the establishment of the system of production to which the development of the old industrial system so clearly points—the social ownership of the means of production.

Only through social or collective ownership can society secure for all its members the benefit of the improved method of organization. Once we establish collective ownership of our industries we will throw off the clogs and checks of our productive powers and will be able to produce more than enough not only to supply every human being food, clothing and homes to live in, but the opportunity for education and culture which alone can make life worth living.

DON'T BE A SHEEP

By Murray Schloss.

Yes, Big Biz won out against Small Graft at Chicago—partly because it could use force and fraud more effectively. And at Baltimore Big Business yielded, a little, temporarily, to Small Exploitation, to save its precious two old parties ("too old.")

Neither side yielded anything to the workers, at either Chicago or Baltimore—they didn't have to—quite yet. But the intelligent workers have a party of their own which WILL NOT TRAFFIC with either camp of its enemies—either the Big Squeeze or the Little Schemers.

This party is not approved—not fashionable—with the "progressive" newspapers, and they don't mention it when they can help it. When they do mention it they get the facts all mussed up, "accidentally" of course. That party is the SOCIALIST party and its candidates are DEBS and SEIDEL. They stand for a better civilization for the benefit of the workers.

It is growing rapidly in America (as in every other country under the sun). It will be an active factor in this year's campaign whether the newspapers, capitalist-owned, suppress the facts or not. Show your manhood, Mr. Worker. Don't be a sheep in a flock. Don't let a lot of fool hollering about Teddy or Wilson—both aristocrats—all their lives—undermine your better judgment.

THOSE COUNTRY JOBS

By Smada D. Knarf.

"Why don't they go out into the country? Farmers can't get help enough, and wages were never better. I don't believe they want work."

Did you ever hear anything like that, Mr. Workingman? It is a stock argument with the cock-sure individual who knows all about the problem of the unemployed.

But let's see what's in it.

Here are the elements of the problem: A lot of unemployed men in the cities, men unable to secure steady work at living wages; a lot of farmers throughout the country who want extra help in busy seasons; for this help they are willing to pay as high as $3.00 a day and board.

Looks like a cinch, doesn't it? But let's take it to pieces and see what makes it tick.

First: Only a small fraction of the city unemployed know anything about farm work. They wouldn't know a harrow from a harvester. The farmer wouldn't have them around. He wants skilled labor. And that means just as much on the farm as in the factory—a man who knows how to do all kinds of farm work without being coached.

Second: Suppose a man were fortunate enough to get a job. It would be for a short time only. Very few of these jobs last more than a week, most of them only two, three or four days.

Third: Suppose he got the highest wages, two dollars a day and board. How is he to get to his job in the first place? Fly? It is not usually found close to any large city, and he is an unemployed man without funds. If he has a family, what are they to do in his absence? If the job lasts but a week, how much will he have left after getting to it and home again? Railroads still have a habit of charging for transportation, and people in the country are peculiarly impatient of hoboes.

Fourth: What is the answer?

Nothing makes me so tired as this everlasting punk about everything being lovely if the workingman will only go out into the country. It's the biggest farce on the boards.

The truth is that a man whose only capital is his labor power is nowhere so helpless as out in the country among strangers. And his helplessness becomes more piteous if he has left a starving family behind him in the city.

The apologist for capitalism will have to hunt another argument. He might try reading Socialist literature.

Yes, brother, I know just what I'm talking about. I was reared on a farm, have lived many years in the city and know its problems, and am now studying this problem at first hand. I am writing this in a farm house a hundred miles from any large city. The farmer has just driven to the field with his self-binder. This afternoon he will want an extra man to shock oats. He will pay him two dollars a day. The job will last two days. The man will then have to move on.

Say, friend, wouldn't it be a good thing if the workingman owned his own job? What?

And now comes the announcement that the price of white print paper is to be raised. Yet we can find the poor country editors shouting their heads off and giving columns of valuable space to the political parties that have fooled them so often with cries of protection and free trade. The small publishers are rapidly being forced to the wall, but the editors are blind in their support of the interests that protect the Paper Trust. Well, so be it. The Socialist publications will continue to exist and their propaganda will instill into the minds of the people the necessity of controlling all trusts by making them the poperty of the people and operated in the interest of the people.

Not since the Civil War has the price of beef been so high as at present. The Beef Barons bluntly state that the reason for the recent advance is because the people have curtailed consumption. And this, too, in this year of trust busting.

OHIO SOCIALIST PLATFORM

Approved by Party Referendum

We, the Socialist Party of Ohio in convention assembled, reaffirm our allegiance to the national platform of the Socialist Party of America and the principles of International Socialism by demanding the collective and public ownership and the democratic management of all natural resources and the means of wealth production and distribution. We demand for the workers access to the machinery of wealth production and the land at all times and the full value of their toil.

We declare that all government, whether city, state or national, is controlled by and administered in the interest of the economically dominant class—the capitalist class. We emphasize the growing power of the capitalist class, making it more and more difficult for the workers to gain a livelihood, and the continuous struggle on the part of the workers, forcing from capitalism more and more of its labor product, and realizing that with the economic growth of industries into the mammoth trust stage, thereby being brought more and more into the control of a few men; the workers to further protect and prepare themselves for their historic mission, the emancipation from wage slavery, we, the Socialist Party, indorse and recommend to the workers the industrial form of organization as a means to protect their economic and political rights, and with their ballots elect representatives of their own class into public office. We maintain that political support of capitalist parties on the part of the workers, simply results in greater power for the capitalist class.

The Socialist Party is the party of the working class, able and competent to represent the interests of the producers on the political field. The resignation of each and every Socialist candidate on the Socialist ticket is in the hands of the Socialist organization, so that when elected to office, if he or she does not fulfill the pledges made previous to election, his or her resignation is demanded.

As measures that will strengthen the position of the workers in the struggle against capitalism, we demand:

First—Equal suffrage for men and women.

Second—The Initiative and Referendum, Proportional Representation and the Right of Recall.

Third—Compulsory Insurance against accident and death, the cost to be borne by the employers.

Fourth—That the jurisdiction of the juvenile courts be so corrected, modified and restricted that delinquent girls brought before such courts be humanely treated from a corrective and modern viewpoint, and that such delinquents be not condemned to practical and demoralizing imprisonment in sectarian institutions, wherein sweatshops, laundries and other industries are conducted for profit, and that the state immediately furnish modern and humane and industrial homes for the mental and moral education and the upliftment of such unfortunates.

Fifth—The abolishing of all exemptions from taxation of taxable property, including church property, convents, charity hospitals, etc., heretofore exempted from their just burden of taxation.

Sixth—We recognize that the question of race superiority injected into the minds of the white wage-worker against the negro and other races is only a tactical method used by the capitalist class to keep the workers divided on the economic field. We, therefore, call upon the negro workers and those of other races, to unite with the Socialist Party on the political field as the only avenue of abolishing wage slavery, and the only solution of the race question.

Seventh—Realizing that white slavery and prostitution is a direct result of economic exploitation of female labor, we insist that the women workers be protected by the state against low wages and long hours of labor.

NOTICE TO THE LOCALS OF OHIO.

The Columbus Socialist requests each Socialist Local in Ohio to send to us as often as convenient brief reports of its work, prospects and other items of interest to the party. These reports will be published in our "Socialists in Action Department." Address all communication to Editor Socialist, 190½ South High street, Columbus, Ohio.

PLAIN TALK FROM MAX HAYS

"The action of the State Executive Committee S. P. in firing half a dozen speakers "because they favor political action" and refuse to accept the "direct action" stuff that a lot of half-baked anarchists are attempting to drag into the Socialist Party is creating a profound sensation throughout the State, and it is quite probable that a recall will be applied to the Committee members.

"Secretary Clark, of Local Kenton, says that the action of the State Executive Committee is a plain attempt to disrupt the Socialist Party in Ohio, and if Local Columbus, or any other local, were to initiate a referendum for the recall of the present S. E. C. and the State Secretary as well, I believe the motion would be seconded so unanimously that a vote would hardly be necessary.

"The peculiar thing about the whole situation is that the little bunch of impossibilities who comprise the State Executive Committee, while I. W. W. sympathizers, are not even members of that new deleonistic S. T. L. A. They make heap big talk about "industrial unionism," "general strike," and a lot of other things about the practical side of which they really know little and then, because those who are active in the trade unions do not forthwith make side jumps for I. W. W. cards, they are 'pure and simple politicians.' This was precisely the attitude of the deleonites 12 to 15 years ago. The loudest barkers for the S. T. L. A. were not members, or at the most joined that fake organization and paid a few months' dues and then dropped out.

"The present I. W. W. fad will run its natural course and disappear like a lot of other bubbles filled with wind, while through the ordinary methods of evolution the present labor unions will broaden into industrial organizations. Some of the alleged industrialists make loud pretenses that they are evolutionists, but they adopt peculiar methods to prove their claims."

GOOD LORD, HAVE MERCY UPON US!

July 24, 1912, St. Marys, O.

Editor Col. Socialist:

Sir:—The attack of the few yellow Gods in Columbus against the only real revolutionary working class organization in Columbus to day, namely, the I. W. W. certainly could be expected. Your dirty slime that you try to spit upon us did not surprise the Rebels in the least; we can expect almost everything from our enemies at this date. We have the whole capitalist system to fight, business church, and a few slimy fake working class sheets throughout the country flying under the false colors of Socialism. Go ahead and spit your venemon while you have the opertunity, it sure is too bad that the I. W. W. was wise enough when it made the constitution as to build it in such a way that the undesirable class of thieves, fakers, misleaders, sky pilots, pety beaugeoise prolittarians can be kept at a safe distance. It is such a slimy snake like class that has wormed its way in the S. P. that if not thrown out will eventualy bring about a split in the party. You especialy in Columbus cannot tell the truth, its not in the yellow jackets. You know as well as I or any other red in Columbus that amongst the whole bunch of your peanut business men and politicians not one knows as much about Socialism or the class struggle as your Friend Priest Clark, and when you charge the I. W. W. with being an organization of the Catholic church for the purpose of splitting the S. P. you know in the bottom of your chicken heart that this is a deliberate lie and let me tell you skiners right here if you dirty business men do not keep your slimy fingers off the working class you certainly will hear from me when I get back to Columbus. Now probely you may take this as a joke but it will be the most serious joke that you have ever heard. If there is any one keeping the S. P. in a state of chaos today it is the phone politicians who know about as much about class struggles as Jonson and Bates. This element in the first place have absolutely no right what so ever in a working class movement and its because of the fact that you have never been related to the class struggle that you are stagnated, and petrified while the rank and file of the prolitarians go marching by you in progress toward the goal of Freedom.

Yours for the success of the Reds and the expulsion of the yellow.

COLUMBUS SOCIALISTS AGAIN TAKE STAND FOR "POLITICAL ACTION"

That's All There is to the Action Taken Last Sunday—Are you "Red" or "Black"—We Are "Red"

This paper has been gloriously vindicated once more. Last Sunday Local Columbus, in mass meeting, with the hall crowded to the doors, stood by this paper in the stand it has taken in reference to ousting the State Executive Committee.

The frantic appeals of the State Secretary and J. H. Henderson, present member of the S. E. C. fell upon deaf ears. They were both accorded all the time they wished to explain their respective cases, but when the Comrades began asking them questions, their cases fell flat. The members of Local Columbus are here upon the ground, they know the conditions that exist around the State Office perfectly, and if the step were not absolutely necessary, the Comrades would never have voted to recall the S. E. C. We have made the assertion, and we make it again, that the speakers taken off were all those who preached Political Action, and were opposed to the "Blacks" or I. W. W.'s, and that it was a deliberate attempt to disrupt the Party in favor of this antagonistic organization. IN PROOF, WE OFFER THE FACT, THAT PRACTICALLY ALL WHO VOTED, (and they were few) AGAINST RECALLING THE S. E. C. WERE MEMBERS OF THAT ORGANIZATION.

Henderson, of Columbus, a member of the S. E. C., took ocasion to call one of the members of this office force a "liar" on the floor, because he made the statement, "that practically all speakers now being routed through the State Office were Direct Actionists."

Our hide is thick and tough and such accusations do not disturb us in the least. Before the meeting closed however, one of the State speakers, Peter Kinnear, defended "Direct Action," on the floor, and the Comrades then realized that our assertion was correct.

The S. E. C. is getting badly balled up in their attempt to whitewash themselves. They are now claiming that the reason F. E. Johnston, of Columbus, was not endorsed, was because he only had the endorsement of ONE LOCAL. IT WOULD BE INTERESTING TO KNOW HOW MANY LOCALS ENDORSED THE SPEAKERS IN THE PAST, WHO HAVE BEEN PUT UPON THE AVAILABLE LIST, for instance, Comrades Gayton and Kinnear, of Columbus, NO LOCAL COULD HAVE ENDORSED THEM WITHOUT HEARING THEM SPEAK, AND IF THEY SPOKE IN ANY OTHER LOCAL OUTSIDE FRANKLIN COUNTY, BEFORE BEING ENDORSED, THEY THEN VIOLATED THE CONSTITUTION AS CONSTRUED BY THE S. E. C.

It will be remembered that the State Secretary told Comrade Johnston over the phone, when he asked why he had not been endorsed, "That no reasons were given," and later the Secretary of Local Columbus secured the information from the State Office, that the reason was, "That Johnston had been speaking in the State without the sanction of the State Office." This was a deliberate falsehood, as stated in the paper some time back.

It can be seen that they have turned several somersaults trying to dodge the real season, AND THAT REASON IS THAT COMRADE JOHNSTON BELIEVES IN POLITICAL ACTION AS THE RIGHT ARM OF THE WORKING CLASS REVOLUTION IN THEIR STRUGGLE TO ABOLISH THE PROFIT SYSTEM. This instance is cited only to show where the S. E. C. stands. The personal cases of the other Comrades dropped will be taken up as we go along in future issues.

COMRADES THE TIME FOR ACTION IS HERE. In another column you will find the motion that passed Local Columbus, IF YOU BELIEVE IN JUSTICE; IF YOU BELIEVE IN SOCIALISM AS THE NEXT STEP THAT WILL EMANCIPATE HUMANITY FROM THE RELENTLESS GRASP OF THIS DAMNABLE CAPITALISTIC SYSTEM, if you want to see Socialism in our time, THEN SECOND THE MOTION OF LOCAL COLUMBUS. The same form that we have used can be used by your Local, with the exception that you must fill in the name of your Local, where the name of Local Columbus appears. We want to state that the Secretaries of some Locals, are deliberately witholding the truth from the membership. Last week one of them made the statement in the State Office that he refused a bundle of Miami Valley Socialists that came to his address. At this time we are unable to state what Local he belongs to, but we will probably be able to inform you Comrades later on.

We also are compiling a list of the members in the State who are members of the ring, formed on the inside of the Party.

Every place possible, they get a member, to whom all correspondence and orders are sent. This organization will no doubt be used in an attempt to keep the traitors in office. For this reason every true Socialist should stand by his colors, and not be influenced by personal circular letters that will be sent out by the S. E. C., which we understand they are preparing to do. Local Columbus has never before felt it necessary to take such steps, and as we bow our heads in shame, at the stigma cast upon our movement by the officials of our party, we take heart in knowing, that the pulse beats of the thousands of loyal Comrades in this State are beating in unison with ours.

COLUMBUS SOCIALIST TOLD THE PLAIN TRUTH.

Ruthenberg Did Not and He Should Do Penance.

The Socialist does hate like Hades to harp upon one string too long, but we have to do it some times. Comrade C. E. Ruthenberg of Cleveland, in his labored defense of the S. E. C., published the following:

"The Columbus Socialist, which was the first Socialist paper to take up the matter, quotes a Columbus capitalist paper as the source of its information. A few days after the meeting of the state executive committee there appeared in all parts of the state, in capitalistic papers, the story that certain speakers had been dropped because they did not believe in 'direct action.' It would be interesting to know who gave the capitalistic papers the story and why it was so colored as to create dissension in the Socialist party.

"So far as the two Socialist papers which accepted the story as true are concerned, they simply swallowed a capitalist newspaper lie and helped along the dirty work of these papers."

We disproved his falsehood in last week's issue of The Columbus Socialist, and our statement was confirmed by Comrade J. H. Henderson at last Sunday's meeting of Local Columbus.

HENDERSON PUBLICLY ADMITTED THAT HE GAVE THE STATEMENT TO THE COLUMBUS CITIZEN REPORTER, AND THAT IT WAS PRINTED SUBSTANTIALLY AS HE GAVE IT. HE FURTHER ADMITTED THAT HE WAS THE AUTHOR OF THE LETTER PRINTED IN A RECENT ISSUE OF THE MIAMI VALLEY SOCIALIST AND CREDIT TO A MEMBER OF THE S. E. C.

EIGHTH DISTRICT CONVENTION.

The Socialists of the Eighth Congressional District are called to meet at Kenton, Sunday, August 18, to nominate a candidate for Congress and for Presidential Elector.

W. L. SHORTS,
Chairman Dist. Com.

NOTICE TO LOCALS IN OHIO.

We have definite information that the Secretaries of some of the Locals in Ohio are refusing to accept the "Columbus Socialist" and "Miami Valley Socialist" from the postoffice. This is in line with the policy of the "Blacks" who are attempting to withhold the truth from the membership.

Notice is hereby given to Locals throughout the State, that provisions has been made by loyal Socialists who believe in "Political Action" to send this paper to every Local in the State. If any Local is not getting this paper, we will esteem it a favor if you will notify this office. If your Secretary is not delivering the paper to your Local, he is deliberately attempting to smother the thruth. Don't fail to notify us if you are not getting the Columbus Socialist.

He comes not to combat but to convert, and promises to keep you good natured whether you agree with him or not. He is a speaker of wide reputation and great ability.—Official Program.

Comrade Strickland will speak Saturday, August 17, at 2 P. M. on, "The Evolution of Society"; in the evening at 7 o'clock upon, "A New Appreciation of Jesus."

SOCIALIST PLATFORM ORDERED PRINTED IN THE CONGRESSIONAL RECORD

The Party is Now on the Political Map—Berger Sends Call for More "Red" Colleagues

(By National Socialist.)

Washington — The Socialist platform recently adopted by the Indianapolis convention has been inserted in the Congressional Record by Representative Berger, of Wisconsin. The following colloquy prefaces the platform in the Record:

"Mr. Berger.—Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to print in the Record a statement of the principles of the Socialst party as contained in the platform adopted at the Socialist national convention, May 12-18, 1912.

"The Speaker. — The gentleman from Wisconsin asks unanimous consent to print in the Record a statement of the principles of the Socialist party.

"Mr. Mann.—How long is it?

"Mr. Berger.—Not long.

"The Speaker.—Is there objection?

"There was no objection."

Needless to add, this is the first time a Socialist platform or document has appeared in the official publication of the United States Congress.

Technicality Aids the Czar.

Philander C. Knox, Secretary of State, has communicated to President Taft to the effect that the United States Government cannot, under the law, intervene in the case of Stefen Darbrowski, the American citizen now in prison in Siberia. The case of Darbrowski was brought to the attention of the President by Victor L. Berger, the Socialist Congressman.

Secretary Knox states in his letter that Darbrowski has been living abroad since 1900, while the law presumes that a person absent from this county for more than two years has abandoned his American citizenship. The letter of Knox to Taft reads in part:

"Although Darbrowski has been naturalized as an American citizen in 1893, he has been living abroad constantly for about nine years and has been a resident in his native country for more than two years of this time, when arrested by the authorities at Warsaw. There has arisen against him under Article 2 of the Act of Congress of March 2, 1907 (the so-called 'Expiration Act') a presumption which he was not able to overcome when the opportunity was offered him to make the affidavit required by law, and which is strengthened by the consideration that on his return to his native country he had, according to his own statement, participated in the political activities of that country in such a manner as may be deemed to have identified him therewith. He has therefore foregone his right to protection as a citizen of the United States.

"It will also be noted that, while Darbrowski states that the 'crime' for which he was deported was that of belonging to an organization which seeks its object by peaceful and legal means and repudiated all terroristic acts, he was in fact arrested and convicted by the competent criminal court on the charge of attempting to incite a military revolt."

Berger intends to call on Taft again and see whether the fact that Dabrowski had been a citizen of the United States for seven years would not entitle him to some protection from our Government. Darbrowski has received a severe sentence—life-long exile in Siberia—and the Socialist Congressman will do all that can possibly be done before he gives up.

Berger Has No Snap.

A Socialist Congressman has no snap. Victor L. Berger has learned this. When he first came to Washington the newspapers told the country how Berger's office was daily flooded by requests of all sorts. But today Berger is sighing for those good old days. He then had a little time for himself and family. Today he is in his office day and night and Sundays, too.

"I see no relief in sight," says Berger. "The only thing that can help matters is the election of more Socialist Congressmen this fall. This job of representing nearly a million voters is too much for one man."

Berger's mail contains everything from requests for his autograph to calling on the President in behalf of some oppressed one somewhere. Persons naming their babies "Victor L." write long and detailed letters regarding the health, and general beauty of the youngsters. Old party voters who fail to get satisfaction from the Congressmen have no hesitation in unloading their troubles on the Socialist Representative.

There are, of course, requests that are worthy of attention. For instance, miners employed by the Alabama Consolidated Iron and Coal Company which is in the hands of a federal receiver, complain that they do not get their pay. The miners have not been paid in weeks. Some of them have not been paid in months. They ask Berger to see that they get their money or else that the mines be sold at auction.

A letter containing a complaint of this sort means that Berger must take a trip to the Department of Justice. The Socialist Congressman has a talk with Wickersham, and the latter says that Judge Grubb of the Alabama District will look into this matter.

The same day or the next, will bring an urgent request of Socialists that the police or some other authorities interfere with their rights of free speech. Of course, usually such cases are State matters and Berger so tells the complainants. But the other day Berger received a letter telling of assaults upon Socialist speakers by drunken soldiers in a town in Washington, near Fort Townsend. The letter urged federal interference and assistance.

This means another trip to the Departments. Berger calls on the Secretary of War. He learns that the matter will be investigated. While at the War Department, the Socialist Congressman asks that the orgies and debauches of the militia of Wisconsin and Illinois and the regular army at the recent maneuvers at Camp Douglas be investigated. And so it goes.

On returning to his office Berger picks up a bunch of letters just handed to him by his stenographer to look over and sign. He hardly begins this work when "three bells" are heard. This means a "Call of the House." It is the duty of every Congressman to attend the House immediately when three bells are heard. Berger goes to the House which is about four squares from his office, although the Capitol and the House Office buildings appear to be very near each other.

When the Socialist Congressman arrives at the House he learns that a parliamentary tangle is on which must be straightened out before a roll call vote on the pending measure can be had. The measure before the House happens to be one that calls for an appropriation of $300,000 for the Department of Justice to conntinue its sham battle against the trusts under the Sherman act. The Republicans favor the appropriation, and the Democrats think that the trusts can't be busted just that way. But Berger cares not whether the Sherman act is effective or not. He does not want the trusts busted at all. So he votes against the appropriation.

Before he votes a card is handed to Berger. As soon as he is recorded on the measure, Berger steps out in the corridor. A man rushes over to him and grabs him by the hand and says:

"Hello, Comrade Berger. I am from Texas and am visiting Washington. I want to shake hands with the first Socialist Congressman."

The Comrade from Texas then proceeds to tell Berger all about the movement in Texas, his ideas, troubles, etc.

BULL MOOSERS MEET.

The Progressive party, the private property of Teddy Roosevelt, this week named that worthy for President and Hi Johnson, of California, for Vice President. The whole caboodle is a fake and this will become more apparent as the days go by.

A CALL TO ACTION.

By Emil Seidel.

As the candidate for Vice President on the ticket that stands for the EMANCIPATION OF THE WORKING CLASS, my one ambition shall be, not to permit any deed or word of mine, either in public or private life, to impede in any way the success of the great historic mission of our class.

The honor you have bestowed upon me, I accept in a spirit which recognizes the gift as one received not because of personal merit. I am aware that there are in our ranks many Comrades that could do as well as I, and others that could do better.

I accepted this honor as a recognition of that constructive policy which has been voiced in the declartion of the 1910 Socialist Congress and the National convention of the Socialist Party. This is the policy that has guided the Comrades of Milwaukee and Wisconsin since the renaissance of our movement. I recognize that such successes as our Comrades over all the world have achieved are entirely due to a religious adherence to that CONSTRUCTIVE POLICY.

It must be admitted that in choosing a CONSTRUCTIVE POLICY the doors to never-ceasing patience and perseverance, to arduous study of perplexing problems and to diligent and faithful labors have been thrown wide open to the Comrades.

Only to that degree that the workers by their own intelligence will be able to apply to the problems of each day the principles of the Socialist philosophy, only in that proportion is is possible to bring about the emancipation of the working class.

With that great goal before us, we must continually study, agitate, fight, work, until we have driven the demon of exploitation from his very last entrenchments. Thus the curse of work, which for ages has borne down upon us, will become the means of our salvation.

The workers have suffered so long and endured so much that they have almst lost heart. So true is this, that without wise counsel they are in danger of being misled by irresponsible and ignorant sycophants into the commission of desperate deeds and fatal blunders. This would only tend to submerge their class in deeper misery and deliver them helpless into the hands of their enemy.

In their daily calling the workers are ever busy with producing the material things of life. To them life consists of things that can be perceived and that can be reasoned. Therefore, their entire training is materialistic.

Our platform shows the workers how they can grasp the problems of the day and then grapple with them in a physical contest. That message comes to them like a shaft of light through the gloom of long hours of toil and suffering. That the demands as voiced in the platform find their tap-root in the daily needs of the working class is proved by the cheering response with which they are received.

In my travels, as I meet the workers coming from every field of human endeavor, I cannot fail to not the new spirit that has taken possession of them. A new hope is reflected in their faces; a firm determination flashes from their eyes.

On the other hand, the enemy has not overlooked this change in the attitude of the workers. The platform of both the political wings of the master class promise remedies that are designed once more to deceive the working class.

These promises, meaningless as they are to the workers themselves, yet cannot fail to impress us as being a recognition of the soundness of the demands of our own convention. Nor did we fear that the enemy can harm our cause by stealing our thunder, for he does not know how to use it after he has stolen it.

The time has passed in which the workers can be appeased by mere promises. Neither will they beg for relief. They are preparing to take possession of the powers of state. The workers have learned from their enemy how to use the political powers in behalf of a class; they have been taught through bitter object lessons how to legislate in behalf of one class as against another class. They have learned that courts and judges can be used to good advantage by and for those that control them, and they are now learning to heed these lessons.

Having won the battle for possession of all the power of state, the working class will not be slow to use this power for its own benefit just as, formerly, its master has used this same power against it. The workers will through their government legislate, administer and define laws for their own benefit, just as they have seen their masters do. This is the meaning of our convention and our platform to the workers.

In this spirit I shall, to the best of my ability, carry our message to the factory, the mill and the mine; to the metropolis, the city and the hamlet; to every corner of the land, wherever the workers are willing and ready to listen and learn.

Since the worker is prepared to do his own governing, any attempt to dissuade him from so doing is worse than folly. IT IS TREASON TO HIM AND HIS CLASS. Nor can the belief that government is powerless stand as an excuse for such treason.

For centuries this political power has served well those who have controlled it. By means of this power, exploitation has been legalized; property rights have been placed over the rights of man; privilege has become a vested right. The corporation created by the state cannot be jailed, while man can.

The master class well understands the benefits that accrue to it through control of this political power. Therefore, it prizes it highly. Therefore, also, it will not voluntarily yield to the workng class its possession.

Yet, just at a time when, as never before, the workers are ready to control this power, we behold voices that warn the workers against its conquest. Can these advisers be sane? If so, can they be sincere?

I can never consent to advise the workers to go into the street, and, bared of all means of defense, meet their masters who are entrenched behind rapid-fire rifles and gatling guns.

With all the powers of a State in the hands of the workers; with the legislatures, the executives, the courts, the militia and police in their control, the tables are turned. No blood will be shed, for without these powers the master will not and can not fight.

This should be understood by even the densest mind, for it is so plain and obvious. This is what I hold to be the meaning of our platform. This is the message, that, as you send me on my errand, I shall carry to the down-trodden, the oppressed and the suffering.

In this, our campaign, it is necessary that we stand as a unit. Against the cause of the emancipation of the working class all other issues are as nothing. Our each little hobby, our faults, our peculiarities, our sins, big or small, not one or all of these is so important as to deserve precedence over that one big issue.

He or she who joined our party hoping to find infallible men and women, has done so under an illusion. He or she, who, in our midst, hopes to gratify personal ambitions will be sorely disappointed and deserves to be. He or she, who hopes to use this movement as a stepping stone to personal success, can never be satisfied in it. This is the battle royal between the workers and their masters. Those who fear for themselves had much better get out of the way.

The movement cannot and should not stop to nurse the real or imaginary wrongs of those who believe they have reason to mope, to sulk, to whimper. This movement is militant. It fights; it battles; it goes from conquest to conquest.

While in the fight he commits treason who shoots a Comrade in the back, no matter under phat pretense.

He, who draws attention from the enemy to the friend and fights the Comrade, betrays our cause. For such conduct there is no excuse while in a fight.

WORKERS! YOU CANNOT COMMIT ANY MISTAKE, HOWEVER GREAT, THAT IS MORE SERIOUS IN ALL ITS CONSEQUENCES THAN TO DIVIDE!!

Remember the injunction of your great leader:

WORKERS OF THE WORLD, UNITE! YOU HAVE NOTHING TO LOSE BUT YOUR CHAINS! YOU HAVE A WORLD TO GAIN.

LABOR ITEMS WARM AND CRISP.

Real Uplift By Labor.

Washington, Aug. 3.—It is well occasionally to ask the question in an honest and inquiring manner: "What are the labor organizations of America doing?" Cynics, carping critics, hostile pessimists and political partisans frequently ask this question sarcastically and viciously. Then they hasten to answer it themselves with a sneer and snarl and say "nothing". It is well therefore that a birds-eye view should be taken of the real actual progress being made throughout the country by the organizations of labor through their local efforts and by means of their local machinery. The following items are gleaned from correspondence and reports which have reached the offices of the American Federation of Labor within the last four weeks. From here, there and everywhere or wherevr local local trade unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor exist, there, genuine progress is a result.

COMPLETE ATLAS OF THE WORLD

The L. L. Poates & Co's Complete Atlas of the World contains maps of the United States, its 48 States, its Territories, its Insular Possessions together with Canadian Provinces, and other divisions of the Dominion, besides every other country of the world.

This Atlas has many points of superiority over similar publications on the market to-day. Its plates are new, having been made by the best map engravers in the country, and it is attractive in appearance and compact in form—making it valuable in the home, the library, schools, banks and offices.

The maps are printed in five (5) and six (6) colors, which show special features by separate printing. Railroads are shown in red: mountains, in brown: water in blue, and political divisions are accurately defined, which enables one to readily locate places of interest.

The latest geographical changes, such as every county in the United States to date, political changes in Canadian Provinces, French and German Boundaries in Africa, as well as the late changes in India and China are shown on these maps.

This Atlas in Octavo, has 193 pages of maps alphabetical Index of States and Countries, besides the States with their counties, and important cities and towns with their population, according to the 1910 United States Census, and the principal cities in the world.

It is bound in cloth, at $1.50 and in leather, at $2.00, and will be sent prepaid to and point in the United States on receipt of price. Every Socialist should have this book in their library. Send all orders, to

POINTS ABOUT NEW CONSTITUTION PROPOSED FOR OHIO

By A. W. EVANS

Columbus, Ohio, July 27, 1912.

Comrades—A great opportunity is before us NOW! The solid Socialist vote added to that of the other organizations which combined with us to secure a progressive constitution surely will carry the amendments which our delegates advocated.

True, hundreds of Comrades, who are candidates are speaking for them nightly and soon our State lecturers will be teaching their value, but you need a printed statement of what is to be secured through each of the amendments we advocate to show to others. The facts will convince them that an opportunity now offers for an enormous stride, through political action, to the achievement of the distribution of the products of labor. It may convince many direct actionists that ours is the better way.

Twenty-four of the amendments will be supported by all Socialists who learn what laws are made possible by them and what they directly require.

No. 22 On the Ballot.

The second section provides for the taxing, at their real value, all kinds of property, money and every paper which represents value, except that $500 worth of personal property for each individual may be exempted by the legislature. This will give the wage-earner a little relief from the tax which Capitalism levies upon the furniture of his home.

The sixth section provides for the taxing of all salaries or other incomes above $3,000, the per cent of tax being increased as the size of the income increases; for the taxing of inheritances the taxes are to be heavier as the estates grow larger.

These sections will go far toward the distribution of wealth, which we demand. The second plank in the platform of Marx is, "heavy progressive or graduated income tax," and the third, the "Abolition of all right of inheritance."

Section 10 provides that the products of Mother Earth, to which all have equal right, may be taxed and that franchises may be made to pay taxes on their real value.

Ohio is the first State in which Socialists have succeeded in getting taxed the State and city bonds which are the pet investments for the bankers, retired manufacturers and other parasites.

No. 34.—"Double Liability of Bank Stockholders and Inspection of Private Banks."

This makes owners of bank stock liable to lose what they pay for it, and the amount of the face value of the stock. It adds to the security of the small depositor and by doubling the possibility of loss to stockholders it will keep many from investing in bank stocks and thereby lessen the crushing power of these capitalistic institutions.

No. 33.—"Regulation of Corporations and Sale of Personal Property."

This provides for the supervision and regulation of all corporations by State officers. Surely it s a great step toward the realization of the teaching of Marx, that "All factories and instruments of production should be owned by the State."

No. 4—"Suits Against the State."

This provides for laws under which the State may be sued for damages, the same as an individual, in Courts of Common Pleas or those of Justices of the Peace. Under such a law those maimed while on State work, or, under the direction of any officer of the State, can secure their rights. Damages can be collected, too, for the loss by any person from any act of the legislature.

Socialists have long stood for No. 3: "Abolition of Capital Punishment" and No. 28: "Woman's Suffrage."

No. 5.—"Damage for Wrongful Death."

Capital has protected itself from fair payment to the wives or children of those it murders by having its tools in the legislature fix a limit for damages in such cases. This amendment prohibits the fixing of any limit. Hereafter, juries will determine the amount after considering the needs of the bereaved and the ability of the guilty capitalist to pay.

No. 7.—"Investigation by Each House of the General Assembly."

This gives either Senate or House power to investigate crooks everywhere. The need of it was shown in the many failures of the legislature to convict Boss Cox of Cincinnati.

Its value to us lies in this clause: "And to obtain, through committees or otherwise, information affecting legislative action under consideration or in contemplation."

This empowers the legislature, which we soon will control, to send detectives into the secret places of capitalism, with power to search and sieze.

No. 8.—"Limiting the Veto Power of the Governor."

Weakening as it does, the power of the governor, by making three-fifths, instead of two-thirds, the number of votes in the legislature necessary to pass a law over the veto, it is in the right direction. It will take 16 less votes. The veto cannot be used against I. and R. laws.

No. 10.—"Welfare of Employes."

The carrying of this amendment will be a great victory, for it will force all employers to pay living wages under a minimum wage law. We can win in Ohio with votes, a fight the waging of which has cost great suffering to hundreds of thousands through the loss of millions in wages in European countries. A minimum wage law is the most important step toward State Socialism, the next and last step, that of State provision of work at the wage fixed, naturally follows it.

This amendment removes all restrictions of the legislature in passing laws "regulating the hours of labor and providing for the comfort, health, safety and general welfare of all employes; and no other provision of the constitution shall impair or limit its power."

No. 11.—"Workingmen's Compensation."

The approval of this amendment will be an important victory, for it will enable US, with the aid of our allies to knock out the present iniquitous workmen's compensation law, under which wage earners are assessed to pay for their own injuries, and put it entirely upon the employing class, which is responsible for them. Under it all employers, railroads, manufacturers, farmers, store-keepers and business officers will be compelled to contribute to a State fund, from which compensation must be given, not only for injury and death, but for all occupational diseases.

The last paragraph puts the distribution of this fund in the hands of an appointive board, not in the hands of capital-owned courts. It provides "A board which may be empowered to classify all occupations, according to their degree of hazard, to fix rates of contribution to such fund according to such classification, and to collect and distribute such funds, and to determine all rights of claimants thereto."

The Comrades in no other country, even in Germany, in whose law-making body the Socialists have a larger number than any other political party, have been able to enact so just a law.

No. 12.—"Conservation of Natural Resources."

The body of this amendment greatly extends State control, which we advocate. Its most interesting provision is in its last clause which reads, "And to provide for the regulation of methods of mining, weighing, measuring and marketing coal, oil, gas and all other minerals."

This will give us a chance to force the Coal Barons, the Oil Kings and the Gas Magnates to disgorge, if the I. and R. carries, and doubtless it will.

No. 32.—"Contempt Proceedings and Injunctions."

Few amendments are so valuable as this. Its last sentence reads;

"No order of injunction shall issue in any controversy involving the employment of labor, except to preserve physical property from injury or destruction; and all persons charged in contempt proceedings with the violation of an injunction issued in such controversies shall, upon demand be granted a trial by jury as in criminal cases."

This will make it impossible for any court to protect scabs and things imported by capitalists to break strikes. Injunction, under this amendment, can be secured only against injury to property and one declared in contempt for violation of such injunction can elect to be tried by a jury of his peers instead of the prejudiced judge, who granted the injunction.

No. 13.—"Eight Hour Day on Public Work."

This provides that day's work shall not exceed eight hours, or a week's work, 48 hours. It will permit the enactment of a law for a four-hour day, which we can prove will be sufficient when all industries are operated for the benefit of the people by the government. The government limiting the day's work on public works is an admission that the government and not private contracts should control between capitalism and proletarians.

The great public work contemplated in Ohio is the building of country roads at a cost of $10,000,000 a year for five years. An eight-hour day with a minimum wage of two dollars will give the farm laborers a taste of Socialism which is likely to make them our Comrades for the revolution.

No. 14.—"Removal of Officers."

This amendment, providing as it does for the removal of officers by complaint and hearing, is disappointing. The people having the power to put a man in office should have power to put him out of office by the recall. But it will be an improvement of the law for impeachment, which is a farce.

No. 6.—"Initiative and Referendum."

The importance of the I. & R. to acquiring control of the means of production is so well known to all, it need not be dwelt upon. While it is not ideal, it will be effective for the revolution, for the people, not capitalists, will rule. The amendment fixes all the detail of the use of the I. & R., so legislatures can't get away from them. Under it we can nullify any appropriation made to support the militia or other hired murders.

To get it through the convention a prohibition of the single tax had to be permitted, but that only causes short delay, for our centers can quickly secure the 10 per cent needed to initiate it out of the constitution and the organizations in sympathy with us will furnish the votes.

SOUTHERN CHIVALRY, SAH!

We forget for the moment whether it was in Jawgia, the other day, where eighteen gentlemen, sah, waylaid a white woman, stripped her naked in a wood and whipped her almost to death in the presence of several "niggers," the lashing being supervised by a gentleman whose son had been infatuated with the victim and had for some time previous supported himself from her earnings as a habitue of the local "red light district," but if it wasn't Jawgia, it was some adjacent State where chivalry is no less rampant and attentive to the ladies.

But at any rate, in the matter of these polite attentions Jawgia is not one whit behind her sister States, as witness the news item which comes from the flourishing cotton mill city of Tallapoosa, where a Socialist woman speaker, by order of the Mayor of that burg, was drenched with a fire hose manipulated by the gallant fire laddies of that chivalrous center of the cotton milling industry.

Mrs. Kate Richards O'Hare, a highly educated woman, was the recipient of this little mark of politeness. Mrs. O'Hare, standing in an automobile on the main street of the city, was delivering an address on child labor when Mayor, Mr. Pearce, sah, came by. At that moment she was telling the audience of the conditions under which little children worked in the cotton mills "in their midst" when the Mayor, who is a prominent mill owner, waxed indignant and ordered the City Marshal to arrest her. The man refused and the gentleman then ordered out the fire department and Mrs. O'Hare and her audience were properly drenched and forced to beat a hasty retreat. It was a glorious victory for his "honor."

They are a religious, law-abiding people down in Jawgia, sah. And if any one dares to offend any of these little ones working in their cotton mills they don't give them the "cup of cold water in my name," as recommended by the Galilean agitator of nineteen hundred years ago. They are more liberal in that respect and give good measure, heaped and running over. No Southern gentleman, sah, would demean himself by offering such a miserable portion as a mere cupful. They turn the hose on them instead, with true Southern hospitality, just as they keep the tots in their cotton mills awake by a similar deluge when the little ones show signs of sleepiness.

However, the item declares that many citizens of the place are highly indignant over the treatment accorded Mrs. O'Hare, and this, in addition to the fact that the Marshal refused to arrest her, would seem to indicate that the old-fashioned, courtly and chivalrous manners of the region are in a state of decay, and that mere men are beginning to supplant gentlemen therein.

We hasten to remark that t hese observations are not meant to cast any reflection on the soverign State of Jawgia, per se, and we would be the last to utter a syllable that might adversely affect the Socialist campaign therein. We have no intention what ever of insulting Mayor Pearce and the "best people," who no doubt approve of his liberality in dispensing the water supply of the city upon the objectoinable stranger lady within their gates. We simply say this in anticipation of any letters that reach us from Tallapoosa declaring that our remarks have hurt the Socialist movement there.

On second thought, too, there is another reason why we should not insult people like Mayor Pearce. It is an impossible task, and we do not propose to attempt the impossible. They are uninsultable.—N. Y. Call.

SAN DIEGO SITUATION.

San Diego—With the conspiracy cases on trial, the free speech advocates are bending all their energies to providing an adequate defense for the men who for seven months have awaited trial in the jails of San Diego. With the adjournment of the grand jury, without returning any indictments, the police and vigilantes, emboldened by its in-action, have apparently settled down to what they evidently believe will be a permanent policy of repression.

Like the Bourbons of France, they never learn. Needless to say that this attitude has only resulted in a greater solidarity of the labor forces of San Diego. This is best illustrated by the joint appeal for funds issued by the San Diego County Federated Trades and Labor Council, the Socialist Party, the Industrial Workers of the World, and the California Free Speech League. Free Speech will not down. It is still the issue, and the united working class of San Diego are determined that it will be the issue until it is the unquestioned right of every man and woman in San Diego.

"What is the plural of Moose?" Not needed. There is only one and it is at Oyster Bay.

Dr. Deolittle, who succeeded Dr. Wiley, recommends beans as a substitute for meat, and among other things says they make the partakers thereof "healthy, strong and patient." Then, by all means avoid them, for the great evil of the working class is the patient worker.

After this the colored people must remember that the only thing white or possible about them, in the eyes of Democrats, Republicans and Bull Moosers, are their votes. The way they were not only shut out but actually kicked out of the last Chicago convention is ample demonstration of the love and esteeem in which they are held.

Congress has only about two weeks more of existence. The present session will be remembered chiefly because it had as a member the first Socialist ever sent to the House of Representatives, and for what he did there. The Lawrence strike, one of the memorable labor battles in this country, became a matter of nation-wide concern through what Berger was able to do in bringing it to public attention and forcing an investigation of the civic authorities of the Massachusetts city.

Tell us not of rights.—Talk not of the property rights of the capitalists in their fight against wage slaves. We deny the right.—We acknowledge not the property. The principles, the feelings of our Common Nature rises in rebellion against it. Be the appeal made to the understanding or the heart, the sentence is the same that rejects it. In vain you tell us of laws that sanction such a claim.

There is a law above all the enactments of human codes—the same throughout the world, the same in all times.—It is the law written in the heart of man by the finger of his MAKER; and by that law, unchangeable and eternal, while men despise fraud, and loathe rapine, and abhor blood; they will reject the wild and guilty phantasy, that one man shall dare to own the means of life, with the power of life and death over his fellow men. In vain you appeal to treaties, to covenants between nations, the covenants of the Almighty. In vain you appeal to the ignorance of the mob, and denounce us as being unpartiotic. Our propaganda of enlightenment goes merrily on. We care not for the past, except in that we have learned from the past to gird up our loins for the future. The hope of the world lies in the spreading of our propaganda. Therefore, we spread our literature broadcast. The unborn children of the future are reaching out their hands to us across the gulf of time. Therefore we work day and night, struggling and endeavoring to remove this ban of slavery that now binds the human race, in order that these children may not be born accursed with the shackles of slavery upon their little wrists. To you masters, we say:

Better had you pause and consider; better had you take heed. You are standing on the brink of a precipice—then beware. Not always will the people tamely submit to chains, not always will they submit to starvation, at starvation wages. Not always will they be blind followers of the blind. Take heed while there is yet time. An outraged working class, has been beaten and crushed long enough. The cry of revolt is heard in every land, in every clime. Labor is awake. The producers of all the wealth that makes life beautiful and worth while, are about to come into their rightful heritage. That heritage is the ownership of all the wealth, through the public ownership of all the means that are used to produce the wealth. Society must own the mines, the mills, the railroads, and all other tools that serve the people collectively. We already have socialized schools, postoffice, and public roads. Further progress can only be made by the further socialization of all collectively used property.

The Socialist Party would be traitors the country, traitors to the people, traitors to our country's emblem, did we not in seeing the cause of all miseries, proclaim the remedy from the housetops. AWAKE, ARISE, the time is now at hand to strike a blow for industrial liberty. Strike at the ballot box, and in so doing bring about this change that must come, quietly and peaceably.

REASONABLY RICH AND REASONABLY POOR.

For the first time in the history of our country a President who has been renominated by his party furtively, hesitatingly makes Socialism the great, the dominant issue. That is what William Howard Taft has done, and we must give him credit for his understanding of the things that confront the nation. We need not be specially excited becanuse of his ignorance. We not rise up and denounce him because of his mistatements. We need not concern ourselves with those obvious errors of misunderstanding with which his message is full. The great, the overwhelming, the unavoidable fact is that for the first time in the history of this nation a President, appearing before the people of this country for their support, makes his opposition to Socialism the ground on which he makes his appeal for re-election.

In the rather heavy rhetoric in which President Taft clothes his speech of acceptance there is one main idea. He is afraid of Socialism.

He says so in a hundred different ways. He turns and twists and draws fine distinctions. He denounces various other things that are not Socialism. But invariably he comes back to this one point:

The contest this year is between the Socialists and the non-Socialists.

If the workers wish to make it so, this is the year of the working class, and they can demand and they can get all they wish. Taft understands it, and he sets it forth in his speech of acceptance. He uses all the denunciatory power he possesses against the demagogues who have been trying to lead the nation astray. But, inevitably, he confesses, as he has to, that the great question before the people of this country is SOCIALISM. Taft knows it, and he is not particularly bright. It is the only redeeming thing in it, and it is redeeming because of its complete ignorance. Taft begins by acknowledging the existence of individuals and classes. From that he develops to the point where he acknowledges the reasonably poor and the reasonably rich, and he makes the modest claim that this is what the Socialist program aims at. His discovery of this idea, the reduction of the unreasonably rich to the level of the reasonably rich and the elevation of the unreasonably poor to the level of the "reasonably poor," or the reasonably rich, is the great fruit of his administrationfi aside from the discovery of the existence of the Socialist party.

But in the later discovery he anticipates Roosevelt and goes far beyond him. Roosevelt has discovered the existence of Socialisits, but never the existence of a party. Roosevelt has tried to reduce everything to an individual problem. Not so Taft. The President knows just what is what, and he fights against organized Socialism as represented by the Socialist party. In doing so he shows that he is not, as has been generally thought, the least of the Presidents. He is one of the greatest, because he has opened the way through his speech of acceptance for a discussion of this tremendously important question. His thunderings at near-Socialists, his denunciation of Roosevelt and the others a-coming toward Socialism, amount to nothing. The main fact is that a President, renominated by his party, recognizes Socialism as the great issue of the campaign.

No one can read the speech without being struck by this fact. No one can ignore it. There is the great issue, and it lies with us now, in all ways, to make good the predictions of Taft. This country is headed steadily toward Socialism. Taft, by opposing, it, is helping it along. Roosevelt, through his attempt to offer something as good, is helping it along. Wilson, through his attempt to return to the rule of our fathers, is helping it along.

But, best of all, Taft, through his plain speaking, through his tearful confessions, through his fears, through his reiteration of his cowardice on this one point, shows that he recognizes that Socialism is the big issue of this campaign.

The real Socialists have long ago realized it. They have been working toward the point where they will make it effective. It is now up to us to help our President experience his worst fears and for us to make Socialism in all ways the one, big, burning issue of this campaign.

THE CAUSE MOVES STEADILY ONWARD.

There are a few timid souls in the local party ranks who are fearful that the Columbus Socialist has gone beyond the limit in exposing the schemes of our S. E. C. If these Comrades only knew what we are holding back they would not wonder at what we have published. After all this tempest has been a benefit to the movement in Franklin County. In spite of all the internal turmoil the party membership has never been more active and earnest.

Last Saturday twenty-one men left Headquarters for duty at meetings in the rural districts of the County. On Sunday morning, under the direction of Organizer Bues, literature was distributed in every precinct of every Ward of the city. This is the work that counts and the plain truth about party affairs recently printed by this paper has helped. Scores of the best workers tell us so and they, and not the kickers, and disrupters, are the ones upon whom we depend for advice and aid.

THE PROPOSED CONSTITUTION.

The people of Ohio will on Tuesday, September 3rd, 1912, have the opportunity to vote upon the proposed new constitution for the State. The Socialist has been for several weeks publishing articles written by Comrade Harry D. Thomas, the Socialist member of the Constitutional Convention. These articles have taken up in detail the various propositions in which Socialists as well as all working men, are interested. As Socialists we cannot help but support these measures as they are advanced steps towards our ultimate goal—the co-operative commonwealth. Every Socialist should study these issues and record his vote.

It it needles to say that the Socialist Party stands for Equal Suffrage for men and women. The party has always advocated this as a matter of principle and common justice. We do not have to declare ourselves every day. The initiative and referendum and recall were in the first Socialist platform ever adopted in the United States. Our party record is clear on these question.

HERE IS OUR WARNING—The Ohio Chamber of Commerce has had printed for free distribution in Ohio, 400,000 copies of a 100-page book containing alleged arguments against the progressive provisions of the new organic law—the constitution. The same organization is subsidizing daily and weekly papers throughout the State to oppose the new constittujon. It is high time that the working class woke up and got busy.

Information has reached this office that an attempt is to be made by the State Office to hold up the referendum ballots to recall the S. E. C. traitors on a technicality. Enough Locals have already sent in motions to recall, so that the matter should go toa referendum immediately. The following Locals have demanded the recall:

Locals Columbus, Dayton, Miamisburg, Germantown, Xenia, and Van Buren Township. We pick these out to show that there is now no excuse for holding up the ballots. DON'T STOP, HOWEVER, KEEP ON FIRING THE DEMANDS FOR THE RECALL INTO THE STATE OFFICE. This paper expected such a move, when Schawe and his bunch of "Blacks" last Sunday raised the point that the motion to recall did not carry with it any charges. We point out the fact that the Socialist party can recall its officials at anytime. WE FURTHER POINT OUT THAT A REFERENDUM TO RECALL MILLARD ABOUT A YEAR AGO WAS SENT OUT, WHEN NO CHARGES HAD BEEN PREFERRED AGAINST HIM. ONLY COWARDS AND GUILTY ONES FEAR THE RECALL.

SOCIALIST LAWN FETE AT SCHILLER PARK

Monday Evening, August 26th.

The arrangements for the lawn fete for the benefit of The Columbus Socialist are being completed and will be announced next week. The celebration will constitute the Socialist Fall Festival, just prior to the opening of the last whirl of the Fall campaign.

There will be ice cream, cake, pop, buttermilk, together with a fish pond, good music and instructive speakers. Tickets have been mailed to workers in the various Wards and Locals and all are asked to get busy. It is necessary to raise, by this means, a sum of money for three purposes: First, to tide The Columbus Socialist over the dull season, between Summer and Fall. Second, to pay off some indebtedness hanging over the paper. Third, to make up the deficit caused by the demands upon the party for campaign expenses.

A long pull, a strong pull and a pull altogether will put The Socialist on its feet financially. The Comrades of Columbus and Franklin County have stood by this paper through thick and thin. They will not fail now, we are certain. Come in and get tickets. Our list of names is not complete. We desire to have every friend of The Socialist and political action rally to the support of a paper without a muzzle.

The Booster's Column

By F. E. JOHNSTON

For the past week, subscriptions, to this paper have been pouring in from all over the State. We are evidently striking a responsive cord in the bosom of the LOYAL CLASS-CONSCIOUS SOCIALISTS in this State. To you, Comrades out in the State, we want you to know, that if you desire to help in this struggle against corruption and Anarchy in our party, that the best way is to help financially. Every Local has been put on our sub list through the loyalty of Columbus Comrades, and if you desire to further help along in the fight, every individual "Constructive" Socialist should subscribe, and in this manner help us over the dull season.

To you, Comrades n Columbus, and Franklin County, we want to say, that YOU HAVE UNANIMOUSLY ENDORSED THE POLICY OF YOUR PAPER. NOW GET BEHIND IT DURING THIS DULL TIME. Don't for a minute forget the financial end of your paper. Every Comrade who owes for stock should endeavor to make payments. Every sub that can possibly be raked up, should be gotten at this time.

Every Ward Branch should endeavor to buy at least $5.00 worth of sub cards. If you find it impossible to buy that many, buy what you can, distribute them to the membership to sell and get your money back.

And for "the love of Mike" don't forget the Fall Festival, to be given at Schiller Park, August 26th, under the auspices of this paper. This will be an excellent opportunity to put the paper in a position to tide over the dull season. Let every Comrade who has received tickets sell them as soon as possible, and come in for more. LET'S MAKE THIS A GRAND OLD JOLLIFICATION, let's all get together and have a good time, just prior to the hard work just ahead in the fall campaign. If any Comrade wishes tickets to sell, who has not yet received them, call us up and we will forward them to you by mail. This event will be something different from anything yet pulled off by the Party in Columbus.

Let every Ward or individual Comrade, who can possibly do so invest in at least $1.00 worth of sub cards, now, at once, and in this manner help to tide us over.

LOCAL COLUMBUS SOCIALIST PARTY STAND FIRMLY

Notice Served that the Disrupters are Understood and Must Quit.

Local Columbus of the Socialist Party in the largest attended session it has ever held, last Sunday afternoon, passed, by an overwhelming vote, the following resolution:

To the State Office, Socialist Party of Ohio:

Local Columbus hereby moves that the old State Executive Committee be recalled and that the election of the new State Executive Committee be declared null and void; and that nominations be called for from the Locals for members of a new State Executive Committee.

The State Committee to elect from its own membership a temporary committee of five which shall perform all functions of the State Executive Committee until such time as a new State State Executive Committee shall have been elected.

This ought to show where Local Columbus stands. In addition to this, a committee was elected to inform the Locals of Ohio as to the facts in the case. This committee is as follows: C. E. Weichold, E. B. Eubanks, T. C. Southard, D. M. Kuhns, J. P. Ross, D. J. Farrell.

A collection of $14.44 was taken to help the Timber Workers of the Southwest in their brave fight against tyrannical employers as shown in last week's Columbus Socialist. The local Comrades never turn a deaf ear to the cry of the toilers.

The motion of Local Everett, Wash., to recall Job Harriman, as a member of the National Executive Committee, was tabled. Local Toledo's motion to abolish the National Lyceum Bureau was tabled for one month.

The motion to endorse Comrade J. H. Henderson as a State speaker was tabled, in view of the fact that he was a member of the State Executive Committee, now practically under charges.

In order to keep paid speakers from attempting to build up a political machine, which has been charged in a few instances, a resolution was adopted by the Columbus Local not to allow paid speakers, organizers or any other person in the employ of the National or State committees to act as delegates to either State or National Conventions.

DISTRICT CONVENTION.

At a convention of the Socialists of the Twelfth Congressional District, held last Sunday afternoon, Comrade W. R. Evans, of Third and Michigan Avenues, was nominated as a candidate for Presidential elector.

STATEMENT FROM COMRADE SCHAWE.

State Secretary Schawe, desires us to make a correction in reference to the statement, that he is using State money to "circularize the State" about the attempted election of Josephine Bates to the S. E. C. He informs us that he forwarded the circular with other business, that was sent out. We presume that Comrade Schawe has reference to the stamps used. This paper had reference not only to the stamps, but to the time and other incidentals required, that should be devoted to work of the Socialist Party.

SCABBERY ALWAYS GETS ITS DUE REWARD

There is nothing that the self-respecting working man hates so much as a "scab." A real "scab" is one who takes the place of a worker who strikes or who stays at work when his fellows quit. One instance has come to the notice of The Socialist. It is that of a man who remained at work on the street cars of Columbus, when the strike was on two years ago. The Rail-Light let him out when the trouble was over, just like the masters always do with the poor fools who serve the purpose of the bosses.

Within the past two years, he has held and lost six different jobs for the simple reason that his fellow-workers gave him the the "double cross," silently, but surely. He is now down and out, an object of pity, even if he does belong to the O. N. G., and lives on the West Side. This is the kind of "direct action" that counts.

As stated last week, in this paper, the "scabs" sent to Boston by the Rail-Light have been drifting back to Columbus. They were to have their jobs when they returned here, but six of them have been "let out" by the grateful Rail-Light, within the past two weeks.

Remember the Appeal and this paper both for one year for $1.00. Absolutely the best combination ever offered.

SIXTH AND SEVENTH WARDS.

To the Ward Branches of Local Columbus, Ohio:

WHEREAS, there has been dissension and strife stirred up within the Socialist Party by some of its members who are also identified with the disrupting element of the Industrial Workers of the World, and

WHEREAS, we believe that those few trouble-makers are a detriment to both the Socialist Party and the principle of Industrial Unionism, and

WHEREAS, one of the most active and at the same time, the most cunning, underhanded and deceptive of these causing strife and discord in the Socialist Party is Peter Kinnear, and

WHEREAS, said Peter Kinnear is a candidate on the Socialist ticket of Franklin County, Ohio, and

WHEREAS, said Peter Kinnear has continually for the past months talked, privately and publicly, in favor of Direct Action, Sabotage and any and all methods usually incident to THE STRIKE and, this in the face of the action of the State and National Conventions and of the action of Local Columbus, and did, on Sunday, August 4th, 1912, after the almost unanimous action of the mass meeting of Franklin County, and the mass meeting of Local Columbus, Ohio, in favor of Political Action only, and against Direct Action, declare that he could not talk Socialism without talking Direct Action on the Industrial Fields;

THEREFORE, The Sixth Ward Branch and the Seventh Ward Branch, in regular session this, Tuesday evening, August 6th, 1912, move that the Franklin County Executive Committee of the Socialist Party be requested to recall said Peter Kinnear as said candidate for Representative on said County Ticket.

W. C. BATES,
Chairman Sixth Ward Branch and Seventh Ward Branch.

MRS. A. E. CASHDOLLAR,
Recording Secretary Sixth Ward Branch and Seventh Ward Branch.

This motion has been sent to all the Branches in Columbus, Ohio, with request for seconds from all those who favor the motion.

MRS. A. E. CASHDOLLAR,
Recording Secretary Sixth Ward Branch.

FOSTORIA SOCIALISTS CALL DOWN BIG CORPORATION

Harter Milling Company Detected in Defrauding the City.

The Socialist Mayor of Fostoria, Comrade Wm. Ralston, with his coworkers, seem to be doing things up there. Just recently R. J. Barrett, superintendent of the city waterworks, went out to the plant of the Harter Milling Company to inspect the meter. He found absolute evidence that the company had been, for some time, using water for which it did not pay. This was accomplished by a system of "by passing" by which water could be used without it passing through the meter. The Harter mill is one of the largest of its kind in the United States and the loss to the city has been great.

It is estimated that the company owes Fostoria fully $1,500. The immediate result is that criminal charges will be brought against Superintendent Frank Near and Chief Engineer Myers of the Harter plant.

MIDNEY AT HIS OLD-TIME DISRUPTING WORK

"East Liverpool, O., July 29.—After three hours given over to arguments and investigation into the case of Philip T. Kirby, editor of the East Liverpool Free Press, who was charged with being disloyal to the Socialist Party doctrines, he was suspended from the Party by a vote of 36 to 19, at a largely attended meeting of the Socialists of this city, held in the Socialist hall, East Sixth Street.

"At the close of the arguments the question was referred to the legislative committee, which spent three hours in an investigation and consideration of the case, following which a motion was made that Kirby be suspended from the Party for six months.

"The action was precipitated by an editorial published in the Free Press by Mr. Kirby, its editor, referring to the doctrines as delivered by Frank Midney, of Toledo, which he is said to have alleged deviated from the pure doctrines of the Socialist Party.

"He is said to have opposed the importation of speakers of such doctrine into the city. The editorial was not to the liking of the majority of the Socialists of the city, and Kirby was brought before the legislative committee several evenings ago."

The sequel is that Midney is now editor of the East Liverpool Free Press. Midney is a suspended member of Local Dayton, but by some method known only to the High and Might S. E. C., went to Findlay or Toledo, was accepted as a member and by the grace of the H. & M. S. E. C., placed upon the list of "available State speakers." If this is not enough to show up the character of some people, we don't know what will.

WHO WAS THE UNION MAN?

The other day we had occasion to talk to a member of one of the local unions. The conversation drifted around to Socialism and finally to the slanderous articles at present published in the "Socialist" regarding the convent in Columbus and in Cincinnati. This man said that the publishers of the "Socialist" did not themselves take any stock in the stuff which was printed about the convents; that it was done for effect only in order to get even with the Catholic church. So there you are. This procedure is not a new one; similar tactics were started about four hundred years ago.—Monthly Calendar, St. Aloysius Parish, Columbus, Ohio.

Socialists who are to any extent familiar with local affairs will have no difficulty in deciding as the name of the "union man" alluded to above.

NOTES OF THE BLACKS.

The Direct Actionists have their heads full of the phrases of their sires. "They brag about science and know nothing. They look with contempt, as revolutionaries, on any concerted action of the working classes, and they treat with contempt any idea of making use of the legislature for any thing, e. g., for shortening the hours of labor."—Marx.

Bakunine's Social Democrat Alliance, organized in the late sixties for the purpose of discrediting Karl Marx, and capturng the International for the Anarchists, "The Alliance must appear to agree with the International, though really apart from it, in order to get around it, and to direct it. Therefore, efforts should always be made to place its members in a minority on any council, committee, or section of the International."

The followers of Bakunine were known as the Blacks, and the Socialists can do the Mouth Revolutionists no injustice by so branding the child.

They use the tactics and preach the philosophy of the Blacks and must retain the birth-mark.

The flying squadron of the Blacks have made their living off the working class while doing every underhand thing to betray them. And, Oh! how the whelps do squeal since the mask has been torn from their cowardly faces.

No compromise with the plague, see to it that the cesspool of Anarchy is exposed to the purifying rays of the sun.

CLEVELAND CITIZEN EMPHASIZES SOME FACTS.

In another column we print a statement from C. E. Ruthenberg relating to the action of the State Executive Committee S. P. in railroading a number of speakers. Ruthenberg's claims do not harmonize in several essentials with the explanations of Peter Kinnear in the Columbus Socialist, and the latter paper also renews its declaration that representatives were sent to the state office to investigate and found the situation substantially as wired over the state by news agencies. Furthermore, Ruthenberg's insinuations that some of the speakers who were dropped were deficient in their knowledge of socialism surely cannot apply to Walter Millard, of Cincinnati, who was one of the Lyceum Bureau lecturers and is known all over the country; or to A. B. Shinn, of Washington C. H., one of the best organizers this state has ever produced and who was complimented upon many occasions in the Ohio Bulletin. The excuse that Ella Reeve Bloor, who not even Ruthenberg will claim is unclear in the head, was dropped because she accepted several appointments from the Woman Suffrage party, whose president or sergeant-at-arms, may be opposed to socialism, doesn't seem reasonable when it is understood that Frank Midney, of Dayton, was placed on the list of speakers, although Frank delivered some hard knocks against prohibition from the stump of the Liberty League, whose president and door keeper, are also opposed to socialism. Like Ruthenberg, the Citizen abhors factionalism—preferring to train all its guns on the common enemy of the working class. But when the Karr-Haywood-Bohn crowd deliberately start out to create trouble and insult and ridicule men who assist to build up the Socialist party when one of those valiant gentemen (Bohn) was attempting to tear it down, another (Haywood) was flirting with the corrupt old gangs in Colorado, and the third was building up a publishing business with a big boss bee in his hat, and when the state organization of Ohio falls in with the scheme to divide the party into "Reds" and "Yellows," as Secretary Shawe did in a note to the Ohio delegation at Indianapolis, and victimize speakers who refuse to swallow the new dope, the time has arrived for self-respecting Socialists to at least protest against the resurrection of deleonistic heresy-hunting. In our opinion the present effort of the Review cabal to saddle the I. W. W. will-o'-the-wisp—the "one big union" here today and somewhere else tomorrow—upon the back of the Socialist party, which met with the sympathetic support of certain members of the state organization, will fail miserably and there will be a new deal in the organization in the near future. It required just such a jolt to wake up the trade unionists in the Socialist party and spur them into activity to prove to the country that the Socialist party is no wet-nurse for every foundling left on its doorstep.—The Cleveland Citizen.

USE THE RED TICKET.

The Socialist has distributed thousands of red tickets to our readers and has more to be given out. When you buy anything from a dealer who advertises in this paper, hand him the red ticket. He will understand it. The time has come when the purchasing power of the working class must be used to boost its own paper. Get busy with the red tickets.

WHY SOCIALISTS PAY DUES.

The Socialist Columbus:

Very often when you are trying to persuade some one to come into the Local they will tell you that there is no use in their coming into the Local as they always vote the Socialist ticket anyhow and what is the use of their paying dues. At the same time they will tell you that they want you to go ahead and get up the ticket so that they can vote for it. But that is the rub. It requires the 25c of the members to make the Socialist ticket possible. Without the 25c dues these fellows would have to either stay at home on election day or vote the old party ticket.

Not long ago a young Nelsonville Democrat, known as the Boy Orator, when handing around his campaign literature said sneeringly to a Socialist: "O! you are one of those fellows that pay 25c a month for the privilege of voting." For once a Democrat hit the nail square on the head. We do pay for the privilege of voting. I as Secretary of your Local receive ballots concerning questions to be voted upon, at least once a week. Sometimes it is to vote on the wording of some clause in our by-laws, constitution or platform; sometimes to oust some recalcitrant member or to select from a list of names, one or more, to serve on some committee or as delegates to some convention. Sometimes every name in the list are total strangers to our Local and we have no way of knowing how to make a choice and after due consideration we choose them on account of the locality they hail from. But in whatever way we arrive at the choice, we at once begin to keep our eye upon them and in due time we may get acquainted with those comrades for whom we voted and in the process of time we become more and more acquainted with each other and with our by-laws, with everything pertaining to the workings of the organization from the home Local to the National office. Thus each year finds us better fitted to vote intelligently on any and all questions that may come up.

On the other hand, how about the fellow who only votes once in a year, or perhaps, once in four years? He has no show under heavens to know what is going on in his party and it is little wonder that, on election day, he sells his birthright for a "mess of pottage."

The ignorant voter joins with enough other chumps to vote away $2,000 per year of his earnings which is the dues he pays to all parties except the Socialist party. So join the Local and pay your dues and get a schooling in voting that is well worth many times the quarter per month that it will cost you.

News from the World-Wide Movement of the Workers

NEWS FROM NATIONAL SOCIALIST HEADQUARTERS

The address of the Ohio State Headquarters of the Socialist Party has been changed to 101 North High Street, Wesley Block, Room, 68, Columbus, Ohio.

State Secretary Wiltse, of Iowa, reports that A. D. Pugh has been expelled by Local Des Moines for joining the Bull Moose party.

By referendum vote of the Scandinavian Section, N. Juel Christensen, 2757 West North Avenue, Room 7, Chicago, has been re-elected National Translator-Secretary.

The amount received at the National Office for dues during the month of July, was $5,764.60. The average membership for the first seven months of 1913, as evidenced by the dues received, is 115, 156.

During the first seven months of 1911 the National Office received for literature, the sum of $2,871.21. In the same period in 1913 the amount received was $7,645,26. This does not include the literature sold and given away by the Lyceum and Campaign Departments.

To Locals of the Socialist Party.

Dear Comrades—You are hereby called upon to contribute funds for the purpose of assisting the Brotherhood of Timber Workers to win the strike. The following extracts from letters from Jay Smith, Secretary of the Brotherhood, will acquaint you with the situation:

"For years the Southern Forest and Lumber Workers have been ground down until today they are practically in a state of peonage, a condition that will grow much worse if we lose this fight, while, if we win, hope will flame up in the hearts of the Southern mine and other workers and the entire labor movement will be benefited, for a fighting army will have gained a foothold in the heart of the enemey's country. That you may have some idea of the conditions we are fighting against: We are forced to labor ten to twelve hours a day under the most killing conditions, while our average minimum wage, including skilled and unskilled will not exceed $1.50 per day. In many places thousands of workers are toiling twelve hours a day for the princely income of $1.35 per day.

"On top of this infamous wage, we are forced to pay for all sorts, kinds and breeds of graft, such as premiums for so-called accidental insurance, fees for imaginary fees to support alleged doctors, and then to pay for all medicines at outrageous prices and to pay whenever we are graciously sent to a public hospital. Then we are forced under the time check system, with paydays a month or more apart, to trade in the company stores, where the prices would shame the soul of Shylock, or to have our checks discounted as much as ten to twenty per cent by outside merchants, many of whom are, we believe, secretly working with the local managers and superintendents of the lumber companies. Some companies actually have the gall to force the men to pay 'exchange' on their own bank checks when cased by their cashiers.

"All civil rights have already been or rapidly are being taken away from us, white as well as colored, the local 'Democratic' authorities considerately deputising any gunmen nominated by the Lumber Trust for this purpose, so that now we are fighting with our backs literally to the wall, and you must help us or we will lose.

"Knowing our extreme poverty, the Lumber Trust is counting mainly on starvation to whip us back into the mills and forests and what we appeal to you for in this great hour of need is for funds to keep our forces on the ground until the fight is won, for we have the MEN—all we need is supplies."

Contributions should be sent to John M. Work, National Secretary, 111 North Market Street, Chicago.

SOCIALISM—THE YOUNG MAN'S CHANCE.

By A. Fred Bindler.

"The young man," says Ralph Waldo Emerson, "on entering life finds the way to lucrative employment blocked with abuses. The ways to trade have grown selfish to the borders of theft and supple to the borders (if not beyond the borders) of fraud. A tender and intelligent conscience is a disqualification for success."

Young man, don't you think there is something wrong with a system that makes common honesty and success an incompatible condition?

Don't you think it is about time to change a social order that says to every young man at the threshold of life: "Young man, get the money; get it honestly if you can, but get the money."

If you believe you are entitled to a real chance to make good in the very broadest and best sense of the term, and believe that other young men coming after you are also entitled to an opportunity, why not do your share NOW to bring about the new day?

The Socialist Party needs you—you need the Socialist Party.

Socialism will make it possible for every family to own a home free of indebtedness. How many of you are privileged to now?

OUR CAMPAIGN MANAGER.

By John Spargo.

Anent the present movement to recall our Campaign Manager, I have two questions to ask:

First: Could the National Convention have chosen a man better qualified for the work?

Second: If we remove Comrade Barnes can we replace him by anyone equally well fitted for the position?

Personally, I feel that honesty compels a negative answer to both questions.

Therefore, I voted for Comrade Barnes and shall vote against his removal. I place personal considerations aside, and consider only the well-being of the party.

There are other men as able as Comrade Barnes. There may be some more able than he is. I do not know them, but I can well believe such Comrades exist. But Comrade Barnes in addition to his ability, has the special knowledge which he acquired at National Secretary for five years. No other living man has that experience. And in running the campaign that means a great deal.

The surest way to damage the campaign is to recall the present Campaign Manager. Among those who would recall him, are many who do not think of this. There are thousands who do not desire this campaign to be in any way imparted, shouting, nevertheless, for the recall of Barnes.

"Evil is wrought by want of thought, as well as want of heart."

But, I am morally certain that many DO want to injure the campaign. They are carrying on "Sabotage" within the party.

That is, they want to obstruct the party's progress. It is their way of opposing the political Socialist movement, in which they do not believe.

Men who best know Comrade Barnes are most in favor of keeping him in the party's service.

His Comrades in Philadelphia elected him to the State Convention. His Comrades in Pennsylvania elected him to the National Convention. They are not moral perverts or "Free Lovers." They know the worth of the man.

In five years Comrade Barnes must have handled a million dollars of party funds. His accounts were audited both by ordinary party members and by expert accountants employed by the party. NEVER WAS A PENNY MISSED.

After a full year of campaigning AGAINST him, during which time his enemies used every dirty story they could gather against him, Barnes was elected delegate to the American Federation of Labor by his Comrades of the Cigarmaker's Union. Gompers and his crowd tried hard to defeat Barnes, but in vain. And, remember, the cigarmakers who voted for Barnes knew his fine record as a faithful worker in the union.

Lately, since this new attack upon him, Barnes, living in Chicago, serving the party, and leaving his enemies a clear field, has been elected by the cigarmakers of Philadelphia, his home town, by the highest vote, one of their three delegates to a National convention of the union.

And Barnes has been their servant for years. He has handled many hundreds of thousands of dollars of their money. I have seen him at work for them, alike in strikes and peaceful times.

If ever he had been found dishonest or incapable the members of the union would not have chosen him.

At least, I believe that. I am compelled to believe that, because I believe in my class.

His removal would be a misfortune.

Let us sweep the obstructions aside!

Let us bury the conspiracy of cowardice in an avalanche of votes demanding the retention of a faithful servant!

LET'S HAVE IT OUT.

By J. O. Bentall.

Now let's have it out, and don't fool any longer.

We own the earth. We—the Interests, Trusts, Jonnies, Rockies, Pierponts, Hills, Andies,—a bunch of us.

Never mind how We got it. It's ours now and We are going to keep it if We can.

The people are after it, are they? Well, the people can't have it if We can help it.

We have hung on pretty well so far, have We not? And We have done it by the very consent and good will of the people.

It's because we have fooled the people, of course. We have fooled the people into going to war for US and fighting for US and shooting each other down for US and dying for US.

That was easy.

For, you see, We own the press. We have to own that so We can tell the people what we want them to do. And they do it.

Oh, the dear people! How dear they are! Although we get them very cheap.

All right then. To hold the earth—the mines, the mills, the factories, the means of life, the necessities, luxuries and comforts of life—We must have the legislatures, the governor, Congress, the President, courts, mayors, city councils—in short, We must have the government in Our own hands.

And that is easy. The dear people vote so nicely for Our candidates. Just hear them shout and holler for Our officials.

Of course, once in a while they get restless and tired. We skin them pretty deep and they rebel now and then.

But We fix that all right.

For some time, We had only one big party. It worked fine until we got too heavy on the backs of the slaves—both black and white.

Then We added another party, and so far it has worked like a charm.

When we have a Republican party in the harness We skin the workers just as before. When they get weary We take our press and holler against the Republican party and blame that party for hard times and bad conditions. Then We take the same press and begin to boost the other party. We tell the fool wage slaves that the Democrat party is the real thing. We boast of Jefferson and Jackson and Bryan, and get the workers all excited about the Democrat party. Then We put up fine fellows for President and governor and the dear people vote for them.

And We keep on skinning and skinning till the slaves won't stand it any longer.

Then We change over to the Republican party again. We talk it up. We boost it as the party of prosperity, the party of Lincoln, McKinley, and Roosevelt, the party of the full dinner pail, the party of protective tariff—that protects US, of course. What else is the tariff for?

And the slaves bite again. The vote for Our Republican candidates and they think they will get prosperity.

We have kept this up for many, many years. The trick has worked fine.

But now the horrid Socialists are in the field. They tell the workers of Our game and show them how We own both the Republican and Democrat parties. The workers are beginning to give signs of suspicion.

But we got another card to play. We are not through yet. We can fool the people another stunt all right.

So now we are fixing up a third party. We had the Democrats and the Republicans make an awful fuss at their convention. Then We scolded them in Our press just as if We had been serious. That makes a fine preparation for Our new party.

We better call that the "Progressive Party." That sounds good, and the dear people won't catch on for some time.

We are using Our press to boost the Teddy progressive ME party. Teddy is Our man. He is the best stoolpigeon We ever had. He stands without being tied.

And we slam the "high cost of living." It sounds good.

Now watch the fool voters flock to Teddy. He is the kingpin in Our big wagon.

He will skin the slaves after they have voted for Our candidates! Gee! We will just blister their backs and get the coin out of them.

Then, when they get more and more restless and hungry, we will fool them back to the good old parties again.

The only thing we fear is the horrid Socialist party. It is getting awfully big and strong. It has a number of daily papers, a lot of weekly and monthly papers and organizers and agitators by the thousands.

The worst of it is that the Socialists ask the people to read and think for themselves. We can't cope with that, for OUR ONLY SAFETY LIES IN THE IGNORANCE of the workers. If the workers get wise and think enough to take over the government, then they will soon take over the whole earth and our Kingdom will fall.

For the workers have the votes and the power and We have not. We are in pretty bad shape if the slaves should wake up.

By all means, We must not tell them that We, the big trusts, own both the Republican and the Democrat parties and that We own the progressives and Teddy and Bryan and that whole crowd. It would not be good policy.

Keep the workers in ignorance. Keep the workers fighting among themselves over our political parties. Keep them divided. Keep them busy with foolish differences. That's our game.

So We will go on for some time yet and, through our old parties and progressive parties, through our courts and high officials, skin the workers after we have foiled them to vote for us.

We fear only one thing—INTELLIGENCE. For when the workers become intelligent, they will unite in the political field and the industrial field and drive Us out of both and capture the government and the industries for themselves.

That's what we fear. We fear the intelligent worker. They will vote the Socialist ticket. It scares us.

THE SOCIALIST PLATFORM

Adopted by National Convention at Indianapolis, May 17, 1912

The Socialist Party of the United States declares that the capitalist system has outgrown its historical function and has become utterly incapable of meeting the problems confronting society. We denounce this outgrown system as incompetent and corrupt and the source of unspeakable misery and suffering to the whole working class.

Under this system the industrial equipment of the nation has passed into the absolute control of a plutocracy which exacts an annual tribute of millions of dollars from the producers. Unafraid of any organized resistance, it stretches out its greedy hands over the still undeveloped resources of the nation—the land, the mines, the forests and the water powers of every state in the Union.

In spite of the multiplication of labor-saving machines and improved methods in industry, which cheapen the cost of production, the share of the producers grows ever less, and the prices of all the necessities of life steadily increase. The boasted prosperity of this nation is for the owning class alone. To the rest it means only greater hardship and misery. The high cost of living is felt in every home. Millions of wage-workers have seen the purchasing power of their wages decrease until life has become a desperate battle for mere existence.

Multitudes of unemployed walk the streets of our cities or trudge from state to state awaiting the will of the masters to move the wheels of industry.

The farmers in every state are plundered by the increasing prices exacted for tools and machinery and by extortionate rent, freight rates and storage charges.

Capitalist concentration is mercilessly crushing the class of small business men and driving its members into the ranks of propertyless wage workers. The overwhelming majority of the people of America are being forced under a yoke of bondage by this soulless industrial despotism.

It is this capitalist system that is responsible for the increasing burden of armaments, the poverty, slums, child labor, most of the insanity, crime and prostitution, and much of the disease that afflicts mankind.

Under this system the working class is exposed to poisonous conditions, to frightful and needless perils of life and limb, is walled around with court decisions, injunctions and unjust laws, and is preyed upon incessantly for the benefit of the controlling oligarchy of wealth. Under it also the children of the working class are doomed to ignorance, drudging toil and darkened lives.

In the face of these evils, so manifest that all thoughtful observers are appalled at them, the legislative representatives of the Republican, Democratic and all reform parties remain the faithful servants of the oppressors. Measures designed to secure to the wage earners of this nation as humane and just treatment as is already enjoyed by the wage earners of all other civilized nations have been smothered in committee without debate, and laws ostensibly designed to bring relief to the farmers and general consumers are juggled and transformed into instruments for the exaction of further tribute. The growing unrest under oppression has driven these two old parties to the enactment of a variety of regulative measures, none of which has limited in any appreciable degree the power of the plutocracy, and some of which have been perverted into means for increasing that power. Anti-trust laws, railroad restrictions and regulations, with the prosecutions, indictments and investigations based upon such legislation, have proved to be utterly futile and ridiculous.

Nor has this plutocracy been seriously restrained or even threatened by any Republican or Democratic executive. It has continued to grow in power and insolence alike under the administrations of Cleveland, McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft.

In addition to this legislative juggling and this executive connivance, the courts of America have sanctioned and strengthened the hold of this plutocracy as the Dred Scott and other decisions strengthned the slave power before the civil war.

We declare, therefore, that the longer sufferance of these conditions is impossible, and we purpose to end them all. We declare them to be the product of the present system in which industry is carried on for private greed, instead of for the welfare of society. We declare, furthermore, that for these evils there will be and can be no remedy and no substantial relief except through Socialism, under which industry will be carried on for the common good and every worker receive the full social value of the wealth he creates.

Society is divided into warring groups and classes, based upon material interests. Fundamentally, this struggle is a conflict between the two main classes, one of which, the capitalist class, owns the means of production, and the other, the working class, must use these means of production on terms dictated by the owners.

The capitalist class, though few in number, absolutely controls the government—legislative, executive and judicial. This class owns the machinery of gathering and disseminating news through its organized press. It subsidizes seats of learning—the colleges and schools—and even religious and moral agencies. It has also the added prestige which established customs give to any order of society, right or wrong.

The working class, which includes all those who are forced to work for a living, whether by hand or brain, in shop, mine or on the soil, vastly outnumbers the capitalist class. Lacking effective organization and class solidarity, this class is unable to enforce its will. Given such class solidarity and effective organization, the workers will have the power to make all laws and control of industry in their own interest.

All political parties are the expression of economic and class interests. All other parties than the Socialist party represent one or another group of the ruling capitalist class. Their political conflicts reflect merely superficial rivalries between competing capitalist groups. However they result, these conflicts have no issue of real value to the workers. Whether the Democrats or Republicans win politically, it is the capitalist class that is victorious economically.

The Socialist party is the political expression of the economic interests of the workers. Its defeats have been their defeats and its victories their victories. It is a party founded on the science and laws of social development. It proposes that, since all social necessities today are socially produced, the means of their production and distribution shall be socially owned and democratically controlled.

In the face of the economic and political aggressions of the capitalist class, the only reliance left the workers is that of their economic organizations and their political power. By the intelligent and class conscious use of these they may resist successfully the capitalist class, break the fetters of wage slavery, and fit themselves for the future society, which is to displace the capitalist system. The Socialist party appreciates the full significance of class organization and urges the wage earners, the working farmers and all other useful workers everywhere to organize for economic and political action, and we pledge ourselves to support the toilers of the fields as well as those in the shops, factories and mines of the nation in their struggles for economic justice.

In the defeat or victory of the working class party in this new struggle for freedom lies the defeat or triumph of the common people of all economic groups, as well as the failure or the triumph of popular government. Thus the Socialist party is the party of the present-day revolution, which marks the transition from economic individualism to Socialism, from wage slavery to free co-operation, from capitalist oligarchy to industrial democracy.

As measures calculated to strengthen the working class in its fight for the realization of its ultimate aim, the co-operative commonwealth, and, to increase its power of resistance against capitalist oppression, we advocate and pledge ourselves and our elected officers to the following program:

1. The collective ownership and democratic management of railroads, wire and wireless telegraphs and telephones, express services, steamboat lines and all other social means of transportation and communication and of all large-scale industries.

2. The immediate acquirement by the municipalities, the states or the federal government of all grain elevators, stock yards, storage warehouses and other distributing agencies, in order to reduce the present extortionate cost of living.

3. The extension of the public domain to include mines, quarries, oil wells, forests and water power.

4. The further conservation and development of natural resources for the use and benefit of all the people:
(a) By scientific forestation and timber protection.
(b) By the reclamation of arid and swamp tracts.
(c) By the storage of flood waters and the utilization of water power.
(d) By the stoppage of the present extravagant waste of the soil and of the products of mines and oil wells.
(e) By the development of highway and waterway systems.

5. The collective ownership of land wherever practicable, and, in cases where such ownership is impracticable, the appropriation by taxation of the annual rental value of all land held for speculation.

6. The collective ownership and democratic management of the banking and currency system.

The immediate government relief of the unemployed by the extension of all useful public works. All persons employed on such works to be engaged directly by the government under a work-day of not more than eight hours and at not less than the prevailing union wages. The government also to establish employment bureaus; to lend money to states and municipalities without interest for the purpose of carrying on public works, and to take such other measures within its power as will lessen the widespread misery of the workers caused by the misrule of the capitalist class.

The conservation of human resources, particularly of the lives and well-being of the workers and their families:

1. By shortening the workday in keeping with the increased productiveness of machinery.

2. By securing to every worker a rest period of not less than a day and a half in each week.

3. By securing a more effective inspection of workshops, factories and mines.

4. By forbidding the employment of children under 16 years of age.

5. By the co-operative organization of industries in federal penitentiaries and workshops for the benefit of convicts and their dependents.

6. By forbidding the interstate transportation of the products of child labor, of convict labor and of all uninspected factories and mines.

7. By abolishing the profit system in government work and substituting either the direct hire of labor or the awarding of contracts to co-operative groups of workers.

8. By establishing minimum wage scales.

9. By abolishing official charity and substituting a non-contributory sytem of old-age pensions, a general system of insurance by the state of all its members against unemployment and invalidism and a system of compulsory insurance by employers of their workers, without cost to the latter, against industrial diseases, accidents and death.

Political Demands.

1. The absolute freedom of press, speech and assemblage.

2. The adoption of a graduated income tax, the increase of the rates of the present corporation tax and the extension of inheritance taxes, graduated in proportion to the value of the estate and to nearness of kin—the proceeds of these taxes to be employed in the socialization of industry.

3. The abolition of the monopoly ownership of patents and the substitution of collective ownership, with direct rewards to inventors by premiums or royalties.

4. Unrestricted and equal suffrage for men and women.

5. The adoption of the initiative, referendum and recall and of proportional representation, nationally as well as locally.

6. The abolition of the senate and of the veto power of the president.

7. The election of the president and the vice president by direct vote of the people.

8. The abolition of the power usurped by the Supreme Court of the United States to pass upon the constitutionality of the legislation enacted by Congress. National laws to be repealed only by act of Congress or by a referendum vote of the whole people.

9. The abolition of the present restrictions upon the amendment of the constitution, so that that instrument may be made amendable by a majority of the voters in a majority of the states.

10. The granting of the right of suffrage in the District of Columbia, with representation in Congress and a democratic form of municipal government for purely local affair.

11. The extension of democratic government to all United States territory.

12. The enactment of further measures for general education and particularly for vocational education in useful pursuits. The bureau of education to be made a department.

13. The enactment of further measures for the conservation of health. The creation of an independent bureau of health with such restrictions as will secure full liberty for all schools of practice.

14. The separation of the present bureau of labor from the department of commerce and labor and its elevation to the rank of a department.

15. Abolition of all federal district courts and the United States circuit courts of appeals. State courts to have jurisdiction in all cases arising between citizens of the several states and foreign corporations. The election of all judges for short terms.

16. The immediate curbing of the power of the courts to issue injunctions.

17. The free administration of justice.

18. The calling of a convention for the revision of the constitution of the United States.

Such measures of relief as we may be able to force from capitalism are but a preparation of the workers to seize the whole powers of government in order that they may thereby lay hold of the whole system of socialized industry and thus come to their rightful inheritance.

Following is the report of the committee on labor organizations, which was unanimously adopted by the National Socialist convention at Indianapolis:

Political organization and economic organization are alike necessary in the struggle for working class emancipation, working class movement—the Socialist party and the labor unions.

The labor movement of the United States has of recent years made marvelous progress in all directions. It has steadily increased in numbers and has reached trades and industries which were before unorganized. It has in many instancesss concentrated its power and increased its efficiency by the amalgamation of related trades into federations and industrial unions. Many unions have opened their meetings and journals to the discussion of vital social and political problems of the working class, and have repudiated the demoralizing policies represented by the National Civic Federation. The organized workers are rapidly developing an enlightened and militant class-consciousness.

The reality of this progress is attested by the increasing virulence with which the organized capitalists wage their war against the union. The improved economic organization is not a matter of abstract theory, but grows out of the experience of the wage workers in the daily class struggle. Only those actually engaged in the struggle in the various trades and industries can solve the problems of form of organization.

The Socialist party, therefore, reaffirms the position it has always taken with regard to the movement of organized labor:

1. That the party has neither the right nor the desire to interfere in any controversies which may exist within the labor union movement over questions of form of organization or technical methods of action in the industrial struggle, but trusts to the labor organizations themselves to solve these questions.

2. THAT THE SOCIALISTS CALL THE ATTENTION OF THEIR BROTHERS IN THE LABOR UNIONS TO THE VITAL IMPORTANCE OF THE TASK OF ORGANIZING THE UNORGANIZED, ESPECIALLY THE IMMIGRANTS AND THE UNSKILLED LABORERS, WHO STAND IN GREATEST NEED OF ORGANIZED PROTECTION AND WHO WILL CONSTITUTE A GREAT MENACE TO THE PROGRESS AND WELFARE OF ORGANIZED LABOR IF THEY REMAIN NEGLECTED. THE SOCIALIST PARTY WILL EVER BE READY TO CO-OPERATE WITH THE LABOR UNIONS IN THE TASK OF ORGANIZING THE UNORGANIZED WORKERS, AND URGES ALL LABOR ORGANIZATIONS, WHO HAVE NOT ALREADY DONE SO, TO THROW THEIR DOORS WIDE OPEN TO THE WORKERS OF THEIR RESPECTIVE TRADES AND INDUSTRIES, ABOLISHING ALL ONEROUS CONDITIONS OF MEMBERSHIP AND ARTIFICIAL RESTRICTIONS. IN THE FACE OF TH ETREMENDOUS POWERS OF THE AMERICAN CAPITALISTS AND THEIR CLOSE INDUSTRIAL AND POLITICAL UNION, THE WORKERS OF THIS COUNTRY CAN WIN THEIR BATTLES ONLY BY A STRONG CLASS-CONSCIOUSNESS AND CLOSELY UNITED ORGANIZATION ON THE ECONOMIC FIELD, A POWERFUL AND MILITANT PARTY ON THE POLITICAL FIELD AND BY JOINT ATTACK OF BOTH ON THE COMMON ENEMY.

3. That it is the duty of the party to give moral and material support to the labor organizations in all their defensive or aggressive struggles against the capitalist oppression and exploitation, for the protection and extension of the rights of the wage workers and the betterment of their material and social condition.

4. That it is the duty of the members of the Socialist party who are eligible to membership in the unions to join and be active in their respective labor organizations.

OHIO'S NEW CONSTITUTION

By Harry D. Thomas.

The Labor Amendments—No. 17 on the Official Ballot.

Abolishing Contract Prison Labor.

This amendment adds Section 41 to Article 2 of the constitution and will eliminate the element of private profit from the labor of inmates of the prisons and reformatories of Ohio.

It provides for the employment of any State, County or muncipal in the production of things needed by any Statey, County or municipal institution, or in the building of public roads.

The labor movement of Ohio has tried for over 25 years to abolish the contract system of employing prisoners, and this year we finally succeeded in getting rid of it in the Ohio penitentiary and reformatories through the passage of the Wertz bill in 1906. It still exists in most of the workhouses of the State, and city and County officials can only be prevented from continuing the contract system by writing into the constitution by a vote of the people, this section 41. The section also compels the conspicious marking as "Prison Made" of all goods offered for sale in Ohio which have been made in prisons in other States, this particular provision of the section is necessary to make our own laws effective, as there is no use of abolishing the contract system in Ohio prisons and eliminating this cheap competition with the goods manufactured by free labor here, if by doing so we simply open the door for a larger supply of convict made goods to be shipped in here from other States and sold to our citizens without any knowledge on our part that they were manufactured by convicts in some other State penitentiary or workhouse.

The fact that nearly all of the corporations engaged in the busines of manufacturing by contract prison labor are made up of prominent politicians in the dominant political parties, prevented money from being appropriated by the legislature to put the State use plan into effect when a law abolishing it n Ohio was passed in 1894 and it finally resulted in the repeal of the law, and the continuation of the contract system. Following the passage of the Wertz bill in 1906 the same tactics were engaged in by these political corporations and their representatives on the Board of managers of the Ohio penitentiary. Contracts then expiring were a day or two before the law passed renewed for five years and efforts made to get a new penitentiary with sufficient land for the prisoners to raise their own products were frustrated by their influence as was the effort to get sufficient funds to remodel the old pen. Despite the fact that the Wertz law provided for the final abolishment of the contract system in February, 1911, the contractors succeded in continuing the employment of prisoners for one year and a half longer and it wasn't until public clamor against the mistreatment of the prisoners employed by the contractors and a strike of the convicts themselves that we finally succeeded in getting the present management to abolish the contract system in its entirety on June 1st of this year. The present central board of management are so far as the funds at their command will permit, now employing the prisoners in the reconstruction of the old unsanitary buildings used by the contractors into model workshops where the prisoners will be employed in manufacturing articles for the use of the State institutions and about 100 of the prisoners are employed on the State farm, raising the necessary food products for their own use.

Voting this section into the constitution will guarantee the final abolishment of the contract system from every penal institution in the State, with no possibility of its return except by a vote of the people, it will permit of adding to the Wertz law such wise legislation as is best calculated to properly protect society and to provide under humane discipline and restraint adequate punishment for the offender, the obtaining of a rightful portion of the prisoners' earnings for his dependent family, and the possible rehabilitation of the prisoner into an upright, honorable citizen.

Labor's 25-year fight to abolish the inhuman contract system in Ohio will be over if a majority of the electors vote for this amendment, and every effort possible should be made by the Comrades to secure its adoption.

Number 28 on the Official Ballot
Contempt Proceedings and Injunctions.

"Laws may be passed, prescribing rules and regulations for the conduct of cases and business in the courts of the State, regulating proceedings in contempt, and limiting the power to punish for contempt. No order of injunction shall issue in any controversy involving the employment of labor, except to preserve physical property from injury or destruction; and all persons charged on contempt proceedings with the violation of an injunction issued in such controversies shall, upon demand, be granted a trial by jury as in criminal cases."

Ohio has the unenviable reputation of being one of the first States in the Union in which the injunction was used in connection wth labor disputes, the judge that issued it, in, in the celebration Ann Arbor R. R. strike, now occupies the highest executive office in the nation, has been nominated for another four year term to that official position, and while there does not appear to be much danger of his desires for another term being realized, the fact that he was elected at all shows evidence of how soon labor forgets, despite the fact that following this first decision, the abuses heaped on labor by the process of injunctions, interfered with the workers, and aided the corporations in every large and most of the smaller strikes that have occurred since. Gene Debs was sent to Woodstock jail for six months by the injunction route during the famous A. R. U. strike, the infamous Judge Hanford that Victor Berger forced to resign out in Seattle, gained most of his notoriety by the injunctions he issued against labor.

Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison have just been sentenced from one and one-half years to six months in jail by Judge Wright for contempt in the injunction he issued against them and all labor unions in the "Buck Stove Range" case and numerous cases could be mentioned here in Ohio, where these injunction proceedings have been used to defeat our efforts to get better wages, shorter hours, and other improved conditions for those who labor.

This amendment provides that no injunction shall be issued in labor disputes except to protect physical property, and persons charged with contempt shall be granted a trial by jury as in other cases. The opportunity for the laboring people of this State to put a stop to this injunction abuse is by voting this amendment into the constitution, and every Comrade in the State should aid in ridding the State of injunctions and contempt proceedings in labor disputes.

TIM HOGAN WANTS TO OUST PENNA R. R. CO.

It's Coming On Towards Election, and Such Action is the Dope.

Tim Hogan, Attorney General of Ohio, is after the Pennsylvania R. R., with vengeance in his heart. He brought suit to oust the company from the State because the road will not run Sunday excursions. Just what he would do is stated in a local daily paper:

"If the State should win the ouster suit to be brought against the Pennsylvania Railroad for its alleged action of entering into an agreement with other roads to discontinue one-day excursion business, the court, if it desired to go to extremes, could so effectually stop the company from doing business that it could not so much as turn a wheel in this State. Of course, no such drastic decision would be rendered. But, under the law, the court could, beyond doubt, exercise such power."

The Pennsy is still running and will continue to run, despite Tim and his dire threats. The company seems willing also, to run a few Sunday excursions. It's wonderful how busy the authorities get just before election in their desire to curb the great corporations, but it never hurts the corporations any.

OHIO SOCIALIST PLATFORM

Approved by Party Referendum

We, the Socialist Party of Ohio in convention assembled, reaffirm our allegiance to the national platform of the Socialist Party of America and the principles of International Socialism by demanding the collective and public ownership and the democratic management of all natural resources and the means of wealth production and distribution, We demand for the workers access to the machinery of wealth production and the land at all times and the full value of their toil.

We declare that all government, whether city, state or national, is controlled by and administered in the interest of the economically dominant class—the capitalist class. We emphasize the growing power of the capitalist class, making it more and more difficult for the workers to gain a livelihood, and the continuous struggle on the part of the workers, forcing from capitalism more and more of its labor product, and realizing that with the economic growth of industries into the mammoth trust stage, thereby being brought more and more into the control of a few men; the workers to further protect and prepare themselves for their historic mission, the emancipation from wage-slavery, we, the Socialist Party, indorse and recommend to the workers the industrial form of organization as a means to protect their economic and political rights, and with their ballots elect representatives of their own class into public office. We maintain that political support of capitalist parties on the part of the workers, simply results in greater power for the capitalist class.

The Socialist Party is the party of the working class, able and competent to represent the interests of the producers on the political field. The resignation of each and every Socialist candidate on the Socialist ticket is in the hands of the Socialist organization, so that when elected to office, if he or she does not fulfill the pledges made previous to election his or her resignation is demanded.

As measures that will strengthen the position of the workers in the struggle against capitalism, we demand:

First—Equal suffrage for men and women.

Second—The Initiative and Referendum, Proportional Representation and the Right of Recall.

Third—Compulsory Insurance against accident and death, the cost to be borne by the employers.

Fourth—That the jurisdiction of the juvenile courts be so corrected, modified and restricted that delinquent girls brought before such courts be humanely treated from a corrective and modern viewpoint, and that such delinquents be not condemned to practical and demoralising imprisonment in sectarian institutions, wherein sweatshops, laundries and other industries are conducted for profit, and that the state immediately furnish modern and humane and industrial homes for the mental and moral education and the upliftment of such unfortunates.

Fifth—The abolishing of all exemptions from taxation of taxable property, including church property, convents, charity hospitals, etc., heretofore exempted from their just burden of taxation.

Sixth—We recognize that the question of race superiority injected into the minds of the white wage-worker against the negro and other races is only a tactical method used by the capitalist class to keep the workers divided on the economic field. We, therefore, call upon the negro workers and those of other races, to unite with the Socialist Party on the political field as the only avenue of abolishing wage slavery, and the only solution of the race question.

Seventh—Realizing that white slavery and prostitution is a direct result of economic exploitation of female labor, we insist that the women workers be protected by the state against low wages and long hours of labor.

Resolutions.

Resolved, That this convention instruct Victor L. Berger to introduce a bill into Congress to prevent the unnecessary loss of life on sea-going ships as was the case in the Titanic disaster.

Whereas, The splendid and victorious struggle of our 35,000 fellow-workers at Lawrence, Mass., has resulted not only in raising their own wages, but also those of 300,000 shamefully underpaid slaves in the textile industries; and,

Whereas, The brutal capitalist class of the State of Massachusetts determined at any cost and at all hazards to crush the rising revolt of the workers and has therefore, caused the indictment and arrest of our comrade, Wm. D. Haywood and other, notwithstanding the fact that directed by these leaders, the workers of Lawrence conducted themselves with great restraint and caution; therefore,

Be it Resolved by the Socialist Party of Ohio in convention assembled, That we pledge ourselves to support the workers of Lawrence in their continued struggle and that we declare our confidence in Comrade William D. Haywood and heartily indorse his activity in behalf of the workers of Lawrence.

Whereas, The capitalist class of Lawrence, Mass., has broken its implied pledge to release Ettor and Giovanitti from jail and now propose to persecute these workers.

Therefore, be it Resolved, That we, the delegates of Ohio, in convention assembled, do express our earnest protest against the unlawful and brutal imprisonment of those workers on the ridiculous charge of accessory before the fact of the murder of a comrade in the struggle for better conditions.

We demand for them a fair and immediate trial and pledge both moral and financial support in the efforts to gain their release.

Whereas, It is of great importance to the Socialist movement that the children of Socialist families be kept within the sphere of Socialist thought and influence, while being given opportunity for wholesome recreation and enjoyment; therefore,

Be it Resolved by the twelfth annual convention of the Socialist Party of Ohio, That the organization of young people's Socialist leagues be approved and encouraged, and that the attention of the various locals of the State be drawn to this matter through the State Bulletin.

Whereas, The craft union movement has been largely rendered impotent because of its lack of solidity and its antiquated methods.

Whereas, Industrial progress has almost universally substituted large scale production for small scale production; and,

Whereas, The principles of industrial unionism are now made absolutely necessary for the protection and advancement of the working class;

Tehrefore, be it Resolved, by the Socialist Party of Ohio in convention assembled, That the membership of the party in this State be urged to recommend to the working class the principles of industrial unionism without the indorsement of any particular national organization.

ISSUE IS CLEARLY SHOWN—RED OR BLACK

Some More Facts as to State Office Situation Will Follow Next Week.

If the referendum to recall the S. E. C. reaches your Local, DO NOT VOTE until you read the sworn statements that will appear in our next week's issue. These sworn statements will be enough to convince any loyal, class conscious Socialist that the S. E. C. should be recalled and Socialists placed in charge of state affairs. Remember and hold your vote until you know the truth as sworn to by Comrades.

The issue in this fight is clear and plain. It is Socialism against Anarchy. It is Political Action against Direct Action.

It is Constructivism against Destructism. We will not allow the traitors to muddle the issue. We will fight a clean fight. We will tell the truth, although it hurts. We will use our voice and pen in an attempt to clean out of our executive councils every anarchist, now holding office.

We are in receipt of a circular letter from the state office, (for which state money was used) calling attention to a motion that passed the S. E. C. to make Local Dayton retract the article that appeared in the Miami Valley Socialist in which it stated that the "S. E. C. drops all speakers who favor political action." Nothing is said about the Columbus Socialist, which was the first paper that took the matter up and made the statement that "All speakers dropped favored Political Action."

This paper is fully cognizant of the reasons why they are striking at the "Miami Valley Socialist", and Local Dayton. They are looking for a pretense to revoke the charter of Local Dayton in order that Local Dayton's vote can not be counted on the referendum to Recall.

It is a shame to us—the rank and file of the Socialist Party of Ohio, to think that we have allowed such petty schemers to get into the State office and the councils of our party.

We have received from a loyal Local in Ohio a circular letter being mailed out by Local Toledo in defense of the traitorous actions of the S. E. C. The secretary informs us that the communication was read before the Local, and immediately a motion was made to second the motion of Local Columbus to Recall the S. E. C. and the motion carried. Evidently the circular is doing some good. The circular does not deserve serious consideration excet that the point is raised as to where Local Dayton gets the money to circularize the state, etc. We wish to state that Local Columbus gets more circulars from Local Toledo than from any other Local in the state.

One statement contained in the circular by Margaret Prevey of Akron, requires some consideration. She makes the misstatement that one of the speakers located at Columbus who was up for endorsement was under charges and being tried that same day. Note this, you true and loyal Socialists. Mark it well. No member of Local Columbus has been under charges for over six months. Who is lying in this fight? Shame upon an official of this party who stoops to such depths as to utter a deliberate falsehood in an attempt to cover up the real reason for refusing to indorse speakers, and that reason—because they believe in political action. Bates of Toledo says it was because he only had the indorsement of one Local. Prevy says it was because he was under charges.

Attention is called to the minutes of the S. E. C. in the Bulletin. If enough is not there to convince any Socialist of the truth of our assertions then you lack the proper amount of Gray matter.

Millard was dropped because he asked for a continuous route, according to information secured from the State office. In another section of the minutes he was amongst those who were "objectionable" for speaking in this state. Why is he objectionable? Here's the answer. Millard believes in political action.

Another interesting thing about the minutes of the S. E. C. is that out of a total of 78 motions made in their meetings Margaret Prevy made 38 and Josephine Bates 30, a total of 68 motions, leaving a balance of 30 motions to be made by the other five of the Committee, or an average of 4. Looks to us very much like boss rule, and it is about time that the Socialist Party in this state cleaned house and cleaned it quickly.

The State office in their wild and frantic attempt to whitewash themselves and Josephine Bates, by claiming an error in declaring her elected, will have no effect, as the minutes are proof positive, that these arch conspirators did exactly as this paper claimed they did. Schawe on the floor of Local Columbus attempted to make Comrade Suddick out a liar, in his report of the S. E. C. vote, but Comrade Suddick turned the tables.

COMRADES AWAKE! We can no longer hold up our heads as men and women who believe in Socialism, with such men and women in control of party affairs. Arise as one man, put them out of the trust they have betrayed, and let us have a new deal in party affairs. Let us put men and women in control of state affairs who will stand for Socialism, and not betray us into the hands of the Anarchists. Let every Socialist, who is back in his or her dues pay up in order to get a vote at the referendum to recall. The time is here. The issue is vital, on your vote may depend whether the Socialist Party shall stand for Socialism or Anarchy, for Construction or Destruction. Down with the Blacks.

CLASS CONSCIOUSNESS OR CLASS BRUTALITY.

The wisest thing said at the last National Socialist Convention was by Comrade Barney Berlyn when he asked: "Is 'Hallelujah, I'm a bum' to take the place of the Marsellaise?"

The cheapest sort of a demagogue has arisen in our ranks. Instead of spurring the working class to a higher ideal, he flatters them for their brutality. To these self-appointed leaders, class-brutality is the basis of the movement. The one method is to fight.

Now when it comes to mere "fighting", the ruling class has us beaten in all ages in the art of destruction If there is nothing in our movement except a "fight", we might as well surrender right now. For if we develop nothing but the "fighting" spirit the masters of the bread can soon get us to fighting among ourselves and then everything will be over except the burial.

Class-consciousness makes for class-solidarity. It is the highway to a unified humanity. It is the spiritual leaven at work in the lump. It is calling out the best that is in men at this stage of progress.

Class-brutality rejoices in bunmoss. It is seeking to drive all the finer spirits out of the movement. And in this detestable business the extremes have again met. The so-called "Christian socialists" and the so-called "direct-action socialists" have both put on the war paint and have sallied forth in a warfare of extermination.

Each has lost sight of the finer things. They are fighters and factionalists. All the plain, old-fashioned socialists that keep on fighting capitalism, are laughed to scorn by these Apostles of Brutality. He who will not join a fighting faction is "not clear", "muddled."

Past services count for nothing. One may have been mobbed by capitalistic hoodlums and lodged in jail, but he is not a "fighter" until he puts on the flag of one of these "fighting" journals. Every little "Red" editor has a movement all his own.

But this journalistic tyranny has gone far enough. Some of us will not flatter the brutality of the workers. We want them to demand the finer things. We are going to fight, but we are going to fight brutality and ignorance. And those who braved the perils of an earlier time will not be frightened by any self-appointed saviors now.

F. G. STRICKLAND.

OLD BAKUNIN BLACKS HAVE RESURRECTION

Tactics of Former Days Can Be Plainly Seen in Ohio and Columbus Particularly.

The Socialist Democratic Alliance formed in Geneva in 1868 was the first society with avowedly Anarchist tendencies. The "Alliance" was a union of public societies, as far as possible of autonomous federations such as the Jurassic Bund and like the "International" it was divided into a central committee and national bureau. But together with this division went a secret organization Bakunin, the pronounced enemy of all organizations in theory, created in practice a secret society quite according to the rules of Carbonarism—a hierarchy which was in total contradiction to the anti-authority tendencies of the society. According to the statutes of the "Alliance" three grades were recognized. (1) "The International Brethren", one hundred in number, who formed a kind of sacred college and were to play the leading parts in the soon to be expected, immediate social revolution, with Bakunin at the head. (2) "The Brethren" who were organized by the International Brethren into a national association in every country, but who were allowed to suspect nothing of the international organization. (3) Lastly came the secret international organization, the pendent to the public alliance operating through the permanent Central Committee.

The direct decendants of the Socialist Democratic Alliance are the Syndicalists and the I. W. W. of today. The Blacks are the members of the secret organization within the Socialist Party Organization whose purpose is to capture the organization for the advocacy of the Doctrine of Direct Action and failing that to disrupt it.

An essential feature of the Syndicalist creed is its hostility to majority rule. Syndicalism possesses the happy faculty of making virtues of its necessities. In France, faced with the fact that it is only a minority of a minority, including in its rank at most, 400,000 of the 850,000 union men, who in turn are only about 17 per cent of the whole number of male workers. The Syndicalists proudly assert the rights of the minority to rule, so Democracy, with its majority rule is superstition, installs in power the reactionary and the sluggish, the inert and refractory masses. Syndicalists proclaim the right of conscious and enlightened minority, stewards of the future, to represent the "human zeros" who have not awakened to their opportunities, whether they will or no. A practical application of this doctrine is found in the refusal of the controlling spirits of the Syndicalists to give the larger and more conservative organizations represented the weight to which their numbers entitles them, petty federations with a few score of members counting for as much as great national unions with a score of thousands.

What say you, to a Black Executive Committee within the Socialist Party and of the I. W. W. an organization consisting of one or more members from each state, who are in close touch with the Black Executive Commttee, and a further subdivision of the state; who are in close touch with the Black State and the Black Executive Committee; who are the little Black gods of the Local, that are located in industrial centers, whose duties are to pass on the qualification of members as to their fitness in Direction Action Tactics, in carrying out the orders from above, to see that the Local's finances are dissipated in assisting the Free Speech Fights in different sections of the country, to obstruct the constructive work of the Local by having the speakers who favor Political Action discredited and suppressed, by foisting upon the Local, advocates of Direct Action, by having their members—the Blacks—placed upon the important committees for the purpose of Propagating Direct Action.

Correspondence is carried on between The National Black Executive Committee and The Black State Committees as to Tactics. The orders are then given to the Little Black gods to press on with Iron Heel or to put on the soft pedal if a Tactical blunder has been made.

An important subdivision is the Flying Squadron of the Blacks who are in touch with the National Black Executive Committee the same as the Black State Committee. The members of the Black Flying Squadron may be members of the Socialist Party and are always members of the I. W. W. The Blacks of the Socialist Party carry Kerr publications and the I. W. W. members handle the I. W. W. literature.

They receive instructions where to go and when to leave.

Their duties are to start Free Speech Fights if possible and make the acquaintance of Socialists and start arguments on Direct Action and against Political Action; they also report on the conditions and the Work of the little Black gods.

Note: The State Committeeman is permanent if not displaced by a more active Black in gaining ground on the Political Action groups. If this happens the live wire will receive the important communication without further ceremony, but since they all have a continuous correspondence with the Black Executive Committee they are busy all the time in pushing the work of the Direct Action propaganda.

Note: (2) Members of the Flying Squadron of the Blacks live by grafting on the Socialists and always seek for the little Black gods when they come to town.

Note: (3) The Blacks of all grades up to the Black National Executive Committee must obey the commands of the Black Executive or be dropped from the Black Brotherhood.

RUTHENBERG CALLED AGAIN

The Socialist does hate like Hades to harp upon one string too long, but we have to do it sometimes. Comrade C. E. Ruthenberg of Cleveland, in his labored defense of the S. E. C., published the following:

"The Columbus Socialist, which was the first Socialist paper to take up the matter, quotes a Columbus capitalist paper as the source of its information. A few days after the meeting of the state executive committee ther appared in all parts of th state, in capitalistic papers, the story that certain speakers had been dropped because they did not believe in 'direct action.' It would be interesting to know who gave the capitalistic papers the story and why it was so colored as to create dissension in the Socialist party.

"So far as the two Socialist papers which accepted the story as true are concerned, they simply swallowed a capitalist newspaper lie and helped along the dirty work of these papers." —Last week's Columbus Socialist."

We are compelled agai to call upon Charles E. Ruthenberg, of Cleveland, to retract his statement. HE KNOWS AND HE KNEW WHEN HE ISSUED HIS STATEMENT TO THE SOCIALISTS OF OHIO, THAT THIS PAPER HAD PUBLISHED THE FACTS.

Don't try to dodge Comrade Charlea. You live in Cleveland, and cetain comrades in your city have always claimed to be absolutely infallible. You are not. There are several Socialists outside the sacred precincts of your city who are entitled to be heard. There are some of us who think that a Socialist who resides at Dilles Bottom is as important to the moment as though he had been nominated for governor. He may not have digested Marx or read the International Socialist Review, but he knows what he wants and is going after it. He will know more in a year or two and will be a "Red" but never a "Black."

Let's hear from you Ruthenberg. You see our paper every week, though you nver subscribed. We are listening for your soft and dulcet voice. Don't go back on Jim Henderson who substantiated our statements.

NOTICE

Comrade Frederick G. Strickland, will speak on East 5th Avenue, near High Street, Tuesday Evening, Aug. 20, 1912. The Band will furnish music.

DEB'S GREAT SPEECH AT MILWAUKEE, WIS. GRILLS CAPITALISTS

Shows Up Old Parties in Their True Light—Labor's Triumph

Speaking at Pabst Park, Eugene V. Debs, Socialist candidate for President, addressed the largest crowd ever assembled at a Socialist picnic in Milwaukee. His speech drew cheer after cheer from the audience that jammed the big airdome to suffocation. When he arose to speak he was given an ovation. Introduced by E. T. Melms, Debs, the veteran campaigner and master orator, said:

The existing order of things is breaking down. The great forces underlying society are steadily at work. The old order has had its day and all the signs point to impending change. Society is at once being destroyed and re-created.

The struggle in which we are engaged today is a struggle of economic classes. The supremacy is now held by the capitalist class who are combined in trusts and control the powers of government. The middle class is struggling desperately to hold its ground against the inroads of its trustified and triumphant competitors.

This war between the great capitalists who are organized in trusts and fortified by the powers of government and the smaller capitalists who constitute the middle class, is one of extermination. The fittest, that is to say the most powerful, will survive. This war gives rise to a variety of issues of which the tariff is the principal one, and these issues are defined in the platforms of the Republican and Democratic parties.

War of Classes.

With the war between capitalists for supremacy in their own class and the issues arising from it, the working class have nothing to do, and if they are foolish enough to allow themselves to be drawn into these battles of their masters, as they have so often done in the past, they must continue to suffer the consequences of their folly.

Let us clearly recognize the forces that are undermining both of the old capitalist parties, creating a new issue, and driving the working class into a party of their own to do battle with their oppressors in the struggle for existence.

Parties but express in political terms the economic interests of those who compose them. This is the rule. The Republican party represents the capitalist class, the Democratic party the middle class, and the Socialist party the working class.

There is no fundamental difference between the Republican and Democratic parties. Their principles are identical. They are both capitalist parties and both stand for the capitalist system, and such differences as there are between them involve no principle but are the outgrowth of the conflicting interests of large and small capitalists.

Destruction Faces Old Parties.

The Republican and Democratic parties are alike threatened with destruction. Their day of usefulness is past and they among them who see the handwriting on the wall and call themselves "progressives" and "insurgents" are struggling in vain to adjust these parties to the new conditions.

Broadly speaking, there are but two economic classes and the ultimate struggle will narrow down to two political parties. To the extent that the workers unite in their own party, the Socialist party, the capitalists, large and small, are driven into one and the same party. This has happened already in a number of local instances, notably in the city of Milwaukee. Here there is no longer a Republican or Democratic party. These have merged in the same party and it is a capitalist party, by whatever name it may be known.

Temporarily this united capitalist party, composed of the two old ones, may stem the tide of Socialist advance, but nothing more clearly demonstrates the capitalist class character of the Republican and Democratic parties to their undoing and the undoing of the capitalist system they represent.

The great capitalists are all conservatives; "standpatters"; they have a strangle-hold upon the situation with no intention of relaxing their grip. Taft and Roosevelt are their candidates. It may be objected that Roosevelt is a "progressive." That is mere buncombe. Roosevelt was president almost eight years and his record is known. When he was in office and had the power he did none of the things, nor attempted to do any of the things, he is now talking about so wildly. On the contrary, a more servile functionary to the trusts than Theodore Roosevelt never sat in the presidential chair.

Senator La Follette now makes substantially this charge against Roosevelt but by some strange oversight the senator did not discover that Roosevelt's presidential record was a trust record until after Roosevelt threw him down in the "progressive" scramble for the Republican nomination.

When Senator La Follette supposed he had Roosevelt's backing he pronounced him "the greatest man in the world," and it was only after he fell victim to Roosevelt's duplicity that he made the discovery that Roosevelt had always been the tool of the trusts and the enemy of the people.

Who Furnishes Coin?

There is one infallible test that fixes the status of a political party and its candidates. Who finances them?

With this test applied to Theodore Roosevelt we have no trouble in locating him. He is above all, "a practical man." He was practical in allowing the steel trust to raid the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company; he was practical when he legalized the notorious "Alton Steal"; he was practical when he had Harriman raise $240,000 for his campaign fund, and he is practical now in having the steel trust and the harvester trust, who made an ante-room of the White House when he was President, pour out their slush funds by millions to put him back in the White House and keep him there.

Taft and Roosevelt, and the Republican party, of which they are the candidates, are all financed by the trusts, and is it necessary to add that THE TRUSTS also consist of practical men and that they DO NOT FINANCE A CANDIDATE OR A PARTY THEY DO NOT CONTROL.

Is the man not foolish, to the verge of being feeble-minded, who imagines that great trust magnates such at Perkins, McCormick, and Munsey are flooding the country with Roosevelt money because he is the champion of progressive principles and the friend of the common people!

Dare Not Speak of Cash.

The truth is that if the Bull-Moose candidate dared to permit an itemized publication of his campaign contributions in his present mad and disgraceful pursuit of the Presidency, as he has been so often challenged to do by Senator La Follette, it would paralyze him and scandalize the nation.

Roosevelt must stand upon the record he made when he was President and had the power, and not upon his empty promises as a ranting demagogue and a vote-seeking politician.

For the very reason that the trusts are pouring out their millions to literally buy his nomination and election and force him into the White House for a third term, and if possible for life, the people should rise in their might and repudiate him as they have repudiated a recreant official who betrayed them.

So much for the Republican party, led by Lincoln a half century ago as the party of the people in the struggle for the overthrow of chattel slavery, and now being scuttled by Taft and Roosevelt in base servility to the plutocracy.

The Democratic party, as a rule, is composed of the small capitalists, the only difference being that it represents the minor divisions of the capitalist class. It is true that there are some plutocrats and trust magnates in the Democratic party, but as a rule it is composed of the smaller capitalists who have been worsted by the larger ones and are now demanding that the trusts be destroyed and, in effect, that the laws of industrial evolution be suspended.

The Democratic party, like the Republican party, is financed by the capitalist class. Belmont, Ryan, Roger Sullivan, Taggart and "Hinky Dink" are liberal contributors to its fund. The Tammany organization New York, notorious for its corruption and for its subserviency to the powers that rule in capitalist society, is one of the controlling factors in the Democratic party.

Woodrow Wilson is the candidate of the Democratic party for President. He was seized upon as a "progressive"; as a man who would appeal to the common people, but he never could have been nominated without the votes controlled by Tammany and the "predatory interests" so fiercely denounced in the convention by William Jennings Bryan.

Wilson Satisfactory to Interests.

It is true that Woodrow Wilson was not the first choice of Belmont, Ryan, Murphy and the Tammany corruptionists, but he was nevertheless satisfactory to them or they would not have agreed to his nomination, and since the convention it is quite apparent that Wilson has a working agreement and a perfect understanding with the predatory interests which Bryan sought to scourge from the convention.

In his speech before the delegates denonuncing Ryan, Belmont and Murphy, Bryan solemnly declared that no candidate receiving their votes and the votes of Murphy's "ninety was figures" could have his support. Woodrow Wilson received these votes and without these and other votes controlled by "the interests" he could not have been nominated, and if Bryan now supports him he simply stultifies himself before the American people.

Mr. Wilson is no more the candidate of the working class than is Mr. Taft nor Mr. Roosevelt. Neither one of them has ever been identified with the working class, has never associated with the working class, except when their votes were wanted, or would dare to avow himself the candidate of the working class.

When the recent strikes occurred at Perth Amboy and other industrial centers in New Jersey, Governor Woodrow Wilson ordered the militia out to shoot down the strikers just as Governor Theodore Roosevelt ordered out the soldiers to murder the strikers at Croton Dam, N. Y., for demanding the enforcement of the law against contractors.

Both the Republican and Democratic parties reek with corruption in the servility to the capitalist class, and both are torn with strife in their mad scramble for the spoils of office.

The Democratic party has had little excuse for existence since the Civil war, and its utter impotency to deal with present conditions was made glaringly manifest during its brief lease of power under the Cleveland administratoin. Should this party succeed to national power once more, seething as it is with conflicting elements which are held together by the prospect of official spoils, its career as a national party would be brought to an early close by self-destruction.

Politicians Controlled Convention.

The Republican convention at Chicago and the Democratic convention at Baltimore, were composed of professional politicians, office-holders, office-seekers, capitalists, retainers and swarms of parasites and mercenaries of all descriptions.

There were no workingmen in either convention. They were not fit to be there. All they are fit for is to march in the mud, yell themselves hoarse, and ratify the choice of their masters on election day.

The working class was not represented in the Republican convention at Chicago or the Democratic convention at Baltimore. Those were the political conventions of the capitalist class and the few flattering platform phrases in reference to labor were incorporated for the sole purpose of catching the votes of the working class.

Let the American workers remember that they are not fit to sit as delegates in a Republican or Democratic national convention; that they are not fit to write a Republican or Democratic national platform; that all they are fit for is to elect the the candidates of their masters to office so that when they go out on strike against starvation they may be shot dead in their tracks as the reward of their servility to their masters and their treason to themselves.

The vital issue before the country and the world is not touched, nor even mentioned, in the Republican or Democratic platforms. Wage-slavery under capitalism, the legalized robbery of the workers of what is produced by their labor, is the fundamental crime against modern humanity, but there is no room for the mention of this vital fact, this living issue in the platform of the Republican and Democratic parties. They continue to babble about the tariff and other inconsequential matters to obscure the real issue and wheedle the workers into voting them into power once more.

These parties have been in power all these years; why have they not settled the tariff and the currency and such other matters as make up their platform pledges?

While the Republican convention was in session at Chicago and while the Democratic convention was in sessin at Baltimore, the Republican and Democratic Congress was also in session at Washington. These parties already have the power to make good their promises, then why do they not exercise that power to redeem their pledges and afford relief to the people?

Platforms of Empty Promises.

In other words, why do not the Republican and Democratic parties perform at Washington instead of promising at Chicago and Baltimore? How many more years of power do they require to demonstrate that they are the parties of the capitalist class and that they never intend to legislate in the interest of the working class, or provide relief for the suffering people?

The Republican and Democratic platforms are filled with empty platitudes and meaningless phrases, but they are discreetly silent about the millions of unemployed, about the starvation wages of factory slaves, about the women and children who are crushed, debased, and slowly tortured to death by the moloch of capitalism, about the white slave traffic, about the bitter poverty of the masses and their hopeless future, and about every other vital question which is worthy of an instant's consideration by any intelligent human being.

In contrast with these impotent, corrupt and senile capitalist parties, without principles and without ideals, stands the virile young working class party, the International Socialist party of the world. The convention which nominated its candidates and wrote its platform at Indianapolis was a working class convention.

The Socialist party is the only party which honestly represents the working class in this campaign and the only party that has a moral right to appeal to the allegiance and support of the workers and producers of the nation.

OHIO'S NEW CONSTITUTION

By Harry D. Thomas.

Judicial Reform—No. 1 on the Official Ballot.

This amendment changes Section 8 of Article 1, by adding thereto the words, "Except that in civil cases, laws may be passed to authorise the rendering of a verdict in the concurrence of not less than three-fourths of a jury."

The question naturally arises in every one's mind as to whether a three-fourths vote should be rendered as the judgment of a jury.

Every progressive citizen will agree that it is unfair for one stubborn or dishonest juror to hold up a jury of twelve men and thereby defeat justice. It puts unwarranted power in the hands of one man. It requires only a majority vote to enact State or federal laws. Public officers are elected by a majority vote. Even constitutions are changed by a two-thirds vote. In view of all this, why is not a three fourths vote by a jury a fair decision and a square deal for everybody.

Every judge and every lawyer in Ohio knows that some corporations try to buy the jury. This is especially true in personal injury cases where the whole future of cripples, of widows and orphans is at stake. They only need one juror to beat a cripple and often they are successful. The proposed law will wipe out this injustice very effectively.

At the recent annual meeting of the lawyers of Ohio, every lawyer who spoke and voted against endorsing this proposal was the hired man of some corporation. Some well-known corporation judges were also against it. The rule requiring the unanimous verdict of the jury before the poor man can secure justice results very often in an injustice. Now is the time and the chance to bury it for the three-fourths rule, a truly progressive measure.

No. 19 on the Official Ballot—Change in Judicial System.

This amendment changes Section 1 and 2 of Article 4.

"Under the existing judicial system which this amendment proposes to change, an action first tried in the Court of Common Pleas, is carried thence to the Circuit Court for review and thence to the Supreme Court for the same purpose, and either of the two courts may reverse the judgment and send it all back to the beginning in the Court of Common Pleas. The amendment is to shorten that process by converting the Circuit Court into a court of appeals of three judges, and providing that its judgment in ordinary cases shall be final. This reduces proceedings to "one trial and one review," and eliminates the expensive proceeding in the Supreme Court with its long delay due to the overcrowded condition of the docket of that court, and will leave that high tribunal with work enough to occupy its time fairly, and permit it to dispose of its cases with greater promptness. A chief justice is added to the Supreme Court with power to direct the movements of the judges of the inferior courts so as to place them where they are most needed. No other new judge of any sort is created by this amendment and no one is legislated out of office. Cases involving constitutional questions may be carried directly from the court of appeals to the Supreme Court, but the latter cannot reverse the former and hold a statute unconstitutional if more than one of its judges object, but a judgment of the court below holding a statute unconstitutional, may be affirmed by a majority of the Supreme Court. The latter may also cause any case of public or great general interest to be certified up to it from the court of appeals, for final decision. This is a practice akin to that which prevails in the Supreme Court of the United States and in fact the system proposed is modeled upon the federal system which has been operating with much success for the past twenty years.

For more than a century there has been so much complaint from the working people who have found it necessary to go into court to try out a personal injury or other case, about the delays that have been caused by the various methods of appealing from one court to the other, that should make this amendment particularly popular to them as a means of securing justice within a reasonable period of time, and the fact that this plan provides for one trial and one review and that only two courts instead of three will have the chance to pass on the majority of the cases, will make it possible to secure justice within a period of one year in most cases that may be taken up, and every Comrade should vote for the adoption of this amendment.

No. 20 on the Official Ballot—A Judge of the Common Pleas for Each County in the State.

This amendment changes Sections 5, 7, 12, and 15 of Article 4, and gives to each county in the State a Common Pleas Judge. In counties of less than sixty thousand population the Probate and Common Pleas Courts may be united.

In twenty-two of the smaller counties of the State a number of the counties are joined together at the present time to make an election district for the election of Common Pleas Judge and the judge goes from one county seat to another holding court for short periods of time in each county; this method has been the cause of unnecessary delay in the trial of cases, as every one had to wait the convenience of the judge, who as a rule held court in just what county and at times that suited him best, instead of trying to serve the public. The combining of the Probate and Common Pleas Courts will make an additional cost of a Common Pleas Court for each county, infinitely small, the advantage gained by the prompt hearing of cases will more than offset this cost, and every Comrade can vote for No. 20.

No. 21 on the Official Ballot—Abolition of Justices of the Peace in Certain Cities.

This amendment changes Section 9 of Article 4, by prohibiting the election of Justice of the Peace in cities that have municipal courts.

At the present time Cleveland is the only city in the State which has municipal courts, so that for the present this amendment will affect in that city only. Cleveland, like all the other towns and cities in the State, are now and always will be, overrun by Justice Courts established by Justices of Peace who are elected in townships outside of the city and move into the city because of the profitable business they derive from becoming collecting agencies for the installment and other business houses who make a business of holding men up to buy goods and then garnisheeing their wages when they are hard up. These installment houses and the Retail Grocers' Associations of the State are doing everything possible to get this amendment defeated and it's up to our Comrades to get out the workers' vote to secure its adoption.

THE INTERNATIONAL TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION

Washington.—The officers of the International Typographical Union have distributed their reports to the membership for its consideration previous to the fifty eighth convention, which will be held at Cleveland, August 13 to 17. These reports are complete in every detail and consist of a volume of 250 pages. In a previous news letter some details as to the economic progress of the Typographical Union were given, and from this report the following facts are gleaned, an analytical perusal of which will convince the reader that the Typographical Union is one of the great American trade unions of which the organized workers are justly proud.

During the fiscal year just closed, 118 agreements were made with the employers which carried a raise in wages. In twenty other instances, hours were reduced for hand and machine compositors varying from one-half an hour to six hours per week, the average reduction being two and seven-tenths hours per week on all classes of work. Taking the membership of the unions for whom these reductions in hours were affected, the aggregate a saving in time of 100,824 hours per week. The mortuary receipts for the year were $88,224, the number of deaths were 655, the death benefit totaling during the year $74,698. One of the greatest benefits accruing to the members of the Typographical Union is the conservation of health, which is being made obligatory upon all employers. The battle by this organization against tuberculosis has resulted in the increase of almost eight years in the average life of the members.

In 1906 the average at death was forty-one and one-quarter years, and in 1911 was forty-nine and one-eighth years. The balance in the old age pension fund June 1, 1912, was $57,250. The increase in that fund during the year was $102,459. Since the establishment of this fund 1,341 applications for pensions have been filed; during the last fiscal year 304 were approved and eleven disapproved. Thirty-eight applications were received from members over seventy years of age.

On May 31, there were 1,038 on the pension roll, being an increase of 328 during the year.

At the Union Printers' Home at Colorado Springs 127 members are guests at the home, the total number admitted to the home since its opening being 1,312.

Carl Legien, president of the Federated Trades Unions of Germany, who with his secretary, was a recent visitor at the international offices, gave this tribute to the printers. Said Mr. Legien: "The offices of the International Typographical Union were the finest and best arranged that I have ever seen."

MAMMON.

Washington, Aug. 10.—In spite of the cry of poverty and persecution, the "poor railroads" and the "struggling trusts" still seem to be overburdened with surplus dollars wrung from labor and the people through the unholy combination of low wages and high prices. As, for instance, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad officials reported in June that its gross earnings exceeded $4,000,000 more than the fiscal year preceding, and that its net earnings were over 7 per cent.

Of course, that includes 7 per cent on "water" as well as legitimate stock. During the first five months of the year the New York Central shows a gross increase of $20,000,000 over the previous year. The Pennsylvania Railroad for the same interval had an increase of $13,000,000. On July 25, the General Electric added $25,000,000 worth of water to its stock and declared a dividend of $30 per share, payable in stock of the company at par. On July 27, the Colorado Southern candidly admitted it was able to earn 2 per cent on its common stock over the last fiscal year, and in addition earned $532,748 from "other income," which is supposed to represent its control of the Trinity and Brazos Railroad.

The Standard Gas and Electric Company showed nearly $2,000,000 increase in gross earnings. The Denver and Rio Grande, after paying its regular dividend, deposited $1,000,000 in its surplus fund, a sum equal to 2 1-2 per cent on its preferred stock. On July 29, the "good old stock of the Standard Oil Company" of New Jersey sold on the curb for $1,000 a share. This is an increase of $325 per share since the United States Supreme Court smashed the Standard Oil Trust. The market price of Standard Oil, including subsidiaries, has increased $300,000,000 since it was ordered dissolved. Mr. John D. Rockefeller's part of this amount is estimated to be $80,000,000. On July 30, the United States Steel Corporation showed that it had added a neat surplus after all expenses were paid of over $35,000,000 during the quarter. On July 31, the Brooklyn Rapid Transit showed a surplus of almost $4,000,000, being an increase of $672,000 over the previous year. On August 5 the Westinghouse Electric Company declared a dividend equal to 6 per cent on its common stock, and then adds, as an encouragement to investors, that "the company is earning 15 per cent on common." On the same date, the Norfolk and Western Railway showed total gross earnings of $40,000,000, an increase of $4,200,000 over the previous year, or the equivalent of 12 per cent.

The earnings of this road have increased 130 per cent in ten years and is now earning $20,000 gross per mile. The Great Northern Railroad's earnings increase for the month of June were $893,000, and so it goes—the more water that is poured into these corporate investments, the more sweat is squeezed out of the toiler and consumer.

STRIKE OF CIGAR MAKERS WON.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—The members of Local Union 139, at Denver, Colo., obtained improved shop conditions and consequently increased earning capacity through a strike which lasted ten days. The state of trade in the cigarmaking industry is reorted to be better than it has been for five years.

MINERS WIN STRIKE.

At Peytons, Hickory Ash and Mason City.

District President Cairns and Secretary J. M. Craigo were called to Point Pleasant Tuesday, August 6 and signed up the scale for the Linden Mine which has been on strike since April 18. International Statistician Wm. Green and President Cairns signed up with the Peytons Coal Co., and the Hickory Ash Coal Co. on Wednesday, August 7. Three signal victories for the strikers in one week. Boys just keep on smiling. We are right, and right must and will win.

House Votes to Print Full Reort of Impeachment Hearing and Further Action May Result.

Washington, Aug. 8.—The House Judiciary Committee's formal report in the Hanford impeachment proceedings, presented to the House this afternoon, carried what many members thought a significant resolution in the following:

"Resolved, That the testimony of the subcommittee at Seattle be transmitted to the Attorney General, with the recommendation that he take such action as he may deem necessary if the testimony discloses any infraction of the laws."

In the debate in the House this afternoon, Chairman Clayton hinted at further developments in the case when he declared the testimony of the subcommittee should be printed in order to be available "in the case a Grand Jury investigation was necessary."

"This judge says he resigned on account of his health," said Representative Cooper, the Wisconsin "Progressive." "The people of the United States ought to be able to read the testimony so they can come to their own conclusion in regard to this case."

The House then voted overwhelmingly to printing the full stenographic report.

Hanford was forced to resign because of the facts brought out in the Congressional investigation started by Socialist Representative Victor L. Berger, following the cancellation by Hanford last May of the citizenship papers of Leonard Olsson, of Tacoma, Wash., on account of his being a Socialist.

Fake consumption cures are spreading their advertisements over the newspaper pages of the country. With all the agitation that has been raised, the fakirs in this line are still in the field, after the mazuma. Let the word go along the line: You can't cure consumption by pouring something into your stomach. The only way to fight the white plague is with (1) fresh air, (2) good food, (3) rest. These are the three big main things in every case. Because they are so costly to the working class, because it is so desperately hard for the workingmen and their families to get fresh air and good food and rest, consumption is the "captain of death," the worst and the most widespread of diseases. The human body will generally go right if it can get back to the simple elemental things—fresh air, good food and rest.

"Every shipload of the scum of the earth that is dumped upon American soil adds to the army that is being recruited to some day destroy our government," says Fiber and Fabric, a magazine published by textile mill bosses. The editor then explains that it was the "scum of the earth" that made the Lawrence strike. He explains further: "We predicted the outcome of opening our gates to the bad men of every country on earth." What he fails to explain is why the mill bosses have not closed the immigration gates. The textile magnates have been able to get anything and everything they wanted in the United States Congress in the past and they have had just the kind of immigration they wanted. Stung!

THE NATIONAL SOCIALIST PARTY COMES CLEAN.

The official information comes from the national office of the Socialist Party that Section 6 of Asticle 2 of the party constitution has carried by a vote of 3 to 1. The section is as follows:

ANY MEMBER OF THE PARTY WHO OPPOSES POLITICAL ACTION OR ADVOCATES SABOTAGE OR OTHER METHODS OF VIOLENCE AS A WEAPON OF THE WORKING CLASS SHALL BE EXPELLED FROM MEMBERSHIP IN THE PARTY. POLITICAL ACTION SHALL BE CONSTRUED TO MEAN PARTICIPATION IN ELECTIONS FOR PUBLIC OFFICE AND PRACTICAL LEGISLATIVE AND ADMINISTRATIVE WORK ALONG THE LINES OF THE SOCIALIST PARTY PLATFORM.

This shows that the Socialist Party membership believes in going before the public with clean hands. Thousands voted for this section who at first were opposed to it because they thought it unnecessary. The brazen tactics of the syndicalist group within the party, as shown in the International Socialist Review, since our national convention, revealed the conspirators in their true light and the loyal Comrades lined up as true "Reds" as against the anarchistic "Blacks." There is hope. The great Socialist movement is finding itself and righting itself. Right will always win, and we cannot win unless we are right.

ENTER ROOSEVELT WITH "STATE SOCIALISM."

The platform of Theodore Roosevelt's Progressive Party embodies a radicalism far in advance of anything Lloyd George has attempted in England. It is in effect a pronunciamento for "State Socialism," with Theodore in the role of a modern Louis XIV, embodying the State.

There is a declaration that the effort to destroy the trust is futile and is in reality an attempt to restore the conditions of a half century ago, a foolish and impossible procedure. The State must therefore take control and supervision of the great corporations, regulate prices, settle all disputes between employer and employe and between rival competitors in business. The standard of living is to be fixed by the Government by the establishment of a minimum wage scale. There is to be industrial insurance against sickness, accident, disability and old age. Hours of labor for children and women are to be fixed by Federal law, a land monopoly tax is to be instituted, the initiative in legislation to be established for the purpose of amending the Constitution when necessary, equal suffrage for all adults regardless of sex, and a general "extension of democracy." In short, Roosevelt appears as the champion and exponent of that "State Socialism" which capitalists have always purposely or ignorantly confounded with democratic Socialism and denounced as "the coming slavery."

That this thing was coming, that, in fact, it was bound to come, has long been a truism with Socialists. It was by no means unexpected. The suggestions of Gary, Perkins and others last year in connection with the investigation of the Steel Trust clearly foreshadowed it, and its speedy political formulation was predicted in this paper at the time. That Roosevelt should appear as the chief political figure associated with its initial appearance is a matter of no very great consequence. What is important is that its enunciation at his time gives some idea of the distance public sentiment has traveled in the direction of Socialism. Roosevelt himself has declared that his progressive policies in themselves constituted an antidote to Socialism, while his conservative opponents, on the other hand, accuse him of attempting to inaugurate it. The struggle between these opposing political forces will compel an attention to and an interest in genuine Socialism that it has never before received. Whether Roosevelt is defeated or victorious, Socialism will be the gainer in either case, for neither party can get away from the subject. The conservatives will be forced to insist that Roosevelt's policies mean Socialism, and, on the other hand, Roosevelt will be forced to declare that they mean the very opposite. Between the two, the public will be in a position to get some much needed education on the subject, and the Socialist Party is here to give it. Despite the years of "conspiracy of silence" and general misrepresentation, and the putting forward of fake issues, Socialism has forced itself upon capitalist politicians as the issue, and this almost wholly through capitalist development and conditions rather than through any direct pressure of the Socialist Party as such.

CONNECTING THE MAN WITH THE JOB.

Some years ago in a debate on Socialism with a university professor of political economy, the latter took the position that there was nothing radically wrong with the wage system and that poverty and unemployment among the working class were due to what he called "maladjustment"; there was a faulty distribution of laborers; there were jobs for all, but the men were not in the right place. The thing to do, therefore, was to bring the man and the job together, and all would be well. The professor admitted that in many, if not most, cases the unemployed did not know where the jobs were, and that even if they did they could not get to them. His remedy was therefore establishment of bureaus of publicity and assistance or transportation for the workers to where the work lay. Remedy the "maladjustment" and all discontent would disappear, and with it the necessity for Socialism.

The proposal shows how far the philosopher in the study is removed from the facts of actual life. There are hundreds of such bureaus, and thousands of workers are given free transportation to where the jobs are supposed to be; besides, the newspapers are filled with advertisements for laborers in bulk who are alleged to be wanted in distant parts of the country. On the face of it, it looks as if the most strenuous efforts were being made to remedy the "maladjustment" the professor alluded to, and in the very manner he suggested.

But it doesn't work out that way. On the contrary, its general result is to aggravate the condition pointed out by the professor. In the vast majority of cases its object is to secure the cheapest sort of labor by flooding the locality with surplus hands and thus lowering the rate of wages prevalent before their arrival. Every recurring harvest season in the Central and North Central States brings out this condition. The laborer who is tempted by advertisements of wages of $3 and $3.50 per diem arrives on the spot only to find that he is offered half and has to work some sixteen hours daily to get it. After three weeks or so, during which every ounce of vitality is worked out of him, he is discharged and is lucky if he has sufficient money to carry him to the place whence he came.

In the Southern States, the pine woods of Georgia and the lumber camps of Mississippi, the apparent attempts to remedy "maladjustment" in this sense have had peonage as their real object and general result.

For years the business interests of the Pacific Coast States, especially California, have been advertising for laborers of all kinds, the general result being that the coast is swarming with idle men, wages have fallen and the tramp and "hobo" population immensely increased. From the West, the labor journals are continually sending forth the warning to workers in the East to beware of lying advertisements, and keep away from the coast.

Without doubt there is a considerable measure of truth in the statement that considerable unemployment is due to the bad distribution of laborers, that the man and the job cannot always connect. But the attempts to remedy this "maladjustment" under the wage system, like almost every remedy suggested under capitalism, merely tend to aggravate the condition which it is their alleged object to mitigate or remove. And the reason is, in the last analysis, that the wage system itself is unjust and dishonest and can be easily utilized in various indirect ways as a means to enable some to overreach others.

A workingman who has been through this experience, if of the most ordinary powers of observation, knows infinitely more about the reality than a whole faculty of college professors who jabber pendantically about "maladjustment," which, after all, is only the scholastic expression of the vulgar and ignorant remark that "every man who really wants a job can find one." The scheming employers and business men who engineer these traps also understand infinitely better than their university defenders what their real object is, though all of them are probably willing enough to accept the credit given them as practical philanthropists seeking to remedy "maladjustment" in the distribution of labor.

And there is one other fact in connection with this that they are also keenly alive to, namely, that the best defense of a knave is to have as his champion a learned fool.

The Booster's Column

By F. E. JOHNSTON

It is indeed surprising to note the activities of the comrades in this county. Never has harder or more self sacrificing work been done. If something don't hit the Pluto Politicians on or about the first of November, then this office is badly mistaken. Enthusiasm for this great cause takes men and women of all stations of life, out upon the street distributing literature, and on Saturday evening from 25 to 35 loyal class-conscious Socialists, load themselves up with literature, go out in the rural districts and carry the sweet message of Socialism to new thousands.

That's the work that counts. Our S. E. C. can deny us the right to speak but they can never deny us the right to distribute our literature broadcast and in the end that is what counts anyhow. Literature,—lets sow it knee deep all over the state, and when the votes are counted this fall we will at least have an educated vote back of us.

Don't forget the paper at this time. Let every comrade who can possibly do so buy subcards. Let's get on the job and double the circulation, as you comrades can do it very easily. If every reader will send us just one new sub nxt week, we will have accomplished the trick. All you old "war horses" WAKE UP. Let's have a repetition of those spring days, when you were firing them in so fast we had to move into bigger headquarters. We dare you to make us move again. Come on comrades, every one lift just a little, and things will soon be moving in good shape. On to Washington.

"The comrades of this local feel they can well afford to pay for such a paper as the Columbus Socialist. So we hand you $1.00 for 1 years sub." So writes a comrade from one of the loyal locals.

Comrade Joel Frizzell, of Gahanna, O., sends us in his sub for this paper and the Appeal. He knows a good thing when he sees it.

Comrade Edwards of Orlando, O., forwards us $1.00 for 1 years subscription to this paper and the Rip Saw. He has made a combination hard to beat.

Comrade Disbro of Norwalk, O., sends in his subscription for 1 year including the Appeal. The Northern part of the state is waking up.

The Fall Festival to be held at Schiller Park, Monday, Aug. 26th, afternoon and evening is well under way and from all indications it will be the biggest demonstration ever held b the party in Columbus. Some comrades have already sold as high as 40 tickets. Don't forget the eats. All lady comrades who will furnish cakes, please notify us by phone and we will then know how to figure. Lets make this the biggest thing yet. We can do it.

Comrade Glick furnished us with 50c to put names on the list. Talk about stopping this movement! as well hold up your hands and exhort the wind to stop blowing.

The 14th and 15th Ward put on 65 new subs in their respective wards this week. That's the kind of work that counts.

ESLER IS SHOWN UP BY INDIANA RECORD

State Secretary O'Neal Throws Some More Light Upon the Situation.

Editor of The Socialist:

I have no desire to interfere in the controversy between the so-called "Reds" and "Yellows" in Ohio; but it may be of interest to the Comrades to know that one speaker in the State, Esler by name, is known to have opposed political action in Indiana. In answering a question at La Porte, a few weeks ago as to how Socialists proposed to get possession of industry, Esler gave the typical Syndicalist reply that we will take them through the unions. Some of that audience are still wondering why we have a party of the working class if the unions are to do the job. Esler is one of the profound thinkers who receives favorable mentoin in the International Socialist Review.

The August number of this "Red" magazine has a profound article from the pen of Robert Rives La Monte, who quotes the labor resolution of the last convention and concludes that "the Socialist party now stands officially committed to the agressive, revolutionary tactics of insatiable Syndicalism." This is a remarkable discovery, and if La Monte is correct, the readers of this resolution will find the following three fundamental "principles" of Syndicalism stated or implied:

1. Uncompromising antagonism to political action by the working class.

2. The doctrine of the "militant minority," or the formation of militant groups within the unions who are to constitute an inner circle that will plan, intrigue and work out schemes and policies regarding sabotage, general strikes, etc. Not majority, but minority rule, is favored.

3. The seizure of all industry by the unions to be owned and operated by the various unions as so many group ownerships, the unions to constitute the economic framework of the new society. All this to be achieved by surrendering the ballot and leaving the capitalist class in possession of the governing powers.

These constitute the chief "principles" of "insatiable Syndicalism," which La Monte informs us the delegates at Indianapolis endorsed when we approved the labor resolution. I would advise the comrades to read this resolution through and if they can find anything in it that remotely endorses Syndicalism they will then be prepared to accept an article from some other profound "associate editor," who will prove by mere assertion that two and two make five.

The fact is that many of our Comrades are flirting with a movement of which they know little, and La Monte is one of them. Syndicalism is the last word of bankrupt Anarchism, exhausted by its abortive propaganda of the deed. Your true Syndicalist is a shame-faced Anarchist, who recalls the shame-faced materialists that Engels deals with in his brilliant introduction to "Socialism, Utopian and Scientific." The Socialist who tolerates the "principles" of Syndicalism can only do so by forgetting his Marx and all the other great writers who have built the structure of Socialist philosophy. It isn't "Socialism with its working clothes on," that we are fighting. Haywood to the contrary notwithstanding. If phrases are to count, as he seems to think, I would answer that, "it is bankrupt Anarchism on dress parade" that we oppose. It never had any "working clothes" outside the brains of hysterical French Anarchists who gave the abortion to the world.

The vote on the alternative or substitute section was 8,116 in favor and 7,371 against. The tabulated vote will be an extensive affair. NATIONAL CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE.

One Day Wage Fund.

In response to demands insistent and overwhelming for a renewal or extension of the "One Day Wage Fund" plan, the National Campaign Committee in session August 3rd, adopted the following motion:

"That the 'One Day Wage Card' plan be renewed and that the Campaign Manager be instructed to send a letter to all locals extending the time until September 7th, and stating that cards would only be sent upon application."

Eugene V. Debs, Says:

"The 'One Day's Wage' plan for raising its campaign fund distinguishes the Socialist party from all the parties financed by the exploiting class. It is the working class plan of a working class party to finance a working class campaign for working class emancipation.

"The battle plans are all ready; the speakers are in line for action; the literature is shape to put upon the press. Money is all that is lacking.

"We appeal to the loyalty of every Comrade and to the sympathy of every friend of the working class. Give us your day's wage now and we will return it an hundred fold in November."

Emil Seidel, Says:

"The fight is on. The forces of the enemy are corrupted, their lines are weakening. The fear of defeat has taken possession of them, is demoralizing them. On our side the glory of a great cause is drawing the Comrades closer together.

"What we now need is three things: First, money; second, money; and third, money. This we cannot expect to get from the enemy. We must provide the ammunition ourselves.

"Millions of toilers are waiting for our message. Shall they wait in vain? No! No!! No!!! Then get your arms ready. Hurrah, for the fight, 'On to Victory.'"

Dear Comrades—I am directed by the National Executive Committee to suspend the vote on referendum C. The action taken by the committee is as follows:

"2. That National Executive Committee meet at Chicago, August 27th, ten o'clock to receive and act upon report of investigation and transact other business.

"3. That National Secretary issue order to suspend voting on referendum in the meantime."

Fraternally yours,

INDIANA STATE NEWS.

James Oneal, State Secretary, 318½ Ohio Street, Terre Haute, Ind.

The Socialists at Salamonia, in Jay County, have become numerous enough to require organization, and the Comrades there are now at work organizing a local. They are also anxious to share in the campaign and speakers will be sent.

From Henryville, in Clark County, the Comrades also send word that they want to organize and instructions are now in their hands. The speakers they have had the last two years have evidently accomplished something.

At Patricksburg, in Owen County, the miners have been on a strike for months, and Comrade Hollingsworth, of Terre Haute, recently addressed a large meeting there and will go back there on the 18th for another meeting and to organize a local.

An urgent request comes from Grass Creek, in Fulton County, requesting a speaker and asking for information regarding organization. This is one of the barren counties in which light is breaking.

The picnic of the St. Joseph County Socialists held at Battell Park, Mishawaka, on August 4th, was attended by nearly five thousand people, Comrades Condo and Watties were the speakers of the day and the net proceeds of the picnic to the county organization will be about $75.

The meetings of Comrade Reynolds, our candidate for Governor, have all been large crowds with few exceptions, and the general reports have been very favorable. He writes in an enthusiastic strain regarding the prospects for a big vote in November.

The local at Vevay, in Switzerland County, after many discouragements, reports that the movement has progressed to the stage where they now have rented a hall for their meetings. The new local at Walton, in Cass County, also reports a substantial increase in membership, and with few exceptions these reports are an index to many that arrive at the state office every week. Every member should exert every effort possible to secure additional party members and thus aid in extending the campaign so that the last few weeks will be the hottest of any waged in Indiana.

SENATORIAL CONVENTION AT SANDUSKY.

Columbus Socialist:

Dear Comrades—This is to inform you that we intend to hold our State Senatorial Convention of the Thirtieth district on Sunday, August 18, 1912, in our hall, located in the Stone block, opposite the postoffice, look for the big sign, at 2 p. m.

The Socialists of Erie County are going to hold a picnic at Winnebago Park, this city on Sunday, September 1, 1912, Miss Luella Twining will be the speaker for the occasion.

Fraternally,
F. E. FICK,
Recording Secretary.

STRAIGHT FROM THE SHOULDER.

The Cleveland Citizen hereby files notice that it does not intend to recognize the arbitrary factional lines that Charles H. Kerr, W. D. Haywood and a few of their followers are conspiring to force upon the Socialist party. Kerr's attempt to arrogate to himself and his aggregation the name of "Reds" and to designate others opposed to him as "yellows" is as silly as it is impertinent. If it is necessary to invent names to classify schools of thought among Socialists, then "yellow" fits the Kerrites like a glove. The scab unions of Germany, which oppose the general labor federation in that country, just as the Kerr I. W. W. oppose the Federation of Labor in America, are called "yellow." The Socialists of Germany have no use for the I. W. W., no more than have the Socialists of any country, excepting perhaps a few impossibilities in France and one or two other countries. The term "Red" was disgraced by and applied to Anarchists for many years; then gradually the capitalist newspapers and politicians, in the hope of casting odium on the Socialist movement, sneeringly ferred to Socialists as "Reds." Half a dozen years ago the reactionaries and conservatives in A. F. of L. conventions endeavored to bring ridicule upon the delegates who believed in Socialism by referring to them as "Reds." The editor of the Citizen (who was also one of the Review's contributing editors for 11 years) realizing that terms of reproach can be popularized by constant usage, accepted the challenge and applied the term "Red" in the Labor World department of Kerr's own International Socialist Review, upon every possble occason, and long before that timid gentleman or his cohorts ever thought of annexing the phrase, as the files of the Rewev will prove, and the word was also used in the Citizen for many years before Kerr believed it sufficiently respectable to monopolize. We call upon the active workers and papers that refuse to be stampeded by phrasemongering factionalists to join in turning the tables on the Kerrites. The Socialist party is the "Red" movement, and if there is to be a division that term belongs to the majority faction, and that is not Kerr, Haywood, Bohn & Company. Their whole questionable conduct is a streak of yellow, and they will not hesitate to split the Socialist party if it is necessary to further their schemes.—Cleveland Citizen.

NOTICE.

Local St. Louis gives notice that one W. M. McClain has been expelled from membership in that local after being convicted of defrauding union the socialist party members by means of a fake "Industrial Consumers' Association of America" scheme. A description of him is given as being about five feet ten or eleven inches in height, slight stoop, well built, weighs about 175 pounds. Unions and party members are warned against him and his crooked dealings.

ORGANIZER BEERY DOES GOOD WORK.

Comrade M. J. Beery, of Crestline, State Organizer of the Socialist Party, is spending the week of August 8th in Mahoning County. His first speech was delivered Monday on the Diamond to a big crowd of interested workers.

Beery is a working man, having spent several years in the whip factories and carriage shops of this state. He spent six years in the Pennsylvania Railroad round house at Crestline, and tells many interesting stories of the "Boys of the Rail."

Comrade Beery has done a great amount of good for the movement in this county, and many new members will be the result of his efforts. He will spend next week in Summit county.—Youngstown Socialist Press.

THE WORK IN HAMILTON COUNTY.

The Hamilton County Campaign committee meets every Sunday at nine a. m. at the Socialist headquarters, 1417 Walnut street. Delegates must attend regularly.

To the Socialists and sympathisers of Hamilton County—With the most constructive platform ever adopted by the national convention, and with the unanimous belief of every Socialist that in this year 1912, the greatest opportunity to forward our movement is at hand. Your campaign committee asks your utmost and sincere assistance in helping to bring Hamilton county to the forefront in the Socialist ranks. As a Socialist, you know how to get results. It takes the work of many, in fact, of all. We therefore ask and expect your hearty co-operation until the close of the polls, November 5. Your committee is now working to the best of its ability to carry on a vigorous campaign and, as their funds are meager, you are requested to donate as liberally as you can. Locals and branches are requested to send blanks properly filled out. Wishing you success in your every effort for the cause, we are, yours for Socialism.—Hamilton county campaign committee Charles L. Webber, Secretary.—Ohio Valley Socialist.

WEST VIRGINIA SOCIALIST NEWS.

We regret to announce that our nominee for governor Harold W. Houston, has sent his resignation to the State Committed. He was nominated for Prosecuting Attorney for Kanawha county, and when he was nominated for governor he sent in a resignation, but the county organization refused almost unanimously to accept it. Furthermore he has been chosen as counsel by the national organization of the mine workers of America. He feels that under the circumstances he can do more good to put in his time in Kanawha county, alone than try to do justice to the state. The mine operators by placing guards in the coal fields have caused a condition equal to civil war, and he thinks his place is with the down-trodden. His whole life is wrapt up with the working class movement and while we would like to keep him as our candidate for governor, we bow to the oppressed miners and yield with as good grace as may be. With the conditions in Kanawha county as they are today, it is impossible for the two old parties to elect their ticket. That spells Socialist victory for Kanawha county and the death blow to the armed guards.

G. W. GILLESPIE,
Member of State Com.

SOCIALISTS WOULD ABOLISH CLASSES.

The Socialists do not exult in the existence of classes and class struggles, and do not "preach" class hatred. They merely point out the obvious fact of economic classes and class antagonism. It is no more reasonable to charge the "Socialist agitation" with fomenting class wars than it would be to hold the meterologist responsible for storms. As a matter of fact, the Socialist movement is the only organized force in modern society which conscientiously seeks to abolish all class divisions and class struggles.

Poverty as such, is of course, also not a new and specifically capitalistic phenomenon. The poor have always been with us. But the poverty of former eras was a necessary evil due to the simple fact that man had not yet learned to produce a sufficient supply of necessities by means of proper tools. Modern poverty is entirely artificial and wholly unnecessary. The marvelous growth of the productivity of labor within the last generations has enabled mankind for the first time in history to produce enough to satisfy all reasonable needs of all reasonable human beings. The mass-poverty of today is due solely to irrational and faulty industrial organization.

The Socialist program thus offers a solution of all the vital social problems o four time.—Morris Hillquit in the August Metropolitan.

THE CURSE OF MACHINERY.

Modern machinery, although inherently of untold blessing to mankind, operates as a curse upon the toiler under the prevailing system of individual ownership. It does not lighten the burdens of the worker. It does not reduce his hours of labor—it displaces him from his employment. The marvelous productivity of the machine creates the dread legions of jobless workers, the fierce competition for a chance to work and the consequent lowering of wages below the living standard.

The automatic, almost self-operating machine makes child and woman labor possible and profitable, and the children and wives of the workers are drafted into the field of industry in competition with their fathers and husbands. The more women and children are at work in the factories, the rarer become the opportunities for man to find work and the lower become their wages. Child and woman labor mean lower wages for men. Low wages for men mean more child and woman labor, and so the workers move forever in a vicious circle Hillquit in the August Metropolitan.

BEWARE OF FALSE APPEALS.

Washington, Aug. 10.—Jere L. Sullivan, secretary-treasurer of the Hotel and Restaurant Employers, has issued a warning that all local unions receiving appeals for any allied organization affiliated with the International, of which he is secretary, are hereby notified and urged to refer appeals to him for verification at Cincinnati, Ohio, before making any donation.

Mr. Sullivan says: "Whoever is responsible for these appeals coming from alleged organizations composed of bartenders have some knowledge of the labor movement and is using it to reap financial returns. It is nothing more or less than a graft pure and simple. The unions of our international have no reason to make an appeal to any person outside of their own organization. We maintain a defense fund to assist such unions as are entitled to it. Such locals that are not entitled to financial assistance from our international are positively not entitled to it from any other union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. We have not found it necessary to appeal to other organizations for financial assistance since 1890, the year our organization was started. We trust that conditions will permit an uninterrupted and unbroken record of being able to take care of ourselves."

The capitalists are educating the working class very rapidly through the use of injunctions and the military. The signs indicate that the giant labor is awakening and will soon claim its stolen heritage.

Every step in the progress of history has been due to the protests of a minority, and the majority has never psared words to denounce the ideas of the minority as destructives of the established rules and customs.

DEB'S GREAT SPEECH

I am not asking you to give your votes to this party but only that you read its platform, study its program, and satisfy yourselves as to what its principles are, what it stands for, and what it expects to accomplish.

Abolish Wage Slavery.

The Socialist party being the political expression of the rising working class stands for the absolute overthrow of the existing capitalist system and for the reorganization of society into an industrial and social democracy.

This will mean an end to the private ownership of the means of life; it will mean an end to wage slavery; it will mean an end to the army of the unemployed; it will mean an end to the poverty of the masses, the prostitution of womanhood, and the murder of children.

It will mean the beginning of a new era of civilization; the dawn of a happier day for the children of men. It will mean that this earth is for those who inhabit it and wealth for those who produce it. It will mean society organized upon a co-operative basis, collectively owning the sources of wealth and the means of production, and producing wealth to satisfy human wants and not to gorge a privileged few. It will mean that there shall be work for the workers and that all shall be workers, and it will also mean that there shall be leisure for the workers and that all shall enjoy it. It will mean that women shall be Comrades and equals of men, sharing with them on equal terms the opportunities as well as the responsibilities and the benefits as well as the burdens of civilized life.

The Socialist party, the first and only international party, is rising grandly to power all around the world. In every land beneath the sun it is the party of the dispossessed, the impoverished, the heavy-laden.

It is the twentieht century party of human emancipation.

It stands for a world-wide democracy, for the freedom of every man, woman and child, and for the civilization of all mankind.

The Socialist party buys no votes. It scorns to traffic in ignorance. It realizes that education, knowledge, and the powers these confer are the only means of achieving a decided and permanent victory for the people.

Workers are Awakening.

The campaign of the Socialist party is a clean campaign; it is essentially educational; an appeal to intelligence, to manliness, to womanliness, and to all things of good report.

The workers are opening their eyes at last. They are beginning to see the light. They are taking heart of hope because they are becoming conscious of their power.

They are rallying to the standard of the Socialist party because they know that this is their party and that here they are master; here they sit at their own political hearthstones and fireside.

No longer can the workers be pitted against each other in capitalist parties by designing politicians to their mutual undoing. They have made the discovery that they have brains as well as hands, that they can think as well as work, and that they do not need politicians to advise them how to vote, nor masters to rob them of the fruits of their labor.

Slowly but surely there is being established the economic and political unity and solidarity of the workers of the world. The Socialist party is the political expression of that unity and solidarity.

I appeal to the workers assembled here today in the name of the Socialist party. I appeal to you as one of you to unite and make common cause in this great struggle.

To the extent that you have made progress, to the extent that you have developed power, and to the extent that you have achieved victory, to that extent you are indebted to your own class-conscious efforts and your industrial and political organization. To the extent that you lack power, to the extent that you are defeated and kept in bondage, to that extent you lack in economic and political solidarity.

Craft Division is Suicide.

Rightly organized and soundly disciplined on both the economic and political fields the working class can prevail against the world.

The economic organization and the political party of the working class must both be revolutionary and they must work together hand in hand. Industrial unionism means industrial solidarity, but craft unionism means division and disaster. The printing trades pitted against each other at Chicago in their struggle with the newspaper trust furnish a fatal illustration of the weakness and treachery of craft division in the present industrial conflict.

The workers of Milwaukee have to an exceptional extent overcome the obstacles to unity and have worked together with signal success on both the economic and political fields. I appeal to them in the name of the future to get closer and closer together in the bonds of economic and political solidarity. If they do this their complete and final victory is assured.

The Socialist party of Milwaukee has met with many defeats since it first began its career. Its latest defeat was its greatest victory. It forces the Republicans and Democrats to unmask and to fly into each other's arms. There is no Republican or Democratic party in Milwaukee. They are dead and in the coming election their remains, masquerading as a party of the people, will be buried by the Socialist party.

The Socialists of Milwaukee will always have the distinction of having elected the first representative of the working class to the Congress of the United States. Victor L. Berger has made good at Washington. For the first time, since he is a member, the voice of labor has been distinctly heard on the floors of Congress, and in every emergency when the working class needed a champion at the seat of power they found him ready and eager to espouse their cause and defend their interests.

It was to defeat Berger's re-election that the Republicans and Democrats in Milwaukee combined, just as they did to defeat Emil Seidel for mayor and drive the Socialist administration from power.

But Berger is making a record at Washington and the Socialist administration made a record in Milwaukee that will stand the test of time, and if the workers now rally their forces in support of Berger he will be triumphantly re-elected against the combined opposition of the old parties, and, in the next muncipal election the city of Milwaukee will be permanently restored to a Socialist administration.

Capitalism is Fighting.

Comrades, you are face to face with the greatest struggle you have ever had since the Socialist party was organized. You are now to be tested in every fiber as to your fitness to hold the ground you have gained and to press on to greater victories. May you be permeated to the core with the spirit of the Socilaist movement and enter the fray resolved that victory shall be inscribed upon you banners.

I must not fail in the presence of all these workers to speak of Joseph Ettor and Arturo Giovannitti, the leaders of the Lawrence strike who are in prison and soon to be tried upon the charge of murder of which they are as innocent as if they had never been born.

This infamous charge has been trumped up against them by the defeated mill owners for no other reason than that they stood up bravely and fought successfully against great odds the battles of the wage-slaves of the mills. Unless the workers unite in the support of these two leaders they may be sent to the electric chair. Should we suffer these brave Comrades to fall victims to such a monstrous crime it would be a foul and indellible blot upon the whole labor movement. Let us arouse the workers of the nation in their behalf and prove to them when their trial takes place that we are as true to them as they were to the wage-slaves in the industrial battle at Lawrence.

Comrades, this is our year. Let us rise to our full stature, summon all our united powers, and strike a blow for freedom that will be felt all around the world!

THE CIRCULATION OF SORROW.

The men who labor spend their strength in the daily struggle for bread, to mainfain the strength they struggle with. So they live in a deadly circulation of sorrow, living but to work, and working but to live, as if daily bread were the only end of wearisome life, and wearisome life the only occasion of daily bread.

A FALSE TEACHER.

By J. W. Bennet.

Bishop Vaughn, the distinguished English prelate, has come to America to point out the unrighteousness of the working class uniting for the purpose of establishing better conditions for themselves and familes under a co-operative system of industry called Socialism.

The bishop will earn his money and do his duty to those who employ him, but it will take something besides talk to explain away the cold, hard facts of working class poverty under the rule of private monopoly. The bishop will go from our shores with his object unattained because it is to accomplish the impossible, to thwart the progress of natural evolution.

It is contended by the bishop and others high in church authority that Socialism is against religion.

If the greed and avarice of commercial buccaneers is a form of religion to be fostered and sustained, then we are against that kind of religion.

The essence or aim of Socialism is to bring order out of disorder, to harmonize and unify the interests of all. Is this irreligious?

If it is bad for the helpless workers to combine to establish better conditions, why was it not bad for the oppressive capitalists to combine? When these powerful, labor crushing organizations were formed, you, Bishop Vaughn and the organization back of you, remained unmoved. They were not stigmatized as against religion. Yet deceit, force and fraud were back of every one of them. In wolfishness and feline mercilessness has the capitalist class ever stalked their quarry, the workers. Yet their actions were never made a target against which to engage in a great moral crusade.

How is it that when the poor workers whose lives are made miserable by all the flagrant abuses and oppression of private monopoly, organize to right their wrongs at the ballot box, you are up in arms against them?

The reason is, you fear the rising tide of working class intelligence. The working class is daily getting a better idea of the material basis of life. They begin to understand the motives back of men, and politcial parties and organizations, and it is making them conscious of the necessity of subjecting all your gross materialism to control, that spiritual may have a chance to develop. They see that private capital in the hands of a Morgan or a Rockefeller or a Roman hierarchy is not a divine, but a human institution and that its oppressive character is no longer tolerable for the masses. You are educated, Bishop Vaughn, but lack knowledge of the process of social evolution.

Because of your unfortunate situation in being of, and representing, a class who has made a divinity of material things, you think Socialism threatens your material power, and presuming upon the religious inclinations of the people, you tell them it is against religion. Again, I ask you, what kind of religion is it against?

The protection of all this vast material wealth in the hands of the oppressors of labor was more potent in arousing you and those you represent to action than all the untold misety of the working class.

Your conception arises from the means whereby you sustain your physical life, viz: by the division of humanity into classes, into master and man, employer and wage worker and this precludes the possibility of your and the class you represent undertaking the necessity of world-wide unity of those who toil.

GOODALE PARK MEETING.

The Socialist meeting at Goodale Park last Sunday afternoon was a success despite the rival attraction at the same place of a city band concert. Comrades Gus Tegenkamp, S. H. Cochrun and A. C. Eby were the speakers. The collection and the sale of literature indicated the intense interest of the people in th question of Socialism.

Why does a chicken cross the road also, why does a workingman vote a capitalistic ticket?

ACCEPTING THE INEVITABLE.

By C. E. Ruthenberg.

Socialist Candidate for Governor.

Socialists have always contended that the trusts and giant corporations of our day were not the result of the evil mechinations of a certain man or group of men.

They have pointed out that the trusts were not in existence because Rockefeller, Morgan or some other capitalist devised these great organizations in order to rob and exploit the workers with greater facility, but because the logical development of the capitalist system had produced them.

Man has since time immemorial been seeking to extend his away over the productive forces of nature. Driven by the necessity of supplying himself with food and protection from the elements, he has constantly turned his ingenuity in the direction of making more and more assured these fundamental necessities to his continued existence. We see this motive at work driving man forward through all the ages. From the days of the weaponless savage to the wonderful achievements of the Twentieth Century we have one line of progress made by man under the stimulus of this desire to make certain his food supply and the other things, which in the course of the ages he has been able to add to the former bear necessities for existence.

The trust eliminates waste and puts the production of wealth on a more efficient and scientific basis. They represent one of the stages of progress in man's effort to dominate the productive forces which he uses to supply his wants. They are in addition the natural result of machine production. The progress of the last fifty years has been toward more and more costly machinery. As the cost of the machinery necessary to produce efficiency advances the amount of capital necessary to enter any line of business, grows greater, and this again leads to the greater wants of production.

This attitude of the Socialists, sound, because based upon a scientific study of the development of production, has however, in the past been repudiated by Republicans and Democrats alike. To them the trusts were the manifestations of some malevolent power bent upon levying tribute upon the people. They saw the evils of of private ownership of the new organizations, but in place of laying these at the door of private ownership they assigned them to the form of organization. The result was the Sherman anti-trust law and other trust legislation of a similar nature. This at least has been the public attitude as expressed in their platforms of the old parties toward the trusts. It is still the attitude of the Democratic party. It still adheres to the reactionary and impossible program of the breaking up the trusts.

But part of the Republican party is ready to accept the inevitable. The Roosevelt contingent is now on record as favoring regulation. And now comes a minority report of the Republican congressmen on the Stanley steel trust investigating committee with the same proposal. In other words these men now admit by their new proposal the correctness of the Socialist position on the trust question. But they do not accept the Socialist remedy. "Regulation is the great panacea," which has succeeded attempts to force disintegration. Regulation will prove as futile as attempts to disintegrate the trusts have been. The present proposal to regulate is about as sensibe as if those offering the solution were to advise a body of men who were being attacked by a single individual with a club something like this: "You have the power, but don't take the club away from him. Pass laws that the weight of the blow on the top of your head is to be just so much and that not more than a certain amount of strength is to be put into the blow on your right ear and just so much in the blow on the left." The advice to regulate the trust is about as good. The private ownership of the things the worker needs to use in order to live is the club through use of which he is exploited and robbed. The proposal to limit corporations, to limit profits and prices simply represent attempts to limt the strength of the blows dealt the worker. Even if regulation could be made effective, which, of course, it cannot, it would solve the trust problem so far as the workers are concerned.

The Socialist contention in regard to the inevitability of trust production is being vindicated. Experiments with regulation will soon prove that the Socialist remedy,—to take the club out of the hands of the Capitalist by establishing collective ownership of the means of production is the only remedy for our industrial problem.

GEN. BROWN DRAFTED BY THE BOSSES.

The Republican party of Ohio, paralyzed by the resignation of its candidate for Governor, Judge Dillon, of street car injunction infamy, has pushed poor old Gen. Brown, of Zanesville, into the vacancy and named a poet-lawyer, Beecher W. Waltermere, of Findlay, for lieutenant governor. Every candidate on the state and County tickets must now swear allegiance to Big Bill Taft or get off the ballot. State Chairman, Harry Daugherty has said so and he gets the dope from Washington. It's too bad that the rank and file of the G. O. P. cannot use the Recall like we Socialists can.

In the near future we will have the retail grocery business controlled by the trust or chain stores. They undersell until they drive the independent stores out of business, then they have a monopoly and can charge what they please. England has gone through that experience and today the only thing that stands between the consumer and exorbitant prices is the Co-operative Society with its thousands of stores and its membership who are loyal to their own class and to themselves.

The Franklin Co-operative Company, was incorporated on this plan and has opened its first store, at 529 North 20th Street, and asks the patronage and support of all consumers, who believe in lower prices and in a square deal,

SOME PROVISIONS OF OHIO'S PROPOSED CONSTITUTION

Explanation of Important Provisions The People Should Consider Very Thoughtfully

By Harry D. Thomas.

No. 14 on the Official Ballott—Removal of Officials.

This amendment makes mandatory the passage of laws, for the removal from office, upon complaint and hearing, of all public officers for any misconduct in office involving moral turpitude or for other cause prescribed by law. It is an addition to impeachment.

No. 15—Regulating Expert Testimony in Criminal Cases. Article Two.

This amendment will allow the general asembly at any time to enact laws giving to the courts power to name the experts in a criminal case, and to regulate the introduction of expert testimony in criminal cases.

No. 16—Registering and Warranting Land Titles. Article Two.

The purpose of this amendment is to remove the constitutional objections found by the Supreme Court to exist against the adoption in Ohio of what is known as the "Torrens Land Title System." Its principle feature are:

1. Registering of the title in the name of the owner, upon his application and the decree of a court, and issuing to him a certificate of title good as against all the world.

2. The creation of a guarantee fund by fees to be paid by the applicants to register, out of which fund are made good the losses, if any, of persons who may be wrongfully cut out of interests in the registered lands.

3. The registering in the registrar's office of all things which affect the title as they occur from time to time after registration, and the noting of these, upon request, on the duplicate certificate held by the owner.

4. The issuing of new certificates of title by the registrar upon each sale and transfer of land.

5. Registration is voluntary upon the part of owners of land. When a title is once registered no further abstracts or examinations of title are necessary.

The adoption of this amendment will not abolish nor require the abolition of the present system of recording land titles and transfers.

No. 22—Woman's Suffrage. Article Five.

This amendment takes out of article V, section 1, of the present constitution two words, which are: "White male," the purpose being to give the women of the state the right to vote on the same conditions under which the suffrage is exercised by men.

August Bebel's "Women Under Socialism."

August Bebel's "Women Under Socialism," has a paragraph which strikes the keynote of the deepest spirit of Socialism:

"Woman has the same right as man to unfold her faculties and to the free exercise of the same; she is human as well as he; like him she should be free to dispose herself as her own master. The accident of being born a woman, makes no difference. To exclude woman from equality on the ground that she was born female and not male—an accident for which man is as little responsible as she—is inequitable as would be to make rights and privileges dependent upon the accident of religion or political bias and as senseless as that two human beings must look upon each other as enemies on the ground that the accident of birth makes them of different stock and nationality.

"Woman has always and everywhere, stood on an equality with man in the Socialist movement, and every Socialist should vote for woman's suffrage."

No. 24—Omitting Word "White." Article Five.

This amendment takes out or article V, section 1, the one word "white." Its adoption is desirable, in case the woman suffrage amendment should be defeated, to make the state constitution conform to that of the United States.

No. 25—Use of Voting Machines. Article Five.

This amendment permits laws to be passed authorizing the use of ballots or voting machines at elections. Under a recent decision of the Supreme Court of this state voting machines cannot be used for the reason that the constitution now requires all elections to be by ballot.

Hot Time at Schiller Park!

There's goin' to be a hot old time at Schiller Park, Monday evening, August 26th. If you miss this big event of Centennial week, and then hear what a glorious time every body had, don't blame anyone but yourself.

It's going to be ONE BIG GRAND FESTIVAL from the start at 3 p. m., until 12 midnight. The band will be there and make you forget your troubles with fine music; and "Roasting Ears!" Oh, you "Roasting Ears." We will have these great big kind that smear your face all over every time you take a bite. One comrade says he is coming just to eat roasting ears. And the children, bless their little souls, we are fixing up a fish pond for their especial benefit. We will further have ice cream, cake, buttermilk, candy, pop corn fritters, and everything that will be needed to make this the most enjoyable afternoon and evening the Socialist party and its thousands of friends and sympathizers have ever had.

If there happens to be a Centennial parade in the evening don't let that keep you away as there will be parades every night in the week. Let every comrade and friend join in making this event ONE BIG, GRAND SUCCESS.

The Columbus Socialist thanks each and every one of you hard working comrades in advance for your help in our festival, and hopes to meet you, your friends and especially the enemy at Schiller Park, Monday evening.

THIS IS VERY IMPORTANT!

This office will be open tonight, (Saturday) evening to receive returns from any comrade who wants to settle for tickets, but could not get in today (Saturday), don't fail, comrade to report promptly and in this manner help us along.

Be sure and bring the children to Schiller Park, Monday evening, August 26. A good time for the little ones.

GRASPING STEEL MOLOCH DEVOURS LARGE PROFITS

Washington, Aug. 17.—In the report of the committee to investigate violations of the anti-trust act, particularly directed toward the activities of the United States Steel Corporation, there is much interesting information relative to the conduct of that gigantic commercial enterprise. A chapter in the report is devoted to the "company supply store." Not unlike other monopolistic business concerns the Steel Corporation invades every avenue where profit can be procured. The following is an excerpt upon this phase of the corporations activities:

"As bearing on the question of employes, the policy of the Steel Corporation in regard to the establishment of the company supply stores is important. The evidence before the committee shows that it is the custom of the company where steel and iron plants are established and towns and villages grow up around engage in such trade under ordinary sidiary company known as the Union Supply Company, to open stores to supply its employes with groceries, provisions, and almost every article of household necessity, together with powder, fuse and other supplies—in fact, everything the employes need, either to live or to conduct their operations as employes of the company.

"The local grocer, baker, meat and fish dealer, apothecary, blacksmith, carpenter, coal, wood, and other dealers are thus brought into direct competition with the Steel Corporation stores. It may be said that this is only the application of fair and free competition. But this is not wholly so. The company stores have great advantages. They deal with their own employes, who constitute 90 per cent of their custom. To be sure the employes are not obliged by any law or rule of the company to buy at the company store, but it is undoubtedly true that they all understand they will be the better considered for doing so.

"The company supply store knows just what is coming in wages every day and week to each employe who deals at the company store. No other local competitor has the benefit of this information. This enables the company supply store to extend credit only tot the extent of wages actually due or earned. The result is practically an actual cash business, with no losses in bad debts. The fact that the Steel Corporation does not attempt to maintain these supply stores except where it deals with its own employes, shows pretty conclusively that it has no desire to a glittering generality, will long conditions in ordinary competition. It limits its stores to places where it deals almost wholly with its own employes.

"The profits made and dividends declared to the Steel Corporation by this system of supply stores, we think, are pertinent and sufficient to show a prosperity entirely out of the ordinary. This supply company was organized in March, 1903, about a year after the Steel Corporation itself. It capital stock is $500,000. Its corporate name is Union Supply Company, and it is one of the subsidiary companies of the United States Steel Corporation.

"In 1903, this $500,000 subsidiary corporation declared a dividend of $250,000 and in subsequent years as follows: 1904, $350,000; 1905, $405,000; 1906, $305,000; 1907, $500,000; 1908, $320,000; 1909, $440,000, and 1910 $530,000. It will thus be seen that this corporation earned and paid its parent company, the United States Steel Corporation, in dividends a total of $3,400,000 in eight years on retail supplies sold almost wholly to its own employes."

REMARKABLE SPEECH BY GOV. MARSHALL

ACCEPTING DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION FOR VICE PRESIDENT.

He Would Line Up With Socialistic Many Against Paternalistic Few If—

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 20.—Governor Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana, in his formal speech of acceptance of the Democratic vice presidential nomination, delivered to the notification committee here today, attacked the Republican party on the ground that it had fostered special privilege to the point of making men everywhere socialistic in theory if not in conduct. In this connection he said:

"It is idle for a thoughtful man in America, whether millionaire or pauper, to longer play the ostrich. Safety does not consist in hiding one's head in the sands of either sentiment or hope. It is foolish for the vastly rich to keep on insisting that more and more shall be added to their riches through a specious system of special legislation ostensibly enacted to run the government, in reality enacted to loot the people.

"It is worse than ignorance for them to smile at the large body of intelligent Americans who regard themselves as fortunate if the debit and credit accounts of life balance at the end of the year; and to assume that the mighty many, who are becoming convinced that that social system that we call democracy is but a glittering generality, will long endure the industrial slavery being produced.

System Breeds Socialists.

"Whether voting the ticket or not, men everywhere, looking upon the awful injustice of this economic system, are becoming socialistic in theory, if not in conduct.

"And shall any fair-mainded man say that, if it redounds to the interests of the people of this country that 100 men shall control its business to the good of everyone, there is anything fallacious in theory that government, instead of transferring business to a favored few for the benefit of all, should itself discharge that business for the benefit of all.

"I do not hesitate to say that, if it be impossible to restore this republic to its ancient ideals, which I do not believe, and I must make the ultimate choice between the paternalism of the few and the socialism of the many, count me and my house with the throbbing heart of humanity.

"The discontent in Republican ranks is Democratic discontent. How much of it has reached the point where, wearied with the bad workings of a good system, it is willing to topple that system over and try something new, I cannot prophesy."

SOCIALIST RUNS FINE IN ALASKA ELECTION

Fairbank, Alaska—Incomplete returns of Tuesday's election for Delegate to Congress from this Territory gives James Wickersham, the so-called "progressive" candidate, a plurality of about 900 votes. Kazis Kraucaunas, the Socialist candidate, made a good run, and though he is a few votes behind the Republican candidate, it is expected he will come up to second place.

The unofficial vote gives Wickersham 3,094; Gilmore, Republican, 1,-208; Kraucaunas, Socialist, 1,170; Jenninga, Democrat, 770, and Harris, 203. The Socialists are highly elated over their victory and there are large groups near the mining camps carrying red flags with inscriptions, "Alaska for Socialism in 1913."

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE PARADE TUESDAY, AUG. 27

The parade starts at 10 a. m., Tuesday. Assemble at Memorial hall at 9 o'clock. Wear white if possible.

Line of March—Start at hall, go south on Fourth to Main, west on Main to High, north on High to Chestnut; then countermarch to Memorial hall, court of honor, to reviewing stand.

Now, you Socialists, you have been fighting for woman's suffrage many, many years. Here is your opportunity to make a big turn out, line up in the parade, every one of you who can possibly do so. Lay off from work if possible and let's make this a demonstration that will open the eyes of the capitalistic interests of this state. Remember that your wife and daughter is interested in this matter and we must all get together and boost this event.

Don't forget the time and place, bring every possible sympathizer you can with you and make this parade one longe to be remembered.

Woman's suffrage is one of the planks in our platform and we simply must use every effort to carry this amendment, September 3rd.

HIGH-JINKS IN LOCAL POLITICS THESE DAYS

Bull Moosers Endorse Jim Ross' Man for Congress.

Politics in Franklin County certainly presents some queer curios. Thirteen candidates on the Republican county ticket have accepted the endorsement of Progressive party, whereupon Chairman Sartain refuses to meet the thirteen. Some of them say they will not a bit surprised if, by this time next week, petitions are in circulation for putting on the ballot as independent candidates a list of opponents of each one of the regularly nominated Republicans, who, without declaring for Roosevelt or being asked so to declare, were nominated by the Progressives last week.

The great-and-only Progressives, custodians of the people's libertied, have endorsed C. L. Brumbaugh, Jim Ross' candidate, for Congress. Think of a henchman of Ross standing for the sacred principles of Teddy. Tis fitting, after all, for both are bosses, and both have long fooled the people. They ought to be together.

WHY?

Mayor Karb has suspended Police Chief Carter.

Karb's lieutenant, Solicitor Bolin, wanted the trial continued until after the Centenial.

If Wayne B. Wheeler is right, then Potter wants the proceeds, the profit, or rather graft that a political organization levies on gambling, confidence men, disorderly houses and crime during the Centennial for the Republican organization.

The Chicago Tribune editorially admits that a story had reached its ears that two police inspectors had quarried over the pickpocket privileges of the aviation meet last year.

Gyp the Blood, Whitey Lewis, Dago Frank and Leftie Louie in New York City are the paid murderers who pulled honest graft out of crime, gambling and licentiousness for Police Lieutenant Charles Becker standing in the shadow of Lieutenant Dan Costigan, behind whom is Police Commissioner Rhinelander Waldo,—a faithful Tammany Brave.

Back of Tammany Hall is the Phara-social exclusivism of nice New York—both Republican and Democratic.

Columbus has abundance of likely rivals.

You don't catch a diplomatic Democrat of the Karb school admitting any of Potter's silliness.

Karb parries the querry and asks for time.

Wait, says Karb and Bolin to until after the Centennial.

GOODALE PARK MEETING.

The Socialist meeting at Goodale Park last Sunday afternoon was a success despite the rival attraction at the same place of a city band concert. Comrades Gus Tegenkamp, S. H. Cochrun and A. C. Eby were the speakers. The collection and the sale of literature indicated the intense interest of the people in th question of Socialism.

Why does a chicken cross the road also, why does a workingman vote a capitalistic ticket?

ACCEPTING THE INEVITABLE.

By C. E. Ruthenberg.

Socialist Candidate for Governor.

Socialists have always contended that the trusts and giant corporations of our day were not the result of the evil mechinations of a certain man or group of men.

They have pointed out that the trusts were not in existence because Rockefeller, Morgan or some other capitalist devised these great organizations in order to rob and exploit the workers with greater facility, but because the logical development of the capitalist system had produced them.

Man has since time immemorial been seeking to extend his away over the productive forces of nature. Driven by the necessity of supplying himself with food and protection from the elements, he has constantly turned his ingenuity in the direction of making more and more assured these fundamental necessities to his contiqued existence. We see this motive at work driving man forward through all the ages. From the days of the weaponless savage to the wonderful achievements of the Twentieth Century we have one line of progress made by man under the stimulus of this desire to make certain his food supply and the other things which in the course of the ages he has been able to add to the former bear necessities for existence.

The trust eliminates waste and puts the production of wealth on a more efficient and scientific basis. They represent one of the stages of progress in man's effort to dominate the productive forces which he uses to supply his wants. They are in addition the natural result of machine production. The progress of the last fifty years has been toward more and more costly machinery. As the cost of the machinery necessary to produce efficiency advances the amount of capital necessary to enter any line of business grows greater, and this again leads to the greater wants of production.

This attitude of the Socialists, sound, because based upon a scientific study of the development of production, has however, in the past been repudiated by Republicans and Democrats alike. To them the trusts were the manifestations of some malevolent power bent upon levying tribute upon the people. They saw the evils of of private ownership of the new organizations, but in place of laying these at the door of private ownership they assigned them to the form of organization. The result was the Sherman anti-trust law and other trust legislation of a similar nature. This at least has been the public attitude as expressed in their platforms of the old parties toward the trusts. It is still the attitude of the Democratic party. It still adheres to the reactionary and impossible program of the breaking up the trusts.

But part of the Republican party is ready to accept the inevitable. The Roosevelt contingent is now on record as favoring regulation. And now comes a minority report of the Republican congressmen on the Stanley steel trust investigating committee with the same proposal. In other words these men now admit by their new proposal the correctness of the Socialist position on the trust question. But they do not accept the Socialist remedy. "Regulation is the great panacea," which has succeeded attempts to force disintegration. Regulation will prove as futile as attempts to disintegrate the trusts have been. The present proposal to regulate is about as sensibe as if those offering the solution were to advise a body of men who were being attacked by a single individual with a club something like this: "You have the power, but don't take the club away from him. Pass laws that the weight of the blow on the top of your head is to be just so much and that not more than a certain amount of strength is to be put into the blow on your right ear and just so much in the blow on the left." The advice to regulate the trust is about as good. The private ownership of the things the worker needs to use in order to live is the club through use of which he is exploited and robbed. The proposal to limit corporations, to limit profits and prices simply represent attempts to limt the strength of the blows dealt the worker. Even if regulation could be made effective, which, of course, it cannot, it would solve the trust problem so far as the workers are concerned.

The Socialist contention in regard to the inevitability of trust production is being vindicated. Experiments with regulation will soon prove that the Socialist remedy,—to take the club out of the hands of the Capitalist by establishing collective ownership of the means of production is the only remedy for our industrial problem.

GEN. BROWN DRAFTED BY THE BOSSES.

The Republican party of Ohio, paralyzed by the resignation of its candidate for Governor, Judge Dillon, of street car injunction infamy, has pushed poor old Gen. Brown, of Zanesville, into the vacancy and named a poet-lawyer, Beecher W. Waltermere, of Findlay, for lieutenant-governor. Every candidate on the state and County tickets must now swear allegiance to Big Bill Taft or get off the ballot. State Chairman, Harry Daugherty has said so and he gets the dope from Washington. It's too bad that the rank and file of the G. O. P. cannot use the Recall like we Socialists can.

In the near future we will have the retail grocery business controlled by the trust or chain stores. They undersell until they drive the independent stores out of business, then they have a monopoly and can charge what they please. England has gone through that experience and today the only thing that stands between the consumer and exorbitant prices is the Co-operative Society with its thousands of stores and its membership who are loyal to their own class and to themselves.

The Franklin Co-operative Company, was incorporated on this plan and has opened its first store, at 529 North 20th Street, and asks the patronage and support of all consumers, who believe in lower prices and in a square deal.

SOME PROVISIONS OF OHIO'S PROPOSED CONSTITUTION

Explanation of Important Provisions The People Should Consider Very Thoughtfully

By Harry D. Thomas.

No. 14 on the Official Ballott—Removal of Officials.

This amendment makes mandatory the passage of laws, for the removal from office, upon complaint and hearing, of all public officers for any misconduct in office involving moral turpitude or for other cause prescribed by law. It is an addition to impeachment.

No. 15—Regulating Expert Testimony in Criminal Cases. Article Two.

This amendment will allow the general asembly at any time to enact laws giving to the courts power to name the experts in a criminal case, and to regulate the introduction of expert testimony in criminal cases.

No. 16—Registering and Warranting Land Titles. Article Two.

The purpose of this amendment is to remove the constitutional objections found by the Supreme Court to exist against the adoption in Ohio of what is known as the "Torrens Land Title System." Its principle feature is:

1. Registering of the title in the name of the owner, upon his application and the decree of a court, and issuing to him a certificate of title good as against all the world.

2. The creation of a guarantee fund by fees to be paid by the applicants to register, out of which fund are made good the losses, if any, of persons who may be wrongfully cut out of interests in the registered lands.

3. The registering in the registrar's office of all things which affect the title as they occur from time to time after registration, and the noting of these, upon request, on the duplicate certificate held by the owner.

4. The issuing of new certificates of title by the registrar upon each sale and transfer of land.

5. Registration is voluntary upon the part of owners of land. When a title is once registered no further abstracts or examinations of title are necessary.

The adoption of this amendment will not abolish nor require the abolition of the present system of recording land titles and transfers.

No. 23—Woman's Suffrage. Article Five.

This amendment takes out of article V, section 1, of the present constitution two words, which are: "White male," the purpose being to give the women of the state the right to vote on the same conditions under which the suffrage is exercised by men.

August Bebel's "Women Under Socialism."

August Bebel's "Women Under Socialism," has a paragraph which strikes the keynote of the deepest spirit of Socialism:

"Woman has the same right as man to unfold her faculties and to the free exercise of the same; she is human as well as he; like him she should be free to dispose herself as her own master. The accident of being born a woman, makes no difference. To exclude woman from equality on the ground that she was born female and not male—an accident for which man is as little responsible as she—is inequitable as would be to make rights and privileges dependent upon the accident of religion or political bias and as senseless as that two human beings must look upon each other as enemies on the ground that the accident of birth makes them of different stock and nationality.

"Woman has always and everywhere, stood on an equality with man in the Socialist movement, and every Socialist should vote for woman's suffrage."

No. 24—Omitting Word "White." Article Five.

This amendment takes out or article V, section 1, the one word "white." Its adoption is desirable, in case the woman suffrage amendment, should be defeated, to make the state constitution conform to that of the United States.

No. 25—Use of Voting Machines. Article Five.

This amendment permits laws to be passed authorizing the use of ballots or voting machines at elections. Under a recent decision of the Supreme Court of this state voting machines cannot be used for the reason that the constitution now requires all elections to be by ballot.

Hot Time at Schiller Park!

There's goin' to be a hot old time at Schiller Park, Monday evening, August 26th. If you miss this big event of Centennial week, and then hear what a glorious time every body had, don't blame anyone but yourself.

It's going to be ONE BIG GRAND FESTIVAL from the start at 2 p. m., until 12 midnight. The band will be there and make you forget your troubles with fine music; and "Roasting Ears!" Oh, you "Roasting Ears." We will have these great big kind that smear your face all over every time you take a bite. One comrade says he is coming just to eat roasting ears. And the children, bless their little souls, we are fixing up a fish pond for their especial benefit. We will further have ice cream, cake, buttermilk, candy, pop corn fritters, and everything that will be needed to make this the most enjoyable afternoon and evening the Socialist party and its thousands of friends and sympathizers have ever had.

If there happens to be a Centennial parade in the evening don't let that keep you away as there will be parades every night in the week. Let every comrade and friend join in making this event ONE BIG, GRAND SUCCESS.

The Columbus Socialist thanks each and every one of you hard working comrades in advance for your help in our festival, and hopes to meet you, your friends and especially the enemy at Schiller Park, Monday evening.

GRASPING STEEL MOLOCH DEVOURS LARGE PROFITS

Washington, Aug. 17.—In the report of the committee to investigate violations of the anti-trust act, particularly directed toward the activities of the United States Steel Corporation, there is much interesting information relative to the conduct of that gigantic commercial enterprise. A chapter in the report is devoted to the "company supply store." Not unlike other monopolistic business concerns the Steel Corporation invades every avenue where profit can be procured. The following is an excerpt upon this phase of the corporations activities:

"As bearing on the question of employes, the policy of the Steel Corporation in regard to the establishment of the company supply stores is important. The evidence before the committee shows that it is the custom of the company where steel and iron plants are established and towns and villages grow up around engage in such trade under ordinary sidiary company known as the Union Supply Company, to open stores to supply its employes with groceries, provisions, and almost every article of household necessity, together with powder, fuse, and other supplies—in fact, everything the employes need, either to live or to conduct their operations as employes of the company.

"The local grocer, baker, meat and fish dealer, apothecary, blacksmith, carpenter, coal, wood, and other dealers are thus brought into direct competition with the Steel Corporation stores. It may be said that this is only the application of fair and free competition. But this is not wholly so. The company stores have great advantages. They deal with their own employes, who constitute 90 per cent of their custom. To be sure the employes are not obliged by any law or rule of the company to buy at the company store, but it is undoubtedly true that they all understand they will be the better considered for doing so.

"The company supply store knows just what is coming in wages every day and week to each employe who deals at the company store. No other local competitor has the benefit of this information. This enables the company supply store to extend credit only tot the extent of wages actually due or earned. The result is practically an actual cash business, with no losses in bad debts. The fact that the Steel Corporation does not attempt to maintain these supply stores except where it deals with its own employes, shows pretty conclusively that it has no desire to a glittering generality, will long econditions in ordinary competition. It limits its stores to places where it deals almost wholly with its own employes.

"The profits made and dividends declared to the Steel Corporation by this system of supply stores, we think, are pertinent and sufficient to show a prosperity entirely out of the ordinary. This supply company was organized in March, 1903, about a year after the Steel Corporation itself. It capital stock is $500,000. Its corporate name is Union Supply Company, and it is one of the subsidiary companies of the United States Steel Corporation.

"In 1903, this $500,000 subsidiary corporation declared a dividend of $250,000 and in subsequent years as follows: 1904, $350,000; 1905, $405,000; 1906, $805,000; 1907, $500,000; 1908, $320,000; 1909, $440,000, and 1910 $520,000. It will thus be seen that this corporation earned and paid its parent company, the United States Steel Corporation, in dividends a total of $3,490,000 in eight years on retail supplies sold almost wholly to its own employes."

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE PARADE TUESDAY, AUG. 27

The parade starts at 10 a. m., Tuesday. Assemble at Memorial hall at 9 o'clock. Wear white if possible.

Line of March—Start at hall, go south on Fourth to Main, west on Main to High, north on High to Chestnut; then countermarch to Memorial hall, court of honor, to reviewing stand.

Now, you Socialists, you have been fighting for woman's suffrage many, many years. Here is your opportunity to make a big turn out, line up in the parade, every one of you who can possibly do so. Lay off from work if possible and let's make this a demonstration that will open the eyes of the capitalistic interests of this state. Remember that your wife and daughter is interested in this matter and we must all get together and boost this event.

Don't forget the time and place, bring every possible sympathizer you can with you and make this parade one longe to be remembered.

Woman's suffrage is one of the planks in our platform and we simply must use every effort to carry this amendment, September 3rd.

HIGH-JINKS IN LOCAL POLITICS THESE DAYS

Bull Moosers Endorse Jim Ross' Man for Congress.

Politics in Franklin County certainly presents some queer curios. Thirteen candidates on the Republican county ticket have accepted the endorsement of Progressive party, whereupon Chairman Sartain refuses to meet the thirteen. Some of them say they will not a bit surprised if, by this time next week, petitions are in circulation for putting on the ballot as independent candidates a list of opponents of each one of the regularly nominated Republicans, who, without declaring for Roosevelt or being asked so to declare, were nominated by the Progressives last week.

The great-and-only Progressives, custodians of the people's liberties, have endorsed C. L. Brumbaugh, Jim Ross' candidate, for Congress. Think of a henchman of Ross standing for the sacred principles of Teddy. 'Tis fitting, after all, for both are bosses, and both have long fooled the people. They ought to be together.

WHY?

Mayor Karb has suspended Police Chief Carter.

Karb's lieutenant, Solicitor Bolin, wanted the trial continued until after the Centenial.

If Wayne B. Wheeler is right, then Potter wants the proceeds, the profit, or rathes graft that a political organization levies on gambling, confidence men, disorderly houses and crime during the Centennial for the Republican organization.

The Chicago Tribune editorially admits that a story had reached its ears that two police inspectors had quarried over the pickpocket privileges of the aviation meet last year.

Gyp the Blood, Whitey Lewis, Dago Frank and Leftie Louie in New York City are the paid murderers who pulled honest graft out of crime, gambling and licentiousness for Police Lieutenant Charles Becker standing in the shadow of Lieutenant Dan Costigan, behind whom is Police Commissioner Rhinelander Waldo,—a faithful Tammany Brave.

Back of Tammany Hall is the Phara-social exclusivism of nice New York—both Republican and Democratic.

Columbus has abundance of likely rivals.

You don't catch a diplomatic Democrat of the Karb school admitting any of Potter's silliness.

Karb parries the querry and asks for time.

Wait, says Karb and Bolin to until after the Centennial.

REMARKABLE SPEECH BY GOV. MARSHALL

ACCEPTING DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION FOR VICE PRESIDENT.

He Would Line Up With Socialistic Many Against Paternalistic Few If—

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 30.—Governor Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana, in his formal speech of acceptance of the Democratic vice presidential nomination, delivered to the notification committee here today, attacked the Republican party on the ground that it had fostered special privilege to the point of making men everywhere socialistic in theory if not in conduct. In this connection he said:

"It is idle for a thoughtful man in America, whether millionaire or pauper, to longer play the ostrich. Safety does not consist in hiding one's head in the sands of either sentiment or hope. It is foolish for the vastly rich to keep on insisting that more and more shall be added to their riches through a specious system of special legislation ostensibly enacted to run the government, in reality enacted to loot the people.

"It is worse than ignorance for them to smile at the large body of intelligent Americans who regard themselves as fortunate if the debit and credit accounts of life balance at the end of the year; and to assume that the mighty many, who are becoming convinced that that social system that we call democracy is but a glittering generality, will long endure the industrial slavery being produced.

System Breeds Socialists.

"Whether voting the ticket or not, men everywhere, looking upon the awful injustice of this economic system, are becoming socialistic in theory, if not in conduct.

"And shall any fair-minded man say that, if it redounds to the interests of the people of this country that 100 men shall control its business to the good of everyone, there is anything fallacious in theory that government, instead of transferring business to a favored few for the benefit of all, should itself discharge that business for the benefit of all.

"I do not hesitate to say that, if it be impossible to restore this republic to its ancient ideals, which I do not believe, and I must make the ultimate choice between the paternalism of the few and the socialism of the many, count me and my house with the throbbing heart of humanity.

"The discontent in Republican ranks is Democratic discontent. How much of it has reached the point where, wearied with the bad workings of a good system, it is willing to topple that system over and try something new, I cannot prophesy."

SOCIALIST RUNS FINE IN ALASKA ELECTION

Fairbank, Alaska—Incomplete returns of Tuesday's election for Delegate to Congress from this Territory gives James Wickersham, the so-called "progressive" candidate, a plurality of about 900 votes. Kazis Kraucsunas, the Socialist candidate, made a good run, and though he is a few votes behind the Republican candidate, it is expected he will come up to second place.

The unofficial vote gives Wickersham 2,094; Gilmore, Republican, 1,208; Krauczunas, Socialist, 1,170; Jennings, Democrat, 770, and Harris, 302. The Socialists are highly elated over their victory and there are large groups near the mining camps carrying red flags with inscriptions, "Alaska for Socialism in 1913."

THE RECORD OF CONGRESSMAN BERGER

By Louis Kopelin.

Socialist Washington Correspondent.

In a few words this is the record of Victor L. Berger, the Socialist member of the House of Representatives:

Forced a corrupt Judge to retire from the bench.

Secured the admission of four Russian political refugees who had been detained by the immigration authorities.

Introduced twenty-four measures reflecting the interests of the working class.

Addressed the House eighteen times on social, political and industrial subjects.

The above is only a brief summary of his work in Congress. To give in detail an account of his legislative and other activities in Washington would fill a book. From the first day Berger took his seat until the present time the office of the first Socialist Congressman was probably the busiest of any in the big marble building which houses the 394 members of the popular branch of Congress.

Berger's term began March 4, 1911. His first actual service began on April 4 of the same year. On this date Congress convened in extraordinary sesion. Usually such sessions are not suited for the bringing out of the best qualities and the legislative programs of an individual Congressman. But this rule did not hamper Victor L. Berger.

Of course, the second session of Congress gave the Socialist Congressman much more time and latitude to bring before the country the message of Socialism. His activities were not limited to the floor of the House. Berger plead for the workers in committee rooms, before the President, at the departments and through the public press. All seemed to be eager to give the Socialist legislator a square deal. Some Washingtonians say this was due to Berger's personality. Others say that this was due to the fact that Berger represented not only the fifth Wisconin district but nearly a million voters throughout the country.

During the first two sessions of the Sixty-second Congress Berger introduced twenty-four measures. Eleven reflected the party platform, five represented the interests of the toilers, four dealt with problems peculiar to the District of Columbia, one demanded the recall of the troops from the Mexican border, one called for the impeachment of a corupt Federal judge, one requested an investigation of the Federal mints, and one represented a local need of Berger's constituents.

Following is the list of bills introduced by Berger:

SPECIAL SESSION,
April 4 to August 22, 1911.

April 27.—Joint resolution for a constitutional amendment abolishing the Senate and the veto powers of the President, and the invalidating powers of the courts.

May 17.—Bill for the erection of a postoffice in Waukesha, Wisconsin, "with such structural conveniences as will contribute to the safety and comfort of the men and women to employed there."

May 30.—Bill to revise the interstate extradition law.

June 8.—Bill to transfer the Speaker's automobile to the District of Columbia committee.

July 28.—Bill to prohibit employment of children by the Federal Government.

July 31.—Bill to provide old-age pensions.

July 31.—Joint resolution for appointment of a commission to report on old-age pensions.

REGULAR SESSION,
December 4, 1911 to August, 1912.

Dec. 4.—Bill to repeal the anti-trust act and to provide for the social ownership and operation of certain industries.

Dec. 20.—Joint resolution for the termination of the treaty of 1897-1893 between the United States and Russia.

Jan. 9.—Bill to create a public store in Washington for civil service employees.

Jan. 10.—Joint resolution for a constitutional amendment extending the suffrage to women.

Jan. 16.—House resolution directing the Commissioner of Labor to prepare a report on old-age pensions.

Jan. 31.—Bill for government ownership and operation of railroad, telegraphs, telephones and express properties.

Feb. 1.—House Resolution to investigate the strike on the Harriman railroad lines.

Feb. 6.—Bill for local self-government in the District of Columbia.

Feb. 7.—House resolution to investigate the Lawrence strike.

Feb. 23.—House resolution to investigate the Treasury Department's attitude toward the Government mints.

April 24.—Bill for government ownership of wireless.

June 7.—Resolution impeaching Judge Cornelius H. Hanford.

July 10.—Bill to provide for the employment of all willing workers, and for other purposes.

In spite of the fact that no one on the floor of the House agreed with his views, Berger always received the closest attention and often applause from his colleagues whenever he made a speech. Berger often made short talks during debates on pending bills while on some occasions he made prepared addresses on Socialism and the relation of the working class to the political questions of the day. In all, he made eighteen speeches. They are as follows:

June 14.—Favoring the reduction of the tariff on wool(the famous tariff speech).

Aug. 7.—Introducing old-age pension amendment.

1912.

Jan. 13.—Showing that the "insurgents" cannot claim separate recognition while remaining in the old parties.

Jan. 15.—Criticising starvation wages paid to District of Columbia employees, (as low as $240 a year).

Jan. 17.—Repeating above criticism and offering an amendment.

Jan. 18.—Favoring municipal asphalt plan for District of Columbia.

Jan. 23.—Suggesting investigation of unemployment rather than wasting time on personal squabble of Representatives Hay and Hobson.

Jan. 27.—Showing that labor is never protected by tariffs.

Jan. 28.—Favoring investigation of Lawrence outrages.

Feb. 16.—Favoring a citizen soldiery.

April 19.—Favoring automatic promotion of all postal employees from $1100 grade to $1200 grade.

April 26.—Favoring woman suffrage for Alaskan territorial charter.

May 1.—Favoring permission to postal employees to use stools for at least two hours a day.

May 8.—Opposing requirement for newspapers to print full list of stockholders. Secured change to requirement that all names be printed of those owning more than $500 of stock.

July 18.—Showing that the working class must have its own party to give expression to its own class interests. A lively debate followed this address.

Nearly one and a half million copies of the above speeches have been circulated throughout the country under Representative Berger's frank. The capitalist press has also given them great publicity and editorial comment.

The Socialist Congressman never failed an opportunity to advance the cause of labor before the committee of Congress. Following are the dates and occasions of these committees appearances:

May 11.—In favor of the Lloyd bill to give government employees the right to organize and to petition Congress.

May 30.—In favor of investigating the kidnaping of the McNamara brothers, and conducting the examination of witnesses, securing a report condemning the act.

Jan. 17.—Again favoring the passage of the Lloyd bill.

March 16.—By his statement, presented by Mrs. Elsie Cole Phillips in his absence, advocating woman suffrage.

March 4.—Opposing the Root amendment to the immigration bill, which provided for the deportation of political refugees.

Among the greatest achievements of Representative Berger was the settlement of the Lawrence strike, which was the direct result of a Congressional investigation initiated by the Socialist Congressman and the forced resignation of Federal Judge Hanford while a sub-committee of the House Committee on the Judiciary was investigating the charges made against him by Berger on the floor of the House.

His standing in Congress gave Representative Berger great influence in the federal departments. Whenever, and wherever, a workingman or some other deserving person was in need of assistance Berger never failed to use his good offices in his behalf. The following are some of his activities before the various federal departments:

Department of Commerce and Labor.—Before this department Berger often appeared in behalf of political refugees who were denied admission into this country by immigration authorities. Berger succeeded in securing the admission for the following political refugees:

Theodore Malkoff, detained at Ellis Island.

Zolel Marcus, detained at Ellis Island.

Fitel Kagan and Vasily Lachatacheff, detained at Tacoma, Washington, on the pretext that they were Anarchists.

He also secured the admission of a number of others who were detained for non-political reasons.

Several persons denied their citizenship papers appealed to Congressman Berger, who took their cases up with this department: Dr. H. C. Barkman, Washington; Toivo Hiltunen, Hancock, Michigan.

Postoffice Department.—Asked permission for the wearing of blouses in warm weather by carriers. Secured favorable action.

Secured second-class mail privilege for California Social-Democrat and several other publications.

Department of Justice.—Assisted in obtaining release of Matthew H. Lough, engineer on the Panama railroad, imprisoned on account of an unavoidable accident.

Navy Department.—Secured the right for active participation in municipal politics for the employees of the Bermerton, Washington, navy yard. This is a reversal of the former position held by the administration.

Executive Office.—Personally requested of President Taft the release of Albert Dewey Carter, a twelve-year-old postal messenger boy in Texas, convicted of embezzling a money order. The lad being under working age, the government was really to blame.

Personally requested of President Taft an investigation of the Lawrence outrages, and secured an order to the department of justice to have the matter taken up.

Personaly asked President Taft to have Stefan Darbrowski, an American citizen, imprisoned in Siberia, freed. Matter still pending.

One of Congressman Berger's most difficult tasks has been the answering and handling of the tremendous amount of mail which arrived at his office daily. Three secretaries have been constantly employed to handle this correspondence which comes from every part of the United States and often from abroad.

Although the only Representative of his party in Washington, Berger has made a record to which Socialists can point with pride. That the Socialist Congressman "made good" is admitted by all. He has fulfilled all the promises made by the Socialist party and done more, too.

Needles to say, no old party Congressman has such a record. In fact, neither of the old parties in Congress has done as much for the working class in its entire career as has been accomplished by the Socialist Representative in only two sessions of the Sixty-second Congress.

MAX HAYES TELLS 'EM WHERE TO HEAD IN

State Executive Committee S. P. has adopted a motion demanding that the Miami Valley Socialist of Dayton retract the charge that speakers were dropped from the list because they advocated political action only. The Dayton paper defies the committee and calls upon the members throughout the state to apply the recall to the members thereof. The Columbus Socialist announces that sufficient locals have endorsed the recall proposition to force it to a vote. Columbus Local, at another record-breaking general meeting, again upheld the Columbus Socialist in its attack upon the state committee and state secretary, who have butted into the industrial field, and are surreptitiously endeavoring to build up the mythical I. W. W. at the expense of the Socialist movement.—Cleveland Citizen.

A communication from the National Fraternal Committee, with headquarters at St. Louis, Mo., relating to campaign issues was considered by the National Campaign Committee in session August 3rd. This organization, according to its literature, is avowedly anti-Catholic and it gives a quasi endorsement to the candidates of the Socialist Party. The National Campaign Committee very pointedly informed the organization that Socialists have no part or parcel in religious controversies and stated that:

"Our aim is to socialize the industries of the country, and upon that (issue) intelligent Catholic and Protestant working men ought to unite.

"We cannot accept the issue which you have stated to be "Home Rule or Rome Rule". The issue is Capitalistic Rule or Working Class Rule. And upon this issue the working class unitedly must make its campaign."

J. MAHLON BARNES,
Campaign Manager.

SOCIAL PROGRESS AND THE CRIMINAL LAWS

William J. Burns, the eminent snitch of the plunderbund and advocate of good government by the criminal process, was in our midst some time ago advocating the remedy that has proved so profitable to his private purse and so convenient to his employers. The purport of his argument was to the effect that social diseases can be cured by jailing crooks and arresting malefactors—although, when analyzed, his speech amounted in substance and effect to nothing more than a defense of his private occupation, yet the gullibility of the general public on this particular line of "reform" makes a brief discussion of it quite appropriate, if not entirely necessary.

To adapt themselves to constantly changing circumstances, social and political institutions are in need of continuous modification. Reform and agitation are the means by which these new adjustments are made. Before a given reform becomes an accepted fact two questions must be settled—first, that the given reform is necessary; second, the method by which it may be sucessfully accomplished. It may be said with a reasonable degree of assurance that a greater difference of opinion arises over the question of method than as to the desirability of a certain reform.

The process of refom is not continuous and regular, but periods of agitation and social and political fermentation are succeeded by periods of calm and apathy. The present is a time of great revolutionary activity. Our politics have been exceedingly quiescent for nearly half a century and the introduction of methods of production that have revolutionized industry have not been followed by any corresponding adjustment in our social and political life. The need of new adjustments is apparent to all and this need is brought home to many in the form of an economic pressure that is all but destructive. While our social and political institutions are admittedly out of date and fail utterly in accomplishing their purposes, the methods by which they may be re-adapted to existing necessities furnishes great contrariety of opinion.

It is not our object to unfold any universal solvent of our social and political ills, but rather to consider negatively one of the devices that most readily suggests itself as a corrective when anything goes wrong. An elaborate attack upon a well established device for social and political reform, would seem entirely unnecessary were it not for the fact that this device is so universally relied upon and has uniformly proved so barren of results. The device referred to, as suggested by the title, is the criminal process. The question of how not to do a thing ranks second in importance only to the question of how to do it. A critical study of suggestions and methods may at least have a tendency to solve the former question, if not entirely satisfactory as to the latter.

The method of reform by punishing anti-social conduct as a crime grows out of a highly individualistic conception of society. It is based upon the theory that if the units of society are good, the resulting social conditions will be correspondingly good, and that the bad social units may be made good by imprisonment or some adequate punishment, or at any rate they may be removed from the eld of social activity and that the punishment inflicted upon those actually bad will prove a deterrent to those potentially bad. In this way the bad will be eliminated by the criminal process and those whose tendency is in that direction will be frightened into goodness at least sufficient to make them not wholly obnoxious as members of the community. This is the theory, which if not expressly avowed, is tacitly implied in the ever increasing use of the criminal law as a weapon of social defense. It reduces those evils which it seeks to reform to questions of individual depravity and then applies the remedy to the individuals concerned. The remedy is as individualistic as the theory on which it is based. It must necessarily operate on single individuals and not upon society in the aggregate. Nor does it take any cognizance of causes that effect society as a whole.

Crimes, both those designated as mala inse, and those designated as mala prohibita, i. e., those arising from moral obliquity and those merely prohibited by law and not involving moral turpitude, may be traced to two causes,—some sort of moral depravity in the individual whether accompanied or not by any marks of physical degeneracy and some maladjustment of the individual to his physical or social environment. While crimes may be thus classified as to their causes, it is not impossible that there is but one cause operating upon the individual in the production of crime and that is the physical and social environment. In other words those crimes which are directly traceable to individual depravity or degeneracy, are remotely the hereditary or cumulative effects of environmental mal-adjustments. On this theory the causes of crime would be wholly social, and the remedy must therefore be social and not individual.

If we have correctly diagnosed the cause of crime, what a strange perversion of reason is manifested in our elaborate criminal machinery so unctuously administered by our sanctified judges?

First we permit social mal-adjustments to arise such that their pressure, acting upon the weakest members of the community or those least favorably situated, compel a violation of accepted legal and ethical standards and then when this violation of the criminal code comes to the knowledge of our astute and vigilant prosecutors and well fed legal functionaries, the poor unfortunate is indicted, tried and convicted, with great pomp and ceremony and given a long term in some jail or penitentiary. It makes no difference to our shrewd and vigilant limbs of the law, that the causes producing criminality are not abated. Judges and proescuting attorneys have reputations to make, and the law demands its pound of flesh. It makes no difference that one victim having been put out of the way, the same causes operating on another individual will inevitably make another criminal to take his place. If we abolished crime altogether by removing its causes, what a loss the community would suffer in fearless prosecuting attorneys, and parenthetically it may be remarked that the crop has been rather large of late—then, again, we would be deprived of a formidable weapon for the regeneration of society and our distinguished graft probers and Burns detectives might be obliged to seek other employment. We might also lose the invaluable services of our benevolent juvenile courts with their great army of well fed tip staffs and fetainers who are so busily engaged in reforming the community with a policeman's billy, and prying into the affairs of those individuals who do not readily fall in with their benevolent purposes. What a pity if more "kids" had better homes and more families had larger incomes. We might, out of such a state of affairs, outgrow the habit of community crime and thereby lose a fine crop of graft prosecutors, a few shrewd detectives and a few benevolent juvenile judges who grovel helplessly at the feet of the mighty and bark furicusly at the humble and helpless. Thus our criminal law, designed ostensibly to protect victims, degenerates in the hands of ambitious politicians into a means for their political elevation or becomes an instrument for the oppression of the poor and and unfortunate. There is no attempt at concealing this in our police courts, where the poor victim is led before the court like an ox to the slaughter. An aroma of hypocricy pervades the juvenile courts which even then only thinly disguises its underlying butality.

We need no iron-jawed prosecuting attorneys. We need no cunning sleuths. We need no self-righteous judges. What we do need, are plain men in these positions who without frills of logic or spectacular posing will point out the real cause of crime in the nefarious system under which we live.

THE LIBERTY

198-200 East Main Street

We do not want more wages only, we do not want shorter hours only. These are little enough. We want only to earn our own living and provide for our own housholds, and we want the fellows upon our backs to get off. Socialism means a higher education, security of our jobs, freedom from the grip of profit takers and comfort in the enjoyment of our homes. And that we mean to secure by the use of the ballot.

WHY SOCIALISM—IS IT NECESSARY?

By J. W. Bennett.

Around the idea contained in the caption of this article is centering a continual discussion by the most profound philosophers, thinkers and writers of our day. In view of the fact that we are the undisputed heirs of all the ages that have gone before, it would seem that this query which is forcing itself upon an unwilling world is to be considered as the most important question which has ever come up for settlement. Despite herculean efforts to keep it down, this question is continually bobbing up wherever the light of civilization has penetrated. We should, therefore, undertake a careful study of the matter. The cause of progress and enlightenment will be greatly benefited if each individual will undertake to approach the great question absolutely free from bias, and will face the matter with intelligen t and patriotic frankness.

Melville Madison Bigelow, Ph. D., Harvard, writing in the preface to the eighth edition of his very clear and comprehensive treatise on torts, uses the following language: "A NEW point of view has made its appearance out of the agitation of social movements, within the half dozen years—The struggle between equality and in-equality—between the public and privilege, and between privilege as capital and privilege as labor,—Now we must look upon such cases as standing at the parting of the ways, but unconscious of the fact, hence as looking backwards. The new point of view, which is that law must be regarded as the resultant of conflicting social forces (less the conservatism of courts and legislatures), —a point of view long hidden from sight in the faint stages of a social era of equality."

The above is quoted to show that even the factors which are slowest to recognize the potency of a new social force, the writers on law and the forces which mould the law, are already recognizing the new social force and trimming their sails to catch the gale which will change the course of human events. It is safe to state that all the profound thinkers and writers of our times who have interested themselves and made determined effort to discover the trend and final outcome of the rapid concentraton of the nation's potential wealth have come to the conclusion that the process, if permitted to continue unchecked, is sure to engulf us with our noble civilization in a social cataclysm out of which we will emerge, in the main, but a mass of industrial slaves. It is also safe to say that most of these same writers have taken into consideration the rapidly rising tide of opposition which is gathering force and preparing to dispute the absolute mastery of an owning class over the expropriated many, quite naturally, the clear mind must have formulated the question; which will be master when the conflict is ended. The crown of victory cannot in reason rest upon two heads. Either special privilege will dominate or equality will dominate. The die is cast, the forces are gathering. Already the advance posts of the contending forces are face to face; the grip of special privilege can be distinctly felt tightening upon the throats of men who have been wont to proudly boast of freedom and independence. The blight seres alike the cleric, the philosopher and the plebe. True, we have all been "Grapplin gto our breasts with hooks of steel," the delusion that we are still free, but an honest inner consciousness proclaims distinctly to each of us, "'Tis false! 'Tis true, 'Tis false." The modern car of Juggernaut entrains us all. The philosopher knows it, the fool senses it.

According to their sincerity and intrepedity, the thinkers and real leaders of our times have advocated remediatory measures calculated to avert the catastrophe that menaces society. These measures run all the way from the insipid cry of the shallow demagogue, "Let us bust the trusts," down the line to the futile and impossible demand of the so-called conservatives, "Let us regulate the trusts" to the plausible, sensible proposition of the Socialists, "Let society in its collective capacity own and operate these immense industrial aggregations on a democratic basis, for the benefit of all."

Gradually the wise discern that the Socialists propose the only practicable, adequate remedy. Society, unstanding its needs turning more and more to our program, and consequently, you hear the subject discussed ever more frequently. This is because the industrial force from which it springs gathers momentum. As the thirsty man upon the desert thinks longingly of cool water, so does the world, strangled by capitalism, take the line of least resistance toward industrial democracy. As the advancing season causes the flower to wither and make way for the fruit, so will capitalism fade, wither and make way for Socialism. This need not be accompanied by violence. The will of an enlightened world will change the inconsistent conditions gradually, just as the sun, growing warmer in the advancing season, changes the color of the ripening fruit. Is it necessary? Certainly. Are not all laws the resultant of social forces operating within the State?

KEEP YOUR EYE ON THE STATE OFFICE.

Two weeks ago this paper called attention to the fact that the state office was endeavoring to hold up the referendum ballots to recall the S. E. C. Our contention was correct. The State Secretary is now asking the state committee under what section of the constitution he shall send the ballots out. This is simply a subterfuge and a play for time. Do you think he would have been in doubt had it been a referendum to recall some comrade who advocates "political action." Nay, nay. There would have been no delay in a case of that kind.

The truth is that they are getting desperate, and want all the time they can get to muddle the issue, and throw sand in the eyes of the membership. THEY ARE MAKING A SAD MISTAKE. As each day by day passing brings fresh evidence to this office that the membership is awake to the situation and are only awaiting the opportunity to jerk the Anarchists out.

The band concert will make you forget your troubles, while the cool breezes of Schiller Park, Monday evening, will soothe your feelings and make you happy.

"ABSOLUTELY INSANE."

Ohio has sent to the Senate chamber a most vindictive though unsophistical person named Pomerene, who has succeeded in "getting his name in the paper" several times since his advent into that body. Pomerene, who seems to be one of those afflicted with the hallucination that the way to break up the trusts is to send the owners to jail, has just proposed that Congress direct the Attorney General to proceed with the criminal prosecution of the officials of the dissolved Standard Oil and Tobacco Trusts. He was turned down, however, though he declared that the only way to have the law respected was to enforce it. To this, another Senator replied that Pomerene's resolution was "absolutely insane," that it "meant nothing and could accomplish nothing." It would be, he further declared, an invasion by Congress of an independent branch of the government.

Pomerene wanted the prosecution conducted under the criminal provisions of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, which Congress itself passed twenty years or so ago. The poor creature does not understand that while Congress has the power to enact criminal laws, it has no power to have them enforced. However, ignorance of that kind hardly justifies the charge of "absolute insanity." If it really does, the majority of the voting population are fully qualified candidates for the bughouse.

THE S. E. C. AND OHIO CONGRESSMEN.

The State Executive Committee of Ohio spurns the offer of the National office to assist our Congressional Districts where there is an opportunity to elect Congressmen. That may be best. I am one of the victims myself! Even the political enemies admit that I may be elected. Many comrades of the Third District, still believing in political action, are earnestly working to get enough Socialist votes to capture the district.

But there stands the S. E. C. with a big NO. They will not permit the National office to help in the Third District or any other District where success is near at hand. (The S. E. C. would probably accept help where there is no possibility of success!) They (the S. E. C.) must have ALL Ohio successful, or none of it! Hurrah! A new impossiblism is at hand!

But why should Ohio win until the U. S. A. has won? And why should the U. S. A. desire any victory until all the nations have been won for Socialism and that at one time? There is nothing like being REVOLUTIONARY!

Therefore let us scoff at these country majors of ours, unless they organize an industrial union! Let us be especially scornful if any of our country officials are of a religious turn of mind. Zip! Boom! Red fire!

Personally, I do not wish to go to Congress. Because the chaplain might be absent some morning and I might be called upon to offer prayer, without giving me sufficient time to wire Toledo for enough red damns with which to properly curse the existing system!

Yet, it may be I will have to go to Congress anyway if there are enough Socialist votes in the Third District. Meanwhile, let us convert the S. E. C. to the necessity of political action!

FREDERICK GUY STRICKLAND.

Oh! You Schiller Park, Monday evening, August 26.

THE "HEAD-'EM-OFF" PARTY.

At last we have the truth concerning Roosevelt and his Bull Moose movement. William Allen White, the well-known Kansas writer and intimate friend of Roosevelt, writing on the new party movement says:

"The Roosevelt program promises all that Lloyd-George, the radical British leader, has carried to successful conclusion to HEAD OFF SOCIALISM in England. It promises all that the German liberals have established to HEAD OFF SOCIALISM in Germany; it promises all that Briand and Clemenceau have instituted to HEAD OFF SOCIALISM in France; and all that the king and the radical leaders have promulgated to HEAD OFF SOCIALISM in Italy."

Thanks to William Allen White! His honesty and frankness have clarified the political atmosphere. He has told the truth, and has given the country a clear view of the aim, object and purpose of the Roosevelt movement.

It's sole and only mission is to "head off Socialism in the United States." Now we understand the issue. Now we know why the Bull Moose party was born. Now it is plain why George W. Perkins, and the "good" trusts which Roosevelt befriended and defended while in office are secretly aiding and financially promoting the Bull Moose movement. Mr. Taft could not "head off" the Socialist movement; Mr. Wilson could not head it off. Mr. Bryan could not head it off. Only Teddy the Lion-Tamer, Teddy the Loud Noise, Teddy the Terrible—only he could frighten back into its lair this hobgoblin of Socialism which is making life a continuous nightmare for the plutocrats and their kind.

And how does Teddy propose to head it off? By attacking it with condemnation, criticism and argument? Not at all. The day is past when Socialism can be headed off in that way. It can be checked now only by Deception, Fraud and Insincerity. The Greeks will come bearing gifts; the Wolves will come arrayed in Sheep's skins; the wrinkled old maid of Reform will come with paint, and powder and perfume—all these will march under the banner of "Head-'Em Off" party to mislead the thoughtless and deceive the unwary.

But let us not befool ourselves about Mr. Roosevelt. Many honest and sincere men will follow his leadership. Many thousands of voters who are traveling toward Radicalism have not yet arrived. They are on the road, but they move with caution, and timidity. Sometimes they retreat. To this type the Bull Moose party will furnish a resting place for one campaign.

But Mr. Roosevelt will not succeed in heading off Socialism. A bull may stand upon a railway track and bellow loud and long at the approaching locomotive; he may bluff and bull-doze and plead; he may paw the earth and throw dust into the eyes of spectators—but he does not head off the engine—the great locomotive rushes on without concern, leaving the bones of its foolish antagonist bleaching in the summer sun.

DARROW FREE FOR FIGHTING AGAIN.

As law-abiding citizens, we are exceedingly glad that the great labor advocate, Clarence S. Darrow, has been legally acquitted, which is simply another way of expressing our satisfaction that the rotten conspiracy framed up against him has failed.

We are not sufficiently credulous to imagine, however, that the sneaking reptiles who sought to entrap him will be indicted for perjury, even though it took a jury only thirty minutes to brush away the web of deceit that they had been weaving for more than six months.

The public spokesman of labor, whether strike leader or lawyer, must calculate on the chances of being grabbed in this fashion, deprived of liberty, his time wasted and his living interfered with, without any possibility of redress.

This method of using the law to discourage the activities of advocates of the working class will be accepted by all "law-abiding citizens" of that class, simply because as yet they must abide by it; they cannot help themselves. Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone had siteen months taken from their lives on account of it. It has cost Darrow time, trouble and much pecuniary loss. And Ettor and Giovannitti are now being subjected to the same experience.

Against such people indictments will be readily found on any old charge, however preposterous. The conspiracy may break down, but the activities of the defendants are suspended and their liberty curtailed while the frameup is being completed for their trial. By the time Ettor and Giovannitti come to trial, they will have already expiated part of their "offense" at least in conducting the Lawrence strike by having served what is practically a jail sentence beforehand, just as Moyer and Haywood paid for their activity in the Miner's Union by an incarceration of sixteen months, and just as Darrow has been punished for defending the McNamara brothers and his general activity in the legal defense of labor.

The law cannot be used in this manner against the vile, sneaking tools of capitalism. The indictment against Burns for kidnaping was instantly quashed, though the kidnaping was an actual fact, while the rotten frameup against Darrow, demolished in thirty minutes by the jury, was sufficient to hold him for many months.

There is nothing the matter with the law per se; the trouble is with the malodorous gang who are able to manipulate it to serve for all practical purposes as a "lettre de cachet" against spokesmen of the working class. Every jail in the country is at their service as a Bastile for such purposes.

This office will be open Saturday night to receive settlement for tickets if you are unable to get in before that time. However, we ask every comrade who has received tickets to be sure and report today (Saturday!) EVERYONE TO SCHILLER PARK MONDAY EVENING.

WE WANT TO BE FREE

By C. E. Ruthenberg,
Socialist Candidate for Governor.

Newspapers of the reform type, which in the past have sometimes been Socialistic in their utterances, are hailing the National Progressive (Roosevelt) party as a movement toward human freedom, and its platform is called a statement of human rights as against property rights. According to these pseudo supporters of the workers, the latter are to be freed from the profit system through the reforms advocated in the platform of this new party.

Suppose we close our eyes for the moment to the character of the men who stand sponsor for this new party. Let us forget that it is Perkins and Gary, and perhaps Morgan who are financing this movement.

We will ignore the past record of its candidate for the presidency. We will wipe the slate clean of the Alton Steal, his attempt to arouse prejudice against workingmen in jeopardy of their lives, the insult to the working class in his misrepresentations of Socialism, and his failure while in office to apply this new progressive creed.

We will even attempt the impossible and try to credit the inner circle, the leaders of this movement with sincere desire to relieve the working class from the oppression of capitalism.

What then? Is there any more reason why any workingman or woman should support this party? What does its platform promise the working class? Abolition of child labor; a minimum wage law for women and children; eight hour day in industries operating twenty-four hours per day; a workingman's compensation law; old age pensions; these are some of its demands.

We want more than that: we want to cease to be industrial slaves: we want to be free.

Regulating our hours of labor, providing compensation when we are injured and returning to us in old age a trifling part of what we are robbed of during years of exploitation will not free us from industrial slavery. We want to be free from the blighting bonds of capitalism. Capitalism keeps us in constant fear of unemployment. It makes our lives a struggle for mere existence. It gives to the irresponsible few the control over opportunities to use our brain and muscle in the production of those things we need in order to live. It is the cause of constant industrial warfare which condemns us when as a last resort against the oppression of the master class we are forced to go on strike to hunger and privations.

We of the working class produce the wealth of the world but the profit system takes from us all but enough to keep us in condition to produce more profits. Our ingenuity has brought into existence the mighty machines which give us the power to produce enough of all the things we need in order to live to supply the wants of all, but capitalism has given to the parasitic few the benefit of our work. These machines in place of lightening our burdens have been used to take from many of us the opportunity to work. In place of applying our necessities they have been used to produce more profits for our masters.

The promise of reform—to smooth away some of the sharp corners of the profit system will not free us from the evils of capitalism. We will accept all the concessions made us. We know they are concessions to our growing power. Some of the concessions will strengthen us. We will accept them gladly. But before us lies our goal. We will not waver in our march toward it. We know that the profit system holds no promise for us. Therefore, we march onward to the day when through our power we will abolish the profit ystem and win for ourselves the right of a new life.

In the new life we will organize our productive forces so that we can supply the needs of all. By providing for services and not for profits we will do away with waste and inefficiency. This will give us, after supplying our material needs, ample time for recreation. It will open up the avenues of education and culture. Literature, music and art will be ours to enjoy. We will delve deep in the history of the past and our research will wrench from nature her last secret.

This is the new life which is the goal of the militant workers. This new life will be ours, not through adolition of child labor, not through minimum wage laws, not through compensation for industrial efforts or old age pensions, but through revolution in our social system which will establish the collective ownership of the means of production and distribution. It is this social revolution for which the Socialist Party is fighting, which will bring industrial freedom to the workers and not the reform of the National Progressive Party.

THE BASIS OF CIVILIZATION.

No man ever ruled other men for their own good; no man was ever rightly the master of the minds or bodies of his brothers; no man ever ruled other men for anything except for their undoing, and for his own brutalization. The possession of power over others is inherently destructive—both to possessor of the power and to those over whom it is exercised. And the great man of the future, in distinction from the man of the past, is he who will seek to create power in the peoples, and not gain power over them. The great man of the future is he who will refuse to be great at all, in the historic sense, he is the man who will literally lose himself, who will altogether diffuse himself, in the life of humanity. All that any man can do for a people, all that any man can do for another man, is to set the man or people free. Our work, whensoever and wheresoever we would do good, is to open to men the gates of life—to lift up the heavenly doors of opportunity.

This applies to society as well as to the individual man. If the collective man will release the individual man and let him go, then the individual will at last give himself gloriously, in the fullness of his strength, unto the society that sets the gates and the highways to opportunity before him. Give men opportunity, and opportunity will give you men.

INDIANOLA PARK MEETING GREAT SUCCESS.

The Socialist meeting at Indianola Park last Sunday afternoon was a success in every way. Comrade A. C. Eby acted as chairman and Fred G. Strickland was at his best in the address he gave from the band stand to fully 2,000 people. The collection amounted to $15 and several dollars worth of literature was sold. Comrade Gertrude Breslau Hunt, of Chicago, was present, being the guest of relatives in this city.

TWELFTH WARD.

There will be a special meeting of the Twelfth Ward at 8 p. m., Thursday, August 29th, to complete arrangements for lawn fete to be held in near future and to also perfect our organization for the great work in the coming campaign.

PRETTY SMALL WORK.

The Socialist Publishing Company, 108½ South High Street, Columbus, Ohio:

Dear Comrades—I must write you just a few lines. The first of the month I sent to the State Secretary for due stamps and in the letter I sent 25 cents for three months' subscription to your paper, and he sent my money back, and said if I wanted your paper I should send direct to you. I saw a statement in the Appeal to Reason, some time ago that he took subs for the papers. I don't understand why our Secretary would not take a sub for a Socialist paper. That don't look good to me.

Enclosed you will find money order for 25 cents, for thee months.

Yours for the revolution.

Sec. Local ———

The Dramatic Club will hold a short business session Tuesday evening, at 7:30, 108½ South High Street. This is important. Let every member be present.

MASTER OR MAN

By Charles Reece Fenimore.

Did you ever realize that everything we have of comfort or of culture comes from the labor of hand or brain?

The heritage of the ages is brought to us by labor alone. Without labor, which he buys, the man of millions would be helpless as a shipwrecked sailor on a lonely rock in the midst of a limitless sea.

The worker pays for everything from the cradle to the grave, not only for himself, but for all the parasite host which vampire-like fattens on his stolen blood.

Figure it out for yourself. Try to think of something which makes for your comfort or for the improvement of your mind which can be produced or secured without labor.

Cover the field of art, of music, of science, invention, mechanics, architecture, of agriculture, engineering or navigation—all are made possible and perfected by labor. Capital, of itself, contributes nothing. It is the magic wand of human labor with which the spirit of progress has conjured the miracles of all time.

You will see, if you will but think, that every dividend declared by the corporations, every cent of interest paid to the money trust, every coupon clipped from the perforated edge of every bond, every cent which is expended, either for necessity or luxury, coin eafinally from the sweat and blood of the working class.

From this conclusion there is no escape. If you don't want to prove it to yourself follow the lead of the platitudinous priests, preachers and politicians and don't think about it at all.

The worker is the real master of life and to him belong by right the choicest fruits of all creation. But what does he receive? Just what the master decrees his labor is worth in dollars and cents. This the master determines by shrewdly calculating just how much of the product is required to enable the worker to maintain and reproduce himself. Indeed, with the increased productiveness of machinery and the consequent chronic flooding of the market, so abundant has become the supply of labor that the master has ceased paying the man enough to cover the cost of living. Having no need for the labor the masters may let the men die of starvation. Figures furnished by the masters' own government prove this assertion.

Did you ever ask yourself just where and when the master's interest in the man begins and ends. If the interests of capital and labor are identical why does the master take no thought for the man before he becomes a laborer? Is the man any less a member of the working class before or after his days of labor are ended? But the master knows not the man, nor cares to know, until he can squeeze a profit from his toil. Just so far are the interests of capital and labor identical.

Does the industrial master stand forth in pain and anguish by the workers of tomorrow are brought mothers of today. Does the master help the toiler pay the doctor or the nurse or any part of that staggering burden of expense which is attendant upon the arrival of the new child of toil. Does the master even know the mother needs a doctor or a nurse? How did the men of Lawrence pay the doctor or the nurse on $6.00 per week? How do they pay even after they have received their magnificient increase of ten per cent in their wages?

Does the master ever grant the toiler a few days' leave from the shop, the mill or mine that he may be with the mother for a few precious hours after her return from the awesome valley of pain and mystery?

Does the master even grant the mother a few priceless weeks of freedom from the thralldom of the machine that she may enjoy the God-given privilege of nursing her child, that it grow lusty and strong, that it may learn to know its mother first of all?

Does the master even concern himself regarding clothing for the new citizen, or the food which he must eat? Does the master ever give a thought to the education or training to be given the child?

What folly! You say. Of course. The master concerns himself with the worker only when the day arrives which brings him to the gates of the factory or the mouth of the mine. And his interest continues just so long as he is able to extract from the labor or the toiler a profit.

Comes the day when the strength of the worker is spent. His eye has become dull. His hand has lost its cunning. His feet have begun to drag.

Upon this day the master notices the worker for the last time. A word to the boss is sufficient, the old worker is told to go and despite his pleading his place is filled from the clamoring throng at the gate. Another wornout machine is cast upon the industrial scrap heap.

The master does all this simply because he owns the means whereby the man must earn his bread. Of course the man does not have to work if the terms offered do not appeal to him. He is blessed with that greatest of the master's beneficient gifts—freedom of contract. He is perfectly free—to starve and watch his family starve.

If an awakened reason leads the toiler to become discontented with his lot, leads him to organized effort to improve his condition, either through political action or by means of his economic organization, he is cursed and reviled as a disturber, an agitator, "an undesirable citizen."

It is remembered, however, that all the saviours of earth's toiling multitudes were always undesirable citizens in their day.

Verily, the salvation of this republic is in the hands of its "undesirable citizens." May their kind be multiplied among us.

You get a raise in pay—not when you produce more—but when your boss feels like giving you more.

DIDN'T SHINE AT IT.

"Do you think you could sell our enamel for stoves?" the manager asked.

WE APPEAL TO YOU!

Brothers of the North, the East, the West, Lovers of Liberty in All Lands, and Rebels of the South:

We, the Brotherhood of Timber Workers, are in a life and death struggle with the Southern Lumber Operators' Association, the local branch of the International Lumber Trust. For twenty long and terrible months we have fronted and fought this merciless combine of capitalists and gunmen. For nearly two long years now, almost alone and single-handed, we have kept aloft the banner of working-class revolt against the peon kings of the South. Today sixty-five of our members are under indictment for "murder" and "shooting at with intent to kill" and sixty-one of them are in the parish prison at Lake Charles, Louisiana, awaiting trial for their lives and liberties; this is the outcome of the massacre of our people at Grabow, Louisiana, which occurred on Sunday, July 7th, 1912. The whole Southern Oligarchy, which is world-famous for its merciless exploitation of labor, is backing the Southern Lumber Operators Association in its fight to destroy our Union and maintain peonage in the South. No worker who has ever tasted the bitter fruit of this system, whether in the forests, the mines or mills of the South, but knows the savage forces we are fighting; knows that the worst we say of them and more is true, and knows that in fighting these forces we are rendering a great service to the cause of all who labor; that in fighting for our rights w are also blazing the way of human liberty through the jungles of the South. Ask the miner of Alabama and the child-slaves of the Carolinas whether or not we deserve your aid and support in the struggle we are making against this blood-lusting, gold-crazed Oligarchy, this Aristocracy that was born out of a marriage of capitalism and chattel-slavery.

Mexico in its darkest days under Diaz suffered no more inhuman system than that which prevails today in the forests and the mines of the South, and this is the system we are fighting and which is fighting us. Back of the Southern Lumber Operators Association stands all the power of the State, all the corrupting lure of millions of gold. Back of us, they say, is "nothing but the working class," yet on this "nothing" we rest all our faith; to you alone, our fellow-workers, do we appeal!

Let not our boys in jail go to an ignominious death or to penal servitude for life. Their only crime is that they fought for labor's freedom. They are all too young to die or rot their lives away in prison cells. To save them means to save the cause of labor in the South, to aid it throughout all the earth.

All we ask you for is a little money, a little gold with which to defend the lives and liberties of our endangered fellow-workers.

Brothers of the North, the East, the West, Lovers of Liberty in All Lands, Rebels of the South, we appeal to you!

The Socialist has distributed thousands of red tickets to our readers and has more to be given out. When you buy anything from a dealer who advertises in this paper, hand him the red ticket. He will understand it. The time has come when the purchasing power of the working class must be used to boost its own paper. Get busy with the red tickets.

SOCIALISTS IN ACTION

News from the World-Wide Movement of the Workers

NEWS FROM NATIONAL SOCIALIST HEADQUARTERS.

PROPOSED NATIONAL COMMITTEE MOTION.

By Maurer, of Pennsylvania.

"That the National Secretary state the number of members in good standing of each Local initiating or seconding motions for national referendums of the party; also that he make a complete tabulated statement of the vote by states on all referendums where practicable, and publish same in the National Bulletin."

The proposed National Committee motion of Patterson of Ohio, relating to publication of evidence taken in investigations in Barnes controversy, has been seconded by Ball of Illinois.

The proposed National Committee motions by Gaylord of Wisconsin, relating to suspension of National Committee rules which would limit the powers of the National Campaign Committee, and the approval of National Committee motions previous to election by state committees, has been seconded by Lee of New York.

The National Committee is now voting on motion that the wages of all speakers and organizers sent out by the National Office, or any department of it, shall be six dollars per day and railroad fare; they to pay their own hotel bills and other incidental expenses. The vote closes September 3rd.

August 16, 1912.

To the National Executive Committee:

Dear Comrades—On August 10th I sent you the following night letter:

"Motion by Haywood: Whereas, the referendum coming from Local Brannon, Texas, is now involved in a question of legality, I, as a member of the National Executive Committee, move that the referendums proposed by Locals Poplar Bluff, Missouri, and Portsmouth, Ohio, shall be sent out on one ballot.

"Comment: This motion if carried will in no way interfere with any past action of the S. E. C. in regard to Local Brannon, but will give the membership of the party an opportunity for the quickest means of expression on referendums initiated and demanded by over five thousand members, being more than the required number provided for in Article Eleven of the Constitution. Furthermore, if this motion is adopted, it will save unnecessary expense and delay."

On this motion Haywood and Irvine voted Yes; Harriman voted No; Berger, Hillquit, O'Hare and Spargo not voting. No action taken.

On August 13th, I sent you the following telegram:

"Motion by Hillquit: I move that action on Comrade Haywood's motion be deferred until the next meeting of the National Executive Committee."

The vote on the above motion is as follows: Voting yes, Berger, Harriman, Hillquit and Spargo. Voting No, Haywood and Irvine; not voting, O'Hare.

Comment by Irvine: "Haywood's motion seems to me to save time and expense and carry out the will of the party."

The motion is therefore carried.

Fraternally submitted,
JOHN M. WORK,
National Secretary.

NATIONAL CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE. HARDIE'S POPULARITY.

Nothing illustrates the popularity of Keir Hardie, nor his versatility more than the character of the letters pouring into Campaign Headquarters requesting a meeting while he is in this country.

A Suffrage Association under under whose auspices he lectured when in this country twenty years ago, requests a lecture on Woman suffrage. Economic societies want to hear Hardie the Economist; Lyceum and Chautauqua managers are clamoring for the great English Lecturer; Labor organizations want to hear the foremost representative of Labor in the English-speaking world; Political Clubs and Debating Societies ask a lecture by the greatest English Statesman of the day, and the miners from almost every coal field in the country insist on seeing and hearing and shaking hands with their friend and comrade and brother, Keir Hardie, the Coal-Digger.

Some people steal in violation of the law; others make laws to protect their stealing.

GUERNSEY COUNTY NOTES

By the Secretary.

At the last meeting of the County Executive Committee, the following resolution was ordered prepared and sent to the Locals of the County:

Whereas, The State Executive Committee of the Socialist party of Ohio has removed from the list of authorized and available speakers, the names of Comrades Ella Reeve Bloor, A. B. Shinn, A. C. Eby, Walter Millard and others, because they refused to endorse "direct action," and stood for "political action," the latter one of the cardinal principles of the S. P., and the former directly opposed to it,

Whereas, This S. E. C. has further granted membership at large to, and placed on the list of endorsed and available speakers, one R. A. Easler of Dayton, who was refused membership in Local Dayton, because he was opposed to "political action,"

Whereas, The State Executive Committee and the officials in the state office have been discovered to be acting in harmony and sympathy with the I. W. W. and other Anarchists, and many shady and suspicious movements have been discovered emanating from the state office and the S. E. C. Therefore be it

Resolved, That the County Executive Committee of Guernsey County organization of the Socialist party, hereby condemn the action of the S. E. C. as a direct violation of the party constitution and as Anarchistic and un-Socialistic.

Second—That we also condemn the action of the State Secretary and his assistant, Comrade Minturn for their un-Socialistic and bureaucratic conduct of state office affairs in refusing information and news items to comrades and Socialist papers, also for permitting the state office to be used as headquarters for the dissemination of I. W. W. propaganda.

Third—That we recommend that the Locals of Guernsey County at once demand the recall of this committee.

Fourth—That we commend the stand taken by Locals Columbus and Dayton and the "Columbus Socialist" and "Miami Valley Socialist."

(Signed) W. H. CRAWFORD, Jr.,
H. B. PIERCE,
I. S. LINEWEAVER,
Committee.
CLARENCE B. TIGNER,
Secretary.

The Socialists of Guernsey County will hold their annual outing and picnic at Perry's Den, on the boundary between Guernsey and Noble Counties. The comrades of Noble are also co-operating and will take part. Sunday, August 25, has been decided on as the date. There will be three speakers and two bands—and a record-breaking crowd, it is confidently expected. Comrade Ella Reeve Bloor, Frank L. Martin, candidate for Congress, and Comrade Branstetter of Oklahoma will address the people. Perry's Den is one of the historic spots in this part of the state and is a very beautiful natural park, and the outing will no doubt be the most successful yet held.

The Socialists of the County are talking very favorably of organizing as a County Local under the new constitution, in the near future. Under the existing conditions, it is thought by many that much more effective work can be done in this way.

Comrade Strickland will be in the County for a few days early in September.

The refusal of the local newspapers to publish the resolutions of Local Cambridge, on the "Knights of Methodism," will not prevent the public from learning about it, as the comrades will have it printed and a copy placed in every home in the city, together with the reasons why the capitalist papers refused to publish it. The sheets mentioned print whole columns of "dope" furnished by the W. C. T. U., but when the Socialists offer them a quarter column of matter that would actually be read, (that's the reason) the refuse it on the ground that "it costs us a cent and a half a line to set it up." The comrades are realizing there is but one way to get around this—own our own newspaper.

Judge McGinnis of the Common Pleas Court has a very high opinion of himself and quite naturally, a very low opinion of the voters, who elected him and whom he calls "the mob." When Comrade Beery was in the county, while riding a "Penney" train, he overheard a discussion between the learned (?) jurist and another man in which the judge expressed himself as decidedly opposed to workingmen who are injured, asking for more than a nominal (?) amount of damages. Said he, "It's a shame the way the workingmen impose on the corporations, in suits brought by them for damages for injuries." He says he always charges the jury not to give more than the actual financial loss by the plaintiff and says that on two occasions recently, juries had the audacity to disobey him and find damages in a decent sum. He says: "If the people don't like the law, they should change it." "Yes," said his friend, that's why we ought to have the initiative and referendum."

"There you go again," flared up His Honor, "with your Socialistic ideas. Why that would mean mob rule."

That's what James M. McGinnis of Caldwell, one of the judges who preside when a member of the working class or his widow, in Guernsey, Muskingum, Morgan or Noble County, who has been crippled or killed in the mines or factories, sues the corporations for a portion of the wages stolen by the blood-stained hands of the master class. And yet some, yes many of the workers expect to get justice!

J. S. Brancett and Clarence B. Tigner were the speakers a meeting in Cambridge on Thursday, August 15. At this meeting, attention was given to the proposed organization of the steel workers, into an industrial form of union, similar to the Miner's Union.

Local Cambridge will now have one meeting every week until election, on Thursday evening, speakers being from the County and local lists.

LOCAL KENWOOD IS DOING THINGS.

Local Kenwood met Thursday evening and elected their officers for the coming three months: Chauncey Davies was re-elected recording secretary, J. C. Davies, financial secretary; Wilber Twigg, treasurer.

Final arrangements were made to hold a great labor demonstration and Socialist propaganda meeting in Cadiz, Harrison County, Ohio, Saturday evening, September 14th. Comrade Carson of Bellaire, Socialist candidate for Congress of the 16th district has been secured for the occasion. Also Comrade Thomas Cregg of Martins Ferry, and several other noted Socialist speakers from other points. The Parlett Brass Band will furnish the music.

It will be the first labor demonstration ever held in the city of Cadiz and a big crowd is expected. Socialists, this is your invitation to come and help us to convince old Harrison County that her place is in the ranks of the Socialist column.

Local Kenwood has leased a building in the central part of the village which they are equipping in true Socialist style. There will be a banner extending the full length of the building with this inscription on it: "Socialist Headquarters." The hall will contain a library of all kinds of Socialist literature, contributed by the comrades, such as party papers, leaflets and pamphlets, etc. The latch string will be on the outside to the public at all times regardless of political opinion. This is considered by the comrades as a great means of advancing the propaganda work of the party. Contributions of literature from any comrade will be appreciated by the local. Address all literature to Chauncey Davies, Recording Secretary, Cadiz, Ohio; R. R. No. 2, Local Kenwood.

J. G. PHELPS STOKES ANSWERS EDITOR.

Stamford, Conn.—An editorial writer in a local paper suggested that if James Graham Phelps Stokes, the Socialist candidate for Mayor of Stamford, really wishes to emancipate the people he should sell his possessions and distribute the proceeds among the poor.

In answer, Stokes said today: "Incredible though it will doubtless be to most people, it is nevertheless true that I would gladly do that very thing if there were the remotest chance that such a course would result in more 'emancipation' than the course that I am pursuing.

"Alms giving, upon a very large scale, has gone on for thousands of years, and doubtless with benefit to individual alms givers, and to some recipients; yet as large a proportion of the people are in poverty as ever before (barring occasional rare periods of pestilence or famine). Something far more radical than alms giving is required if poverty, want and sickness are to be appreciably lessened.

"We Socialists find it very much more rational to use the means at our disposal to help break down the present unjust system and to help rear in its stead an industrial democracy in which every worker shall be assured of the enjoyment of as much wealth as he cares to produce."

The National Republican convention at Chicago was opened every day by prayer. Catholic, Protestant and Hebrew exhorters were engaged to petition the Great Ruler to shower His divine wisdom on the delegates assembled, but from the manner in which the convention was conducted, it would seem that the supplication messages did not reach the Great Jehovah, or that the preachers and delegates were not on good terms with the Infinite One "Who doeth all things well."

The Roosevelt forces pauperized the English language for invectives and epithets, which they hurled at the political aggregation that stood loyally by "Injunction Bill," and the steam roller crowd jeered and sneered at the Rough Rider and his lieutenants, as "My Policies" was carried from the political arena, suffering from the wounds of conflict. To offer prayers in such a convention is a prostitution of religion and an insult to God, but the ministers were paid for their services, and money like charity, "covers a multitude of sins."

GENERAL SOCIALIST NEWS.

The Episcopal bishop of New York Right Rev. Edwin Lines, states that clergymen should study socialism more and criticize it less, which isn't half bad advice, for as a matter of fact a good many critics make chumps of themselves in criticising something that they know nothing about, to the great amusement of the multitudes.

There are two Socialist movements in this country says the Social Democratic Herald. One is the trend toward socialism that is so generally in the people's thought and action, and the other is the national political party organization. Of the two the first is the most tremendous and "portentious." And even at that the organized party is nothing to turn your nose up at.

There will be three Senators elected to the National Parliament in Queensland, Australia, next year. Already 29 candidates have been named for nominees on the Labor party ticket and balloting is now in progress to decide who should stand against the fusion Conservative-Liberal candidates. Unions as well as political branches are permitted to ballot to make nominations. All of the nominess are practical workingmen, not "friends."

The status of the so-called Barnes recall matter stands as follows: National Executive Committee (Haywood only dissenting) has voted by wire that the charge of fraud against Local Brannon, Tex., which initiated the recall is being investigated by a special commissioner, the N. E. C. has suspended vote of Referendum "C" pending the receipt of report of such investigation, and the N. E. C. has voted to meet in Chicago, Aug. 31, to act on the report.

Rev. Robert F. Coyle, D. D., pastor of the leading Presbyterian church of Denver, Col., preached a notable sermon recently in which he said, among other things: "And now a word or two as to what socialism and Christianity have in common. Both are seeking a better world. The hearts of both are warm toward humanity, sensitive and responsive to the cry of those who suffer and despair. Both feel the stings and moans and hurts of the stricken sons and daughters of men. Both dream the same dreams and see the same visions. Their aims and ideals so far as this earth is concerned are very largely one. In what they are striving or, in the goals they are endeavoring to reach, it is not true to say that socialism and Christianity are antagonistic."

A report from Japan says that judgment has been passed in the Tokio court on the charge of violating the police law for preservation of peace, brought against Sen Katayama, the well known Socialist; Sasai Tatsugoro and Ikeda Pyoyemon. It was alleged that these men had stirred up the Tokio electric trainway men to enter the successful strike at the beginning of the year. All three were found guilty. Katayama was sentenced to penal servitude for a term of five months and the others to four months each.

MORE NEXT WEEK

As the result of announcements in the daily press and of hand bills circulated throughout the city, advertising a debate on Anarchism versus Socialism between Emma Goldman and Frank Midney, Local Dayton passed a resolution at its regular meeting Friday, February 16, disapproving of any of its members debating with Miss Goldman, and forbidding such action on the part of any member, also requesting the members to remain away if such debate should be held, outside of a committee authorized to report on same.

The Local, having conducted its propaganda work in an energetic and effective manner for many years past, had no fear of a confusion in the public mind as between Socialism and Anarchism, and therefore passed this resolution, acting under authority of Section 2, Article XVII of the state constitution (as adopted April 30, 1911), which gives Locals sole jurisdiction of members residing in its territory and sole control of all matters pertaining to propaganda etc.

Even had such a debate been opportune at this time, Local Dayton would have selected a different champion for the Socialist side. As it was, the effect of the debate may well be expressed in the works of Frank Midney's own chairman, Comrade R. A. Williamson, who came up to the writer after the debate and said: "Well, Socialism got rather the worst of it. BUT THAT WASN'T THE FAULT OF SOCIALISM." (The inference is plain that it was the fault of the argumentation.)

As a result of holding the debate, in strict conformity to Local and state by-laws and constitution in such matters, charges were brought against Comrade Midney, and sustained by a vote of 119 to 87.

Following this Comrade Midney plead guilty to the charge of holding the debate in defiance of the expressed will of the Local, whereupon motion was made and seconded to suspend him from the Local for the term of two years. Motion carried by a vote of 94 to 38. (This was on Friday, February 28, 1913.)

Several days after this Midney left town. In fact, he himself requested to have the entire proceedings gone through with that evening, as he expected to leave town.

Shortly after this we received sequests from Locals in various parts of the state asking for information concerning Midney's suspension. But no Local made any statement or intimated in any way that Midney was seeking membership.

While the state office was not officially notified, Midney himself protested against his suspension to the S. E. C., who however, upheld Local Dayton's action in the matter. (S. E. C. session, April 7, 1913.)

On March 15 the resignation from Local Dayton of Comrade Midney was read and by veto ordered laid upon the table, where it still lies.

At the state convention last April a delegate from Findlay stated to Comrade Charles Fulwiler, delegate from Dayton, that Frank Midney had been accepted as a member into Local Findlay, but only after considerable opposition.

We are also reliably informed that he has since that time transferred to Local Toledo.

This, in connection with the enclosed three affidavits and letter from the Board of Elections, covers the matter asked for pretty thoroughly. If there is anything else upon which you desire further information let us know.

Fraternally yours,
WILLIAM HILBERT,
Secretary.

Letter From William Hilbert.

In regard to E. R. Esler, I wish to state that his application was read the night of February 9, 1913. Objection to his acceptance was made and application tabled.

Following this an inquiry from the state office concerning our reasons for his non-acceptance was received May 31 and reply sent giving the substance of the affidavits herewith enclosed.

On July 19, we learned that the S. E. C. had placed Esler's name on the available speakers' list and Local Dayton wrote the state office, expressing its dissatisfaction at this and at their granting him a membership-at-large card. We protested at this time particularly against his unlawfully holding a membership-at-large, having heard that he gave his residence as Toledo. (We had long ago seen that opposition to political action formed no bar to membership in the minds of the S. E. C.) However, we were told by the State Secretary that we had been misinformed as to the Toledo matter. Still, we notice that Esler is advertising himself as "of Dayton" in the public prints, showing that he holds his membership card in violation of both the National constitution (Article II, Section 1) and the State constitution (Article XIII, Section 1).

Fraternally,
WILLIAM HILBERT,
Secretary Local Dayton, Socialist Party.

Affidavit of Edward J. Pearson.

State of Ohio,
Montgomery County, ss:

The affiant, Edward J. Pearson, being first duly sworn, states that he has for four years been a member of Local Dayton; that on a regular meeting night of the Local, in the month of February, 1912, being the 9th day of th month, E. R. Esler, who is now on the approved list of speakers for Ohio, stood in the headquarters of Local Dayton and made the statement that he did not believe in political action; and affiant states that he heard this declaration of the said Esler distinctly.

Affiant further states that on the same evening shortly thereafter Esler's application for membership, signed by Comrade R. A. Williamson, was read to Local and objection made to same.

The affiant, John W. Glen, being first duly sworn, says that he is and for several years has been employed in the tool room at the National Cash Register plant, where E. R. Esler, who is now on the available list of Ohio speakers for the Socialist party, was formerly employed. Affiant states that while Esler was employed at the said plant; he publicly and emphatically in the hearing of several persons, including the affiant, declared that he did not believe in political action as a means of liberating the working class, and that he said Esler was generally understood by his fellow workers to be in favor of the tactics of sabotage or sneakwork and violence said to be endorsed by the I. W. W. Affiant states that this repudiation of political action occurred in the year 1909.

William O. Hilbert, being duly sworn states that at the time of Frank Midney's debate with Emma Goldman, the anarchist, in Dayton, Ohio, which debate was held in defiance of Local Dayton's instructions to all members of said Local to take no part in same, affiant was chosen as one of a committee of three to attend said debate in order to report on same. Affiant states that during said debate Frank Midney used the following words: "Political Socialism is nothing but the search for the swill-trough."

Letters from Dayton Board of Elections.

COPIES OF LETTERS NOW IN THE POSSESSION OF LOCAL DAYTON.

Dayton, Ohio, Dec. 17, 1910.

Mr. William Hanley,
Secretary Board of Elections,
Dayton, Ohio:

Dear Sir—Will you please inform us whether Mr. Frank A. Midney, while either a resident of 44 West Rung Street or at 50 North Stillwater Avenue, Dayton, Ohio, was registered as a voter, and oblige.

SOCIALIST CITY COMMITTEE,
E. L. Rogers, Secretary.

In answer to above inquiry and after looking over the records of registration for Dayton, Ohio, in the precincts in which the above locations are situated, I find that the name of Frank A. Midney no where appears upon said registration entitling him to vote for any election since or at last Presidential election, November, 1908.

WILLIAM A. HANLEY,
Clerk Board of Elections.

Midney upon moving to Dayton in 1907 took up his residence at 44 West Rung Street, where he continued to live until moving to 50 North Stillwater Avenue, where he now resides. He could have voted at the elections of 1908, 1909 and 1910, as he was in this city at the time of holding the elections on above dates.

Paragraph (Ohio News, James Henderson, Editor.)

Appeal to Reason of July 20, 1912.

Report of election of S. E. C. as reported by James Henderson, chairman of the S. E. C. and editor of Ohio news, to the Appeal to Reason, Printed July 20, 1912:

"Marguerite Prevy, of Akron; Fred G. Strickland, of Dayton; Josephine Bates, of Toledo; C. E. Ruthenberg, of Cleveland, were elected on the first ballot for mmbers of the new S. E. C. There are three others to be elected on the next ballot. State Secretary Joseph Schawe was re-elected by a large majority."

*Reprint from circular issued by Comrades Prevy and Bates (members of S. E. C.) dated Toledo, Ohio, August 4, 1912, and addressed to the members of the Socialist Party of Ohio:

"One of the speakers located at Columbus was under charges preferred by members of Local Columbus and was to be tried on the very day we were meeting. Certainly we could not encourage this individual by endorsing him as a speaker."

COMRADE EBY EXPLAINS HIS POSITION

To the Comrades of Ohio:

I see by a circular authorized by Local Toledo, and mailed to the Locals of the state in defense of the action of the State Executive Committee in striking the names of certain state speakers from the available list, that you have been misinformed in regard to the true facts in the case. The circular is couched in such language as to lead you to believe certain things about certain individuals without mentioning names.

Comrade Josephine Bates makes the statement that the reason my name was taken off was because I simply talked on municpal ownership and reform and was not revolutionary enough.

I wish to answer this by stating that such statement is absolutely false. I have never advocated reform measures or municipal ownership as a remedy for the ills of the working class. I have said, and repeat the same, "that the Socialist party stands for all the reforms of all the reformers, as its immediate demands, but reforms are not Socialism, and we might municipalize everything possible, but as long as the profit system exists the working class will not be benefited by such reform measures to any great extent. It will however, teach them that the people as a whole can operate their own industries. I have made over 100 speeches in the past years and I have never heard any one say before that I was not revolutionary enough.

The secret to the whole affair is that I have not been "revolutionary enough" along the particular lines that the S. E. C. would like. Namely, the direct action methods as advocated by the I. W. W. I have always stood for labor unions as they have taught the working class to work together, they have taught them the value of organization, but as to having a solution in their program for the ills of the working class I deny and wil prove to you if you will bear with me until I have had that opportunity. In the first place, the working class constitute at least 85 per cent of the consuming class which must be depended upon to buy back that which is produced.

Take as an example, that 10 per cent of the workers belong to unions (and I think the percentage is much smaller than that) the only demands of the unions have been higher wages, better conditions, closed shop, shorter hours, etc. Supposing, now, that these 10 per cent go out on a strike and secure their demands for higher wages, what happens? The raise that they secure will be added to the selling price of that which they produce and which the working class as a whole must buy back in order to live and the working class as a whole has simply paid the raise themselves.

It is true, that the 10 per cent who have received the raise in wages only have to pay one-tenth of this increase as they constitute but 10 per cent of the consuming class and therefore they are benefitted, but since Socialism is based upon the rights of, and is seeking to bring about justice for the ENTIRE working class, the raise in wages, regardless of how high that may be, does not solve the problem. Oh, you tell, "why don't all working men and women join unions and get the benefit of this raise then." You see, if the entire working class belonged to one union and they all demanded higher wages and their demands were granted, the increased expenses of the employing class, due to the raise granted would be simply added to the cost of the working class' product and they would receive absolutely no benefit, because the labor union program does not include the control of the selling price of that which they produce. The only way they can control the selling price is through political action, by the collective ownership of all things used collectively which is the basis of Socialism. The working class must be organized on the industrial field as well as on the political field and these two grand wings or arms of the working class movement must work in unison to capture the industries through political action by their political arm and then operate them through their industrial arm. But this cannot be done with an industrial union whose program is opposed to political action and who says it will use any means within its power to accomplish its desired results, whether that means be right or wrong.

No my comrades and friends, I am not in favor of that kind of a program. Strikes are a good thing to attract the attention of the general public to the horrible conditions of the working class in various localities, but they have no SOLUTION within themselves.

The working class have been voting the capitalist tickets in the past and have enabled the capitalists to bring about the present conditions. Now all the working class need do is to simply reverse their engine and vote the opposite conditions into existence by voting the Socialist ticket and electing their own class to office.

Yours for revolutionary Socialism,
ALVAH C. EBY.

"BLACKS" RALLIED AT NATIONAL CONVENTION

Organization Formed at Indianapolis Seems to be Melting Away

We have known of the existence of this organization for some time, but just recently have we been enabled to collect the facts in the case.

When the National Convention was held at Indianapolis, the Bohn, Haywood, Kerr, aggregation, lined up all delegates whom they thought they could trust as being true "Blacks" and before the meeting to elect comrades on the various committees was called, a caucus was held. In the caucus it was decided which one of the "Blacks" should be nominated on any certain committee and in the convention all the members of this organization were to vote solidly for this candidate. In this manner they hoped to be able to get their men and women on all the committees and swing the S. P. to the Syndicalist program.

Amongst these delegates who met in this caucus was comrade D. J. Farrell, delegate from Columbus. Comrade Farrell like every true Socialist is an industrialist, and at that time they had him believing that the object was to further the cause of industrial unionism.

Since the convention, however, Comrade Farrell has seen the cloven hoof and like many other true and loyal Socialists he has repudiated the entire outfit and exposed the whole damnable business.

Before the convention closed comrade Farrell was approached and the following card handed to him:

M. E. COSTELLO,
130 Sprague St.
12th Ward. Pittsburg, Pa.

His instructions were to keep a sharp outlook in the Socialist Party for anything that would be of any benefit to the Reds and immediately forward it to the above address and that he would then get his orders and instructions.

Do you Socialists now begin to see that there is a secret ring on the inside of the party, the object of which is to swing it to the tactics of "Direct Action and Syndicalism" and failing in that to disrupt it? If you can't see it then we give up all hopes of you.

In this caucus at the convention were Ruthenberg, and Prevy, both members of our S. E. C. Do you begin to get the connection? Do you now begin to see why all the speakers dropped favored Political Action? Do you intend to stand for an S. E. C. that stoops to such tactics or do you intend to rise up in your might and tie the Recall to them and place Socialists in charge of state affairs?

We have absolutely nothing to lose by a thorough housecleaning at this time. Let us do our duty to ourselves, the party and the great movement. Progress and construction is the watchword. Not anarchy and destruction.

A man who holds you up with a gun and takes your money is a holdup man, a thief; a man who holds you up with a title and takes four-fifths of what you produce is a capitalist.

WOODROW WILSON'S ACCEPTANCE SPEECH

Geometry defines a line as having length, but not breadth or thickness. Wilson's speech is just that. It's long but that's about the only definable or tangible property it has, for it has no breadth of view, except the breadth of view that one would find in a fog, and whether it be sea or land, there is no view. Perhaps when he sought the ocean yacht to write it out, there was a fog. As to thickness, it is one vast hemorrhage of words, a veritable wind pudding, full of phrases that only a trained honeyfugler could construct that have no value or definiteness.

An old lady was waiting for a train at a big central station and the official announcer announced a train in the usual way. She turned to a boy sitting near and asked: "What did he say?" "Oh, he didn't say anything." "Yes, he did, didn't you hear him?" "Oh, yes, mum; he made a big noise but he didn't say anything." That's a good discription of Wilson's speech. A man may say, "Water is wet," but that is not self-evident that he hasn't said anything, and Prof. Woodrow Wilson has contrived to string together a long lot of words that mean nothing, that his ability as a juggler of words beats Tallerand. Tallerand it was who said that "Words were meant to hide what we really think," and that is about what Wilson did.

The speech proper begins with "We stand in the presence of an awakened nation impatient of partisan make-believe." Yes, water is wet, what's the use of going to sea to bring back this fact. We all knew that before he went to sea to fish for buncombe.

Further along he says: "Plainly it is a new age. The tonic of such a time is very exhilirating. It requires self-restraint not to attempt too much self-restraint not to attempt too much," etc. Yes, only a reactionary stand-patter can today withstand the rising tide of True and Pure Democracy, and stand close and tight to old and musty rules and the grip of the dead hand.

One has to read between the lines to get the real point of view and intent of Wilson's mind. After stating a lot of "Water is wet" propositions, and that the people were "impatient and suspicious; jealous of everything concealed," etc., he adds this suggestive remark: "Nor was the country ever more susceptible to unselfish appeals or to the high arguments of sincere justice." That is to say, the people have been fooled so long and persistently that the dope will have to be carefully mixed this time.

When he comes to the question of the platform, he makes a remark that (while justified by the practices of both old parties, and a "water is wet" proposition) lays a cornerstone upon which the old practice can be continued, for he says: "The platform is not a programme."

In plain words, "What is a platform among his friends?" or "Platforms are like pie crusts, to be broken." Then to give big bis a little tickle in the ribs, and a knowing wink, he says: "The business of a country like ours is extremely sensitive to changes in legislation," and then he speaks of ill-advised tariff schedules as being the basis of business "and its foundations must not be too radically or too suddenly disturbed."

That is a Roland for Taft's Oliver. It plainly tells big bis, just get behind me and put me in as President and I'll see to it, as far as I can, that the old game of addition, division and silence shall go on the same as ever. I am so d—— anxious to be President and the Bee is stinging me so hard, that I grant anything you want, only stick the Presidential feather in my hat. The speech is notable in what it omits, but before we speak of that, let's note what he says on Labor, and HOW he says it. He says: "The so-called labor question is a question only because we have not found out the rule of right in adjusting the interests of labor and capital."

There you have it, John Henry. There is really no labor question, it's only a "so-called labor question," and it's only "so-called" becuse "we have not YET found the rule of right in adjusting the interests of labor and capital."

My God! Woodrow, how long is it going to take you to find it out? In Greece, when the slaves were too abundant, they hired those they deemed the best for their purposes to kill off the others. Now they start a war and send the wage slaves to be shot down and the arms, uniforms, embalmed beef make good contracts and brisk business and when the war is over those who are left come back to pay the taxes and pay the expenses and pay the interest on the bonds, while the capitalist pays no income tax, and on his other taxes he swears them off and "perjures himself like a gentleman."

All this Civic Federation talk about the "interests of labor and capital" is tommy-rot, and unless Woodrow Wilson is not a blind fool and does not know history, he knows it is all honeyfugling talk. Chinese history tells us that some 4,000 years ago, when the labor question was up in China the capitalists told the people that the interests of capital and labor were identical. The Chinks were not as wise as now, but they then replied: "We are the rice, you are the eaters: how can there be harmony between us?" Yet today that old Chinese chestnut is brought out here in the United States and we are expected to ball our eyes, open our mouth and take our medicine.

Then to cap the climax, and to warn the capitalists that they must be wise, etc., he forgets and says something that would set we'uns to thinking, for he says: "The working people of America—if they must be distinguished from the minority that constitutes the rest of it—are, of course, the backbone of the nation." Here he admits that the master or owning class are the minority and the workers or the owned class the majority. Dear Woodrow, you have forgotten that little peculiar fact in Roman history that a law was proposed that all slaves should wear a mark to distinguish them as slaves, and the law was defeated for the reason that while it was desirable, yet it would be a dangerous law, as it would show the slaves how many of them there was and would mean a revolution and the end of slavery.

That was a bad slip, friend Woodrow, as it is one of the things "not to be spoken of."

But what's the use of trying to strain wind pudding? The omissions are the things that are most suggestive. Woodrow Wilson is the nominee of a party that spells its name thus: D-E-M-C-R-A-T-I-C. The word means, the rule of the people, but while it speaks of Presidential primaries and direct election of Senators, simply because they are so plainly a foregone conclusion, and it would never do to allow the other parties to stand on these points and his party to be dumb, there is another obvious reason, and that is, it is so convenient to put stress upon these two points, as it covers up and hides the omission of any mention of the only truly Democratic measure, the Initiative, Referendum and Recall.

Examine their workings in Switzerland, in Oregon for 10 years past, and then think of the 13 states where it has been in practical operation for 13 years to date and the eight states where it is now a pending question, and the strong sentiment arising in the country in favor of them, and then to think that a party with the name DEMOCRATIC has no mention of them in its platform (even if "the platform is not a program"), and as these truly Democratic measures are THE ones the plutes are most scared at, why, they MUST be omitted if WALL STREET is to be expected to back up Woodrow Wilson. That news item says: "The Street," meaning Wall Street, "is pleased with Wilson's acceptance speech" is not to bewondered at.

In fact, as we said, it fits the geometrical definition of a line, it "has length without breadth or thickness."

And more, when Woodrow says it is Democratic, he's LYIN'.

REV: GEO. D. COLEMAN.

THE LYCEUM FOR 1912-1913.

Big Preparations Being Made to Hand Capitalism a Heavy Punch This Season.

By Arthur Brooks Baker.

The biggest thing of its kind in the world is entitled to our respectful attention on behalf of its size alone. The biggest pyramid, the biggest elephant, the biggest mosqueto, even, can claim a deferential stare from a pop-eyed crowd of human beings.

Now, it happens that we Socialists, a little over a year ago, decided to engage in a certain industry—a Lyceum business. That industry has modestly grown to be the largest of its kind in the world. So it's entitled to Medal No. 1, for sheer bigness.

But mere size can impress only the idly curious. Suppose we say that the Socialist Lyceum is the most systematic in the world—and it certainly is just that. That entitles it to Medal No. 2.

But economy of operation might appeal only to the scientist. The real test comes in the matter of results, and here the Socialist Lyceum is entitled to Medal No. 3, the largest and most shiny one of all.

For it certainly gets results. All over the United States the Locals are rallying to the support of the Lyceum for the reason that in their principal work, which is the extension of Socialist education and securing new recruits for our program and organization, the Lyceum is the most efficient aid.

First, it gives the Local something definite to accomplish. Each member has something to do, and the doing it brings him closer in spirit and fact to the organization.

Second, it gives system and motive power to the sale of literature. By its use some Locals have disseminated ten times as many Socialist books and periodicals as they would otherwise have done.

Third, it offers a coherent course of lectures. Speakers working singly, each with no idea what was said by the last speaker in town, or what will be said by the next, cannot possibly drive home their thoughts with the same purposeful directions as can the same speakers when working together on a definite plan.

Fourth, the Lyceum forces the attention of the public. So great is the amount of advertising distributed, so widespread the local activity, so large the crowds, that only the most hidebound capitalist papers can ignore it. It compels newspaper stories, and frequently the most effective remarks of the lecturer, addressed to only a few hundred at his meeting, are brought before a hundred thousand through the papers.

Fifth, last, and perhaps most important of all, the Lyceum leaves the Local strong and confident, with a large number of new members. By carrying out a big piece of work, dignified, well advertised, systematic and successful, they have forced local attention and compelled local respect. They have proven themselves a power to be reckoned with in the political and educational life of the community.

Strikebreaking thugs in the West Virginia coal fields have been equipped with machine cannon, thus completing the final requisite of this special army of capitalism—an artillery service. Heretofore we have had the infantry force in the common thug, the cavalry in the Pennsylvania Cossacks, and West Virginia now wheels into line with the field batteries. Horse, foot and artillery, all complete. Now all that is needed is an aeroplane service, and that will doubtless be added in due time.

The struggle of the workers is accompanied with the pain that breeds desperation.

Wouldn't it just smash your family all to smithereens if you should suddenly get the full product of your toil? Also, wouldn't it make you mad?

Why is it that the cost of living is mounting steadily under a Democratic administration since we were promised relief if that party got in control of Congress?

With a vote of 3,000,000 polled by the Socialists of this country, the working class will secure more legislation to their benefit than all the years of begging.

RAISING THE DEAD

Several weeks ago we called for contributions to be used in placing on our subscription list, names of residents in the rural sections of Franklin County. The response has been generous to date, but we want to place every voter on our sub. list. To do this will require about $1500. If you Comrades knew of the vital importance of this move, there can be no question but that you would bend every effort, and raise this money at once. We wish to state, we are receiving, most encouraging reports from all sections of the County which we have been able to reach through this means. One man writes: "Someone has been good enough to send me your valuable paper, I have been a farmer and Republican all my life, but you have converted me, and I herewith enclose $1.00 to be used in sending the paper to others, who are yet in the dark."

Now, Comrades, get busy on this proposition, clip out the coupon and mail or bring it in with your remittance. It makes no difference if it is only five cents, or five dollars, send it in today and start the work right.

In the near future we will have the retail grocery business controlled by the trust or chain stores. They undersell until they drive the independent stores out of business, then they have a monopoly and can charge what they please. England has gone through that experience and today the only thing that stands between the consumer and exorbitant prices is the Co-operative Society with its thousands of stores and its membership who are loyal to their own class and to themselves.

The Franklin Co-operative Company, was incorporated on this plan and has opened its first store, at 529 North 20th Street, and asks the patronage and support of all consumers, who believe in lower prices and in a square deal.

DEBS FORMALLY ACCEPTS SOCIALIST NOMINATION

Terre Haute, Ind.—Extreme simplicity marked the notification ceremonies here, when Eugene V. Debs accepted the Socialist nomination for president. The candidate was not visited by any committee and there was no formality whatever about the event. Debs simply released his acceptance speech to the newspapers and at once began preparations for a trip to Fergus Falls, Minn., where he will speak.

Before starting on his coast-to-coast speaking tour Debs fired his opening campaign gun by declaring Theodore Roosevelt to be "the most dangerous man in America."

Attacking Roosevelt's present course in the Standard Oil campaign contributions squabble, Debs said:

"He is the only man in the United States who apparently does not know that his 1904 campaign was financed by the trusts." He said the colonel has a "hypnotic power over the American people."

Mr. Debs said:

"It is with a full sense of the responsibility it imposes and the service it exacts that I accept the nomination for president tendered to me by the Socialist party of the United State. Personally I did not wish the nomination. It came to me unsought. It came as summons to service and not as a personal honor.

"Every true member of the Socialist party is at the party's service. The confidence of his Comrades is to him a sacred trust and their collective will the party's law.

"My chief concern as a presidential candidate is that I shall serve well the party, and the class and the cause the party represents.

"The Socialist party is fundamentally different from all other parties. It came in the process of evolution and grows with the growth of the forces which created it. Its spirit is militant and its aim revolutionary. It expresses in political terms the aspiration of the working class to freedom and to a larger and fuller life than they have yet known.

"The world workers have always been and still are the world's slaves. They have borne all the burdens of the race and built all the monuments along the track of civilization; they have produced all the world's wealth and supported all the world's governments. They have conquered all things but their own freedom. They are still the subject class in every nation on earth and the chief function of every government is to keep them at the mercy of their masters.

"The workers in the mills and factories, in the mines and on the farms and railways never had a party of their own until the Socialist party was organized. They divided their votes between the parties of the masters. They did not realize that they were using their ballots to forge their own fetters.

AWAKENING CAME.

"But the awakening came. It was bound to come. Class rule became more and more oppressive and wage-slavery more and more galling. The eyes of the workers began to open. They began to see THE CAUSE of the misery they had dumbly suffered so many years. It dawned upon them that society was divided into two classes, capitalistic and workers, exploiters and producers; that the capitalists, while comparatively few, owned the nation and controlled the government, and that the workers, while in a great majority, were in slavish subjection.

"When they ventured to protest they were discharged and found themselves blacklisted; when they went on strike they were suppressed by the soldiers and sent to jail.

"They looked about them and saw a land of wonderful resources; they saw the productive machinery made by their own hands and the vast wealth produced by their own labor, in the shadow of which their wives and children were perishing in the skeleton clutch of famine.

"The very suffering they were forced to endure quickened their senses. They began to think. A new light dawned upon their dark skies. They rubbed the age-long sleep from their eyes. They had long felt the brutalizing effect of class rule; now they saw the cause of it. Slowly but steadily they became class-conscious. They said 'we are comrades,' and they saw themselves multiplied by millions. They caught the prophetic battle-cry of Karl Marx, the world's greatest labor leader, the inspired evangel of working class emancipation—'Workers of all countries, unite!'

"And now behold! The international Socialist movement spreads out over all the nations of the earth. The world's workers are aroused at last. They are no longer on their knees; their bowed bodies are now erect. Despair has given way to hope; weakness to strength; fear to courage. They no longer cringe and supplicate; they hold up their heads and command. They have ceased to fear their masters and learned to trust themselves.

How Party Was Born.

"And this is how the Socialist party came to be born. It was quickened into life in the bitter struggle of the world's enslaved workers. It expresses their collective determination to break their fetters and emancipate themselves and the race.

"Is it strange that the workers are loyal to such a party; that they proudly stand beneath its blazing banners and fearlessly proclaim its conquering principles? It is the one party of their class, born of their agony and baptized in the blood of their countless brethren who perished in the struggle to give it birth.

"Next to this great party of the toiling millions white solidarity is heard around the world!

"We do not plead for votes; the workers give them freely, the hour they understand.

"But we need to destroy the prejudice that still exists and dispel the darkness that still prevails in the working class world. We need the clear light of sound education and the conquering power of economic and political organization.

"Before the unified hosts of labor all the despotic governments on earth are powerless and all resistance vain. Before their onward march all ruling classes disappear and all slavery vanishes forever.

"The appeal of the Socialist party is to all the useful people of the nation, all who work with brain and muscle to produce the nation's wealth and who promote its progres and conserve its civilization.

"Only they who bear its burdens may rightfully enjoy the blessings of civilized society.

"There are no boundary lines to separate race from race, sex from sex, or creed from creed, in the Socialist party. The common rights of all are equally recognized.

"Every human being is entitled to sunlight and air, to what his labor produces, and to an equal chance with every other human being to unfold and ripen and give to the world the riches of his mind and soul.

"Economic slavery is the world's misery, prostitution, insanity and crime are its inevitable results.

"The Socialist party is the one party which stands squarely and uncompromisingly for the abolition of industrial slavery; the one party pledged in every fiber of its being to the economic freedom of all of the people.

"So long as the nation's resources and productive and distributive machinery are the private property of a privileged class, the masses will be at their mercy, poverty will be their lot, and life will be shorn of all that raises it above the brute level.

"The infallible test of a political party is the private ownership of the sources of wealth and the means of life. Apply that test to the Republican, Democratic and Progressive parties and upon that basic, fundamental issue you will find them essentially one and the same. They differ according to the conflicting interests of the privileged classes, but at bottom they are alike and stand for capitalist class rule and working class slavery.

THE CENTENNIAL REALLY OPENS AT SCHILLER PARK

Did the Socialists have a Full Festival at Schiller Park last Monday afternoon and evening?

Most decidedly YES.

Was it a success?

Another BIG YES.

The Socialists of Columbus once more demonstrated their class solidarity and their loyalty to The Columbus Socialist by rallying en masse to Schiller Park and making a grand success out of what seemed to promise certain failure. When too late it was found that the date selected was the opening night of the Centennial. Those in charge of the affair could see no other way than to go ahead, and ahead they went. The big parade uptown seemed to have no effect upon the people who thronged to Schiller Park, and they thronged by the hundreds and thousands during the evening. The spirit of good cheer ruled and everybody enjoyed himself as only real Socialists know how. The aged were there, men and women who were Socialists across the ocean, the middle-aged, the younger, the youth and maidens and the children, bless them, by the hundreds! The Socialist Band discoursed music and won the well merited praise of the audience. The speeches of the evening were given by D. J. Farrell, J. L. Bachman and A. C. Eby.

[illegible] The Columbus Socialist are due to the large attendance; to the band and speakers, but to the noble band of workers who served tables, washed dishes and did the thousand things incident to such a festival, we can only say that your names are written in "The Book of Life."

G. A. Danego was awarded the prize of a knit purse. He should call at this office for it.

PROMINENT MILL OWNER SUICIDES AT LAWRENCE, MASS.

Was Summoned Before Grand Jury in Dynamite Case—"Plot" of Bosses Exposed.

Boston, Aug. 28.—Ernest W. Pitman, builder of the Wood and Ayer mills at Lawrence, who committed suicide after being summoned before the grand jury yesterday, charged with the "planting" of dynamite in Lawrence during the strike, had previously confessed to the district attorney, it became known today.

The arrest of several, men prominent in the textile industry in New England is expected today as a result of the investigation District Attorney Pelletier has been conducting secretly for the past three days. Dynamite "plant" indictments, it is said, have already been returned.

Two men prominently mentioned in the investigation today are among the largest mill owners in the combination and a prominent Boston dealer in mill supplies is one of them.

Pitman is reported to have said that the men who were implicated had no intention that any of the dynamite would be used and were to take every precaution to have it "discovered" by the police as soon as it was placed in the possession of the operatives, so that the latter could not use it if they happened to find it.

BULL MOOSE AT SILVER JUBILEE OF NOTED PENNSYLVANIA PRIEST.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 24.—The silver anniversary of the ordination of Father John J. Curran, of this city, was made the occasion of one of the biggest celebrations ever held in this section of the State. Bishop M. J. Hoban, of Scranton, Vicar General Turner, of Philadelphia, and some fifty other church notables were present. Theodore Roosevelt also was a guest and made a speech, eulogizing Father Curran and playing for the Catholic vote for the Bull Moose Party.

EIGHTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT.

The Socialists of the Eighth District met at Kenton, Sunday, August 18. Comrade A. G. Farthemer, of Peoria, Union County, was nominated for Congress, and Comrade R. EQUAL SUFFRAGE PARADE WAS SPLENDID DISPLAY

The Equal Suffrage parade last Tuesday forenoon was by far the most impressive event of Centennial week, and was the one redeeming feature of a sordid program of monumental fakes. The women "put one over on" the astute Centennial managers when they got a day allotted them, and on Tuesday the good sisters, their cousins and their aunts sure did make good. BIG PARADE? WELL, YES!

The women on foot, with a detail of police in front (they didn't need those cops one holy second—that parade couldn't have been headed off by anything but an injunction from God) marched, yes they marched by thousands, with flags and banners. Those who marched were from Columbus and every section of Ohio. Their ages ranged from children, here and there, to women past three score years and ten. There were handsome girls, society girls of this city, who paralyzed their male friends on the pavements by waving the slogan "Votes for Women." There were young matrons, stately and defiant; there were older mothers awakened from indifference and despair. There were aged women whose eyes sparkled with the prospect of hopes long deferred being fulfilled.

There were floats and chariots, and women on horseback (riding astride) and Joan of Arc in glittering armor.

It was a magnificent demonstration. It made a profound impression upon thousands of voters who lined the streets. "Votes for Women", should win.

NO SOCIALIST CAN BE TRUE TO HIS PRINCIPLES AND VOTE OTHERWISE.

WHERE DID CASH GO?

The Chamber of Commerce is Asked Some Pertinent Questions.

Some time in August, or September, 1910, during the street car strike, the Columbus Chamber of Commerce, in defending their friends, Stewart and the Clark Syndicate, called on the manufacturers, merchants and others to contribute to a fund to pay assistants to the sheriff, and procure arms and supplies to aid in breaking the strike, and compel the men to return to work at a less wage than was sufficient to support themselves, and families. After accomplishing their purpose the (the C. of C.) presented a bill of $6,131.60 to the county commissioners for their purported expenses. The commissioners found they had no legal right to pay this bill, so rejected it. Not satisfied, their henchman, Senator Todd introduced Senate bill 455 entitled "An Act to Reimburse the Columbus Chamber of Commerce, etc." Authorizing and empowering the county commissioners of Franklin County to pay them the amount, $6,131.60. This act was passed (without a dissenting vote from the representatives of Franklin County) on May 17th, and approved by the Democrat governor, May 18th. The county commissioners allowed this bill June 3rd, 1911 and it was paid on June 12, 1912. After more than a year, or to be exact, August 8th, 1912, the C. of C., at a meeting decided to return at once about 40 per cent of the fund raised at that time, ostensibly to preserve order. They say that about $5,000 was raised, of which amount they spent $3,000. Assisting in breaking strikes appears to be quite a remunerative proposition to the C. of C. but you, the payers of Franklin County, who furnished the $6,131.60, how do you like it? Do you think the representatives represented you when they authorized this expenditure of YOUR money? Do you think the commissioners were thinking of your interests when they allowed this infamous steal? I would like the people of Franklin County to remember that this same body, together with the parent organization, the Ohio Chamber of Commerce are flooding this county with booklets, denouncing the Initiative and Referendum, No. 6, and Woman's Suffrage, No. 23. In our desire to be fair, I will say that I do not blame them, as with the adoption of these amendments, they could not hope to rob the county as they did in the afore mentioned case. Now, Mr. Citizen, whether you have carefully studied these amendments or not, would not the fact that such an organization as the C. of C. fighting against them, convince you that it would be to your interest to vote "YES" on every proposition they condemn.

RETURN UNUSED FUNDS.

C. of C. ad Left $8000 Collected to Preserve Order During the Car Strike.

Forty per cent of the fund raised two years ago to keep order during the street car strike will be refunded, so the Chamber of Commerce Directors decided Friday night. About $5000 was collected, $2000 of which was never used. Checks were mailed Friday to the contributors in amounts proportional to their gifts.—Local Paper.

FOR SOCIALISTS IN CONGRESS

Socialism is not unionism. It is a force moving along parallel lines. The Socialist is attempting to bring about peacefully and by political argument what the unionist is attempting to bring about by direct force. This is why the majority of Socialists prefer political action to direct action. Both are necessary in order to bring about true reform; but in the long run the greatest results will be brought about by political action. The world is beginning to hate war, and will only tolerate it where no other means can be found to end an intolerable injustice. So the world shrinks from the general strike, which would be as devastating as war, and, like war, would bear hardest on the attacking party, and hardest of all on the women and children. Therefore it becomes the duty of the Socialists to strengthen their political forces, so that the class war may be averted. In this country we are woefully behind other nations in the political field. We devote far too much thought to a Presidential campaign, which is simply a forlorn hope, and forget to work for victories in congressional districts which are quite possible. It would not be difficult to build up a Socialist party in Congress and in the state legislature, which might often hold the balance of power, just as the labor party in England now holds the balance of power, and so force legislation which would advance the cause of freedom without the miseries of actual strikes. It will be the office of the Metropolitan to do everything in its power to foster the growth of the Socialist party in Congress and in the state legislatures.—September Metropolitan.

ROOSEVELT ELECTED BY STANDARD OIL

Everybody Thought So But Now It's Proven by Penrose, Be Gosh!

It doesn't much matter whether or not Roosevelt knew about the big amounts of money collected to win the election for him in 1904. There are many things he does not know, though the time probably will never come when he will understand that he does not know. But every one else knows that the money was collected for him, that the most criminal trusts contributed, that he was looked upon as the safest of all men for the position of President, and that magnates who would not give a cup of water to a fainting wayfarer cheerfully dug down and gave liberally to Roosevet. They were used to it. They had given that way to the McKinley campaign and to the Cleveland campaign, and they had found that they invested wisely and well.

Probably in their whole existence they never invested more wisely than in Roosevelt. Perkins, of the Harvester Starvation Wage Trust, understands it and is fervently in favor of Roosevelt. Munsey, who has the gambler's mania, the hot, sizzling impulse and has plunged heavily in United States Steel, believes in Roosevelt, and to bring his money back is willing to send other money after it.

When Roosevelt says that he did not know that Standard Oil was backing him, through Penrose, and was giving a big block of money, he confesses for the first time that he is a mere fool, a stupid tool, an ass in politics. Anybody who knows him understands that it is not so.

Roosevelt can tell a lie with more declamatory denunciation than anybody we have had in years. In fact, his mind dwells so constantly on untruths that he cannot think anybody is so foolish as to tell the truth. Therefore, knowing his capitalistic society so well, he often hits the mark in calling men liars before he knows what they have to say.

But in the past, as in the present campaign, we might as well sum Roosevelt up.

He is a bold man. He is not a brave one. He will denounce the truth as a lie. He has never told a truth that hurt him personally. He has been and is a servant of the trusts. He has been used over and over again—and he is beginning to grow stale—and in spite of his loud talk he has never talked to the point. Roosevelt has been and is the worst type of trimmer, because he has had the ability to talk. Because of his ability he has mustered about him the most slimy elements in America's social life. When it suits his purpose he can disown them. But it is a fact, and everybody knows it to be a fact, that Standard Oil, E. H. Harriman, the thieving insurance companies, the other vicious trusts, contributed to his election. He knew it at the time, and he welcomed the support.

But he is a mere individual. He had to spend the money he received from such corrupt sources. He had to purchase favor and advertising. He had to buy votes—directly or indirectly. He had, in a word, to get publicity. And to get this he had to use the money he received from the trusts. They knew as well as he did what this money was intended for.

He used it all right. He bought some of the very papers that now denounce him. He "appealed" to some of the very people that now oppose him. He had a right to them because he paid for them, through the money that was contributed to his campaign fund, without his knowing that such a thing as money was ever spent upon a campaign.

This year he goes into the campaign without being convinced that money was spent for him in the past or will be spent for him in the present. Perkins, McCormick, Munsey, Van Valkenburg and the others who are working for him do so without money and without price. And what are accusations to him? All he has to do is deny them.

There has never been and probably never will be a more supreme denier than Roosevelt. He understands perfectly that all means are justifiable until he is found out. After he is found out he can repudiate them. He created Taft, as he thought, in his own image and likeness, and when Taft turned out to be only a mud caricature of a political human being, all that was necessary was to deny that there was, is or could be such a person. Taft has stood for and tried to follow "my policies," and it was there he scored his great failure. He took Roosevelt at his word. Roosevelt never took himself at his word, for he understood that while one day he might say black, the next day he might say white, and every time he would be correct.

Roosevelt has always been a costly proposition. He never stole a cent, but just consider what it cost the criminal trusts to elect him. Just consider how many violations of truth were necessary to defend him. Yet he never spent a cent, nor told a lie. All that was necessary was for him to permit the others to go on spending and him to go on talking. He can revise himself, apparently contradict himself, reverse himself, but still all the time he is himself. All others are but imitations, with far weaker voices, and though they may have something to say, they cannot yell it. And the ability to yell is supreme Americanism.

OHIO'S NEW CONSTITUTION

By Harry D. Thomas

Primary Elections
No. 39 on the Official Ballot.

This amendment adds section 7 to article 5 and provides that all nominations for office of the state or any subdivision thereof having a population of over two thousand, must be made by primary election or by petition. By nominations for offices in districts with a population less than the number named are not so made unless the qualified electors thereof so desire. It is further provided that all delegates to national conventions of the different political parties are to be chosen by primary and provision is made for a preferential vote for United States Senator and also to require that candidates for the office of delegate to national conventions shal lstate their preference as between different candidates for the presidency.

As this amendment takes out of the hands of the political party bosses the naming of political nominees for office and places it in the hands of the ordinary voters, it should receive the hearty support of all Socialists and every effort made to secure its adoption. That part of it providing for preferential vote for United States Senators your Socialist delegate succeeded in adding to it on its second reading.

No. 37 on the Official Ballot.
Home Rule for School Districts

This amendment, if adopted, will give the law making body of the state complete control over the organization and administration of the state's public school system, and is designed to make clear that local communities cannot destroy the unity of the state system.

The second part of the amendment applies to city school districts only, and allows the electors of each city district to determine, as shall be provided by law, the size and organization of its board of education. The powers of such city boards of education are not enlarged by this amendment.

As this practically provides Home Rule for School Districts in so far as its local governing power is concerned, it should be adopted.

No. 38 on the Official Ballot.
Creating the Office of Superintendent of Public Instruction to Replace State Commissioner of Common Schools.

This amendment provides for a more effective supervision of the public school system of the state, by creating the office of superintendent of public instruction as one of the state executive departments. At present there is no provision in the constitution on the subject, the state commissionership of public schools being a statutory office, subject to abolition at any time by the general assembly. The new office provided in this amendment will be appointive by the governor and the term will be four years. The amendment, if adopted, will take effect on the second Monday of July, 1913, at which time the first superintendent of public instruction will take the place of the commissioner of common schools, whose term expires on that date, and the latter office will then cease to exist.

The present School Commissioner is merely a clerical position for gathering statistics. This amendment if adopted will mean that we shall have a state Superintendent with proper authority to compel School districts to provide proper means of education in every Section of the State and to enforce the compulsory education laws.

No. 39 on the Official Ballot.
To Extend State Debt Limit to Fifty Million Dollars for Bonds to Build Good Roads.

This amendment raises the limit of indebtedness for the specific purpose of constructing, rebuilding, improving and repairing a system of inter-county wagon roads, to fifty million dollars, and, if adopted, will authorize legislation providing for an issue of state bonds, not to exceed, in the aggregate of all issues, fifty million dollars. Not more than ten million dollars in bonds can be issued in any one year. The cost of constructing and maintaining this system of inter-county wagon roads shall be paid by the state and provision shall be made for the redemption of said bonds. The object is to authorize and empower the state to construct and maintain an inter-county system of permanent wagon roads, the cost of which shall be levied upon the entire tax duplicate.

The Socialist and radical members of the Convention made every effort possible to amend this proposal so as to have good roads built by direct taxes in place of Bonds but failed by 10 votes to get the necessary majority, you will note that this amendment only authorizes the legislature to pass laws issuing not more than 10,000,000 dollars worth of bonds each year for five years, and as all such laws will be subject to referendum vote, no bonds can be issued without the consent of the people. Personally I believe the debt limit should be removed altogether and the people left free to engage in any enterprise they choose, and regard this amendment as a step in that direction.

No. 40 on the Official Ballot
Home Rule for Cities.

This is one of the best and most progressive of the amendments that you will have an opportunity to vote for September 3rd. It provides that cities and villages under the proposed amendment are given the right to frame their own charter, own and regulate their own public utilities and to adopt by ordinance such local police, sanitary and other similar regulations, not in conflict with general laws, as they may deem necessary. To the general assembly is specifically reserved the authority to limit the power of the cities to levy taxes and incur debts for local purposes, to control elections, to examine into the financial condition and transactions of all municipalities, and, by general laws, to make such provisions for police and sanitary regulations and other similar matters as may be for the general welfare of the state.

Municipalities may determine their form of government by any one of three ways:

a. They may, upon vote of the people, elect fifteen citizens to frame a charter, which must be submitted to the voters for approval.

b. They may adopt, by a majority vote, a form of government provided by the general assembly. This may be the commission form of government, the federal plan, the so-called Newport plan, or as many plans as the general assembly may provde.

c. They may decide to be governed as at present, by a municipal code, framed and adopted by the general assembly. Such a code automatically takes effect in all municipalities which do not frame their own charters or take the trouble to submit to the people one or the other of the forms provided by the general assembly.

Municipalities are given the power to acquire, construct, own, lease and operate any and all of their public utilities. This authority is subject to the limitations fixed by the general assembly on the power of the municipalities to levy taxes and incur indebtedness. A city may raise money for such purpose by issuing mortgage bonds beyond the limit of bonded indebtedness fixed by law, provided that such mortgage bonds are made a lien on the property and revenues of the utility itself.

Every voter in Ohio should vote for No. 40.

HAD $3,000,000 TO MAKE ROOSEVELT NOMINEE

Penrose Charges Teddy's Admonitory Letter to Cortelyou Was Fake.

Washington—Senator Penrose, of Pennsylvania, returned to his attack upon Colonel Roosevelt today with more startling charges even than those preferred on the floor of the Senate yesterday.

Today Penrose, again speaking before his colleagues in the Senate Chamber, charged that a $3,000,000 fund had been underwritten by George W. Perkins and others to make Colonel Roosevelt the nominee of the regular Republican party at Chicago. Penrose followed up this astounding charge with the declaration that certain parties stood ready to produce the proofs of this transaction before a committee of the Senate. Penrose described the fund as the largest ever raised in the United States for the nomination of a candidate for President.

The Senator from Pennsylvania also made the serious statement that he had been informed that Roosevelt's admonitory letter to George B. Cortelyou, chairman of the Republican National Committee in 1904, was sent to "make a record for future reference." This was the letter given out by Colonel Roosevelt in Wilkes-Barre last night and written by him on October 26, 1904. It warned George B. Cortelyou against accepting any contribution from the Standard Oil Company and instructed him to return any money paid into the National Committee treasury from that source.

Senator Penrose charges in effect that Colonel Roosevelt knew when he dictated this letter that the $100,000 contributed by the Standard Oil Company had been spent and could not be returned.

CONCERNING REFERENDUM "E" TO RECALL THE MEMBERS OF STATE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

Statement of Committee.

At the mass meeting of Local Columbus, Socialist party, held August 4, 1912, the motion of Local Dayton to recall the State Executive Committee was seconded and a special committee of six was elected to secure information bearing upon the matter to be sent to the various Locals of the State.

This committee submits the following statements and affidavits in connection with referendum E, to recall the members of the State Executive Committee for the careful consideration of the members of the party throughout the State.

Local Secretaries are requested to present this circular to the attention of the Locals without fail.

C. F. WEICHOLD,
D. M. KUHNS,
E. B. EUBANKS,
J. P. ROSS,
D. J. FARRELL,
T. C. SOUTHARD,
Committee.

Affidavit of O. G. Van Schoyck Secretary of Local Columbus.

The State of Ohio, Franklin County, ss: Columbus, Ohio, August 12, 1912.

I hereby swear that the following statements are true:

At the business meeting of the C. C. C. of Local Columbus, July 8/1912, I, as Secretary of Local Columbus, was requested to confer with the State Office and find out particulars regarding the S. E. C. action in refusing to place Comrade F. E. Johnston and W. C. Bates on the available list of State speakers, and also why other speakers were taken off the list.

On or about July 10 I went to State Office to get that information. There was no one in the office at the time, but Comrade Minturn, as Comrade Schawe, State Secretary, was visiting his wife, who was sick. I asked Comrade Minturn who gave Reporter Baird of the Citizen the news that was printed in the Citizen July 8. She said that Comrade Henderson (who is a member of the S. E. C.) gave most of the information, and that Comrade Schawe gave the reporter a few things. I said to her that Reporter Baird of the Citizen says that he got his information at the State Office from the stenographer, and Comrade Minturn says: "Why, Henderson sat right there in that window and gave Baird the whole information excepting what few things Comrade Schawe told Baird." In the meantime Comrade Bachman came into the office and he asked Comrade Minturn about the same questions that I had and received the same answers.

While we were discussing the matter, Comrade Henderson came in, and Comrade Minturn said: "Here is Jim now, and he will verify what I have said." I then asked Comrade Henderson if he was responsible for the article which appeared in the Citizen July 8, 1912, and he said that he was the guilty person. Said that the interview with the reporter occurred in the State Office.

I then asked him officially why those speakers had been taken off the list and he said that he (Henderson) had made the motion to revise the speakers' list and take off those that were not suitable. I then asked why they following speakers were dropped. The following were his answers: A. C. Eby, because it was the sense of the S. E. C. that Eby's speeches were mostly against the church and unions; W. J. Millard, because he wrote to State Secretary and requested that he would like to be routed continuously if he spoke in Ohio this fall; A. B. Shinn, because the S. E. C. did not think he was clear on Socialism and that he was no good as a speaker; Bagby, because he was a preacher and that he had no calls for a date in the past year; Ella R. Bloor, because she was now in the employ of the Woman's Suffrage League, which was opposed to Socialism.

I then asked Henderson why Comrade F. E. Johnston had not been approved as State speaker and his reply was that Johnston's application as State speaker was refused because Johnston had been speaking over the State without the authority of the State Office. I then said the only place Johnston had spoken outside of Franklin County was at Marysville, last fall, and that Comrade Schawe had sent Johnston to Marysville himself, and Henderson then said: "Well, there was an article in the Columbus Socialist something to the effect that Johnston was going out to speak."

I then asked Henderson regarding Comrade W. C. Bates and he said that the reason Bates' application was refused was that Bates had asked Comrade Peter Kinnear what were the best books to read, as he expected to go out speaking this fall and as he (Bates) did not understand Socialism very well he would like to read up. I then asked Henderson if the S. E. C. took Comrade Kinnear's word for it and he said yes. I then asked him why they had not called in Bates and asked him if Kinnear's statements were true, and Henderson said that they did not have time to bother with him. I then asked Henderson why the discrimination between Eby and John Gayton—that is, by taking Eby off for talking against the church and leaving Gayton on, when as I understood that all of Gayton's speeches were a tirade against the church, and that if Eby was taken off why was Gayton left on the list, and Henderson's reply was that if it had not been for taking all of Local Columbus speakers off the list that John Gayton and E. B. Lewis also would have been taken off. I, as Local Secretary, also deny and brand as a wilful lie the statement that Comrade Margaret Prevy, a member of the S. E. C., is sending out through Local Toledo, and the Cleveland Socialist that Comrade W. C. Bates had charges preferred against hom and was being tried the same day the S. E. C. were in session and that S. E. C. could not encourage Comrade Bates by putting him on the available list of speakers while he was being tried.

The following resolution will prove the above statement of Comrade M. Prevy to be a deliberate lie, as this resolution was passed upon at the mass meeting of Local Columbus July 7, 1912, the same day the S. E. C. were in session:

Moved and seconded that the resolution from the Tenth Ward be tabled. Carried. The following is the resolution from the Tenth Ward:

Be it Resolved, That Comrade W. C. Bates be ordered to produce the proof of his statements as made in the Sixth and Seventh Ward Branches and failing to do so, he must retract said statements in the columns of the Columbus Socialist over his own signature, and stand condemned by all workingmen of the State of Ohio; and be it further

Resolved, That it be the sense of the Tenth Ward Branch that this bitter tirade, which has been started by some few individual members of the Socialist party in the hope of casting reflections upon the past satisfactory and honest conduct of the State Office of the Socialist party of Ohio.

Comrade Walter Smith, a member of the Tenth Ward, made the motion to table the above resolution and was seconded by Marsh Green, another member of the Tenth Ward, and under remarks Comrade Maquette, also a member of the Tenth Ward, said that the resolution had been railroaded through the Tenth Ward by a few members of said ward. Affidavit of J. M. Suddick.

State of Ohio, Franklin County, ss: Columbus, Ohio August 13, 1912.

There did personally appear before me on the above date one John M. Suddick and after being duly sworn deposeth and says that on July 6, 1912, he was present at a session of the S. E. C. at 121½ East Town Street, Columbus, Ohio, and did there hear the vote for members of the new S. E. C. read by one of the members of said S. E. C., who averred there had been 1,614 ballots cast, which would require 808 to constitute a majority. Only three of the candidates had received 808 or more votes. Joseph C. Schawe suggested that any over 800 be declared elected, and said S. E. C. did then and there go into session and pass a motion declaring four (4) of the candidates elected, namely, Comrades Strickland, Ruthenberg, Prevy and Bates, as their minutes show, and every one present knew that only three had a majority as shown upon the face of the returns, and further deponent saith not.

Affidavit of F. E. Johnston.

State of Ohio, Franklin County, ss:

Before me, the undersigned authority, personally came F. E. Johnston, who, being first duly sworn, deposes as follows:

I have been conversant with the affairs of the State Office ever since Joseph C. Schawe was elected. Prior to the time that the I. W. W.'s organized in this city Comrade Schawe seemed to be working for the interest of the Socialist party. Immediately after their organization Comrades who would not swallow their "direct action" and "violence" program were given the cold shoulder at the State Office. There were at all times from five to ten of these I. W. W.'s in the State Office, and a Comrade who believed in "political action" could not go near without being assailed to join the I. W. W.'s. To illustrate how much the State Office believes in "political action," on or about July 12, Comrade Fortune, of Linden Heights, came into the office of the Socialist Publishing Company and stated he was going to the State Office. Shortly afterward he returned very much inflamed at his reception. Upon inquiry it developed that immediately upon his landing he was accosted as to whether he believed in "direct action" or not. Comrade Fortune told them no. They then grabbed an Ohio State Journal of that date and showed him an item from Martin's Ferry, which claimed that the Socialist administration of Martin's Ferry was in a fight with labor unions. They showed him the article with this remark: "THAT SHOWS UP THAT GANG OF POLITICAL ACTIONISTS." They had swallowed whole a capitalist newspaper lie. Immediately we wrote to Comrade Wyckoff, Mayor of Martin's Ferry, and in our next issue of July 20 we published a letter over his own signature which disproved the article in the capitalist sheet and showed conclusively that "political action" is doing wonders for Martin's Ferry.

The State Office is simply a reflex of the S. E. C. and progress in this State can only be made by giving the party a thorough housecleaning. I have heard "political action" sneered at time and again in the State Office.

In regard to the article which appeared in the Columbus Citizen, which C. E. Ruthenberg claimed this paper swallowed as a capitalist newspaper lie, I personally heard J. H. Henderson, chairman of the S. E. C. acknowledge that he gave out the interview. I positively know that Miss Minturn, Assistant Secretary in the State Office, also assisted in giving out the interview.

F. E. JOHNSTON.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 13th day of August, 1912.

JOHN C. L. PUGH,
Notary Public in and for Franklin County, Ohio.

Statement of J. L. Bachman.

Until the election of last November the Socialist party in Franklin County had always been a unit in purpose and practically harmonious in its activities, and we were on the verge of capturing the Capital of the State for Socialism. But soon after the election about a half dozen persons began to sow dissension among Socialists whenever they found an opportunity. We began to wonder what purpose they had in view. They then claimed that they were Industrial Unionists. Since all Socialists are Industrial Unionists, their conduct was not accounted for. Next they announced that they were in sympathy with the I. W. W. This was their privilege, since its field of action was outside the Socialist party. Next they advocated "direct action" and SABOTAGE, misrepresenting the meaning of the terms.

It was soon discovered, however, that they were getting their directions and instructions from the managers of the International Socialist Review, who were trying to force their syndicalist literature and speakers on Local Columbus.

That the same tactics were pursued in other parts of the State was apparent by the fact that Mr. Bohn was personally in Columbus directing these forces at the State Convention.

Industrial Unionism, of course was endorsed without opposition. Then with the evident intent to divert the Socialist party into Syndicalism, Josephine Bates, a member of the S. E. C., proposed an amendment to the State Constitution which declared the object of the Socialist party to be to "organize the working people" for the purpose of establishing the "Industrial Democracy." There was just enough truth in that to throw the unsuspecting delegates off their guard, and the scheme worked. It is well known that the object of the Socialist party is to organize all the people, regardless of sex, race, color or conditions, who oppose the capitalist or profit system, into a political party for the purpose of establishing the co-operative commonwealth.

The working people is all that Syndicalism includes, but not all that Socialism includes. Industrial Democracy is all that Syndicalism contemplates, while this is only a part of the co-operative commonwealth.

They did not yet dare to suggest their anarchistic methods or the cloven hoof would have been exposed.

These same forces were at work at the National Convention at Indianapolis. They called themselves "Reds," pretending that this meant enthusiastic Socialists who believed in industrial unionism. Under this definition many allied themselves with the "Reds" and they are still "Reds" within that meaning, but not Syndicalists. The Syndicalists called secret meetings to control the convention and get a list of names as a nucleus for an organization within the party to capture it for their purposes. I attended one meeting, after which I was approached by Mr. Michaelson, from somewhere in the West, in order to find out if I favored political action. When he found out that I did, emphatically, I got no further invitations to attend meetings.

At least some of the members of our S. E. C. have their names on that list, and this element now controls the S. E. C. and the State Office, although I do not think that most of these persons realize the full import of Syndicalism and its destructive influence on Socialism.

Many I. W. W.'s, who are mostly Syndicalists, have lately drifted into Columbus and go directly to the State Office. Miss Minturn, assistant to the Secretary, told me that this was because she is secretary of the local I. W. W. Most of these persons that I have met are opposed to the Socialist party. Particularly is this true of Joe Carroll and Mr. Michaelson.

The action of S. E. C. in placing certain persons on the list of speakers, refusing others and eliminating still others, and in naming their approved list and their objectionable list, indicates clearly that they have gone as far as possible with safety in rejecting those speakers who favor political action. Their excuses, so far as given are very weak, and I vouch for the correctness of the statement of Comrade O. G. Van Schoyck as to that portion made in my presence.

Syndicalism is not another term for industrial unionism as stated in the International Socialist Review, but it is another term for anarchism. It is an importation from France, where in its modern sense it was conceived and founded by Baunin, Yvetot, Pelloutier, Pouget and other anarchists. Its most ardent supporters have been anarchists. It stands in France as opposed to Socialism, although a few of its members suport the Socialist party. It has been rejected in all other countries.

There are three classes of Syndicalists—first, the anarchists, pure and simple, who favor it as a means to anarchism; second, those who consider it sufficient as the end sought, without any political government; third, those who favor political action to hold the policeman's club till Syndicalism obtains, when all political government will be abolished. All three lead to the same end—anarchism.

Their ideas are so vague that no adequate conception can be former, except that they intend to capture the industries by "direct action," which means by any means at hand, peaceful of violent. These means are the general strike and SABOTAGE. In the general strike, they say that a few can lead the mob and take by force the industries, and it is not necessary that a majority favor it, but when once started they can sway them by passion. What they will do with the industries without a government they have not figured out. I am of the opinion they will be left in the same position they were after the French Commune in 1871.

SABOTAGE is the obstruction of the means of production and distribution, usually by destroying machinery and damaging or diverting products. This is to be used to force concessions or aid in the general strike.

Syndicalism conceives man as a stomach and all else as prehensile appurtenances to feed it. This may appeal to those who, under the burden of capitalism, have had all hope and higher aspirations and sensibilities crushed out.

They call this ideal the "Social Myth" which is supposed to stir them to action. Their position is pessimism and they rely upon mob force to accomplish their end. They deny all moral principles or that there is such a thing as justice. All action is determined by their desires and their power to obtain them.

Such is Syndicalism. Do we want to accept it for our lofty Socialist ideals of the co-operative commonwealth?

Yours for Socialism,
J. L. BACHMAN.

The dividends from a department store going into the pocket of a praying Christian will force the girl clerks of that store into prostitution just as surely as the dividends going into the pocket of a rake.—Cotton's Weekly.

Of the industrial workers of the United States, not more than 10 per cent receive over $1,000 a year. One-half of them get less than $500 a year.

The United States Bureau of Labor, after exhaustive investigation, has reached the conclusion that the lowest wage upon which an American workman can support a family and maintain his efficiency as a worker is $900 a year.

These are pressing facts. They are the most momentous and vital facts with which American statesmanship has to deal.

They involve the very perpetuity of our civilization.

The nation's workers cannot be submerged without submerging the nation itself.

Nero fiddled while Rome burned.

What are our Caesars doing?

HE'D GOT RELIGION.

"Parson," exclaimed Ephriam, "I'se got 'ligion—'ligion, I tell you!"

"That's fine, brother! You are going to lay aside all sin?"

"Yes, sah."

"You're going to church?"

"Yes, sah-ree."

"You are going to care for the widows?"

"Ah, yes, sah."

"You are going to pay your debts?"

"Sah? Dat ain't 'ligion; dat's business."—Judge.

The Capitalist often "gets religion" but never gets enough to make him willing to give up the profit system. That's business.

BEN TILLETT'S PRAYER.

"O God, strike Lord Devonport dead!" So prayed 20,000 striking dockers in London a few days ago, repeating the words after their leader, Ben Tillett, as they stood with bared heads. The dockers lost the strike. They had to give in because they and their wives and children were starving. Lord Devonport was the leader of those who would not grant the dockers a raise of wages. God has not yet struck Lord Devonport dead. But wouldn't any man be better dead than to be remembering alive, that 20,000 fellowmen with bared heads had on a day besought their God to strike him dead? And is it not amusing to read that all England was shocked at Ben Tillett's prayer? As if in all the churches of the Empire like prayers were not offered up for the confusion and destruction of the enemies of England. All England prays for the death of her foes. Why had not Ben Tillett and the poor dockers a right to pray for the death of their foe, Lord Devonport.

OUR GREAT PROSPERITY.

About what are you kicking? You have not money enough with which to buy this morning's breakfast? That is nothing.

Consider the sorrows of the rich.

Mrs. Fish's ball—the great Ham Fishball—cost $100,000, and Mrs. Fish was not a person to stand in the way of Newport's desire for a sensation. Nothing startles Newport except the spending of much money. If a husband blows in his Saturday night's wages it is an unpleasant domestic incident. But, unless it becomes a matter of air-shaft knowledge through the objections of the wife, it is of no consequence. But Mrs. Fish, in order to become known, must spend a tenth of a million dollars. And her poor husband is in the railroad business, and that hundred thousand is hardly a month's income. So consider what she is up against.

That sum might have saved the lives of ten thousand babies. It is nothing.

It may have pulled ten thousand families through a week of out of work. That is nothing.

Two hundred workers, at $500 a year—and that is good pay for mere common people—will have to labor to produce that amount, and it was spent in a single night.

But what of that? We are prosperous.

Did not Harry Payne Whitney spend $75,000 for three days of grouse shooting on a preserve in Scotland—Scotland, where the people are starving, even on oatmeal?. Sure he did.

Did it not cost $2,500 to bury the bulldog of John W. Gates? Yep

We have all sorts of money.

But dig down for a good meal for yourself. Or for a contribution to the Ettor and Giovannitti defense fund. Or for one of the strikers. Or for your sick baby. Or for a real vacation. Or for anything else in that line. Then sum up how much money you have.

CHILD SLAVERY.

Shameful love of money builds wide-open and eager money-making machines—mills, factories and mines in which the poor child of the exploited can quickly be changed into dollars and stunted failures.

There are men in this country today who buy the most expensive horses, automobiles and steam yachts and every dollar they spend is stained with the blood of helpless little children worked to death to make them rich.

This is the richest country in the world, but under the capitalist system it is not rich enough to give the child of the poor an equal chance and a right to its own childhood.

The nation owns millions of acres of land blessed with sunlight and fresh air, but the money-making instinct of the nation demands the children—nearly two million of them—shuts them away from the air and the sunlight, makes slaves of their bodies, dwarfs their brains, sacrifices the life of a child for a dollar; and then with brutal hypocrisy goes to church and prays in the name of Jesus Christ, who gave his life for the very children that are destroyed in our factories.

The bare fact that a child is deprived of its growth, deprived of sunshine and education, driven to hard labor in babyhood, deprived of all chance in life, should arouse indignation that nothing could increase.

The fathers, who have the power and the right to change the conditions, can do so any time they wish. Certainly no man can defend an economic system that demands for its success the life of the future citizens of the republic.

We brag of our prosperity, our power, our intelligence, but we have not, as a nation, THE MANHOOD OR THE CONSCIENCE TO SHIELD HELPLESS CHILDREN.

Resolve that you will never rest until the brutal system responsible for all this brutality is kicked into perdition.

YOU CAN KICK IT THERE IN FIVE MINUTES WITH YOUR BALLOT.

COST OF STRIKE TO CHICAGO PAPERS.

Special Chicago correspondence to the St. Paul "Union Advocate" states that startling and very significant facts have come to light with reference to the strike against the newspapers in that city. The proceedings of a recent meeting of the Publishers' Association are said to have leaked out somehow, and they show these men are paying an enormous price for their exploit in cut-throat newspaper management.

The correspondent goes to say that at the meeting alluded to Thomas Carey, secretary of the association, reported that the cost of the strike to the papers for the preceding week had been $78,000, apportioned among the newspapers as follows: "Post," $3,000; "Inter-Ocean," $5,000; "Journal," $5,000; Hearst's "American," $10,000; Hearst's "Examiner," $10,000; "News," $15,000; "Record-Herald," $15,000; "Tribune," $15,000; total, $78,000. This money, it was explained had been expended for hiring special police, paying double wages to negroes and University of Chicago youths to keep them on street corners selling newspaper, salaries for sluggers and gunmen, "extras" to assure political friendship in certain high quarters and other similar items. Asked when this expense would begin to decrease, it having been around $75,000 for the past three months, Secretary Carey said he could make no promise; and the only thing to do was to keep a "stiff upper lip."

ARE YOU REGISTERED?

Boosters' Department

By F. E. JOHNSTON

Very encouraging indeed from a subscription standpoint has been the past week. Especially is this true from out in the State. The Comrades in the city have been busy selling tickets to the lawn fete, and now that this affair is out of the way every one can concentrate their efforts on subs.

Roll up your sleeves and let's all get busy on this proposition, Comrades, as the voters are in a muddle and looking for something to straighten them out. The Columbus Socialist will do the work, but we must make them pay for their own education. Let us bend every effort from now on until the last vote is counted on election day, and we will then find that we have passed one more milestone on the march towards industrial freedom.

Comrade Mohan, Beckett, Ohio, forwards us $1.00 for The Socialist and Rip Saw. He intends to wake 'em up with this combination.

Comrade Seddon, Lorain, Ohio, forwards us $1.50 for The Socialist and Review. This paper seems to please folks up in the northern part of the State.

Comrade Seimer, Corsing, Ohio, forwards us $3.50 for subs. Comrade Seimer knows "a rip-snorting good paper" when he sees it and don't hesitate to push it.

Comrade McFall, Eldred, Pa., forwards his sub for "the paper without a muzzle" and the Rip Saw. The Keystone State knows a live one when they see it and don't hesitate to hitch their wagon to a live star.

OHIO'S NEW CONSTITUTION

By Harry D. Thomas.

No. 39 on the Official Ballot—Regulating Insurance.

This proposal amendment will permit public property to be insured in mutual insurance associations and companies, a right which has been questioned under the present constitution. In this respect mutual insurance will thus be placed on the same basis with all other kinds and the state will also be authorized to regulate insurance rates.

No. 31—Abolishing Board of Public Works.

This amendment abolishes the state board of public works and provides that the powers and duties now exercised by that board, together with such other duties as may be prescribed by law, shall be exercised by a superintendent of public works, to be appointed by the governor for a period of one year.

No. 32—Taxation.

Section 1 of this amendment seeks to abolish the poll tax including the tax which one may "work out" on the road in lieu of which he may pay a sum of money.

Section 2 differs from the corresponding section of the present constitution in but two particulars. It makes taxable all state, municipal and school bonds hereafter issued, while the present constitution exempts them. It also makes it possible for the general assembly to exempt $500 from the personal property of each individual which the present constitution permits only $200 to be thus exempted.

Both the present constitution and this amendment require that all property shall be taxed by a uniform rule.

The remaining sections of this amendment authorize the general assembly to pass laws levying income and inheritance taxes, graduated or otherwise, on condition that at least fifty per cent of the revenue thus obtained shall be returned to the city, village or township from which it came. Excise and franchise taxes are also authorized.

No. 33—Methods of Submitting Future Amendments.

At present when the general assembly submits to the electors for their approval or rejection any proposed amendment to the constitution the same has to be published in newspapers for a period of six months prior to general election and then becomes a part of the constitution if a majority of the electors voting at such general election vote in favor of the same. Under the above amendment if it is adopted, the time of publication is reduced from six months to five weeks and in lieu of requiring a majority of all the electors who vote at such general election any submitted amendment will become a part of the constitution if a majority of the electors voting thereon and at either a special or general election.

This amendment also makes mandatory what formerly was optional with the general assembly as to the method of selecting members of future constitutional conventions. It requires that they shall be nominated by petition only and shall be voted for upon one independent and separate ballot without any emblem or party designation whatever.

No. 41—Schedule of Amendments.

No issue is or can be raised on the adoption of this amendment. Its object is to fix the interval which must elapse between date of submission of these amendments and the time at which, if adopted, they shall go into effect, in order that different departments of the state government may have an opportunity to adjust themselves to any change that may be made. All electors are respectfully requested to vote "Yes" on this particular amendment.

No. 42—Liquor License.

1. License to traffic in intoxicating liquors shall hereafter be granted operative throughout the state with and license laws shall be passed such restrictions and regulations as may be provided by law.

2. No alien or person not of good moral character can secure a license.

3. License cannot be granted to any person pecuniarily interested in the liquor business conducted at any other place.

4. Any licensee more than once convicted, shall have his license revoked and not thereafter granted.

5. There shall not be more than one saloon to each five hundred population in a municipality or township.

6. A municipality may further limit the number of saloon therein.

7. The licensing authority shall be located in the county, or in a county adjoining thereto.

8. Where the traffic is or may be prohibited under laws applying to counties, municipalities, townships, residence districts or other districts now prescribed by law license shall not be granted therein while such prohibitory law is operative therein.

9. Nothing contained in the proposal repeals, or modifies existing prohibitory or regulatory laws, or prevents their future repeal or enactment.

10. There is added to the above provisions, that nothing contained in the amendment prevents the future enactment, modification or repeal of any prohibitory or regulatory laws.

Each one of these amendments are along progressive lines and should be adopted, and in fact our members should be advised to vote for the whole 42, as everyone of them marks some step forward in the march of progress, and where they possibly may not exactly conform to our views they can be easily amended later on with the I. & R.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Mansfield Educator comes to our exchange table and it is a mighty lively propaganda paper. The Comrades in Mansfield made it an effective organ last fall.

The Hamilton Socialist is having a scrap to get the city printing awarded it by a Socialist Council. Walter Fahey, owner of the scab Republican-News, is fighting to keep The Socialist from receiving what justly belongs to it. Go after them, Comrades.

A Comrade writes us to ask why we do not give more information about the Barnes case, now in the hands of the National Executive Committee. Comrade, we are just in the position of the small boy who had been fired from his home for using cuss-words. He lingered at the front gate and his fond mother crept out to see if he had repented. A stranger came along and asked the lad, "Can you tell me where Mr. Jones live?" The reply came, clear as a bell, "You go to hell. I've got troubles of my own." If Ohio Socialists haven't troubles of their own, we don't know who has.

ETTOR-GIOVANNETTI PROTEST MEETING HELD

Clash With Park Superintendent Causes Needless Delay—Collection $15.

The Ettor-Giovannetti protest meeting, arranged for last Sunday afternoon at Schiller Park, was almost suppressed by the bullheadedness of Park Superintendent Sargent. Director of Safety Bargar had given permission for the use of the park for the express purpose, as advertised by the managers of the meeting.

Superintendent Sargent refused them permission to use the park for a meeting until after the concert of Max Neugebauer's Concert Band, or to take a collection while on city property, which he declared against park rules.

Director Bargar had given his assent to the meeting a week before, but had not communicated this order to the park superintendent, it was said.

Finally, about 4 p. m., the meeting was held. Stirring addresses were made by James H. Henderson, C. E. Belcher and Peter Kinnear. A collection of $15 was taken.

TRUSTS PAY THEIR WAY.

The daily press is stirring the public with large headlines announcingthe fact that the Standard Oil contributed one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars to Theodore Roosevelt's campaign in 1904. The most remarkable fact is that the great interest which the public seems to take in the perfectly obvious and natural proceeding. The Republican and Democratic campaigns, and especially the former, have been financed by the trusts and big business interests of the United States since those parties came in existence.

The Republican party has been financed by the large organized industries—industries which have been created by tariffs, bounties and lands grants.

EVERY PARTY REPRESENTS THE INTERESTS OF SOME CLASS. The Republican party has always represented the larger industrial and financial interests of this country. The Democratic party is now making a bid for the support of these industries AND IT IS SECURING IT. Some of the big trusts are now backing Wilson—the gas companies of Chicago and New York City, the sugar industry through Spreckles in the west. And, we need nothing more to emphasize this fact than the Democratic platform, in which there was not sufficient courage to even question the ALDRICH BANKING PLAN, which proposes to farm out the treasury of the United States for fifty years to Wall street robbers.

Every one must pay the fiddler. The capitalists of this country propose to control this country, and to do this they must own a political party, the one in powet, and then to place and keep this party in power they must advance the necessary money to create the enthusiasm, the music, the fireworks, the false issue and flamboyant speeches and flowery letters of acceptance. They must contribute the money to organize Taft and Wilson "labor" clubs to support capitalist candidates and get labor leaders to organize them. They must finance the newspapers filled with editorials favoring their interests. This all costs money.

Theodore Roosevelt was the champion candidate of the wealthy class of the United States. It was natural and proper that the trusts should pay the expense of placing their representative—tools and servants in public office.

The most remarkable and astounding circumstance would be the fact that the Standard Oil, railroad and steel interests, and Wall street did NOT contribute and put up to elect the Republican ticket in 1904 and 1908. The most astounding fact NOW would be the failure of the corporations to contribute to elect a conservative democratic congress and Mr. Wilson in 1912. The most astounding fact of all would be to find these corporations contributing to the election of Debs.

A POLITICAL PARTY CANNOT RISE HIGHER THAN THE IDEALS, THE PURPOSE AND OBJECTS OF THE CLASS WHICH IT REPRESENTS AND AN ECONOMIC CLASS WILL NEVER CONTRIBUTE, SUPPORT OR FINANCE A PARTY WHICH DOES NOT REPRESENTS ITS INTERESTS.

The Republican party has represented big business and organized industries and they have paid its expenses. The Democratic party for years past represented the small producer and the small producer financed the Democratic party.

The Socialist party represents the working class and the working class has financed the campaigns of the Socialist party.

The Socialist party is proud of the financial and moral support it secures from the working class of this country because it is of, for and by the working class.

The reason the Republican and Democratic parties are always attempting to deny financial assistance from the large corporations and Wall street is to blind the working people to the fact that these parties represent the CAPITALISTS and multi-millionaire industries of the country and make the workers believe that they, as a capitalist party represent ALL THE PEOPLE. The thunder and lightning over the Standard Oil contribution is stage thunder and electric light. Behind the scenes every plutocratic actor laughs and knows they want contributions from the class of which the capitalist parties are a part and FROM WHICH THEY SPRING AND WHOSE PURPOSE THEY EXPECT TO SERVE.

The capitalists are wondering if they can continue the sham, or if at last the mask has fallen off the simplest child can see the real situation.

RAISING THE DEAD

Several weeks ago we called for contributions to be used in placing on our subscription list, names of residents in the rural sections of Franklin County. The response has been generous to date, but we want to place every voter on our sub. list. To do this will require about $1500. If you Comrades knew of the vital importance of this move, there can be no question but that you would bend every effort, and raise this money at once. We wish to state, we are receiving, most encouraging reports from all sections of the County which we have been able to reach through this means. One man writes: "Someone has been good enough to send me your valuable paper, I have been a farmer and Republican all my life, but you have converted me, and I herewith enclose $1.00 to be used in sending the paper to others, who are yet in the dark."

Now, Comrades, get busy on this proposition, clip out the coupon and mail or bring it in with your remittance. It makes no difference if it is only five cents, or five dollars, send it in today and start the work right.

PUT IT AS MAN TO MAN

Disobedient Gardener Makes Witty Retort to Worthy Yorkshire Canon.

A worthy English canon, who had been greatly displeased by an act of disobedience perpetrated by one of his gardeners, sought an interview with the offender in order to reprimand him.

Knowing that if able to avoid this interview until his master's wrath had abated he would come off with only a few mild words of censure, the man kept out of his way.

A few days afterwards, however, when the storm was quite over, master and man came face to face in one of the hothouses and the canon asked:

"Why have you avoided me in so pointed a manner of late, Johnson?"

To which the gardener wittily replied:

"Now I'll put it to you as a man, sir; would you, if you could help it, stand in front of a canon to be blown up?"

SOCIALISTS IN ACTION

News from the World-Wide Movement of the Workers

NEWS FROM NATIONAL SOCIALIST HEADQUARTERS

The National Committee is now voting on the following motions made by Gaylord of Wisconsin and seconded by Lee of New York, Fenimore of Indiana, Martin of Colorado, Gamble of Kentucky, and Rodriguez of Illinois.

Motion No. 4.

That any existing rules adopted by the National Committee which would limit the powers of the National Campaign Committee be and the same are hereby declared not to apply to the conduct of the present campaign.

Motion No. 5.

That no motions shall be submitted for action by the National Committee until after November 1, 1912, unless the proponent and seconds of the motion have the approval of a majority of the members elect of the respective state committees represented by the members of the National Committee supporting such motion.

To appropriate the sum of $100.00 for the purpose of appealing the case of Leonard Oleson, who has been deprived of his citizenship, on account of being a Socialist, by Judge Cornelius Hanford.

State Secretary Thompson, of North Dakota, reports seven locals organized in that state during the month of July.

State Secretary Dietz, of Louisiana, reports ten locals organized in that state during the month of July.

The Socialists of Nashville, Tennessee, have secured a permanent injunction against the mayor, chief of police and city council, restraining them from interfering with Socialist meetings and dances. Thus history repeats itself in that chickens come home to roost.

State Secretary Connolly, of Alabama, reports six locals organized in that state during the month of July.

Proposed Referendum.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 13.

Mr. John M. Work, National Secretary, Socialist Party, Chicago, Ill:

Comrade—The Central Branch of Local Marion County Socialist Party of Indiana, with 90 members in good standing calls for seconds for the following resolution to put it to a referendum vote of the party membership:

"Resolved, That Hillquit, Spargo, Berger and Harriman be recalled from the N. E. C. for their vote to suspend the referendum on the recall of J. Mahlon Barnes from the office of National Campaign Manager.

"Comment: It is plainly the intent of the rank and file of the membership of the Socialist party, as shown by the numerous seconds to the many calls for a referendum to recall Barnes that he be recalled. Therefore we consider it as an attempt on the part of these members of the N. E. C. to over-ride the will of the rank and file on a technicality by suspending this referendum and thus retain Barnes in office contrary to the wishes of the party membership. It is immaterial whether or not the motion of Local Branon, Texas, was fraudulently conceived and instituted as there were other resolutions that contained practically the same wording as this one and the votes on the seconds show conclusively that the rank and file of the party desire to vote on the removal of Barnes. So the action of these members of the N. E. C. in voting to suspend the referendum is clearly an attempt to over-ride the wishes of the rank and file and retain in office the man whom it is desired to recall until after the election when his services will terminate any way. Are the votes of four men to dominate the party?

Socialist Campaign Book.

Ready for shipment September 5th. It contains facts and arguments that every worker should know. One story is worth fifty cents, the price of the book. There is no difference on vital questions between the old parties. A parallel-column table of their respective pronoucements on the tariff, the parcel post, the postal savings banks, the navy, etc., shows "There is NO Difference." They are all alike—silent on the system of robbery which despoils the workers.

The Campaign Fund.

A local of the United Mine Workers of Colorado now on strike, took up a collection for the One Day Wage fund and each member contributed from the amount received from the union as strike benefits. Local Lost Creek, Pa., (miners) voted $10 to the Socialist party campaign fund.

THE CAUSE IN THE HOCKING VALLEY.

Nelsonville, Sunday August 26, 1912.
The Columbus Socialist:

The interest shown by the large crowds and liberal contributions as well as the goodly numbers of books that were sold at the lectures of Comrade Strickland on August 16, and that of Comrade Ruthenberg, August 24, shows that there is, in the Hocking Valley, a Socialist being born every minute. The Hocking Valley coal miners are waking to the fact that what we want is Socialism. They have arrived at the conclusion that it makes no difference whether we have the Bull Moose of the Bull Elephant. They had the former for seven years and the latter for four years and the miners got bull beef in the fool's dinner pail just the same, under both administrations.

Indications are that the Socialist party in Athens County are going to make the other parties "divide up" their laurels this fall.

While the old parties accuse the Socialists of wanting to divide up, yet they promise if re-elected to "bust," divide up or dissolve the trusts. 'Tis true that if water would dissolve the trusts, they would be poorer than skim milk, but on the contrary all the efforts along that line have only tended to absolve the trusts instead of to "bust" them.

The miners have fought hard and long for an eight-hour day and it will be very hard for the politicians to make them see the advantage of going back to competition with its fourteen-hour day.

The miners are beginning to see that nothing but the acid test of Socialism can ever put the trusts into shape so as to be of use to the human race.

The miners begin to think, they see a resemblance twixt the bull and bear of Wall Street, and the "Bull Moose" and "Teddy Bear" of Shyster bay.

So fearful is this two-point buck, that he has grabbed the platform of the Socialist party as the horn of the dilemma and is using it as you do that of a railroad coach, not to stand on, but to get in on.

Of course there is a chance that Roosevelt will be our next President, but be that as it may, whether the Jackass, the Elephant or the Bull Moose represent for the next four years, the Repudicrat party, the worker will be the goat.

W. W. GREEN.

If you are satisfied with conditions as they are, vote anything but the Socialist party ticket; if you think its time for a change, vote the Socialist ticket.

NOT SUCH AN INNOVATION

On the Sunday evening before Labor Day special services will be held at St. Patrick's Cathedral, and a sermon on "The Rights and Duties of the Workingman" will be preached to the union members, who will undoubtedly crowd the place. While the newspapers refer to this as an innovation, it is in reality no such thing. It is but one of the manifold activities of that efficient and tireless body, the Catholic Church. It is evidence that the church, realizing the power of organized labor, has set itself the task of adding that power to its own. This can be done, as in Europe, by segregating the Catholic workers and forcing them into the Catholic "unions," or by dominating the trade union leaders and through the domination of the unions themselves by these leaders thus actually control the conservative trade union movement.

The invitation to these services is signed by the officials of unions that have many thousands of members. The trades themselves that these unions represent, have hundreds of thousands of workers and are a wondrously rich field for either religious or political activity.

It is not probable at the present time that the church contemplates the formation of separate unions. But it is a fact that cannot surely be disputed that the church does contemplate the domination of the unions, and through its control of the leaders, has set itself the task of fighting all "dangerous tendencies" within the unions. If the point is soon reached where it will be "expedient" to split the union because of the growing strength of these tendencies, the unions will be split. If it is found necessary to plunge the working class into a religious and racial fight in order to frustrate the battle of the workers to emancipate themselves, they will be plunged into that fight.

When the Militia of Christ was organized its real purpose was the formation of a band of missionaries who would work within the trade unions and prevent them from using their mighty power against capitalism. The underlying idea of the Militia was separatism, anti-unionism, anti-working class, pro-sectarian and pro-capitalistic. Such a course leads directly to bickerings within the union and then to a clash so bitter that a split is inevitable. But out of that split the church could and would take an organization that it dominates directly and that is subservient in all ways to its commands. It has done so in other countries, and, if necessary, would not hesitate to do so here.

The trade union religious services are but a wider application and a more direct utilization of the Militia of Christ principles.

In speaking of the results of any such move as this it is not necessary to resort to guess work, or to speculate on probabilities. We have before us the indisputable evidence of what was done in Germany, France and Italy, and what is now being attempted in England. In the first three countries the Catholic workers were forcibly withdrawn from the organization of their class and were herded into a sectarian union. While this, in a measure, weakened the working class trade union organization and rendered the Catholic unions open and implacable enemies of the true working class unions, it added strength to the church itself. And it is axiomatic that whatever adds strength to the church organization, even if it spreads destruction and misery to the rest of the world, is justifiable and should be done.

Mgr. Lavene, who is to be the speaker at the coming services, says the church has always been "the protector of the laborers." It is significant, however, that the church exercises its function of protector only when it finds that there is awakening within the workers the realization that they can protect themselves, and it turns that protective power to its own advantage. These many years now the workers, in strikes, lockouts and panics, have been fighting and suffering and there has been no word or act of encouragement, cheer or help, from the church. Blindly the workers have forged ahead and grimly faced the horrible oppression of wealth and the governmental power that wealth can wield, and extort and organize. The church has been silent. But the instant there appeared in the working class a growing consciousness of their real power and the way to use it, they are confronted by the church, which calmly announces its leadership, its sympathy and its protective desires, and orders the workers meekly to resubmit to their shackles and to close their minds to all social facts.

When the Militia was formed it included only the elite, the leaders, the men of place and authority within the various unions. The special services make the more inclusive appeal to the rank and file of the unions, and out of the holding of such services will inevitably grow the organization of special bodies within the ranks of the union. It is an admirable system of organization for it effects just what the church most desires—unquestioned submission in all actions to church authority. It carries out perfectly that marvelous system of caste organization that embodies as the exclusive Catholic Club, isn't. On the one hand we have such and down, in various gradations according to wealth and social position, various bodies representing different strata of society, until finally the great mass is reached, the working class with its trade unions. But graded as all these are, and cunningly organized so that within each there will be no clash or antagonism because of social position, all, nevertheless, are welded into one solid body that is directed and utilized by one power and that is the church.

None of this work is done spasmodically or impulsively. With tireless persistence it goes on year in year out. Plans are considered and weighed carefully, and these concern not only the present but the future also. Those that are tried and failed are discarded. But the work goes on. That is never for a moment abandoned. This year, when we vote for President and for other high officials, unostentatiously and with no flourish of trumpets, we find the church brazenly proclaiming itself the "protector of the laborer," and that the church members within the trade unions have ready the material for a sectarian organization.

We Socialists can readily appreciate the skill with which this organization work has been done. We readily understand that perhaps the bulk of the individuals who are being made ready have been utterly oblivious of it. We can also appreciate the significance and the intentions of the work, for we understand perfectly that every social and economic organization must have its economic foundation. And the economic aspiration of the church is the direct control or the secret domination of the powers of government. But to gain this it must first organize for itself the various bodies of which society is composed.

We well understand that the church directs its varied efforts and its apparently disassociated endeavors always to one end. That end is the increase of its own power. So the anti-Socialist campaign, whether in the speaking of the escaped Socialist, Goldstein, or of Vaughn, is one aspect of a great campaign and the protection of the laborer is another aspect of the same campaign.

It is fine work, well organized, well considered and well carried out. But we Socialists understand it.

And, alone of all organized bodies, the church must consider us.—New York Call.

ORDER OF HIBERNIANS TAKE DIRECT SLAP AT SOCIALIST

Member Will be Asked to Leave the Order or the Party.

Chicago, Ill.—A second slap at Socialism was delivered today at the annual convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians when the credentials of Edward Norton of Wilmington, Del., president of his own county organization, were turned down. The reason given for not seating Norton as a delegate to the national convention was that he was a Socialist and had been working recently as an organizer for the party in Wilmington. Norton today admitted that he was a Socialist and said that he had been one for the last ten years, only recently becoming active as an organizer.

The convention has taken a determined stand against Socialism since Bishop John T. Carroll of Montana delivered a sermon in which he strongly denounced the creed of Socialism and said that if allowed to get a substantial foothold in the nation, would destroy religion and wreck the country.

John E. Healy, president of the Delaware Hibernians, today said the charges against Norton would be taken up by the division of the order to which he is a member and if it was found that he was active in the Socialist organization he would be asked to withdraw from the A. O. H.

The Bull Moosers are earning the well applied but common expression used to deride the man who talks a whole lot but does a great deal less.

Roosevelt occupied the presidential chair for more than seven years; during that time the trusts grew steadily in size and power. What's he yelling about now.

The finest homes, the choicest food, the best clothing are none too good for the working people. They have produced them all.

SEPTEMBER METROPOLITAN HAS NOTABLE FEATURES

The Metropolitan Magazine for September continues to maintain the high standard of interest for Socialists and students of social and economic problems which is established several months ago, and which has met with hearty and appreciative response from these workers for a new civilization.

The third of Morris Hillquit's series, "Socialism Up to Date," appears under the title, "The Methods of Socialism," and is of unusual length, since he traced the development and rise of Socialism as a political force, as well as its indirect influence upon the enactment of legislature of social importance.

Of no less interest is the department "By the Editor," wherein is discussed the attitude of the Metropolitan toward unionism and the relation of the magazine toward certain phases of the Socialist movement. The declaration is here made that the Metropolitan believes in strengthening the Socialist party in Congress and the state legislatures and will work toward that end.

"Tidings of the Times," the department edited by William Mailly, discusses, among other subjects, such vital ones as the fostering of class hatred in colleges, publicity in politics, the new spirit in woman suffragism, the Irish Home Rule bill, how cooks are worked, etc.

An article that will probably evoke some contradictory comment from Socialists and radicals generally is Dan Beard's "The Practical Work of the Boy Scouts of America." Mr. Beard starts out by declaring that the Boy Scouts is not a military organization, and takes issue with Socialist papers for declaring it such. Mr. Beard was the actual originator of the Boy Scout idea, and he asked the privilege of explaining it specially through the Metropolitan.

An artistic feature of superlative value is the article by Carl Hovey, "A Glance at Rodin," accompanied by superb illustrations of the finest examples of the great French sculptor's works. Nothing finer than this appears in any American magazine.

As this is the midsummer fiction number, there is an unusual number of short stores, including one about baseball by Allan Sangree, a New York gambling sketch by Leroy Scott, and special travel articles, all illustrated by leading artists. There is a brilliantly colored cover and frontispiece, and altogether the Metropolitan makes good again its claim as the "most beautiful magazine in America." This, together with its serious features, makes it unisue among current periodicals.

The Metropolitan can be had at all news stands for 15 cents, or will be sent prepaid for that amount from the office, 286 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

SOCIALIZING THE GOVERNMENT

The United States is the only civilized country in the world which does not provide through government channels for its aged or disabled workers, and it also has the distinction of being the only republic on the face of the globe which calmly allowed five individuals to annul its income-tax system inaugurated by Congress and approved by the people. But even American conservatism is visibly beginning to surrender to the irresistible forces of universal social progress. Almost all the industrial states of the Union are introducing or planning at least some crude form of workmen's compensation or state labor insurance, and most states have progresive income and inheritance tax laws. In other domains of social legislation the United States does not lag much behind the countries of Europe. We have our labor laws, inadequate as they are; our anti-combination acts; inter-state commerce commission, public service commissioners and state control and regulation in numerous industries.

These political measures and institutions are no more to be considered as an earnest of the Socialist state than the factories and trusts are partial realizations of the Socialist economic system, but like them, they are of immense symptomatic importance.

The modern principle of control and regulation of industries by the government indicates the complete collapse of the purely capitalist ideal of non-interference, and signifies that the government may change from an instrument of class rule and exploitation into one of social regulation and protection. Like the industries, the government is becoming socialized. The general tendency of both is distinctly toward a Socialist order.—Morris Hillquit in the September Metropolitan.

If there is strength in union is there not equally as great a power to be exercised for good on the political field with the same demonstration of purpose?

Roosevelt declared that many leaders of the laboring class were undesirable citizens, but he is now appealing for the support of these same undesirables to land himself in the presidential chair.

Republican spell binders say that prosperity is on the way. How interesting to the fellow who is starving now.

THREATEN TO TRY DARROW AGAIN.

Washington, Aug. 24.—Flashed over the wires from Los Angeles on August 17 came the gratifying information that Clarence Darrow has been acquitted. A later dispatch contained a statement that, while Darrow was acquitted of the charge of having bribed a prospective juror in the McNamar case, the district attorney announces that Darrow must stand trial on a second indictment. This announcement by the prosecuting attorney substantiates the opinion held by many that instead of an effort being made to promote the ends of justice, persecution is the motive which has actuated the prosecution in its efforts to fasten the crime of jury bribing on Darrow. The records of the trial court give mute testimony that every scrap of evidence procurable against the accused was elaborately and minutely displayed. And now that Darrow has been adjudged not guilty, the announcing of a second trial, with the knowledge that the same evidence is to be made to do service again, reveals not only the intense hatred and bitterness of the prosecution and those behind it, but emphasizes the lengths to which the agencies opposed to the labor movement and its sympathisers will go.

The Erectors' Association, a tenacle of the United States Steel Corporation, backed by every hostile employers' association in the country, has sought and is seeking to fasten upon every active member of the trade unions a suspicion of participation in illegal acts, and also to crush any person or persons who have the courage to defend organized labor against its traducers. With unlimited means at its command, and its influence extending in every activity of mankind, legislative, judicial, and commercial, the Erectors' Association, with its corrupting and baleful methods, has endeavored to destroy Darrow, the man universally known as the staunch friend and defender of organized labor. It was not Darrow the attorney the Erectors' Association desired to stigmatize—Darrow, the well-known attorney whose sympathy and efforts have for years been contributed in the interest and associated effort among workingmen.

This association, with its retinue of conscienseless reputation destroyers, wove its web or artificial circumstances around the bribery case, invaded every precinct, and used, without let or hindrance, the machinery of the national government; individuals, devoid of that manhood that stands for an equal chance, were commissioned to ingratiate themselves into the kindly nature of Darrow. Yet, all these things, and more, with all the machinations of this delectable band, there was lacking that one essential element, an unpurchasable necessity—truth.

With all the wealth and power and corrupting influence that were brought into play Darrow has been acquitted by a jury in a unanimous verdict. The pronouncement against crucifying men or their opinions and activities in the cause of humanity has again been reaffirmed.

THE APPEAL OF SOCIALISM

The Socialists do not address themselves to an indiscriminate audience. They realize that their program does not appeal with equal force to all classes of the people. Socialism aims at the destruction of all economic privileges and all class rule. The Socialists contend that the realization of their program will ultimately benefit the entire human rae, but they frankly recognize that its immediate effects will be damaging to the beneficiaries of the present order and advantageous to its victims. In other words, Socialism necessarily involves an immediate material loss to the capitalist classes—and a corresponding gain to the working classes. The Socialists therefore make their appeal primarily to the workers. They do not disdain the support of men and women from the more privileged classes. A rather considerable proportion of Socialist workers has always been recruited from the ranks of non-workers. But numerous as these may be, they are still exceptions to the rule. An individual may be guided by purely ethical motives and rise above his material advantages, but economic classes as such are always moved by their material interests. The capitalist revolution was organized and led by the capitalists, although a number of nobles, inspired by the new spirit of "liberty and democracy" made common cause with the enemies of their own class.

Now are the Socialist activities confined to the work of propaganda. Modern Socialists do not expect the Socialist order to be introduced by one sudden and great political cataclysm, nor do they expect it to be established by a rabble made desperate by misery and starvation. The Socialists expect that the co-operative commonwealth will be planfully built by an intelligent and disciplined working class, thoroughly organized, well trained and fully qualified to assume the reins of government and the management of the industries. Next to the education of the workers in the philosophy of Socialism, the prime task of the Socialist movement is, therefore, their political and economic organization.—Morris Hillquit in the September Metropolitan.

DEARTH OF HELP IN NORTHWEST A FAKE

Advertisements Proclaiming Need of Men to Harvest Crops Grossly Misrepresents True Conditions.

Duluth, Minn.—The reports that have been sent out from the Northwest concerning the need of 50,000 men to harvest the spring wheat and other grain crops of Minnesota and the Dakotas have deceived many. These reports have been originated in many cases to induce a surplus of labor in order to keep wages down, and the agents of railroads at the various stations in the grain sections and the farmers themselves are to blame.

The farmers tell the agents that 3,000 men are needed around a certain town, whereas 1,000 extra men may be plenty. No grain crop has ever gone to waste in the Northwest on account of labor help, and none will if the farmers will pay the wages that the conditions may demand.

The wages this year are good, but not unusual. $3 to $3, and possibly $3.50 at points where extra men may happen to be few. The men get their board in addition to their wages. In recent years many men have made a business of following the harvest from Kansas clear to the prairie provinces of Canada. The harvest draws men from all directions for a distance of several hundred miles. It is a sort of outing for laborers, though the hours are long.

The harvest time is a great tramp maker. Hundreds of men get to the fields too soon and spend all their money before they get work, either for board or travel. The first thing they know they are glad to join some "pot gang" to live until they can get work. The hardened members of these "pot gangs" are criminals, who wait until the harvest is over to rob green hands of their stake, not stopping short of murder in some cases.

The Duluth newspapers have advertised the fact that more men have been called for in the Northwest for the harvest than is required. The only difficulty, if any, may be in the distribution of the men.

STEREOTYPERS GET RAISE

Hamilton, Ont.—The local union of stereotypers has been successful in securing a new agreement for the coming three years, with an advance each year. Foremen are to receive $20 per week the first year, $31.50 the second, and $23 the third. Journeymen will receive $18, $19.50 and $20.50 respectively.

DENVER MACHINISTS WIN

Denver—The Machinists' Union in this city, after a two years' strike, has reached an agreement with the Denver Rock Drill and Machinery Company. The new agreement calls for the prevailing scale of prices, with other favorable concessions. Another agreement has also been secured with the Walker Manufacturing Company.

POST-OFFICE CLERKS

Washington—The National Federation of Post-office Clerks will convene their regular convention in Salt Lake City, Utah, early in September. It is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, will rapidly increase in membership as the result of Congress restoring to postal employes the right to organize into organizations of their own selection.

PRINTERS' CONVENTION

Washington—During the convention of the International Typographical Union at Cleveland a resolution was defeated seeking to change the elective period of officers from two years to four. The executive officers were authorized to establish an employment bureau, to be under the supervision of the secretary-treasurer. Reports of officers showed that in arbitration awards the International Typographical Union has obtained substantial results in 95 per cent of the decisions rendered. The officers of the international union and Chicago local union were unanimously sustained in the position taken by them in the present pressmen's strike. The next convention will be held in Nashville, Tenn.

GETS GOOD AGREEMENT

Washington—Information has just reached headquarters that a system federation agreement had just been secured on the Kanawha and Michigan Railway. The first agreement on this railway system was entered into last September, largely through the efforts of Mr. Sulivan, secretary of the State Board of Arbitration in Ohio, who was called in when agreement seemed impossible, and thus deserves much credit.

TOLEDO TEAMSTERS' BATTLE

Toledo—The teamsters of this city are putting up a heroic battle against the employers and the local "union busting" association. Progress is being made, as some of the larger employers have already capitulated and acceded to the new scale. Organised labor, as a whole, is giving its active support, and the final outcome of the contest will be the complete obliteration of the union-destroying aggregation.

CITY RAISES WAGES

San Jose, Cal.—The City Council of this city, as the result of the presentation of a petition signed by the members of the United Laborers' union, has increased the wage scale of the men employed by the city from $2.25 to $2.50. The council voted unanimously for the raise.

DEBS SCORES ROOSEVELT

The New York Times, which is one of the most reactionary papers in the country, has been publishing a series of articles denouncing the Bull Moose movement. Recently they requested letters from prominent people discussing the platform of that organization from the various standpoints of those people. A prominent suffragist denounced Roosevelt's suffrage plank, and now Victor L. Berger and Eugene V. Debs have contributed their say. The following from the New York Times of August 14, will interest the readers of The Columbus Socialist:

"DEBS CLASSIFIES "THE NEW HYBRID.

"Reactionary, Capitalistic, and a Mere "Trap for Votes, Is the Bull "Moose Party.

To the Editor of New York Times:

"The most significant thing about the Roosevelt Progressive Convention is that it represented hundreds of thousands of men who have voted the Republican ticket all their lives, and who have now quit the Republican party forever. The progressive tendency here manifested can never be checked, but will become more and more pronounced until it finds expression in Socialism.

"So far as the Progressive party itself is concerned, it contains too many diverse and conflicting economic elements, and its platform is too much of a hodge-podge to give it the character and stability of a great national party. It is built largely upon the personality of one man, and no great party has ever been reared upon that kind of a foundation.

"The really progressive planks in the Progressive platform were taken bodily from the Socialist platform, and even the red flag of Socialism was appropriated, or at least imitated, by the red bandana of the Roosevelt followers.

"As the leader of the Bull Moose party, Mr. Roosevelt must be judged by his performances, and not by his pledges. He was President almost eight years, and how he dealt with the trust evil is well known to the trusts themselves, who financed his campaign for the nomination and are now financing the campaign for his election.

"The Progressive party, as a party, is not only progressive, but it is reactionary. In the aggregate, it is a middle class protest against trust domination. The middle class will furnish the votes, and the trusts, in the event of Roosevelt's election, will take care of the administration.

"There is no doubt that Mr. Roosevelt and his new party will start off with a great hurrah and make considerable noise during the campaign. There will be plenty of trust funds available, and with such substantial inspiration any kind of a campaign could be made a bowling success. But men and women who do their own thinking and who know why political parties are organized and what they stand for will not be deceived by the Bull Moose party, which is neither fish, flesh nor fowl. At one end it is going to head off the trusts, and at the other end it is going to head off Socialism. As a matter of fact, Mr. Roosevelt has shrewdly seized upon the prevailing popular unrest and has baited his platform like a trap to catch the votes of the discontented people.

"There is no room in this country for such a hybrid aggregation as the Bull Moose party. It corresponds to the Liberal party of Great Britain, which professed to be organized to represent the common people, and especially the working class, and turned out to be the most reactionary party in the country. If the workingmen of this country would profit by the bitter experience of workingmen in the old country, they would better give a wide berth to Mr. Roosevelt and his Progressive party.

"At bottom, the Progressive party is a capitalist class party. It stands for the present capitalist system, aiming only to mitigate some of its most glaring evils. There is nothing in the record of Mr. Roosevelt, its candidate for President, and nothing in the platform upon which he stands, some of the planks of which he denounced as treason and anarchy when he was President, that will appeal to Socialists or to the intelligence of the working class.

"EUGENE V. DEBS,

"Terre Haute, Ind., Aug., 10, 1912."

After which the editor, who hates Socialism even more than does the Common Cause, and who bitterly attacks us at every opportunity, has this to say:

"DEBS ON ROOSEVELT.

"It was not to be expected that Eugene V. Debs would extend the right hand of fellowship to Theodore Roosevelt and give him cordial welcome as a brother Socialist. Mr. Debs is a candidate himself, the candidate of the party that openly, frankly, and honestly calls itself Socialist. Naturally, he looks upon the Bull Moose as an interloper, and treats him as such in his letter to the Times this morning.

"But upon matters of Socialist doctrine, Mr. Debs is a qualified expert. He identifies as the property of the Socialists 'the really progressive planks in the Progressive platform. These, he affirms, were taken bodily from the Socialist platform. Mr. Debs' point about the red flag is not well taken. The Roosevelt bandana is red, but it has quite another significance. The dispatches did say that during the cheering in the convention Mr. Roosevelt waved a red flag. Undoubtedly he thought it was a bandana.

"Mr. Debs' letter has one quality of real and serious value. It is its insight. Socialist Debs sees far into the humbug of the 'hybrid aggregation' that has appropriated many of the principles of Socialism and dedicated them to the service of the Bull Moose. He detects and points out the hypocrisy and false pretenses of the the Progressive candidates. Pledges and promises he makes by the score; he casts anchors on both sides of the ship and throws tubs to all the whales. But these are the time-worn tricks of the vote hunter. His real principles are to be inferred from his administration of the office of President, when he granted indulgences to offenders against the laws who happened to be personal friends, and exempted from prosecution certain trusts from which support and service were to be expected; His campaign is made on money of the trusts. It is not without good reason tht Mr. Debs says that Colonel 'has baited his platform like a trap to catch the votes of the discontented people.'"

THE PARTY BUILDER.

The Lyceum Department of the Socialist Party is advertising the early appearance of a new paper, to be called THE PARTY BUILDER. The purpose of the paper, which will issue weekly, is to help active Socialists to greater effectiveness in their work.

According to Comrade Katterfeld, who as Manager of the Lyceum Department will direct the career of THE PARTY BUILDER, one object of the Lyceum is to build up the Socialist Party through getting subscriptions for Socialist papers and books. This part of the work, the systematic circulation of Socialist literature, will therefore be especially emphasized in THE PARTY BUILDER.

It is promised of the new paper that "every week it will be full of bright ideas, helpful hints, plans, methods of work, interesting experiences, etc., by active Socialists everywhere." The announcement also states that the paper is not to be a propaganda paper in any sense, that it will be of no interest to non-Socialists, but that every active Socialist will need it in his work.

If that is your classification you will secure THE PARTY BUILDER every week for a year by sending 25 cents, either stamps or coin, to Socialist Party Lyceum Department, 111 North Market Street, Chicago, Ill.

CONVENTION CALL OF THE OHIO STATE FEDERATION OF LABOR—UNITED WE STAND—DIVIDED WE FALL.

Headquarters, 310 Prospect Avenue, S. E., Cleveland, O. Aug. 5th. 1912.

To the Affiliated Bodies and Labor Unions:

Greetings—Pursuant to the constitution of the Ohio State Federation of Labor, you are hereby advised that the Twenty-ninth Annual Convention of the Ohio State Federation of Labor will be held in the City Auditorium, Canton, Ohio, beginning at 10 o'clock A. M., Monday, October 14, 1912, and will continue in session until the business of the Convention is completed.

Representation.—Representtion in the Convention will be on the following basis; each Local Union sending a delegate shall be entitled to one vote for every one hundred members or less and one additional vote for each additional one hundred or majority fraction thereof. Central Labor Unions shall be allowed one vote.

The amount of per capita tax the Local pays into the treasury shall determine the number of votes the delegates casts, but no delegate shall cast more than five votes.

The fiscal year of the Federation closes on September 30th; to be entitled to representation, your per capita tax should be paid to that date, when sending in credentials.

A Central Body and one Local Union, or two Local Unions of the same craft may join in electing a delegate. Where the delegate represents a Central Body and a Local Union he shall be entitled to one vote for the Central Body, and such votes for the Local Union as it shall be entitled to by the per capita tax paid. Where the delegate represents two Local Unions the total per capita tax paid by both unions shall shall determine the number of votes the delegate casts. Proxy votes shall not be allowed.

Unions not affiliated can elect delegates and be represented by payment of $3.00 initiation fee and three months per capita tax on or before September 30, 1912. Application blanks can be secured from Secretary.

Credentials.—Credentials in duplicate are forwarded to all unions. The original Credential must be given to the delegate elect and the duplicate forwarded to the Ohio State Federation of Labor office, 310 Prospect Avenue S. E., Cleveland, O.

The Committee on Credentials will meet in Canton one day previous to the opening of the Convention, so as to be able to report immediately upon opening of Convention, Monday morning; hence Secretaries will observe the necessity of mailing duplicate Credentials as soon as delegate is elected.

Executive Board Meeting.—For the purpose of preparing its report and considering such matters as the affiliated unions may desire to bring before the Executive Board.

The Board will meet Sunday afternoon, 2 P. M., at the Courtland Hotel, Canton. Organizations having complaints, grievances or other matters to bring before the Board can do so at this meeting.

Ohio will have adopted a progressive Constitution by the time this Convention meets, the I. and R. goes into effect October 1, home rule for cities in November; all the rest of those adopted January 1, 1913, and the opportunity for getting up-to-date progressive labor legislation for the workers of Ohio was never as good as it will be this next winter. We have a new Legislature to elect at this fall election, and the work of preparing labor's program of legislation for this new Legislature that meets January 1, is the work cut out for this Convention of the State Federation, and as we need your advice in such an important matter as this, we want every local union and Central Body in the State to be represented at this Convention, and trust therefore, that special efforts will be made by each one of you to send a delegate to Canton.

Fraternally yours,
Executive Board of Ohio State Federation of Labor:
JOHN VOLL, President.
THOMAS J. DONNELLY, 1st. V.-P.
THOS. S. FARRELL, 2nd. V.-P.
AUGUST SMITH, 3rd V.-P.
JOSEPH SMITH, 4th V.-P.

HARRY D. THOMAS, Sec.-Treas.

DEBS FORMALLY ACCEPTS NOMINATION

"The new Progressive party is a party of progressive capitalism. It is lavishly financed and shrewdly advertised. But it stands for the rule of capitalism all the same.

Now Time to Consider.

"When the owners of the trusts finance a party to put themselves out of business; when they turn over their wealth to the people from whom they stole it and go to work and make an honest living, it will be time enough to consider the merits of the Roosevelt Progressive party.

"One question is sufficient to determine the true status of all these parties. Do they want the workers to own their jobs, and secure to themselves the wealth they produce? Certainly not. That is utterly ridiculous and impossible from their point of view.

"The Republican, Democratic and Progressive parties all stand for the private ownership by the capitalists of the productive machinery used by the workers, so that the capitalists can continue to filch the wealth produced by the workers.

"The Socialist party is the only party which declares that the tools of labor belong to labor and that the wealth produced by the working class belongs to the working class.

"Intelligent workingmen are no longer deceived. They know that the struggle in which the world is engaged today is a class struggle and that in this struggle the workers can never win by giving their votes to capitalist parties. They have tried this for many years and it has always produced the same results to them.

"The class of privilege and pelf has had the world by the throat and the working class beneath its iron-shod hoofs long enough. The magic word of freedom is ringing through the nation and the spirit of intelligent revolt is finding expression in every land beneath the sun.

"The solidarity of the working class is the silent force in the social transformation of which we behold the signs upon every hand. Nearer and nearer they are being drawn together in the bonds of unionism; clearer and clearer becomes their collective vision; greater and greater grows the power that throbs within them.

"They are the twentieth century hosts of freedom who are to destroy all despotism, topple over all thrones, seize all scepters of authority and hold them in their own strong hands, tear up all privilege by the roots, and consecrate the earth and all its fulness to the joy and service of all humanity.

"It is vain to hope for material relief under the prevailing system of capitalism. All the reforms that are proposed by the three capitalist parties, even if carried out in good faith, would still leave the working class in industrial slavery.

"The working class will never be emancipated by the grace of the capitalist class, but only by overthrowing that class.

"The power to emancipate itself is inherent in the working class and this power must be developed through sound education and applied through sound organization.

Keep Working Class Down.

"It is as foolish and self-destructive for workingmen to turn to Republican, Democratic and Progressive parties on election day as it would be for them to turn to the Manufacturers' Association and the Citizens' Alliance when they are striking against starvation wages.

"The capitalist class is organized economically and politically to keep the working class in subjection and perpetuate its power as a ruling class. They do not support a working class union nor a working class party. They are not so foolish. They wisely look out for themselves.

The capitalist class despise a working class party. Why should the working class give their support to a capitalist class party?

"Capitalist misrule under which workingmen suffer slavery and the most galling injustice exists only because it has workingmen's support. Withdraw that support and capitalism is dead.

"The capitalists can enslave and rob the workers only by the consent of the workers when they cast their ballots on election day.

"Every vote cast for a capitalist party, whatever its name, is a vote for wage-slavery, for poverty and degradation.

"Every vote cast for the Socialist party, the workers' own party, is a vote for emancipation.

"We appeal to the workers and to all who sympathize with them to make their power felt in this campaign. Never before has there been so great an opportunity to strike an effective blow for freedom.

Capitalism Rushing to Doom.

"Capitalism is rushing blindly to its impending doom. All the signs portend the inevitable breakdown of the existing order. Deep-seated discontent has seized upon the masses. They must indeed be deaf who do not hear the mutterings of the approaching storm.

"Poverty, high prices, unemployment, child slavery, widespread misery and haggard want in a land bursting with abundance; prostitution and insanity, suicide and crime, these in solemn numbers tell the tragic story of capitalism's saturnalia of blood and tears and shame as its end draws near.

"It is to abolish this monstrous system and the misery and crime which flow from it in a direful and threatening stream, that the Socialist party was organized and now makes its appeal to the intelligence and conscience of the people. Social reorganization is the imperative demand of this world-wide revolutionary movement.

"The Socialist party's mission is not only to destroy capitalist despotism, but to establish industrial and social democracy. To this end the workers are steadily organizing and fitting themselves for the day when they shall take control of the people's industries and when the right to work shall be as inviolate as the right to breathe the breath of life.

"Standing as it does for the emancipation of the working class from wage-slavery, for the equal rights and opportunities of all men and all women, for the abolition of child labor and the conservation of all childhood, for social self-rule and the equal freedom of all, the Socialist party is the party of progress, the party of the future, and its triumph will signalize the birth of a new civilization and the dawn of a happier day for all humanity."

In the near future we will have the retail grocery business controlled by the trust or chain stores. They undersell until they drive the independent stores out of business, then they have a monopoly and can charge what they please. England has gone through that experience and today the only thing that stands between the consumer and exorbitant prices is the Co-operative Society with its thousands of stores and its membership who are loyal to their own class and to themselves.

The Franklin Co-operative Company, was incorporated on this plan and has opened its first store, at 529 North 20th Street, and asks the patronage and support of all consumers, who believe in lower prices and in a square deal.

Foul Tactics of Catholic Bishops and Liquor League Defeat Woman Suffrage Amendment

BULLETIN.

As compiled by the Secretary of State, the official vote on the nine most important constitutional amendments from 2,344 precincts out of 5,197 in he State, embracing at least partial returns from every county, was: I. and R., yes 148,769, no 82,407; employes' welfare, yes 162,690, no 65,165; judicial reform, yes 130,897, no 83,017; woman suffrage, yes 92,546, no 146,004; State-wide primary, yes 158,491, no 64,483; good roads, yes 117,941, no 105,332; taxation, yes 116,258, no 97,852; home rule, yes 144,453, no 74,370; liquor license, yes 131,508, no 65,907.

Assistant Secretary of State Secrest said Wedn esday afternoon that the returns received at his office indicated that every amendment except woman suffrage was adopted at the special election Tuesday..

Nos. 2, 9 and 29 are likely to have a close call, according to returns. No. 2 abolishes capital punishment, No. 9 is the mechanics' and builders' lien, and No. 29 is good roads.

The citizens of Ohio, or, rather, about half of them, last Tuesday voted upon the proposed new State Constitution, and, as the above figures show, about every radical proposal was endorsed except equal suffrage, and this was defeated mainly by the joint efforts of the Catholic bishops of Ohio and the State Liquor League. The Roman prelates, following their usual cowardly tactics, waited until the Sunday before election and then issued their edict. They are the paid tools of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce and the Ohio Manufacturers' Association, but their efforts united with those of National Defense, the organ of the "tin soldiers" of Ohio, do not seem to have availed much except to defeat woman suffrage and to pass the liquor license proposal.

THE INITIATIVE, REFERENDUM AND RECALL AND WOMAN SUFFRAGE HAVE BEEN ENDORSED AND URGED BY THE SOCIALIST PARTY EVER SINCE ITS ORGANIZATION IN THIS COUNTRY.

The Ohio C. of C., the "National Defense" and the Roman bishops tried to scare the people of Ohio by the cry of "Socialism." The trick failed to work. The public no longer fears Socialism. The people are on to your slimy methods, priests, Ohio C. of C. and fake patriots like Col. E. T. Miller of the "National Defense."

"NATIONAL DEFENSE" FALLS DOWN

The "National Defense," a scab paper, published in Columbus, and edited by Capt. or Col. Edward T. Miller, deserves great credit for the approval by the people of Ohio of the new constitution. Miller got out a special edition of 1,000,000 copies in which the great scare of "Socialism" was raised against the progressive propositions of the new constitution. Garbled extracts were printed from alleged Socialist writers to frighten good people into smashing the new organic law. The people responded promptly by adopting every progressive measure, excepting equal suffrage. Capt. or Col. Miller ought to crawl into a hole and pull the hole in after him. He certainly ought to pay back what he got from the Ohio Chamber of Commerce for that extra edition. It is no longer possible to scare even children by the word "Socialism." Mr. Schimansky of the Ohio C. of C. and Opha Moore of the Ohio Manufacturers' Association ought to post their bosses about these facts.

MARTIAL LAW IS PROCLAIMED IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 3.—Martial law was proclaimed in the strike affected district along Vacant and Cabin Creeks this morning.

The territory under the proclamation is a mountainous stretch of about twenty miles from Kanawha River to the Fayette County line and about eight miles wide.

The military commission under whose jurisdiction the community now is consists of seven members, who have been Governor Glasscock's conferees, and the court martial of six with Lieutenant Colonel George S. Wallace, of Huntington, judge advocate.

The Democrats fixed up the platform to catch the peoples' vote at Baltimore. The Republicans fixed theirs at Chicago for the same purpose. Congress is made up of both these parties. Why don't they do what their platforms preach now?

TAFT AND ROOSEVELT

Non-Socialists find difficulty in understanding the relative attitude of Socialists toward Taft and Roosevelt. Taft the average Socialist regards with pitying amusement, even tolerance. The mention of the name of Roosevelt usually throws him into a rage. The worst insult to a Socialist is to have some ignoramus tell him that "Roosevelt is nearly a Socialist," or that he has been "a good friend of Socialism."

A dam performs a useful function in a stream. It serves to increase the volume and intensity of the force of the current behind it, Taft serves as a dam in the stream of progress and thus fulfills a useful and legitimate purpose.

The worst enemy of the real is the counterfeit. Roosevelt is, and always has been, a counterfeit, and is the worst enemy of real progress. For him to cloak his ambitions and unscrupulous schemes under the cloak of alleged regard for "the people's welfare" is a ghastly travesty. He has not, and never has had, regard for the welfare of anyone except himself.

Socialists will cheerfully accept Taft as an adversary. It is an insult to their honesty and to their intelligence to refer to Roosevelt as their friend.

Special Mass Meeting

Special mass meeting of Local Columbus will be held in the Columbus Federation Hall next Sunday, at 2 o'clock P. M., to discuss and arrange the details of the "Keir Hardie" meeting and parade.

This meeting is very important and should be attended by every member that can possibly be there.

KARB TRYING TO DELIVER THE GOODS.

The civil service commission has ruled that evidence cannot be admitted to show that Mayor George J. Karb is a frequenter of wine rooms after midnight and has winked at violations of the state and city laws. A large part of the people of Columbus know and have known for some time of George J. Karb's convivial, osculatory and amatory propensities. In other words it is a matter of common knowledge in Columbus that George Karb is a lover of "wine, women and song. This was known when he was elected mayor by the people last November. To keep his word with the magnates of the underworld of vice, who financed his campaign, he must get rid of Chief Carter. Karb is trying to deliver the goods.

ENGLAND'S MAN OF THE HOUR, J. KEIR HARDIE

By Jeff Davis.

So read an editorial in Hearst's American dated June 17, 1912.

Of course it could not be expected that Hearst would speak well of any prominent fighter in the working class labor or political movements.

Keir Hardie does not care for the opinions of Hearst nor the "so much per column gush" for which the Hearst dope sheets are noted.

Keir Hardie was not born with a silver spoon in his mouth nor is a brown stone mansion; he came into the world quite differently and less conspicious than did some of his critics, hence his fighting attitude and his desire to uplift the submerged working class.

Born August 15, 1856.

Keir Hardie first saw the light in a typical miner's row of one-room cottages on August 15, 1856. The place was only a little way out from Newarthill, Scotland. It was a poor quarter and the environment was not as we find about the homes of the rich.

The influence of those scenes and the surroundings have a great deal to do with the look of sadness and spirit of reserve, which at times are still evident to those who know him best.

His first memory of feelings is of hot tears falling; his first memory of sound, not a crooning lullaby, but of sobs.

In this dwelling of one room, with its floor of baked mud, its whitewashed walls and rafters open to the thatch, its door opening direct to the highway, he spent his days mostly alone, since his grandmother, to whose care he was for a time entrusted, had to leave the cot for the work of the field and farm. His father was then absent, he led a seafaring life, and his mother had been compelled to return to her work as a farm servant.

He did not pick his surroundings, he came to them and became a victim.

Keir Hardie was seven years of age when circumstances determined that childhood must cease, and the battle for bread begin.

Various jobs were obtained by him, as yet, a mere child, first as a messenger, then in a printer's shop, then at a foundry, afterwards at a confectioners, and finally, soon after his eighth birthday, he landed in the pit of the coal mines.

It was in the mines Keir Hardie learned of the terrible class struggle.

Often in the winter months the child went into the depths before it was light, and returned to the surface when it was dark again.

Slowly he graduated from a pony boy to a full-fledged collier.

The soul of this man, meanwhile—rose against the conditions that prevailed and gradually the spirit of revolt took possession, and when at last, he caught a vision of what life ought, might, and should be, it only required the call of events to transform the studious collier lad into the agitator.

Becomes an Agitator.

Hardie became a strenuous agitator, so much so that they blacklisted him and drove him from the mines.

After being blacklisted in 1879 for taking part in the trades union movement Mr. Hardie set out—to use his own phrase—to get a bit of his own back from the colliery masters. He threw himself with tremendous energy into the task of organizing the miners of Scotland and in 1879 led the great strike there which ended in complete victory for the men after a six weeks' struggle.

In 1880 the employers returned to the charge and sought to goad the men into a strike by three successive reductions in wages. The union funds had not recovered from the strain of the '79 effort, nor in fact had all the loans been repaid.

The masters thought they had the men at their mercy but they did not know the mettle of the young leader.

Advises Holiday.

He did not proclaim a strike but advised the men to take a holiday.

It was the summer months and the men heartily responded. The "holiday" on this occasion was not confined to Lanarkshire and Stirlingshire but Mr. Hardie, who had married during the first week of the "holiday" spent his honeymoon in carrying the fiery cross into Ayrshire and Fifeshire where the men also came out on holiday.

After four wees' holidaying the masters found they had got more than they had bargained for and in the end returned the whole of the 18d (18 cents) they had taken off the men's wages.

In 1882 Mr. Hardie resigned the secretaryship of the union to accept a position as editor of the Cumnock News. During the next few years trades unionism ebbed and the conditions grew from bad to worse and in 1886 on an appeal being made to him he left his position as editor and again threw himself into the work of organizing.

His presence in the field once more aroused the old enthusiasm and next eighteen months were stirring times during which hours were reduced from eleven to eight per day and the wages went up nearly 100 per cent.

Then came the turning point in Mr. Hardie's career.

A vacancy occurred in the representation of Mid Lanark and the more advanced miners invited him to become their candidate. Up to that period he had worked with the Liberal party, but had been slowly and almost unconsciously evolving socialistic opinions.

Socialism Unknown.

At that time the word Socialism was only known as a synonym for revolution and disorder.

The Liberals made desperate efforts to buy him over by the offer of a safe seat on some future occasion and a salary as a member of Parliament.

They had already squared several labor leaders on these lines, but as Mr. Hardie explained he was not for sale and his opinions were not to be bought. And so he persisted that the

A CALL TO THE UNCONVERTED

By W. J. Ghent.

The economic system under which we live in, as you know, called the capitalist system. In one sense it is not much of a system; it is rather a planless, helter-skelter, unsystematized process. But from the rigorous exactness with which it abstracts from the wealth-producer most of what he produces, and from its universal enforcement of misery and incitement to strife, it may very well be called a system; and since, furthermore, it is universally so called, we shall use that term here. The main characteristic of this system is the possession by one class of virtually all the means of production and the subordination of another class to a hunt for wage-labor in order to sustain life. Such a system inevitably produces vast evils. It is my purpose here to set down a few of these evils and to request you to think and to ask yourself what you propose to do about them. Maybe you are too busy, or too much absorbed in other matters, to consider them closely. But at least, as a citizen of the world, you may be sufficiently curious about them to give them a glance. Perhaps they may awaken in you an interest in matters which heretofore you have altogether shunned; and perhaps this awakening interest may cause you to search further in order to confirm or refute what is here stated. There is no more important subject in the world; and any consideration you give to it cannot help but be a benefit to yourself and to your fellow-beings.

Workman's Share in His Product.

Let us first take up the matter of the workman's share in the product of his labor. You will hear some men compute this share to be as high as from 65 to 80 per cent, and you will sometimes hear other men compute it to be as low as 17 per cent. The problem is, at best, a most complex one, and no computations are entirely satisfactory. But it needs to be said in the beginning that the dividend rate on investments, upon which academic persons are so prone to build their figures, is certainly no test—hardly even an indication—of the amount of profit that goes to capital.

What the factory worker gets for his labor is a known fact, easily ascertainable from the Federal statistics. The value of what is produced is set down with equal positiveness in these census tables. In 1909 the factory worker, according to these figures, received 16.6 per cent of the value of the factories' finished product.

Of course, you will say that these figures are absured—that no factory-owner makes any such profit from his workmen. Whether or not any such individul owner is so fortunate is not what concerns us here. We are dealing with the share of the workman, with the total value of production, and with the share of capital as a whole. This last-named share includes all that is taken from the workman by reason of the private ownership of land and of the means of production and transportation. You may easily find some small capitalist who does not make a profit of 40 per cent, or 25 per cent, or even 15 per cent, from his workmen. But some man, or some class of men, gets the lion's share of the product, and that some one, it is easily ascertainable, is not the workman. The small capitalist may have to pay over to the banker, the landlord, the mine-owner, the railroad owner, the express owner, the politician, and a score of other men a great share of his profit; but all that share is capital's share, and no part of it goes to the workman. You cannot get anywhere at all with a matter until you understand this plain truth.

In 1909 the 6,615,046 wage-earners in the 268,491 factories in the United States turned out a finished product valued at $20,672,052,000, or an average per man, woman and child employed of $3,127. They received in wages $3,427,036,000, or an average of $518.

Of course, these manual factory workers could not have produced all this value by themselves. There is first the cost of the raw or partly manufactured material—$12,141,791,000—to be deducted. But this material has already paid an enormous toll to the mine-owner, the land-owner, the railroad-owner, the express-owner, and a host of other men, and has contributed a large volume to capital's share in production. Not only, too, have profits, sometimes enormous, been made from the gathering of the raw material and from its transportation and handling, but the charge upon production is often further greatly increased by reason of the toll taken by "supply companies," formed by officers and directors of companies for the purpose of making illicit profits from their own enterprises.

Then there were 790,267 salaried persons, some of whom were essential to production. But a large part of the enormous salary roll—$938,575,000—represents nothing more than profits paid out as salaries to the higher officials. So here again comes in an addition to capital's share in production.

Then there were "miscellaneous expenses," reaching the staggering total of $1,945,676,000. Some of these expenses, again, were necessary to production, but a large part—by far the larger part—represents profits taken in one form or another by capital. We do not have the classified figures for 1909, but in 1904, 5 per cent went for rent (presumably of grounds and factory buildings), and all of that is a charge of the capitalist landlords. Four per cent went for taxes, and at least half of that is a capitalist charge due to the modes of administering a capitalist government. Ten per cent went for contract work, and capital got its share from that. Finally, 31 per cent. went for "rent of offices, interest, insurance," and a mysterious "&c.," which includes bribes, subsidies, rebates, and a thousand and one kinds of exaction by capital in its most sinister forms. In the five years from 1899 to 1904 miscellaneous expenses increased by 60.5 per cent, against a wage increase of 30 per cent and a product increase of 20.7 per cent. In the following five years these increases were respectively 33.9, 31.2, and 20.7 per cent. Presumably, though it is not stated in the census bulletin, selling expenses are included in the 31 per cent mentioned above. They have, of course, no part in a computation of this kind, since the value of the product is given at its factory price. Selling, with the expenses of selling, is a further transaction.

Let us, however, start with the deduction of the cost of material at the factories, and see what follows. The value added by labor to this material was $8,530,261,000, or an average per man, woman, and child at $1,290. Assuming that half the salary roll was absolutely necessary to production, and that one-fourth of the total of miscelaneous expenses was for something necessary to production, and not a mere charge of capital on industry, the factory worker's product would be about $1,145, and his share in the value of that product ($518) would be about 45 per cent.

The factory workers number about one-fourth of the total of wage-earning workers in the nation. There is every probability, though the matter cannot be demonstrated from figures available, that the factory workers receive a larger share of their product than do most other productive workers. There is, for instance, more capitalist profit in mining coal and iron and gold, or in gathering and marketing bananas, than in manufacturing shoes. The relative share of labor throughout production is thus probably somewhat less than 45 per cent. It is, moreover, an ever-decreasing share. If you consult the statistics of occupations for the highly capitalized countries such as the United States, England, Germany, France, and Belgium, you will find that every year relatively fewer workers are employed in purely productive activities and relatively more workers are employed in commercial and other nonproductive activities. The increasing struggle to sell goods and to make goods known to the public absorbs the activities of workers who might instead be producing goods. A constantly decreasing number of productive workers must thus support a constantly increasing number of nonproductive workers, not to speak of an increasing number of persons who are not workers at all.

How can it be otherwise than that the worker should receive but a minor share of his product. When you think of all the various claims upon this product, is not the wonder rather that he can retain a much of it as he does? The landlord must have something, the builder something, the money-lender, the patent-owner, the railroad-owner, the express-owner, the mine-owner, the retained attorney, the political boss, the corrupt legislator and judge, and on down through a horde of leeches to the last and remotest one—all must have their pickings. All these charges are taken from his product at the factory. And when, with this shrunken share of his product which remains to him, he goes out into the markets to buy food and clothing, he must pay this toll all over again. For capital's charge, as did feudalism's charges, lie upon every process and transaction in our economic life.

The value of production per worker is at the present time small enough as every one can see; and it has been gravely argued by eminent persons that the difference between $518 a year and $1,145 a year is not enough to warrant the tremendous contest which Socialist workmen are carrying on all over the world for the full product of their labor. The answer is, that with the present condition of labor and prospective gain is worth this contest; and, furthermore, that the present product of labor is but a fraction of what that product might be under a reorganized state of society wherein the purpose of production would be the applying of human needs and not the making of profit.

Unemployment.

This system of capitalism cannot keep the workers in employment. It needs for its maintenance, an increasing army of idlers, both as reserves to take the places of those struck down in the industrial battle, and as miners and sappers of the wage-scale of the employed. There is always, in even the most favored times, a multitude of men, women, and children, who are vainly looking for work. For the census year 1900 probably an average year, no less than 5,468,964 persons were idle for periods of from one to twelve months. Here are the figures:

	1 to 3 months.	4 to 6 months.	7 to 12 months.	Total.
Male	3,093,130	2,099,546	864,790	5,317,473
Total	3,177,783	2,554,925	736,286	5,468,964

There is nothing unusual about these figures. You may find them confirmed in the reports of the State bureaus for almost every year. In times of depression the degree of unemployment becomes, of course, much worse. In December, 1907, 34.2 per cent of the trade-union men of New York State were unemployed. In the following February and March this percentage had risen to 37.5, and the mean percentage for the first half of 1908 was 34.7. Taking the good years with the bad, the proportion of trade-union men out of employment for the first half of the years, 1902-08, was 19.2 per cent.

Sometimes you are told that this ghastly state of unemployment is not due primarily to capitalism, but to the workmen's voluntary leaving their jobs. The figures utterly refute such a view. It would, of course, be ridiculous as regards nonunion men; but let us see how far it is true of union men. For the first six months of 1908 the proportion of unemployment in New York State on account of labor disputes was but 9 per cent of the total unemployment, disability counting 6.3 per cent, while "all other causes (principally conditions of trade)" counted 84.7 per cent. This was an exceptionally high rate for labor disputes. In the same period of 1908 this rate was less than 1 per cent.

As I have written elsewhere:

"Strikes have hardly an appreciable effect upon the general tables of unemployment. Let us take an extreme case—the great building trades strike of eight years ago in New York City. This strike, according to the State Labor Commissioner, was responsible for 10,593 workers being idle at the end of September, 1904. But, according to the census, there were, in 1900, with no general strike to swell the record, 357,013 persons in New York City idle for moore than one month, 36,031, of whom were idle for more than seven months. Unusually great as was this number of voluntary idlers from the building trades in 1904, it represented but 4 per cent of the number unemployed during the normal year of 1900. For the State of New York it represented but 1 per cent and for the nation only an infinitesimal fraction of 1 per cent."

Casualties and Industrial Diseases.

Under this capitalist system, moreover, the worker must risk chances of maiming and death often greater than those risked by a soldier in battle. Life is cheap, but the safeguarding of machinery costs money. There is no trouble in getting a new man to take the hazardous job of one just wounded or slain; but there is cash expense in providing against maiming and killing. The total casualty list in industries today almost equal that of the civil war. It would take Stone River and Gettysburg together to equal the number of employes, passengers, and "trespassers" (10,396) slain by the railroads in 1911; and Antietam, Fredericksburg, Stone River, Chancellorsville and Gettysbug together to equal the number (150,159) wounded. The casualty rate for railroad employes, moreover, is always increasing. In 1895 one employe was killed for every 433 employed; the average for the three-year period, 1906-8 was 1 in 298. In the earlier year one was wounded for each 31 employed; the average for 1906-08 was 1 in 19, for 1908 alone 1 in 17. The men known specifically as trainmen have the most hazardous jobs in the service. In 1895 1 in each 155 was killed; in 1906-08, 1 in each 133. In 1895, 1 in each 11 was wounded; in 1906-08 1 in each 8.

The total number of casualties in industry has been a matter of considerable figuring, none of it entirely satisfactory. Mr. Frederick L. Hoffman, the insurance statistican, in a statement to Robert Hunter several years ago, made a tentative estimate of 1,664,000 persons "annually killed or more or less seriously injured in the United States." This would, of course, include nonindustrial accidents. The rate upon which it was made, 80 in 100,000 for fatalities, is, however, much less than the Federal census rate in 1900 for the registration are 90.3 in 1,000,000. Later, Mr. Hoffman made an estimate that "the actual number of fatal accidents among occupied males in 1908 is probably somewhere between 30,000 and 35,000." This estimate is, to say the very least, conservative. The Federal census rate for 1910, based on 92,000,000 population, would give about 75,000 fatal accidents yearly. Even supposing that not more than 65 per cent. of these should be included as industrial accidents proper, we should still have a total of more than 50,000 fatalities yearly. Maimings and disablements are in far greater proportion to killings in industry than in war. If we take Mr. Hoffman's proportion (25 to 1), we should have a yearly total of 1,250,400 non-fatal industrial accidents.

These figures do not, of course, include disablements and deaths from industrial disease. The yearly loss from this cause though for certain industries it has been ascertained, is in

NEW DAY FOR THE WORKER

By Emil Seidel, Socialist Party Candidate for the Vice Presidency.

As one goes over the country, from North to South, from East to West, the lasting impressions are not those that show the dissimilarity of conditions, environment, customs and habits.

As one meets the farmers of Texas and Oklahoma, the lumber workers of Mississippi, Wisconsin and Minnesota; the miners of the East, West and South, and the workers in all the industries all over the land, it seems that the stories told by one are the stories of all.

The work that they do, the difference in the products that they make, dwindles to nothing as they tell the tales of suffering, failures, heartaches and privation.

If one is not overcome with nausea at the meanness and pettiness of it all, one marvels at the inventiveness of plutocracy in devising new methods and schemes of facilitating exploitation.

Not only the wages or prices are everywhere so low that they leave just enough for a bare existence, but the deductions, discounts, fines and many other devices used are designed to even further reduce the already meager income.

Bosses or merchants no where seem to be at a loss to find some way of cheating the worker out of his hard earned wage. The outlook would indeed be dark if one were not able to look and see beyond the pay envelope.

The hopeful sign is this: Everywhere exploitation also produces the germs of its own destruction. These germs develop into the growing revolt against the inhuman rule of capitalism and the awakening of a sense of solidarity among the great mass of the workers.

In the crucible of exploitation and suffering the workers are being purged of the hope of salvation through their own individual effort. They see the folly of ever hoping to become masters and exploiters themselves. Therefore they abandon that hope.

But they do not abandon all hope. They hitch their carts to a new star—the rising star of Socialism.

The masters are not unaware of the change that is taking place in the workers' world of thought.

Neither are they slow to prepare plans to stay the revolt that they feel must come.

Through their political marionettes they are already presenting what purports to be a recognition of the complaints of the workers and a remedy for these ills. This is only a scheme to prolong the hold of capitalism on the worker. The latest friend of big business is the Progressive party.

The time is here for a wholesale denunciation of Socialists and Socialism. This will be done from the pulpit, in the press, on the rostrum and the stump.

But denounce Socialism if they will, it avails them nothing. They themselves are responsible for Socialism. They are making Socialists.

At an early and tender age they have taken the children from the schools and deprived them of a higher education.

They have sent them into the factories, the shops, the mines and the mills. By the hundreds and thousands they are working together—co-operatively. Their whole lives are are being linked together. One is nothing without all the others.

Their apparent ignorance is not ignorance after all. It is rather a freedom of mind and thought from the shackles of the philosophy of exploitation.

That allows them to pursue their own course at education. It is an education that will secure to them and their families the products of their toil. It is an education that means the preservation of all resources for the benefit of their class. It is an education that means the final smashing of all forms of exploitation.

It is as foolish to blame a worker for allying himself with and adopting Socialism as it would be to blame a capitalist for crossing the continent in an overland flier rather than in a prairie schooner.

But blame the worker if you will, it will make no difference to him or to his class. The workers have been forced to go their own way and they will go that way.

This is the significance of Labor Day this year. There has been progress toward the new independence such as never before. There has been an awakening such as never before. The worker has his own party and he has his own platform. He will elect his own ticket and pass his own legislation. He will prevent the drone and parasite from living on his toil or the fat of the land.

The workers' philosophy has taught him that at the bottom of all civilization is labor, useful labor. It has taught him that labor is the only force that maintains civilization.

This is the knowledge that is spreading among the miners, the mechanics, the farmers, the educators and the teachers.

This is the knowledge that, when it has once permeated the minds of the workers, will mean a new day for the worker. It will mean Labor's day.

BEN HANFORD'S GREAT CLASSIC

A comrade who shall be called Jimmie Higgins because that is not his name, and who shall be styled a painter for the very good reason that he is not a painter, has perhaps had a greater influence in keeping me keyed up to my work in the labor movement than any other person.

Jimmie Higgins is neither broad-shouldered nor thick-chested. He is neither pretty nor strong. A little, thin, weak, pale-faced chap. A poor dyspeptic, asthmatic, epileptic. But he is strong enough to support a mother with equal physical disabilities. Strong enough to put in 10 years of unrecognized and unexcelled service to the cause of Socialism.

What did he do? Everything.

He has made more Socialist speeches than any man in America. Not that he did the talking; but he carried the platform on his bent shoulders when the platform committee failed to be on hand.

Then he hustled around to another branch and got their platform out. Then he got a glass of water for "the speaker." That same evening or the day before he had distributed handbills advertising the meeting.

Previously he had informed his branch as to "the best corner" in the district for drawing a crowd. Then he distributed leaflets at the meeting, and helped to take the platform down and carry it back to headquarters, and got subscriptions for Socialist papers.

The next day the same, and so on all through the campaign, and one campaign after another. When he had a job, which was none too often, for Jimmie was not an extra good workman and was always one of the first to be laid off, he would distribute Socialist papers among his fellows during the noon hour or take a run down to the gate of some factory and give out Socialist leaflets to the employes who come out to lunch.

What did he do? Jimmie Higgins did everything, anything. Whatever was to be done, that was Jimmie's job.

First to do his work; then the work of those who had become wearied of negligent. Jimmie Higgins couldn't sing, nor dance, nor tell a story—but he could DO the thing to be done.

Be you, reader, ever so great, you nor any other shall ever do more than that. Jimmie Higgins had no riches, but out of his poverty he always gave something, his all; be you, reader, ever so wealthy and likewise generous, you shall never give more than that.

Jimmie Higgins never had a front seat on the platform; he never knew the tonic of applause nor the inspiration of opposition; he never was seen in the foreground of the picture.

But he had erected the platform and painted picture; through his hard, disagreeable and thankless toil it had come to pass that liberty was brewing and things were doing.

Jimmie Higgins! How shall we pay, how reward this man? What gold, what laurels shall be his?

There's just one way, reader, that you and I can "make good" with Jimmie Higgins and the likes of him. That way is to be like him.

Take a fresh start and never let go.

Think how great his work, and he has so little to do with. How little ours in proportion to our strength.

I know some grand men and women in the Socialist movement. But in high self-sacrifice, in matchless fidelity to truth, I shall never meet a great man than Jimmie Higgins.

And many a branch has one of him. And may they have more of him.

MOTHER JONES, ORGANIZERS BATLEY, ROMAN AND EDMUNDS ON CABIN CREEK

Charleston, W. Va.—Well, we have been there at last. Like unto Caesar of old, we came, we saw, we conquered.

Last Friday found us all above mentioned, at Eskdale, on "Scabbing" Creek. (Be it known that this title was not given by the writer, but by the Cabin Creek miners themselves.) Did I say we conquered? Well, I mean that we accomplished a long cherished hope, and that was the opportunity to speak to the miners up that creek without being in danger of our heads being knocked off. And this actually happened, thanks to Gov. Glasscock's "Boys in Brown." Batley and I addressed a goodly number of our comrades of the picks at Eskdale, in the afternoon, while "Mother" Jones held forth at or near Kayford. What did we see up there? Well, it would take a monologist to tell. First, we visited the military camp (as did Gov. Glasscock) and we saw the same sights that he saw, to-wit: A once filthy brothel made clean by the military of the great State of West Virginia. The boys were not backward in telling us that the miners were justified in striking, if for no other cause, for better sanitary conditions in which to live. It is a pity that the soldiers had to be called out to clean up the filthy coal camps on Cabin and Paint Creeks, for that is what they have been doing, with the exception of disarming a "Baldwin" occasionally. But is that all we saw? Oh, no. We saw a little more than the Governor saw on his inspection, or investigation trip. We saw the little, measley shacks called houses in which the miners and their families dwell. I won't say live, for no one can live under the Cabin Creek conditions of sanitation; they simply exist. We did not see any flowers in the yards, or many carpets on the floors, or pictures on the walls, or musical instruments in the homes, or anything that goes to make a happy home. But we did see plenty of barefooted children, hungry dogs, filthy highways, stagnant pools and peaceable miners on strike. No soldiers are needed at Eskdale. These people are all law-abiding citizens, and will not break the law, or allow the Baldwin guards to break it at Eskdale. Hence the soldiers. What condition did we find the men in who are on strike? Well, that is hard to answer. We found, though, that men who had worked all summer and had not dissipated or spent their earnings foolishly, in debt to the "grab-all," or company store. Can you blame men for striking? One miner said to us that he would sooner starve on strike than to starve working. Well, all the difference I see in the two brands is that in one you get tired and in the other you are always "resting." We found true Union men up this creek. We also found the best of feeling existing between the miners and the soldiers, and be it said to their everlasting credit, they are an army of gentlemen. Soldiers usually have a bad name, but these boys are a credit to the service. In their camp life they have taught a lesson that should be always remembered by the citizens of Cabin Creek. They very kindly ushered us through their camp, and the camp was a "spotless town." The miners one and all are satisfied for the boys to stay as long as they like. We were informed that the guards at Leewood have a "dead line" established at that place, and have the county road blocked. An investigation will be made and if found true, the "boys" will attend to that.

Now as to the outlook, I can see nothing but victory for the miners. They have resolved to strike ten years if need be, to win their just demands. The operators are in bad, for the simple reason they would not agree to an investigation of the trouble by neutral parties, as was suggested by the governor. The miners readily agreed to the plan, as they know their cause is right, and were not afraid to trust any set of honest men with their case, but not so with the operators. Now, who is the cause of all this expense of the soldiery being kept in the strike eld?

Now about Paint Creek; in our enthusiasm over Cabin Creek, we almost forgot Paint Creek, but they are still on the ring line. The situation is looking 60 per cent better this week than it was last week. Nearly all of the scabs have left.

Boys just keep on striking as you are now and we will have a different story to write in a few days. At this writing the whole of Cabin Creek, including "15-mile," is out solid. This is the place that no one was allowed to go. But the men came themselves.

Organizer Edmunds held good meetings at Dry Branch and Miami, and the men at these places are out to win if it takes all year. Baldwin guards are still patrolling Cabin Creek with rifles and pistols. Governor, does your proclamation amount to anything, or is there anything back of it? Not much.

G. H. EDMUNDS.

About two weeks ago Joe Wilson shot and killed his wife, Rose Wilson, who conducted a cigar stand in the corridor of the City Hall. In the reports of the affair, the Journal and the Dispatch played up as a special feature of the tragedy the fact that the murderer was a cousin of "F. M. Wilson, Socialist Councilman from the Tenth Ward." The question arises as to why the papers were so particular about the politics of the cousin, who had no connection with the crime, but overlooked the fact that the slayer himself was a Republican, and an avowed supporter of Taft. The truth is that this incident is simply in keeping with the dirty policy of certain papers to discredit Socialists wherever possible.

CAUGHT WITH THE GOODS.

Charles Edward Russell, Socialist candidate for Governor of New York, has very neatly nailed Theodore Roosevelt in another lie. He has done more. He has pinned Roosevelt down so firmly that the Third Termer cannot squirm out of it. We all know that Roosevelt is a habitual liar, that he is mentally, morally and physically one of the meanest of men. We all know that he will lie to shield himself and that he will lie to injure another. But because of his braggart, blatant boldness in denunciation he has usually managed to get away with it. He has lied about the dead Harriman and the dead Bliss; he has run up and down the country denying that he ever received any trust money, when the truth is that he is a creature of the trusts, he is the trusts' kept man and always has been so. He was elected by them in 1904 and he was sustained by them during his four years in office.

But times have changed and Roosevelt thinks he knows how to change with them. Still there is one thing he cannot get away from; that is his announced friendliness to Morgan and the friendliness of Morgan to him.

Russell nailed him, tacked him up like a bat on a barn door, on this point, showed what he really is, what he has been and what he may be expected to be in the future.

Most important of all in Russell's exposition was his demonstration of the fact that the real brains of the Bull Moose campaign is George W. Perkins, and Perkins is and always has been a creature connected with the most unsavory of Big Business. He has been furnishing Roosevelt with the money for the present campaign. He has, most important of all, been furnishing Roosevelt with the ideas of the present campaign. He is, as he always has been, the ready and obedient servant of those interests of which he is such an efficient representative. Whether he is a life insurance solicitor or a book peddler or a political heeler, he is the same Perkins. And Roosevelt is his man.

The way in which Russell got him, nailed him, tied him up to Roosevelt and presented the two to his audience, which is the whole American people, was magnificent. No one can henceforth doubt what Roosevelt is and the things for which he stands.

He stands, in the first place, for Perkins. And Perkins is Morgan's man. There can be little question of how Morgan contributed to the 1904 campaign, to that lunatic in the White House. It is a characteristic story, with Roosevelt as the hero.

However, he got the money, didn't he? He may have been properly looked upon as a lunatic, but he got the cash. He may still be regarded as a lunatic—but he isn't as nutty as most of the people in the United States. That is what makes him sane, that is what makes him safe, that is what makes him still a good Morgan man, one that be safely intrusted to Perkins and can be depended upon always to deliver the goods.

There is one thing in the Russell indictment that must not be overlooked. It must be considered in connection with other matters. That is the fact that the monumental liar of this time is Theodore Roosevelt. He couldn't tell the truth if he tried, and he has never tried.

Those who call themselves Socialists, or who have in the past, and who have been misled by his protestations and his declamations are welcome to him. He is a natural product of the Morgan school, and anybody who likes Morgan or likes his teaching is welcome to him. About the most heartfelt thing Roosevelt ever said was when he denounced Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone as undesirable citizens. That was a fact. Morgan did not like them in the least. The Smelter Trust—also friendly to Roosevelt—did not appreciate them. They are still undesirable. Of the two now living, neither has improved any from the Roosevelt standpoint. Neither shows any desire to drop in behind Perkins and become a safe, conservative Morgan man. And what they were and are, there are several million American citizens likewise. They recognize that Roosevelt is a liar, a cowardly, sneaking, skulking liar, and they do not in the least hesitate to brand him as such.

Russell did it, and Russell got him with the goods. It was a splendid piece of work; for it exhibited in all his hideousness one of the worst American charlatans. It showed Roosevelt for what he is, the kept man of Perkins, and by whom Perkins is kept is common knowledge to all American citizens.

TAKE THE CHILDREN OUT OF THE FACTORY!

Literature sent out by the National Child Labor Committee shows by the census reports of 1910 that one child out of seven under fourteen years of age is at work; ninety-five out of 145 under fourteen in the Alabama mills cannot read or write; thirty-eight out of fifty-four children in Virginia cannot read or write; that 6,0000,000 of the total population over ten years of age are illiterate. Twelve per cent of the men of voting age cannot read or write. And as a remedy it is suggested, "Get a living wage for the father."

The advice given is very good. But it does not go far enough to abolish the evils of child labor. The labor movement in addition to its efforts to secure a living wage for the father, believes in taking the child out of the factory entirely and relieve the normal breadwinner from the competition of child labor; it believes in the enactment and strict enforcement of compulsory education laws, for the purpose of securing better health, better education, better skill and better wages for the coming generation. More than that, our work is that of preventive philanthropy; it checks the chief causes active in filing juvenile courts, probation homes, reformatories, insane asylums and hospitals.

"Proof? The Chicago Vice Commission reports that the second greatest cause why 40,000 girls are actually sacrificed to an immoral life in Chicago is the stress of industrial life on unskilled workers with the enfeebling influence of 'will power.'"—American Photo-Engraver.

"Near silk" is not silk, and the "near Socialism" that Roosevelt is preaching now is not Socialism. Real Socialism is far superior to Roosevelt's "near Socialism."

QUESTIONS FOR ROOSEVELT.

What did you do for the workingman in the seven and one-half years that you were president?

Do you remember when the miners of the west were struggling against the inhuman conditions under which they were working, that the leaders of the unions were thrown into jail on trumped-up charges of murder because they dared to protest against these outrages of the capitalists? Do you remember how you not only called these men murderers before any guilt was proven against them, but you denounced the workers throughout the nation who sympathized with them as undesirable citizens?

Now you admit that labor has been wronged. You admit that the laborer is robbed and cheated out of the products of his toil.

Shall we trust a man who comes out just before election and professes his love for the laboring man when his record of the past shows that he has been the workingman's enemy?

Roosevelt is progressing; no doubt about that. He does not brag any more about the murders he has committed; he has even had his books revised in which he boasted of shooting a Spaniard in the back. But it is not so long ago since he came back from Africa with boasts of monkey killing, which shows that the brute in him is not entirely vanquished.

Oft-times, men and women, who seem to otherwise find a great deal of merit in the Socialist theory seem to run up against a snag when it comes to the question of as to the "Shirker" and the "Lazy Man." On more than one occasion has the writer been compelled to go into a detailed reply when the query was made, sometimes by a scoffer and at other times by sincere well-meaning people, who would ask "What are you going to do with the lazy man under Socialism?" It is not enough for us to say that all such problems will be solved by society under the new regime. There are some things that can be answered and answered scientifically and to the satisfaction of every fair-minded person.

Every person who has at all given any slight study to the subject of Anthropology knows that in man as in all animal life there is a constant involuntary tendency to move "along the line of least resistance." Instances may be cited of parasites existing among other animals than men, but hardly any instance can be cited where such parasites exist except through the exercise of their own physical powers for the procurance of their foods. The snake may sleep most of the time, but when hungry it is very much awake and very strenuously works for its food. The bee and the ant may at times set up a ruler, and we are informed that this proves the existence of a tendency to shirk among animal life because the queen of the species may be fed, but we must not overlook the fact that the queen performs a useful function in giving forth offspring and once the offspring have matured the drone is stung to death. It is scientific knowledge that every species and every individual of the species aim to expend their energies productively. Waste is not a natural but and artificial ailment. That life destroys life, does not controvert the fact that the purpose of destruction is to preserve the destroyer.

It is therefore contrary to all knowledge of the laws of nature to say that "it is natural to shirk" or that "it is natural to be lazy." Laziness is a disease brought on by extreme stress in the economic conditions among the Human Family.

Take an overworked man who has worked long hours in the shop or other place of employment, or has been compelled through working shorter hours, to keep pace with the machine; apply the same principle to the woman; let that man and that woman mate and have progeny. It becomes self-evident that the children brought up under such environments will naturally be born "tired." These children are born diseased. They are "lazy" because they are born tired. Abnormal conditions breed abnormal types.

Not the children, nor the parents, are to blame for the laziness bred within the children. It is the system that is the cause of it all. Society, properly speaking, is the arch criminal responsible for this disease. Laziness is a trait transmitted from parent to child. It is not natural and therefore can be outlived by a change of environment.

Boosters' Department

By F. E. JOHNSTON

What this paper has accomplished in the past six months:

1st. Saved the taxpayers of Columbus $8,000.00 on the city printing. The people of this city will recall that this paper made a bid on the printing of ordinances, resolutions, etc., of the city council. Our bid was the exact commercial rate we charge our regular advertisers and was so far beneath the rates charged by the plate sheets, that we made them reduce their rates about one-half and although the gang refused to give it to this paper which was still the lowest bidder we succeeded in saving the taxpayers at least $8,000.00 pear year.

2nd. Prevented the passage of the Civic Center bond issue steal, which would have placed a burden of at least $10,000,000 upon the shoulders of the taxpayers of this city.

3rd. Forced the sweat shop at the Cor. Broad and Sandusky to clean up, and grant the little children there held prisoners more leisure.

4th. We have kept our eyes on the city council, and forced them to at least leave the desks in place when they adjourned.

In the whole state of Ohio there is no paper that is feared and hated as this paper by the capitalist class. We have in preparation an exposure of certain institutions in this state that will eclipse anything we have exposed in the past. Already the parties in control of this institution, having got wind of the fact that we are on to their little game, have begun to clean up. Nothing, however, will prevent us throwing the light of day upon this institution. There is only one thing we must have and that is financial support. We want this exposure to reach every voter in this state and especially in this county. Comrades we ask you to push the circulation, let everyone of you make up a list of subscribers and send them in at this time. Exert every effort to put subs. on the list. We absolutely cannot keep going without a rising subscription list and we must all boost at this time. Turn them in comrades, don't delay as we want this exposure to reach the greatest number of voters possible.

On with the work comrades. Let's have at least one sub. from each reader and comrade next week. Who will be the first to report?

If you can't make up a big list, bring in AT LEAST ONE, as you know it's the little things that count in this movement.

Everyone all together, for a big boost this week. Don't lay the paper down and forget this, but start out now and you will be surprised how easy it is to bring in subs.

THE SOCIALIST CAMPAIGN.

It is time the Socialists rolled up their sleeves and got to work. There is plenty of it to be done, and the most pressing task for every one of us is the one nearest at hand. We need not concern ourselves over the state of the movement in other localities or worry as to what our Comrades elsewhere are doing. What we need to know is what we are doing, and what our personal chances are of making a few new Socialists. The ones who need converting do not live afar off. They are in the house next door. The persons who are hungry for literature are not at some remote point. They live on our street. The ones to supply them are not Socialists who live in other localities, but ourselves.

The task of making Socialists, of running this campaign and making it successful is one that rests directly on us, on us personally, not on some one else. We cannot and need not wait for the other fellows to begin. What we need to do, and do quickly, is to begin ourselves. The trouble with the campaign so far is that we have been waiting for the other fellows to begin. We have been harboring our own splendid energies for the hurricane finish—when it will be too late.

In reply to a question of the court in the Hatter's boycott case, Mr. Gompers started to make a speech and was promptly called down by the judge. However, if there are any disappointed ones who would have liked to listen to Mr. Gompers, they can find it all in the next issue of the American Federationist, with probably some later additions.

President Taft now declares that he would be a coward if he did not use the veto power to annul legislation of which he did not approve. Which shows that courage is such a common attribute that a rat driven into a corner, or even a man of straw, may share it.

While preparations are being made to permanently abolish gambling, prostitution, police graft, trusts, the liquor traffic, slum tenements, strikes, Socialism and other evils, it is satisfactory to note that an attempt is to be made to elevate the esthetic tastes of the public by the inauguration of a crusade against billboards. Now, if that crusade against cigarettes could only be revived again, there is hardly anything else in the way of "reform" that could be asked or thought of.

In declaring the present fashion of women's dress to be "immoral," a Boston clergyman says he sees no reason why working women should not wear bloomers instead of skirts. Possibly the working women will wait until he does see a reason before they fall in with the suggestion. In these days the habit of accepting pulpit suggestions without reason has fallen into innocuous desuetude, even among women.

POPULARITY OF KEIR HARDIE.

Nothing illustrates the popularity of Keir Hardie nor his versatility more than the character of the letters pouring into campaign headquarters of the Socailist party at Chicago requesting a meeting while he is in this country. A suffrage association, under whose auspices he lectured when in this country 20 years ago, requests a lecture on woman suffrage. Economic societies want to hear Hardie, the economist; lyceum and Chautauqua managers are clamoring for the great English lecturer; labor organizations want to hear one of the foremost representatives of labor in the English-speaking world; political clubs and debating societies ask a lecture by the great English statesman, and the miners from almost every coal field in the country insist on seeing and hearing and shaking hands with their friends and comrade and brother, Keir Hardie, the coal digger. Hardie would do well to locate in this country a couple of years.

VENERABLE SOCIALIST PASSES FROM LABOR TO REST

The oldest Socialist in Columbus, and without doubt, the oldest one in Ohio, passed away last Sunday. Richard Hills Leavitt, aged 89, left this life from illness incident to old age.

He was born in Boston August 30, 1823, came West by stage and water route in 1845 and settled in Cincinnati, where he was married two years later. He moved to Columbus in 1857 and had lived here since. For 30 years he was cashier of the Columbus Gas Company.

Before the Civil War he was a member of the State Fencibles and during the war enlisted twice, in the One Hundred and Thirty-third and One Hundred and Eighty-fifth O. V. I. He had been an Odd Fellow for 60 years.

He is survived by his widow, a daughter, Mrs. Mamie Bull, and four sons, Joseph Warren, Arthur L., William R. and Charles A. Leavitt, all of Columbus.

Comrade Leavitt was the secretary of the first carpenters' union ever formed in Columbus. He was always a radical. Until a few months ago he frequently called at this office and his stories of the old times were listened to by younger men with the utmost respect and credence.

Honor to the pioneer.

CLIFF LITTLE MAKES CHANGE.

J. C. Little, who has been for nine years in the employ of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, resigned as assistant superintendent about three weeks ago, and is now one of the two managers for Central Ohio, of the Toledo Life Insurance Company, "an up-to-date, old line company, which writes life, health and accident policies." See his add in this paper. Before Mr. Little left the Metropolitan, the men in his department showed the appreciation of him by some fine presents.

RADICAL UTTERANCES MARK LABOR DAY

Thousands March Under a Broiling Sun—Speakers in Line with Progress

The celebration of Labor Day by the unions of Columbus at Indianola park last Monday was marked by radical utterances throughout.

President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor spoke to a crowd of several hundred. The new amendments were only for the purpose of making the constitution more flexible, he asserted. He mentioned the subject of injunctions and the prison sentence with which he is threatened, only on demand of the audience, which was composed almost entirely of labor union men and their wives. He did not speak in detail concerning any single amendment.

G. W. Savage, Ohio secretary of the United Mine Workers of America, and Attorney M. E. Thrailkill spoke before Mr. Gompers, and urged favorable vote on all amendment proposals, particularly those relating to labor reforms. President James H. Henderson of the Columbus Federation of Labor presided.

The Parade.

At the front of the column rode Marshal Edward Wakefield. A squad of police came first, followed by a carriage bearing President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, James H. Henderson, president of the Columbus Federation of Labor, and Mayor Karb. They were followed by members of committees.

Sheet metal workers in blue shirts and yellow corduroy trousers were the first of the labor organizations in line. They were followed by cigar makers. Electrical workers, clad in white caps, blue overalls and blouses, came next and they were royally received by the reviewers.

Following these in order were the brick masons, plasterers, lathers, journeymen barbers, hod carriers, stone masons, members of the Typographical union, press assistants, plumbers and steam fitters, metal workers, brewery workers, bottlers, ice handlers, carpenters, painters and decorators, retail clerks and garment workers. Twenty-one unions were represented in the march.

Probably the largest representation was that of the brewery workers, who wore blue shirts and caps. Another organizations which was well represented was the hod carriers' union. The members wore yellow shirts, gray striped trousers and white caps Symbolizing their trade, members of the bottlers' union each wore a small bottle tied to his suspender strap. Besides the bottle each wore a red tie and white shirts and caps.

Several companies of the Columbus fire department brought up the rear.

Forming at Third and Broad Streets, the parade moved through the court of honor in East Broad Street to High, south in High to Fulton and then countermarched north in High to Goodale, where special cars conveyed the marchers to Indianola park. A picnic dinner then was enjoyed from 12 until 1 o'clock after which the crowd witnessed a ball game between brewery workers and the allied printing trades.

NOTICE TO WORKERS.

We have compiled the names and addresses of another complete Rural Route, north of the city. We want to put every one of them on the sub list. Every dollar that can be raised will be used in this manner. Send in the dollars comrades for this purpose, and we will soon wake them up on that route.

That fellow whom you think will lead you is not going to do it. For centuries he has been leading and you trying to trail behind. Now that you have a well organized, clean, leaderless movement that is full of promise you should tumble to his game and keep your organization useful by keeping it clean, and democratic by elevating the individual and eliminating the leader. So long as you are Socialists be sane, so long as you profess democracy be consistent.

"SOCIAL JUSTICE" IN BULL MOOSE PARTY.

By W. M. F.

That George W. Perkins, the financial backer of the Bull Moose party, separates business and politics became strikingly apparent last week. The State Factory Investigating Committee, of New York, has been looking into the working conditions of the Osborne Twine Company, No. 2, in Auburn, N. Y., a factory owned by the International Harvester Company, of which Perkins is the leading owner. Dr. George M. Price, the State Director of Factory Investigation, a noted authority on sanitation, and a Socialist, called the attention of the authorities to conditions there, with the result that the senate was compelled to investigate. A committee was appointed and set to work. The findings of that committee are of singular interest when taken in connection with some of the widely heralded statements of the leaders of the new party on questions of social justice.

"The appearance of the women workers in this plant was very disheartening," said Senator Wagner. "They were worn and pale, and their clothes, faces and hands were covered with oil and hemp cloth. Many of these women, so-called, are only children in age, and they have to lug huge piles of hemp, weighing 150 pounds each, across the floor, the loads in some cases being bigger than the women themselves.

"In the spinning room, where women are employed alone, to the exclusion of the clatter of machinery is so frightful that a voice below a shriek cannot be heard. The rooms are dark, though for no necessary cause, and no attempt is made to remove the dust, which is kept in constant motion by the line shaftings, despite the requirements of the law. This dust is breathed continually by the women, many of whom complain of chronic coughs and colds. The dust and dirt is so thick upon the clothes of the girls that at the noon hour—which in many cases consists of but a few minutes—and at the close of the day's or night's labor the girls have to sweep each other clean with brooms."

Most of the girls were found to make not much more than $5.00 a week at piece work. The very highest wage that a skilled woman worker can get is $7.00 a week. Night work is as frequent as it is in Pittsburg steel mills, owned by the same group of capitalists, that is, it goes on all the time. Married women are selected for night work, it was found, where they never got as high at $7.00. The work begins at sundown, and lasts until 6:30 a. m. In these cases, it was found, the husbands of the night workers are employed in the day time, where they got at high at $8.00 a week. One of the women interviewed testified that she worked at night so that she could have the day free for her children. She stated that she steals a few hours sleep in the morning while her children are being taken care of by the neighbors.

William M. Grieg, the superintendent of the mill, stated that the plant employed about 400 women, of whom at least 300 worked at night. Grieg was closely questioned, and he admitted that women were compelled to stand on their feet all day (or night) contrary to law, and that, also contrary to law, they were not protected against the dust. He said that Harold and Medill McCormick and George W. Perkins were directors of the plant, and had been there to look over matters.

The work is what is classified by the laws of the state of New York, as "heavy," that is, fit only for men. Yet Grieg admitted that women were employed because they were cheaper than the men.

Here we have an epitome of all that is hellish in capitalism. The family broken up, the terrible, unremitting toil, low wages, insanitary and disease-breeding working conditions, and absolute defiance of what poor, inadequate laws there are on the books.

In this connection, the following excerpts are interesting. The chief Bull Moose at Chicago, had the following to say, "As a people, we cannot afford to let any group of citizens or any individual citizen live or labor under conditions which are injurious to the common welfare." Industrial conditions which come under the minimum standard of health "come within the scope of government action." Fine words!

And Perkins has this to say, "The platform of the Progressive party is strong on this point, declaring for a minimum wage, the prohibition of night work for women, and an eight hour law." Finer words!

Can you grow figs from thistles? Can you squeeze blood from a stone? Can you get industrial justice from a party whose expenses are paid out of the profits of such mills as these? Can a stream rise higher than its source? Do you think that Perkins, if elected to congress (he is running on the Bull Moose ticket), would lift a finger to end these conditions?

The emancipation of the working class must come from the working class itself, and no workingman has any business fooling with this party of personal ambition, of bluff and bluster, of personal abuse and lying, and of treachery to the working class. There is no party for the working class but the Socialist party.

PERKINS, ROOSEVELT'S BACKER, IS EXPLOITER OF CHILD SLAVES.

Now that it pays the old parties to expose George W. Perkins, the financial backer of the Roosevelt party, we are getting some information regarding labor conditions in the factories of the International Harvester Works from capitalistic sources.

The New Work State Factory Investigating Cimmittee recently probed into the conditions of Perkins' plants at Auburn. These plants are run under the name of Osborne Twine Company, but are in fact a part of the Harvester trust.

Katie Nelson, who appeared before the investigators, testified that she was 17 years old and worked from 7 in the morning to 6 at night in the preparation room of the twine factory, where there are no chairs, and where the workers are forbidden to sit down. The girl told that it is her duty to keep a constant watch on the machinery, take twine and put it on the machines. She also testified that her married sister works in the twine works at night, from 7 to 6:30, under the same conditions for the same munificent salary of never more than $6 per week.

Marie Previ testified that she works from about 6:30 in the morning to 6 at night; that she is allowed 15 minutes for lunch; that she never earns more than $6 per week; that she is compelled to stand all day long on the slippery floor of a dark room where the air abounds in dust; that in the three years in which she has been employed in the preparation room of the twine factory she has often been sick with stomach, head and other troubles; that her feet pain excruciatingly after the day's toil; that she goes right to bed after her supper; that her father also works in the twine works and also never makes more than $6 a week.

Mary's father, who is fifty-five years old, has lost four fingers in the twine factory.

Is it possible that sane workingmen will vote for Perkins' man Roosevelt after reading the above?

We doubt it.

SOCIALISTS IN ACTION

News from the World-Wide Movement of the Workers

GENERAL SOCIALIST NEWS.

National Executive Committee S. P. has directed that the vote of Referendum C (recalling J. M. Barnes, campaign manager) be resumed, time for closing the ballot being extended 14 days. Vote must be in local branches by Sept. 10, state secretaries Sept. 15 and at national office on or before Sept. 24.

The general elections that were to have occurred for members of the Russian Parliament next month have been postponed until some time next winter. It is probable that the government will adopt further repressive measures to curb the activity of the Socialists, who are not very popular with the Czar for some reason or another.

Just as Milwaukee, so in Schenectady, N. Y., the humbug old-party politicians—Republicans, Democrats and Bull Moosers—are now planning to combine on a "non-partisan" ticket to oust Mayor Lunn and the other Socialist officials who will be up for re-election. A lot of difference in principle there is between the capitalistic politcians, indeed! Of course, there are differences among them when they fight for spoils within their grasp, but always and everywhere they combine and fight labor when labor becomes aroused and dumps the thieves over board.

C. K. Lush, the Bull Con leader of Wisconsin, is at least a candid cuss. Listen to him: 'We are not afraid to take some of the socialistic doctrine if it has proved and if we believe it will better conditions. The Socialistmovement has had a great influence and has gained many adherents by its propaganda because it is giving what the pleople are clamoring for. At no time have so many members of the so-called socialistic class been converted to the propaganda of human betterment as at Chicago. The only way to beat the Socialists is to beat them to it, and the new party is glad to make use of what doctrines appear fundamentally right, whether socialistic or not. If the thing is a good thing we are not afraid of it, if it had a socialistic tag."

Phil Snowden, a member of the Labor party in the British Parliament, predicts a probable split in the Liberal party because of the rivalry between Lloyd George and Winston Churchill. Snowden believes that George will bolt and that if he does secede it will be because he has been driven out of the party by the imperialistic big navy ideas of his colleagues. In thas case secession will not be to conduct a land agitation memerly, but to launch a radical, collectivist, coalition party, to lead which development no man is better fitted. The remnant of the present Liberals is so weak, he says, that it will be compelled to join the ranks of the Conservative Unionists, with whom, Snowden declares, they already, as Whigs, have much in common. Snowden thinks that Lloyd George will then head a strong, aggressive, radical democratic party, which will go far along the lines of socio-economic "reform." Snowden holds that Lloyd George has overwhelmingly popular support.

NEWS FROM NATIONAL SOCIALIST HEADQUARTERS.

The following resolution was adopted by the Executive Committee of the British Socialist party and forwarded to the National office by H. W. Lee, Secretary:

"This meeting of the Executive Committee of the British Socialist party records its sincere sympathy with Ettor and Giovanitti, the noble leaders of the great and successful strike at Lawrence, Mass., who are imprisoned and charged with murder solely in order to avenge the defeat of the hypocritical capitalist sweaters of Boston. The British Socialist party sends also its hearty greetings to their comrades and fellow-workers of the United States and feels confident that their fine resistance to tyranny will insure the release of these innocent champions of the oppressed wage-slaves of Lawrence."

The five organisers now at work in the South, J. E. Snyder, W. M. Doyle, H. F. Kendall, Thomas L. Buie and W. C. Seigler, report successful meetings, attendance, attention, collections and literature sales all being good. Buie says to pass the word along that Kentucky is soon to become noted for something besides fine horses.

Correspondents of the National office are requested not to mix the correspondence or remittance for the Lyceum department, the Campaign committee and the office itself with each other. All three have separate files and separate accounts and bookkeepers. Comrades can facilitate business and get their orders filled and their letters answered more promptly by complying with this request.

The proposed National Committee motion by Maurer of Pennsylvania, relating to manner of publishing seconds to motions for proposed referendums has been seconded by O'Mahoney of Idaho.

Proposed National Committee Motion.

By Slobodin of New York:

"I move that the National Executive Committee be directed

1. To collect and publish data dealing with the labor and living conditions and problems of mine and transportation workers, from a Socialist viewpoint.
2. To furnish such literature to locals willing to place the same in the hands of mine and transportation workers.
3. To assign competent organizers for propaganda among mine and transportaion workers, who through study and observation should qualify themselves for the work.
4. To have bills prepared and introduced in national, state and municipal legislatures for the betterment of labor and living conditions of mine and transportation workers."

Proposed Referendum.

"At our local meeting on August 30, 1912, the following motion carried: To adopt or reject by National referendum vote the following plank to be put in the National platform—That the Soicalist party of the United States does demand entire separation of church and state.

"The following motion is hereby submitted for publication in the Weekly Bulletin for seconds:

"Moved by Local Manhattan: That it be made mandatory with every organized local to contribute something for every legitimate appeal for aid, such as unjust imprisonment or abuse of a fellow worker, free speech fight, strike against intolerable conditions, etc.

"Provided: That such appeal comes through the regular channels of the Socialist Party, Viz. National or State organizations certifying to genuineness and necessity of appeal, and provided that locals have a balance in their treasury.

"Comment: Under this wording each local is allowed to contribute according to money in treasury and as they deem wise:

"We believe in this way to promote class solidarity and equalize the struggle against capitalistic mis-rule.

THE NATIONAL CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE.

An Educational Campaign.

At the present time there are tons of literature being shipped daily from the office of the Campaign Committee, which means hundreds of thousands of documents. At this rate the mark set at the beginning of the campaign and the expectations of the Campaign Committee will be reached by the distribution of 25,000,000 copies of campaign leaflets.

According to orders received the presidential candidate posters will be displayed in about every city, village and hamlet in the Nation, with cross roads thrown in for good measure.

The number of magazines carrying articles favorable to Socialism and relating to the party and its candidates exceeds by ten fold the number in any previous campaign. The address of acceptance by Comrade Debs and the letter of acceptance by Comrade Seidel, released respectivelyy on August 28 and August 30, were mailed by the Associated Press and the United Press a sufficient time in advance to their subscribers, 1,600 papers in all. The Monitor, a daily publication of Boston, with an enormous circulation, and which reaches all parts of the country, has agreed to print 1,000 words each week as supplied by the Campaign Committee. Arrangements have been made with the American Preess Association to carry a three-column story with pictures, which will be supplied to their subscribers, numbering over 1,000 papers. This latter will appear in the week of October 7 to 14.

INDIANA STATE NEWS.

James Oneal, State Secretary 218 1-2 Ohio Street, Terre Haute, Ind.

Word comes from Hobart, in Lake county, that there is an opportunity to organize a local there and the comrades are going to get busy distributing literature, to be provided by the state office.

The comrades at Fort Wayne expect to carry an extensive campaign into all parts of the county and will try to arrange for one speaker for the last two months of the campaign. They also will try to dispose of special campaign stamps to assist in raising funds for this week.

The Socialists at North Vernon, in Jennings county, are at work trying to organize a local and are also making preparations for an extensive distribution of literature.

Up in Madison county the county organization is getting after some of the small towns in the county and expects to report the organization of a number of branches soon.

The local at Tipton, in Tipton county, has become so encouraged with the meetings and general propaganda work that for the first time a county ticket will be placed in the field.

Local Martinsville in Morgan county also expects to place a full county ticket in the field and the local situation looks better than for many months. About two thousand pieces of literature were recently distributed by the local members.

A number of locals are inquiring regarding watchers' certificate, to enable members to watch the count of the vote in November. Later on all locals will be supplied with a quantity of these certificates which will be issued by the county secretaries.

STATE COMMITTEE RESCINDS ACTION OF BLACKHANDERS ON STATE EXECUTIVE COM.

Now is the winter of our discontent made glorious summer.

The State Committee, propelled by the irresistible pressure of the aroused and determined member of the Socialist party of Ohio, has rescinded the traitorous action of the Black conspirators on the State Executive Committee.

It has restored to the list of available speakers the names of those loyal and time-tried Socialists who advocate political action and who were stricken off to make room for advocates of sabotage and I. W. W. anarchist methods.

The State Committee has taken yet a further step. It has ordered Frank Midney's name to be stricken from the speakers' list— and the reasons for this quick action will probably be manifest to anyone reading last week's issue of the Columbus Socialist.

More than that, the State Committee has demanded that the Local that accepted Midney to membership while he was under suspension in Local Dayton, drop his name from its books at once. That means Local Toledo.

Yea, verily, quite a few clouds that lowered upon our house are already in the deep bosom of the ocean buried.

The horizon is clearing. Once more we behold the glad sun of the co-operative commonwealth in place of the black storm of secret plot and anarchist sneak-work.

But there is more to do. Our house-cleaning is not yet finished. The plotters in the S. E. C. who jointed hands with the Haywood-Kerr gang and sought to disrupt the Socialist Party on the eve of election, are still struggling desperately to mislead the membership and retain their hold upon the reins of power.

They must be ejected at once from the office they have betrayed. We want no Bakunins—no stealthy Anarchists—no secret "inner circle" manipulating the party by a network of hidden wires. Those who imagine themselves to be of "superior intellect," who think the bulk of the membership incapable of wise discernment, and who organize a secret society within the Socialist organization, for the purpose of controlling it, are so far from the true spirit of Socialism that they couldn't even recognize Karl Marx's portrait.

Out with the Anarchists. The ballots have gone forth at last from the State Office. At last we have the opportunity to vote for the Recall of these blackhanders. Let every loyal Socialist who believes in light rather than darkness, who believes in reason rather than fist-tactics, who stands for education rather than sneak-work and terrorism, rally to the task.

Vote "YES" on the Referendum for the Recall of the State Executive Committee! Cleanse the Ohio movement from the stain which has been cast upon it—Dayton Socialist.

NOTHING CAN STOP THE COMING OF SOCIALISM, SAYS KEIR HARDIE.

New York, Aug. 26.—James Keir Harie, leader of the independent party of Great Britain and one of its representatives in the house of commons, who arrived in this city today from Montreal, was interviewed at the home of Morris Hillquit, where he is stopping temporarily.

The veteran labor leader and pioneer working class representative in the English parliament will remain on this continent about six weeks, during which time he will deliver a series of addresses in the United States and Canada. The greater part of Hardie's time will be spent in this country, where a great many of his speeches will be made under the auspices of the national office of the Socialist party of the United States.

Another factor that has brought the sturdy old labor champion to these shores is the marriage of his son, James Keir Hardie, Jr., to Marion Dalrymple Stoddart, which will take place in the near future.

Hardie seemed in excellent health and highly enthusiastic over the prospect of the general Socialist movement. He was particularly sanguine over Socialist party prospects in this and his own country and smiled deprecatingly when it was suggested to him that many were of the opinion that such moves as the insurance act of England and the birth of the upstart "Progressive" party in America would hurt the progress of the revolutionary political parties of these respective countries.

"Nothing can stay the persistent onward sweep of the Socialist movement," confidently asserted the laborite, "and whatever arises seemingly to check its growth only prifies its ranks and makes it even more formidable.

That there is no such thing in England as syndicalism and that Tom Mann, reputed to be the syndicalist leader of that country, may be a parliamentary candidate in the next English elections, were statements made by Hardie.

He declared that recent general labor uprisings had been mistakenly described as syndicalism and that in this erroneous judgment certain essential facts have been overlooked.

"What are the general conditions of English working class?" Hardie was asked.

"Recent strikes," he replied, "nearly all of which have been successful except the last one, have brought about a great improvement, not only in the wages of the workers but in the conditions of their employment."

Socialists believe in equality of product and pay.

"BUSTED OIL TRUST GRABS MORE COIN"

Standard of New Jersey and Its "Former" Subsidiaries Pay Out $5,782,522 "Velvet" So Far This Year.

How hard hit the oil octopus was by the government order of dissolution issued some months ago is shown by the fact that Standard Oil of New Jersey and its "former" constituent companies for the first nine months of 1912 have paid $5,782,522 more in cash dividends than was paid by the old Standard Oil Company, of New Jersey for the same period in 1911.

In exact figures, Standard Oil stock-holders have received this year at date $35,284,037 in cash, compared with $29,510,514 for the corresponding period in 1911. In addition to these cash dividends paid, stockholders have been given valuable rights and stock dividends.

The $35,284,037 cash dividends paid out have been contributed by only 32 companies, and these do not include some of the largest earners. The following companies have not yet declared dividends, although in 1906 they reported large "earnings" available for dividends: Atlantic Refining Company, Solar Refining Company, Standard Oil Company of California, Standard Oil Company of Kansas, Standard Oil of Kentucky, and Standard Oil of Ohio.

Comparing the nine months of the present year's disbursements with those of the old Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, the latter company paid out 75 per cent of its annual dividends in the first nine months of 1911, 15 per cent being paid in March, 9 per cent in June, and 6 per cent in September. Hence the percentage paid during the first three quarters of the current year by the ney company is a very even comparison, as about 75 per cent is represented in both cases, the subsidiaries outstripping the old company.

HEAD OF WOOLEN TRUST INDICTED IN CONNECTION WITH JOB DONE TO DISCREDIT LAWRENC STRIKE

Boss Released at Once Under $5,000 Bail.

Boston, Aug. 30.—William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen Company, one of the largest textile concerns in the world, and uniquely prominent as the leading spirit in the textile industry of the United States and a hard slave driver, today surrendered himself to Inspector Thomas J. Lynch, of police headquarters, who read to Wood an indictment charging conspiracy in connection with the "planting" of dynamite in Lawrence last winter for the purpose of injuring the cause of mill operatives who were on strike there.

Wood went to police headquarters at 10 o'clock in company with former Congressman Samuel Powers, who probably will act as his counsel. He was at headquarters only a few moments, going directly to the Courts Building, directly across the street, to be arraigned.

According to an agreement previously reached with the District Attorney's office, Wood promptly furnished $5,000 bail to keep from going to jail with Daniel J. Collins, the Cambridge dog fancier, who was indicted and arrested yesterday at the time Wood's indictment was returned to Judge Pratt. It is understood that Wood will be arraigned next Tuesday.

On his way from court the "wool king" stopped long enough for the newspaper photographers to snap him two or three times, after first hailing them with the remark:

"Is everybody happy?"

In the clerk's office Wood drew five $1,000 bills from his pocket as his bail. He asked to be arraigned at once, but was told it could not be done until the other defendants named in the indictment were ready to plead.

the mass incomputable. Poisoning is common to many trades. Lead poisoning is found among lead workers, file makers, plumbers, painters and glaziers, potters, glass makers and polishers, coach makers, gas fitters, printers and cutlers. All textile workers suffer from the inhalation of dust and fluff. There is hardly a trade that does not furnish under its present operation, some danger to life. Statistics on this subject for the United States are at best meager and poor, and one must turn to Great Britain for the most carefully studied results of investigation. The following table, from Thomas Oliver's "Dangerous Trades," shows the death rate for workers in certain industries compared with agriculturists. It needs no comment:

Agriculturists	602
Blacksmiths	914
Bricklayers	1,001
Brass workers	1,088
Cotton operatives	1,141
Quarrymen	1,176
Iron and steel workers	1,301
Copper workers	1,381
Glass makers	1,487
Potters	1,702
Lead workers	1,783
File makers	1,810

Women and Child Labor

Under the capitalist system an increasing part of the population must take part in the struggle. The gainfully occupied persons numbered 34.7 per cent. of the total in 1880; 37.3 in 1890, and 38.3 in 1900. No figures are yet available for 1910. Moreover, with the perfection of processes and machinery, work can be done by cheaper and less skilled labor, and consequently women and children are increasingly employed. The number of workmen in industry in 1880 was 2,353,088; in 1900, 4,843,155 an increase of more than 100 per cent. The number of working children in 1880 was 1,118,856; in 1900, 1,750,178, an increase of 56 per cent. Working children in 1880 formed 16.8 per cent. of the child population; in 1900 18.2 per cent. In certain States, where their labor is found to be most profitable, the proportion of child laborers is enormous. In 1900 the percentage of working children, ten to fourteen years old, inclusive, to the whole child population of that age, was, in seven Southern States, as follows:

States.	Males.	Females.
Alabama	58.1	30.1
North Carolina	32.8	29.0
Mississippi	31.1	28.2
South Carolina	30.8	26.4
Arkansas	47.3	18.9
Georgia	43.1	21.0
Louisiana	36.7	20.0

Wages and Prices.

Wages tend, under the capitalist system, toward a figure just sufficient to meet the needs of existence. The trade union obstructs this tendency, and obtains for its members a larger share of their product. Often the influence of the trade union also increases the wage of the non-union worker in the organized trades. But for the great mass of the unorganized workers there is no such agency and they must take what they can get. Professor Scott Nearing, in his "Wages in the United States," has shown that three-quarters of the adult males and nineteen-twentieths of the adult females in the industries of Northeastern and North Central United States actually earn less than $600 a year.

That wages of skilled workmen have increased by an average of some 20 or 25 per cent. in the last ten years is not disputed. No one pretends, however, that any part of the unorganized workmen have made during the same time any such gain, or that the great mass of them have had any increase whatever. They have had to take what was given them.

Even this partial wage increase, however, has been a nominal one only. The increase of prices has more than offset it. Bradstreet's has shown that from 1896 to 1910 the increase in the average wholesale price of 106 general commodities was 52.3 per cent. Food, it has been estimated, takes about 45 per cent. of the expenditures of average working class family in New York City. Rent takes 18 per cent.; clothing, 10 per cent.; fuel and light, 5 per cent., and sundries, 22 per cent. The increase in the prices of these necessities has probably been greater than the increase in food prices. Whatever happens, and whichever way the workman turns, he finds an even greater difficulty in making his wages supply him with the necessities of life.

Of course, you will be told that the savings bank deposits are a proof that the workman does somehow, in spite of low wages and high prices, manage to save something. The fallacy that savings bank deposits are an indication of working class conditions was long ago exploded and need not be dwelt upon. Reports of the Massachusetts Labor Bureau have conclusively shown that savings banks deposits are mainly from the middle and wealthy classes. No one who cares for his reputation now repeats the old fallacy.

Pauperism.

Under this system of capitalism chronic pauperism is entailed upon a large mass of the population all over the world. In the United States it is estimated that 10,000,000 persons are in a more or less chronic state of poverty. The census volume on pauperism, it is true, shows an absolute increase, but a relative decline of the number of paupers in almshouses in twenty years. But, as the report admits, the figures indicate very little regarding the extent of pauperism outside the alms houses. There are no adequate figures for the United States as a whole. A recent report of the Department of Corrections in New York City gives the number of deaths in Manhattan and the Bronx for 1908 as 44,061, and the number of burials in Potter's Field as 6,341, or 1 in 7 of the total of deaths. What a business depression means in casting thousands of self-reliant men and women into pauperism, even if only temporary, is shown by the figures of the Application Bureau of the New York Charity Organization Society. For the year ended September 30, 1907, 20,781 applications for aid were received, while the following year the number reached 42,000. Miss Caroline Goodyear, a social worker, computed several years ago the minimum cost of decent living in New York City for a family of six to be $850 a year. Other social students have confirmed these figures. To thousands of families this is a wholly unattainable income, and the fact indicates a vast extent of squalid destitution. It is a destitution common to all our large cities, to most of our smaller cities and even to many village communities. Wherever capitalism prevails destitution is widespread.

Other Figures.

One could carry these statistics through every phase of life. The fierce struggle for bread drags an increasing number of children from the schools and forces them to work. You will find from the Federal Commissioner of Education's report that on the average, out of 34 city children who start in the primary grades, only one reaches the twelfth grade. The hard struggle indubitably increases the number of the insane. You will find the Federal statistics on insanity that there were 40,942 insane in 1880; in 1900, 150,151 in asylums alone. Suicides, which so often have an economic cause, you will find to be increasing almost constantly. The Chicago Tribune's compilation shows that for the three years 1881-83, they averaged 1,477 yearly, and for the three years 1904-06, 9,015 yearly. Crime, which also generally has an economic cause, you will find to be increasing. The Federal census shows a decrease in the number of prisoners from 1860 to 1904, but it shows a steady increase from 29 per 100,000 of population in 1850 to 132 per 100,000 of population in 1890. The number of prisoners, however, is not an invariable indication of the frequency of crime, and the opinions of such authorities as David A. Wells, Henry M. Boies, F. H. Wines, General Roeliff Brinkerhoff and Josiah Strong coincide in the view that crime is increasing. The wasteful, demoralizing, and devastating effects of this capitalist system of production and distribution are statistically demonstrable for every phase of life and for every nation.

The Application to You.

What are you going to do about it? Are you concerned solely with your own interests and therefore indifferent to the interests of those about you? Or are you concerned, but only to the extent of wishing to see some little patchwork done here and there? Yet patchwork—even radical patchwork—it ought readily to be seen, is hardly a fitting treatment for matters so grave, so fundamental, and of so world-wide a bearing. We need the substitution of a new order of things for the present order. We need the ownership and management of all this machinery of production by society as a whole, so that it will be operated for the benefit of all. The new order which proposes this change is Socialism; and though here and there some petty corrections of pressing evils may be made by patchwork methods, you can rightly expect no correction that is lasting or fundamental unless it is one undertaken in harmony with the Socialist plan and purpose and one that makes for the Socialist commonwealth. It is Socialism alone that will cure the socially remediable ills of mankind.

SOCIALISM IN OHIO.

If the Socialists of Ohio are not careful, they will fall into the capitalist trap of emphasizing the failures of the duly elected Socialist officials of this state. If failures were made, do we not all partake of those failures? What have we done to assist those who have been suddenly thrust into responsible positions? What have we done to educate them? We have heard much about some official failures in some Ohio cities. Why can we not be told of the hard fight and the excellent work that is being put up our Comrades, for instance, in Fostoria. Here is where Comrade W. M. Ralston, in the mayor's chair has had all the lawyers in the city to fight, and yet has given excellent service to the city. New and sanitary city offices have been opened in a city-owned building. A thorough system of finances has been installed for attending to the city's business. Comrade Hollenbaugh is doing fine work as Commissioner of Public Works.

How is that for news? Doesn't that sound good? It may not be the co-operative commonwealth, but it is a little station on the way. An ounce of simple attainment is worth a bushel of stomach ache.

Let us show that we believe in political action in Ohio. We believe in capturing the powers of government from the capitalist class. To this end every little cross-roads election and every little township official in Ohio is important to us. We ought to take them by the hand. We ought to issue pamphlets of instructions to them. We ought to have conferences of those elected and have them get suggestions from each other, and be able to act with more uniformity.

In the last annual report of the State Secretary I find these sentences: "Many Locals conducted a political campaign instead of an educational one; they were in quest of office, and in order to obtain office they administered the 'soft pedal.'" I protested against this paragraph when it was read in convention. I protest against it now and declare it to be a slander.

The Locals of Ohio need instruction, and the State Office might busy itself in that direction. But the membership throughout the state consists almost entirely of honest, plodding workers. Instead of playing political tricks to get offices, they are almost devoid of any knowledge of politics. Only a few of them have ever been in politics of the old school.

Our campaigns must be both educational and political. We must be serious about demanding the government, and prepare ourselves for the battle on the political arena, or get out of the fight.

FREDERICK GUY STRICKLAND.

STARVING CHILDREN FAINT AT OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY GROUNDS

The last great event of the great fake centennial was pulled off at the Ohio State University grounds where hundreds of school children participated in the "folk lore" dances and pageants.

Many of those in the stands where people remained in cheerful endurance, little thinking that the heat had reached an alarming height and that their health was in jeopardy. Others were among the children who were in the field in the blading heat.

Kindergarten children in white, some of them only a few years old, were among the others. Little boys, dressed as naked Indians with only a clout and brown paint for protection, suffered terribly.

"Mister, my head hurts something awful," said one little Indian to a man inside the field.

"Come over in the shade, my boy," said the man, and directed the child, but the little lad fell over in a faint before he reached the protection of the bleacher sides.

Had No Breakfasts.

"Many of the youngsters who participated in the pageant left home without their breakfast in order that they might be at the recreation headquarters to be decorated and dressed for the pageant. A dozen or more of these said to a Dispatch man when the pageant was about half over that they were terribly hungry. Faintness due to this combined with faintness ascribed to the heat, rendered many of them unconscious. That they were made thirsty in the extreme was evident from the eagerness with which they fought for places at the water buckets which thoughtful men of the recreation department and the centennial commission provided."

The fact is that a careful investigation shows that hundreds of these children, drafted to amuse the public, came from homes where a breakfast is the exception and not the rule. The unusual exertion of last Saturday exhausted the vitality of scores of these "kids" and they fainted. Ordinarily they manage to get through somehow, but they are half starved most of the time.

VERY SAD INDEED

The committee of forty which had in charge the big $10 a plate dinner which was given President Taft upon the eve of his visit to Columbus and the centennial last Thursday, stand to have to contribute $1000 to make up the deficit of the banquet. Inasmuch as only 114 turned out to the big affair, and the expenses were twice the amount collected from these, the committee which prepared the feast of reason and flow of song will have to make up the difference. —Daily Paper.

THE ARREST OF WOOD.

William H. Wood, of the American Woolen Company, has been arrested charged with placing dynamite during the Lawrence strike. While under ordinary circumstances there is little doubt that he might do it if he saw anything to be gained from it, there is considerable doubt as to whether this arrest will have any effect, as to whether it means anything to the workers.

"Wood did not seem in the least disconcerted," reads the news report. And there is little reason why he should. All he had to do was furnish bail in the sum of $5,000, and that was merely small change to him. Of course, for a capitalist the charge against him was of slight importance, merely planting explosives either with the intent to kill or the intent to incriminate some of the strikers and cause them to be sent to jail. Over a half a year has passed since the crime was committed, and during that time Wood has been free. Right after his connection with it was alleged and he was arrested he again went free. It cost him scarcely any trouble, and the sum in which he is held is trivial.

But this case may and probably will have a direct bearing on the trial of Ettor and Giovannitti. These two men are held without bail and on a charge of murder, although it is evident that neither of them was on the scene when the actual killing took place. Massachusetts justice, however, is peculiar. The lawyers who run the legal machinery like to prove that they are impartial, and to balance the seizure and holding of the strike leaders they may well have staged the "arrest" of the head of the American Woolen Company. It will be up to them to demonstrate their "impartiality" when trial time comes around, and of course they can then point to this arrest.

That the whole affair was a deliberate fake, arranged for the purpose of throwing people off the right track, that it was staged, for no other purpose than trying to show that the law of the old Bay State takes cognizance neither of rich nor poor, is not asserted.

That this is a rank, dirty, cowardly, misleading piece of work on the part of that crawling creature, District Attorney Pelletier, may not be true.

It will, however, be noticed that Wood is not in jail.

Ettor and Giovannitti are in jail.

The charge of planting or distributing dynamite is one of the most heinous that could be brought against men. While the explosive is primarily intended to destroy property, when used in industrial warfare, it nevertheless is a fact that it is enormously destructive to life. So if there was the slightest suspicion that Wood was engaged in planting it, there is no reason why he should not have been held without bail. To him $5,0000 is less than 5 cents is either to Ettor or Giovannitti. Yet that he was held in bail at all would indicate that he was implicated. Taking this into consideration and looking at what was done in the other case, we cannot but conclude that Wood was accorded special treatment by the courts of Massachusetts.

Yet why was he arrested at all? As a large, sardonic bluff. That seems to be the only plausible reason. He was arrested to influence the coming trial.

When the farmers of Essex County assemble to hear the case against the strike leaders, the prosecuting attorney will be able to declare dramatically, "Gentlemen, this is not a case of persecution. The state has not been unfair to these men. Look at the fact that the head, the front, the leader of the Woolen Trust was arrested." And the farmers will look, and they will conclude that the strike leaders were accorded the same measure of justice given the Woolen Trust.

But the charge against Wood, if it means anything at all—and it probably is not intended to mean anything—must indicate that he has been guilty of a monstrous offense. His bail is fixed at $5,000 and he is subjected to no inconvenience whatever. It is a ridiculous condition of affairs, but, as before mentioned, its full significance will come out only when the imprisoned men come to trial.—New York Call.

RUTHENBURG FAILS TO SHOW UP

C. E. Ruthenberg, whom this paper has called upon time and again to retract his malicious lies in reference to this paper, and so far without effect, is out with a statement in the "Cleveland Socialist" frantically appealing to the membership to vote no on the referendum to recall the S. E. C. This is but natural. The "Blacks" are determined to keep a strangle-hold upon the Socialist party by all means and the new S. E. C. is, if anything "Blacker" than the one just gone out of existence. The only "political actionists" elected are Strickland and Evans, really the only ones on the ticket we had a chance to vote for, as practically all the other nominees were "direct actionists."

It is true that they have to a certain extent put on the "soft pedal" in their speeches, but a jeopard cannot change his spots, and they are still snarling in secret conclave and correspondence, only awaiting their opportunity to carry out more of their disrupting tactics.

To the Socialists of Ohio we have this to say:

IF YOU LOVE YOUR PARTY AND THE CAUSE IN WHICH YOU HAVE ENLISTED, THEN ARISE, HEED THE CALL TO DUTY. THE CLARION CALL OF DEVOTION TO OUR PRINCIPLES HAS SOUNDED. Now is the time to take a stand for the principles for which we have fought for many years. We have builded up a movement in this state of which we can be justly proud, now let us guard it with a jealous eye. Let us serve notice on this band of Bakunin Blank disrupters that we do not intend to stand for anarchy or anarchistic tactics in our movement. ARISE AS ONE MAN, AND VOTE YES ON REFERENDUM E, TO RECALL THE S. E. C.

This at once gave him a national status.

He had only been known hitherto as a miner leader and although as such he had taken part in forming the Miners Federation of Great Britain and was an initiator of the International Miners' Conference which is now so successful, he had taken little if any active part in politics. The Mid Lanark election, however, marked him off from the trades union leaders of that day and in order that he might be free to devote himself exclusively to the task of building up a working class Socialist party he resigned his official position in the trades union movement and came out as a free lance in politics.

The results are to be seen today not only in the Independent Labor Party but also in the Labor Party which has forty-two members in Parliament, and an affiliated trade union membership of 1,500,000, of which the I. P. L. forms the Socialist wing.

Keir Hardie will be in Columbus on September 13, during the heat of the campaign and we will all get the chance of shaking hands with poor ignorant Keir Hardie—good Mr. Hardie, with his rank pipe and his untidy clothes and bid him welcome.

In the near future we will have the retail grocery business controlled by the trust or chain stores. They undersell until they drive the independent stores out of business, then they have a monopoly and can charge what they please. England has gone through that experience and today the only thing that stands between the consumer and exorbitant prices is the Co-operative Society with its thousands of stores and its membership who are loyal to their own class and to themselves.

The Franklin Co-operative Company, was incorporated on this plan and has opened its first store, at 529 North 20th Street, and asks the patronage and support of all consumers, who believe in lower prices and in a square deal.

KARB VS. CARTER IS LATEST COMEDY

The hearing of the charges against Chief of Police Carter ended suddenly last Monday when Mayor Karb and his man Friday (Solicitor Bolin) bolted from the Civil Service Commission session, defied that body's authority and appealed to the Common Pleas Court for an injunction to protect Tom O'Neil in the possession of the cheftainship. The Mayor served Mr. Carter with a notice "removing" him from office. Mayor Karb is angry, and he has cause to be. By sworn evidence before the Civil Service Commission the Mayor has been shown to be a "rounder" of the sportiest kind. The night of August 10th and the morning of Sunday, August 11, he certainly "painted the town red" from the Kaiserhof to the Union Station. It was a pitiful spectacle to see the chief executive of a great city quibble, deny, retract and contradict himself in his own evidence. His habits are now a matter of legal record as they have long been a matter of common knowledge among a large class of citizens. He is no worse now than when he was elected last November through the combined efforts of that unholy trinity—the scab Chamber of Commerce, the Liquor League and the Catholic priests. These three also combined to fight the new state constitution and are still united in opposing Socialism. A Mayor who will so conduct himself as to be slapped in the face by a bartender is certainly a credit (?) to any municipality.

The bald fact is that since Karb became Mayor he has demoralized the police force by his personal conduct to the extent that a hundred stringent orders could not rectify. The police seeing the head of the city government in a maudlin condition at all hours of the night have concluded that the laws were not to be enforced. They naturally would do so. It is a pitiful state of affairs, but GEORGE KARB IS A DEMOCRAT and was elected on the Democratic ticket. The "good" people selected him. They ought not kick. The Socialists did not do it.

In the meantime Tom O'Neil, Karb's stool pigeon, eats and sleeps in the chief's office at the city prison with a dozen policemen to guard him. These men have been taken from other duties to serve Karb's private ends, but the city pays them. Judge Dillon will consider an injunction plea next Monday. If it favors Carter there may be civil war at the city bastile. The common policemen are between the devil and the deep blue sea.

ME AND MY LAWS

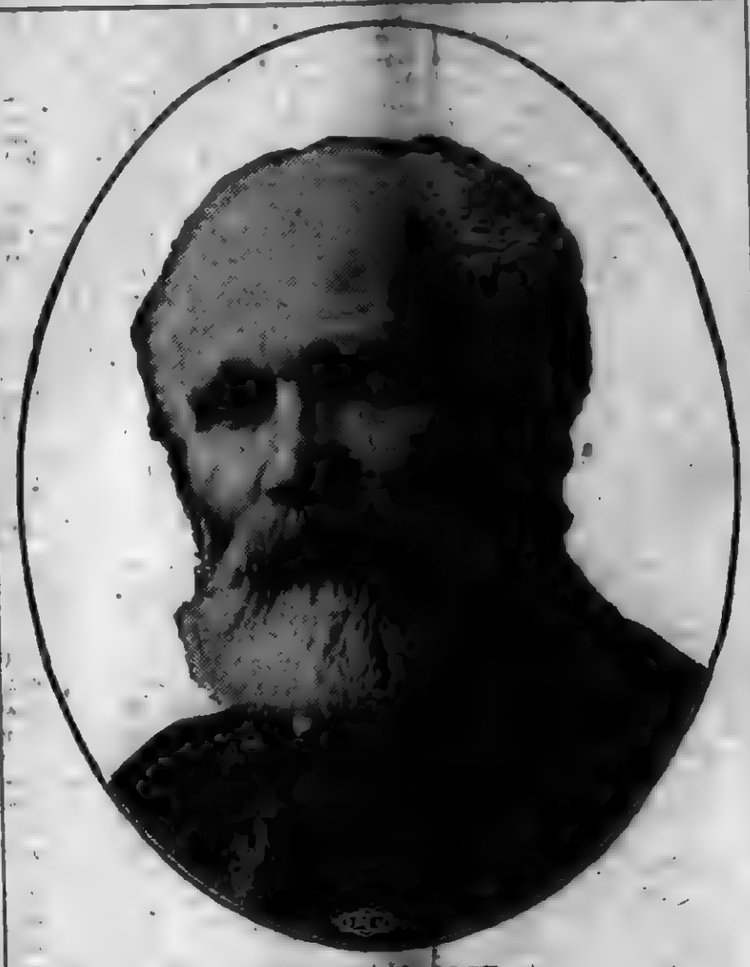
The mayor of this thriving town,
With Gott and politicians right aroundt,
All things in crime and sporting life
Control with its paltry, petty strife
Despite the laws.

While some folks pray for help on high,
My shameless whores with stinging cheer
Rouse stein songs glee to drown weak sighs,
And mock the laws.

Der's Carter, swaggers all aroundt,
He's dusgespielt.
To much methinks he don't amoundt,
Me and my laws.

My wife's a comely, loving lass,
Buf when I'm full of lager beer,
Und stein songs, cheer all in a mass,
Choose me a black with chalky leer,
For I'm the law.

What matters it if there are Kaiserhof bouts, sprees and gewgaws!
Who cares for crap games in Smoky Hobb's jaws!
Paltry murders at Lucky Halls, come out of society's maw,
It's only me that is concerned, for it's me that's the law.



O puff! for frivolous, civil service board yap!
You policemen who want jobs better duck safe from that,
With a battery of lawyers and an abundance of saws
We have Chief O'Neil on the job, and the job is the law.

We're safe in our hole of graft and shame,
With election past, a year ago whilom game,
Whims, folly and debauches are Slumville's sport,
But they all pay full tribute in Mayor Karb's court.

FARMERS' EDITION "COLUMBUS SOCIALIST"

September 28th will be an edition devoted to the interests of the American farmer. It will be a hummer. Every Socialist in Ohio should order a bundle for distribution amongst the farmers in their locality.

Bundle rate, $1.00 per hundred, $10.00 per thousand.

Send in all the names and addresses of farmers you can, enclosing remittance at the rate of 1c each, and we will mail them the paper direct from his office.

If you do not know any farmers and want to help carry the message to them send us remittance, stating, "Use this to send No. 93 to the farmers," and we will forward one paper for each 1c received.

Let's make this edition run up to at least 35,000, as the farmers are looking up to the real issue in this campaign, and a broadside such as we are preparing will tumble them over into the Socialist column.

There is a most positive kick being made against the use of the name "Bull Moose" by the Progressive party. The name used is one which really belongs to a reputable fraternal order, the Loyal Order of Moose. Its appropriation by a gang of political pirates is an outrage.

PROGRESSIVE FAKIRS HAVE FAKE PROGRAM

The so-called Progressive party held its state convention in Columbus last week and like its founder, the great and only Bull Moose, did some very inconsistent things. Hiram Johnson, of California, candidate for vice president, made a long speech in which he prated much about the rights of labor and the conservation of humanity. The convention adopted a platform, of which the following are a few of the more prominent planks:

"Twentieth-century problems must be solved by a twentieth-century party. The old parties have failed to keep step with the age and are no longer efficient instruments for safeguarding the common good, promoting the general welfare and securing industrial liberty and social justice. Through them the popular will can no longer find adequate expression. The Progressive party, free from alliances with big business and big bosses, with new men and new methods, invites all patriotic citizens to unite in an effort to restore the government to the people."

Here are some of the planks:

Endorses the Progressive national platform.

Denounces political bosses and political machines.

Demands strict law enforcement.

Pledges prompt removal from office of any state or local official guilty of any misconduct or failure to enforce the law.

Pledges enactment of laws on following subjects:

Prohibition of child labor.

Minimum wage for working women.

Prohibition of night work for women.

Eight-hour work days for women and young persons.

One day's rest in seven for all wage earners.

Publicity as to wages, hours, and conditions of labor.

Reports on industrial accidents and diseases.

Then amid great enthusiasm the same delegates who cheered the radical (?) platform proceeded to nominate Arthur L. Gaford, of Elyria, the millionaire automobile magnate, for governor. This fellow Garford has been one of the worst exploiters of the labor of women and children that ever disgraced the state of Ohio. In fact the bulk of his fortune was made off the toil of women and girls. He has always been a foe of organized labor. The Progressives do not, however, have to be consistent. Teddy, the Tough, is under no such obligations and why should his party be. The Ohio party continued its noble work by placing Walter F. Brown at the head of its State Executive Committee. This Brown is probably the prince of crooked political gangsters in this state. It's neck and neck between Brown and Harry Daugherty, chairman of the regular Republican Committee. It will be interesting to see this fall, how many working men will be fooled by the Bull Moose fakers.

RED FLAG CAN FLY, SAYS EASTERN JUDGE

Jersey City, N. J., Sept. 10.—Socialists may fly the red flag without police interference in New Jersey, according to a decision by Supreme Court Justice Francis J. Swayze in the case of two men of North Bergen, N. J.

"This is a free country," said Judge Swayze. "The Socialist Party is a legally authorized party in the State of New Jersey. The red flag is the emblem of that party. Any man of that political faith has a perfect right to display the flag if he so desires."

"SYNDICALISM A FAILURE IN FRANCE.

The syndicalist idea, including "sabbotage" and other "direct action" methods, was born in France, and there the strongest advocate of the "general strike" and other syndicalist program was a paper named "La Guerre Social," which name, translated, is "The Social War." After almost ruining the splendid labor movement the working class of France had built up through years of suffering and sacrifice, this paper has at last realized where its teachings were leading, and with courage that speaks for the sincerity of purpose that inspired the editor, even when he was mistaken, he has called a halt on the propaganda of destruction, in the language that follows:

"All of us have used and abused the critical spirit which is a terrible dissolvent of revolutionary faith. It began with the systematic crabbing of the Radical party in politics and all its works. Then we went on to crab the Socialist Party likewise, and by a pleasant process of generalization, called it a hotbed of traitors and humbugs on the make. We did our best to wreck the faith of the working classes in the parliamentary system.

"Unfortunately, we have overshot the mark. We succeeded only too well. We meant to react against the extremes of parliamentary Socialism, and we drove many of our best men to the other extreme, a still more fatal one, viz., anti-parliamentarism, so today the great dangers for the Socialist Party are the ravages caused by abstaining from voting and by the anarchistic anti-parliamentarism in the general labor federation.

"In conclusion, after having preached chiefly revolt, we shall now preach, until circumstances alter, chiefly organization and union."

Surely it is not necessary that we should go through the same experiences and reap results that finally led to this very manly, but rather belated, confession, add resolution to return to safer ways.

The Syndicalists on this side of the water have shown the same spirit of intolerance with the methods of the older organizations, which, while slow, are steadily aiming to advance the interests of those who labor, by organization, even though it be craft organization at first, that must of necessity lead to organization of all who work in any given industry and to further affiliations with other dependent industries, and by political activity, wherever the workers have wakened to the necessity of the same.

If syndicalism could only lead to failure and destruction in France, where the workers are solidified by race homogenity and the class spirit that is sure to follow when generations have followed the one calling as far back as tradition can recall, how much surer is its failure in this land of many nationalities, with a working class that has evolved as such, only in the last two or three generations?—United Mine Workers' Journal.

To admit the leadership is an admission of incompetency. Socialism has no leader nor can a comrade be a leader and remain a Socialist.

FIREMEN GET TEN PER CENT. INCREASE IN SALARY

The Chief Gets 25 Per Cent. Raise Over Protest of Socialists.

The long anticipated raise for Columbus firemen came Monday, when 17 members of the City Council voted a 10 per cent. increase for regular and sub firemen, assistant and battalion chiefs, and a 25 per cent. increase for Fire Chief Lauer. Councilman Sherman cast the one nay vote.

Socialist Councilman Warren sought to amend the ordinance by providing that sub firemen should have one day in five off with pay and that Chief Lauer should only have the regular 10 per cent. increase. Of course there was no chance for this to pass, as it was proposed by a Socialist

An ordinance which seeks to restrain any company or person selling gas in Columbus from cutting off the supply when the consumer has a deposit equal to the unpaid bill was introduced by Councilman Sherman. He said the ordinance had been prepared by a man who owed a gas bill of 30 cents and had $12 deposited with the gas company, which unceremoniously cut off his supply of gas while his wife was ill and unable to attend to the bill.

A petition containing names of 185 men, asking council to appropriate money to pay the defense expensd of "discharged" Chief of Police Carter was filed without comment. It was circulated by David C. Warner, evangelist cop, fired by Mayor Karb.

WILLIAM MAILLY, WELL KNOWN SOCIALIST DIES

Was Former National Secretary and Editor Toledo Socialist.

William Mailly, formerly National Secretary of the Socialist party, and for several months past associate editor of the Metropolitan Magazine, died at his home, 261 West 87th Street, in New York, Thursday of last week.

His death was caused by diabetes, for which he had been under medical care for two years, and from which he had actually been suffering for a much longer time.

He had failed very much during the summer, but continued his work till Tuesday morning. At 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, after one of the violent attacks of pain to which he had been subject, he fell into a state of unconsciousness from which he emerged only for a few minutes before his death.

Mailly is survived by his widow, Mrs. Bertha Howell Mailly.

Comrade Mailly, several years ago was editor of The Socialist, published at Toledo, Ohio. He was an energettic and effective fighter for Socialism. His death is a real loss to the cause.

SAYS CHARLES P. TAFT SHARES MADERO LOOT.

Insurgent Agent Declares That Wall Street Is Responsible for Troubles in Mexico.

Washington, Sept. 10.—Charging that a Wall Street conspiracy is responsible for the troubles in Mexico, Juan Pedro Didapp, representative here of the Mexican revolutionists, issued a statement today bitterly attacking the State Department.

"Speyer, Morgan and the Harriman interests control the Mexican railways," said Didapp; "Henry Clay Pierce and the Standard Oil Company possess a monopoly of Mexican oil lands; big business interests in Mexico of John Hays Hammond and Charles P. Taft, the President's brother, these are the powers which are forcing the State Department to openly assist Madero's grafting despotism.

"The State Department is merely the creature of Wall Street conspirators and financial pirates in Mexico.

"The very fact that the United States threatens to interfere in Mexico is proof that a Madero cannot control the situation. This is ample reason why belligerent rights should be granted to the revolutionists."

More Troops to Border.

Washington, Sept. 10.—The tensity of the situation along the Mexican border was reflected here yesterday by continuation of preparations for any emergency.

With border patrols strengthened by additional cavalry and other troops at posts throughout the West ready to move at an hour's notice to supplement forces on the Arizona and New Mexico frontiers, War Department officials felt they had the situation well in hand for the present.

They were apprehensive of the next move of the rebel general, Salazar, encamped within sight of the United States troops and protesting he meant no harm, but believed to be planning another raid into American territory.

In anticipation of a raid, Major Rice, with three troops of cavalry, is encamped near the rebel leader.

Since the Steel Trust is backing the Bull Moose party and the Rockefeller interests are being Taft's campaign with the small business interests shouting and supporting Wilson, there is little cause for congratulations among the working class, for no matter which of the three parties win, the workers will be exploited as mercilessly as ever.

WHY WE DO NOT LIKE THE BULL MOOSE

Socialists are frequently questioned these days about their attitude toward the Bull Moose party. While the party itself, which is Theodore Roosevelt, proclaims that its purpose is to head off Socialism, there are many people who tell the Socialists that they ought to help the new "third party" because "it advocates many things the Socialist want." That kind of talk is an old story to the Socialists. Their party is here today and is a power that frightens all the big business interests of the country, because it has had the intelligence and the backbone not to be caught by the scores of similar pleas that have been made to it in the past by other parties and half-way radicals. Morris Hillquit of New York is one of the clearest thinkers and most generally recognized authorities on the tactics and principles of the Socialist party in America. His analysis of the Bull Moose platform is given below.

"COMRADE" BULL MOOSE
By Morris Hillquit.

"The Bull Moose has stolen the Socialist platform!"

Such was the general public verdict after the publication of the Declaration of "Principles" of the newly formed Progressive party.

On the surface the charge seems to be well founded. The Bull Moose platform bristles with expressions and phrases which for many decades have been regarded as the exclusive possession of Socialists. It declares it to be the duty of the people "to establish and maintain equal opportunity and industrial justice," and proclaims the revolutionary doctrine that "this country belongs to the people who inhabit it," and that "its RESOURCES, ITS BUSINESS, its institutions and its laws should be utilized, maintained or altered in whatever manner will best promote the general interest."

It denounces the old political parties as "tools of corrupt interests" and promises "to build a new and nobler commonwealth."

The Declaration of Principles is furthermore interspersed with headlines which seem to have been bodily lifted from the composing room of the Chicago World. Among these we encounter such old friends as "The Rule of the People," "Social and Industrial Justice," "Equal Suffrage" and many more hoary-headed gents of the same family. To the superficial observer the illusion is complete. The Bull Moose is an animal of the Socialist species, and is either to be condemned by us as a thievish rival or to be welcomed as a comrade, or at least as a step-comrade.

But a careful comparison of the Progressive Declaration of Principles with the platform of the Socialist party will soon dispel the illusion. There is very little in common between the two documents, and still less in the social philosophy and conceptions underlying them.

A platform of a political party is a declaration of its social and political faith, a statement of the main objects of the party and a proposal of concrete measures by which such objects are to be achieved. The Socialist platform is clear and unambiguous on all these points. It declares that most of the social and industrial evils of our time are the product of the present system, which allows the sources and instruments of our national food and wealth supply to be owned by private individuals and our industries to be conducted for private gain instead of for social use; that this system is supported for the benefit of the owner class; that our government, laws and institutions are primarily agencies for the maintenance of that system, and that the old parties are the political tools by which this system is continued from election to election. The Socialist platform, therefore, demands that the private ownership in the instruments of wealth production be abolished and be supplanted by a social and political system under which the industries will be owned collectively by the people and conducted for the common good, so that every worker will receive the full social value of the wealth he creates. The Socialists recognize that such a change will enure directly to the benefit of the workers, and that the workers alone have the power to bring it about. The Socialist party, therefore, frankly proclaims itself a workingman's party, and its appeal is addressed primarily to the workers.

The Socialists, however, realize that the social transformation advocated by them cannot be realized by one sudden act or enactment, but that it must be preceded and prepared by a series of economic and political reforms tending in the direction of their ultimate social ideal. The Socialist platform, therefore, outlines a number of such measures capable of immediate realization, which measures constitute its "working program." The main planks of the Socialist working program are divided into three groups classified under the headings of "Collective Ownership," "Industrial Demands," and "Political Demands."

Under the first head the Socialist platform demands the immediate acquisition of a public or quasi-public nature, such as railroads, telegraph lines, oil wells, water works, gas works, etc., with the express proviso that such industries be operated by the government under democratic management and for the benefit of the workers and consumers—not for profits.

Under the head of "Industrial Demands" the Socialist platform advocates such measures as are calculated to substantially improve the material and intellectual standards of the workers and to remove some of the uncertainties of their existence.

The political demands of the Socialist platform are such as are calculated to place the government of the country more fully and directly in the hands of the people.

With this summary of the Socialist platform in mind, let us now turn again to the "Declaration of Principles" of the Progressive party and analyze its substance, discarding the verbal ornamentations and embellishments.

The new party stands for the continuance of the system of capitalist domination, private industry, wage work and exploitation of labor in the same way as the much abused old parties, the "tools of corrupt interests."

"We do not fear commercial power," exclaims the intrepid Bull Moose, "but we insist that it be exercised openly," and again, "under a system of constructive regulation, legitimate business, freed from confusion, uncertainty and fruitless litigation, will develop normally in response to the energy and enterprise of the American BUSINESS MAN."

The "Progressive party," like the "reactionary parties," regards the national industries—"business"—as the property of the enterprising American "business men," i. e., capitalists. It does not realize or does not care to realize, that business is a social and national function. It has no conception of the modern struggle of the workers to socialize industries. It does not see or understand the class struggle. Its appeal is directed to all classes of "the people," the workers, the farmers and the capitalists, without reference to the harmony or conflict of their interests, without care for the consistency of the document as a whole.

"But," says the Bull Moose radical, "if the general social conceptions of the two parties differ, do they not come quite close to each other in their 'working programs?'" Answer: They do not.

We described above the main groups of Socialist political planks or "immediate demands." Let us now consider the corresponding planks of the "Progressive" platform.

1. COLLECTIVE OWNERSHIP OF UTILITIES. This is entirely forgotten by the Bull Moosers.

2. INDUSTRIAL DEMANDS. Here is where the Bull Moose shows real humor. Almost every plank of the Socialist platform is repeated, but is at the same time mutilated and rendered quite meaningless.

The Socialists demands the prohibition of work of all children under the age of 16 years. The "Progressive" platform declares simply in favor of "prohibition of child labor," leaving it to the discriminating reader to judge the minimum age of the working child should be, and permitting it to be fixed at say twelve years of age, as some Southern state actually do.

The Socialist platform demands a uniform eight-hour day for workers. The "Progressive" document does almost the same, except that it limits the application of the principle to "continuous twenty-four hour industries." Ordinary industries may continue to operate a ten, twelve or fourteen-hour work day.

Minimum wage standards are called for by both platforms, but the Socialists demand it for all workers, while the Bull Moosers are chivalrously contented with its application to the work of women.

As to the most important principle of all modern social and labor legislation, the system of government insurance of workers against sickness, invalidity, old age, accidents and unemployment, the difference between the two parties is merely this: The Socialists demand it, the Bull Moosers politely insist.

3. POLITICAL DEMANDS. But we are told that the main strength of the "Progressives" lies in the political reforms advocated by them. Let us examine these:

The Bull Moose has on many recent occasions frightened the jungle with its deafening roars against the usurpation of power by the courts. Here is how that roar reads in the platform:

"When an act, passed under the police power of the state, is held unconstitutional under the state constitution by the courts, the people, after an interval for deliberation, shall have an opportunity to vote on the question whether they desire the act to become law, notwithstanding such decision."

Read it again gentle reader, and note the exceptions, modifications, restrictions and limitations. The "recall of judicial decisions" is to apply only to acts passed by a state legislature, annulled by a state court, under some provisions of the state constitution, and sought to be upheld on right of the United States courts to annual acts of Congress or state laws; it does not contain the power of the state courts to annul laws under the pretext that they conflict with provisions of the federal constitution, or on any other ground which does not involve the determination of the police powers of the state.

It must be admitted that there is a rather far cry between this new nebular hypothesis and the unqualified Socialist demand for the abrogation of the usurped powers of the courts to nullify laws on the ground of alleged unconstitutionality.

And then there are the initiative, the referendum and the recall.

The Socialist platform demands "the adoption of the initiative, referendum and recall and of proportional representation, NATIONALLY AS WELL AS LOCALLY."

The corresponding plank in the "Progressive" platform reads: "We urge on the states the policy of the short ballot with responsiblity to the people, secured by the initiative, referendum and recall."

Here again is the crafty Bull Moose. The words are there, as big as life, but in a connection that destroys their validity and meaning. The plank has no application to acts of Congress or to federal officials, elected or appointed. It is a mere recommendation to the state, and even within that limited scope it is coupled with the undemocratic "short ballot," i. e., the system of decreasing the number of elected officials, increasing their powers and lengthening their terms of office.

Such is the general character of the "Progressive" platform. The only fundamental plank which it actually lifted from the platform of the Socialist party is the demand for "equal suffrage to men and women" alike, and that only for political advantages. The other "radical" planks of the "Declaration" are loud in sound, emphatic in diction, but trivial in meaning. The Bull Moose platform is a rather skillful counterfeit of the outward garb of the Socialist program, but it lacks its soul and substance.

The famous German humorist, Frits Reuter, tells this irreverent but not irrelevant story. When God determined to make man in his own image and created the human form and blew the breath of life and intelligence into his nostrils, he turned proudly to the German author and asked him: "Fritz, can you do that?" "Indeed I can, my Lord," said Fritz, and proceeded to imitate the Creator. He moulded a being into the likeness of man, closely imitating all parts and forms, then he blew his breath into the nostrils of his product, and lo and behold! the creature arose and moved and climbed up the nearest tree and emitted inarticulate sounds and was—a grinning, stupid ape.

Something similar happened to the great Progressive party. It imitated the Socialist tone, phraseology and form in its platform, but it was powerless to breath into it the breath of the class struggle and social evolution—it created not a verile, intelligent and militant being, but an impotent ape.

INDIANA STATE NEWS.

James O'Neal, State Secretary, 313½ Ohio Street, Terre Haute, Ind.

The first charter to be granted in September goes to Knox, in Starke County, and the Local starts with nine members. This should stir up the neighboring town of North Judson, which has a good many Socialists, but who are not working at it for the present.

In the last week of August the Socialists at Milton, in Wayne County, reorganized the Local they had a few years ago, but the number of members is not stated. This Local is the result of the general campaign in the county and a number of speakers sent by the State Office.

Ross D. Brown made the personal acquaintance of police officials at Louisville, Ky., who arrested him for referring to the cowardly acts of policemen in shooting strikers. It required the earnest efforts of Socialists to prevent the crowd from interfering with the arrest. Brown was released in less than two hours without any trial. The Comrades there report he is one of the best speakers they ever had.

The Socialists of Knox County are circulating subscription and contribution blanks to start a paper entitled "The Indiana World." The paper will be made the organ of the Party in Southern Indiana, and all Comrades who are interested should write to H. J. Valentine or C. H. Foster, both of Bicknell, for any information or send subscriptions or contributions.

The Socialists of Bloomfield are arranging to have Comrade Clawson, of Indianapolis, speak at a big farmers' picnic there on the 15th. Other parties will also be represented by speakers, and two thousand are expected to attend.

The Local at Vevay, in Switzerland County, reports continued interest in the movement and the Comrades expect five hundred votes in the county. This will be remarkable, as it is an isolated agricultural county.

The Socialists of Lake County are carrying on a big campaign and are sending speakers to the small town and holding very good meetings.

Take a hand in the class struggle, or you will put your feet into it.

COMPLETE ATLAS OF THE WORLD

The L. L. Postea & Co's Complete Atlas of the World contains maps of the United States, its 48 States, its Territories, its Insular Possessions together with Canadian Provinces, and other divisions of the Dominion, besides every other country of the world.

This Atlas has many points of superiority over similar publications on the market to-day. Its plates are new, having been made by the best map engravers in the country, and it is attractive in appearance and compact in form—making it valuable in the home, the library, schools, banks and offices.

The maps are printed in five (5) and six (6) colors, which show special features by separate printing. Railroads are shown in red: mountains, in brown: water in blue, and political divisions are accurately defined, which enables one to readily locate places of interest.

The latest geographical changes, such as every county in the United States to date, political changes in Canadian Provinces, French and German Boundaries in Africa, as well as the late changes in India and China are shown on these maps.

This Atlas is Octavo, has 193 pages of maps alphabetical Index of States and Countries, besides the States with their counties, and important cities and towns with their population, according to the 1910 United States Census, and the principal cities in the world.

It is bound in cloth, at $1.50 and in leather, at $2.00, and will be sent prepaid to and point in the United States on receipt of price. Every Socialist should have this book in their library. Send all orders, to

VICIOUS LEGAL DOCTRINE TO MURDER ETTOR AND GIOVANNITTI

Charge of Accessory Before the Fact Can be Used to Stamp Out All Labor Agitation if Conviction Can Be Secured Upon It—Motive of Essex County Authorities In Persecution of Strike Leaders, Is Undoubtedly To Establish A Precedent With Which to Crush All Future Attempts of Labor To Organize.

MILL-OWNERS EXPOSED AS DYNAMITERS.

Lawrence, Mass.—That the intention of the prosecuting authorities in Essex County, Massachusetts, is to legally murder Joseph J. Ettor and Arturo M. Giovannitti, the imprisoned leaders of the Lawrence strike, cannot be doubted by anyone who has given any thought whatever to the charge against them, and the conditions under which they have been arrested and held in jail.

There probably has not been a case in the history of American jurisprudence, where the prosecuting authorities lined up more squarely against the workers and on the side of the owning class. No pretense of consideration for the claims of the defense have been made, and the whole procedure of Judge Mahoney's court and Prosecuting Attorney Attwill has been such as to leave no room for doubt that there is determined conspiracy between the authorities and the capitalist mill interests to "make an example" of these men, and establish a precedent, with which to suppress future outbreaks of labor.

The following abstract from the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts will give an idea of the vicious nature of the legal doctrine of "accessofy before the fact." It will be been that in the hands of any unscrupulous legal hireling of the owning class, this law may be used to murder or imprison any and all who at any time speak or write anything that might arouse the ire of the capitalists. It may even be applied to imprison or murder those whose only offense against the masters may be to hold membership in any organization wwhich opposes the interests of the owning class.

Chapter 207 of the Revised Laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts is as follows:

"Section 1. Murder committed with deliberately premeditated malice aforethought, or with extreme atrocity or cruelty, or in the commission or attempted commission of a crime punishable with death or imprisonment for life, is murder in the first degree.

Murder which does not appear to be in the first degree is murder in the second degree.

Petit treason shall be prosecuted and punished as murder. The degree of murder shall be found by the jury.

Section 2. Whoever is guilty of murder in the first degree shall suffer the punishment of death, and whoever is guilty of murder in the second degree shall be punished by imprisonment for life in the state prison.

Revised Laws, Chapter 215.

Section 1. A crime, which is punishable by death or imprisonment in the state prison, is a felony. All other crimes are misdemeanors.

Section 3. Whoever aids in the commision of a felony, or is accessory thereto before the fact by counselling, hiring or otherwise procuring such felony to be committed, shall be punished in the manner provided for the punishment of the principal felon.

Section 8. Whoever counsels, hires or otherwise procures a felony to be committed may be indicted and convicted as an accessory before the fact, either with the principal felon or after his conviction; or may be indicted and convicted of a substantive felony, whether the principal felon has or has not been convicted, or is or is not amenable to justice; and in the last mentioned case may be punished in the same manner as if convicted of being an accessory before the fact. An accessory to a felony before the fact may be indicted, tried and punished in the same county in which the principal felon might be indicted and tried, although the counselling, hiring or procuring the commission of such felony was committed within or without this commonwealth or on the high seas."

According to this doctrine there is no limit to the extent to which it may be stretched to persecute members of labor unions or advocates of any change in the present system of society.

This fact is very thoroughly understood by the master class, and all that they need to accomplish the complete suppression of all agitation for better conditions for the workers is a precedent to hold over the heads of the agitators. A conviction in the Ettor-Giovannitti case will furnish the much needed precedent, and if it can be established then no labor representative or Socialist, or representative of any plan of social amelioration which at all hurts the interests of the owning class can ever express his or her views, or even belong to an organization, the constitution, or principles, or platform of which contains an expression of such views without placing their lives and liberty in constant jeopardy.

To show how boldly the legal lickspittles of the New England mill barons are pursuing this plan to establish a precedent, the following extract from an article in Colliers' Weekly by a conservative writer will give a fair and impartial view of the atrocity perpetrated against the innocent representatives of the Lawrence strikers.

"The theory upon which Ettor and Giovannitti were held was this: The Industrial Workers of the World cleave to doctrines which incite to violence; the prisoners were representatives of the Industrial Workers of the World; they made speeches calculated to incite to riot; as a result of these speeches a riot occurred; in the process of the riot a woman was shot; the shooting occurred as a result of the riot; the riot was the result of inflammatory speeches; Ettor and Giovannitti caused the murder; they were accessories to the deed.

"No one contends, of course, that Ettor ever saw the woman; he did not know of her existence; he bore her no ill will. No one contends that Ettor or Giovannitti was there.

"No one has yet offered accessible evidence that the woman was not shot by some one from motives of personal revenge or jealousy, or that the shot was not fired by some one who wished to discredit the strikers or inflict a personal injury on one of them. In any of these cases Ettor of course, would be no accessory.

"But assume that the shot was fired by a rioting striker. No evidence has been shown to us that the rioting strikers had heard what Ettor had said.

"But assume that he had heard what Ettor had said and then go to the transcript of evidence again. What were the words which incited this assumed striker to fire this assumed shot with an assumed intent to kill? Ettor was followed by private detectives always. A reasonably complete report of his inflammatory remarks to the strikers was to be expected, and various witnesses presented what they had in the way of inflammatory remarks from Ettor's lips.

"As shown by the evidence, these were the remarks: The city authorities had been issuing permits to carry weapons to men in the employ of the mills. Ettor expressed his disapproval and said that the strikers would go and get permits, and that they would then keep the gun shops busy selling firearms. He, at another time, referred to conditions of labor in Lawrence; he likened conditions of workers to that which gave rise to the French Revolution. 'Lawrence will be an unhappy city,' he said on another occasion. Lawrence was already an unhappy city. Once, in addressing the strikers, he said: 'Don't throw any more stones or ice; perhaps it won't be necessary; perhaps they won't have any cars for us to throw them at.' The last part of the sentence Ettor explained himself on the witness stand by saying that he had hoped to tie up the street cars by a strike of their operatives. The first part of the sentence was not advice in favor of violence; it was advice against it. Finally a newspaper reporter, who had told him that troops were coming to Lawrence, testified that Ettor had 'said very calmly: "I don't care if they send the whole army; we are going to win this strike. We have the mills closed and we hope to win. We will win if there are scaffolds on every street. I cannot control hungry men."' It is to be remembered that this was not addressed to strikers but to a reporter, and it is also to be remembered that the last sentence, 'I cannot control hungry men,' suggests not that Ettor desired them to be violent but that he desired them to curb violence.

"If Ettor and his fellow leaders had wished violence there are few to believe that they could not have had it with a motion of one of their fingers. If he did not wish violence, his desire for a peaceful strike may be placed on no higher ground than that he wanted the strike to be successful and without strain upon his intelligence, knew that violence would mean losing public sympathy, that violence would mean defeat, swift and sure.

"The words which were attributed to Giovannitti as inciting to riot were these: 'Prowl about like wild beasts at night.' Evidence was introduced to show that Giovannitti said: 'Don't prowl about like wild beasts at night'; it was to the supposed interest of the strikers to be up early in the morning for picket duty.

"Ettor and Giovannitti were held for the grand jury and for trial by jury as accessories to a murder. They were refused bail by the courts. They have been in jail since January."

This is the evidence upon which the prosecution will base its case, and if the jury can be convinced that Ettor's and Giovannitti's remarks might have been interpreted by anyone as the prosecuting attorney will interpret them, then a conviction will result and two more labor leaders will pay for their service to their class with their lives.

Serious as that prospect is, the after effect of such a conviction is a thousand times more serious since the precedent established will then be used to intimidate all who dare to voice the sentiments of the oppressed wage-workers.

The prosecuting attorney has been dilligently studying the proceedings in the Haymorket case of 1887 when five men were murdered upon the same vicious principle of "accessory before the fact."

He will use the rulings made in that infamous case to influence the jury in Salem and the result of such methods will surely be the placing of a fresh stain upon the history of Salem, blacker than that put upon it a couple of centuries ago when so-called witches were burned at the stake there.

In the meantime the foul conspiracy of the Lawrence mill-owners to "get" Ettor in the earlier days of the strike by planting dynamite where it could be found and conected with Ettor and the strikers, has been exposed and one of the millionaire dynamiters has committed suicide rather than face the consequences of the exposure.

In view of this sensational exposure which proved that the mill capitalists got together and deliberately plotted to plant dynamite, there are few who are not firmly convinced that the persecution of Ettor and Giovannitti, the so-called riot which brought about their arrest, and the whole proceeding of the authorities in the matter, is the result of just such a deliberate, cold-blooded conspiracy of capitalist murderers and outlaws, preying upon their working class victims, as was the Wood, Pitman, Breen dynamite conspiracy.

TWO SWISS SOCIALISTS HISS THE KAISER; GO TO JAIL DURING MAJESTY'S VISIT

Zurich—For hissing the kaiser, who is here to see the Swiss army maneuvers, two Italian Socialists were arrested today. They will be held, charged with disorderly conduct, until after his majesty's departure, and then probably freed.

The authorities are much worried concerning the German ruler's safety. Swiss law does not permit the arbitrary imprisonment of mere political suspects. They must first commit some actual offense. It si known that several bitter foes of the monarchial institution are at large in Zurich, and his guardians are fearful of an attack on the visitor.

The first Swiss official to welcome the kaiser, however, when he crossed the frontier, was Herr Blocher, the Socialist leader, who was commissioned to greet his majesty in the name of President Forrer, the government and the Canton of Bale. Theoretically the Swiss Socialists are hostile to the visit, but practically they are glad the kaiser came, because they think his visit will promote Switzerland's trade with Germany.

The German ruler is making his headquarters at the Villa Wesedenck, where Richard Wagner lived when he was composing "Tristan and Isolde." Ordinarily the Swiss maneuvers attract little attention, but this year many notables are here on account of the kaiser's presence.

THE ART OF FEELING FINE.

Those who remember Sam Parks—may his memory be ever blushed at—will recollect the fact that when he was building up the organization of the structural iron workers he was an alert, quick moving and perhaps over-pugnacious man. He would fight—personally, not by proxy, and not by authorized deputy—if he was opposed. But some way or other the fellow had a great deal of ability in organization. He took the hardest, most dangerous, murderous trade in existence, and he took the toughest lot of men ever assembled, at the period of their lowest ebb, and he helped mightily in welding them into a union. He fought, and gouged, and was crooked—according to the findings of the court. But he did organize a union. Then he was caught by Jerome in "planting" and "pulling" strikes, he was caught with the goods and he was sent to Sing Sing.

He was finally pardoned. Perhaps some remember Sam Parks, the unmentionable, when he came back. He was a broken man, with fear in his eyes, a man with a terrible, ghastly, repulsive pallor on his face, a man with grit, and nothing to back it. Neither did he have anybody to back him. He came back a broken, deserted, hated man. He was caught with the goods, all right. He had sold strikes, and he had probably received for that work a couple of thousands of dollars. Today there is scarcely any one who will say a word in his favor, or who will remember the fact that the man was really a great organizer. We Socialists fought him, and if you came in contact with him he fought right off the reel, fought bitterly and with no holding back of the blow. If he felt like it he probably assaulted you or made such a threat of assault that you found it well to avoid him.

But he came out of prison deserted, shattered and poor. So he slunk away and he died and was safely buried.

And we remember him with contempt and shudder at his prison record.

Last week there returned to his office in Wall Street a man named Charles W. Morse. According to reports he went to his office with "shoulders squared, eyes clear and discerning, jaw set and the general aspect of a man in fine fighting trim."

He was pardoned, the same as Parks. He was, and still is, in the eyes of the law, a criminal. He was guilty of some of the worst financial manipulations a man ever indulged in. Owing to his work there were several suicides that are known, there was a tremendous amount of stealing, there was a great financial panic, there was widespread destitution, suffering was intensified, and it was pretty generally accepted as a fact that Morse was responsible—or else was the goat. Out of that panic there were people who made fortunes. J. Pierpont Morgan and associates got a few millions of small change. Morse was sent to Atlanta, a Federal prisoner, but to save him from dying in prison he was pardoned, the same as Parks was pardoned.

Well, here he is, safe and sound, hale and hearty, "and ready to plunge into business again with his accustomed fervor."

No one will grudge him his liberty or his restored health. But how does it happen that he comes back in such good trim when Federal doctors said he had only a few months of miserable life left? He went to Europe and was attended by the best physicians there. Everything that could be done for a man was done for him. Consequently, he is restored to us in fine health, and will take a lot more money away from us.

The condition of Parks was not desperate when he left Sing Sing. But he could not go to Europe. He could not spend thousands of dollars in having his health mended. He did not have a friend, or a victim left. He was a crushed and hopeless man, and like a sensible man he went ahead and died.

There is no moral to this. There is merely a contrast.

Everybody who is willing to accept the estimates of Sam Parks must accept the estimates of Charles W. Morse. Say what you like, they were dirty criminals, mean, skulking creatures, causes of disaster, brutes, robbers, crooks, convicts—for in the eyes of the law they were such. Yet both of them were pardoned. Here is Morse. Parks is in an unhonored grave.—New York Call.

"HEADING OFF SOCIALISM.

There is no occasion for Socialists to concern themselves about Mr. Roosevelt. He is doing good work for Socialism. It is true that he thinks that he is "heading off" Socialism, but that does not change the fact at all that the discussion which his Socialistic tendencies have aroused is calculated to strengthen the Socialist Party when the awakened workrers come to perceive the inadequacy of his proposals.

The Philadelphia North American, which is one of Mr. Roosevelt's principal newspaper supporters, congratulates itself that "the progressive platform proposes measures which will make capitalism more secure against attack and discontent by removing the injustices that have grown up in the system. Socialism would destroy capital by abolishing profits."

Mr. Roosevelt professes to share the illusion that the adoption of measures calculated to make the existing system more endurable will perpetuate it and that his fellow "Progressives" are the strongest bulwarks of capitalism, but he knows well enough that Socialism would not destroy capital.

The destruction of capital is the last thing that Socialists would countenance. For capital is absolutely essential to production. The capitalist, not capital, would be eliminated. Instead of private capital we should have public capital. In place of production for profit, we should have production for use. An abundance then would be a blessing instead of a curse to the workers—"over-production" would bring greater comfort and leisure to the producers instead of enforced idleness and the suffering which follows upon the heels of an industrial crisis.

What warrant is there, then, to hold to the view that reforms and palliatives and Socialistic tendencies will avert Socialism? Socialism, as with capitalism, is a development. The steel trust had its beginning in the forge of Tubal Cain. And so did Socialism! The forces that have brought capitalism into existence will bring Socialism into existence. They have a common ancestry. Without capitalism Socialism would be impossible. There could be communism, but not Socialism. Capitalism is the herald of Socialism and the architect of its own ruin—the sexton digging its own grave!

To say that Socialism can be "headed off" by "throwing a tub to the whale" is to ignore the experience of mankind. The forward movement of the race is never halted by concessions. When King John at Runnemede granted Magna Charta to the barons, autocracy was not made secure against democracy. One by one its powers and prerogatives have been stripped from the British crown and the barons who humbled the king, in turn have been humbled by the commons. The Russian Czar, in calling into being a national parliament, did not secure the institution of monarchy. Russia has gone as far toward democracy as it is prepared to go. The idealists who dreamed of a republic and a great democracy could not have created a republic of the material at hand—a republic in form under such auspices would be as much a despotism as government under the existing bureaucracy. The gulf between the sixteenth and twentieth centuries is not to be bridged by a proclamation.

Our Philadelphia contemporary, which is typical of the commercialized journal that gives support to "Progressive" policies that are Socialistic in tendency while seeking to justify itself with the dominant forces of capitalism by insisting that it is rendering to the existing system a valuable service, conceives that Socialism is to be born full grown. As Adam was created in the Garden of Eden, a voice is to say, "Let there be Socialism." Then we shall have "the revolution." In the days of giants such things may have happened, but ever since Noah landed from the ark the processes of change have been more gradual.

We are getting ready for Socialism today. We shall get it tomorrow. We shall get it with greater speed as the work of education shall proceed and the Socialist party shall be used as an instrument to bring it about. But in no event will it come over night. The watchman will not go through the streets calling: "Twelve o'clock Socialism is here All is well"

Roosevelt and his "Progressives" will "head off" Socialism about as effectively as Don Quixote restored knighthood to flower or Bryan emancipated the Democratic party from the domination of "the interests" by inducing the national convention to pass a resolution that it was free from the influence of organized wealth.

MORGAN MONEY.

Possibly by this time Roosevelt's knowledge, supposedly approaching omniscience, is a little fuller than it was, for he undoubtedly knows a little more about Charles Edward Russell, Socialist candidate for Governor of New York. Roosevelt was much disturbed when Russell told the story of Roosevelt's appeal to Morgan in the 1904 campaign for more funds. So Roosevelt promptly said that not only was Russell a liar but he, Roosevelt, did not know of the existence of any such man. He knew, however, of the existence of the demand on Morgan. So did Russell, and the latter made it known to the world. Now Russell has promptly come back and shown the origin of the story.

Wayne MacVeagh told the interesting little incident to a reporter for Hampton's Magazine and related that the "maniac in Washington" desired merely a trifle of $260,000. Roosevelt never was backward in asking for big, block sums—and he usually knew where to get them.

While he has seldom appeared directly as the collector, except in the Harriman instance, he had perfected the art of directing his collectors. He knew where to send them. He knew the amount for which they should ask, and he knew what "arguments" would appeal to the reluctant trust magnate.

His denunciation of the United States as a nation made up of liars, himself and Perkins, does not much change the fact that he got the money. It was not thrust upon him, nor was he hypnotized into takin git when he was not looking. He went out and got it, somehow, and such sums as he did get could not come from the "plain people" about whom he is now so solicitous.

Even in the present campaign he has spent big sums of money. His direct primaries, and his fight against Taft's renomination, and his convention, and his fight in Vermont, and his present campaign, could not be financed merely through the hot air that he is able to furnish so abundantly. He has been getting money, lots of it, somewhere, and much of the enthusiasm shown by the professional politician for Roosevelt is due to the fact that the professional politician realizes his pre-eminence as a collector.

Boosters' Department

By F. E. JOHNSTON

It is the policy of this paper to take into its confidence every reader and subscriber. We have no secrets, and nothing to conceal. This paper is absolutely unmuzzled and all the powers of heaven and hell can not prevail against us.

At this particular time, many Socialist newspapers are compelled to cut down from 8 pages to 4, as this is the hardest time in the year to keep going, due to the fact that very little advertising can be secured.

Had we a surplus to tide us over the dull season, until about the first of October, we could probably go ahead in good shape. For that reason it behooves every Comrade and Booster to present a solid front NOW, and help us out in every possible way.

We have many more subbscribers now than ever before, and our list is gradually rising, but with the extreme tightness of money, collections are slow and this makes it doubly hard to make ends meet.

We are going ask every individaul Comrade to buy at least $1.00 worth of sub. cards. You can sell them very easily and get your money back. In this manner the paper gets the use of the money now when it is most needed and you are out nothing.

We have one of the most sensational exposures coming ever printed in a Socialist newspaper. It will be published and the facts in the case made known to the world.

It will be one of the most ringing denunications and arraignments of the capitalist system the people of this state has ever read.

Now Boosters we want to reach every voter in this county, and state if possible with this story. Roll in the subs. and we will take care of things in good shape. We believe that this exposure if well circulated, will put the finishing touches on things in this state, and sweep us to victory at the polls in November. LET THE WATCHWORD BE, SUBS. We have thousands of Red Tickets printed, ready for distribution. We ask every Comrade to use these tickets and purchase from our advertisers as this will help us along towards getting more advertising.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

When the capitalistic enemies of the Amendments decided to make the onslaught on the most of the proposals, they took a desperate chance—and lost. The chance was that the Amendments might be adopted anyway, and then all the efforts that they had made to christen them "Socialistic" would tend to greatly advertise and popularize the Socialist movement. It so happened

The question now is, What are we going to do with all the opportunities that have been thrown open to us? Our plain duty is TO ENTER IN. Are we prepared? In sentiment we are; in organization we are NOT. The next great task before us is to ORGANIZE.

Suppose that the suffragist forces get into the field soon with a referendum entirely on the one question of woman's suffrage? In that case our own organization ought to avail itself of the opportunity to put themselves before the voters of Ohio on this question from our own point of view.

Under the present State Constitution of Ohio (as amended) we can have something doing right along, and to the tremendous gain of our cause. Even our enemies expect us to do this. Why should we disappoint them?

Through the I. and R. the labor unions will now and then be asking for progressive measures. It will be our part to lead in all such battles, as long as the clear class distinction is not blurred. To this end we should prepare ourselves at once. We should provide a standing committee of investigation on this very matter at at once.

It is possible to DISCUSS the class struggle so much that we fail to take any part in the real class struggle which is actualy going on.

FREDERICK GUY STRICKLAND.

THE NEW CONSTITUTION.

It was impossible when The Socialist went to press to determine certainly as to what proposals had been defeated at the Constitutional election last week. It seems sure that equal suffrage, the abolition of capital punishment, regulation of outdoor advertising and the $50,000,000 good roads bond issue have all been defeated. The complete official returns will decide the matter.

The possibilities of the home rue provision of the new constitution widens the powers of cities and villages.

Socialist members of the city council already are planning to employ the new powers given the city to the fullest extent. These plans include city slaughter houses, city tenement houses to be rented to the laboring classes at actual cost, the placing of all charity work under the control of the city directly, stores to reduce the high cost of living by selling food at cost, extended playgrounds and municipal social centers, and many other innovations.

"BLACK" SOCIALISTS GET ANOTHER DRUBBING

Columbus Party Members Clean Up On the Bunch of Local Kickers.

Local Columbus Socialist party met in special session last Sunday afternoon at Columbus Federation of Labor Hall. The express purpose under the call was to arrange the details of the parade preceding the Keir Hardie meeting of Thursday evening. The Black malcontents of the Third Ward thought they saw a chance to "put one over" on the local organization. The program was, as developed, to have Comrade Peter Kinnear introduce a resolution "authorized" by the Third Ward, condemning the Columbus Socialist for publishing the facts in regard to the State ofce of the Socialist party. Peter Kinnear saw fit to misrepresent the July meeting of the Board of Directors of the Socialist Publishing Company. There was no excuse for this as the record shows The facts are as follows:

THE ACTUAL FACTS.

As there has been some questions raised as to the action taken by the Board of Directors at their meeting July 20th, we publish herewith the official minutes of the meeting:

Directors present, Bachman, Southard, Kinnear, Johnston.

Moved by Kinnear that reading of minutes of last meeting be dispensed with. Carried.

Moved by Kinnear that the Columbus Socialist be forced to retract, and that the Board of Directors write the retraction. MOTION NOT SECONDED.

After discussion, motion by Johnston that we refer the matter to mass meeting.

Amended by Kinnear that providing the State Committee motion made by Bachman carries and the S. E. C. appeals that it then be referred to mass meeting. Carried.

Adjourned to meet first Monday in August.

The result was that Local Columbus by an overwhelming vote, practically unanimous, AGAIN ENDORSED THE MANAGEMENT OF THE COLUMBUS SOCIALIST.

The remarks on the motion of Kinnear showed that the workers are very weary of the continual nagging tactics of Comrade P. Kinnear, and his followers. It is no longer a matter of principle. It is the untiring efforts of a bunch of I. W. W.'s to break up the Socialist party in Columbus.

Is this plain enough for the local Blacks to understand? We are on to every curve of your game. The party is against you every time you open your mouths in Local Columbus. Why not tumble? You are known, every mother's son of you. What more do you want?

HERE IS INFORMATION STRAIGHT AND CLEAR

Editor The Socialist:

Dear Comrade—Comrade C. E. Ruthenberg, in his endeavor to defend the action of the Ohio S. E. C. made the statement that "The Socialist," refused to publish a statement prepared and furnished you by the S. E. C.

Did he state the truth? He made these statements last night before Portsmouth Local.

He (Ruthenberg) also said that the same S. E. C. had compelled the Miami Valley Socialist to retract an article which appeared in that paper some time ago, which he said was very friendly to the National Cash Register people. Please give me a little information on this matter, so that we may be able to get at the truth.

Yours for clean-cut Socialism,

WALTER BAGBY.

OUR REPLY

The Columbus Socialist has had no communication from the S. E. C. for the past three months. C. E. RUTHENBERG DID NOT STATE THE TRUTH WHEN HE SAID THAT WE REFUSED TO PUBLISH ANY STATEMENT THAT THE S. E. C. FURNISHED US.

As to what the Miami Valley Socialist has said, that paper must reply. The editor of The Columbus Socialist has never seen any retraction of anything the M. V. Socialist has said. They seem to know their business down at Dayton.

HURRAH FOR OHIO

Editor Columbus Socialist:

The voters of Ohio stood by their guns and we have advanced out of the dark ages sixty years, into the sunlight of civilization—have advanced into the midst of the enemy's camp. Athens County carried every amendment. The first precinct of the Fourth Ward in Nelsonville, out of 144 votes, cast 137 solid for, and the other seven votes were scratched. A fellow calling himself "Big Biz" told us when in doubt to vote "no" but in our ward nobody seemed to be in doubt. People down our way seem to think that there is only one real Big Business and that is Socialism. The day is past in the Hocking Valley when the old partyites can make the miners, who wear their "diggers" six days in the week, believe that their extravagance keep them poor. The time is fast approaching when Ohio will throw "the Old Man of the Sea" from its back.

The old party hippodrome is already on its way back to the Ark to escape the flood. Roosevelt expects to escape on a raft made from our platform planks, but four years from now will see him go down and the planks will close over his head forever. Roosevelt in a speech here, said that he was supported by the common people. The miners say that any capitalist can truthfully say the same. The fact is, we have been supporting the whole outfit of robbers instead of our families. Roosevelt said that the voters of Ohio are behind him, one miner remarked: "Why in the hell don't he get out of the way?" Roosevelt advocates conservation of forests so that the Socialists can get no more planks for their platform. The Bull Moose stable, while sided up with Socialist timber, is like the house built on the sands, it has no foundation and just wait until the rain of Socialist votes pours down on it and you will see Mr. Bull Moose, making for the tall timber.

'Tis true that Roosevelt has planted himself in front of the common people, but the big hob-nailed shoe of Socialism is looming up close to his anatomy and what it will do to him in 1916, is a good and plenty.

Out on the ocean they're sailing
Wilson, Roosevelt and Taft,
Wilson Wouldrow a canoe boys
Roosevelt sail on a raft.
But the old ship of state we're fast manning
With boys from the Socialist ranks
And the leaks in the ship that they're finding
They are mending with Socialist planks.

W. W. GREEN,
Nelsonville, Ohio.

REORGANIZATION OF TWELFTH WARD

All the members of the Twelfth Ward who are interesfed in the success of the organization are requested to attend the regular meeting at 7:30 P. M. next Tuesday, September 17th, at 705½ North High Street.

The County campaign is now open.

We must get busy now.

The Twelfth Ward was one of the livest organizations in town. Let us redeem ourselves from the stigma of a dead ward that we have been for several months and every member be on hand next Tuesday to put the ward on its feet again.

ORGANIZER'S NOTES.

Many of the one day wage fund cards distributed by the Ward Organizers several weeks ago have not as yet been turned in.

The National office is waiting on our report, so it is up to you to get these cards in. Make your settlement with your Ward Organizer or bring it at once to City Organizer, 108½ South High Street.

With the campaign now open, finances to conduct it, are needed.

The outstanding dues of our organization would serve as a nice fund with which to push the work. Therefore it has been decided that next Sunday, September 15th, there will be a systematic collection of dues by every branch in the city. Every one of you members who are in arrears should prepare for a visit from the dues collector and arrange to get in as near good standing as possible.

There are still a good many "Keir Hardie" tickets out and not settled for. Help us in our work by reporting on them at once.

W. E. BUES,
City Organizer.

THE WRIGGLING ANT.

Comrade Edgar Woods' booklet, "The Wriggling Ant," is moving nicely. We are now in a position to supply locals on quick notice. The price is $3.00 per hundred; 30 copies for $1.00; 6 copies for 25 cents; sample copies 5 cents. This is an excellent little propaganda booklet and should be ordered by every local. Send all orders to The Socialist, 108½ South High Street.

Vote for candidates who are in favor of a change in the system and you will have accomplished something.

SOCIALISTS IN ACTION

News from the World-Wide Movement of the Workers

CLEVELAND SOCIALISTS HAVE COMMON SENSE

The Cleveland Citizen brings the following refreshing news from the Forest City on the lakes:

"At the City Central Committee meeting Tuesday evening a long-winded resolution was received from Local Toledo urging a national referendum to recall Hillquit, Spargo, Berger and others from the National Executive Committee, and even a windier document from Local Elyria requesting that Cleveland lend a hand to smash Dayton local and a couple of papers and make the State Executive Committee an oligarchy. The ridiculous resolutions created a bit of merriment and were unanimously filed without discussion.

"There must be a few wild-eyed freaks who eat 'em alive in Local Elyria, who were able to bunco that organization into adopting a long-winded resolution couched in phrases that fairly sizzle demanding still another referendum on the following propositions, towit: To boycott the Miami Valley Socialist, of Dayton, ou the earth; to make the Columbus Socialist apologize and eat mud, to instruct the State Executive Committee to revoke the charter of Local Dayton and that no person holding membership in said organization be admitted to any local without the approval of the State Executive Committee. There is just one thing that the Elyria 'Blacks' overlooked. They should empower the S. E. C. to wield the club of lese majesty and press cenaorship, and then everything would be lovely."

NEWS FROM NATIONAL SOCIALIST HEADQUARTERS

The death of William Mailly, former National Secretary of the Socialist party, and his record in the Socialist and union movements, have already been recorded by the daily Socialist press.

He was elected National Secretary by the National Committee at its meeting in St. Louis, Mo., early in 1903. He assumed the duties of the office in February of that year. At the same meeting the National Committee directed that the National headquarters of the party be removed from St. Louis, to Omaha, Nebraska. Early in 1904 Comrade Mailly was again elected National Secretary by the National Committee. In April, 1904, the headquarters were removed to Chicago, where, with a small office force and an equally small campaign fund, he directed the campaign of that year. At the expiration of his second term he declined re-election and retired from the office.

Comrade Mailly introduced planful methods in the National Office and put it on a systematic basis. The party owes a great deal more to his pioneer work in this direction than anyone is likely to realize except those who were closely associated with him. He was a man of strong will, strong likes and strong dislikes. He put the best of his keen intellect and his untiring energy into the Socialist movement. He was one of those heroes of the revolution to whom future generations will give loving and grateful tribute.

At the August meeting of the National Executive Committee an application was received from the United Hungarian Socialist Federation for affiliation with the Socialist party under the terms of the National constitution of the party relating to foreign speaking organizations. The request was granted. The Federation therefore becomes the Hungarian Section of the Socialist party. By referendum vote it has elected Armin Loewy, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, as National Translator-Secretary. He took up his work in the National office on September 3rd.

Loewy is a cabinet maker by trade. When the Socialist party carried the county of Milwaukee, he was appointed as a clerk in the office of the Register of Deeds, a position which he held from January 1, 1911, until August 31, 1912, resigning to accept his present position.

Communications on the subject of Hungarian organization, propaganda, supplies and literature, should be addresses to him—Armin Loewy, 111 North Market Street, Chicago.

The Bohemian National Translator-Secretary, Joseph Novak, has hitherto been working part of the time on the Bohemian Socialist daily paper, Spravedlnost, and had his headquarters as Translator-Secretary at the office of the newspaper. He has now moved into the National office and will give his full time to the work. His new address is therefore 111 North Market Street, Chicago.

The Committee on Municipal and State Program at the National Convention of the Socialist party in May recommended that a Legislative bureau be established in the National office, with a secretary with adequate training for the work in charge, for the purpose of securing all possible information from sources in this and other countries for the assistance of the various state and municipal elected officials of the party in drafting and supporting bills, ordinances, etc.

This portion of the report was referred to the National Executive Committee.

At its meeting in August the National Executive Committee took up the matter and decided toestablish an Information Department of somewhat broader scope than the recommendation provided for. The following motion was adopted: That a bureau of information be established in conjunction with the National office and under the direction of the National Secretary. The duty of such bureau to be to gather data and information concerning economic, political and social conditions and problems, and to give such assistance and information as may be required by locals of the party or elected or appointed officials of the party in connection with their official duties. Such bureau to be established on October 1, 1912.

A motion was also adopted that the wages of the manager should not exceed $1,500 per year. Carl D. Thompson and W. J. Ghent were placed in nomination for the position and the nominations were left open for ten days.

No further nominations were received. Ghent has declined the nomination. Thompson has accepted it. The committee is now voting on the Thompson nomination.

The National Executive Committee is voting on a request of the Jewish Socialist Federation that the Translator-Secretary of the Jewish Section be allowed to have his headquarters in New York instead of the National office.

The National Committee motion that the wages of all speakers and organizers sent out by the National office or any department of it, shall be six dollars per day and railroad fare; they to pay their own hotel bills and other incidental expenses; has been adopted by the following vote: Voting yes, 38; voting no, 23; not voting, 28.

The amount received at the National office for dues during the month of August was $8,739.40. The amount received in August, 1911, was $4,068.69. The average membership for the first eight months of 1912, as evidenced by the dues received was 117,715.

During the first eight months of 1911, the National office received for literature the sum of $4,236.77. In the same period in 1912 the amount received was $8,384.31. This does not include literature sold by the Lyceum and Campaign departments.

The Polish section of the Socialist party has established a new weekly paper called "Gornik Polski"—The Polish Miner. It has sixteen pages and the subscription price is $1.50 per year. Address, Gornik Polski, 1220 Columbus Avenue, N. S. Pittsburg, Pa.

Proposed Referendums.

Abbeville, La., Aug. 26, 1912.

Local Abbeville calls for referendum vote of the party membership on the following: That a committee composed of Haywood, Spargo, Hillquit, Hickey, Clifford and Berger be authorized to formulate and agree on a definition of the word "Sabotage," and that said definition be published in both Weekly and Monthly Bulletins for the guidance of locals in trials of members accused of advocating sabotage.

Toledo, O., August 16, 1912.

To the locals and branches of the Socialist party:

Dear Comrades—The following motions were made by National Executive Committeeman Hillquit:

"1. That Comrade Debs or Seidel or Charles Edward Russell or May Wood Simons or Charles Dobbs in order of their acceptance be commissioned to investigate the charge that referendum C was conceived in fraud and forgery.

"2. That National Executive Committee meet at Chicago August 17th, ten o'clock to receive and act upon report of investigation and transact other business.

"3. That National Secretary issue order to suspend voting on referendum in the meantime."

Hillquit, Spargo, Berger and Harriman voted for the motions; Haywood against; O'Hare and Irvine not voting. The motions are, therefore, carried.

Comrades, this is an unprecedented procedure on the part of the N. E. C. and so flagrantly high-handed and autocratic that we must not permit it to proceed unnoticed and unchallenged.

Is it not the function of the N. E. C. to execute the will of the party membership? That will has been plainly expressed in this matter of a referendum to recall Barnes. Some days ago, Berger made the following motion:

"Motion by Berger. Whereas the referendum purporting to come from Branon, Texas, now pending, was evidently obtained by fraud and forgery, I, as a member of the National Executive move that the same be recalled at once and that the referendums proposed by Locals Poplar Bluffs, Missouri, and Portsmouth, Ohio, shall be sent out on one ballot instead."

"Comment by National Secretary: This would be a needless and expensive move. Over five thousand members besides Branon initiated the referendum. It is therefore legal even if the Branon letter should prove to be fraudulent. See article eleven of Constitution. The fact that two other proposals received the required number makes it doubly so. Besides, Barnes tells me that he will not question its legality. Vote by wire."

Berger withdrew his motion. His object in making it was, no doubt, to delay action on the recall of Barnes, but his move was not clever enough it remained for the more finished politician (Hillquit) to make a more effective move.

The fact for us to consider, Comrades, is this—that the will of a large per cent of the party membership has been expressed through the seconds of Local Branon's motion, regardless of there being any such place on the map as Branon, Texas, or not, regardless of there being a local in Branon, or there not being a local in Branon. A large per cent of the party membership has expressed its will through the Portsmouth and Poplar Bluff motions which are, in effect, much the same as Local Branon's.

Hillquit, Berger, Spargo, and Harriman feared that Barnes would be recalled so they seek to sidetrack the referendum. If they are allowed to do so, what is to prevent them from prolonging the investigation and keeping the referendum sidetracked until after election?

Hillquit's motions are another demonstration of possism and machine rule in the Socialist party.

Local Toledo, with 248 members in good standing hereby initiates a referendum to recall Hillquit, Berger, Spargo and Harriman from the N. E. C. If you second this call for a referendum, make haste to so notify the National office and state the number of local members in good standing.

Fraternally,

LOCAL TOLEDO, O.
Per. Josephine Bates, Secy.

Columbus, O., Aug. 4th, 1912.

Local Columbus, State of Ohio, in mass convention has adopted the following motion as an amendment to the National Constitution of the Socialist party:

No member of the Socialist party, employed by state or National organization direct, such as state and National Secretaries, organizers, speakers or any other members deriving their livelihood direct from the organization, not including members employed on Socialist publications, but including members of the state and National Committees, shall have the right to represent the Socialist party as delegates to state or National Conventions of the Socialist party.

Comment: The past has shown that not alone in our organization, but in all other organizations, there are members employed by such organization some of whom have neglected the interests of the rank and file and used their office to further their own material interests, by exerting their power in conventions to shape the policies of the organization most beneficial to themselves.

Local Columbus, State of Ohio, with 748 members in good standing ask for the second by locals to bring the resolutions to a national referendum.

O. G. VAN SCHOYCK,
Secretary Local Columbus.

CHAUNCEY NEWS.

The Chauncey Socialists held an interesting propaganda meeting Friday evening, August 30, at the Loyal Men's band stand. A large crowd gathered at 7:30 p. m. and was entertained for half an hour by the Loyal Men's Band and the Citizens' Band of this place. Comrade Lotta Burke, of Cincinnati, took the platform and for over an hour held the attention of her audience as she eloquently discussed the issue of Sicialism.

The bands then rendered several fine pieces of music, after which Comrade Burke again took the stand and gave an interesting talk of about 25 minutes on woman's suffrage. Some say she is the best lady speaker they ever heard. We believe the cause of Socialism was very much benefited by her speech.

Monday, September 2, delegates from five Locals met at Chauncey and adopted a county constitution and organized a County Local which will be composed of two delegates-at-large and one delegate from each Local in the county. The following officers were elected: Don Henderson, Jacksonville, recording secretary; M. B. Tucker, Chauncey, financial secretary; George Bauer, Buchtel, treasurer. The County Local will hold its meetings the first Saturday in each month. Socialism is gaining rapidly in this county and we are much encouraged. We are planning to carry on a vigorous campaign from now until election, and then keep pushing right on to victory. Yours for Socialism,

M. B. TUCKER.

GENERAL SOCIALIST NEWS.

The progress of Socialism among the Japanese is the subject of an article in the London Academy by Lancelot Lawton. "The sporadic outbursts of labor violence in Japan, although confined to the conditions that prevail in localities at the moment," he writes, "are none the less highly indicative of the general situation. But another and still more significant sign of the times is to be found in the spread of Socialism. This circumstance is due to several causes, the principal of which is purely economic. The increase in the burdens of taxation, the rise in the cost of living, unaccompanied, as it is, by a corresponding appreciation in wages, and last, but not least, the dawning realization that capital is exacting too heavy a toll from labor, are prominent among the agencies which have propagated the seed of Socialism. It is difficult to give any accurate idea of the extent of this movement. Whenever the agitation has shown the least flicker of flame the police have instantly applied rigorous methods of suppression. While in this way violent outbursts have been temporarily checked, it cannot be denied that not only has Socialism survived, but it has, if anything, received additional vitality in consequence. It will no doubt be argued that as Socialism is fundamentally antagonistic of Japanese ideas, both in regard to the inviolability of the throne and the duty of the citizen toward the state, its teachings can never thrive among the masses of the people. That theory certainly held good in the days before Japan had made material progress. But a gradual change has been brought about by the spread of education—education which taught of the struggle for liberty and freedom in foreign lands—and also by the dawning realization that the era of reform that followed the Restoration was merely the manifestation of a state policy which sought to retain many of the powers and privileges of feudalism, while at the same time utilizing the material and productive experience of the west."

Rev. John Wesley Hill, it is reported, will have control of the speakers' bureau of the Taft campaign. During the last year or two the Rev. J. Wes. has been on the road beating up the earth with Socialism, and his grand success in that propaganda makes him peculiarly fitted for his new honors, particularly so since the anti-Taft Republicans have adopted a red bandanna as their emblem, and the reverend gent will chew the rag to tatters before breakfast the day he starts his oratorical fireworks.

It appears that Charles H. Kerr & Co., are hearing from the country. In the September number of the International Socialist Review there is a lengthy editorial in which Kerr professes loyalty to political action and endeavors to back away from his anarchistic preachments. Whether or not the Review will survive the wave of indignation that is sweeping over the country against its meddling policy and attempts to turn the Socialist Party into a warring camp of factionalism, only time will tell.

SOCIALISM AND THE HOME

By Maude J. Ball.

In this day of the reign of the alarm clock, when not greed for gain but fear of starvation drives men from their homes to their work before the day is due, drags women from their beds an hour earlier to prepare the hasty meal, snatches children from sleep and sends them to the mill; the mine or the shop—in this age when homes are desolated by wars, disease, poverty and crime, it seems cruelly ridiculous for a working man or woman to object to Socialism on the ground that it will break up the home.

Yet this argument is still repeated parrot like by many for whom home has long been but a mockery, a vain hope or a cherished ideal and others who await the call of the rent collector with a shuddering dread.

A few days ago, a railroad man was heard to make this argument: "The only objection I have to Socialism is that it will break up the home, destroy the family and send children away from their parents to be educated and cared for by the community."

Inquiry concerning the home life of this man revealed the fact that for the greater part of his life he has been employed by the Wells Fargo Express Company and that for twenty years he has not had a vacation. His work takes him from home on a thousand mile journey twice each week, and during the time he is at home his need for sleep makes conscious enjoyment of his home life impossible.

It might be asked how much Socialim could contribute toward the breaking up of this home. And even if the charge were true that under Socialism children would belong to society, might not this be better than the present order, by which thousands of children are denied both care and education

Would the possibility of a few hours daily companionship of wife and family tend toward the destruction of the home, or would not Socialism make possible for the first time in the history of the world, the enjoyment of all that makes for home and home life

THE REAL ISSUE.

By Mary L. Geffs.

What is the real, bed-rock issue of this campaign?

The working man who arose at the back of an audience being addressed by William Howard Taft four years ago and asked "What is a working man to do when out of employment and starving," stated the issue.

He stated it fairly and squarely and up to a candidate for president in a way it had never been put up to a candidate on a capitalist ticket before. There was no dodging it, and the vast audience and the starving man awaited the candidate's answer. They say the perpetual smile faded and the candidate's face took on an expression of seriousness as he gave the only answer he could give, and the one that should never be forgotten by the class to whom given said, "God knows."

An apology would be due the public for springing this ancient story at this time but for the fact that it is not among the things ancient that are past and gone. It is the living soul of the issue of this campaign and it is is pressing for an answer today with even greater force than four years ago.

It should be the slogan of the Socialist party in this campaign, since the Socialist party alone holds the answer.

Mr. Taft not only acknowledged his own ignorance in the answer he gave, but he also acknowledged the utter inability of the party he represented to meet the question. Mr. Taft was elected by the votes of the working class. He could not have been elected without. And if God knew four years ago He has not yet revealed the secret to Mr. Taft, for today he is still unable to answer the question or meet the issue it raises.

There is but one answer to the question and capitalism dare not give it. It would be suicidal. Socialism alone can give it. It is found in the plank of its party platform called "Unemployment." The kernel of the nut is in the first clause of the paragraph. It declares for the "Immediate government relief of the unemployed by the extension of all useful public works." The starving man is "unemployed," therefore all he need to do after he and his class have voted the party of their class into power, will be to go to the proper authorities and say, "I am out of employment; I claim the promise." And the Socialist government need ask but one question, "In what department do you prefer to work—reforestation, reclamation, conservation, storage or development?"

And, be his answer what it may, the starving working man will be employed "directly by the government under a work day of not more than eight hours and at not less than the prevailing union wages."

Lives there another party today that can give the starving workingman this answer?

The struggle of the worker is becoming more intense, which in its cruel workings fosters malice and arouses hatred.

JULY IMMIGRATION

Washington—The Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization, Department of Commerce and Labor, has just issued its July immigration bulletin. Like former months, the tide of immigration from Southern Italy still leads in point of numbers, the July record showing 20,989. Then comes the following list: Polish, 10,576; Hebrew, 9,375; Greek, 6,132; German, 5,712; English, 4,196. The remaining number of immigrants were distributed between thirty-three different nationalities, the grand total for the month mentioned being 78,101. Divided according to occupations there were admitted during July 16,534 farm laborers, 13,687 laborers, and 9,604 servants. In the trades there were admitted during the same period 1,966 tailors and 1,051 carpenters and joiners, the remainder ofthe trades being represented by only a moderate number of immigrants. The total immigration for the year ended June 30, 1913, peached 838,172, while during the same period 333,289 emigrant aliens departed, leaving a net increase of immigrant aliens of 504,910. The year 1913 shows a decrease over the year 1911 of 40,415, and a decrease of 203,396 over 1910. The year 1908-9, subsequent to the financial stringency of 1907, shows a decrease ranging from 50,000 to 80,000 below the total immigration for 1913. During the last year New York absorbed 239,875 immigrants, While Pennsylvania got 109,635, with Massachusetts, 70,171; Illinois, 67,118; New Jersey, 47,211; Ohio, 23,148; Michigan, 23,559; California, 23,906; Connecticut, 23,227, and Texas, 23,265. All the states in the Union are represented as places of destination, but the figures and states given give an idea of the sections of the country into which the tide of immigration reaches its highest point.

SHINGLE WEAVERS' NEWS

Seattle—Shingle packers employed in and around Raymond, Wash., recently went on strike for an advance of 10 cents per thousand, 1 cent above the union scale. The demands were granted by all mills involved inside of three days, except one which is closed temporarily for lack of timber. No difficulty is anticipated in signing up this mill.

LABOR'S TWO HOLIDAYS

Washington—Reports from every state in the Union are to the effect that Labor Sunday and Labor Day were more generally observed this year than at any previous time in the history of the American labor movement. This fact indicates that the activity among members of organized labor is general throughout the country.

STATE MINERS' HOSPITAL

Washington—The contract for the plans and specifications for the new miners' hospital to be built at Frostburg, Md., has been awarded to a company of architects. The last Legislature of Maryland appropriated $25,000 for the construction of the hospital.

CARPENTERS' CONVENTION

Washington—The biennial convention of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners will convene in this city September 15 at the National Rifles Hall. Among the important questions which will be discussed will be the location of the proposed home for the aged and infirm members of the union. Definite action to erect a home of this character was taken at the Des Moines, Iowa, convention two years ago, and since then the officials of the brotherhood have been considering ways and means whereby such a home can be provided, and a report will be submitted at the coming convention. It is expected that the delegates to this convention will numbebr approximately 700. The headquarters will be at the Metropolitan Hotel, Sixth Street and Pennsylvania Avenue.

MAINTENANCE OF WAY MEN

Washington—President Lowe, of the Maintenace of Way Men, reports that the organization has just secured concessions from the Dominion Atlantic Railway, in Nova Scotia, in the shape of a 7 per cent increase for foremen and 8 per cent for section men, with a first-class schedule of working rules, giving promotion in accordance of seniority, pay for overtime, which includes work done on Sunday and Christmas day, investigation for men suspended or dismissed or otherwise considered unjustly treated, and reinstated and paid for lost time should the investigation show that workmen were blameless.

FOR FIVE-DAY WEEK

Washington—At the recent session of the International Miners' Congress at Amsterdam the English delegates proposed a uniform policy of working five days per week, and the congress acted favorably upon the proposal The date on which to inaugurate the shorter work week was left in abeyance until the next session of the congress. The congress also committed itself to the plan, as a safety measure, to the employment of mine inspectors elected by the miners and paid by the state, the mines to be inspected as often as the men demand it.

FOR BROOKLYN NAVY YARD

Washington—A delegation of New Yorkers have been in this city endeavoring to persuade the Secretary of hte Navy to construct the $15,000,000 battleship recently authorized by Congress in the Brooklyn Navy Yard. This yard is the only government works on the Atlantic which has the necessary equipment to construct a ship of the dimensions of the prospective vessel, the Pennsylvania.

PARLEYING ABOUT WAGES

Washington — Representatives of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors are conferring with the representatives of the ten railroad companies in the Southeastern section of the country over the matter of readjusting the wage schedules and working conditions. It is asserted that it is probable an amicable settlement will be reached.

SALIENT POINT OF WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION LAW

The new Workmen's Compensation law or Employers' Liability law creates a state insurance fund raised by payments collected by the State Liability Board of Awards from both employers and employes. The amount collected is based upon the payroll or wage and the hazard of employment.

All the money so collected will be divided back into the compensation channels i. e., it will go to compensate injured workmen for their disabilities, and, as awards, to the dependents of killed employes. The state maintains the department out of the general tax fund.

An injured workman will receive no compensation for the first week of disablement. In case of temporary or partial disability he shall receive two-thirds of the impairment of his earning capacity during his disability, but not more than $12.00 nor less than $5.00 a week, unless the wage received was less than $5.00 a week, in which case he shall receive full wage, nor for longer than six years from date of injury, nor shall a total amount of more than $3,400 be so received for such injury.

In case the workman is permanently disabled he shall receive two-thirds of his average weekly wage until death, but in no case more than $12 nor less than $5 a week, unless the wage received was less than $5 a week, in which case he shall receive full wages. In case of death, reasonable funreral expenses (not more than $150) will be paid.

For medical, nurse, and hospital services for injured employes the board will pay what it deems proper (not more than $2000) in addition to the award.

In case of death within two years after injury where there are wholly dependent persons, two-thirds of the average weekly wage shall be paid to them for the remainder of the period between the date of death and six years after the date of the injury, but in no case more than $3,400 or less than $1,500.

In case of death within two years after injury where there are partly dependent persons they shall receive two-thirds of the average weekly wage for such period as the Board in each case may determine, but not longer than six years from the date of the injury causing death, nor for a total amount of more than $3,400.

The average weekly wage of the injured person at the time of the injury shall be taken as the basis upon which to compute benefits.

The power of the Board over each case is a continuing power and the Board may modify its awards according to circumstances.

Like federal pensions, awards before payment are exempt from creditors' claims and from attachment or execution.

The law is now operative.

Employers desiring to avail themselves of the provisions of the law must pay into the fund the premium due from them for a period of six months.

Employers of fewer than five workmen do not come under the provision of this law.

If the employer elects to come under the provisions of this law and pays the premiums due into the state insurance fund and posts notices to this effect conspicuously about his establishment, then these notices constitute notice to his employes such as to bring them also within the jurisdiction of the law.

The law has the effect of dividing employers into two general classes, viz:

1. Those who employ less than five workmen or operatives regularly in the same business.

2. Those who employ more than five workmen or operatives regularly in the same business.

In other words, this act operates only on those employers employing five or more workmen or operatives, and those who employ a force at the time of the going into effect of this act.

Under this act the employers of the second class above enumerated may, by choice or by willful act or negligence, come within any one of three classes:

1. Employers who employ five or more workmen or operatives regularly in the same business who pay the premiums prescribed by the State Liability Board of Awards into the state insurance fund, and who observe all the provisions of municipal and state laws relative to the protection of the life or safety of employes, and who do not willfully injure any employe of employes. Such employers are not liable to respond in damages by civil action for any injury occurring to any employe in the course of his employment, but the employe must resort wholly to the state insurance fund.

2. Employers who employ five or more employes or operatives regularly in the same business, who do not elect to pay the premiums provided for under this act. The employes of such employers, in case of injury, have no claim upon the state insurance fund, their only recourse being a civil action for damages brought in a court of proper jurisdiction. In such actions, the employers are not permitted to avail themselves of the common law defenses of "contributory negligence," "assumption of risk" or "the fellow-servant rule."

3. Employers who employ more than five workmen or operatives regularly in the same business and who pay into the state insurance fund the premiums fixed by the State Liability Board of Awards, but who wilfully inflict injury upon their employes or who disregard municipal or state regulations for the safety of their employes. The employes of such employers, in case of injury, have the option of either maintaining a civil action for damages, or filing a claim with the State Liability Board of Awards for an award from the state insurance fund. Having once exercised their option, however, their decision is final, and they must abide by the result. (See Sections 21-1 and 21-3.)

The posting of the notices prescribed in this section by the employer, and the continuance of the employer in his service thereafter, constitutes an implied contract, between employer and employe to the effect that the employe will resort to the insurance fund only for compensation in case of injury.

The premiums provided for in this act shall be paid by the employer and employes in the following proportion: 90% by the employers and 10% by the employes.

The rates of premium will be based upon the total payroll and number of employes and fixed by the Board after employments have been classified with respect to their degree of hazard. Any employer can ascertain the amount of premium due from him by filling out the required form.

All blanks for application for compensation or award and also for making up full proofs will be furnished free of cost by the Board.

The members of the Board are: Hon. T. J. Duffy of East Liverpool, Hon. Morris Woodhull of Dayton, and Hon. Wallace D. Yaple of Chillicothe. William C. Archer of Lancaster is secretary.

The office of the Board is in Columbus.

KARB SUED FOR FEES

Prosecutor Turner, in behalf of the state, has brought suit against Mayor Karb to collect $564.20, with interest from January 1, 1909, alleged to have been illegally collected from the county by Mr. Karb while he was sheriff as extra charge for attending insane prisoners.

The state bureau of accounting made a larger finding against Mr. Karb, but all has been returned or compromised by him excepting the amount now sought. There is a dispute over the validity of the statute under which the finding as to the present amount was made.

MURDER COMMITTED IN THE COUNTY JAIL

One Colored Prisoner Killed by Another Colored Inmate.

Georgе Raglin, the colored prize fighter, who was assaulted by his fellow prisoner in the county jail, Edward Sanford, also colored, early Monday morning, and struck several times over the head with a heavy table leg which Sanford wrenched from a table in his cell, died in St. Francis hospital late Monday night from the effects of his injuries. Raglan was awiting trial on a charge of robbery and Sanford is charged with burglary and larceny. He will now be charged with murder.

Sheriff Sartain is probably too busy looking after the business of the Republican County Committee, of which he is chairman, to give any attention to affairs at the jail.

George W. Perkins and Frank A. Munsey, representing the Steel trust, are at the head of the finance committee of the Roosevelt party. Good night! workingmen.

In the near future we will have the retail grocery business controlled by the trust or chain stores. They undersell until they drive the independent stores out of business, then they have a monopoly and can charge what they please. England has gone through that experience and today the only thing that stands between the consumer and exorbitant prices is the Co-operative Society with its thousands of stores and its membership who are loyal to their own class and to themselves.

The Franklin Co-operative Company, was incorporated on this plan and has opened its first store, at 529 North 20th Street, and asks the patronage and support of all consumers, who believe in lower prices and in a square deal,

DEPLORABLE CONDITIONS PREVAIL IN MINING DISTRCTS OF WEST VIRGINIA

'Mother Jones' Addresses Giant Mass Meeting at Wheeling—Women and Children Forced to Sleep in the Open Air—Coal Barons Hire Thugs

(By Peter Campbell Boyd.)

Wheeling, W. Va., Sept. 17.—A drenching rain did not stop over 1500 men and women from attending a monster mass protest meeting here Sunday afternoon when "Mother" Jones, the white-haired woman of the coal fields, and other prominent speakers addressed them. The lady of the mines and strikes flayed the present capitalistic system right and left, and did not mince words when it came to telling the vast audience what she knew about the coal fields and conditions in the little Mountain State. Senators Scott, Elkins, Watson and Governor Glasscock were classed by her as human blood suckers and leeches, and the mine guards and private detectives as human blood hounds in their employ. She said conditions in the state were ten times worse than in darkest Russia or the uncivilized countries along the Mediterranean, and that if the state officials did not soon act there would be a state-wide revolution.

She was cheered again and again as she swatted the system that tolerated women, children and sick men to starve and die, that were compelled to freeze to death in the winter for the simple reason that a few owned all the land in which they dug out their existence, she claimed that she was forced by the hired toughs to wade streams, and was hounded from place to place by them, that it would make a heart of stone bleed to see the misery existing in the coal fields of a country that is supposed to be civilized. Seven capitalists own all the coal land in the southern part of the state, and dictate to 30,000 miners and their families whether they shall work or starve. She said it is the most degrading, depraving system tolerated in any country on the globe.

A collection was called for to send to the relief committee to the strike district to buy clothing and food for the women and children. Over $50 was collected. By a unanimous vote it was decided to demand of the governor of the state that he call a special session of the Legislature to make laws to help the suffering miners, the liability law for miners and workmen is demanded, the abolition of the private guard system, the paying of the miners every two weeks, and the payment of the miners by weight. She said that the miners would never go back to work until every guard left the state.

Last week the citizens of Kanawha County were denied the right to meet on the public square at Charleston, it being ordered roped off by orders of the governor, but a meeting of over 20,000 miners and citizens was held in front of the court house. Protest meetings are being held all over the state. All of the state militia are on duty, but are the friends of the miners and it would be a rash act of the state to force them to, or ask them to kill off their brothers, who are only fighting for better living conditions like themselves. What it will come to it is hard to tell. She asked them one and all to organize on the political field and use their brains and the ballot on election day and do away with the system that tolerates peonage in West Virginia.

TOM LEWIS DRAFTED BY THE TAFT PARTY

Will Run For Secretary of State and Serve the Bosses.

The Republican state central committee met Saturday and wished the nomination for Secretary of State on Thomas L. Lewis of Bridgeport.

Lewis will go on the G. O. P. ticket instead of John L. Sullivan of East Liverpool, who was nominated for the office at the Republican state convention. Sullivan read himself out of the party when he took the Bull Moose nomination for the same office. Lewis is a former president of the United Mine Workers and has been twice repudiated as a candidate for national president of that great organization. When the miners dumped him Tom went back to Belmont county, and with a great flourish worked one day in a coal mine, had his picture taken and then took up the trade of labor fakir. He has been for several years proprietor of the Industrial Index, published in Columbus and supported by the mine owners of the middle states. Tom is well fitted for the part of stool pigeon for the Taftites. Tom Lewis has shown himself clearly as a traitor to his class and should be welcomed to the Civic Federation with Gompers, Mitchell, et al.

POLICE CLERK'S HEART TOUCHED BY CHILD.

The Child Was Also "Touched" for $3.98.

"Will you please let my mamma out for this?" sobbed 13-year-old Stella Thompson of 116½ West Main street, as she ran, weeping, into the police clerk's office at the city prison yesterday afternoon. The child held out a small gold watch and $3.98, which she said she had been saving for months, to start a bank account.

Touched by the little girl's plea, Deputy Clerk Gockenbach had her mother, Mrs. Sarah Eckman, brought from a cell where she had been lodged on a disorderly conduct charge, to the office. The woman had $4.98 in her possession, which combined with the savings of her daughter made $7.70. The clerk stretched a point, and allowed her to go on this bond without requiring little Stella's watch as security.—Columbus Daily Newspaper.

The poor little girl probably went to bed hungry that night. The clerk, if he had to have "security," might better have kept the watch and left the unfortunates something to live on. But then the money was probably needed to buy a swell dinner for Acting Chief O'Neill who was then "holding the fort" at the police station.

THE S. E. C. MEETING.

On the question of speakers the present State Executive Committee can no longer be taken seriously. Instead of accepting the reversal of their former action as recently administered by the State Committee, the S. E. C. in their meeting just closed in Columbus propose to "stand their ground." What "ground" is to be "stood"? Simply this: They will continue to defy the wishes of the party at large in Ohio and continue to book only such speakers as have an exceedingly purple hue.

In other matters some sanity was shown. But on the question of speakers the S. E. C. seems to be piqued. "Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned." Of course, there was a minority (of two) strong political actionists on the committee. But regarding the matter of speakers the steam roller was put over them ruthlessly. Not only did they flatten out the minority, but they heaped the epithets of "politicians," "golden rulers," etc., upon our tombstones.

Regarding the work of the newly elected State Woman's Correspondent, it was solemnly debated as to whether she ought to do any work at all or not! The decision of the State Convention and the approval of the referendum were of no particular significance to a committee that was "standing its ground." I mildly suggested to them that their name ought to be the "State Engineering Committee."

My motion "to remove all national speakers from the objectionable list" was put to sleep with a substitute motion to the effect that "we" decide on all national speakers as they are offered to "us." Thus putting up the bars a little higher. Why not name ourselves "The Society for the Prevention of Socialist Meetings"? That would be more specific

My effort to unload from the "Bulletin" the useless and divisive "comments" and "statements" was ruled out as "unconstitutional." Evidently the most important thing to do is run the State Office as a "School for Slander." We might start a State printery for "the man with an ax."

The majority of the S. E. C. took not one step to attempt to heal the breach in the State. They still propose to "cast out demons" and burn witches. No speaker who has criticised the old S. E. C. is to be permitted to enter the grand old State of Ohio. Lese majesty!

Only one bit of constructive work was done, and that was the preliminary work looking toward the State paper with ready-prints for the Locals that wish to get out their own papers. Such an enterprise may frighten some timid souls on account of the present official regime in the State. But, Comrades, how could it be worse? At present our State organization is only an attachment of the Charles H. Kerr & Co., Co-operative Publishers. Their O. K. must be on every piece of literature handled, and every speaker sent out. The campaign is to be closed in Ohio by Comrade Frank Bohn, an employe of the Kerr Company. (But he is certainly the best they have, so let us congratulate ourselves.) Objection was made to securing a colored speaker unless we can get one approved by the "Review." Fanaticism could go no further.

Do I blame the present S. E. C. for this ridiculous situation in the State? I do not! Let the Comrades wake up! They have now exactly what they have voted for. They have returned to office almost the same S. E. C. from year to year. The only difference now is that you have two new members of the S. E. C. who see the joke of the thing. As Comrade Evans said in the meeting, "We can vote NO once in a while and that is all that we can do."

I am perfectly aware that I am committing lese majesty in this statement. Some purple scout in Toledo, Elyria or elsewhere will soon have me exposed as a sky pilot, and once more humbled to the dust. It is to laugh! Such a roaring farce, while children starve for bread!. But it is better to laugh than get angry at a group of heresy hunters whose only business is to strain out gnats while the great camel of capitalism is untouched.

The recent meeting of the S. E. C. was a "Comedy of Errors," with Comrade Evans and myself forced into the role of "court fools." I hope the membership will appreciate the humor of the situation, for there is certainly enough democracy and good sense in the S. P. of Ohio to bring us ere long to the days of real working class statesmanship. Then the real play will begin.

FARMERS' EDITION "COLUMBUS SOCIALIST"

September 28th will be an edition devoted to the interests of the American farmer. It will be a hummer. Every Socialist in Ohio should order a bundle for distribution amongst the farmers, in their locality.

Bundle rate, $1.00 per hundred, $10.00 per thousand.

Send in all the names and addresses of farmers you can, enclosing remittance at the rate of 1c each, and we will mail them the paper direct from his office.

If you do not know any farmers and want to help carry the message to them send us remittance, stating, "Use this to send No. 98 to the farmers," and we will forward one paper for each 1c received.

Let's make this edition run up to at least 25,000, as the farmers are looking up to the real issue in this campaign, and a broadside such as we are preparing will tumble them over into the Socialist column.

The Columbus Socialist and Appeal to Reason Both for $1.00

By special arrangement with The Appeal to Reason we will furnish THE COLUMBUS SOCIALIST and THE APPEAL both for ONE YEAR for $1.00. Remember, this is not for forty weeks, but for one year. Send all orders to

KEIR HARDIE GIVES AMERICAN SOCIALISTS SOME GOOD ADVICE

He Advocates Political Action and Woman Suffrage, but Opposes Syndicalism

Twenty-five hundred people assembled in Memorial Hall Thursday evening of last week and listened to a magnificent address by J. Keir Hardie, Socialist member of the British parliament. Every person in the audience paid either twenty-five or ten cents admission. That same audience then contributed $50 in a collection for the campaign treasury. No other political organization in the world could duplicate this meeting. Comrade C. E. Belcher was chairman and brief addresses were made by Comrades J. L. Bachman and D. J. Farrell. The speeches were cheered from start to finish. Comrade Hardie, with his quaint Scotch accent, his sledge-hammer arguments and his sound logic, captured the minds and hearts of his hearers.

HARDIE'S SPEECH.

"Social reform; what does it mean? That the working class is reduced to such a position that it is no longer able to do for itself those things requiring to be done. The politicians have only one object in view, and that is to keep the working class from getting together at election time.

"You have three candidates amongst orthodox parties; a Republican and a Democrat and a sort of cross-breed that comes somewhere between the two. And I want to say to you that these three candidates do not represent three parties; they represent three sections of one party. Whether you elect Mr. Woodrow Wilson or re-elect William Taft or send again to the White House Theodore Roosevelt—no matter which of these three gets elected he will represent the capitalist class. That is the point, my friends, for you to remember. So long as they can hold you fighting each other they are perfectly safe.

"Social reform? Of course they will give you social reform. See what they have been giving us at home; old age pensions, a dollar and a quarter a week when you reach seventy years of age, and other 'great' social reforms of that kind. See what happens. They give you a small social reform to keep you quiet whilst they are picking your pockets of two-thirds of what you are earning. I am not joking, my friends. I am not trying to make you laugh. I am stating a sober truth.

MUST SUPPORT UNIONISM.

"I am told—I have not heard it yet myself, remember—but I am told that in some part of these states, just as in some parts of Europe, there are men that are Socialists who seek to belittle trade unionism or labor unionism. I say to you that the man who seeks to belittle the trades union is no friend of yours; that all the progress which the working class has made hitherto has been through their labor unions. The strike, my friends, has been the weapon; fear of the strike and the strength which union gives has been the weapon which has brought whatever improvement has been secured by the working class of the world. Therefore, do not let any one mislead you into a belief that the day of the union is over. It is not over. It is the very foundation upon which the whole superstructure of industrial liberty will one day be reared.

"Whilst I say that, and say it without qualification, I say this equally emphatically, that the trades union itself cannot solve the industrial problem. The union and the strike can help you to win better conditions, but when you get a raise in wages the union cannot stop the capitalist class from putting up the price of food, from putting up rent for homes, until they have drawn back to themselves all the increase they gave you in the form of higher wages. Therefore, the strike itself cannot solve the problem.

WORKERS' SECOND WEAPON.

"But the worker has a second weapon; he can vote as well as strike, and I want to say that the workingmen of today must fight with both hands, with the industrial strike and the vote at the ballot box, not the one antagonistic to the other, but the one complimenting the other if he is to win industrial freedom.

"And, now, just allow me one point more on a controversial topic, which I will endeavor to treat in an uncontroversial spirit. I am often asked by gentlemen of the press and by others what is my opinion about syndicalism. I am one of the few men in the working class movement who have taken the trouble to understand syndicalism. I have gone to Italy and I have gone to France, and I have discussed with the leaders of the movement there what their aims and objects are. I have read its literature and I know as much about syndicalism as almost any man going. Syndicalism, like everything else, has many good points. In so far as it breaks down trade barriers and get the workers to realize that they are one class, it is good. In so far as it asks the workers not to rely upon the state, but to rely upon their own strength, it is good. But when it goes on to say that the workers should take no part in political action, it ceases to be good.

SYNDICALIST FAILS.

"The syndicalist starts from the assumption that the state is a capitalist institution. The state, however, is nothing of the sort. At the present time every state in the world and every kingdom in the world is capitalist. Why is that so? Because the workers elect the capitalist class to govern the state. The state itself is neither capitalist nor anti-capitalist. The state is simply a good old donkey that goes the way its driver wants it to go. When the capitalists rule, of course, the state serves the capitalists. When the workers get class enough to stop sending capitalists and to send Socialists drawn from their own ranks to represent them, then the state becomes your servant and not the servant of the capitalist.

"Let me illustrate it in a very simple fashion. Take your state militia. When a strike takes place and the militia is called out it is called out to protect the scab and to protect the property of the masters. With a Socialistic government in office if the militia was called out at all it would be to protect the trades unionists in fighting for better conditions. That is one of the differences. That shows what I mean when I say that the state is exactly what you make it. The advice not to use your vote is simply a confession of failure and a cry of despair.

"Now a word of warning: If things are not right in the state you cannot blame your wives for it. It has been the common custom of mankind since the days of the Garden of Eden when anything went wrong for the man to say it was the woman's fault. In regard to the state you cannot shelter yourselves behind your wives' petticoats, because unfortunately for both you and the state your wives have not got votes. I believe they are going to get them one of these days and then you men have got to look out. You say that they don't know how to use the vote. You are the last class in the world to bring that charge against anybody. If they can't use the vote better than you have they can't use it worse.

When I was out in India Dr. Bell, an inspector of schools in one of the northern territories, told me this story: He said he examined one day a mission class in Bible history, and the subject was the creation of man. One little Indian boy write this essay about the creation of man. He said: 'In the beginning God took some clay and made a man; and then he made the man sleepy, and took out his backbone and made a woman.' I don't know how far that version is true, but there are times when I am inclined to think that there is a good deal of truth in it. And often I tell the men at home that if they fought half as much for their rights as the women are fighting for theirs we would make things hum very soon."

Brains always win, we are told. But they cannot operate a colliery. It takes the muscle and skill of the working class to make the mines a paying investment.

"OUR GOOD OLD CONSTITUTION"

By Burke McCarty.

One of the latest tacks which the enemies of Socialism have taken is the cry "We must hold fast to our good old Constitution. We must not allow these wicked Socialists to disturb or destroy our Constitutional Government!"

Well, we Socialists frankly confess we have no purblind or rational admiration of the Constitution. We admire, indeed, the preamble of the Constitution—it is fine. It says: "We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution of the United States." Isn't that splendid? Union, Justice, Tranquility, Common defense, General welfare—it's fine. Why, if we Socialists had been writing that preamble we could not have found stronger words, nor covered the ground more completely!

But somebody—and they were not Socialists, either — somebody has been assaulting that preamble. They have torn it into rags and trampled it under foot, and they have been doing it for a long, long time!

For more than seventy years the Constitution was held at the main stay of negro slavery! "To establish Justice, general welfare! Bosh! Black slavery, it is true, has been abolished, but what do we see today under that good old Constition?

We see the greatest money oligarchy established the world has ever known, lording it over our common heritage!

We see every year large numbers of human beings burnt up in fire traps, killed or maimed on railroads, in mines, factories and mills, all victims of capitalist greed!

We see two millions of children denied the conditions to health, culture and youthful joy, slowly destroyed in these same mills!

We see a huge army of women, the potential mothers of the coming race, being physically ruined in these sweat shops of capitalism!

We see courts corrupted and legislatures bribed to kill laws which would overcome or alleviate these monstrous conditions!

We see laws framed by "jack-potting legislators, not for the "general welfare" of all Americans, but to advance the Big Interests!

We see the toilers of the country, supporting a huge army and navy, not for the "common defense" of all Americans, but to protect the private property of the big corporations here in the United States and in the exploited islands of the seas!

We see our men and boys driven into the army and navy by enforced idleness emanating from the wretched conditions of the System, and shipped to every nook and corner of the globe, to protect the private property of the corporations!

We see, in the past few years, the strike, the boycott, the unfair list, peaceful picketing and the right of peaceful assemblage declared unconstitutional by the agents of these corporations sitting in the highest courts!

We see the freedom of the press bought up and now they are laying the ropes to deprive us of free speech by making a precedent of the cases of Ettor and Giovannitti, Socialists agitators in Lawrence, Mass., as "accessory before the fact" to any disorder or crimes which may be precipitated by hired strike breakers or brutal police!

In the face of all these facts, is it strange, my friends, that we Socialists think there is something radically wrong with our "Good old Constitution"?

Justice — tranquility — blessings of liberty — fudge!

As a matter of fact, the preamble to the Constitution was never meant to be anything but a bait to catch the plain people.

We remember the very suspicious circumstances under which the Constitution was made. The truth about the making of the Constitution was not known until fifty years after the Constitutional convention adjourned. We are told by history that the convention sat four months in daily sessions and debates behind closed doors; that it adopted rules to the effect that no report was to be made of these star-chamber sessions! That no journal of the proceedings was to be kept or made public!

Fortunately for posterity, however, Madison, afterward president of the United States, took copious notes of all that was said and done, and after he died fifty years later his widow presented the Madison journal to the Government and it was published.

Now why all this secrecy?

It was well explained in a speech by Alexander Hamilton, and recorded in the journal itself The plain fact is, that these secret makers of the Constitution were afraid to have any popular discussion of the subject under consideration.

The delegates to that convention were reactionaries! The men who fought the Revolutionary War, as is usual in such cases, had gone back home to build up their wasted fortunes, leaving the government in the hands of politicians and interest hunters.

ONLY SEVEN OF THE IMMORTAL FIFTY-SIX WHO SIGNED THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE WERE PRESENT AT THAT CONVENTION.

Samual Adams, the "Father of the Revolution," was not there. Patrick Henry, the fearless orator of freedom, was not there. Thomas Jefferson, the architect of independence, was not there. James Otis, the hero of the Revolutionary struggle, was dead, and Joseph Warren, who had such a splendid share in rights, lay in his couch of glory on Bunker Hill.

A new set of men with new ideals, new interests, were in complete control at that convention, and every move they made indicates that they were trying to put something over the people—and they did it!

Whoever will read the Madison Journal will be astonished at the Tory sentiment among the delegates.

They talked about the "danger to be feared from the passions of the mob," the "turbulency of the masses" and the "irresponsible and uninformed public," and they seriously debated for days whether or not to make this country a monarchy!

No, we Socialists do not revere the ORIGIN of the Constitution, neither do we have any great confidence in its efficiency as a protector of popular rights.

There is one clause, however, in the Constitution, which we advocate and approve of, which these delegates, reactionary as they were, were compelled to insert, in order to put it over, though they hedged it about by great difficulties—still it is there —thas is the clause which gives the people of these United States the right to change the Constitution from time to time as they see fit in the light of their experience!

And that is what we propose to do, my friends! We propose to amend the Constitution and amend it until it is a Constitution of the people, for the people and by the people!

Or, if our opponents compel us to do so, we will make a new Constitution. WE THE PEOPLE, according to the preamble. WE are the rightful sovereigns of these United States and WE ARE GOING TO MAINTAIN OUR SOVEREIGNTY.

WILLIAM D. HAYWOOD ARRESTED IN BOSTON

Taken After Great Meeting On the Common.

Boston, Sept. 15.—Immediately after he had concluded a speech urging a general country-wide strike as a protest against the incarceration of Joseph J. Ettor and Artura Giovannitti on indictments charging them with being accessories before the fact to the murder of Anna La Piza at Lawrence during the strike of last winter, William D. Haywood, of Denver, member of the National Executive Committee of the Socialist party and general organizer of the Industrial Workers of the World, was arrested by members of the District Police Force on the Common this afternoon on the charge of "conspiracy."

It was well understood that Haywood would be arrested the moment he set foot within the borders of Massachusetts, an indictment having been returned akainst him charging "conspiracy" in connection with the outbreaks at Lawrence, but the State police allowed him to have his say to the multitude of textile workers from Lawrence and other mill cities before they served the warrant.

Boston, Sept. 16.—William D. Haywood left for Lawrence early today to answer before the Superior court there a charge of conspiracy in connection with last winter's bitter industrial war at Lawrence between the woolen mills and 30,000 operatives. According to District Attorney Atwill of Essex county, the conspiracy alleged in an indictment returned against Haywood and others was they plotted to "unlawfully maintain a strike by inciting to violence and intidimation."

GIRL IS MOBBED, BANK WRECKERES FREE

Modern Christian (?) Justice Up In Huron County.

Norwalk, Ohio, Sept. 13.—Dressed as men, half a dozen women of Clarksfield, a small town near here, after warning an 18-year-old girl to leave the village, caught her on the road after dark, stripped off her clothing and gave her a coat of tar. Following the tarring, she and her sister left town. Clarksfield authorities declared today they would not investigate. The authorities had urged the girl to leave town.

Before it was certain that the girl and her sister, aged 20, had left the village, which has about 100 population, women stoned the house of their father.

Clarksfield is in Huron county, where at Norwalk a few years ago two or three men, one a Republican congressman and labor crusher, wrecked a bank thereby robbing depositors and stockholders of hundreds of thousands of dollars. No mob molested either of these crooks. They are queer folks up around Norwalk.

Bull frogs have green backs. Bull Moose have not but they will have if the people are fools enough to elect them to some of the offices they are so earnestly seeking.

LETTER FROM THEODORE THE BIG NOISE — WANTS SUPPORT OF COLUMBUS SOCIALIST.

Progressive Hill, N. Y., 9-16-12.

Editor Columbus Socialist,
Columbus, Ohio.:—

Comrade Editor—While in your city last spring I gave your reporter $1.00 for your paper and the dear old Appeal. I have been an earnest reader of your paper each week. When not at home I always have my secretary forward it to me so that I do not miss a single issue.

I have been somewhat grieved since I nominated myself for President, at the attitude you have assumed towards my party. I might add that Mr. Perkins, who is at the head of the Harvester trust, and is financing my campaign, is also very much grieved at the stand you have taken. The fact of the matter is that you do not seem to realize what a great man I am. Beside me Washington was a piker, Thomas Jefferson a mere dub, and Abe Lincoln a boob. In my party I am IT, spelled with both letters capital, and your inconsistent sheet must realize it, or by the shades of the little 14 year old Spanish boy I shot in the back at San Juan hill, I will wield my big stick and put you out of business. That's me. If you think the American people have gotten over the idea of being humbugged you are badly mistaken. There is only one man who could begin to compare with me, and that was P. T. Barnum. Barnum said "The American people like to be humbugged," and that is the motto that rules my life. If Barnum were alive today he and I would have the greatest aggregation of tame Bull Moose that ever came down the pike. As it is, me and Perkins are not doing so badly. We have them so tame that they eat out of my hand without the least fear.

Another inconsistent position you have taken, is in bumping me for stealing 21 planks from the Socialist platform. There is absolutely no reason for you to worry about the matter, as they are re-written, so that Big Bix has nothing to fear. I wish to state Perkins wanted to steal two more and make it 23, but I objected as I am a bit superstitious.

In conclusion, allow me to remark that I trust you will now see the light, and get behind my candidacy, and boost me into the Presidency. I don't care a rap whether you support the local Bull Moose ticket in your county or not. I am not looking out for them. I want the job of being President for myself, so that the Steel Trust, Harvester Trust, and all other trusts can continue doing business at the old stand.

Yours for the trusts,
THEADORE MOOSEVELT.

ONE WISE CARDINAL AT LEAST.

The Irish World: At a recent Benedictine jubilee celebration at Ampleforth, England, Cardinal Bourne made made some common sense remarks as to Socialists and Socialism. He did not use hard words, but rather recommended patient reasoning without acrimony in dealing with the question. It is a a mistake, the Cardinal thinks, to regard the powerful forces working for Socialism and secularism as necessarily and essentially hostile to the church. The church, in virtue of her principles, aims with all her power to build up a population contented as possible on this earth and to be happy thereafter. The Socialists, too, whose sense of what is right and just and honest has been evoked by many of the prevailing social conditions, though they do not think of the world to come, have, nevertheless, to some extent the same object as the church, insofar as they are laboring to secure contentment in the present life.

"In view of this aspect of the case, Cardinal Bourne considers that Catholics who possess the knowledge of revelation and who know that contentment in this life is part of God's plan, ought not to regard those opposed to them in so many other ways as necessarily their enemies. The mission of Catholics in relation to the question is to do their best patiently and without the spirit of antagonism to show that their principles are not contrary to those which their supposed opponents have most at heart. Moreover, they should try their utmost to come into contact with those of the other camp and to show them the church, too, labors for the well being of the people. In this way it is possible to win over many of those who now seem most bitterly hostile. Such is Cardinal Bourne's "plan of campaign" as to Socialism. The Catholic Times pronounces it a "statesmanlike utterance." We have no doubt that will be the judgment of all intelligent Catholics who give the matter careful and impartial consideration.

THE VANDERBILT BALL.

By Gordon Nye.

Expensive balls given by the idle rich are common everyday affairs.

In fact, we are so used to monkey parties, butterfly balls and other social functions indulged in by the "upper class" that unless something startling happens we pay no particular attention to them.

But here is a story of a wonderful entertainment.

This particular affair was called a Persian ball and was planned by Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, wife of a New York railroad magnate.

The ball ended at dawn, when the wearers of ten millions of dollars worth of jewels left a scene which probably was the most elaborate ever set for a single occasion given by any one individual in the world.

For the night of fashionable entertainment Mrs. Vanderbilt gave her guests she is estimated to have spent $175,000.

Rather a deucedly clever way of spending money, don't you think? And don't forget Bessie, the sewing machine girl, James the butler, Jim the electrician, Bill the florist, and Abraham the grocer, all benefited by this lavish expenditure of money. The poor must live, you know.

At this ball there were brocaded hangings, rare rugs from Persia, India and Turkey, fountains of gold and ivory, huge search-lights that turned the court into a wonderland of dazzling colors, avenues of tropical trees, a special theater built for one night's entertainment, a ball room hung with painted canvasses that transformed it into a Persian landscape, and silk covered divans from which the richly dressed men and women watched a $5,000 performance of "The Merry Countess," brought from the Casino in New York.

Of course everybody had a good night. Everybody drank and "ragged" until daylight. Such a thing as work never worries swell society. There is no tomorrow, no going into the shop or mill in the morning. Eat, drink and be merry was the rule at Mrs. Vanderbilt's ball. There was not only an elaborate dinner served by Sherry of New York fame, but a breakfast as well.

Yes, it was a glorious night and it cost only $175,000. A mere trifle. While hundreds of thousands of human beings, men, women and children are struggling for existence and the great masses of them are doomed to die as paupers, Mrs. Vanderbilt spends $175,000 for one night's entertainment.

This is as it should be. Isn't it her money? Didn't Mr. Vanderbilt earn it? Of course he did, Silly! Therefore they have a perfect right to spend it as they please. Don't when rich people spend their money they put it into circulation and that you and I who work for wages are all liable to get a dollar or two of this money. If they didn't spend it, wouldn't we be in an awful fix? You bet.

Without money we would join the bread line. So let's sing songs of praise to Mrs. Vanderbilt, the benevolent lady who puts her hard-earned money into circulation to bring joy and blessings to all of us who are doomed to a life of drudgery in this land of the brave and the home of the free.

But just a parting word, brother. There are thousands of men working on the Vanderbilt railroad who get the magnificent sum of $1.50 a day. They toil from sunrise to sunset building tracks, repairing bridges, running trains and handling freight. They do all the useful work and make Vanderbilt's dividents possible.

Vanderbilt owns the machine (the railroad) all of us must use. He has locked up in his private vaults some printed slips of paper called bonds, and by virtue of that ownership he exacts the right to exploit all those who use the railroad and all those whose labor maintains it.

All these thousands of men who receive $1.50 for their work actually do from $4 to $8 worth of productive labor a day, but the private ownership by Vanderbilt of this public utility gives him the right to steal $5 a day from each laborer, gives him the privilege to enslave a large mass of human beings, gives him the power of life or death over men—for under the present system of private ownership of jobs a job means life and the man who owns the job controls the worker.

But all these monkey parties serve a purpose and teach a lesson.

Wealth concentrated in the hands of a few as the fruits of exploitation of the masses inevitably contains within itself the elements of its own destruction.

It was so with the ruling patricians of ancient Rome. It was so with the royalty of France just preceding the revolution.

The vulgar, brutal, reckless extravagance of the Vanderbilts and Fishes are the symptoms of social disease and decay. So on with the balls. Let them eat, drink and be merry, for those whom the Gods would destroy, they first make mad.

We do not want your fool vote, we want your brain, your labor, your support, and encouragement—and then we are most anxious for your vote.

The saving habit is good—but it ought to begin in the industries, in the saving of profits, interests, rent and other tributes, and the saving of duplications and waste that comes of enforced idleness. Compared to the waste of individual extravagance among those who receive a fourth of what they produce, the other waste is like a sea beside a jug.

A PETITION

For Intervention In Louisiana.

Honorable Wm. H. Taft,
President of the United States,
Washington, D. C.

Your Excellency:

The daily papers of even date, September 9th, 1912, report that you are seriously considering the calling of Congress in special session for the purpose of authorizing intervention in Mexico, on the ground that there American Citizens have been "robbed, assaulted and even murdered." Should you issue this call, we petition Your Excellency to at the same time ask Congress for authority to intervene in the State of Louisiana, for here a Republican form of Government no longer exists, all the guarantees of the Federal and State constitution having been overthrown by a combine of corporations known as the Southern Lumber Operators Association.

As ground for this petition, we set forth the following illegal acts and inhuman deeds: The Association, operating over several Southern States, has established a "clearing house for labor" and no man, today, can secure employment in the Southern Lumber Industry, unless he takes an anti-union oath and signs an employment application blank releasing everyone, except himself, from legal liability; it has, through this "clearing house," black-listed and hounded from State to State more than One Thousand men, thereby causing them, their friends and families untold suffering; it holds thousands of other workers, especially the colored people, under conditions that are nothing short of peonage; it has fenced in whole towns, even including the United States Postoffice; it forces us, the Post Offices in the Timber Belt being nearly always in a Company commissary, or under the Company's control, to register large amount of our mail or it never reaches destination; the Association thereby committing against us what it cries from the housetops we are intending to do, sabotage in one of its worst forms; it has imported into the States of Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas and Mississippi an army of gunmen of the worst and lowest type and these thugs have been commissioned as deputy sheriffs by the local authorities and turned loose to carry on their trade of promoting lawlessness and murder. A few specific cases will prove to Your Excellency that we have not overdrawn the picture of conditions existing in the Southern Timber Belt, especially in Louisiana, though its State government is now in the hands of "Progressive" Democrats and Republicans.

Several months ago President A. L. Emerson of the Brotherhood was assaulted in Lake Charles, La., by general manager Sheffield Bridgewater of the Industrial Lumber Company, knocked down, and nothing was ever done to Bridgewater; at Zwolle, La., Organizer Wiggins was only saved from being lynched by the thugs of the Sabine Lumber Co. by the timely arrival of Union men and sympathizers, and not one of these thugs was even so much as arrested; at Oakdale, La., on July 6th, '12, a thug of the Industrial Lumber Co. fired two shots from a rifle at H. G. Creel and, when Creel attempted to make an affidavit against his would-be assassin, he was told he "could not do so, as he was not a resident of Louisiana," and, when he finally made the affidavit, the thug was immediately released on bail; on July the 7th while the Brotherhood and its allies were holding a meeting on the public road at Grabow, La., they were fired upon by gunmen concealed in several different places on the plant of the Galloway Lumber Co., three men were killed outright, two Unionists and one gunman, and forty or more wounded, one of whom has since died, a Unionist, making a total of four deaths on account of the Grabow "riot."

Though women and children were in our assembly, the meeting was fired upon by fifteen to twenty gunmen, using pump guns and rifles loaded with buckshot and soft-nosed copper cased bullets, which last is a weapon we understand the laws of war prohibit being used even against savages. Immediately following the trouble, our people were arrested and indicted by the wholesale and there are now sixty-four of our men and boys in the parish prison at Lake Charles, La., awaiting trial on three charges each of murder in the first degree, while our Grand Jury released all the Sawmill Owners and their gunmen. Since the "riot," during the month of August, Carl Cunningham was strapped to a log and frightfully beaten by the thugs of the Great Southern Lumber Co., at Bogalusa, La., because he was "suspected" of being a Union man, and Wm. M. Witt, at the same place, was called into the Company's "police headquarters" for having committed the crime of distributing a few of our appeals for funds with which to defend our indicted brothers, cross-questioned and insulted in the vilest manner for over 3 hours and then ordered out of town at midnight under "penalty" if he ever returned. Not is this one-tenth, Your Excellency, of the crimes and outrages that have been committed by the private army of the Association. Contrary to all law and Constitutional guarantees, the Association has proclaimed martial law and established a reign of terror throughout the State and the Governor of Louisiana, having ignored all our protests and petitions for redress of these lawless and unbearable conditions; Therefore Your Excellency, we petition you that you ask Congress the authority to intervene in Louisiana as well as Mexico, and this petition we make of you on the ground that a Republican form of Government no longer exists in the State of Louisiana.

Respectfully yours,

BROTHERHOOD OF TIMBER WORKERS,
By Committee of Defense.

ANSWERING THE REV. BISHOP KEENE.

BY JOHN M. O'NEIL.

The Most Rev. James J. Keane has written an article for the August number of The Columbiad, the official organ of the Knights of Columbus. Under the caption, "The Social Problem and a Remdy," the exalted dignitary of the church uses the flail on what his prolific imagination conceives to be Socialism.

If the editor of The Miners' Magazine knew as little about Christianity as Keane does about Socialism, he would be looked upon as a heathen and eligible to the worship of the oriental gods of the "chinks." But Keane has climbed to an exalted position in the Catholic church, and countless thousands of men and women have been taught to believe that men versed in Biblical lore and grounded in moral philosophy and theology are competent to speak on questions that affect the material welfare of the human race.

As a general rule the Biblical student or theologian knows but little about economics, and yet, clerical dignitaries are the ones who most strenuously attempt to combat the principles enunciated by Socialism.

These gentlemen protest against the members of the Catholic church making an investigation of Socialism and they brazenly assert that Socialism would abolish the marriage relation, destroy the home and fill the world with fatherless and motherless children.

If their statements are true, then why do these professors of Christianity raise such vigorous objections to Catholics investigating the principles of Socialism? They know that when Catholics investigate and analyze the doctrines enunciated by Socialism, they will discover that men who occupy pulpits in the Catholic church have resorted to falsehood and slander for the purpose of poisoning the minds of Catholics against Socialism.

The most Rev. James Keane in concluding his article presents the following as the solution of the social problem:

"The social problem of our day has at hand a solution. Bring back the sublime idea traced in the pages of the gospel; let men realize that they are but the trustees of the world's possessions, that the poor are, perhaps, in God destined to live in the mansions of peace through all eternity in that loving brotherhood created by the Nazarene. Let the lessons of the gospel be emphasized, let them be brought from the obscurity of the page into the thought and heart of this generation and you shall solve the social problem and rid yourselves of the dangers that one cannot help seeing in revolutionary Socialistic schemes."

The Catholic church and its ministers are found in almost every clime beneath the sun. The advocates and defenders of the Catholic church have been preaching about "the loving brotherhood created by the Nazarene" for hundreds of years, and yet, crime and injustice run riot, and the human race has not yet learned to yield obedience to the scriptural mandate: "Love thy neighbor as thyself!"

The ministers of the gospel have been talking about "the loving brotherhood created by the Nazarene," and at the same time every so-called Christian nation through all the centuries, has been manufacturing machines of murder to maintain the supremacy of a system that proclaims war and breeds murder in the human heart.

Christianity is no worse and can be no better than the system that dominates every institution on earth.—Miners' Magazine.

THIS IS VERY IMPORTANT.

For some months we have been running a combination offer with the Appeal to Reason—both papers for one year, $1.00. This offer was made as a special campaign inducement. The response to date has been very good. This offer will still hold good up to and including November 1st. On that date we will discontinue the offer, as the margin is entirely too small for us to continue it.

Every one who wishes these two papers at the price we offer—$1.00—should order at once.

The attention of The Socialist has been called to the fact that The Week, edited and owned by See-See Philbrick, does not bear the label of the Typographical Union. This seems strange in view of the fact that The Week is Mayor Karb's only personal organ in Columbus and publishes the city advertising. Karb also rode in the first carriage in the Labor Day parade with Sam Gompers, president of the A. F. of L., and James H. Henderson, the local Federation president. Karb ought to show his "friendship" for labor by at least some outward sign.

CHANGES IN STATE TICKET.

The State ticket of the Socialist Party in Ohio has been slightly amended, as will be seen by the list at the head of this page. The changes in all cases were caused by voluntary resignations. W. C. McSheery, of Oxford, takes the place of W. B. Lewis, of Cambridge, for Board of Public Works; W. R. Draper, of Columbus, is substituted for Isador Ladoff, of Cleveland (who left the State), for School Commissioner. Harry Schroeder, of East Liverpool, is on in the stead of B. F. Primmer, of Hamilton, for Supreme Judge, and V. W. Merritt, of Marysville, for George Bundy, of Warren, for Clerk of Supreme Court.

THAT CAMPAIGN FUND.

Roosevelt and his backers have never been willing to make a plain, detailed statement of the sources of the enormous sums of money that were used in electing him in 1904. Consequently, curiosity grows as to where they got it. If they had told, in the first place, the whole thing by now would probably be a closed book—and Roosevelt would not be a candidate. He would have gracefully retired and rested on his rather thorny laurels. But they did not tell, and he has been raising an enormous amount of noise about malefactors of great wealth, criminal trusts as opposed to good, big business, and other things. But he has been caught with the goods in several instances—Standard Oil "gifts"—no, they were not bribes—the Harriman dole, the Steel Trust and the Harvester Trust and life insurance appropriations, and other things. Charles Edward Russell, Socialist candidate for Governor of New York, nailed him in the matter of the Morgan "touch."

Now, there is a still more unseemly story floating to the surface.

It is this:

In the campaign of 1904, James Stillman, then president of the National City Bank (Standard Oil), sent a personal check as a campaign contribution to Cornelius N. Bliss.

Not to seem one-sided, and also not to take any chances, he sent also a gift of $25,000 to Thomas Taggart, campaign manager of the Democratic party.

Alton B. Parker, much to his own personal loss and distress, in the campaign of 1904, accused Roosevelt of big business alliances, and asserted that the Roosevelt campaign was financed by the trusts. He was promptly called a liar, porch climber, thief and scoundrel, and the wise voters laughed scornfully at him. Then he kept still.

But here is a dual contribution, one of which Parker is alleged to have been the beneficiary. Was he? He spoke and told the truth about the Roosevelt campaign. Now let him speak and tell the truth about his own campaign and the contributions to it.

There is little chance that Roosevelt "knows" anything about this incident, or that he would tell anything about it if he did.

But as the matter of campaign contributions is up for discussion and possible "regulation," it is easily possible for either the Federal or the State authorities to find out whether the National City Bank—good old Standard Oil concern—was a contributor to or investor in both of the candidates in the year 1904. If the books have been "destroyed," then the matter must still hang in the air. But that this story should have come to the surface, and from Wall Street sources, shows that the general impression is that Roosevelt's campaign of 1904 was one of absolute corruption and absolute buying of the office to him.

He will have to go a long way before he is able to prove that his present campaign is not of the same nature.

The announcement has been made in the local daily press that the public school buildings in the city of Columbus may, before long, be used as "social centers," meeting places for the people where the home and the school will be brought together. This is a grand idea and was among the first things urged by The Columbus Socialist nearly two years ago. It is refreshing to find such a conservative body as the Board of Education falling in with our ideas. There should be a room or hall in every school-building where the people of the ward or district can meet to discuss matters of the common weal. The world does move.

SOCIALISM'S STRENGTH AND PURPOSE.

Cosmopolitan Magazine—The gospel of Socialism is preached in more than sixty tongues. Its creed is accepted by thirty million persons. A movement of such magnitude and universality could not spring up without a cause, or continue without a mission. To scoff at it is futile. To ignore it is folly. It must be faced. It should be understood.

And Socialism can be understood quite easily. Despite all assertions to the contrary, its philosophy is exceedingly simple and its program is very definite.

Socialism does not strive to throw back into the melting pot the established social order with the accumulated fruits of the progress of centuries. It does not seek to bring into the world an entirely new type of civilization. It advocates a change in the prevailing methods of creating and distributing wealth—nothing more.

The Socialists demand that the principal industries of the nation, the business of providing the necessaries of life, be conducted by the community for the benefit of its members.

The price of pearls has gone up 25 per cent., and this will make it harder for us to get through this winter.

JOIN THE PARTY ORGANIZATION AND HAVE A VOICE IN ITS AFFAIRS.

Every man and woman who believes in the principles of the Socialist Party should join the party organization and participate in the management of its affairs and the extension of its propaganda.

The final decision on everything in the Socialist Party depends upon the vote of the members. The burden of the work and the financing of campaigns also devolves upon the membership. There are no campaign barrels from wealthy men in the Socialist Party. Its candidates are not assessed as are the candidates of the old parties. There are no bosses whose word is law, there is no trading for political office or nominations.

The members of the party pay dues amounting to twenty-five cents each every month, and when this is not sufficient to conduct the work of the organization or to carry on campaigns special donations are called for and they always come in small sums from the rank and file.

Distribution of literature, watching of polls and similar work is done by volunteers.

We are entering a campaign in Columbus and Franklin county which promises the election of several Socialists to the legislature and the election of a Socialist county and district ticket. It is both the privilege and the duty of every believer in the Socialist program to join the organization and become an active part of this great movement.

The address of the secretary of the Columbus organization is O. G. Van Schoyck, corner High and Rich streets. Write to him today and secure an application card and whatever information you desire.

About 97½ per cent. of the thing called "thrift" consists in the fine art of getting what other people make without returning a full equivalent or losing your standing in society. It's all right to be thrifty, however, so long as it is not illegal nor ill-mannered nor irreligious to appropriate the fruits of other people's labor.

If it were your job to distribute all the merchandise of your town, would you distribute it by the same methods that are now employed? How many different buildings would you rent or have built to use as "stores?" If you would have a better and more sensible way of doing things in case it were your job, then why don't you vote for a better and more sensible way of doing things when the opportunity is offered you?

Boosters' Department

By F. E. JOHNSTON

Today belongs to Capitalism, tomorrow to Socialism.

Now the forces of reaction are in control, tomorrow shall see the institution of the cooperative.

Commonwealth. Today sees the entire world in slavery, tomorrow shall see the emancipation of the human family.

Today sees the lives of the children of the working class, ground up into dollars to furnish banquets, monkey dinners, and mistresses for the idle rich. Tomorrow shall see these children in school learning to become real men and real women.

We have been slaves long enough. In tones loud enough to be heard around the world we proclaim our freedom. Not in an attitude of supplication do we come to ye, ye masters. Long enough have we begged for a mere pittance. We have gone into business for ourselves, and where formerly we, the working class, begged, we are now demanding, and that demand includes the earth. Yes, we are demanding the earth, and we intend to TAKE it. It matters not to us how loud and long you raise the cry, "that your property rights are sacred." Human life is the only sacred thing with us. Everything you now possess, that is used by you to exploit labor will be taken from you, and that quickly. The day of reckoning is at hand. Your doom is sealed. In every town and hamlet, in every clime, men and women are pushing our propaganda of education.

Every piece of literature distributed is one more nail in your coffin.

Every sub taken for a Socialist Paper brings your doom nearer.

Yes, we are working, and in this county this fall this paper will be the means of carrying this congressional district for the working class.

Let every Comrade and sympathizer send in subs at this time and listen for the echo in November.

Comrade Randall, Springfield, Ohio, sends in his renewal. He can't do without it.

Time will not permit us to mention the individual comrades who turned in Subs this week. The total number of Subs, however, was 229. Mostly for 3 months. A great portion of these Subs came from out in the state, which is a very good indication that the paper is delivering the goods. The united efforts of every Socialist is necessary to tide us over, and Subs is the only sure way to do it. Let us hear from every Booster next week.

Don't forget to use Red Tickets and purchase from our advertisers. Do this, comrades, and this office will rise up and call you blessed.

A CREED IN BRIEF.

I believe in the home—that it should be happy. I believe in religion—that it should be the highest outpourings of the affections. I believe in opportunity, as the rightful heritage of all. I believe in work, but not in drudgery; in service, but not in servitude. I believe in happiness as the legitimate fruit of opportunity and freedom. I believe in humanity. I believe in myself, and the rights I have in common with everything that lives. C. L. PHIFER.

WHAT PROFIT MEANS.

Profit is the sum of all capitalistic villainies. It means to the workers:

Narrrow lanes and slum hovels.
Adulterated food and shoddy clothing.
Fears for the future.
Unpleasant memories of childhood.
Insults from those above.
Envy of those beneath.
False religion.
False economics.
False press news.
Cable lies.
Tyrannical government.
Bullets and bayonets.
In fact, there is nothing too evil to be done for profit.

NATIONAL CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE.

Greetings Across the Nation!

(Telegram) Camden, N. J., Sept. 6.
"Eugene V. Debs,
Los Angeles, Calif.

"Heartiest of comradely greetings to the Socialist presidential party on the Pacific Coast from the Socialists vice presidential party on the Atlantic Coast. Hands and hearts across the continent.

"EMIL SEIDEL,
"Socialist candidate for vice president."

Comrade Debs reports from Oakland, Calif: "All our meetings are great, splendid and inspiring. The only trouble is the houses are far too small to hold the people who desire to hear the message of freedom."

Comrade Seidel reports from Hagerstown, Md: "Everywhere I find the comrades are determined to win. Their fighting blood is up and all else must stand back. The spirit is that of victory. Our audiences are large, enthusiastic and attentive. Everywhere our meetings have by far exceeded in size the biggest meetings of any of the other parties."

The opening campaign meeting at Riverview Park, Chicago, June 16th, holds the season's record for an outdoor political meeting. The Socialists will also hold the record for hall meetings. On Saturday, September 23th, Comrade Debs will speak in Philadelphia in the new Convention Hall, which seats 10,300 people. It will be filled. The next afternoon, Sunday, September 29th, Comrade Debs and Comrade Seidel will join forces in Madison Square Garden in New York City.

The capitalist press is commenting on the fact that our candidates are the only ones for which the people, and multitudes at that, will pay admission to hear tell of the issues of the campaign. Phoenix, Arizona, reports a packed hall and $124.25 net profit on its meeting. Reno, Nevada, reports a capacity meeting and $180.36 net profit.

The National Campaign Committee is sending out tons of literature, charging the cost of shipping. The production costs must be met by contributions. Every member or sympathized who can spare a dime or a dollar is invited to help in this campaign of education. Send remittances to the National Campaign Committee, Chicago, Ill.

Give the National Campaign Committee the benefit of the profits of ef campaign supplies. Send your orders to 111 North Market Street, Chicago, Ill.

SENTENTIOUS SENTENCES.

By Anna Morton Barnard.

A great womanhood will make a great motherhood.

"Too dirty for women" reflects small glory upon man.

The franchise is neither the first nor the last of woman's desires.

Anti-suffrage reminds the thoughtful of anti-opportunity.

Where woman's weakness becomes her pride the thought of freedom shocks her.

Perhaps some men oppose freedom for women because of what they themselves have done with their freedom.

A cook stove and a cradle may be a world in themselves, but that world is too small to live in.

It is not strange that all the tyrants among men are with the anti-suffrage movement, and that they applaud it loudly.

How can we mother the race if we are not to have practical experience of what that race needs? Blind mothers do not lead their children.

The "conservatism of woman" is the conservatism of those who have been taught to look up to masters and lawgivers for their views.

Local Party News

Under this head will be published the news concerning the activities of the Ward Branches of the Socialist Party in Columbus and from Locals in Franklin County. All news and announcements should be sent in not later than Wednesday morning.

THE CITY CENTRAL COMMITTEE

HUNGARIAN BRANCH ORGANIZED.

A Hungarian Branch was organized at 2900 South Parsons avenue last Monday by Comrade Boday, a speaker of that nationality from Chicago. The organizer did not arrive until about 9:30 but those interested remained.

DELEGATES TO MOLDERS' CONVENTION.

Comrade N. C. Gallentine, Thirteenth Ward, leaves tonight (Saturday) for Milwakuee to attend the Iron Molders' convention which meets Monday, September 23rd.

Comrade Gallentine is a delegate and goes instructed to vote for the Initiative, Referendum and Recall in the Molders' Union.

The other delegate, Chas. Miller, goes with the same instructions from Local 145.

WARD LAWN FETES.

The First Ward had its second successful lawn fete of the season last Saturday night with the usual big crowd. The speakers were D. J. Farrell and A. C. Eby of Columbus, and C. E. Ruthenberg of Cleveland. The same evening the Sixth and Seventh Wards united in a lawn fete and cleared quite a sum of money. Both these affairs had been postponed but proved winners after all.

GLEE CLUB FALL FESTIVAL.

The Socialist Glee Club Forward held its Fall Festival at Helmandale last Sunday in spite of the steady rain. Several hundred singers were present from out-of-town points, principally Dayton and Glouster. The Germans always have a good time and last Sunday was no exception.

MEETING AT BRENT HALL.

Gertrude Breslau Hunt will speak next Thursday evening at Brent Hall, corner of High and Town, under the auspices of the Columbus Commonwealth Club, upon the subject, "What Life Means to Me." Admission 10c. Comrade Hunt is a Socialist speaker of national reputation.

COLUMBUS SOCIALIST SPEAKERS ON WARPATH.

Comrade F. E. Johnston spoke last Saturday evening at Ostrander and found a live, working local, mainly farmers. Comrade Bates will speak at Ostrander September.

Comrade W. C. Bates spoke Saturday night and Sunday for Local Buckeye in Guernsey County to audience of miners and farmers, and in spite of the rain had good results. Senatorial Candidate Comrade "Bill" Crawford, of Pleasant City, ably seconded Comrade Bates' effort. Buckeye asks for another Columbus Socialist speaker.

GRAND OLD PARTY HARD UP.

Chairman A. E. Sartain of the Republican county executive committee, will probably indefinitely postpone the opening of the county campaign headquarters, or if they are opened at all, they will be necessarily conducted on a very modest expense plan. The reason is that there is practically no money in sight for the use of the committee except what Congressman E. L. Taylor, federal officeholders and County Recorder Henry W. Frillman have contributed.

W. C. Bates—Ostrander, Sept. 28.

ON THE NORTH SIDE 20 YEARS AGO!

Twenty years ago The Capitol Clothing Co. began its career on the North Side in Columbus.

The little Capitol store was opened at the corner of High and Russell streets and began selling working clothing direct to the consumer, Geo. B. Donavin in charge. J. A. Metcalf, then a farmer boy, started on the road selling the retail stores of Ohio, the surplus product over what was sold in the little store at High and Russell streets. After a few hard years' work, the tarveling man's job was abandoned by young Metcalf, and it was decided by Messrs. Donavin and Metcalf to improve the garments by making them better, and, if possible, sell all the product of the factory direct to the consumer. The idea has proved a good one, but was discouraged and laughed at by the retail merchants, but keeping everlastingly at it brought success. Very soon customers were attracted for many miles around.

For 10 years the Capitol Clothing Co. flourished in this building, supplying the people direct and thereby saving the consumer the retailers' profit. The whole community marveled at their success, and two years ago it was found absolutely necessary to again enlarge, and 125 by 150 ft. on High St., 3 minutes north of Union Station, was purchased from the Monypeny estate, and the largest ground floor clothing house in the state of Ohio was built. An exact reproduction of the Capitol Dome" at Washington, D. C., surmounts the top of their new 3-story building, and with its 1060 incandescent lights "lit up" at night, presents the most beautiful electric display imaginable.

Everything Ready-to-Wear is the slogan now. W. H. Muldrew of Cleveland, Ohio, was taken into the firm. Mr. Muldrew is an expert in ladies' ready-to-wear garments and the North Side will now enjoy having a real up-to-date ladies' outfitting establishment. The Capitol Clothing Co. has now been selected as the home of Society Brand Clothes for Young Men and men who stay young.

A good man standing for a bad system is more dangerous than a bad man standing for a bad system. The goodness of the men detracts from the badness of the system and thus helps to perpetuate it.

AN ARTICLE ABOUT HELL.

Written By the Most Religious Member of Our Staff.

QUESTION—Why is it that as soon as a man becomes a Socialist he begins to raise HELL?

PREFACE—When the above question was sprung unexpectedly on the speaker at a meeting in Eastern Ohio he was unable to answer it off hand but promised to do so through the columns of "The Socialist," and thereby served two purposes, first that he did not know it all as some speakers make the mistake of doing (and make a laughing stock of themselves too), and second, secure several subscriptions to "The Socialist" from those interested in the answer to that question.

ANSWER—In aswering that question it must be borne in mind that the new convert to Socialism was either a Democratic or a Republican born with "Hell" in him and the Capitalist Boss of some Mine or Factory started in to hammer "Hell" out of him and had just got the shell cracked when he woke up to his condition and joined the Socialist Party with "Hell" sizzling from every crevice.

That up until very recently all Socialists were made from the raw material out of the Democratic and Republican voters who come to the Socialist Party in their crude state but since "Teethadore Roosterfelt" organized the "Near Deer" party Democrats and Republican do not come to us in the Raw State.

Before the advent of the "Bull Moose" the Socialist Party had to go into "Hell" (the Capitalist party), drag them out and hammer "Hell" out of them before they became GOOD (Indiana) Socialists.

But since the "Great and Only" promulgated "My Policies" he has delved into the depths of the Capitalist "Hell" and rescued many therefrom and to that extent has rendered valuable aid to the Socialist Party for which that Party acknowledges its appreciation.

But do not be deceived, for while the "Bull" has hauled you out of "Hell" he has not hammered all the "Hell" out of you, for as long as you Democrats and Republicans contentedly remained in either wing of the Capitalist Party of course they are "Good fellows," but when they became discontented they began doing things and then the Capitalist Bosses begin to hammer them into submission and then is when they begin to be Socialists and the Capitalist Bosses have just got the "Hell" in them stirred up and the Socialist Party gets them just in time to see Hades exuding from every pore in their system.

Now that the "Bull-Doe" Party (Bull-Dosers) is a sort of half way station (a pugatory, if you please) most of the hell-fire and brimstone in their system will be consumed before they get out of the "pugatory" and the Socialist Party will get them in a pretty good shape. They will be out of "Hell" and some (not all) of "Hell" will be out of them.

"You must realize that it takes time to do a good job at anything and to do a good job in making Socialists out of Democrats and Republicans requires from two to five years.

Therefore if you will bear in mind the above facts you will not wonder why newly converted Socialists show extravagant evidence of their former associations. Some Democrats and Republicans are so thick-skulled and dense in the upper story of their anatomy that it will not only take time but an automatic, hydraulic, double trip-hammer geared to greased lightning speed operated twenty-four hours a day to get all the Capitalism hammered out, and when that is done there is not enough left to make a Socialist, you will more fully appreciate the work of the Socialist Party, when after years of hammering they find there is not intelligence enough left to make a Socialist and they are recalled and expelled from the party as in the case of David Goldstein, Shook and some others.

John Meyer of John Meyer & Son, cloak manufacturers at Third and Long Streets, was last week just 50 years old. In observance of his birthday celebration the employes of the firm, which was brought to Columbus a year ago by the chamber of commerce, yesterday presented Mr. Meyer with a handsome gold watch fob. F. H. Hysell, assistant secretary of the chamber of commerce, acted as spokesman and made a felicitous speech.—Dispatch.

The Meyer concern is, without doubt, the worst scab shop that ever afflicted Columbus. The rotten Chamber of Commerce did bring it to Columbus and that one act is enough to damn the C. of C.

In the near future we will have the retail grocery business controlled by the trust or chain stores. They undersell until they drive the independent stores out of business, then they have a monopoly and can charge what they please. England has gone through that experience and today the only thing that stands between the consumer and exorbitant prices is the Co-operative Society with its thousands of stores and its membership who are loyal to their own class and to themselves.

The Franklin Co-operative Company, was incorporated on this plan and has opened its first store, at 529 North 20th Street, and asks the patronage and support of all consumers, who believe in lower prices and in a square deal,

SOCIALISTS IN ACTION

News from the World-Wide Movement of the Workers

GENERAL SOCIALIST NEWS.

The Hon. Prof. Wilson may be a great historian and authority on dead languages and deader economic theories, but when he meddles with modern movements he makes a childish exhibition of himself.

At Buffalo last week the would-be President commented on the minimum wage question and said:

"A minimum wage law would bring wages all down to the minimum permitted by law."

That's a very bright thought, indeed, coming from a man supposed to possess the wonderful knowledge and ability that Wilson does.

If Wilson's assertion contains any truth whatsoever, then J. J. Kirby, C. W. Post and every labor-hater in the country would have demanded minimum wage laws long ago, instead of opposing the idea fully as vociferously as Wilson does.

The fact that the capitalist class as a whole bitterly oppose the minimum wage principle and constantly attempts to break it down has no lesson for the Great Oracle of New Jersey.

Wilson's fears might be realized under only one condition, which he probably had in mind when he pronounced his warning in Buffalo, and that is, that he and such as he, if they had the power of enforcing minimum wage laws, would see to it that wages were all brought down to the standard permitted by law.—Cleveland Citizens.

Jacob S. Coxey, of Massillon, former leader of the Commonweal Army to Washington in 1895, announces that he intends to take the stump for Debs and Seidel and will open his campaign in Philadelphia, Sept. 23. Coxey has been telling the New York reporters that the Socialist ticket will come in third in the Presidential sweepstakes, with Taft in Fourth place. He thinks the odds are in favor of Wilson, with the Bull Con trotting strongly for second place. The Massillonian has been about the country quite a bit and last week when he settled down in an easy chair at the Waldorf-Astoria and discussed hoss racing and his business ventures with a bunch of newspaper fellows he handed out the dope good and strong that socialism is making great strides among the people who must work to eat regularly. He thinks that in four years more everybody will be talking for socialism and demanding immediate relief, no matter who wins this year, by electing a Socialist President and Congress.—Cleveland Citizen.

INDIANA STATE NEWS.

Socialists at Grass Creek, in Fulton county, have organized a local which starts with five members and more are yet to follow. This is the first local to be organized in this county.

Over in Jay county five farmers got together and organized a Local at New Pittsburg. A few speakers will later on help them to increase their membership.

The Terre Haute comrades have rented a large tent with a seating capacity of one thousand for five big meetings during the campaign. Carl D. Thompson was the first speaker on September 8th, and the next one will be the next speaker on October 8, on the 21st. Kier Hardie, Socialist member of the British Parliament, will be the next speaker on October 8, and preparation will be made for an overflow meeting. As Terre Haute is the heart of the Indiana coal district, large delegations of miners are expected from the mining towns. Later on the Local expects to arrange a big meeting in the tent for our presidential candidate.

A request comes from Hillsdale, in Vermillion county, for a speaker and the comrades are ready to organize there and at Montezuma, one mile east in Parke county.

The extensive campaign in Indiana during the summer has nearly exhausted the fundr of the State office so that a special appeal is being sent to all Locals and branches urging them to make generous contributions to the state campaign fund so that the campaign may be continued on the present scale. The appeal is the most important one mailed to the members this summer. Speakers have been sent into every available town and locality where meetings could be arranged and this has been quite a drain on our resources. Preparations are now being made to send three good leaflets free to the unorganized towns and this will be an additional expense. Every member is requested to contribue as generously as his or her means will allow.

The dates of all speakers have been extended into October, and if there are any comrades in unorganized towns who have not had speakers and want them before election day and they read this item they should write the state secretary without delay or there will be no opportunity to secure them.

THE STATE BRANCH.

The Ohio Federation of Labor meets in convention at Canton, October 14, and every union should send its best representative, for at this time arrangements will be made to take advantage of the advance made by the adoption of the new state Constitution.

All of the "labor measures" in the new organic law were made possible by the state branch, and the coming Canton convention promises to be most important. Toledo should maintain its reputation, and send a large delegation to the next gathering.

TRUMBULL COUNTY SOCIALIST PICNIC

Sunday, September 8, was a red letter day for the Socialists of Trumbull county, and many of the Comrades from Youngstown. The occasion was the annual picnic of the Socialist party of Trumbull county, and was held at Avon Park.

The events of the day were speaking and sports. A tug of war was enjoyed by the crowd. The tug was won by the Bundy pullers from Warren against the heavy-weights of the crowd. Several foot races were run.

Comrade George Bundy of Warren was the chairman of the day and he opened the speaking ball at 10 a. m. Comrade C. E Sheplin, of Rootstown, Socialist candidate for Congress from the 19th district, was the first speaker. Sheplin outlined the Socialist position in a masterly manner, and pointed out the necessity of the working class getting together in a class-conscious political party. His remarks met with the hearty approval of the crowd.

Clarence H. Taylor, of Baltimore, Md., was a good speaker. Taylor is a well-booked and skilled talker. He delivered his short speech straight from the shoulder and his telling points were roundly applauded. He exposed many of the tricks of the capitalist class in keeping the workers in subjection.

After enjoying lunch in the delightful groves of Avon, the benches were quickly filled to hear more of the message that meant the emancipation of the working class. Chairman Bundy mounted the platform and in a well pointed remark introduced Comrade Allen Cook, of Canton, Ohio, who spoke at length on the class struggle, the ills of the capitalist system, and pointed out to the hungry worker the logical solution for Capitalism. Comrade Cook made a telling speech and many comrades were enlightened.

George A. Bates, Socialist candidate for State Senate from the 33rd district, made a short talk that met with the approval of the assemblage.

Marguerite Prevey, of Akron, was introduced, and her masterful presentation of Socialist philosophy, her positive points, cutting sarcasm and witty illustrations, makes her easily one of the best lecturers on the Socialist platform.—Youngstown Free Press.

WILL GET BACK HIS PAPERS.

Action taken by the Department of Justice practically assures rights of citizenship to Leonard Olsson, the Tacoma, Wash., Socialist, whose case led to the impeachment investigation and consequent resignation of Federal Judge Hanford, of Seattle.

Hanford annuled Olsson's citizenship papers because he was a Socialist. The case has been appealed to the Federal Court of Appeals, but the department has agreed to a reversal of the Hanford decision, thereby eliminating a court contest.

Acting Attorney General Harr instructed the United States attorney at Seattle to agree to a reversal by the Circuit Court of Appeals of former Judge Hanford's decision.

The national committee of the Socialist party recently voted $250 toward aiding in the fight to restore Olsson's citizenship. The independent proceedings against Hanford were forced by Victor L. Berger, the Socialist Representative from Wisconsin.

JEFFERSON COUNTY MEETING

The central committee of Jefferson county Socialist party met at Rush Run, Sunday, Sept. 8, 1912. Comrade Murray, of Toronto, in chair and Comrade Copeland, of Steubenville, as Secretary. Literary Agent Jas. J. White, Toronto, reports 3,000 pieces of literature for distribution, each local to get whatever amount they need. All literature to date is paid for.

Secretary Copeland reported that it is impossible to secure Comrade Debs at present, Comrade C. M. Brownfield, L. B. 344, Bellaire, offers us assistance in securing Organizer Ella Reeves Bloor. A special committee consisting of R. J. Murray, Toronto; Frank Woody, R. 1, Rayland, and Neal Iach, were instructed to assist Organizer Bloor.

Dillonvale will be organized Friday, Sept. 20, and Comrade Bloor will reach Amsterdam, organize Beigholz and Wolf Run, and at the probably put in some time at the Smithfield fair and other places.

The comrades commended the loyal work of Conrade Carson in his congressional fight and again placed itself on record as supporting this loyal worker.

The Rush Run comrades reported their precinct as the banner woman suffrage town, only one vote being recorded against our women, and the pencil probably slipped in this instance.

Comrade Yingst, our silver-tongued orator from Toronto, made an eloquent and beautiful appeal for our cause. Comrade Harry Yingst is a civil war veteran and strongly opposes our churches organizing Boy Scouts and teaching them the art of scientific murder.

Comrades Murray and Ogden encouraged us by that eloquence that only the right can inspire. This enthusiastic and successful meeting adjourned to meet in Empire, Sunday, September 22, at 2:00 p. m. Everybody welcome. Come.—Steubenville Press.

IN A LAND OF SOCIALISTS.

(World's Work.)

Germany is the most "socialized" nation in Europe. The state owns all the means of communication, railroads, canals, post, telegraph, parcels post, telephones, wireless telegraphs and Zeppelin airships. The cities own the public utilities, are landlords of vast estates, own and manage markets, theaters, electric power houses, bakeshops, meat shops and factories.

A German laborer may begin life attended by a physician or nurse paid by the state; he is christened by a state clergyman; is taught the rudiments of learning and his handicraft by the state. He begins his apprenticeship under the watchful eye of a state inspector, who sees that the safeguards to health and life are faithfully observed.

He is drafted by the state into the army, devoting two of his best years to the Drill Sergeant. He returns to work from the rigor of this discipline; the state gives him license to marry, registers his place of residence and follows him from place to place wherever he moves. If he falls ill his suffering is assuaged by the knowledge that his wife and children are cared for, and that his expenses will be paid during illness, and he spends his convalescence in a sumptuous state hospital.

If he falls victim to an accident the ample insurance, even if he be permanently injured, is a balm to his suffering. If he unfortunately becomes that most pitiable of all creatures, a man out of work, city and state unite to nd or make work for him. If he wanders from town to town in search of work the cities through which he passes offer him free hospitality. If he wishes to move to another part of his town the municipal bureau will be glad to help him find a house, or even lend him money to get one of his own.

If he is in dispute with his employer the Government furnishes a court of arbitration. If he is sued by his master or wishes to sue him, the state has provided a special industrial court. If he is in trouble the city places a lawyer at his disposal.

And if by rare chance, through the grace of the state's strict sanitary regulations and by careful living, he reaches the age of 70, he will find the the closing days of his life eased by a pension, very small, to be sure, but yet enough to make him more welcome to the relatives or friends who are charged with ministering to his wants.

Two hundred thousand dollars a day is the price that Germany pays for this system of industrial pensions alone. More than 16,000 workmen are insured under the accident, old age and sickness acts. This does not include the vast horde of officials who are pensioned in army and navy, preachers, teachers, judges, the national and local civil lists—policemen, firemen, janitors and all the rest. There is only one considerable class of workers left out—the private salaried employees—such as clerks, stenographers, etc. There is a law now in the Reichstag extending the pension acts to this class. Then only a minority of the 65,000,000 inhabitants will be without the benfiet of some public stipend. Germany is the pensioner's paradise.

Editor Columbus Socialist.

Cadiz has lined up for the Social Revolution.

The largest crowd that ever witnessed a public meeting in the history of Cadiz gathered to hear Robert Carson, candidate for Congress, Saturday evening. The auto containing the speakers pulled up at the public square at 6:30 prompt. Comrade Chauncey Davies made the introductory address, outlining the course the speakers would pursue. Comrade Reukauf, the Belmont County representative, followed with a lengthy talk on the economical, social and industrial conditions that prevail, which was met with approval and comment on all sides.? Candidate for Congress Carson then took the crowd in hand and showed that the Socialists of the 16th district had made no mistake in selecting him to champion their cause against the present capitalist system. The crowd was attentive and orderly through the entire meeting with exception when the speaker was making an attack on the peonage that exists in the lumber camps of the South. A prominent lumber merchant of Cadiz who holds an interest in one of the southern lumber companies disputed some of the speakers assertions. Comrade Carson centered a broadside of facts at the gentleman that caused him to haul anchor and steam to deeper water for protection, which brought a round of applause from the audience. Comrade Carson took up about every phase and pointed out the possibility of a new era of civilization. The comrade had an automobile full of literature donated by the Steubenville Press for the occasion, which they distributed in the crowd and which was seized with anxiety, showing that the citizens were desirous of obtaining further enlightenment. The meeting was forced to close about half past nine by a rain storm coming up, but the crowd was reluctant to give up and Comrade Carson was compelled to stand around the street and talk to small crowds of enthusiasts that would gathered to discuss the subject. Several gentlemen confessed that Carson had put them straight on some subjects that they had been at sea on heretofore.

THE COLORED PEOPLE.

Dear Comrade—1,000,000 Negroes I must reach with the message of Socialism my election day. Help me in every way you can.

MY AIM—

FIRST—To issue a call for Colored Socialists and sympathizers to meet about the last week of October to plan some means of stirring up a nation-wide interest in the study of Socialism on the part of colored people. This is the psychological moment.

Secondly—I have formed a "Negro Socialist Literature and Lecture Bureau." I have on hand at present the following literature:

1. "Blackmen Strike for Liberty," by Geo. W. Slater, Jr. Price 5 cents each, 12 for 10c, 25 for 25c, 50 for 40c, 100 for 75c, 500 for $3.50, 1000 for $6.00.

2. "Advantages Socialism Offers the Negro," by Dr. J. T. Whitson. 5c each, 100 for $3.00.

3. "The Western Evangel," a monthly magazine, the first published by colored people to teach Socialism. Editors, Revs. L. C. Garland and Geo. W. Slater, Jr. 5c each, 50c a year.

GEORGE W. SLATER, JR.

When, during these tremendous times, we hear a "Bull Moose" argument we can't help thinking of the card, "Tie your little bull outside."

That a soldier at the front is in less danger to life and limb than a railroad trainman, is easily proved by a reference to the reports of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Socialism believes in private ownership of those things we must essentially use, but it wishes collective ownership of the machinery and distribution only that the people may thus be enabled to acquire private property.

REMARKABLE SUPPRESSED SPEECH OF THE FIRST PRESIDENT OF THE CHINESE!!

(Only confused rumors of the speech have been printed in the capitalist press of the world. The matter printed below is a translation by The Coming Nation from Berlin Vorwaerts.):

The republic of China is now established. In resigning my position as provisional president of the republic it does not mean that I have ceased to fight for our cause. On the contrary, in laying down the duties of this office I have gained the liberty and the leisure to apply my strength to far greater tasks. For 270 years China has been beneath the rule of the Manchus. During this time repeated efforts have been made to obtain independence. The Taiping rebellion, a half century ago, was one such an attempt. But that was only a race war.

Even if that uprising had been successful the country would have still been suffering under an autocratic government.

Not many years ago a few of us came together in Japan and founded a revolutionary party. This was based upon three great principles.

(1) The freedom of the Chinese race.

(2) The government of the people by the people.

(3) Absolute control by the people over the product of the land and their labor.

The first two principles have been realized by the overthrow of the Manchu dynasty. The economic transformation remains for us yet to accomplish. It is today a subject of universal discussion, but the majority of the Chinese people do not, as yet, understand its full signicance. They take it for granted that the objects of the political regeneration could take its place on an equality with the military states of the west. But that was not the goal of our efforts.

There are today no nations that are richer than England and America, and none more highly cultured than France. England is a constitutional monarchy and America and France are republics. Nevertheless, in all these countries the chasm between the poor and the rich is great and the idea of revolution is in the veins of its citizens. If a social revolution is not brought about in these countries then the majority of the people must remain excluded from the well being and joy of life. Today happiness is confined to a few capitalists. The mass of the workers suffer bitterly and can look forward to no peace.

Some say to us, "Up to the present your revolution has been a success, why are you not satisfied now and willing to wait? Why do you seek to accomplish what England and America with all their wealth and undertake? To follow the advice that these questions imply would be poor policy, for in England and America civilization and industry have developed intertwined, and a socitl transformation would therefore be difficult. We, in China, have not yet progressed so far. A social revolution is for us comparatively easy; it is possible for us to forfend the capitalist stage.

In capitalistic countries the existing interests are powerfully defended and it is difficult to attain to any other foundation. In China there is not up to the present either vested interests or capitalists, and for these reasons a social revolution is comparitively easy.

I am often asked if such a transformation must necessarily be accomplished with violence. For America and England I answer, yes; but not in China. The strike of the British coal miners proves my statement Yet this was no revolution, but simply a desire expressed by an oppressed people in the direction of the possession of the natural sources of wealth, and it appears as if this desire can be gratified only through force. It may easily be possible that for us also the attainment of a social revolution will be difficult, but we are at least in a position to see toward what the complete process is tending and it is not necessary for us to speak of those methods of despair or of the danger to the state which their realization might bring.

If at the beginning of the existence of the Chinese republic we neglect to place ourselves on guard against the capitalism that is already at hand we may expect a new despotism ten times more horrible than that of the Manchus and streams of blood will be necessary to free us from it. Certainly a mournful outlook!

One question especially presses itself upon our attention. As soon as our new government is firmly established it will become necessary to deal with the question of real estate. That is a necessary consequence of the revolution. The interests of progress will compel this. Up to the present the land owners have paid tax on their acreage according as these were divided into one of three classes; best, medium and commno land. In the future the basis of taxation will have to be the value of a man's property, for the quality of the soil varies much more than can be described in three classes. It is very hard to say in what degree the value of the real estate in Nanking varies in relation to that within the Bund (the principal Europeán business street) at Shanghai, and with the application of the previous methods it would be impossible to secure justice in taxation. The land with high value belongs to the wealthy. To place a heavier tax on this would not be oppressive. The less valuable land belongs to the poor people living in thinly settled districts. These should be taxed as little as possible. An equal tax is laid on the land within the Bund and that owned by farmers. But the value of building sites in Shanghai has increased 10,000 fold in the last century.

China is on the verge of a tremendous industrial revolution. Commerce will extend in a gigantic manner and in fifty years we will have many cities like Shanghai. We need only to have intelligence to rightly interpret our future. We have now only to make certain that the increasing value of the real estate goes to the profit of the whole people who already have created it, instead of to the private capitalists who through accident have become the possessors of the land."

INVISIBLE LAW AND THE INFERNAL LOBBYIST.

Governor Glasscock in his interview with the operators is quoted as saying the present trouble in the coal fields was due to the "Invisible law" and the "Infernal Lobbyist." We are all familiar with the "infernal lobbyist." We know this slick tongued agent of the corporate interest who slips into our legislatures like the serpent in the Garden of Eden to corrupt and debauch our representatives, but he, too, is but a hireling of that interest he represents, then it is the interest that employs him that is to blame for his traitorous work. "If the "lobbyist" is the cause of the present mine trouble then the operators who employed him are the first cause. Let the Governor be man enough to come out and lay the blame where it belongs. This mysterious and "Invisible law" or "Invisible government" is something that we fail to understand. What is it? Does such a thing really exist or is it just the hallucination of the transparent and weak mind of the state's chief executive? Does Governor Glasscock mean to admit that he is but the tool of these "Infernal Lobbyists" who wields this mysterious force known as the "invisible law?" If the elected officials of West Virginia are controlled by this invisible body that is more powerful than the written laws of the State, then it is time for the people to go to their assistance and rescue them from the subtle influences of the "Infernal Lobbyist." From the Governor's statement we are lead to believe that this invisible law he alludes to is the hand of the corporate interests that pulls the wires from behind the curtains while the officials of the State and country dance at their will like limber-jacks on a string. We are glad that Governor Glasscock has found the cause of the trouble. If one knows the cause of the trouble they can relieve the effect. It is to be seen if the State's executive is big enough and man enough to apply the remedy. This is no job for a moral or physical coward or weakling, but is a job for a full grown man with the courage of his conviction. The people of West Virginia will not tolerate being governer by any mysterious and "Invisible Laws" and the days of the "Infernal Lobbyist" are numbered.

* * *

Martial law has been declared on the upper end of Paint Creek in Fayette county, but not until after the Baldwin thugs had been given ample time to throw the miners out of their homes. The miners asked for martial law in this district last week but Sen. Elkin's governor held it up until the operators and Baldwin thugs could accomplish their hellish work of illegally ejecting the miners from their homes. If reports be true the miners were ejected in the night and driven like cattle to the mountains. Men, women, and children were driven from shelter and their household goods were thrown out to be destrowed by the weather. While these wrongs were being perpetrated on a defenseless people the state's chief executive was sitting back at the capitol babbling about the "Invisible law" and the "Infernal Lobbyist" who were the causes of the present trouble. After the miners had been ejected and driven from their homes, martial law was unnecessary. Governor Glasscock represents the interests of the "Coal Barons," so what else could the miners expect. You fellows who vote the Democratic and Republican tickets are now getting returns from the election. Stay with it, boys, if your brain is too dull to comprehend and understand you have yet got feeling in your heads and the Baldwins will club the class struggle into you if you can't get it any other way.

Mother Jones must be doing some good work for the miners, judging from the way Big Business and the Coal Barons hate her. Go to it Mother: When you get these fellows against you it is a good sign you are doing good work.—Labor Argus, Charleston, W. Va.

EPIDEMIC OF MISSING GIRLS LEADS POLICE TO SUSPECT WHITE SLAVERS

Cleveland, O.—With eight young girls already missing and two more reported Thursday, police and city detectives began a search for a gang believed to be engaged in luring young girls from home.

A house in Collingwood suspected of being a rendezvous of white slavers is being watched by patrolmen of the Collinwood station. Never before in the history of the police department has there been so many girls reported missing.

The girls reported Thursday were Nellie Blossom Ray, fourteen, Willoughby, and Martha Kashner, seventeen, 2916 E. 46th street.

The Ray girl left home Tuesday. After searching for her around Willoughby for two days, her father came to Cleveland Thursday, and with police began looking for her in the Collinwood district.

The Kashner girl has been missing since August 10. Her stepfather, William Hoffman, reported her disappearance Thursday.

The following girls reported missing in the last three weeks have not been found:

Frances Menovitz, seventeen, 2601 Hoffman avenue; Margaret Carroll, fourteen, Norwalk; Anna Burke, sixteen, 1548 E. 32nd street; Willa Taylor, sixteen, 2189 E. 37th street; Stephenia Nosek, seventeen, Nottingham; Lydia Hasler, fifteen, Conneaut Ella EmEma Hirsch, twenty-three, 1055 E. 67th street; Rena Truppo, twenty, 2095 E. 83rd street.

ORGANIZATION VS. ORGANIZATION.

The accepted ideals, ethics and actions of society as a whole are all inherited and perpetuated by the "successful" members of the community, and by successful ones is understood those who by their careful conformity to the external rules of barter and exchange, as well as by their shrewd knowledge of mankind and their understanding of the present struggle for existence, have successfully devoted their talents to the accumulation of the things which human beings require in order to fully and properly live in the community.

These comparatively few members of the community are, in truth, an organization, and their ideas, their ideals, their laws and their interpretation of these laws are today agreed to by the vast majority of the community.

However, there is developing an organization which is not altogether in harmony with the present accepted opinions of socity as it is now organized under the laws.

This is the organization of the workers in the various labor and trade unions and it is rapidly becoming a conscious political and social factor as well as an industrial entity.

The reason for this radical addition to its activities is due altogether to the opposition which organized workingmen meet when they engage in a struggle with their employers.

When any part of their organization is forced to assert their demands for living wages, shorter hours or safer working conditions, they find that their employers at once seek the aid or protection of the governing power of the city, state or nation.

This assistance is not only given willingly, but it very often that this protection by the political powers is viciously viciously used by both Democratic and Republican o..cials in order to drive the workers back to their jobs.

Now, as political power is supposedly separate and distinct from business or industry, and yet whenever any disputes arise between the workers and their bosses, this political or police power is given freely and immediately to the bosses, it shows that the bosses are not only organized on the industrial or business field, but also on the political field.

This being so clearly evident, and this condition having so frequently been shown during the past twenty years, it is not strange that organized labor has seen the necessity of also organizing politically as well as industrially.

History shows that to successfully fight an organization it is necessary to fight as an organization.

Unorganized workers have always been forced to suffer any and all abuses from their masters, even though the oppression and injustice was the lot of every worker in any particular industry.

WISDOM FROM CLEVELAND CITIZEN.

Some of the ungrateful freaks in the Socialist party who have been bowling at Morris Hillquit, making the ridiculous charge that he was attempting to pose as a boss and endeavoring to drive him out of active service, will have their petty spleen gratified in part at least, and possibly altogether. During the past week, unknown to all but a few friends, Hillquit quietly left his office in New York and went away to take a long rest, only his family being aware of his destination. Hillquitt's nervous system is completely shattered. Physicians advised him a short time ago to immediately cease all business and political activities or his life would be the forfeit. Morris Hillquit's name is synonymous with the growth of Socialism in America. A score of years ago, when ostracism and persecution was the reward of brave men and women who dared espouse the unupopular cause of Socialism, Hillquit joined the movement and by sheer force of intellectual ability and an indomitable will compelled the enemies of the Socialist cause to give it respected attention. Hillquit is physically a small, nervous man, but possessed of a wonderfully brilliant mind that enabled him to meet and surmount obstacles that many bodily stronger men could hardly overcome. While his fame as a lawyer has enabled him to build up a large and lucrative practice that would tax all the powers of an ordinary individual to administer properly, yet Hillquit cheerfully contributed much of his time to strengthen the Socialist and trade union movements. Besides practicing at his profession, he has written several standard works on Socialism, delivered series of lectures before the higher educational institutions on labor subjects, engaged in debates with some of the foremost anti-Socialists in the country, wrote magazine articles, and most exacting work of all, served on the National Executive Committee of the S. P. and kept up with the nerve-racking duties involved in that thankless position. It was while en route to Chicago several weeks ago to attend a meeting of the Executive Committee that the Pennsylvania limited train on which he rode was wrecked and the car in which he was sleeping was reduced to kindling wood. Two men were killed and nearly all the survivors were injured and badly shaken up. It was the last straw for Hillquit. His iron nerve gave way. He tried to laugh down the fears of his family and make light of the doctor's warning, but finally he was compelled to confess to himself that the strain had reached the point where it was necessary to slacken up or something would snap. The physicians who have examined Hillquit are uncommunicative regarding his condition. They won't say that his career in the labor movement is ended and they won't say that it isn't. They don't know. What they do know is that he must retire at least temporarily from public life and keep perfectly quiet. So the small-brained, picayunish pinheads in Illinois, Texas, Ohio and other places who have been barking about "Hillquitism" ever since the little giant of New York exposed their anarchistic tendencies can now do a song and dance for joy. Their ablest opponent is out of the way for the time being and they may continue their ravings until they succeed in precipitating another Haymarket affair or worse. CLEVELAND CITIZEN.

The capitalist class who claim that the management of the industries was given them by Divine Providence, have shown themselves to be very poor managers when they can only employ part of the workers. The working class could not do worse even if they tried to do so. Why not change managers?

REAL WORKINGMAN MAKES FEW REMARKS THAT ARE PERTINENT

Gives Diagnosis of What Ails Ohio State Executive Committee Members.

Editor Columbus Socialist:

The Socialist movement is a large, compact working class movement, and while it may at times seem to some to be losing its class character, yet in the nature of its make-up that is practically impossible. The disrupting influences commonly known as the "Blacks," may at some future time break up the party organization; they may cause a split and it may seem serious, but the large and ever-growing movement outside of the party will be amply able to take care of the Socialist philosophy of Marx and Engels and carry on the work to its ultimate goal—the co-operative commonwealth. Let not the fear of disruption keep you from working just as hard to educate the vast multitude who do not understand our philosophy. Don't let the anti-moralists in our movement swing you from the final triumph of the working class. Petty bourgeoise such as M. Prevey, Josephine Bates, who have never, to my knowledge, done a useful day's work but who prate much about the working class; W. D. Haywood, Marcy and many others who yell their heads off about the lawyers and doctors in our movement—when have they felt the class struggle with their hands? They fear other leaders and in order to keep their bogyman before the comrades of Ohio, they are continually setting themselves up as godfathers and mothers, evolving new ideas, preaching new preachments, fumbling with words and only words, while you, Mr. Workingman, who toil all day in the factory, mill and mine, must be content to do the dirty work. Personally I am tired of this everlasting quarrel over who is going to be leaders. Let those who want to be leaders join the capitalist parties. God knows they need them and we can spare them. Let Bates, Prevey, Haywood, Marcy and La Monte take their new Socialism and start a new Bull Moose party. I am tired of this hair-splitting, quibbling and lying. For myself I am going to continue to preach the old double-dyed-in-the-wool Socialism of Karl Marx. I have been in the trades union movement for thirteen years and I know the futility of trying to organize the General Strike. It may be necessary, but the real necessary thing is to teach the working class that the root of the evils of capitalism lies not in men or measures, but in the system of private profit. When once they know that then they will find a way to get rid of the fleas on the body politic.

Teach your anti-morality, preach your syndicalism, propagate your doctrine of sabotoge or direct action, but be brave enough to get out of the Socialist movement. Don't hide behind the skirts of a clean movement that has some ideals even under capitalism and is going to make a world in which it will be possible to go on to a higher and grander plane of morality and justice. The comrades in Ohio should recall those in the party councils who by their actions in the past have shown themselves unfit to act as executives. Therefore I am going to vote to recall the S. E. S.

BIG BIZ THREATENS NEW CONSTITUTION

Will Make a Legal Fight Against Validity of Election

As predicted months ago by The Columbus Socialist, a legal attack is to be made upon the amendments to the constitution recently adopted by the people. The attack will be made upon two grounds; first, that the constitutional convention had no right to call a special election, and that therefore the election of September 3 and all accomplished by it are illegal, and, second, that certain amendments adopted failed to secure a majority of the total vote cast at the election and are therefore void.

On the first ground mentioned, that of the legality of the election, all of the 34 new amendments will be attacked, according to the report. On the second ground, only 14 will be attacked, as follows: Depositions in criminal trials, limitation of the veto power of the governor, mechanics' liens, judicial reform, abolition of the office of justice of the peace in cities having municipal courts, abolition of the office of an elected state school commissioner, taxation, method of amending the constitution, schedule of amendments and liquor license.

The Ohio Chamber of Commerce and its backers will go to any limit to subvert the will of the people. Big Business generally finds pliant courts to serve their purposes.

If any our our national trust busters succeed in filling their mission we suggest that they endeavor to get a law passed abolishing icebergs.

Agricultural Evolution

FACTS AND FIGURES SHOWING THE EVOLUTION OF THE FARMING INDUSTRY IN THE UNITED STATES

BY A. M. SIMONS

Recent changes in American agriculture have seemed to be in almost conscious preparation for the forthcoming revolution. This is especially striking in the more important agricultural sections. If you will take a pair of compasses and draw a circle with its center at Chicago, and a radius of four hundred miles, the southern half of that circle will embrace the most important agricultural territory in the United States. The only place where any considerable territory is $125 and over per acre, is in Central Illinois. The apparent exceptions in California, Colorado and Washington are explained when we find that the county is always taken as the unit and that there happens to be a few fruit farms in these counties with a high value. In the case of San Bernadino county California, but a little over one per cent of the land is in farms. If only the actual area in which the value runs at $125 per acre were marked it would make a mere dot on the map. The same thing is true of the other western sections.

The states of the upper Mississippi valley which would be touched by our imaginary circle included twenty-three billion out of forty billion dollars of all farm property in 1910, and fifty-three per cent of all the improved farm land in the United States. They raise considerably over half of the live stock in the United States and $1,800,000,000 out of the $2,700,000,000 worth of cereals.

To express this in per centages, this area contains 57.7 per cent of the value of all farm property, 60.7 per cent of the value of all farm land, 51.8 per cent of the value of all live stock, and raises 66 per cent of all the cereals, as measured by values. If we excluded cotton, as confined to southern territory by climatic conditions, the overwhelming predominance of this section would be even more evident. Nor is this domination declining with the development of other sections of the country. On the contrary it is growing greater with each succeeding census. This territory gathered to itself sixty per cent of the value added to farm property during the last decade.

Here then where accessibility to market, the most fertile soil, intensive cultivation and all the other factors that make for progress in agriculture have had their greatest effect we find the conditions that point the way towards which the remainder of the country will move as similar factors are applied elsewhere. If we leave out the two states of North and South Dakota which, although they are classified in this section by the census, do not belong in it economically or physiographically, we find that in this territory where agricultural values have been bounding, where products have been increasing more rapidly than anywhere else in this country, there has been an absolute decrease in the number of farms during the last ten years.

An examination of the following table will show that it is just those states where the rise in values of land and products has been most rapid that the decline in the number of farms is greatest:

State.	1850	1860	1870	1880	1890	1900	1910
Indiana	93,896	151,826	161,289	194,013	198,187	231,897	215,485
Illinois	76,208	145,220	202,803	255,741	240,881	264,151	251,872
Iowa	14,805	61,168	116,292	186,881	201,906	228,628	217,040
	184,909	338,209	480,384	636,135	640,751	714,670	684,401

For thirty years the increase in new farms has been almost insignificant. After 1900 the least fertile and most inaccessible portions having been settled, the next ten years saw 30,000 farms absolutely disappear, and this in spite of the large number of garden plots in the neighborhood of the great cities that were counted as farms.

This fact is so tremendous in its significance that it is worthy of a little further consideration. In industry we are told by reformers that the little industry maintains itself alongside the large and this position is bolstered up by the census figures which, when all industries are included, show a slow but nevertheless, a steady increase in the number of plants.

But in farming, the foundation on which the industry rests does not permit expansion. When all the land is occupied, no more farms can be created. Here then concentration is marked by a positive decline in the number of industrial units.

That there is an actual crowding out of the people who have created the farms of this nation is shown by a fact more portentous perhaps than any of these considered. From the days when the first of the long line of industries was leaving the farm for the city, the children of the farmer have been following their work to the great factory centers. So the town has grown at the expense of the country. Until the close of the nineteenth century it was true only that urban population grew faster than rural. It was also true until these present days, that in the country there was still a majority of the population outside the city. But, this is no longer true. If we count the smaller towns and villages, the open country no longer holds a majority of the population, and when another decade has passed it will find more than half of the population in cities of considerable size.

In all the years prior to the present century, however, it has been a race between the farm and the country, and even though the people in the country were left behind in that race they were still moving forward. It is the distinctive characteristic of the last decade that, during its passage, for the first time in American history the rural population of great sections of the country positively declined. The retreat becomes more ominous when a study of the map showing the growth of urban population reveals the remarkable fact that this decline is most evident and most rapid in just those states that have had the greatest gain in farm values, that raise the most live stock and cereals, and in every way lead the van of American agriculture. It is just such states of Ohio, Indiana and Iowa that shows a declining rural population, and the exception of Illinois is only apparent, as its very slight increase is due to suburban rather than rural growth and its real farming sections have lost in people.

These facts mean that when land values, and product values go up that not only do the number of farms decrease and the proportion of tenants grow greater, but that the children of the farmers are driven out by tens of thousands from the homes their parents treated. And because these sections are representative of the oldest and most advanced type of agriculture we are certain that if this process continues uninterrupted that the children will be driven from the broad acres their fathers tilled to struggle at the factory gates for a chance to sell their strength to some master who can make a profit on that strength.

When we come to trace the changes that have taken place in ownership the real portentiousness of the movements of the last ten years becomes further apparent. It is the farms operated by owners that have decreased more rapidly in all three of these states. There are ten thousand

CREEL DROPS INTO OUR TOWN FOR A FEW HOURS.

Comrade H. G. Creel, of the National Rip Saw staff, was a visitor at The Socialist office last Monday during a stopover in Columbus en route from Pittsburg to his home in St. Louis. Creel is a pleasant-faced, mild-mannered, youngish looking man, who gives by his appearance no indication of the ordeal he has been through in the timber camps and swamps of Louisiana. Creel is a fine example of the tireless workers who are making the Socialist movement what it is.

COLUMBUS SOCIALIST LECTURE BUREAU.

The Columbus Socialist has the following speakers who will go anywhere in Ohio and deliver lectures: J. L. Bachman, A. C. Eby, E. B. Lewis, W. C. Bates, F. E. Johnston, D. J. Farrell. In order to secure one of these speakers the Local must guarantee to sell Sub Cards to the amount of $5.00, and pay expenses of speaker. We will, however, furnish the LOCAL WITH $1.00 WORTH OF SUB CORDS EXTRA, which money can go into the treasury of the Local, or be applied on the expenses of speaker.

Immediately upon the request of the Local for a speaker the Sub Cards will be forwarded by return mail and the Local can have them sold and the money in hand before the meeting takes place. Our object in making this proposition is to boost the circulation of the Columbus Socialist and at the same time carry the message of Socialism to new thousands. The state office will be notified of all meetings held under this plan. Locals desiring one of the above speakers under this proposition will communicate with this office, at once.

ALLOWS RELIGIOUS GARB TO BE WORN.

Taft Decides Not to Revive Order Affecting Indian Schools.

Washington, Sept. 23.—President Taft has decided that the order of Robert G. Valentine, who resigned as United States Commissioner of Indian Affairs, on September 10, prohibiting the use of religious garb or insignia in the Indian schools and missions shall not be revived. The order, which was issued last January, was promptly revoked by the Secretary of the Interior under direction of President Taft.

When Valentine resigned he announced that he had quit in order that he might work for Colonel Roosevelt and the Progressive party. While Valentine said he had resigned for political reasons, it is known that he had not been in favor with the administration for months and the trouble began when Valentine issued the religious garb order.

HERE'S A QUESTION EVERY FARMER WANTS ANSWERED

And Here's the Answer—You Can Keep Your Farm Under Socialism if You Want

The following question and answer are clipped from the Appeal to Reason:

Could a man working under Socialism, owning poor land, with a team and simple tools, compete in the market with goods raised co-operatively, and if not, what would he do?

It would always remain possible for him to join in the co-operative work, and he would do that just as soon as he found it gave him better returns and pleasanter conditions of work. For this reason, while there would be no compulsion about it, co-operative farming would increase until it would become the rule rather than the exception. But it would be a volunteer work on the part of the workers themselves, simply because it was found to be the best.

Many farmers who have only a loose idea of Socialism think that the Socialists are going to take from them the small farm which they have bought and toiled for through many years under Capitalism.

It is the capitalist press that keeps slyly insinuating that, to frighten the farmers away from the door of economic freedom.

The Socialist program does NOT include the forcible ousting of any farmer from his separate farm which he owns and farms. That sort of worker is not in the exploiting class. He is one of the most cruelly exploited; he works twice as long as the average city wage worker and only gets about the same or less return for his labor.

Socialism isn't going to TAKE anything from that sort of worker; it is going to GIVE something to him.

If he will prefer, under Socialism, to continue farming by himself, he will be free to do so; and he will have as much benefit from the collectively owned packing houses, stock yards, grain elevators, tobacco warehouses, etc., the collectively owned railroads, coal mines, iron mines, steel mills, etc., as anybody else. He will also get as much help from the big collectively owned farm machinery as can be applied on his little farm.

But probably when he sees with his own eyes how much less labor and better results are obtained on collectively farmed lands, he will prefer that method.

MORTGAGED FARMS ON THE INCREASE.

Latest Census Figures Show That "Prosperous Farmer" Is Only a Political Platitude.

We have just received an advance copy of the census table on the ownership of farms and farm homes. The figures given in this table are of the utmost importance. They show a steady decline in the number of farms and farm homes owned free and a corresponding increase in the number of those mortgaged.

Of course the movement is not evenly distributed throughout the United States. One section, that of the West North Central States, shows in fact an opposite movement, although the gain in unencumbered property is very slight. The nation, as a whole, however, shows a marked increase in mortgage indebtedness.

We commend this table to the blatant trumpeters of American prosperity. We commend it in particular to the Hon. James Wilson, Secretary of Agriculture, whose annual song of rejoicing over the wealth of the American farmer is so familiar to all of us. We commend it to the venal statisticians of the Common Curse, the anti-Socialist magazine printed in New York, and to a miscellaneous collection of capitalist retainers in forum, pulpit and editorial sanctum.

To other people—to the common herd of voting cattle—we say: Wait for the sequel! Within a week a chorus of explanations will break forth, and within six months it will have been clearly demonstrated by a thousand profound publicists that the figures are misleading, that moreover mortgage indebtedness is a blessing and that anyhow we are all of us—and especially the farmers—enjoying an exceptional degree of prosperity. The figures for the number of farms and farm homes owned free and owned but mortgaged for the last three censuses are as follows:

For the year 1890—Owners free, 2,255,789; owners mortgaged, 886,957; per cent. mortgaged, 28.2.

For the year 1910—Owners free, 2,681,073; owners mortgaged, 1,397,649; per cent. mortgaged, 33.6.

"THE CITIZEN LIED," SAYS Y. M. C. A. OFFICIAL, TO MAN AFTER POSITION

Something Crooked About Alleged Demand for Laborers Being Beyond Supply—Scab Promoters are Busy.

For some weeks past the citizens of this State, and especially of this city, have been regaled with the gratifying news that work in the State was very plentiful. One of the most efficient disseminators of this news has been the Columbus Citizen, which is backing the candidacy of one Doc Wilson for President of the United States. We have been receiving complaints of all kinds from workingmen in this city, who, being fooled by these fake news items, have applied to the free employment agency and other places for employment, have been turned down with scant ceremony with the usual reply, "Nothing doing today." The object of the Columbus Citizen in particular in publishing such fake news is just the same as their object two years ago when they got behind the candidacy of Harmon for Governor of this State under the pretext that he was a progressive and stood for the I. and R. They did their little share towards unloading him upon the honest citizens of this State, and when he later repudiated the I. and R. the Columbus Citizen some time ago had a "Confession of Faith." This reactionary sheet is undoubtedly the worst enemy the working class of Columbus have to contend with. With a great show of progressiveness and "interest in the welfare of the people" it leads the voters to political slaughter.

Here is what the Citizen printed September 19, about the labor situation in Columbus:

"Help! Help! From every factory and shop in Columbus comes the cry of "men wanted," despite that the presidential election is only six weeks off. Common laborers and almost every kind of a skilled mechanic can find a dozen jobs here in almost as many minutes. Reports from a number of the largest mills and factories Tuesday indicated that over 2,000 men are needed. Wages, say the local companies, are the highest paid in their history.

"The Jeffrey Manufacturing Company needs about 500 men and the Ralston Steel Car Company wants about that number. The Buckeye Steel Castings Company and the Kilbourne & Jacobs Company each need about 100 men, the Smith Agricultural Company wants 50, and various other concerns need anywhere from 50 to 200.

"F. H. Hysell, assistant secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, says that the shortage of labor is handicapping business to a great extent. He says there is no lack of ablebodied men in this city to fill the places now going begging. He does not believe that the places are vacant because of the wages, but he thinks there is too much loafing.

"Mr. Hysell says during his recent walks through the State House grounds he has seen numbers of strong men lolling around on the benches who should be assisting the industries to keep their machinery in full motion instead of having part of it closed down as at present for lack of labor."

Mr. Hysell, secretary of the scab-promoting department of the Chamber of Commerce, is expected to talk just like the foregoing, but why the Citizen, the great advocate of progressive ideas, should falsify is a mystery. That's about what the Citizen did. Since it printed its deceptive appeal The Socialist has had men visiting the factories named daily. No man who lives in Columbus and has ever worked in any shop here stands any chance of getting a job. If an applicant says he is from some country town he sometimes "catches on." There has been no such demand at any shop as stated in the Citizen. It is plain that we cannot give the names of the men we sent to the factories. If we did they could never get a job in town. The Citizen is helping the Chamber of Commerce in its unholy mission of crowding the local labor market so that the bosses can get skilled machinists for 16 cents an hour.

The Bookkeeper Fake.

On Friday afternoon, September 20, at the time old Doc Wilson was whooping 'er up at the Hartman Theater and telling the people what great good times were in store for them, I went over to the Y. M. C. A. employment department to see about a position as bookkeeper, having seen in the Columbus Citizen of September 19 that they could not fill the demand. I walked in. Mr. McCann was just in the act of closing his desk. He paused long enough to inquire what I wanted. I told him I was looking for a position as bookkeeper. "I have no such position to fill," was his reply. "But I noticed the Columbus Citizen last night stated that you had more positions than you could fill at salaries ranging from $60 to $75 per month." Note his reply: "THE CITIZEN LIED," he said. "I have only had two positions for bookkeepers this season and the salaries were only $10 per week. I never told the Columbus Citizen any such stuff as they reported in the issue in question. What I did tell them was that I had a few positions for stenographers." As Mr. McCann seemed to be very much in a hurry, and did not seem to have the interest of the unemployed very much at heart, after a few desultory remarks I left with the assurance that I "might drop around again some time, as there might be something open for me."

THE AGRICULTURAL REVOLUTION

less farms operated by owners in Iowa than there were in 1900; in Indiana, the decrease is over eight thousand; in Illinois it is thirteen thousand. In each case the decrease in the number of owners is greater than the total decrease in the number of farms.

In 1880, sixty-nine per cent of the farms of Illinois were operated by owners and thirty-one per cent by tenants. By 1910, forty-one per cent of the farms were operated by tenants and but fifty-nine per cent of the farmers owned the land upon which they worked. But this was for the entire state. In many counties this process had proceeded much farther. In McClain and Livingston Counties where the value of land and products is greatest, only forty-four and forty per cent, respectively, of the farms were operated by owners.

These counties are the very apex of modern agricultural development and they show all the characteristics that I have described in their most accentuated form. They are pointing the road along which the farmers of the future must travel.

A separate investigation made by agents of the Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church in this same locality verified all these statements. They found that in an area of seventeen hundred and sixty-four square miles in the very heart of the great corn belt of Illinois, fifty-three per cent of the farms were already operated by tenants.

In this locality, no matter how far agricultural education may proceed, no matter how many benefactors may rise that shall make two blades of grass grow where but one grew before, no advantage will come to those who till the soil. The lion's share of progress there will go, as it has long gone in industry, to an idle owning class.

Here is what that means. In the most highly developed farming section of the United States, not only are no more farms being purchased by those who will operate them with their own labor, but more and more of those who have previously owned farms are having that ownership taken away from them. For the children of the farmers of Illinois, Indiana and Iowa there is no more hope of obtaining independent ownership of farms than there is of the child of the wage worker in the Chicago stock yards, or the steel mills of Gary or Pittsburg obtaining ownership of the plants in which he must work. In fact, there is less opportunity for while there is the dim possibility that a worker in these industries might scrape enough from his wages to get possession of a share of stock, and thus become at least nominally a part owner, there are no shares of stock in farming industries. There is no opportunity to start new farming industries because there are no more earths accessible to man, and the present one, so far as its most advantageous territory is concerned, has already been occupied.

When power is applied to these farms the process of concentration will proceed at a highly accelerated rate. It will tend to quicken and strengthen every force working in that direction.

There is one other section of the country whose agricultural importance can be compared with this upper Mississippi valley. The United States raises more than one-half of the cotton of the world and three times as much as any other single country. Climate confines the production of cotton to a comparatively small section of the country. In this section, especially favored by soil and climate, this form of agriculture has reached a high development.

Here we find in an even more accelerated degree the same tendencies that are found in the southern section. In the entire south central group exactly one-half of the farms have already passed into the hands of tenants. When the individual states are taken we find that the further cotton production has proceeded the more completely ownership has passed away from the producer. In Texas fifty-five per cent of the farms are operated by tenants, while in Mississippi and Georgia exactly two-thirds of the farms are tilled by those who have no share in their ownership. In South Carolina sixty-three per cent of the farms are operated by tenants, and in Louisiana and Oklahoma this proportion rises only to fifty-five per cent and everywhere this percentage is swiftly increasing.

When we take the special cotton counties within these states it is seen that it is in the raising of this great crop that ownership and operation is mostly divorced. In the counties of Burke, Coweta, Dooley, Houston, Laurens and Terrell of the State of Georgia which includes the district where the largest amount of cotton is produced, we find that the percentage of the land tilled by tenants varies between seventy-three per cent and eighty-five per cent. In the six leading cotton counties of South Carolina between sixty-six and eighty per cent of the farms are rented and Texas tells a similar story in its cotton belt.

The alluvial bottoms of Mississippi furnish the finest cotton land in the world. There are eight counties in this section where the average value of the land in farms is more than twenty-five dollars per acre. Here is the apex of the cotton raising industry. Here is again the section that points the way towards which the less highly developed sections are moving.

In 1900 there were 3,004 farms operated by their owners and 25,780 by tenants in these eight counties. In 1910 the number of owners had increased to 3,506, but the farms that had passed into the hands of tenants counted 42,618. Expressed in terms of percentages 89 per cent of the farms were operated by tenants in 1900 and 92 per cent in 1910.

But there are signs on the industrial horizon that indicate that even tenantry is but a narrow ledge on the precepice that overhangs the gulf of wage slavery. Landlordism has concentrated the ownership of the soil in preparation for its operation with the great machines directed by propertyless wage workers. Tenantry is furnishing the propertyless ones, who need only to be pushed off the land they do not own to become the wage workers needed by the coming power-operated farms.

In southern cotton farming also the shadow of the revolutionizing machin is stretching over the fields blossoming with white bolls. In grain and diversified farming the small farm unit was maintained largely because of the delay in applying mechanical traction to the fundamental task of plowing. In cotton farming the "peak of the load" as they say of power plants, comes in picking time. At present this crushing load falls upon the helpless shoulders of women and children. Tenantry is maintained and flourishes because under the lash of rack renting the miserable tenant will drive the weaker members of his own household to greater exertions than strong men could ever be driven by hired overseers. But strive as hard as they may the women and children who are hitched to the heavy cotton sacks beneath the scorching southern sun cannot pull the burden of the cotton crop of the world as efficiently as an inert machine. It was the invention of a mechanical gin that created the American cotton industry, maintained chattel slavery and established a system of society that was washed away in the flood of blood of the Civil War. The newly invented mechanical cotton picker now threatens to supplant the present tenant system with a new plantation system resting upon wage slavery.

This machine driven by a gasoline or kerosene engine, will do the work of from fifteen to twenty hand-pickers. The picking mechanism can be removed and a plow or cotton "chopper" for thinning out the young plants or a cultivator be substituted to be driven by the same engine.

At almost every point the evolution which this machine is accomplishing is identical with that being brought about by the application of the explosive engine to farm labor in the grain raising states. The same preparation for its coming has been made by industrial development. It has frequently been stated by expert investigators that the entire cotton crop of the United States could be raised on the land of the Yazoo Delta in Mississippi. We have already seen that in this territory more than ninety per cent of the farms are operated by tenants. The land ownership is already concentrated in the hands of a few landlords. As soon as they are convinced that mechanical tenants are more profitable than those of flesh and blood the revolution will be at hand.

These cotton pickers cost $5,000 each. The value of farm implements and tools in the cotton district is less than $100 per farm. There is not the slightest possibility of either the land or the machinery for the raising of cotton ever being owned by those who plant and care for the crop.

It would be easy to show that other sections of the country are moving in the same direction as the upper Mississippi valley and the cotton country. In the wheat fields of the West the revolutionizing influence of the farm tractor has already proceeded far.

Nor is there escape in any direction. The stock and dairy farmer must depend upon packing houses and centralized creameries to perform part of the work of production and in performing that work they relieve him of the cream of his product. The alfalfa mill, the sugar refinery and the canning companies exploit the raiser of other farm products.

The great glass covered vegetable factories in the suburbs of the cities offer but another illustration of the same tendency. Here, also chance has been eliminated, weather created at will, science harnessed to the services of man, and, as a result of all these things, a mammoth costly plant made necessary whose ownership is beyond the powers of those who do the work.

Turn which way we will the same story confronts us on the farm that has long been familiar un the factory. The theme of that story is that more and more of the product is going to the owners and less to workers, and that the number of workers grows larger. This is true whether the owners have possession of rapidly rising land values, means of transportation or of the tremendously productive machines that recent invention has created.

Land values and machines are not the only elements in agriculture. Some thirty million human beings—men, women and children—are concerned in the process of producing the food and the raw material for the clothing of the world.

Some four million of these are wage workers, the "hired men" of the farm. The standard romance of the farm has always had as its central plot the marriage of the farmer's daughter by his hired man and the purchase of the "old farm" by the happy couple.

The average farm wages in the upper Mississippi valley where wages are highest, is less than thirty dollars a month. At the present price of farms if the wage worker in Illinois saved every dollar he received, buying no clothes and wasting no money in his courting it would take him thirty-five years of steady work to earn enough to buy the average farm in that state. It would take him forty years in Indiana, and Iowa farm prices condemn him to forty-five years of hard labor before he could lead his blushing bride to their happy home.

These four million wage workers are but the nucleus of the coming army of propertyless farmers. It is where farm labor most nearly approaches factory conditions that they are most numerous. Cook County, Illinois, leads the nation in the amount of money expended for farm labor, yet it is a small county and the city of Chicago with its suburbs occupies much of its area. But the intensive capitalist market gardens and glass vegetable factories employ more farm laborers than many whole states.

For these four million "hired men" there is little hope of home or family.

For the ten million men, women and children who are at the mercy of a landlord class the future is little less dark. That their numbers are increasing as the number of owners decrease testifies to the impossibility of escape across the line between tenant and owners.

The Farmer a Fighter.

That ever lessening body of farm owners in the most intensely cultivated sections is but one of many signs that mark the passing of the small farm owner. An improved machinery and methods bring greater advantage to the large farm the conditions of the once "independent farmer" will grow worse.

The farmer, be he tenant, wage worker or disappearing small farmer will not be crushed without resistance. The American farmer has always fought battles for someone else. He won the American Revolution with his sacrifices and his valor, but the fruits of victory went to merchant and manufacturer. He organized and voted the Populist movement into power, but reaped small benefit from his work.

The tenant unions, the night-riders the spreading co-operative movement, the mass of farmer organizations of various kinds, all are heralds of another struggle. This time the farmer is looking to an alliance with the wage worker of the city, those children of the farm who followed their work to the factory.

More than half of those who do the work upon the farms of this country are now confronted with exactly the same problem that has long confronted those who do the work in the mines, on the railroads and in the mills and factories—the problem of gaining possession of the things with which they work, and without which they cannot live.

Stop the "Dividing Up."

We are beginning to see that it is impossible to restore the railroad or the mine to the individual possession of those whose labor with these things produces wealth. We no longer think of dividing up the great trusts among the workers. We see that only way in which ownership and use can be united is by making the ownership social.

The facts of the last decade are just teaching the same lesson in the fields of agriculture. Capitalism has already taken the farms from one-half the farmers of this country, and this in spite of the millions of farms that have been distributed by the nation. We have proven that no matter how often you "divide up" the landed property of this country it is only a matter of a very short time until that ownership begins to gravitate into the hands of an idle owning class.

Socialism will not take away the ownership of the farm from the small farmer, any more than it will take away the little shop or factory or store from its owner. Socialism will never have a chance to do this. Capitalism has beat Socialism to it. It is taking away that ownership today many times faster than ever before. It will take it away still faster in the future.

Restoring the Farm to the Farmer.

The only thing that will bring the farmer back to the farm is united action on the part of landless farmers of the country and the machineless artisans of the city. When these unite they can capture the government and use it as their agent with which to recover possession of the land and the machines.

It is for this that all these changes in agriculture have been preparing the way. The growing landlordism, the farm tractor, the cotton picker, the great glass covered farms of the cities, the concentration of ownership—all these things point inevitably to the social ownership of the farm.

We have been gathering the knowledge necessary to the management of these socially owned farms in the magnificent system of socially owned institutions for agricultural education. All the best experts in soil manipulation, application of fertilizers breeding, planting and tending crops, and the management of farm operations of all kinds are already in the employ of society.

COMPLETE ATLAS OF THE WORLD

The L. L. Poates & Co's Complete Atlas of the World contains maps of the United States, its 48 States, its Territories, its Insular Possessions together with Canadian Provinces, and other divisions of the Dominion, besides every other country of the world.

This Atlas has many points of superiority over similar publications on the market to-day. Its plates are new, having been made by the best map engravers in the country, and it is attractive in appearance and compact in form—making it valuable in the home, the library, schools, banks and offices.

The maps are printed in five (5) and six (6) colors, which show special features by separate printing. Railroads are shown in red; mountains, in brown; water in blue, and political divisions are accurately defined, which enables one to readily locate places of interest.

The latest geographical changes, such as every county in the United States to date, political changes in Canadian Provinces, French and German Boundaries in Africa, as well as the late changes in India and China are shown on these maps.

This Atlas in Octavo, has 193 pages of maps alphabetical Index of States and Countries, besides the States with their counties, and important cities and towns with their population, according to the 1910 United States Census, and the principal cities in the world.

It is bound in cloth, at $1.50 and in leather, at $2.00, and will be sent prepaid to and point in the United States on receipt of price. Every Socialist should have this book in their library. Send all orders, to

MR. HERRICK AND THE FARMER

One of the strange analogies of today is the Republican party going the rounds, telling the farmers they are so well off under the present system, and ought to be satisfied, while one of their most conservative members, Myron Herrick, formerly governor of Ohio, and at present ambassador to France, is trying to devise means by which the farmers may be enabled to borrow money at a lower rate than at present obtains. This has been a hobby of banker Herrick for several years, and as he is credited with being one of the most critical students of banking interests, his opinions are well worth considering. If the present rate of interest is destroying the farming interests, as Mr. Herrick concedes, and as the number of farm owners are becoming fewer and tenants greater, where is the grounds for the claim that the farmer is so much better off under the present capitalistic system than he could be under any other? Mr. Herrick a few years ago, was very bitter towards the Populists, because they wanted the government to extend the same courtisies to the farmers as was extended to the bankers, and he and his class (bankers) claimed it would ruin the government. Now he sees the necessity of relief for the farmer, and while he may desire to preserve the present system of "rent, interest and profit," a little longer, he sees that to do so the rate of interest must be lowered. A few years ago he and his class got a bill through Congress allowing the secretary of the treasury to issue money to the bankers on any security he might deem acceptable. Now Mr. Farmer, here is his scheme, suppose they decide to loan you money at four per cent, and take your mortgage for the same, then they can take your farm mortgage to the secretary of the treasury and get the valde of the same from him in bank notes at one per cent and again loan this amount to other farmers, while they control the farm lands of this country as they (the capitalists) now control the manufactories, mines and mills. If you doubt that this can be done, look at the first bank note you get and you will find these words on it: "This note has been secured by government bonds and other securities." The adding the words "and other securities," was inserted after the Roosevelt panic of 1907, in order to protect the money interests of this country. Why does Mr. Herrick not advocate a method by which the farmer can get money direct from the government instead of having it pass through the hands of the middlemen (bankers), who will charge the farmers four and five times as much as it costs them? Remember Mr. Farmer, that Mr. Herrick stands in the same relation to the farmer that the other middlemen do, and his whole thought is to protect himself and his class in the perpetuation of a system, whereby he can continue to live off the labor of others. Remember that the bankers, who control not only the Democratic and Republican parties, but the Progressives as well, stand in the same relation to you, that a flea does to a dog, his only interest in that he may suck your blood. Wake up! Mr. Farmer, and you can easily see that you are kept poor because thre are a lot of parasites, living off you, and you can only shake them off by joining with the only party advocating the elimination of all useless middlemen and the obtaining of the full value of the products of your labor. Vote the Socialist ticket this fall and show the public that you are no longer the tool of bankers, commission merchants and other parasites, but propose to stand erect as human beings and demand the relief necessary to protect yourself and family in procuring better conditions for all producers of wealth, of which you are the greatest.

MARSH C. GREEN.

DIFFERENT METHODS OF FARMING

By J. W. Bennet.

Farming is perhaps one of the most necessary and healthful of occupations, unless it is that of owning the trust that furnishes the machinery.

The farmer farms the fround, and the trust farms the farmer. Of the two occupations the fellows that farms the farmer get more returns in proportion to the labor expended that the one that farms the ground.

The ground is at the mercy of the fellow with the plow and the fellow with the plow is at the mercy of the trust that makes plows and other machinery. Machinery is an important factor nowadays in farming.

Land, Labor and Machinery are the three links in the chain of this important industry. The great trouble with farming is that the links are unconnected and scattered around in hands of private owners. Two of these owners have got a lead pipe cinch on their particular link, with the fellows that own the machinery in the lead, and the owners of the land a close second.

Of course labor is the basis of all life. Without it there would be no productive land or workable machinery, but at present it appears to be the weakest link in the disconnected chain.

William of Normandy conquered three million Anglo-Saxons with sixty thousand organized men. The Anglo-Saxons have established a great empire, but they arose by becoming a part of and extending the principle of King William's organization. And in a very similar way have a small bunch of trust magnates conquered the American farmer and workers in general, and in the same way we arise and become powerful.

The Harvester Trust has put up Teddy the Trust Buster, for President; and to make sure the game will work out, another trust buster by the name of Wilson; and which ever is elected, if either, it is pretty certain we will all be busted and continue so until we get onto the game. Our strength is in numbers.

Numerically, they are weak. Their strong point is in demonstrating to us what can be accomplished when men work and vote for the class they belong to.

Will the farmers and workers do it?

WORD WITH FARMERS - PRESENT CONDITIONS

You, Brother Average Farmer, are the worst paid workingman in the country today. Government statistics show that you get less out of your work, in the long run, than your own hired man. At the same time, nobody works harder than you do. From one year's end to another you toil in the sweat of your brow to feed the world, and about all you get out of it is a bare living and a chance to pay taxes.

Now, nobody is more to blame for this state of affairs than yourself. The profits arising from your productive toil pass into the hands of others, who do not produce.

And why is this?

Well, one reason is, when you buy the necessities of life you find the prices set for you by the trusts.

You can't buy a nail today, or a hammer to drive it with, a pair of shoes, bag of fertilizer, grain or flour, a can of oil or a pound of sugar without paying taxes to the trusts. You must have farm machinery, and yet when you buy it you have to pay three or four times what it is worth.

The last census tells us that the cost of making a two-horse wagon is $7.60.

Just get that fact, your practical farmers! Figure up the money power's gain and your loss! Similarly, all along the line, you are being robbed.

Perhaps it tickles your fancy, you hard-working former, to know that Rockefeller's income is $48,000 a day —$2,000 an hour, and that his holdings have enormously increased since the present hard times began.

At the same time that the wealth of the country is pouring into the pockets of a few tremendously rich men, census statistics show that the number of mortgaged and rented farms is constantly increasing. Why?

The answer is so plain that you can see it yourself. Almost everything you have got to have, in order to live, is away up in price. THE TRUSTS GAIN BECAUSE YOU LOSE.

The Republican and Democratic parties all tell you toiling farmers, that you belong to the capitalist class, because you perhaps may have a few acres of land and a hired man.

Yes, indeed, you belong to the capitalist class, body, soul and breeches. What your work really amounts to is a somewhat permanent job with exhausting, hard work and low wages.

But it is through politics alone that the money powers have been able to make laws permitting them "legally" to rob you.

Why not quit playing the game in the interest of the trusts and begin playing it in your own account?

Neither of the old parties is doing a thing to help you, because they are both influenced by the capitalist class. The great capitalists furnish the slush funds which land their men in office.

But a new party is today growing up all over the world with astonishing rapidity, looking solely to the interests of the farmers and wage workers.

This party is the Socialist party.

The Socialist party maintains that you farmers are under no obligation to feed the rest of the people at a loss, and demands that you receive the full value of your labor.

The Socialist party demands, among other measures beneficial to the working class, the public ownership of the trusts, railroads, mills, mines and factories which produce the necessities of life.

Public ownership has already been proved a success in many directions. Our roads, bridges, schools, parks, courthouses, water works, hospitals and asylums, libraries and universities, the postoffice, the lighthouse service, the army and navy—yes, the Isthmus Canal—and many other useful works at one time privately owned and operated, are now publicly or socially owned and operated.

To this extent we already have Socialist ideas in actual service.

If the government has authority to inspect fertilizers, foods and drugs, why has it not the authority to make them?

If the government can build and operate navy yards, why not stock yards?

If the government can build torpedo boats, why not refrigerator cars?

If the government can build a canal, why not a railroad?

If the government can coin money, why not conduct a postal savings bank?

FARMERS IN HOCKING VALLEY

Editor Socialist:

In a conversation with a farmer on the Hocking River on Socialism, I found that he had a fear that Socialism would cause him to divide up his farm.

You see, the farmers on the Hocking Valley, and the hills surrounding, on account of this being a mining country, there not being nearly enough raised to supply the demand, have the advantage of selling their produce at a good price and consequently are very little in sympathy with their agricultural brothers who raise wheat, cotton or tobacco and who have an ever-present mortgage hanging over their heads, who work day and night, who hand out the proceeds of their toil at the front door while premature old age creeps in at the back before there is anything laid up for the rainy day, and stares them wierdly in the face.

I asked this Hocking Valley farmer, who is so fearful of "dividing up," how long he had owned his farm(and he told me twenty-seven years. I asked him how much he had paid out in taxes in that length of time and he admitted that the sum would easily buy the farm today. He further stated that a few days previous, he had been looking over the tax receipts of his grandfather for thirty-six years previous to the twenty-seven years, and they also amounted to a sum far in excess of the price for which the farm could be sold at the present time. I asked the farmer, what would happen were he to refuse to pay this unjust tribute, say for five years. "Five hell," he exclaimed, "they would sell a chunk off the first year."

So you see, that in spite of the fact that his grandfather had a title to the farm, in the last 63 years, under both Democratic and Republican rule alike, they have been compelled to pay for the farm twice over in taxes, and not only that, but, should the present owner, (who objects to Socialism), refuse longer to be robbed, they would not only, under the present system, force him to divide up, but they would take the whole farm.

The farmer farms the ground, and longer under the present system reminds me of "Old Grey," a boy was watching his father trying to extricate a loaded wogan from a mudhole in the road, the old man had about given it up as a bad job, when the boy, who had been watching the old man's efforts, gave the following advice, "Whip Old-Grey, dad, he pulls yet."

Capitalism means opportunity for the sharper. Socialism means opportunity for everybody.

We, the working class, want the world and all we have produced. We cannot be unreasonable so long as we duced.

When you vote for capitalism your vote is worth at least a thousand dollars a year to the masters who profit from a continuation of the system and it represents just abt much dead loss to you.

This is a system with legalized thievery on one end and legalized slavery on the other. And because both infamies are legalized not many of the slaves realize what they are.

Suppose you are the average farmer.

A capitalist, individual or corporate, either owns the farm you live on or holds a mortgage against it.

Out of your product you pay him rent or interest.

You divide up with him.

But that is not all.

No matter whether you are a farmer with a farm free of encumbrance, a farmer with a mortgaged farm, or a farmer with a rented farm, you are compelled to hand over a slice of your product, in the form of profit, to each of the retail stores with which you trade.

You divide up with them.

You are also compelled to hand over a slice of your product to the elevator company.

Another to the railroad company.
Another to the commission merchant.
Another to the board of trade speculators.
Another to the beef trust.
Another to the agricultural implement trust.
Another to the binding twine trust.
Another to the barbed wire trust.
Another to the lumber trust.
Another to the rubber trust.
Another to the hide and leather trust.
Another to the copper trust.
Another to the brass trust.
Another to the can trust.
Another to the glass trust.
Another to the paper trust.
Another to the shoe trust.
Another to the coal trust.
Another to the oil trust.
Another to the flour trust.
Another to the woolen trust.
Another to the cotton trust.
Another to the sugar trust.
And others to various other exploiters and grafters.

You divide up with them.

You have to.

That is, you have to so long as capitalism exists.

But you can abolish capitalism by voting the Socialist ticket.

No, Socialism does not stand for dividing up.

Socialism is the public ownership and the popular management of the means of production and distribution which are now used to exploit the masses of the people out of the bulk of the product of their honest toil.

Socialism will prevent dividing up.

It will enable the men who produce the wealth to get it and enjoy it.—John M. Work, in "What's So and What Isn't."

"WE" GET THE BENEFIT.

Just a few days ago we were rejoicing exceedingly in the news that we are to have a record grain crop, and in consequence the cost of living which has worried so many of us was to decrease. As the experts said, cattle and hogs are fed on grain, grain was abundant, and more cattle could be fed. Poultry are fed on grain, and more ducks, geese and hens would be raised. It all seemed too good to be true, but while it may have been true, the facts in the case are not good. Beef has at last reached a higher level than it attained at any time since the Civil War. We are accustomed, quite accustomed, to beef reaching new altitudes. But in the face of the boasted grain crops, and the Republican and Democratic parties claiming they were responsible for the terrestrial and climatic conditions that brought those crops forth, the action of beef is distinctly disheartening.

Roosevelt is in the West, where the steers come from. Yet, he has not done a thing to remedy it. Wilson has many plans for many things, but he has not tackled the cost of beef or other necessaries of life. President Taft has all he can do to attend to his golf, so he has been silent on this important subject, as he has been on others. Chafin, of the Prohibitionists, may allege that the reason beef is high is because the grain is being used to distill the demon rum instead of fed to the cattle, but the facts would easily overthrow his contention.

Perhaps it will gradually dawn upon the people that they will have to take into their own hands this petty problem of their meane of living instead of leaving it, as hitherto, in the hands of those who have looked upon it as a gambling proposition. They may be aroused to the point where they will realize that the production, handling and cooking of their food is a great, personal, social proposition, and to leave it in the hands of gamblers means, and must always mean, that countless thousands will be deprived of an adequate supply of food.

This latest increase in the cost of beef, after what Charles Edward Russell illuminatingly called the "greatest trust in the world" had been dissolved, and coming as it does right in the glowing heat of a Presidential campaign, shows how much intrenched capital thinks of court decisions. Of course, it is possible to claim that there is a real shortage. But who created it? There can be the claim that the ranchers and farmers and feeders have become discouraged and have ceased raising cattle. But who forced them to do it? Those who raise the cattle are not going to profit materially from this enormous jump in prices. As previously, the increase is going to go into the big, receptive pockets of the packers.

As far as the people are concerned, there is no cause of concern. The people are hardened to their lot, and they are satisfied with the station in which God in His omnipotence has placed them, and with the dinner the packers in their generosity accord them. They are getting the breakfest, dinner and supper for which they voted. Millions of them are throwing up their hats in ecstatic anticipation of getting the same allowance in the future.

That is, most of them are. But there is an increasing number who are intelligently, inflexibly and strenuously opposed to it. They intend to serve the donkey, the elephant and the bull moose up as a delicate appetizer before they are through. They intend to put the Packing Trust out of business and take the business over themselves. The present combination of food trusts and railroads is responsible for the low rations the workers are receiving, and the people themselves are responsible for the combinations. But the people are awakening, and the glorious success of the Socialist meetings, the growing enthusiasm and the growing opposition, are all indicative of the awakening of the people. They are going really to solve this great beef problem, going to put it on its right basis, and going to elevate it from its present position as a gambling proposition to what it really should be, a recognized social science.

SPECIAL PROPAGANDA ISSUE.

The Columbus Socialist, October 19, will be a special Propaganda issue. This edition will put the finishing touches to a campaign of VIM and VIGOR which is an indication of VICTORY fro our entire ticket November 5th. Let every Ward, Branch and individual Comrade begin to order now, as we want to cover every Ward and precinct in the city and county.

This edition will also be of especial value to locals in the state and every local not having a paper of their own should send in their orders at once. Our farmers' edition this week was a big success, thousands of names of farmers being sent in and paid for, and consequently many of them will get their first lesson in working class economics. Many locals got in their orders too late, as we only printed enough to fill orders received up to time of going to press, which is Wednesday of each week. ORDER NOW, and let's snow Ohio knee deep with the Columbus Socialist October 19th.

Bundle rates, $10.00 per thousand, $1.00 per hundred.

List of names sent in to be mailed direct from this office must be accompanied with remittance at the rate of 1c each.

Now get busy. Let's boost things to a figure that will paralyze the Plutes.

LET EVERY COMRADE AND SYMPATHIZER READ THIS AND THEN ACT.

You will now begin to make your fall purchases. In order to support this paper we must carry a certain amount of advertising each week. We have now many reliable firms advertising with us and we ask that each and every reader before purchasing look through the columns of this paper and purchase from these advertisers who use our columns, and be sure and let the merchant know that you came in because they advertise in this paper. Thousands fo Red Tickets have been sent to your Ward Branch and you should supply yourself at once. If you can't get to the branch we will supply you from this office. Use your purchasing power to support your own cause. Every one of you intend buying something this week. See to it that you purchase every possible article from our advertisers.

For every $46 the farmer gets for his product the consumer pays $100. Seems to be a waste somewhere under capitalism—eh?

Boosters' Department

By F. E. JOHNSTON

In conversation with an old soldier last week I was impressed with the undercurrent of revolution that permeates the minds of the people outside the Socialist movement. The old man is a Socialist, but don't know it. During the course of our conversation he made the remark that "the only way to settle this question of bread and butter is to shoulder a gun." This shows the temper of the people, and also proves that we have got to push our propaganda of education or soon the country will be thrown into the maelstrom of a bloody revolution by these starving Democrats, Republicans and Bull Moosers. If ever you Comrades worked you should do it now, as the people who turned for a moment to the "Progressive" (?) ticket for relief are now awakening to the cold fact that of all the tickets in the field the Bull Moose is the most reactionary and dangerous. Push this paper. Let us put on thousands of new subs from now until election and then listen for the echo.

You farmers who read this paper this week probably for the first time, should subscribe and make your neighbor subscribe. God knows if there is any class of men who need Socialism it is you farmers. The trusts have got you coming and going. You are compelled to buy in a capitalist market at the capitalistic prices, and after working all summer applying your labor power to the soil, to raising crops to sell, which represents your labor power, you are compelled to take your crops to a capitalist market and ask the capitalist what he will pay you for them. Send in your subscription and you will soon be fighting side by side with us.

I am sending stamps for papers and my sub, as I am afraid to get a money order, and am not just ready to lose my job yet, but don't like to be gagged. I suppose we will be disfranchised in time entirely. I am a R. F. D. carrier, so keep my name a secret for my benefit." This shows the class struggle with a vengeance, but at the same time it spells the doom of the capitalist system.

Just a word to the Comrades in the city. We are now in the midst of our campaign. To date the enthusiasm has not been what it should be amongst the party membership. Let every one who reads these lines be sure to be present at their next ward branch meeting, as important campaign matters will be up for discussion. Just a few weeks more and the hard work will be ended. We must go to the ballot box with a solid, united front. The country is ours. Let us put on the finishing touches.

NEW CASE OF LYING IN JUDGE BLACKS COURT

Most Sensational Thriller Knocked Out by the Cold Facts

Readers of last Sunday's Ohio State Journal were given a "thriller" by a report of a hearing in the Juvenile Court of Probate Judge Black, that noted example of personal righteousness (?). The case was that of Ray Dover, aged 11, son of Henry Dover, a humble South Side painter, who was arraigned in Black's "holy inquisition" last Saturday. The Journal, instigated by Judge Black, says:

"The lad was in the Juvenile Court charged with stealing a bicycle, cigars and tobacco. Yesterday the mother came into court and set up a plea for her son. She told the Judge that Ray does not think it wrong to steal. 'In fact, he thinks he has a perfect right to steal from any person who has more than himself,' she said.

"'You know we are Socialists down home and Ray hears his father talking that it is not right for some to have more than others. Ray believes with his father, but he does not know it is wrong to steal,' she continued.

"The mother then asked the Judge if he were not a believer in Socialism. He said he was not.

"Of all cases which have come before him, Judge Black says, this is the most perplexing. 'The lad thinks it is all right for him to steal now, and the chances are that he will continue to think so when he becomes a man. He is sure to come in contact with the law, and with his ideas he will believe the law is persecuting him. The next step and he will be a full-fledged anarchist,' reasoned Judge Black.

"The lad was dismissed."

Boy Allowed to Go.

Now for the Facts.

Somebody, as usual, has lied. Either Judge Black or the reporter of the local papers are falsifiers. The Old Man will bet his hat that it is not the reporters. On Monday a local daily paper was compelled to publish the following:

"It was the boy's statement and not mine that he thought it was right to steal," said Mrs. Harry A. Dover, Monday, who had been quoted as saying in Juvenile Court Saturday, where her son was held for petty thieving, that he had been taught to steal at home.

"I stated in court," said the mother, "that Raymond had told a neighbor he thought it was right to take property when other people have more than you. Neither his father nor myself have ever given him such teaching at home. On the contrary, we have tried to teach the boy to do right."

Who is the liar?

OLD CRIPPLED SOLDIER IS CAPITALISTIC DUPE.

Politician Uses Veteran in Vain Effort to Slap Socialist Meeting.

The local daily press last Tuesday made a strenuous effort to make it appear that a crippled soldier stopped Comrade John M. Collins in his Socialist speech at the corner of High and Broad Streets last Monday evening. A certain capitalistic politician induced a soldier walking on crutches to interrupt Comrade Collins, but the latter with rare tact disposed of the poor dupe. The speaker had only a feeling of pity for the physical wreck before him, although the wreck, instigated by the fat politician on the sidewalk, flourished a long bladed knife. The Bull Moosers are desperate when they resort to such tactics.

G. O. P. CAMPAIGN OPENING SAD FIZZLE

Parade and Meetings Were Small Affairs Despite All Efforts

The Republican State campaign "opening" in this city last Saturday afternoon and evening was a frost of the chilliest kind. Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts; General Brown, the G. O. P. candidate for Governor, and Rev. Dr. John Wesley Hill, the unspeakable fit mate for Dave Goldstein, were the stars of the affair. The "grand" parade, including the hired bands, did not include as many as marched in the Socialist parade the night of the Keir Hardie meeting, and our demonstration was purely a local affair. The meetings at Memorial Hall were bitter disappointments. The attendance in the afternoon was very slim. In the evening, with the attraction of a procession and music and noted speakers, there were less people in the hall than went to the famous English Socialist (Hardie) meeting two weeks before. Every person who listened to Hardie paid 25 cents or 10 cents admission. The same audience gave a collection of $61 and bought $20 worth of literature, papers and badges and remained until the close of the address. The people who went to the Republican rally drifted away steadily from the hall and many stopped at the corner of Broad and High where Comrade C. E. Ruthenberg, Socialist candidate for Governor, spoke to an immense street meeting, after State Senatorial Candidate John M. Suddick had made a brief address. Ruthenberg made a clear cut, class conscious speech. He said: "Both the old parties, and even the new so-called Progressive party, advocate the same principles of government. Their reforms are only superficial and not vital. They will not change conditions in such a way that the cost of living will be lower, or that wages may be better."

Woodrow Wilson was rapped for his declaration that the Democratic party would try to give economic independence to the workingman.

"Any man who will promise that under the profit system is either ignorant or wilfully trying to mislead the people," said Ruthenberg. "Since 1896 the cost of living has increased 60 per cent., but wages only 25 per cent. How can such conditions of unequal increase bring independence to the workingman?"

He ridiculed the idea that either extravagance of working people or increased gold production was responsible for higher prices. He attributed these to the "hogging" of profits of labor by capitalists. Stronger labor union organization was urged. He expressed the belief that the Socialist movement would go on until there is a revolution in the organization of industry.

THE RECALL

You laborers make up 60 per cent. of the voters of Columbus.

If you soldier on the job, do you know what it is to get canned?

And then they tell you with assumed wisdom that executive officers in a republican government should not be recalled—they are too good!

You clerks who have toiled a lifetime for a meal ticket and a place to stay at night, did you ever lose your health?

How sympathetically the old man advises you to hunt a healthful climate, work in the open air or get physical labor.

How politely your recall is applied to just a drudge of a clerk—quite personal now!

Chief O'Neil through a battery of the best attorneys of Columbus eloquently proves that Columbus' administration is being demoralized by the present political quarrel frivolously staged by Mayor Karb, Carter and O'Neil.

O'Neil and the lawyers are telling the truth, too—an unusual course for Democrats and lawyers.

Mayor Karb orders liquor sold against the law, winks at gambling, crap shooting and Lucy Hall murders, bolts the hearing before the Civil Service Board, bars the doors of Fort Cockroach, defies the laws, the people and seeming respectability, and asks for a black partner after being hissed by society's best.

Is he recalled like the laborer or clerk?

Not that any of our mothers' offspring has ever known.

Mayor Karb holds the office by force if needed after he has used the full measure of political guile.

What's the difference between the drudge and the boss?

Why not recall Mayor Karb?

Just this: Karb got the votes of you laborers last election—you didn't know any better.

You clerks voted for Karb. You didn't think—you are not supposed to think. Karb did your thinking.

You professors, doctors and lawyers voted for Karb, too. You were educated to think; you should have thought, but you didn't.

Karb thought for you, too—that's true—the sharpest truth.

The plain truth is, Karb thought for all—professors, laborers, clerks, lawyers and preachers.

You all should have known better, but you didn't—and that's a God's fact.

Now Karb has your votes, he has the office, he is the boss.

You cannot recall him if you wanted to do it. Neither does the Bull Moose party, the most radical branch of capitalist politics, advocate the enactment of the recall.

But the people are soon all going to realize that they can be the boss and the way to become the boss is to vote for themselves.

You laborers—vote to get all you produce.

You clerks—vote for the right to work at productive labor.

You teachers, preachers and lawyers—vote for intellectual freedom, the interest of the starving child, the homeless mother and deserted old age—that's Socialism.

If you don't know how to vote get busy and read for yourself. There is plenty of literature—good literature, too.

Then recall usurping political bosses; recall corrupt judges. You will find it necessary to recall whole courts to reach the judge, but do it anyhow. You will have to do it.

Recall corrupt mayors, and start with Karb; recall governors and evasive presidents too, particularly the last two.

Last, but most important of all, recall corrupt, debauching child destroying capital.

Be the boss—vote for the people to own the productive utilities—all of them and the means of distribution, too.

That's Socialism.

But you must learn to think for yourselves before you can do it.

In the near future we will have the retail grocery business controlled by the trust or chain stores. They undersell until they drive the independent stores out of business, then they have a monopoly and can charge what they please. England has gone through that experience and today the only thing that stands between the consumer and exorbitant prices is the Co-operative Society with its thousands of stores and its membership who are loyal to their own class and to themselves.

The Franklin Co-operative Company, was incorporated on this plan and has opened its first store, at 529 North 20th Street, and asks the patronage and support of all consumers, who believe in lower prices and in a square deal.

SOCIALISTS IN ACTION

News from the World-Wide Movement of the Workers

GENERAL SOCIALIST NEWS.

Progressive party headquarters at Chicago bureau took a straw vote of railway men. First day's returns received from the large number of postal cards sent out gave Taft 43, Debs 40, Wilson 67 and Roosevelt 163. The cards were not signed, to assure secrecy and to diminish fear of punishment. Other politicians in Chicago took a vote in the Flossheim Shoe Co.'s factory and were nearly knocked silly when they found this result: Debs 66, Roosevelt 4, Wilson 2, Chafin 1, Taft none.

Socialists defeating single taxers on their own ground is the latest. A dispatch from Mobile, Ala., says that J. F. Johnston, a Socialist, was elected Mayor of the single tax colony at Fair Hope, on the eastern shore of Mobile, Monday, over N. S. Greene, the present Mayor, and J. M. Pilcher, single tax candidate. The fight was a bitter one, and was waged with great enthusiasm on the part of the Socialists.

Socialists at Camden, N. J., arrested for street speaking, were discharged in court, the judge holding that they had violated no law.

That socialism is invading the Solid South pretty strongly is indicated by the fact that 10 locals were formed in Louisiana last month, with 133 members. In Tennessee 11 locals with 123 members were formed.

Rev. Hal H. Drake, formerly pastor of the First Unitarian Church at Beverly, Mass., where Hon. Taft worships, has accepted a call to the Independent People's Church at Portland, Me., to preach socialism from the pulpit.

Kaspar Bauer, Socialist candidate for Assemblyman, won a signal victory in court at San Diego, Cal., when the jury returned a verdict of "not guilty" in his trial on the charge of disturbing the peace. Bauer was arrested for street speaking at the instigation of the "vigilantes" and a test case was made.

A dispatch from Tacoma, Wash., says the strength of the Solialist movement in that state is causing the capitalists much worry, and they look to the so-called Progressive movement to divert it from further progress. Two weeks ago Debs had as large or larger meetings in that state than Roosevelt, and the political prophets are all at sea in making their estimates.

NEWS FROM NATIONAL SOCIALIST HEADQUARTERS

The National Committee motion by Thompson of Wisconsin, that the motion regarding wages of speakers shall not apply to the contracts made by the Lyceum Department prior to the passage of such motion, has been seconded by Eby of Ohio, Merrill of New York, Fenimore of Indiana, Lee of New York, and Hogan of Arkansas. It has been submitted to the Committee. The vote closes October 11.

By a recent referendum of the Socialist Party of Oklahoma, Otto Branstetter was elected as one of the members of the National Committee from that state, to take the place of P. S. Nagle. Comrade Branstetter's temporary address is 111 North Market Street, Chicago.

State Secretary Raymond of Mississippi reports seven locals with 64 members organized in that state during the month of August.

By a recnt referendum of the Socialist Party of West Virginia, John W. Brown was elected as member of the National Committee from that state, to take the place of W. B. Cullum. Comrade Brown's address is 911 Bigley Avenue, Charleston, W. Va.

State Secretary Stewart of Idaho reports five locals organized in that state during the month of August.

State Secretary Floaten of Colorado reports six locals organized in that state during the month of August he following facts are given for the information of imquirers:

The Monthly Bulletin of the Socialist Party is published for free distribution to the members of the party. Two or three years ago an attempt was made to secure the second class mailing rate for it so as to send it direct to each member. This attempt was unsuccessful. It is, therefore, shipped in bulk to the local and branch secretaries who pass it out to the members. The number of copies a secretary can use for actual distribution among the members is limited to the members who attend the meetings. There is usually less than half the total number of members on the roll. The total number of Bulletins printed each month is, therefore, less than half the total membership of the party. The largest number printed in any one month was in the present month, September, the number being 39,000. Any local or branch secretary who is not receiving as many as he could use for actual distribution among the members can have the number increased by writing to the National Office.

When sent to individuals, a subscription price of fifty cents per year is charged.

From a report of National Organizer J. E. Snyder, who has charge of the work in the South:

"Doyle organized ten locals in August. Seigler has organized twelve up to date. The state Secretary of Alabama organized nine by mail in August. Half a dozen by mail in Georgia in August. Tennessee reports six by organizers and six by mail in August. Buie organized four the first week in September. Kentucky is booming."

The new Plan of Work for Women in Socialist Locals, adopted by the Women's National Committee, is now in print and ready for delivery. It is an eight-page pamphlet, outlining the activities of the Woman's National Committee, the General Correspondent, the Woman's State Correspondents, and the local and branch Woman's Committees. It is full of good suggestions for the woman's work all along the line. Price 50c per 100. Same rate in any quantity, less or more. Address, National Office Socialist Party, 111 North Marget Street, Chicago.

National Campaign Committee.

Sunday, October 13th, is Socialist Day.

More than 5,000 Socialist locals and branches throughout the United States will hold mass meetings on Sunday, October 13th. This day has been set aside as Socialist Day. The Campaign Headquarters is unable to supply the great demand for speakers for that occasion, and the comrades in the different localities are enlisting the best talent from their own midst. A greater audience will that day listen to the message of Socialism than ever assembled to hear any message delivered to the American people.

Eugene V. Debs and Emil Seidel, Socialist presidential candidates, have prepared special messages which will be presented at all meetings. Present indications point to an audience of more than two million people, and this vast audience, distributed across the entire nation, will be directly addressed by the standard bearers of the Socialist party. A feat like this has never before been accomplished in the history of American politics.

New Literature Ready for Free Distribution.

(Prices noted cover cost of shipping only.)

An Address to Labor, 16-page pamphlet, containing convention resolutions, the platform and party information. Price, $3.00 per 1,000.

Socialism in the United States Congress, 16-page pamphlet. Shows what one congressman can do—has done. Price, $2.00 per 1,000.

An Address to Women, 16-page pamphlet. Why and how millions of women will vote. Price, $3.00 per 1,000.

The Agricultural Revolution, 16-page pamphlet. Latest figures and facts on the farmers' work and life. Price, $3.00 per 1,000.

Any of the above 16-page pamphlets will be sent by freight in lots of 5,000 or more at the rate of $1.00 per 1,000.

An Appeal to Children, 4 pages. Written by Comrade Debs to the children of the nation. Price 50c per 1,000.

Send all orders and make all remittances to J. Mahlon Barnes, 111 North Market Street, Chicago, Ill.

In accordance with the recommendations of the Committee on Ways and Means to the national convention, and the decision of the National Executive Committee, Campaign Committee and the presidential candidates, voluntary assessment stamps have been sent to all locals and branches of the party. The returns on the stamps are to be made on October 31st.

J. Mahlon Barnes,
Campaign Manager.

SOCIALIST WORK AT COLLEGES.

With the opening of the college year, the Intercollegiate Socialist Society is starting on what promises to be the most active and fruitful season of its existence.

As the result of last year's work, 20 chapters for the study of Socialism were formed in the colleges of the country and two groups among college alumni. By June, 1913, the undergraduate chapters numbered no less than 49 and the graduate chapters five.

During the summer months a strong alumni group was formed in Los Angeles, and promises of further undergraduate chapters were received from Dartmouth, Wellesley, the Universities of Colorado, Arizona and Southern California, the Agricultural College of Utah, and Bethany, Lenox and Columbia-Lutheran Colleges. It is hoped that by next June the numbers of study groups may approximate 100. The Society has also been compiling since college closed a goodly list of I. S. S. lecturers, revising the I. S. S. Study Course, and preparing further literature for students.

Among the important gatherings of the I. S. S., which the Society is endeavoring to arrange during the fall and spring are included three large meetings, probably in Carnegie Hall, New York City, and the fourth Annual Convention which will be held in New York during the Christmas holidays.

That the students in the British universities are not to be outdone by American students in their desire to learn more of the real significance of the Socialist movement, is evidenced by the organization of the Inter-University Socialist Federation in Manchester in the Spring of 1912. This Federation consists of Socialist societies of the bridge, Birmingham, Edinburgh, Glasgow, Liverpool and St. Andrews. It was stated at the organization meeting that there are between five and six hundred members of the groups in the various universities, Cambridge and Oxford alone having a membership of no less than 350. The Oxford Society was organized some eighteen years ago.

The following colleges now possess I. S. S. chapters:

NEW ENGLAND (10)—Harvard, Yale, Brown, Williams, Wesleyan, Amherst, Clark, Springfield Training School, Massachusetts Agricultural College, Connecticut Agricultural College. MIDDLE ATLANTIC (17)—Cornell, Columbia, Barnard, Princeton, Pennsylvania, New York University (day and afternoon), College of the City of New York (day and afternoon), Colgate, Rochester, Union, Swarthmore, Union Theological, Meadville, New York Dental, New York Medical. MIDDLE WEST 17)—Chicago, Michigan, Ohio State, Wisconsin, Kansas, DePauw, Oberlin, Oklahoma, Washington (Mo.), Ohio Wesleyan, Ohio Northern, Baker, Marietta, Bennett, Missouri, Osteopathy, Morris Pratt. PACIFIC COAST (3)—California, Stanford, Washington. SOUTH (1)—Richmond. CANADA (1)—Alberta.

Alumni Chapters exist in New York, Boston, Washington (D. C.), Springfield and Philadelphia.

ORGANIZING BY PRECINCTS.

Local Hamilton, Socialist Party, is branching out in its organization work. At its meeting last Friday evening, it was decided to organize the different precincts. There will be three members named in every precinct, one of whom will be a committeeman to a permanent campaign committee. This campaign committee will have charge of the speaking in the different precincts, the distribution of literature, the general political work and in fact will have charge of the party's propaganda in their several precincts. The campaign committee will continue in office permanently, as the Socialist campaign never ends. Next week we will publish a list of all the members of the committee, and also of those in the different precincts.

Each one should make it a point to asdist these committeemen in every way possible, so as to carry on the propaganda.—Hamilton Socialist.

DAN FARRELL GONE.

Local Dayton regrets the loss of its veteran war horse, Comrade Dan P. Farrell, who has been summoned to Indiana to take the soapbox there for the Socialist Party. This is the second time Comrade Farrell has stumped in Indiana. Comrade Farrell is good enough for Indiana, even though Ohio is forbidden to hear his plain, direct, vigorous arguments and facts, the ripe fruit of many years' battling for the working class in the Labor Union and Socialist movements.—Dayton Socialist.

WILL STUMP NATION FOR HAYWOOD-DEBS

Country-Wide Revolt Will Greet Attempt to Railroad Indicted Socialist.

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 18.—In regard to the arrest of William D. Haywood, Eugene V. Debs, Socialist Presidential candidate, declared today that he will go over the country, if necessary, to arouse sentiment to prevent the railroading of Haywood.

"He is no more guilty of crime in connection with that strike than I am," said Debs. "The Socialists of the whole country have they eyes on Massachusetts. There will be a nation-wide revolt if a serious attempt is made to railroad Haywood."

Lawrence, Mass., September 17.—There is some local speculation as to what will happen if District Attorney Atwill carries out his threat to try Haywood before Ettor and Giovannitti. Atwill, it is said, once declared that he would like to convict Haywood in preference to any other man connected with the Lawrence strike.

It is certain that any attempt to try Haywood's case before that of Ettor and Giovannitti will meet with a terrific storm of protest. Such action will confirm the general impression that the prosecution is actuated by the spirit of revenge, and that, despite all its protests to the contrary, it is not as ready to give Ettor and Giovannitti a prompt trial as it pretends it is.

SUICIDES IN 1911.

In 1911, for the first time, the suicide rate of small cities in the United States exceeded the rate for cities of over 250,000 population. The rate in our small cities last year was 19.8 per hundred thousand, whereas the rate of suicide in twenty-one cities with 250,000 or over was 19.3 per hundred thousand population. In seventy-nine small cities out of 100 cities of all sizes, 1,398 persons killed themselves during 1911.

In 100 American cities (seventy-nine under 250,000 and twenty-one over that population) the rate of suicide has grown steadily from 12.5 per hundred thousand twenty years ago, to 20.3 in the five-year period ending with 1911. In 1910 the rate throughout our registration area was sixteen per hundred thousand, so that there must have been 15,000 suicides in the United States last year.

These figures are taken from the tables of Dr. Hoffman, actuary for the Prudential Life Insurance Company, and are commented on in a recent issue of The Journal of the American Medical Association. Comparing these figures with Prussia's record, Dr. Hoffman shows that the Prussian suicide rate during 1910 was twenty-one per 100,000, about that of American cities. There were thirty-five male suicides as against ten female suicides. The suicide mortality under 15 years is 0.68, rising to 16.61 between the fifteenth and nineteenth years, and to 6.84 between the age of 20 and 24; during the latter period defective education, mental, moral and economic, seems responsible for the very high suicide frequency. But the highest rates are from 24.99 at 40 years to 59.71 at the seventy-ninth year—the period when those given to mental depression manifest decadence of mind and body.

For all ages the principal cause of suicide in Prussia was unsoundness of mind (32.8 per cent. of the male and 40.6 per cent. of the female suicides); next came bodily disease (10 per cent. males and 8.3 per cent. females). Nervous diseases accounted for 4.3 and 7.4 per cent. respectively. Alcoholism was blamed for 19.1 per cent. male, and but 1.5 per cent. female suicides. Sorrow and distress accounted for 13.3 male and 7.7 per cent. female suicides.

SOCIALIST CONVENTION'S REPORT ON FARM CONDITIONS—PARTY'S DEMANDS FOR AMERICAN FARMER

"1. The Socialist party demands that the means of transportation and storage and the plants used in the manufacture of farm products and farm machinery where such means are used for exploitation shall be socially owned and democratically managed.

"2. To prevent the holding of land out of use and to eliminate tenantry, we demand that all farm land not cultivated by owners, shall be taxed at its full rental value, and that eventually actual use and occupancy shall be the only title to land.

"3. We demand the retention by the national, state or local governing bodies of all land owned by them, and the continuous acquirment of other land by reclamation, purchase, condemnation, taxation or otherwise; such land to be organized as rapidly as possible into socially operated farms for the conduct of agricultural enterprises.

"4. Such farms should constitute educational and experimental centers for crop culture, the use of fertilizers and farm machinery and distributing points for improved seeds and better breeds of animals.

"5. The formation of co-operative associations for agricultural purposes should be encouraged.

"6. Insurance against diseases of animals and plants, insect pests and natural calamities should be provided by national state or local gorvernments.

"7. We call attention to the fact that elimination of farm tenantry and and operated agriculture will open the development of socially owned new opportunities to the agricultural wage-worker and free him from the tyranny of the private employer.

"8. The Socialist party pledges its support to the renters and the wage-workers in their attempts to organize to protect themselves from the aggression of capitalism and employers in agriculture.

"9. While the above is offered as a general outline for the national agricultural program of the Socialist party, we wish to point out that there are such variations of conditions in the widely separated districts of the United States that to each section and to each state must be left the task of working out the further details of a program applicable to the peculiar agricultural conditions in their respective districts and states."

The report is largely the work of A. M. Simons, editor of "The Coming Nation," and author of "The American Farmer;" Oscar Ameringer, the author of "The Oklahoma Farmers' Program," and Clyde J. Wright, state secretary of Nebraska.

"During the decade just passed agriculture in America has entered upon a new stage of evolution; which both in direction and velocity of movement differs sharply from that of previous years. The causes of this change are several.

"1. Free land has disappeared and the value of that now under cultivation is increasing more rapidly than ever before. From 1900 to 1910 this increase amounted to over 100 per cent. for the entire nation. In the upper Mississippi valley, in so far as census statistics are available, it appears that the value of the average farm is now about $15,000 (in Illinois, $15,506; in Iowa, $17,269). This is a sum fully equal to that which now separates the average wage-worker from ownership in the tools of his industry, and indicates that from now on the landless farmer must surrender all hope of ever entering the class of farm owners.

"That the conclusion drawn above is correct is borne out by the fact that in the three states of Indiana, Iowa, Illinois (the only ones in this locality from which the census data is available), the total number of farms has decreased from 714,670 in 1900, to 684,410 in 1910. The agricultural counties of these states almost without exception show an absolute decrease in population, a still further proof of the same facts.

Small Farmer Disappearing.

"Still another fact leading to the same conclusion that the class of small farm owner is disappearing is the census statement that in these three states the number of farms of between 20 and 100 acres in area has absolutely decreased, while those of less than 20 acres and of more than 175 acres show the most rapid rate of increase. This fact is indicative of the two forms in which agricultural concentration is operating; through the formation of intensively cultivated, artificially heated and wage-worker operated suburban market gardens, and largely mechanically cultivated farms.

"Perhaps more important than any of the above facts as showing the growing separation of the farmer from the land is seen in the remarkably accelerated rate at which farm tenantry is progressing. The census bulletins show that in the three states of Indiana, Iowa and Illinois, 30 per cent., 38 per cent. and 41 per cent. of all farms are now operated by tenants. Independent research shows that in the purely agricultural sections the actual average is over 50 per cent. in these states.

"The situation in the South is even more striking. Here the census figures show that from 45 per cent. to 66 per cent. of all farms are operated by tenants, while investigation of the cotton farming districts (the overwhelmingly dominant agricultural industry) shows that fully 80 per cent. of the cotton farms are operated by tenants, whose condition is far below that of the average factory wage-worker.

Cost Is Increfeasing.

"The land is not the only instrument essential to agricultural production whose ownership by the producer is growing more dufficult. The cost of farm machinery and the animals necessary for cultivation where animal power is used is also increasing rapidly.

"With the introduction of other than animal power, which is now progressing at a most revolutionary rate, this cost will soon render these instruments also far beyond the reach of the farm worker. Along with this goes the multiplication of subsidiary industries performing operations hitherto performed upon the farm, or which are immediately essential to agriculture, but the machinery for which are completely out of ownership of the farmer. Such are sugar beet factories, canning factories, packing houses, alfalfa mills, cotton gins, rice mills, etc.

"The workers are affected by these conditions reach a total of more than 10,000,000 in 1910, and constitute by far the largest number embraced in any single branch of industry. To confess ourselves unable to include these in the program of Socialism is to surrender our position as the political representatives of the working class.

"Of these ten millions, 3,933,705 are still farm owners, and in spite of all the tendencies mentioned above this group increased over a quarter of a million in ten years, a greater increase than is to be found in any other single group of inudstrial workers, with the single extremely significant exception of the group of farm tenants, which added a little over 320,000 to its numbers during the same period and which now includes 2,349,24g workers.

Many Agricultural Laborers.

"Far larger than either of these divisions is that of agricultural laborers, of which there were nearly 4,000,000 in 1910. It is significant, however, that these are located geographically, in sections largely apart from the other classes. So far as the census data is available it appears that nearly twice as much money is spent for agricultural labor in the little county of Cook, in which the city of Chicago is located, than in any other county of the United States. In so far as farm laborers are employed either upon the highly capitalized and intensively cultivated gardens and green houses or upon ranches, fruit farms and mechanically operated farms in general, their problem is not distinctively different from that of other wage-workers save that hitherto the difficulties of propaganda, education and organization among them has been greater than among other classes of wage-workers. There are, however, certain definite steps, some of which are indicated in the program presented, which can be taken by a Socialist administered local or state government that will assist them in their struggle.

Need Closer Study.

"The extent of the problem, the complexity of the factors involved and the rapid changes that are now taking place in agriculture all emphasize the necessity of closer study of this problem and the need of the preparation of literature especially fitted to this field, and the committee would lay especial stress upon the urgent need of the preparation of literature and its extensive circulation.

"As measures particularly suited to meet this problem we would recommend the adoption by the convention of the program submitted as indicating the lines of work to be pursued by a working class government for the especial relief of this large division of that class."

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE OF SOCIALISM

By John Spargo.

From time to time there are outcries concerning the hostile attitude of progressive workers to Christianity, but there is indeed no such hostility. Socialists and other agitators hurl thunderbolts of superbly passionate invective against Churchianity, against what they feel to be an organized masquerade, but there is ever reverence and love for Jesus. They resent the perversion of his teaching by the churches and cherish in their hearts the pictures of the New Testament in which Christ's humanity is portrayed. They think of the homeless proletarian, less fortunate than the foxes and the birds, with no resting place for his weary head. They think of the Compassionate Christ, too big in his humanity to judge the woman at the well; tender in his love for the little children; withering in his scorn and contempt for an unfaithful and corrupt priesthood; sublime in his denunciation of an empty creedal caricature of religion; heroic and majestic in his anger at Mammon's desecration of the temple. This Christ, the Christ of the Gospels, they revere as a great Comrade.

The contempt for organized Churchianity, the withering scorn heaped upon it by impassioned Socialists, is by no means a new phenomenon. The glory of the prophetic literature of the Bible is the ever recurring rebuke to an unfaithful priesthood. No modern Socialist agitator has equalled Hosea in denunciation of priestly infidelity. Micah's assault upon priests that teach for money, Zephaniah's cry of woe to the priests that "have profaned the sanctuary" and Malachi's terrible impeachment of the priests, making them "contemptible and base before all the people are echoed in these days by Socialists and other radical thinkers. Let those who are shocked by the bitter invective of the modern prophets of social revolt against Churchianity remember that, like the earlier prophets, Jesus himself spared not the priests and elders. "The publicans and harlots go into the kingdom of God before you!" he declared. How often do we read that the chief priests and elders took counsel how to destroy him! Nothing could be further from the truth than to regard criticism and denunciation of organized Churchianity as an attack upon the teachings of Jesus. Prof. Shailer Matthews is well within the limits of conservatism when he declares that "there is many a church which, in point of general altruism and of loyalty to its professions of high purpose, could not endure a comparison with the work of the labor unions."

The passionate protest of the agitators against organized Churchianity is significant chiefly because it articulates the dumb protest of the masses. The agitator is always the prophet of dumb masses. The common people heard Jesus gladly because he was their spokesman, their voice. The Christian church has been araigned at the bar of the conscience and intelligence of the masses; weighed in the balances and found wanting. The average working man feels in his dumb struggle what Theodore Parker felt when he declared that if Christ could return to earth he would have to fight Christianity. He feels that the church is generally a servitor of privilege and oppression, that it stands as a bulwark against justice. It was the cynical hater of democracy and liberty, the English prime minister, Lord Melbourne, leader of those assailed by Danial O'Connell as "base, brutal and bloody whigs," who declared that the church was the world's last bulwark against Christianity and should therefore be left alone.

The dream of universal peace, faith in the coming of a time when wars should cease, came not from the priesthood but from the prophets. In all ages the organization of the forces of religion has tended to narrow the religious concept. And in all ages the prophets, either from within or without the church—but oftenest from without—have struggled to correct the tendency.

MINE GUARDS USE AGENT PROVOCATEUR, SAYS HAYES

Miners' Vice President Declares Thugs Shoot Militia.

MOTHER JONES FREE

Charleston, W. Va.—Following the development that the man killed in the martial law strike zone Saturday was not a miner, Vice President Frank J. Hayes of the United Mine Workers today charged that an "agent provocateur system" had taken the place of the mine guard system, which martial law has banished from the mines.

The "agent provocateur" in Europe is a spy who joins a revolutionary group, frames up plots and then leads his victims into a trap.

"The mine guard's job depends upon turmoil," said Vice President Hayes. "Where there is peace there is no place for the mine guard. The mine guard resented the establishing of martial law because it deprived him of his regular job.

"In every instance in which a soldier is fired upon, it will be found that the assailant is not a miner. The miner has no cause for resentment against the militia. The miner's life is now safe. It was not safe before the establishing of martial law."

Mother Jones, the aged Socialist agitator, today defied the militia to arrest her on charges of inciting riots in the martial law zone, affected by the coal miners' strike. When she presented herself for arrest in the military camp at Pratt, Kanawha County, orders for her capture had been rescinded, and the authorities requested her to return to Charleston.

Word has reached Mother Jones that the militia was waiting for a chance to arrest her on the charge of making inflammatory speeches.

"Well," said Mother Jones, "if they want the chance I will give it to them. I'd just as soon sleep in a guardhouse as in a hotel."

May Extend Martial Law.

"We are ready to cover the entire State with martial law if necessary," said Adjutant General Elliott.

Five mine guards were arrested last night. Squads of soldiers were mobilized in the hills, prepared for attacks that have been occurring nightly. Not a shot was heard, however.

A demand was made today by the United Mine Workers that the commission investigating conitions in the mines probe into the overcapitalization of mine properties.

Chief interest in the Kanawha Valley centered today in preparations for the investigation to be made by Governor Glasscock's commission Hearings will begin Wednesday.

The commission is expected to take evidence on all questions bearing on the situation in the Paint Creek and Cabin Creek districts, where much blood has been shed and untold suffering inflicted since the strike began last April. Some of the questions to be probed thoroughly are the wage conditions, the guard system and the sanitary conditions.

Comparison of the miners' lost in West Virginia will be made with that of the toiler in other occupations.

The idea of Roosevelt and Wilson seems to be that the privilege of robbing the worker should not be confined to a few plutocrats, but should be extended to hundreds of thousands of others who desire to get in the skinning game.

Socialism will not take your farm or your home, but it will end the burden of the mortgage and the weight of rent and profit that has kept you down.

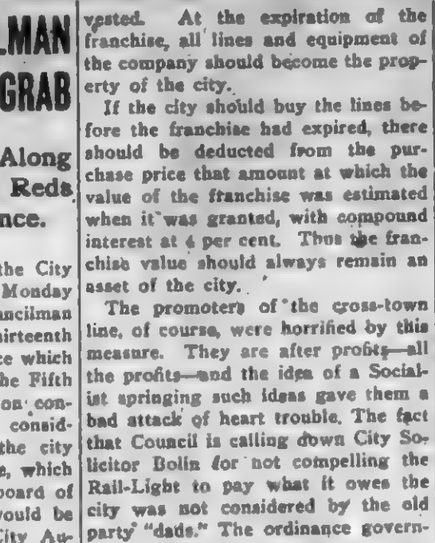
SOCIALIST COUNCILMAN HALTS FRANCHISE GRAB

"Bishop" Barry Tags Along Six Months Behind Reds with Wage Ordinance.

Some of the members of the City Council nearly had fits last Monday evening when Socialist Councilman C. E. Warren, of the Thirteenth Ward, introduced an ordinance which would grant a franchise for the Fifth Avenue street car line only on condition that the company be considered a financial debtor of the city for the value of the franchise, which should be determined by a board of adjustera. Once a year it would be required to report to the City Auditor the amount of its business, with an estimate of depreciation and acquisition of equipment.

With this report as a basis, the street car company would be required to pay 3 per cent. of its gross profits to the city each year, and in addition one-half of the net profits exceeding 12 per cent. on the actual money invested. At the expiration of the franchise, all lines and equipment of the company should become the property of the city.



If the city should buy the lines before the franchise had expired, there should be deducted from the purchase price that amount at which the value of the franchise was estimated when it was granted, with compound interest at 4 per cent. Thus the franchise value should always remain an asset of the city.

The promoters of the cross-town line, of course, were horrified by this measure. They are after profits—all the profits—and the idea of a Socialist springing such ideas gave them a bad attack of heart trouble. The fact that Council is calling down City Solicitor Bolin for not compelling the Rail-Light to pay what it owes the city was not considered by the old party "dads." The ordinance governing the existing franchises are somewhat indefinite. Socialist Member Warren's measure is too exact to suit the gang.

"Bishop" Barry, of the Twelfth Ward, introduced an ordinance setting $3 as the minimum wage for day laborers employed by the city. Many families of laborers in his ward are destitute, he declared, because the head of the family could not earn more than $400 a year under the system of low wage and irregular working days. Wages for the common laborer at present vary from $2 to $2.50, it is said. Double pay for overtime and holidays is also provided by the terms of the new ordinance. The "Bishop" is about six months behind the Socialists with his ordinance.

DON'T TALK TO THE MOTORMAN.

Rule on Street Car That Is Not Observed to Any Extent.

Two young girls were rendered unconscious with minor injuries when an eastbound Main Street car smashed the rear of a double-header at about 8:15 Thursday evening at Linden Avenue and shook up a trolley party managed by the Epworth League of Grace Methodist Episcopal Church.

The details of this accident are not available, but one thing is certain—that there would be fewer accidents if the rule was enforced forbidding motormen talking to passengers. This rule is violated constantly. Even if a car is not crowded there is likely to be a group around the motorman, who is sometimes paying more attention to his friends than he is to the running of the car.

The purpose is to hold meetings the first and third Wednesday of each month and perhaps later, each week. The following resolution was adopted:

Whereas, The Ohio Employers' Association, aided by the National Manufacturers' Association, voiced their opposition to the passage of the equal suffrage amendment to the effect that the woman's place was in the home; and

Whereas, We, the organized workers, realize that women and children are employed in preference to male help because of their cheap labor, which tends at all times to keep the male worker at home instead of the woman, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we instruct our delegate to the Ohio Federation of Labor that he meet with the Legislative Committee of the Ohio Federation of Labor for the purpose of drawing up such labor legislation that will prohibit women and children wasting their lives in the factory and likewise give them the opportunity to obey the mandates of the employing class by taking their place in the home. Be it also

Resolved, That we petition the State to pension all widows and dependent orphans so that women and children will be able to stay out of factories and receive an education and the necessaries of life, in a place worthy of being called a "Home, Sweet Home."

Satisfaction goes with every package. The Occident Co.

FROM OHIO FEDERATION OF LABOR.

To the Central Bodies and Labor Unions of Ohio:

Greetings—The result of the vote on the constitutional amendments records another magnificent victory for organized labor in Ohio. Thirty-four of the forty-two amendments have been adopted, and of the whole forty-two only two in which labor was vitally interested—No. 38, Abolishing Injunctions, and No. 39, providing Equal Suffrage—were defeated; and the labor forces of this State are being congratulated as no others are over the fact that our work more than that of any other social force in the State is responsible for giving to this State the most progressive constitution on the American continent.

The fact that nearly every labor amendment received over one hundred thousand majority is best evidence that the people of Ohio are ready and willing to give labor such legislation as may be needed for its protection and welfare, and this makes the next convention of the Ohio State Federation of Labor the most important ever held in the history of the labor movement of Ohio.

These new amendments give to the organized workers of Ohio opportunities for needed labor legislation such as had never been dreamed of heretofore, and the progressive forces of this State are looking forward to this convention to initiate and plan the new legislation to be asked for from the 1913 Legislature.

If you have not already elected a delegate, do so at once; if your credentials have not reached you, let us know and we will send them to you at once. Unions and central bodies not affiliated can be represented by paying initiation fee of $3.00 and three months' dues on or before September 30th. Get in at once, do your share of the work and contribute your mite to this legislative work we are doing for you.

This convention takes place in Canton, October 14th, and every wide-awake central body and union in the State will see to it that delegates represent their interests at this convention. Fraternally yours,

JOHN VOLL, President.
HARRY D. THOMAS, Secretary.

SENDS TAFT EARLY T. R. COMMENT ON MOOSE.

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 22.—President Taft has received a letter from a Democrat in Michigan transmitting several comments upon the bull moose written by Colonel Roosevelt in his book, entitled "The Wilderness Hunter," published in 1893. Here are a few of the things then said about the bull moose:

"The legs of the moose are too long and the neck too short to allow it to graze habitually on short grass."

"It travels well through bogs, but not as well as the caribou, and it will not venture on ice at all if it can possibly avoid it."

"Young moose, when caught, are easily tamed, and are very playful, delighting to gallop to and fro, kicking, striking, butting and occasionally making grotesque faces. As they grow old, they are apt to become dangerous, and even their play takes the form of a mock fight."

"A truculent moose will do its best with hoofs and horns to upset the boat."

"When run across by accident, they (moose) frequently showed a certain clumsy slowness of apprehension which amounted to downright stupidity."

"THE SOCIALIST" MAKES ANOTHER HONEST OFFER TO CITY OF COLUMBUS

This Paper Has Bid Ready for City Printing — Watch the Councilmen Who are Gangsters Dodge Issue.

Beware the Wrath of the People

The City Clerk of Columbus has been authorized to receive bids for the printing of the legal advertising of the city in two papers of opposite politics. All offers must be in by next Monday at 12 o'clock, high noon.

In the summer of 1911 the city advertising was put up for bids and The Columbus Socialist by its low bid forced The Democrat, a fake paper, to reduce its price, thereby saving the city several thousand dollars. The bid of The Columbus Socialist was lower than The Democrat, but we did not get the contract. WHY?

Last winter the city advertising was again up and, to condense a long story, The Socialist bid by its bid of 30 cents per square for first insertion and 15 cents for subsequent insertions, compelled THE WEEK, published by See-SEE Philbrick, Mayor Karb's stool-pigeon, to reduce its bid from $1.00 for the first insertion and 50 cents for the second, to 40 cents and 30 cents. We saved the city fully $9,000. The Socialist last winter was the only paper of opposite politics to the Ohio State Journal, the Republican organ, that had a bona-fide circulation. Our bid was the lowest. We did not get the contract. WHY?

Right now THE COLUMBUS SOCIALIST has a larger circulation than any paper in Columbus, other than a daily paper. If our bid next Monday, backed by a bond to insure the performance of the work is the lowest, will we get the contract?

IF NOT, WHY NOT?

If the City Council thinks there is no hereafter in politics, we will show them.

TRANSACT PUBLIC BUSINESS HONESTLY OR THE PEOPLE WILL SMASH YOU.

SPECIAL PROPAGANDA ISSUE.

October 19th will be a special issue. We desire to state that we believe it will be one of the best general propaganda issues ever published by this paper, from present indications. There will be an article from Comrade Debs, entitled "Greetings to the Comrades in Ohio." As this will be the week before Comrade Debs speaks in Columbus we will carry in this issue the advertisement of his meeting. This is another reason why it should be given wide circulation.

We want to ask every local in the State to furnish us a short sketch setting forth what you are accomplishing and expect to accomplish, and forward it to us to be used in this issue. Do not make the article long, but short and to the point. We are also asking every INDIVIDUAL COMRADE TO FURNISH US WITH A SHORT PROPAGANDA ARTICLE. WE WILL NOT GUARANTEE TO USE ALL ARTICLES SENT IN, BUT WILL USE EVERYTHING AVAILABLE. IF YOU DO NOT WANT YOUR NAME USED STATE SO AT THE BOTTOM OF ARTICLE. Everybody all together, and we will put the finishing touches onto this campaign in good style.

Bundle rates, $10.00 per thousand, $1.00 per hundred. Names sent in to be mailed direct from this office must be accompanied by remittance at the rate of 1 cent each. All orders must be in by Wednesday, October 16th, as this is our day of going to press.

LAWRENCE POLICE IN SAVAGE ATTACK ON WOMEN AND CHILDREN

Hospital Full of Victims of Unrestrained Brutality by Cops—One Dying.

Lawrence, Mass., Sept. 30.—Dozens of strikers are in the hospital, one is reported dying there, and the police station here is crowded with men and women prisoners as a result of bloody clashes which occurred today between police and mill operatives, who began quitting their jobs in the local mills last Friday as a protest against the approaching trials and continued incarceration of Joseph J. Ettor and Arturo Giovannitti.

The disturbances, which were started by the police, began easly this morning and were repeated in the afternoon. In all the clashes the police acted with unrestrained brutality, using their clubs with a fiendish prodigality which caused men and women to drop on all sides of them. In many instances, the police followed up their advantage and charged the crowds time and again, never failing to leave a trail of men and women sprawled helplessly in the streets. In many cases, the victims of the murderous police lay on the ground, clubbed into insensibility.

Socialism is not disloyal. It would save America from the disgrace of landlordism, poverty, prostitution and crime, and would refend it from the privileged who are plundering it.

SORE THROAT AND "COLD FEET" BAD COMBINATION

Local Progressives Cannot Raise $2,000 for Big Gun Cockran.

Bourke Cockran, the once noted Democratic orator, was to have made the opening speech for the Bull Moose party in Columbus last Tuesday. At the eleventh hour the announcement was made that, owing to severe throat trouble contracted by Mr. Cockran from speaking in the open air, he had been obliged to cancel his Ohio date. It is suspected that it was not a cold in Mr. Cockran's throat so much as the "cold feet" of the local Progressive bosses that prevented the great orator's appearance here. He asked, according to our informant, $2,000 and expenses for speaking here and the Franklin County bunch couldn't raise the cash. The old parties or the Bull M's dare not charge an admission fee at their meetings as the Socialists do. We do it and the people flock to our gatherings.

It is foolish to berate Roosevelt for stealing planks from the Socialist platform. We ourselves persistently put them in his way and capitalist habits cannot be broken.

Socialism is not opposed to private property. Its sole aim is to make it possible for every living person to possess private property, instead of only a few having that privilege, as at present.

AN APPEAL TO ORGNIZED LABOR.

The Columbus Socialist appeals for the support of those whose battles it has fought since its birth.

This is not a matter of a political policy but rather the need of restoring to a healthy vigor THE VOICE OF THE WORKING CLASS. The enemies o fthe Columbus Socialist expect to dig its grave and if necessary, if given the opportunity, they will be there to sing the requiem. But we have enough faith in the workers of Columbus to know that this opoprtunity will never come.

This paper must live to voice our side of the Labor Problem. In case of strike or lockout we must have a free press .This The Socialist is because owned by the working class. It speaks for the working class.

Send in your subscriptions NOW. We must keep the beacon fires burning with a free, unmuzzled press.

Organized labor, do your duty and strengthen the medium that will always voice your appeals and stand by your demands.

YOURS FOR LABOR,

JAMES. H. HENDERSON,

President Columbus Federation of Labor.

GREATEST WORKING CLASS ASSEMBLY IN ALL HISTORY GREETS DEBS AND SEIDEL

Three Score Thousands Turn Out In New York City In Three Monster Meetings At Same Time.

Magnificent Demonstration

New York Oct. 1.—Fully 22,000 persons gathered at Madison Square Garden and the adjoining Garden Theater Sunday at the grandest and most significant political meeting evre in the history of the City of New York.

In Madison Square Garden proper at least 20,000 persons filled the vast floor, the arena, the balconies and several galleries. Of the many thousands of persons who were unable to gain admittance to the Garden proper, 2,000 succeeded in winning seating and standing room in the Garden Theater. Several thousand persons who were unable to get into either the Garden proper or the Garden Theater turned reluctantly away or gathered in envious groups on the outside, many of them lingering there until the thousands on the inside began to file out later in the afternoon.

The wonderful meeting was held under the auspices of Local New York of the Socialist party, and the thousands who were there had come to ratify the candidacies of Eugene V. Debs, Socialist Presidential nominee; Emil Reidel, Socialist Vice Presidential nominee; Charles Edward Russell, Socialist candidate for Governor of this State, and Gustave A. Strebel, Socialist candidate for Lieutenant Governor. All these candidates were there, and S. John Block, Socialist candidate for Supreme Court Judge, presided.

Never in all the quarter of a century of the existence of Madison Square Garden did its historic walls encompass such a gathering. Never before did its walls resound to applause so thrilling, so unrestrained, so remarkable. Long before the chairman rose to open the meeting, and particularly when the candidates were presented to the gigantic mass, great thunders of enthusiasm rolled again and again across the great interior of the Garden.

The color of red, the bright, pulsing color symbolic of internationalism and human brotherhood, seemed everywhere present. Great stripes of red ribbon, wide and long, stretched from all the circumference of the roof of the Garden, culminating in its center in a fantistic design.

All around the walls which encircle the arena of the Garden, and suspended from the balconies and galleries hung hundreds of bright red banners, flags and designs representing as many organizations in and about New York. There were emblems from Socialist party branches, labor unions, literary societies and progressive bodies generally.

All of the women and girls who were acting as ushers or who were assisting in the sale of literature, buttons and bandannas, wore glowing red sashes and many of them wore jaunty red caps. Thousands of persons in the audience wore red in their coat lapels or about their sleeves and nearly every one was the proud possessor of a small red flag.

A wonderful atmosphere hung over the great gathering. The very air seemed to be surcharged with the electricity of the occasion. Every face seemed to be aglow with the throbbing spirit of the event.

There were men and women in that mighty throng who could look back upon the days when the Socialist movement in this country was a thing to be despised and scorned. Through all the dark hours of those early days of struggles and adversity, of calumny and misrepresentation, they had battled heroically, and yesterday they gazed upon and participated in the triumph over it all, consummate and resplendent. There were men and women who had fled the different countries of Europe to escape the deadly wrath of tyrants because they dared to speak for freedom. There were refugees who had left the Fatherland in the early 80's when Bismarck ruled with the iron hand of tyranny, and there were those who had known anguish and suffering in the dark domains of the Czar.

Seated on the stage was Lucien Sanial, the hoary and venerable Communard, with the weight of almost fourscore years resting on his still upright shoulders. In the audience, almost directly in front of the speakers' stand, was Charles H. Matchett, who was the Vice Presidential candidate on the first Socialist party ticket in the United States. Matchett permitted no one to outdo him in his enthusiasm.

The appearance of all the candidates on the speakers' stand was the signal for a thrilling ovation. Particularly was this true in the case of Debs. When he was espied by the great throng wending his way down a rear aisle of the balcony toward the stage, 20,000 throats seemed to burst spontantaneously into a great roar of greeting. Every man, woman and child in the audience seemed to rise like a giant unit. Thousands of them mounted their seats. Thousands of red banners, flags and handkerchiefs were raised in the air and they were waved vigorously above the seething sea of humanity that shouted and applauded with almost frenzied persistency.

It was a wonderful ovation which was accorded to Debs. For twenty-six minutes it endured. It swelled into torrential roars, subsisting like receding waves, only to burst forth again and again with renewed power.

Before stepping to the fore of the speakers' stand, Debs paused where Lucien Sanial was sitting and threw his arms about his neck in an embrace that was loving and fraternal. It was a touching specticle and everyone who witnessed it was thrilled. The tears of joy struggled to the eyes of both.

Algernon Lee presented S. John Block as the chairman. Block referred to the gathering as the most wonderful and portentious ever held in the City of New York. Striking a witty vein he apologized to his hearers in the name of the Socialist party for not having hired a larger meeting place.

At his suggestion, the great audience offered a standing tribute to the memory of William Mailly, former National Secretary of the Socialist party, well known writer on Socialism and tried champion of the working class.

In introducing Debs, he spoke of him as "the great, fearless torchbearer of the new liberty, the leader of the great railway workers' strike of 1894."

"In that strike," said Block, "Debs was sent to jail for six months. That jail," he continued, "was to Debs a college. In it he had time to think, and when his term expired he stepped forth into freedom, a Socialist."

When Debs rose to face the mighty audience, he was greeted by a fresh outburst.

"Debs! Debs! Hurrah for Debs! Hurrah for our Presidential candidate!" came the cries fro all parts of the vast inclosure.

The Socialist condidate responded to the greeting with his characteristic smile.

The wild cheering was mingled with the strains of John Cox's band.

When the more than a hundred baskets were emptied on the counting table, the pile of coins that was heaped up was enough to stagger the imagination of any man who thinks that the Socialist movement is asleep. The total of both collections—Garden Theater and of Madison Square—was $1,544.29. Returns from the sale of seats ran up to the $4,000 mark. The sales of literature, bandannas, progarms, watch fobs, campaign buttons, etc., easily ran up to $1,000.

A thousand fold more geniuses in every line of endeavor have been crushed by the system of exploitation which keeps a majority of people from opportunity, than have ever been developed.

FIVE THOUSAND SOCIALIST MEETINGS ALL IN ONE DAY

Two Million Votes and Twelve Congressmen All on Election Day

"The Common Cause," a rabid anti-Socialist publication, established for the sole purpose of fighting Socialism, says:

1. "Some six or eights months ago, to be exact, it really looked as if Socialism might make good in its prediction that no less than 2,000,000 votes would be its record in November.

2. "They still talk about painting the nation 'red.' 'This is our year,' is their adopted slogan and, if strenuous efforts on the part of a campaign manager and the loyal support of the unthinking horde of 'red card' allies could accomplish the impossible, the obstacles that now block the path of Socialist progress might be overcome.

3. "Certainly, no other party is so well organized, or could put up a better fight under favorable conditions—did such conditions exist. Certainly, no other party could call upon its members to contribute, each and all of them, one day's pay for the support of the political organization. No other party would dream of printing twenty-five million to thirty-five million pamphlets and depend upon the voluntary efforts of its members to see that this literature reached the voters who are most likely to read and be influenced by it. There is no gainsaying the loyalty of the mass of Socialist voters

4. "Everywhere meetings are being held in halls and at street corners and thousands of orators are preaching the gospel of discontent to all who will listen.

5. "On one day—to be assigned later—each and all of the 5,000 locals in the United States will be expected to have a public meeting to whoop things up for Debs.

6. "In connection with the millions upon millions of 16-page pamphlets, issued by the national headquarters, and the special editions of the several Socialist papers that have been prepared,

7. "Almost every conceivable device is being resorted to with a hope that even the smallest contrivance may make some impress upon popular opinion. Knives, paper-weights, drinking cups and a dozen other advertising devices, in addition to the ordinary campaign buttons, have been put out in immense quantities. Red pennants have been manufactured by the thousands; silver watch fobs are at the disposal of all who will wear them, and, to meet the demands of those who have a particularly severe attack of the red craze, there are four-in-hand neckties made of flaming-red material, with pictures of Debs and Seidel conspicuously displayed upon them—and all this for 25 cents. Who would be without one?

8. "Seriously there is a lesson here for those who are actively engaged in a campaign against Socialism.

9. "This is the kind of campaign that Socialism is conducting throughout the world—not this year only, but every day in the week, year in and year out. To meet such a propaganda effectively—to save the American people from being hoodwinked by the insidious sophistries of the Socialist agitators who are such past-masters in the art of delusive argument it is necessary that something should be done of a more tangible nature than has as yet been undertaken."

The article from which the above is quoted is worth millions to the campaign funds of the capitalist parties. It is for us to make that scare good.

SUNDAY, OCTOBER THE THIRTEENTH, IS SOCIALIST DAY. Your local or branch and more than 5,000 others will hold meetings on that day.

Arrange now. Appoint the time, place and speakers. Invite the public. Get to the newspapers with this live story about your meeting being one of 5,000 to be hold at the same time all across the nation.

Our speakers will have at least two million as an audience.

Comrade Debs, candidate for President, and Comrade Seidel, candidate for Vice President, will each send a message to the American people, to be read at your meeting. From that day forward the only issue before the American people will be Socialism.

Some meetings will be held in the busy marts of trade; some in quiet villages; some on bleak deserts, and some in mountain fortresses. Some meetings will have their cheering thousands, and some will be composed of but a handful of serious, earnest, resolute comrades; yet all will be alike inspired by one noble and common purpose.

Your local will participate and help make Socialist Day a stupendous success. You will take a public collection, be it large or small. That money will be used only to help elect Socialist congressmen from the twelve districts now considered favorable fighting ground.

Only organized and united action can secure results, therefore ALL TOGETHER FOR SOCIALIST DAY, October 13th, campaign of 1912.

Fraternally yours,
J. MAHLON BARNES,
Campaign Manager.

THE BIRD-CALL OF THE BULL MOOSE

By Morris Williams.

A great deal of attention is being directed to the fact that the platform, or the "Covenant with the People," as they prefer to call it, of the so-called "Progressive" party is like the Socialist platform in many respects. W. J. Ghent has shown in parallel columns that it is but a copy of the working program of the Socialist party. This alarms some Socialists, who think that this insincere party of personal ambition will seriously affect the Socialist vote. Possibly it will. But the real significance of the radical platform of the Roosevelt party is in something far different Its real significance is the fact that when Roosevelt wanted to make an appeal to the people, he did not dare to go to them with his personality alone, but had to steal the Socialist program in order to make a sizable showing.

It was not so many years ago that any proposal of the Socialist party was considered lunacy The writer of this article is a very young man, and yet he can remember very well the time when to advocate the initiative, referendum, and recall, woman suffrage, proportional representation, a shorter work day, government ownership, abolition of child labor, the curbing of the lawlessness of the courts, and the rest of the mild, moderate demands of the immediate Socialist program would stigmatize a man as a lunatic or a scoundrel. You, who read these words remember. And now, all parties are demanding some of these very things, more or less sincerely. Why is it? Do they really want these things? Is it that these many years of Socialist agitation have driven them to see the justice of our pleas? Has Roosevelt really been converted?

To answer these questions, a bit of history will be enlightening. In 1848, the Communist Manifesto was issued by the Communist (Socialist) League of Europe, written by Karl Marx and Frederick Engels. In the same year, a revolution broke out in nearly all the countries of Europe, whose purpose, however, was mainly democratic. But in all the countries in which these outbursts occurred, Italy, Austria, Germany, France and English, there was an undercurrent of Socialism. In Germany, Engels himself led a company of soldiers, while Marx edited a paper in such a manner that he was put in graver danger than if he had been on the field of battle. The revolutions were crushed, but only for the time. From 1848 until 1871, the leaven was at work, and in the latter year they burst out again.

It must be remembered that there were two revolutions at work at the same time, one political and the other social. The one wanted a united Germany, a united Italy, a united Austria, freer elections in England, and so on. The other wanted the overthrow of capitalism in all the countries of the world. But while the milder revolutions were being fought, the Socialists were found in the front rank of the armies. In Germany, the fight became one for a unified Germany, under the suzerainty of Prussia. In 1864 the war with Denmark was fought, and the Customs Union was formed, presaging the empire. In 1866, the war with Austria was fought and that country was thrown out of Germany The lesser German countries began to gather around Prussia. When the war with France broke out in 1870, all the minor states had lined up, and under Moltke, France was fearfully beaten. As a result, in the palace of Versailles, King William of Prussia was crowned Emperor William I, of a new empire.

All this progress had been the work of the iron chancellor, Prince Otto von Bismarck. "Mit Blut und Eisen," he said, we must unify this empire. He had the one single idea, to aggrandize Prussia. Never was there a man more faithful to his one idea. And he did it as he said, with blood and iron, at a fearful cost in lives and treasure.

But the other revolution had been at work quietly, insidiously, all the time. Under the magnificent leadership of Lassalle, Bebel, and best of all, the greatest political leader in all history, Wilhelm Liebknecht, the fighting social democracy was built up. They had one objective then, as they have now—the overthrow of capitalism. And as capitalism is international, so must this new revolution be international. When the French and the Prussian armies were in the death grapples of the awful battles of the Franco-Prussian war, the Social Democracy of Germany sent fraternal greetings to their comrades in France.

Bismarck saw that with this body, growing all the time, of "Vaterlandslosengesellen" ((Fatherland-less rascals") his schemes of a militant Germany would be shattered. They were the only flies in his ointment. With them carrying on their agitation of internationalism, his intensely nationalistic ideas would be menaced. And how the Social Democracy did grow!

He sought for a way to kill the movement. He thought that he found a solution, and he put it into execution. It was no more nor less than to adopt the more salient features of the Socialist program, and to appeal to the nation that Socialism was not needed, as the government was doing the very same thing that the obnoxious rascals wanted. He proceeded to put government ownership of railways into operation, and today the railways of Germany are publicly owned. He instituted social insurance and a lot of other items of social and industrial justice in the Socialist program. Then he said, after he had put all these into operation, that "The Socialists would sound their bird-call in vain!" But to make assurance doubly sure, he got the infamous anti-Socialist laws passed that made Socialist agitation a crime.

Thus German autocracy thought that it could stem the tide of the onrush of social democracy. It was called state Socialism, but the Socialists knew better; they called it state capitalism. It was the state in business as the exploiter of labor. It was as different from real Socialism as night is from day. But it was government ownership, and the Socialists were supposed to be stumped.

At the same time the headquarters of the party had to be moved to Switzerland. Thousands of the active workers were thrown into jail for advocating Socialism. But the movement still grew! The vote went down a bit for a while, the number of deputies went down a bit, but the movement grew, and finally the government saw that the bird-call still lured the workers on with its siren song, the exception laws were abolished and the great army of the revolution is marching on to ever greater and greater victories.

What is the lesson of this story for us in America? It is this: If there had never been a Socialist party, there would never have been this alleged radicalism in the old parties. It was the 620,000 votes in 1910, it was the million votes in 1911, it is the thousand officeholders, the mayors, and Victor Berger, the legislators, the 150,000 party members, and best and most significant of all, the agitation that never sleeps. That is what has made the old parties sit up and take notice. If the Socialist party had not made its great strides, its demands would be as little heeded as they were in 1896, when there were 36,000 votes, or as they are in South Carolina, where the vote is small.

In 1905, the demand for municipal ownership in New York made the Hearst movement. Hearst did not make it. When the demand swept the city like a flood, even crooked Tammany had to heed, and their candidates were pledged to municipal ownership. They did not mean it. But the demand itself was significant.

Now all parties are "progressive." "We are all Socialists now." Maybe they are all liars. We know that Roosevelt is. We know that he has no more intention of putting his program into effect than the Socialist party has of declaring for a property test for voting. But the wind has been sown, and the whirlwind must be reaped. No matter who is elected some of the radical platforms that they have been shouting about will have to be put into effect. They will not be able to help it. Roosevelt, arch-hypocrite that he is, will have to do something. He cannot get out of it. It is in the air, and the voice of the people must be obeyed.

We care not if Jane Addams means business, or Ben Lindsey, or Hiram Johnson, or Oscar Straus. They may be all sincere or all insincere. We have won a great victory in that they are stealing our bird-call. Suppose that they win. Suppose that they put into effect every one of the things that they have on their platform. To a person who knows Roosevelt's slimy record, that seems a joke; but suppose that he does. The working class will be glad of the respite from the horrible conditions under which they live, the members of the Socialist party will be the first to be glad, and then they will demand more and more until we have as our minimum that which which is now our maximum, the co-operative commonwealth. Then we shall see where the "Progressives" stand. To the working class, it matters not if an eight-hour law is passed by a group of Socialist legislators or capitalist legislators, stung to action by a Socialist minority. While we are in the minority, that is the best that we can expect. That is why we are so anxious to elect one or two or a dozen Congressmen. But the capitalist class will do nothing for us until we drive them to it.

Tolstoy said that the rich would do anything for the poor except get off their backs. The capitalist class will do anything for the working class—except commit hara-kari, or give up their stranglehold on the world.

Make no mistake. It is the increasing vote of the Socialist party that makes all this radicalism. If the Socialist party were to get 2,000,000 votes at this election, it will amaze you to see the masters fall over themselves to give us what we want. But if we get only 500,000 votes, they will be filled with "inextinguishable laughter," as the lords of the English Parliament were when they found that the great charter was not signed by a million names as had been threatened. The demands in the charter were eminently just, but the threatened revolt of the working class did not work out, and so the just demands of the working class have not yet, sixty years later, been granted by the plutocrats of England.

Let those who are timid, let those who are vacillating, let those who want to put a period to the work already done in charging the air with this radical sentiment, vote for those parties who have only bent to the wind of Socialist. But those who mean business, "be bold, be bold, and be forever bold!"

The Bull Moose may think that by its lowing, the siren call of the Socialist Bird will be drowned out. Bismarck was a better and a greater man than a thousand Roosevelts ever can be. But Bismarck was beaten in his grapple with the march of human progress, and ere long, even the dull mind of Roosevelt will learn that

"The cause goes marching on!"

RED FLAG LEGAL

Henceforth the member of the New York police force who arrests any person carrying a red flag or seizes and confiscates the sanguine standard is likely to get into serious trouble, says the New York Sun. This fact was made plain to thirty policemen attached to the East Eighty-eighth Street Police Station when Chief Inspector Schmittberger lined them up and told them that marching Socialists had a perfect right to carry a red flag or one of any other color that they saw fit.

Inspector Schmittberger's action resulted from a complaint made to Mayor Gaynor after the parade of the Socialists and the Industrial Workers of the World last Saturday. On this occasion a red flag carried by one of the men in line was torn from his hands by a policeman and confiscated as "evidence."

Several witnesses of the police action testified before the inspector. Among these were Julius Gerber, executive secretary of the Socialist party, and John A. Wall, a cousin of District Attorney Whitman.

Mr. Wall spoke of Mayor Gaynor's statementt hat the red flag stood for all humanity, and called attention to the fact that the Colonial troops displayed a red standard when they attacked the British in 1775.

"I want to impress this fact on the minds of all you men," said Inspector Schmittberger, turning to the police, "that the red flag has as much right to be shown as either the German or Italian or the green flag of Ireland. They can fly a yellow flag or even a black flag is they want to."

Later it was reported to the Socialists that the police officers concerned in Saturday's occurrence had apologized for their action.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE SATURDAY EVENING POST

By Carl D. Thompson.

Gentlemen:

So you think that "$2,000 a year and six hours a day" is rather too much to promise the workingmen under Socialism, do you?

And you base your think on the statement that "The total yearly output of our manufactories sells for twenty and one-half billion dollars;" that the raw materials, miscellaneous expense, etc., "leaves only six and one-half billions to be divided among laborers, capitalists, managers, clerical force and wage earners." Therefore "To give the wage earners $2,000 each would take over $15,000,000,000 or more than twice the total wealth created by the manufactories."

But, gentlemen, you have overlooked something. In fact you have overlooked several things. But there is one thing you have overlooked that is particularly important.

You say that the total yearly output of the manufactories sells for twenty and one-half billion dollars. You are mistaken. At least the Thirteenth Census Bulletin of the United States for 1910 on manufactories says definitely on page 8, in an explanatory note, that the value of the products in their tables represent the "selling value at the factory." They do not say that the output "sells" for twenty and one-half billion dollars. They say this is the selling value AT THE FACTORY.

Now, it is a well-known fact, of course, that goods are sold for a good deal more than the selling value at the factory. How much more the Census Bulletin sayeth not. On this point we are left in the dark, but it is safe to say that the actual selling price may be anywhere from 60 to 100 per cent. greater than the selling price at the factory.

If, then, our Census Bulletins shall some time in the future give us the data we most need on this subject we may then discover that the manufactories, even now, are actually creating a sufficient amount of wealth so that every workingman receiving the full value of his toil, he would be getting the "$2,000 a year and six working hours a day."

And if to this consideration we added the effect of the one to which you refer, namely: the elimination of waste, which has always been one of the strong points of Socialism, the problem laid down by the "Revolutionary Contemporary" to which you refer, may, after all, turn out to be perfectly sound and mathematically correct.

HOW ARE YOU GOING TO DO IT?

By Mary L. Geffs.

After every argument against Socialism has been answered an opponent generally comes back with the question that is supposed to be a settler. He says:

"Well, even if Socialism would be all right, HOW ARE YOU GOING TO GET IT? It sounds good about employing the unemployed; it is a fine phrase to catch the votes of the working class, but it takes money to do it. The government has already all the expense it can stagger under, and it can't possibly take on any more and live. Now show us a practical way of doing practical things or stand convicted of being dreamers of dreams."

All right. There is nothing we like better than getting down to brass tacks and talking practical things in a practical way.

Our opponent has stated one incontrovertable fact; that the present government has all the load of expense it can stagger under. And this is our starting point. Socialism would rid it of a great, unnecessary, and worse than unnecessary, expense, and here is where it would get its basis for a fund for the employment of the unemployed.

To begin with, Socialism stands unalterably opposed to war. When Uncle Sam gets to be a Socialist he will look over his accounts and say, "Ah, ha! Here is a pretty big sum set aside by my nieces and nephews for the purpose of killing each other; now they are ready to stop this foolishness and we can use the money for something better. Funny I never saw that before."

He will find a little item of $160,000,000 for the support of the army and $120,000,000 for the navy. He will find he has been paying interest on a public debt incurred almost entirely for the carrying on of war, amounting to millions a year. Then he will run his finger on down the page to where he will find that battleships have been costing him 15 millions apiece, and he has built about two a year. Then he will notice that he has been paying twenty-nine officials in the war department $117,000 and seventeen in the navy $108,5000, and a bunch of pension agents $73,000, and he will figure it all up and find that this killing business is costing him just about $402,277,500 every year.

"Here's this United States Senate costing me $690,000 a year; don't see that I need it now—nobody wants to steal anything. And here's the department of justice. Got plenty of justice now without that department, so off goes those two items." And these added to the cost of militarism makes about $532,000,000. And he sticks his pencil behind his ear.

"I might find a few other items, but I reckon I can put several of the boys and girls to work on this."

OHIO CAMPAIGN GROWS WARM

Hundreds of Meetings Being Held Throughout the State Each Week.

The Socialist Party in this state is carrying on the most aggressive campaign in the history of the state organization. More than two hundred meetings are being held each week and many towns are being reached in which the message of Socialism was never heard before.

There will be twelve speakers who are being routed by the state organization in the field during October. Among these will be Wm. Francis Barnard, Con Foley, Tom Clifford, Marguerite Prevey and Frank Bohn. These speakers will address close to a hundred meetings each week. The state organizer, M. J. Beery, has been constantly at work during the last six months, working in unorganized territory, and the list of new locals shows the result of his work. He is assigned to a county for a week or ten days and works under the direction of the county organization.

The greatest number of meetings, however, are being held by local speakers. Many locals are holding meetings nightly. In a large number of counties speakers are being sent to unorganized points from the larger locals in the vicinity. Trumbull, Mahoning, Stark, Scioto, Clinton, Butler, Montgomery and Franklin are among the counties which are making a systematic effort to reach the rural districts. These meetings are showing fine results. The campaign tour of C. E. Ruthenberg, our candidate for Governor, is probably the most extensive made by any Socialist candidate in the state. Comrade Ruthenberg started out June 30th and has been speaking nightly since that time. He has already covered three-fourths of the state and when he finishes his trip at Cleveland on November 4th, he will have talked in every country of the state and reached one hundred and twenty cities and towns. Most locals are reporting big and enthusiastic meetings.

Our national standard bearer, Eugene V. Debs, will make four speeches in Ohio at Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Toledo. Emil Seidel is likewise scheduled for four meetings. The locals to which these meetings have been assigned have engaged the largest auditoriums in their city and preparing for a tremendous outpouring of workers to hear the working class candidates. The literature campaign is not being neglected. There are sixteen weekly Socialist papers in the state which are carrying the Socialist message to thousands of readers each week. The locals have quite generally purchased and distributed the national platforms and quite a number of locals have organized to make weekly distribution of leaflets.

That the Socialist Party will be represented in the next state legislature is no longer subject to doubt. There are a half dozen counties which are close enough to give the Socialist a fighting chance, and with the capitalist party vote divided by three, because of the Progressive candidates, the Socialists are bound to win in some of the counties. There is even a possibility that Frederick Guy Strickland will land in congress as the representative of the Third District, and J. L. Bachman from the Twelfth District.

The Socialist vote in the state will harly fall below 125,000. The dues paying membership indicates that. The membership of the party has doubled since 1910 when the party polled 60,000 votes. Past experience has shown that the number of votes cast for the party ticket increases in proportion. The struggle in Ohio is being carried on in earnest and November 8th will show a better, bigger, stronger Socialist movement and party organization. —J. C. Schawe.

THE WICKED AGITATORS!

The "prominent business man" is seeing things again. He pauses a moment and listens to the corner soap-boxer, he watches the activities of the strike organizer, and then going to a sympathetic reporter, he relieves himself of the following: "If it weren't for the flannel-mouthed and lying agitator, prosperity would once more perch on our banners and peace would reign in our midst." Hence his remedy is to drive out or destroy the agitator, reminding us of the man who would get rid of a headache by cutting his head off.

The modern physician does not attempt to rid a patient of boils by cutting them out or by applying poultices; boils, he declares, are merely symptoms, and it is the patient's system which is in bad working order. So with the student of modern social conditions. He knows that so long as there is restlessness and discontent, there will be agitators. He aims, therefore, to abolish the conditions that make the agitator necessary. He realizes that the agitator is but a symptom. To kill him does not remove the disease, but merely drives it in deeper, only to crop up again in more virulent form. The world today is sick. Only Socialism can cure it.

If the working class of the United States could have seen Socialist Congressmen Victor L. Berger battling for the Lawrence strikers last March at Washington, there wouldn't be any necessity for counting the votes in the Congressional districts next November. And workingmen should remember that it was a Democratic committee of the House that refused to report favorably for a thorough investigation of the causes leading up to the strike and the clubbing of women and children at the Lawrence depot on February 29.

SOCIALIST PARTY TO WAGE FIGHT ON ITS RECORD.

This is to be the first Socialist presidential campaign in which the Socialist party can go before the workers of the nation and fight for its principles "on its record."

This record has been one of unwavering loyalty to the workers of the land, organized and unorganized, and will stand bold against the anti-labor records of both the old parties. The Socialist party will be able to show that:

Victor L. Berger, its first representative in congress, has consistently fought for the workers at the nation's capital.

In the legislature of seven states, Massachusetts, New York, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Minnesota and North Dakota, Socialist members have initiated and fought for working class measures.

In addition to these over 1,000 Socialist officials in city, township and county offices, have always used the power voted to them by the workers to benefit the working class.

Nearly all of these officials have been elected to office during the two short years since the Socialists first swept Milwaukee in April of 1910, two years after the presidential campaign of 1908. Those two years have merely given the workers of the nation a taste of political power, hardly enough for a first, good taste, and so they have an even increased hunger for more.

Workers Want Socialism.

This situation was reflected by Vice Presidential Candidate Emil Seidel during a recent visit to Chicago, when he declared that the workers of Milwaukee would never be satisfied until Socialist rule had been restored in the Milwaukee metropolis.

"One of the big things that the Socialists taught the organized workers of Milwaukee was that when they were out on strike and the Socialists were in office, then the police were not used against them," said Seidel. "On the other hand when either one of the two old parties, or a non-partisan combination of the two, was in power in the city hall then the police were at the beck and call of the employers."

On its record in office, then, the Socialist party will go before the millions and millions of unorganized and organized; non-voting as well as voting toilers of the nation, this summer and fall, and show them that the Socialist party is their political party after as well as before election.

The result of this situation will doubtless be seen to great advantage in the co-operation and support that the Socialist party will receive in this campaign from the economically organized workers.

"We want the aid of all organized workers in this campaign," is the way Congressman Victor L. Berger puts it. "Yes, sir, when we want money for this campaign we are going to the local branches of the Industrial Workers of the World as well as the locals of the American Federation of Labor."

Not only in legislative hall but also upon every industrial battle field since the last presidential election has the Socialist party fought consistently in the cause of the exploited toilers in revolt.

Fought for Toilers.

This has been true of the button workers of Muscatine, Ia., as well as the shirtwaist, laundry workers and teamsters of New York city; just as true of the woolen strikers of Lawrence, Mass., as of the newspaper printing trades and garment workers of Chicago, and no less true of the Illinois Central and Harriman railroad shopmen than it has been of the striking coal miners, either of western Pennsylvania or northern Colorado.

This increased help that the Socialist party has been able to give the economically organized workers has been possible partly owing to the greatly increased membership, now numbering over 125,000. This has made it possible for the politically organized Socialists to divide their burden and extend their activities.

But the increased activity of the organized employers in waging war on the economic organizations of labor have forced the workers to the Socialist party for political support.

"After this I'm a Socialist," is the confession that has gone up and down the rank and file of labor, engaged in industrial disputes, and it has even permeated the membership of labor's officialdom.

International President George L. Berry, of the locked-out printing pressmen in Chicago, has said it. Others are also saying it. More and more are going to say it.

Every indication says that the workers are going to talk Socialism, political action on the part of the working class, in their tarde unions between now and November. They are not going to talk Republicanism, Jeffersonian Democracy, Roosevelt "bull moose" progressivism, or other combination of anti-labor political forces.

These same workers are not going to pass resolutions endorsing Socialist candidates, or vote their approval of Socialist theories; they are going out and fight for Socialism, vote for it at the ballot box and thus by using their political arm also strengthen their economic arm in the struggle to emancipate themselves from the conditions in which they will realize that they are at the present time submerged.

WHY EXCLUDE EACH OTHER?

There will always be a right wing and a left wing in every organization of human beings. No body of persons can get together for any purpose without naturally falling into two more or less distinct groups—the radicals and the conservatives.

The Socialist Party cannot possibly be an exception to this rule. It is one of the conditions under which we must always work. No sane person would expect us not to show so human a characteristic.

But we have still another problem, which greatly aggravates the one just stated. Every new moveemnt gathers to itself, especially in its early history, practically all the fanatics of the human race. This is one of the earmarks of a truly great movement in its beginnings. The fanatic is intolerant. He not only joins the movement, but he violently takes sides in one of the wings of the moveemnt which he joins. Then he forgets the large purpose of the movement which he has joined and enters the delightful occupation of casting out the "heretics" of the opposite wing.

There is no way to be rid of the fanatic. He will always be with us in larger or smaller numbers. But the executive part of our work must not be placed in his hands. To do so is disastrous to our cause. The officers of the Socialist Party must be large enough in their outlook to accept and willingly tolerate the two wings of the movement.

The officials of the Socialist Party who will accept no criticisms of their official acts, who will submit to no discipline themselves, but insist on disciplining all those who disagree with them—such officious officials must be let down gently out of their executive positions. They do not need to be excluded from the organization. They have their place—as critics. But as officials they are flat failures.

Have we the discernment to choose as our executives the quiet, broadminded comrades who have the qualifications to make good? Or must we go on for some time longer choosing the comrades that make the biggest noise, and are the most "revolutionary" measured in volume of hot air?

Boosters' Department

By F. E. JOHNSTON

Nothing can daunt us. We are determined to rid the world of Capitalism, and we will do it. Just so quickly as the working class capture the powers of government we will use that power to socialize the industries of this country, and the entire world.

There is much left to do. There is yet a mountain of superstition to move before we can begin to instill the Co-operative Commonwealth. We must educate the people, and prepare their minds for the next step in the evolution of society.

The most efficient way to do it is to get them for a trial sub to a Socialist paper.

Last Spring a Comrade furnished us with the money to put on the names of an entire Rural Route. At that time there was one lone Socialist on the route, today we have it on good authority from one who lives on the route, that 16 have declared themselves for Socialism. Push things to the limit, from now until election, as much depends upon reaching the voters with our message each week.

The Schullman baseball nine won the championship in the Capital City League.

Don't forget to purchase from our advertisers and use the red ticket.

JIMMY BOYLE'S NEW JOB.

The latest bit of gossip in newspaper circles is that James Boyle, the valiant villifier of Socialism, is to be editor of National Defense, the Columbus publication which, under the splendid direction of Colonel, Captain or Corporal Edward T. Miller, did such efficient service (?) in defeating the proposed new constitution of Ohio. One million copies of Miller's garbled, guzzling tirade against Socialism were distributed in the state and then the people adopted almost every progressive amendment. Boyle is a worthy successor to Miller and The Socialist welcomes James the Only again to the exalted ranks of "journalism," for, mind you, Jimmy never was a newspaper man, he was a "journalist." The best thing about it is that Boyle has a job and it seems, he has been needing one.

The Bull Moosers are simply in the kindergarten of the Socialist school. If they have any sense at all they will advance beyond it.

ENROUTE.

For the last three weeks my route has taken me on both sides of the Ohio River, over in West Virginia and in Belmont and Jefferson Counties in Ohio. Took part in an enthusiastic Warren meeting at Bellaire, and over the river in Wheeling at the big Seidel meeting where 3,000 people stood for two hours in the large market house. Piet Vlag, former editor of the "Masses," was helping the Seidel party and made things lively with his Socialist songs and sale of red flags.

The miners of Belmont Country are doing something beside shouting, however, getting new members at every meeting and investing campaign funds in systematic distribution of literature.

In Tiltonville I organized a miner's local on last Wednesday eve and the next night one at Dillonvale. This makes a complete chain of locals all the way up the line from the remotest end of Belmont County to Empire, Jefferson County. At Dillonvale the mine superintendent butted in, made fun of the speaker and of Socialism, trying to intimidate the miners from listening or taking part in the organization of a local. In spite of his efforts, we got a local of 14 members right before his eyes.

The miners of District 6, T. L. Lewis' own district, will vote solidly against him on election day, and in the town in which he lives, Bridgeport, he is universally condemned, being looked upon as a stool pigeon, to be used by "Injunction Bill" to get the votes of wage slaves for their masters.

At Steubenville Saturday eve held a large mass meeting in front of the Court House. Tom Clifford appeared just as I finished and he was introduced to the crowd, while I went to the Socialist Headquarters to talk on Organization. The hall was full and several new members were received.

It begins to look as if Robt. Carson, the candidate for Congress in that district, might be elected. Monroe County is now about the only weak spot in the district.

Woman Suffrage carried in the counties where our Socialist miners live, Belmont, Guernsey and Jefferson Counties, and we are naturally proud of thei allegiance to the fundamental principles of Socialism, universal suffrage and political action.

CONTINUOUS VAUDEVILLE AT CITY HALL

Council Members Get Nervous Prostration Because There Are Four Socialists on the Job.

Council meeting Monday night was quite interesting in spots, even the Socialist delegation rested on their arms and watched the fun. The show was opened by voluminous communications from the Auditor and Solicitor setting forth how certain franchise-holding corporations had paid what they owed the city under their franchises, and certain others hadn't—not for several years. Solicitor Bolin promised, however, to take the necessary steps as soon as he could wade thru 260 pages of Supreme Court reports having some possible bearing on the subject, adding words to the effect that the City's bad debts were none of his business until properly reported to him.

The ever-present Bexley question was next in line. Bexley residents want City water and sewage disposal, but do not consider that they, being eminent gentlemen, should have to pay city taxes like mere ordinary people in Milo and Grogan, who are still waterless. Director Kinnear is strongly of the opinion that it would be a "good business proposition" to accommodate Bexley, for a reasonable consideration, even the Comrades Zimpfer and Warren cast considerable doubt on whether the City had the necessary equipment. Counman Sherman also had the temerity to suggest that if Bexley really wanted city conveniences, it might come into the city like some less aristocratic localities.

After considerable debate and amusement, an ordinance was passed requiring "all vehicles" to carry lights at night, "except baby-buggies, boys' sleds and play-wagons." Wheelbarrows and girls' sleds were mentioned, but are not included in the ordinance. Horse-drawn vehicles and handcarts will have to show lights, if the ordinance is enforced.

Councilman Alcott introduced a resolution to allow an Italian society to display some Italian fireworks in a city park on Sunday, October 13, in honor of the discovery of America. Certain Highly Moral Solons, however, notably Lucks and Hayden, were horribly shocked at such a proposal to desecrate the Sabbath, even tho it be the workingman's only holiday, and the sin was precluded by a tie vote.

The grand fireworks of the evening, however, was touched off about 11:15 by Sherman's resolution to investigate certain things in connection with asphalt, such as why so much of it is being laid, and why it costs so much to excavate for it. Which is nothing for an honest and upright Service Department to get angry at, yet Director Kinnear blew up immediately, denouncing the muckrakers and vociferously proclaiming his virtue. What he did, tho, was not in it with Councilman Barry. That worthy got real riled up, declaiming in thunderous tones that he "hates suspicion" that Council, not content with "scandalizing the mayor," had begun to "scandalize the department heads." Barry says there is nothing crooked in any Department, and doesn't think the Mayor and his appointees have had any part in their own "scandalization." There is an impression on the Socialist side however, that people who have nothing to conceal ought not to object to being investigated. And who knows what we might find out? For the resolution really passed, after all.

SOUTH SIDE LECTURE CLUB.

The South Side Lecture Club, composed of people of that section of the city who are making a study of economic questions, have sent in a request for a lecture by Comrade W. F. Barnard at the South High School (Deshler and Bruck Sts.), Monday evening, October 14th. The request has been granted and everybody should turn out to hear this eloquent orator on that date. Admission will be free.

Under capitalism the spoilers have carriages and the toilers ambulances. It will not be so under Socialism.

WHAT COMMON MEN IN CITY EMPLOY GET SHOWN BY FIGURES

Laborers Not In Same Class With Directors, Chiefs and Big Men With Fat Jobs.

Editor Columbus Socialist.

Comrades: I have taken the trouble to find out about the laborers' pay for my own information and for the benefit of the public who have a right and ought to know the true facts in regard to the men who keep our water pipes and electric plant in shape so that we can enjoy them and if it was not for these laborers who are so poorly paid, we could not have these conveniences. I worked about three days on the pay rolls in the City Treasurer's office and have found a great variety of facts, enough to compensate me for my work.

I have taken pay rolls from December 16th, 1911, to June 29th, 1912, but two payrolls of a week each were missing, so I have just exactly six months, or twenty-six weeks. I took the first ten laborers on the waterworks payroll and the last ten laborers on the payroll; the reason I did this was that the first ten always average more than the rest and the last ten a little less than the others, but the difference is not very great and will not change the average very much. The first ten laborers received in twenty-six weeks, $2,738.75, and the last ten received $2,353.85. The total is $5,092.60, an average of $254.63 for six months and $42.43 per month or $9.79 per week. I wish to say that these are considered the steady men, men that can or ought to work every day but who lose time on account of bad weather or sickness.

The week ending August 24, 1912, for six days there were employed in Waterworks Dept. two hundred and thirty-nine men who received $2,003.39, an average per man of $8.38 for that week, and this was during the busiest season of the year. One of the laborers received $16.25 that week and one received 38c. Here are some individual examples: Thos. B. Woltz, timekeeper, drew $390.00 for twenty-six weeks. He lost no time, gets $15.00 per week straight. Louis Cronin, drayman, drew $456.15 at the rate of 25c per hour. He put in 1,775 hours in twenty-six weeks, which makes an average of eleven hours and twenty-three minutes per day at the rate of six days per week.

The week ending February 17, 1912, he drew $30.25, for which he worked 121 hours, which averages more than seventeen hours per day, including Sunday, or a seven-day week. The reason I bring this up is to show that the eight-hour law is being violated every day by the heads of our City Department. In case of emergencies such violation should be overlooked but when a man works from ten to seventeen hours every day, it seems as if there was a willful violation and a total disregard for the eight-hour law. How this man could work seventy-one hours one week, one hundred and twenty-one the next and fifty-eight the next and sixty the next and sixty-six the next and fifty-eight the next and sixty the next and sixty-six the next and so on right in succession, without getting proper rest and sleep is more than I can decide. I don't think this man is making too much money but I think he is being worked too hard and wish to point out that the eight-hour law is being violated.

Jas. Wallace, laborer, one of the steadiest men, worked twenty weeks out of twenty-six and drew $188.22, an average of $7.26 per week, or $31.48 per month. Mike Boland, laborer, drew $252.88 in twenty-six weeks, an average of $9.70 per week, or $42.08 per month. This man drew more than any single laborer on the payroll. Jas. Redman (colored), who worked all the months but put in poor time, drew in twenty-six weeks $88.13, an average of $3.39 per week. Considering all these facts, and we all know that no man with a family can live and pay his bills on such pay, a man will have to do one of three things: First, he will have to beat his bills, which some of them do, while he is paying off one bill by legal proceedings he makes three in its stead and most of these men beat their bills, or must steal, which they do not want to do but to which lots of them are droven, or they must starve and suffer from malnutrition, and I'll venture to say that many are suffering from that malady, which is one of the greatest causes of the drink evil.

I therefore ask that you give this your earnest consideration and make a minimum wage for these men and put it up to the heads of the different departments to keep these men busy, and this will work no hardship on our taxpayers, as they will make this difference up in different ways, as every bill on account that is unpaid by one man is made up by the other customers in additional cost of goods, and the tax will be reduced that much from the maintenance fund of the poor house, work house and Charitable institutions.

Our indirect taxation is a hundred times as great as our direct tax, only we notice our direct tax more, that is, most of us do.

FRED P. ZIMPFER,
Councilman 1st Ward, Columbus, O.

DUNKLEMAN SHOWS UP WITH HIS USUAL PROTEST

Thinks the Common People Are Not So Bad Off After All.

Mr. Editer:—I hant bin botherin you fer a long time an I rekon you think I got konverted to your way of thinkin, but you got another think comin.

I big tendin some of your Socialist meetins and the way some of them women stand up an tell the public of the misfortuns of the people what do the work in the mines an the mills an what not is a blam outrage. If them ther spekers had any sense of decensy abot them or any feelin fer the self respekt of them poor people, they wod tell som charitable instutushon abot the konditishons instid of comin out an tellin the hole publik. The generil publik hant goin to help them things any. The generil publik does the votin dont they? The magoritie of the generil publik are fellers what work in these places, hant they? They are gittin what they voted for, hant they? Well if they are satisfied with a club for a pasifier, cold beans an pertaters fer grub, the ground fer a bed, an the star for a blanket, let em enjoy it.

I was up in Milow the other day an I see a nice home where every body was happy. Two women, a man an a little baby. They had a nice front room where they kep the dresser. A nice middle room where they kep the bed an mattress an trunk an a nice back room where they kep the hotplate to kook on, an the store box to eat off of. They dinent have any chares cos they wod rather stand up when they eat or set on the floor when they pass the time. They don't nead any heater cos they can all pile into the bed an drag ther cloths over them an be as warm as tost. Now these here people was happie an I hant going to sturb ther dreams of the future by shoutin this to the publik. It hant the publiks buziness but if you dont believe this is the truth an that they are happie I take you round to the place any time you want to go.

O. S. U. SOCIALISTS ACTIVE.

"We want to make the Socialist Club the most alive political organization in the University, and I believe we can do it. Why, up at 'Michigan' there is a Debs club of over three hundred students that holds meetings every week and is distributing more literature than Democratis and Republicans put together." These were the nthusiastic words of Walter Marshall, president of the Ohio State Socialist Club when asked by a Lantern man what the radical organization would do this year. Mr. Marshall stated that Ohio State had never been up to the standard in the way of Socialist activities, for even the aristocratic Harvard and Yale have charters in the Intercollegiate Socialist Society and have large memberships. Harvard puts out a regular publication and issues Socialist pamphlets. Some of these are fromthe pen of the student grandson of ex-President Elliot.

The Ohio State Socialists will try to secure John Spargo or William D. Haywood to lecture this fall, who, according to the president of the club, are the Socialists most typical to college students.

The initial meeting of the college "revolutionaries" is scheduled for Sunday, October 6th, at 2-Ohio Union.—(Ohio State Lantern.)

SOCIALISTS IN ACTION

News from the World-Wide Movement of the Workers

GENERAL SOCIALIST NEWS.

Although the Associated Press failed to mention a word about the Socialist party vote in the Maine state election, we learn via freight train reports that the S. P. vote (returns still incomplete) will show an increase of at least 50 per cent. In 1910 the vote was 1,611, and indications are that it will exceed 2,500 in this month's election. Nearly all towns show increase from 50 to 100 per cent. or more. This was especially true in Rockland, Westbrook, Eden, Lisbon, Auburn, Lisbon, Augusta, Hallowell, Bath, Biddeford, Saco, Portland and other places. The fact that the Socialist vote showed a healthy increase is undoubtedly the reason why the Associated Press, United Press and other newsgathering agencies suppressed the information. Moral: Read the labor and Socialist papers if you want to keep posted.

More than 5,000 Socialist locals and branches throughout the United States will hold mass meetings on Sunday, October 13. This day has been set aside as "Socialist Day." The campaign headquarters at Chicago is unable to supply the great demand for speakers for that occasion, and the Socialists in the different localities are enlisting the best talent from their own mind. A greater audience will that day listen to the message of socialism than ever assembled to hear any message delivered to the American people.

Eugene V. Debs and Emil Seidel, Socialist Presidential candidates, hav prepared special messages which will be presented at all meetings. Present indications point to an audience of more than 2,000,000 people, and this vast audience, distributed across the entire nation, will be directly addressed by the standard-bearers of the Socialist party. A feat like this has never before been accomplished in the history of American politics.

Now the erratic Tom Watson rises to remark that "everybody knows I have fought the Socialist," and then adds: "They are fighters from the ground up and from Hades to breakfast. They are never discouraged, but defend their work like real heroes, and will sacrifice their comfort and their money to advance the cause. They are not afraid of the federal courts nor of the postoffice department. They will go to jail rather than compromise a principle. Their campaign methods are clean and honest. Their Presidential candidates as absolutely sincere, able, consistent and honorable men."

Victor Berger's speech in Congress laying bare the humbug of tariff agitation by the old-party politicians, showing that the workers are really very little affected economically by either protection or free trade, and that the issue is merely raised to throw dust in the eyes of the toilers while they are fleeced by the profiteers in the various industries, seems to have become by far the most popular document now before the American people. Up to the present time over 1,500,000 copies of Berger's speech have been circulated and there doesn't seem to be any slackening in the demands for the leaflet, which are being made in every section of the country.

A general election is about to take place in Norway and the Socialists are making an aitive campaign to increase their political powers. In 1891 the Socialist party of Norway had but 5,000 members, 10,000 in 1900, while today 36,000 pay dues. The Socialist vote in 1900 was only 7,000, then reached 43,000 in 1906 and leaped up to 91,000 three years later, th elast election. There are at present 11 Socialist members in Parliament, but under a fair apportionment they would have many more. The Socialist representation increased in municipalities from 147 in 1901 to 1,071 at present. Much has been done in the line of building workmen's homes, employing accident insurance, supplying state aid to unemployed, etc.

Mahlon Barnes, 111 North Market St., Chicago, Ill.

THE NEXT BIG THING

Is Socialist Day on Sunday, October 13th. Every local in America is expected to hold a propaganda meeting on that date at which messages will be read from both Debs and Seidel and a collection taken for the National Campaign Fund.

Reports from all parts of the country indicate that this "Socialist Day" is a big idea fraught with tremendous propaganda value. Hundreds of locals are preparing to make this the biggest day of their local campaign, and there will be more Socialist meetings held, more Socialist speeches made, and more Socialist literature distributed on October 13th than on any single day in the history of the Socialist movement. No party or movement has ever undertaken or accomplished anything of such magnitude or political significance.

If your local has not already made arrangements for a meeting on this date, do so at once. Get a speaker if you can; if not do your own speaking. If this is impossible hold a meeting anyway, read the party platform and the letters from Debs and Seidel. The consciousness that nearly six thousand other locals are doing the same thing at the same time, showing the solidarity, organization and growth of the movement, should of itself create such an enthusiasm as to insure the success of your meeting.

Remember, the letters are coming, letters from Gene and Emil, direct to your local, and to be read only on Socialist Day. Get busy NOW and arrange for the meeting at which they will be read, SUNDAY, OCTOBER 13TH.

INDIANA STATE NEWS.

James Oneal, State Secretary, 313½ Ohio Street, Terre Haute, Indiana.

State Secretary Oneal organized a Local at Montezuma, in Parke County, last week with eleven members. A Local was organized in this town a few years ago, which did not live, but the present Local starts with more members and more active men.

Across the river from Montezuma is the town of Hillsdale, in Vermillion County, which also sends in an application for a charter for eight members. This town also had a Local two years ago.

Socialists to the number of twelve at Plymouth in Marshall County, applied for a charter this week. The comrades have also placed a County ticket in the field.

Word comes from Mitchell, in Lawrence County, that the Socialists there are at work reviving the old Local organized there several years ago. At Oolitic in the same county the former members of a lapsed Local have reorganized and paid dues for twelve members.

The Comrades at Sunman in Ripley County have sent a hurry up call to County Organized Burroughs to come there and organize a Local and also hold a meeting. Comrade Dupps writes that there will be may voters supporting the Socialist ticket there this year.

Esther Edelson holds the record for the largest quantity of literature sent to any speaker in one shipment. A package containing $43.00 worth of books was sent to her this week.

T. J. Richards of Medora, chairman of the Jackson County Organization, urges Socialists in that County to send their names and addresses to him.

The Socialists of Tipton and Morgan Counties are the latest to report having nominated County tickets.

The Comrades at Anderson have launched their paper, which is a weekly of eight pages and five columns to the page. It has a neat typographical appearance, and its propaganda articles will compare favorably with any of our publications. Address the Anderson Critic, Anderson, Ind. The subscription price is $1.00 per year.

The Local of Clinton recently adopted excellent resolutions on the Ettor-Giovanitti persecution and forwarded copies of the Governor of Massachusetts and the District Attorney. Locals should arrange for protest meetings in behalf of the accused men.

WISCONSIN NOTES.

Bright, indeed, is the outlook for a Socialist victory in Milwaukee this fall. The re-election of Comrade Victor L. Berger to Congress seems to be almost assured, and there is good reason to hope that the Socialists, if they can keep up a vigorous campaign, will also carry the Fourth Congressional district and give Comrade Berger a comrade in the national legislature. Moreover, they are confident that with good work they can re-elect the Socialist District Attorney and the rest of the Socialist County ticket.

The people of Milwaukee are already pretty thoroughly disgusted with the "non-partisan" anti-Socialist administration which was given Milwaukee by the fusion of the Democrats and Republicans last spring The same sort of fusion is being tried again in the present campaign, but it is not working well. The "non-partisan" idea is already pretty well discredited in Milwaukee. It is doubtful whether it will ever fool the people again. All that is necessary is to put the Socialist ideas before them, especially before the working people

In fact, the Milwaukee Social-Democrats are not backward in this matter. They opened the usual noonday meetings at the factory gates last week. These began on September 16, and will continue every day except Sunday until the campaign closes. They are addressed by our best speakers, while at every meeting a comrade distributes free literature and sells campaign books. The meetings are well advertised in advance and always draw a good crowd One cold day this week Comrade Heims addressed over 3,000 men at the Harvester works. The "non-partisan" candidates are also represented their agents industriously distributing campaign cards. Everywhere, however, the workingmen throw down these "woozy" cards on the ground in deep disgust. The workingmen of Milwaukee have become too intelligent to be caught with such bait.

One of the reasons for the success of the Milwaukee Socialists has been that in all their campaigns they have systematically pulled together. They have always held "speakers' meetings" in which the issues of each campaign were carefully discussed. In the present campaign the high cost of living is the subject on which our speakers are making the fight. This is the problem in which the workingmen and women are most vitally interested, and for which the "reform" parties have no solution to offer. These are the facts which our speakers are presenting to the workers at the factory gate meetings.

Nert Sunday the house to house distribution of literature will begin. Outside of the city limits, where the distances are too great to distribute literatureby this method, two wagons, each carrying three comrades and a goodly supply of leaflets, books and posters, are doing this work for the outlying townships of Milwaukee County. One wagon is covering the northend townships, the other the southern. Leaflets are given out gratis, books sold and posters and cards put up on telegraph poles and other convenient places. Before the cold autumnal storms come on, this work will be completed.

Mrs. Janet Fennimore Korngold will make a tour of Wisconsin, beginning October 1. Mrs. Korngold's message is to the women. One cheery feature of the present campaign is the intense interest taken by the Socialist women and their earnest co-operation.

Thus with all hands at work the campaign has fairly begun to hum in the Badger State.

E. H. THOMAS,

DEBS ON ROOSEVELT.

A few weeks ago the New York Call contained an article by Comrade Debs showing Roosevelt's attitude towards Labor while he was an occupant of the White House. It was so scathing in its arraignment of the "Big Noise," and so clear and concise and unanswerable that hundreds of comrades immediately recognized its propaganda value.

One of these, a New York City comrade, was so enthused that he has reprinted in leaflet form, entitled ROOSEVELT'S HEARTLESS TYRANNY, and has donated to the National Campaign Committee a hundred thousand of these leaflets.

It should be scattered everywhere and given the widest publicity. Order now as the supply is limited and will not last long. Price, 50c a thousand while they last.

REFUSE TO PARTICIPATE.

Charlestown, W. Va.—A meeing was recently called here for the purpose of considering the big mine strike in this State. The meeting resulted in a failure on account of the proposition submitted by the mine operators of the State publicly declaring the terms upon which they would enter and participate in the meeting, they refusing to join the conference providing the representatives of the United Mine Workers were permitted to participate. Commercial, civic and industrial bodies were represented by delegates and the Governor of the State opened the meeting, declaring that it was the purpose to consider plans through which industrial disputes in the State could be solved through boards of arbitration or conciliation. The coal operators declared they were unwilling to participate in a conference unless the conference was limited to citizens of West Virginia, and no one else permitted to take part, and that the participation of the operators in the conference was not to be taken as a recognition of the United Mine Workers. This last move by the operators indicates that they are determined to continue their opposition to the organized coal miners.

PRESSMEN ON STRIKE.

Portland, Oreg.—Recently the pressmen and feeders in the job office in this city presented a new scale to the employers providing for an increase of 50 cents per day for the pressmen and 25 cents per day for the feeders. The officials of the pressmen attempted to secure a conference with the employers, but failed, and the pressmen and feeders went on strike. Thirteen of the shops are now paying the new scale, while five companies are standing out against it. The Typothetae is seeking to establish the open shop, and the allied printing trades are considerably concerned over the present outlook. In two of the strike-bound shops the printers have also been locked out. From present indications it appears that in the five shops mentioned all of the allied printing trades may eventually be involved.

BULL MOOSE HYPOCRISY.

By Richard Jones.

How the Chief Bull Moose does love the working men!

In all his blatant bluster he has insisted that he alone is their friend.

Yet it must be conceded that Theodore Roosevelt has a strangle hold on the affections of thousands of people. We are forced to admit this even tho we know that real, revolutionary Socialists will have none of his stripe. Many surface thinkers among the working class may be deluded into following his leadership.

In the heat of a political campaign many things are likely to happen over night. Roosevelt is a popular idol. Union men, especially, should pause and ponder a while before giving ear to his pleadings; they should hesitate to be carried away on a temporary wave of political paranoia.

"By their works ye shall know them," is as true now as it was in the days of the Hebrew prophet, and a brief examination of some of the deeds of Theodore Roosevelt during his occupancy of the presidential chair must convince the veriest observer of times and men that the Chief Bull Moose is not and cannot be regarded as a friend of labor.

Article One of the Constitution of the United States recognizes the "right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of their grievances." Yet Theodore Roosevelt when he was president, on January 25, 1908, issued the famous "gag" order forbidding government employes to voice their grievances in any way except thru the heads of their departments.

With one wide swath of his mighty pen he seeks to render meaningless that portion of Article One of the constitution quoted above.

Can there be a clearer case of despotism than this? No true union man who bears the scar of battle, who is jealous of the rights acquired after years of sacrifice and agitation, can well afford to ignore this tyrannical edict of one who has shown himself to be the arch-enemy of organized labor, of freedom of assembly.

To those who are at all acquainted with the experience of petitioning the heads of departments for redress, this "concession" on the part of the ex-president will soon seem like a huge joke.

Again, what does the intelligent worker think of the man who now yells for "social justice" and the "square deal," when that same man, while holding the highest office in the land, labeled as "undesirable citizens" three men on trial for their lives, and while a jury was being selected? Come now, what do you think of that?

While he rips and rants and roars against the abuses of child labor, tell us, what did he ever do while he was president towards blotting out the evils of that system? Quick now, what did he do?

What do you think of Theodore Roosevelt as a candidate for a third term, pleading lustily for your support, who is unalterably opposed to the closed shop?

These are only a few of the pertinent questions that might be urged.

Pause and reflect. Do you believe the system of wage-slavery should be continued? Of course you don't. You hope to see the dawn of the day when it shall be no more.

Then consider this from the preamble of the Progressive Party platform:

"We believe that only this form of wise industrial evolution will prevent industrial revolution," which, being interpreted, means that the Chief Bull Moose and his allies stand for the same old system of labor exploitation.

But what's the use of argument, he will not be elected anyway. Still many of the workers will be cajoled into following this blind leader of the blind.

How long, O Lord, how long, will the intelligent worker chase the will 'o the wisp in politics? One would think that by this time he would know with whom he should cast his lot.

Whenever and wherever the Socialists have been in power they have stood by the class they represent. In Germany across the sea, in Milwaukee, Schenectady, Butte and Berkeley in this country, the story is eloquently told, not to mention working-class administrations in many of the smaller cties where they have been tried and not found wanting.

The Socialist party has become one of power and of tremendous fighting qualities. Workers are no longer making personal sacrifice when they join our ranks. With a voting strength of nearly a million we cannot longer be ignored politically.

The reign of capitalism is drawing to a close and the co-operative state, in which the machinery of industry will be owned and operated for the benefit of the men and women who do the world's work, when exploitation will cease, when, as Lincoln put it, "this country with its instittuions shall belong to the people who inhabit it"—that day is beginning to dawn.

"He that is not with us is against us."

Worker, where are you going to stand?

WOULD YOU COMPROMISE A PRINCIPLE?

By John M. Work.

A certain alleged Socialist says that if he lived in a city which the Socialist Party had carried and the city council had the power to grant equal suffrage to women, he would oppose it lest it should cause us to lose the next election.

To me, such a Socialist makes a noise like a Republican or a Democrat.

Fortunately, there is no reason to believe that there are many Socialists who take such a position, but there are perhaps enough to justify a word on the subject.

A question of principle should not be allowed to degenerate into a question of policy, but even as a question of policy such a position is untenable.

A person or an organizer that will sacrifice one of our principles will just as readily sacrifice another.

A person or an organization that will sacrifice the equal suffrage principle could not be trusted to enact the collective ownership principle.

When we are in a minority in a legislative body, we take what we can get. It is not a question of compromising. It is a question of scaring whatever we can get out of the enemy.

But, whenever and wherever we come into complete control, and have the power to act, it is simply a question as to whether we are sincere in our platform declarations or not. If we are, we will enact them into law as completely and as speedily as possible.

If we could consistently deny or delay equal suffrage in a city, we would for the same reason have to deny or delay it in the states and in the nation. For instance, if those who take this position are correct, we ought to oppose the equal suffrage amendments now pending in various states, lest their adoption delay the victory of the Socialist Party.

If we were to adopt such tactics, we would be a lot of detestable, pusillanimous and unprincipled cowards. We would be even less progressive than the old parties, for they at least granted the suffrage to woman in a few states.

And, in such case, the women would be wholly right if they abandoned us altogether. We would be treating them identically as they have been treated in most states by the Republicans and Democrats for half a century—compelling them to beg for their rights and trying to appease their righteous rage with wretched excuses for delay.

I believe that equal suffrage would hasten the coming of Socialism, but, no matter whether it would hasten or delay it, we should stand for it with equal aggressiveness.

About a dozen years ago I attended a suffrage meeting addressed by Carrie Chapman Catt. She told why the Republicans were opposed to suffrage. Then, the Democrats. Then she said the Socialists were opposed to it because they thought it would delay Socialism.

At the close of her address I arose and set her right—as I believed.

But if these temporizing Socialists are correct, I set her wrong.

I don't believe it.

THE CALF PATH.

One day through the primeval wood
A calf walked home as good calves should;
But made a trail all bent askew,
A crooked trail as all calves do.
Since then three hundred years have fled,
And I infer the calf is dead.

But still he left behind his trail,
And thereby hangs my moral tale.
The trail was taken up next day
By a lone dog that passed that way;
And then a wise bell-wether sheep
Pursued the trail o'er vale and steep,
And drew the flock behind him, too,
As good bell-wethers always do.
And from that day, o'er hill and glade,
Through those old woods a path was made.

And many men wound in and out,
And dodged and turned and bent about,
And uttered words of righteous wrath
Because 'twas such a crookd path;
But still they followed—do not laugh—
The first migrations of that calf,
And through this winding woodway stalked
Because he wobbled when he walked.

This forest path became a lane
That bent and turned and turnd again;
This crookd lane became a road,
Where many a poor horse with his load
Toiled on beneath the burning sun,
And traveled some three miles in one
And thus a century and a half
They trod the footsteps of that calf.

The years passed on in swiftness fleet
The road became a village street;
And thus, before men were aware,
A city's crowded thoroughfare.
And soon the central street was this
Of a renowned metropolis;
And men two centuries and a half
Trod in the footsteps of that calf.

Each day a hundred thousand rout
Followed this zigzag calf about
And o'er his crooked journey went
The traffic of a continent
A hundred thousand men were led
By one calf near three centuries edad.
They followed still his crooked way
And lost one hundred years a day;
For thus such reverence is lent
To well-established precedent.

A moral less this might teach
Were I ordained and called to preach;
For men are prone to go it blind
Along the calf-paths of the mind,
And work away from sun to sun
To do what other men have done.
They follow in the beaten track
And out and in, and forth and back,
And still their devious course pursue,
To keep the path that others do.

They keep the path a sacred grove,
Along which all their lives they move;
And how the wise old wood-gods laugh,
Who saw the first primeval calf.
Ah, many things this tale might teach—
But I am not ordained to preach.

—Sam Walter Foss.

OFFICERS NOMINATED.

Washington—The United Brotherhood of Carpenters in convention on Tuesday, September 24, nominated the following officers: For president, James Kirby and William G. Schardt, both of Chicago, and James Ryan, of Philadelphia. For first vice president, A. A. Quinn, Perth Amboy, N. J., and A. M. Schwartz, Pittsburg. For vice president, J. D. McKinley, Chicago; W. L. Hutchinson, Saginaw, Mich., and P. J. Carlson, Moline, Ill. For general secretary, Frank Duffy, Indianapolis, and Robert W. L. Connelly, Ensley, Ala. For general treasurer, Thomas Neil, of Indianapolis, and Oliver Collins, of New York. Members of the general executive board, delegates to the American Federation of Labor, and Building Trades were also nominated.

A COMPREHENSIVE REPORT.

Washington—Secretary Frank Duffy, of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, submitted to the biennial convention of that organization, now being held in Washington, one of the most comprehensive reports ever presented to the international organization. It shows that during the two-year period closing June 30, 1913, 335 local unions were organized, with 301 local unions either lapsed or consolidated, making a total gain in the number of unions of 34, with a total at the end of the fiscal year of 1,849 local unions. The State which contains the greatest numerical strength in the Brotherhood is Illinois, with 163 local unions and a membership of 23,635. New York is a close second, with 209 local unions and a membership of 23,035. California registers as third, with 98 local unions and 16,339 members. Massachusetts comes fourth, with 145 local unions and a membership of 15,995. Pennsylvania is fifth, with 142 local unions, with a membership of 13,816. The remainder of the membership is scattered in various States of the Union, the Hawaiian Islands, Canada, and Alaska. A table is also given showing the annual growth of the organization in each year since 1881. Perhaps the most comprehensive and enlightening information is contained under a report giving the list of local unions in the Brotherhood, the meeting place, time of meeting, hours of labor, wage scale, Saturday half-holiday, and local unions that have local argeements in effect. These statistics show that the United Brotherhood of Carpenters have established the eight-hour work day in over 90 per cent. of the cities and towns where local unions are chartered, with a very large per cent. of these unions having secured the Saturday half-holiday. There is also given in detail the statement of stock on hand at headquarters, together with a general inventory of the furnishings and fixtures of the Carpenters' Building in Indianapolis. Another statistical table was presented showing the result of trade movements sanctioned by the general executive board, in the great majority of which success is reported. Two hundred and thirty-five trade movements were sanctioned by the general executive board, of which 181 were successful, fifteen partially successful, and thirty-nine pending or postponed. Benefits paid out during the biennial period, comprising members' beneficial claims, members' disability claims, members' semi-beneficial claims, and wives' funeral donations, consisting of 1,360 claims, aggregated the sum of $173,802.27. The cost to each member of the Brotherhood in liquidating these claims only amounted to 24.1 cents for the two years. The total receipts of the organization during the period under consideration amounted to $1,341,533.46, while the disbursements during the same period reached $1,402,333.35. The United Brotherhood contributed through its local unions to the McNamara defense fund $18,007.36. At the close of the fiscal year on June 30, 1913, the United Brotherhood had in cash $264,242.57, and also real estate at Nederland, Tex., and Sulphur, Okla., valued at $350, making the assets of the Brotherhood aggregate $339,000.34. There was received as interest upon deposits during the two-year period $18,279.53. For organizing work $363,474.25 was paid, which emphasizes the fact that the results achieved by the United Brotherhood were in large part due to its expenditure for organizing work, thus resulting in the establishment of a large number of local unions, as well as making successful a large number of trade movements reported for the two-year period.

OUR OLD FRIEND BILL IN MORE TROUBLE

Report Out That Haywood Helped T. R.—Needs Explaining.

We clip the following from the National Socialist. It ought to make some of our misguided Ohio idolators of that great melodramatic artist, Wm. D. Haywood, open their entranced eyes.

"Who's Afraid?"

(National Socialist.)

Inclosing a clipping from the New York World containing a story to the effect that Robert W. Bruere, a Socialist, assisted Theodore Roosevelt in "pilfering the Socialist platform," and that Bruere did this with the advice and consent of William D. Haywood, A. G. Craig, of Cresskill, N. J. writes us as follows:

"Editor The National Socialist:

"No Socialist paper has yet mentioned this affair. Who's afraid? It's up to you.

"Yours for freedom,

"Creskill, N. J. A. G. CRAIG."

The reason we haven't printed anything regarding this matter heretofore is that we had no specific information other than the stories which appeared in the capitalist papers of New York City. However, the other day the New York Call, the Socialist daily, printed an editorial on this subject, and we reprint it herewith:

Roosevelt Acquitted of Burglary.

"There has been some mild speculation recently in Socialist circles as to where Roosevelt received his knowledge of the 'socialist' elements which he has incorporated in his platform. Judging by his remarks from time to time in the Outlook, it was very evident that he knew next to nothing about Socialists or Socialism, not, of course, as the result of inherent ignorance or mental dullness, but rather that he hated and despised as too much to care to know anything about our general stock in trade. And as he had declared that we were so vile as to be mentioned only with difficulty in any reputable magazine, it was naturally supposed that Theodore would be the last person on earth to burglarize the Socialist lumber yard for plank stealing purposes. It was indeed incredible to suppose that such a stainless, high-minded character would even allow himself to be seen in the neighborhood of suspicious premises which he himself had publicly stigmatized as being used for immoral purposes.

"However, the secret is out, and Theodore must be acquitted of plank stealing. The planks in question were brought to him. He did not steal them; he received them instead.

"It seems that the lumber in question was presented to him by a well-known revolutionary comrade in this city. Robert Bruere, who, as he claims, made the presentation on the advice and with the approval of another no less revolutionary comrade, William D. Haywood. Both of these comrades have been and still are noted for their ultra-revolutionary professions and both sternly and resolutely opposed the adoption of the famous clause in the Socialist Constitution prohibiting the advocacy of "crimes and sabotage" as methods of Socialist propaganda, a measure which was sustained on referendum by an overwhelming majority of the membership.

"It is, to be sure, neither an act of crime or sabotage to give Roosevelt or any other person information on Socialism but some little surprise is expressed that these particularly revolutionary and uncompromising comrades should be the first to come to the aid of a political 'reformer' in distress through lack of platform material.

"However, in this case it is the unexpected that has happened. It might perhaps have been naturally assumed that the presentation to Theodore would have been made by some of the supposedly less revolutionary comrades, with a reputed affinity for 'reformers,' but it seemingly has turned out the other way. The incident is all the more singular from the fact that a short time ago another well known revolutionary comrade, whose ideas practically coincide with those of Comrades Haywood and Bruere, gave it as his opinion that the great mass of the party membership being really composed of 'reformers' and "reactionaries,' would altimately march into the Roosevelt camp. It also might have been as naturally assumed that some of these would have been the first to visit that camp, bringing with them such articles as they thought Theodore would be able to use before the wholesale amalgamation took place. However, as we have said, it did not turn out that way."

PLEASE BE CAREFUL.

Attention is called to the fact that many comrades are turning in subs. without the street number of the subscriber.

It is very necessary and important that the street number should be turned in with the sub. in every instance.

Progressiveness is for campaign purposes only. After election all the old parties stand pat with capitalism.

INTERNATIONAL OFFICIALS OF THE U. M. W. OF A. IN WEST VIRGINIA—LARGE MEETINGS BEING HELD.

(By G. H. Edmunds.)

On September 22, 1862, Abraham Lincoln issued his Emancipation Proclamation, thereby liberating 4,000,000 slaves from chattel bondage, and just fifty years later, John P. White proclaimed the freedom of 75,000 coal miners in West Virginia. Standing upon a large platform, on the ball ground at Montgomery, W. Va., surrounded by an audience of 5,000 people, he declared that the day of deliverance was at hand for the miners of West Virginia. And John White was not joking, or "grand standing" when he said it. With all the seriousness, and executive authority that he is possessed with, he made this solemn declaration. After the operators had succeeded in breaking up the conference called by the Governor, the miners decided to hold a meeting at Montgomery, to give the public the miners' side of the controversy. So arrangements were made, and notice given that the meeting would be addressed by President White, and long before the hour for the meeting to start, and despite the fact that a drenching rain was steading falling, more than 4,000 people from every walk of life in the community was on hand. President White made one of his famous heartfelt, eloquent addresses. It being his first appearance in West Virginia the people were very anxious to hear him and get a line on the "new president" and every one was astonished at the marvelous man, and are asking me to please get him to come again.

Vice President Hayes followed and covered the entire ground and the cause of the striking miners. Secretary Perry also made an excellent address. He said, among several other things, that The National Union was behind the strikers, both morally and financially.

Great credit is due to Mr. Ben Davis and his associates for the nice manner and way in which the meeting was conducted. Comrade John Brown who is always ready to do all he can to assist the miners, and who was largely responsible for the large crowd, was on hand, and the crowd demanded a speech, but as we all were pressed for time to make our train, Brown had to postpone his remarks for "some more convenient day." Our own dear Sam Montgomery was on hand and in an able and whirlwind manner, reviewed the situation and pleaded with the miners to use the ballot aright at the next election. He said "the men who believe the sacredness of property rights are sent to the Legislature, the Senate, the Congress, and the men who believe in the sacredness of human rights are sent to the penitentiary, jail, and the poor house.

We desire to thank the good people of Montgomery for the kind welcome and the many courtesies shown our party.

BUSINESS MAN RAISES IMPORTANT QUESTION.

"I WISH THE PRIESTS WOULD LET UP ON FIGHTING SOCIALISTS." Thus said a Catholic business man to another West Side merchant. He went on to say that he thought it was wholly unwarranted and not only injurious to the church but was doing a great injustice to the Catholic business men of the city. He said he had lost some good customers recently and was sure it was because of the acts of the priests. Such men as this will not always continue supporting those who are injuring their business and it certainly looks to me as if the people responsible for these attacks would see the errors of their ways and "repent." But the old saying, "Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad," may be applicable in this case. I can certainly pity the man, whether he is a business man or a wage worker, who is so cowardly as to stand sponsor for the acts of any man or set of men, over whom he has no power or jurisdiction. A man can as easily become a slave to a religious organization as to a political or industrial organization, and the most dangerous organization is one controlled by a ruler, whether he be a political boss, a king, a priest or a pope.

MARSH C. GREEN.

GRAND OLD PARTY IS IN VERY BAD SHAPE

Franklin County Republicans Are All "Shot to Pieces."

The "Grand Old" Republican party is in bad shape in Franklin County. Nine nominees on the county ticket have gone on a general strike against Chairman Sartain of the county committee and have constituted a committee of five hundred members to manage their campaign, with one Dwight Harrison as chairman. Ned Taylor is playing the game alone for Congress, while Frillman for recorder and Bostwick for Probate Judge stand by Sartain, Harry Daugherty and Taft. It is really sad to see the grand old Republican gangsters in such a plight. The "Bull Moose" Progressives are not much better off. The Secretary of State has ruled that they cannot endorse nominees on any other tickets and have the names printed on two or more different tickets. The only safe thing to do in view of all this confusion is to VOTE THE SOCIALIST TICKET STRAIGHT.

If you do not vote the Socialist ticket your vote may not be counted for anybody.

TAKE NO CHANCES.

COMRADES: Do you know that out at 198 and 200 East Main Street, there is a real department store, where you are always welcome, and where you can save real money on Clothing, Shoes, Hats and Furnishings for Men, Women and Children? This store is none other than The Liberty, have been using the columns of this paper ever since the founding of "The Socialist."

The Liberty is now having their Sixth annual Fall Opening, and as usual is demonstrating to the people that they can sell that same article for less, as their buyers have a watchful eye at all times on the principal markets of this country, and this, combined with their LOW RENT and LOW RUNNING EXPENSES, makes it possible to SELL FOR LESS, and don't lose sight of the fact that this store handles nothing but HIGH - CLASS MERCHANDISE, but at a low price within reach of all.

Comrade Jake Block is at the head of the Tailoring Department, and would be pleased to meet all Comrades and Friends at any time, so give this STORE a call, and be convinced, that TRUTH and HONEST MERCHANDISE AT LOW PRICES are always the real MOTTO of THE LIBERTY.

You oughtn't to kick. These are actually good times—under capitalism. This is the very best the system can do for you, no difference who is elected.

Socialism is not in favor of dividing up. It wants to stop the enforced dividing up of the products of the toilers with the spoilers in the form of dividends.

Capitalism makes criminals and then punishes them for being criminals. End capitalism and crime would end just as malaria ends when the swamp is drained.

True love of country wants to stop the robbery that makes the workers of that country poor.

TO SOCIALIST LOCALS IN OHIO

The Columbus Socialist has in its service several good speakers who are willing to hold meetings in Ohio for expenses and the privilege to "boost" The Columbus Socialist." All applications should be addressed to The Socialist, 108 ½ South High Street, Columbus, Ohio.

USE THE RED TICKET.

The Socialist has distributed thousands of red tickets to our readers and has more to be given out. When you buy anything from a dealer who advertises in this paper, hand him the red ticket. He will understand it. The time has come when the purchasing power of the working class must be used to boost its own paper. Get busy with the red tickets.

Remember the Appeal and this paper both for one year for $1.00. Absolutely the best combination ever offered.

NOTICE TO WORKERS.

We have compiled the names and addresses of another complete Rural Route, north of the city. We want to put every one of them on the sub list. Every dollar that can be raised will be used in this manner. Send in the dollars comrades for this purpose, and we will soon wake them up on that route.

STRIKE SITUATION QUIET MILITARY FORCES REDUCED

Charleston, W. Va.—There were but few changes in the strike situation last week. Everything was so quiet that the Governor felt justified in recalling several companies of the militia from the martial law zone. The entire situation is looking very encouraging to the miners and unless some overt act is committe by the authorities the strike that had such a warlike beginning will end in a sane and peaceful victory for the strikers. We have reliable information to the effect that General Elliott in company with Charlie Cabell, better known as the "Czar of Cabin Creek," was around giving the men three days moving orders. If this is true it but marks another instance where (the Governor and Gen. Elliott have broken their word to the miners. When martial law was first declared both Gov. Glasscock and Gen. Elliott promised the miners that no transportation of strike breakers would be permitted to enter the territory covered by martial law and as long as the district was under marital law no one would be ejected from their homes, but in less than two weeks after martial law was declared the soldiers were guarding transportations of strike breakers brought into the field by the Baldwin guards to take the place of the striking miners. Although the authorities broke their promise in this instance the miners have respected the law and kept the peace, but if the military authorities attempt to use the soldiers to eject the miners from their homes it is more than liable to lead up to trouble of a serious nature. The miners know that they have the strike won as the output of coal on Paint and Cabin creeks is practically tied up. The coal companies are going to the expensive bluff of billing out empties to make a showing. We have information that only about 20 or 25 railroad cars are loaded on Cabin Creek and Coal River together in a week. Paint Creek is not doing as well as the operators in that section find it impossible to keep the men brought in on transportation on the works. Every pound of coal mined in the strike territory is costing the operators not less than $10.00 a ton. The coal barons would save money by not attempting to work the mines at all as they are losing money every day they run and bring the first to a close just that much quicker. It is only a matter of time until a great many of the operators in this section will have to give up the fight or go into bankruptcy. All that the miners ask now is that the Governor and his Military authorities keep their hands off. Should Gen. Elliott attempt to carry out his plan to eject the miners from their home with the militia we are afraid he will start something that all of the state guards will be unable to stop and on his and Gov. Glasscock's shoulders will rest the responsibility for what may happen. The people are fast losing confidence in the state and military officials and another breach of faith on their part would precipitate an upheaval that would involve the entire state. The miners are determined to win this strike at any cost and are going to win or die in the attempt.

ROOSEVELT'S TESTIMONY IMPEACHED BY WITNESSES

The Great "I Am" Asked Harriman to Raise $250,000.

Washington, Oct. 9.—"Wizard" Harriman raised $250,000 in 1904 at President Roosevelt's special request. This was the emphatic testimony today before the Clapp committee, directly contradicting Roosevelt's recent sworn statement. One witness said he handled the money. Another said Roosevelt told him on the 'phone that he intended to ask Harriman.

Judge Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the Harriman lines directorate, said Harriman raised the campaign fund at Roosevelt's request. Lovett stated positively that Harriman gave him the fund—$50,000 in cash and the rest in checks—and that he (Lovett) gave it personally to Treasurer Cornelius N. Bliss of the Republican national committee.

NOTICE TO WARD BRANCHES.

Hereafter Ward Branches will be expected to advertise their own meetings unless the Campaign Committee is notified to the contrary.

Socialist Sunday

The next great event in the working class world of the United States will take place tomorrow, Sunday, October 13—SOCIALIST SUNDAY. Over 5,000 meetings will be held tomorrow in this Nation at which the principles of Socialism will be set forth. In Columbus there will be five sections of one meeting, each section assembling in a different park—the weather permitting.

Every Socialist in Franklin County is expected to attend one of these gatherings and bring at least one non-Socialist with him.

Each section of the city is expected to rally to the park nearest and make the day a record breaker.

Special messages from Debs and Seidel will be read at each place.

SPECIAL PROPAGANDA ISSUE.

October 19th will be a special issue. We desire to state that we believe it will be one of the best general propaganda issues ever published by this paper, from present indications. There will be an article from Comrade Debs, entitled "Greetings to the Comrades in Ohio." As this will be the week before Comrade Debs speaks in Columbus we will carry in this issue the advertisement of his meeting. This is another reason why it should be given wide circulation.

We want to ask every local in the State to furnish us a short sketch setting forth what you are accomplishing and expect to accomplish, and forward it to us to be used in this issue. Do not make the article long, but short and to the point. We are also asking every INDIVIDUAL COMRADE TO FURNISH US WITH A SHORT PROPAGANDA ARTICLE. WE WILL NOT GUARANTEE TO USE ALL ARTICLES SENT IN, BUT WILL USE EVERYTHING AVAILABLE. IF YOU DO NOT WANT YOUR NAME USED STATE SO AT THE BOTTOM OF ARTICLE. Everybody all together, and we will put the finishing touches onto this campaign in good style.

Bundle rates, $10.00 per thousand, $1.00 per hundred. Names sent in to be mailed direct from this office must be accompanied by remittance at the rate of 1 cent each. All orders must be in by Wednesday, October 16th, as this is our day of going to press.

GOOD WORK IN NORTH END.

The Fourteenth and Fifteenth Wards each order 2,000 copies of our Propaganda Issue of October 19. Come on, comrades, lets put one in every house in the county.

HADES AT LANCASTER' BOYS' INDUSTRIAL HOME NOW ON THE PROGRAM

Disclosures That Will Startle, Shock and Arouse are in Possession of the "Socialist"—Whole State of Ohio Concerned.

STATE BOARD OF ADMINISTRATION PLEASE NOTE

In the Columbus Sunday Dispatch of October 6th, 1912, there appeared an article with the following glaring head lines: "Boys were Beaten and Paddled at Lancaster School—So says Rev. Dr. John G. Schaibly, Present Chaplain of the Institution." After quoting the Reverend gentleman as saying that all manner of inhuman punishment was formerly administered to the inmates but that (quoting) "Hardly any form of torture was too inhuman to be used, Rev. Dr. Schably declares. These tourtures existed until the New State Board of Administration took charge of the institution and began to investigate the conditions. Now no form of corporal punishment is used. Again quoting, "The change in the Institution at Lancaster is remarkable." Again quoting, "Under the Board of Administration we now have established the merit system. It works like a charm and the discipline is perfect."

Enough quotations from the Reverend Doctor Schaibly but let us see what the real facts are under the "New Board of Administration."

SUPERINTENDENT MAJOR F. C. GERLACH WRITES SOME LETTERS.

July 24th, 1912.

"The Boys' Industrial School, Lancaster, Ohio."

W. C. Bates, Atty-at-Law, 198½ S. High St., Room 6-9, Columbus, O.

Dear Sir: In reply to your letter of recent date regarding the parole of William Neff, No. 14780, Hocking Family, wish to advise that if his conduct continues good, he will be eligible for parole in about six months. Willie is well and getting along nicely.

Respectfully,
F. C. GERLACH,
Superintendent.

At the time that letter was written by Major Gerlach, William Neff was in the Hospital, all battered and bruised as a result of a beating he had received at the hands of Officers in charge under the Major. If F. C. Gerlace did not know William Neff was in the hospital he was not doing his duty. If he did know it then he deliberately falsified.

Another Letter from Supt. Gerlach to Attorney Bates:

July 26th, '12.

"W. C. Bates, Attorney-at-Law, 198½ S. High St., Columbus, Ohio.

"Dear Sir: I wish to acknowledge receipt of your letter of July 24th, in which you advise me that you were 'startled yesterday to learn that William Neff was in the Hospital for very serious causes,' and that his mother is prostrated over the matter, and that you must know the full particulars of this case or this boy must be sent hom at once, or you Socialists will feel called upon to institute an investigation.

I do not see any occasion for you to take this attitude in this matter. I do not know where you get your information in regard to the boy being in the Hospital for 'serious causes,' for it seems that you are ready to criticize regardless of what may be done for the boys at this institution.

"William Neff is in the Hospital and has an affection of one of his lower limbs which the Doctor calls Naduloso. It is not considered a serious matter at all.

"I assure you we are giving our boys the very best of attention and think that your criticism is certainly unjust. I cannot understand why you should threaten me with Habeas Corpus proceedings and the like. If you are so much interested with the welfare of the delinquent boys of the State it should be your desire to get in closer touch with the Institution that is taking care of them and it would afford me much pleasure to have you come down to Lancaster and visit our School and become acquainted with the actual work that is being done here.

"Hoping I may have a few words from you showing your willingness to co-operate in the welfare of our boys, instead of a tendency to criticize, I remain, Yours very truly,

"F. C. GERLACH,
"Superintendent."

In this letter it will be seen that the "Major" was forced to admit that William Neff was in the Hospital the very day he wrote he "was well and doing nicely."

In answer to the above letter our Comrade W. C. Bates went to the Boys' Industrial School on Visiting Day, August 1st, and made an investigation as requested by the "Major," but not just as the Major wanted it done.

On the way there he met with some parents who have boys in the Institution who told the following stories about their boys and the treatment they were receiving, viz:

Aug. 6th, 1912.

W. C. Bates, Columbus, Ohio.

Dear Sir: I am the Mother of ——— (name can be had at this office) at the Industrial School. I will tell why he is there. He got in trouble over a knife and the other boy got a little skin scratched. My boy had no fair trial. We need ——— here to help his father make a living. His father is in poor health and can scarcely stand on his feet and we have got a good position for the boy. He has a good father and mother and a good home. Enemies are why my boy is at Lancaster. Try and get my boy. I can show ——— father is in poor health with a written certificate from our family physician. Please do all you can to help me get my boy.

Yours,
Mrs. ———.

August 5th, 1912.

W. C. Bates, Columbus, Ohio.

Dear Sir: After you left me at Lancaster, Ohio, last Thursday I learned some more that I think you ought to know. My boy while in the hospital went to the Doctor to be treated (this boy contracted venereal trouble after going to this "Heavenly Institution"). The Dr. told one of the boys who works in the Hospital to take a bottle of peroxide and pour some on his (not fit to publish). The boy got a bottle SUPPOSED TO BE PEROXIDE and poured it on but the bottle contained something else and it burned his (cannot mention it) to a raw sore. Now, why don't the Dr. attend to the medicine himself. Now, about a boy by the name of Matteer who lived at Dunkirk, Ohio, who died in the Hospital. They said he had a pitchfork run into his foot and died with blood poison. Now the ——— boy who worked in the Hospital and who was an inmate says he was struck and knocked against the wall and his head made a hole in the plastering and it knocked him crazy and he never gained his senses and he died the next day, and his grandmother who raised him at Dunkirk says she never got any word that he was sick until she got a telegram that he was dead.

I was talking with the Dr. about the venereal disease that my boy got and in the conversation he, the Doctor, told me that there was 4 or 5 of the Officers at that Institution that he was treating for the venereal disease, and I was also told that about 5 or 6 weeks ago that there was a woman committed suicide because her husband was running another man's wife at that Institution.

Why do they bake two kinds of bread; one for the Boys and one for the Officers? They do it, but why I don't know.

Another lady by the name of Nancy Smith at 939 ——— St., Toledo, Ohio, has a boy 10 years old at Lancaster Home, and 9 children have died since her boy has been there and they would not let the boy come home to see one of them. For God's sake,

SOCIALIST CAMPAIGN AMAZES ENEMY

Phenomenal Meetings Everywhere Overwhelm and Worry Old Party Hulks.

(By J. L. Engdahl.)

Springfield, Massachusetts—One of the big phenomenas of this present national presidential campaign is the spirit displayed in the Socialist party mass meetings.

If the Socialist vote this year were to be judged at this time by the great throngs that have been turning out to Socialist gatherings since the presidential campaign began it would be a big vote indeed.

The campaign meetings are made up of persons from all walks of life. The universal appeal seems to have furnished some reason for everyone to hear the party's side of the present political controversy.

The influx of women into the party during the last four years is nowhere so well seen as through a comparison of the campaign meetings this year and in the struggle four years ago.

This seeming power so far as vote-getting is concerned must be discounted with the exception of the six suffrage states where it is admitted that this adhesion of women to the party and its principles is greater than ever.

There was a time when the non-socialist newspapers of Milwaukee found considerable comfort in the fact that a considerable percentage of the Socialist campaign meetings in the Wisconsin metropolis was made up of boys and girls in their teens and little children. They pointed out that instead of the voter alone in the families, the whole family turned out to the Socialist gatherings.

No small part of the power behind many a Socialist campaign meeting comes from the foreign language organizations that are to be found in nearly every city where there is an English local.

This international character was commented upon by The Springfield, Mass., Republican, after Seidel's meeting. It said:

"The audience was an unusual one, composed of all nationalities and classes, with a liberal sprinkling of women, who were keen to catch the points and quick to laugh or applaud them.

"The Socialist meetings in this campaign are just about the most cheerful things in politics.

"Emil Seidel is a fighter against the wage system, which is the slavery of today. When Mr. Seidel appeared, they gave him an ovation of cheers and hand clappings that lasted two or three minutes."

Socialist Vice President Candidate Seidel and Progressive Vice Presidential Candidate Hiram Johnson arrived in Springfield about the same time. The Union, the following morning, carried an account of the Seidel meeting and an interview with Johnson. The report of the Seidel meeting was nearly two columns long, while the Johnson interview was less than one column.

Debs Meetings Tremendous.

Muskogee, Oklahoma—All Kansas and Oklahoma is seething with Socialism. Muskogee citizens gave Debs an audience of 2,000 attentive listeners. There is great activity and enthusiasm throughout both states.

Hughes county, Oklahoma, is going for Socialism. The old parties have practically given up the fight.

Some Democrats have been charged with conspiracy for depriving qualified colored men of their right to to vote. They are being held to the federal grand jury at Ardmore by United State Commissioner Slapp.

Parsons, Kansas—There were big things doing when the Debs party arrived at Pittsburg, Kan., yesterday. An elaborate "Debs day" program had been arranged, starting with a parade at 10 a. m., in which 500 comrades, men, women and children took part. Led by bands they marched through the principal streets of the city to Lincoln park, where they were entertained by the bands and a glee club with revolutionary airs, followed by speeches from George A. Brewer, candidate for congress; A. W. Ricker, candidate for United States senate; A. Wood Simmons, who is a candidate for superintendent of public instruction, which is an elective office. J. A. Wayland and Fred D. Warren were also present.

Miners, farmers and others came from all the surroundings districts and after 3,000 people had gained admittance nearly as many more were unable to do so. It is believed that Brewer, the congressional candidate, and J. D. Turkington, candidate for sheriff, will win out. Comrade J. N. Sasater, a mail carrier and a candidate for clerk of the district court, has been suspended from the postoffice service because of his political activity as a Socialist. A petition has been circulated by the Crawford county citizens and fully 80 per cent. of the voters have signed for Sasater's reinstatement.

Debs At Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Indiana—Eugene V. Debs was greeted here at Tomlinson hall with tremendous applause by over 5,000 people.

His lecture on class struggle was delivered with telling effect. Frank J. Hayes, vice president of the United Mine Workers, candidate for congress from the Seventh West Virginia strike district, was present and added to the effect by a well-rounded introduction.

Old Partyites Marvel At Socialist Admission Charge.

That is the way Socialist Vice Presidential Candidate Emil Seidel summed up the solidarity of the Socialist party in the present campaign, upon his arrival here soon after emerging from the southern states, prepared to cover already familiar ground in the eastern states, before ending his five weeks' tour east of the Mississippi river.

Candidate Seidel has seen a great deal of the American Socialist movement from the Atlantic coast to the Rocky mountains since he left his home in Milwaukee two months ago on his swing around the circle, including every state in the nation.

During October he will cross the plains and prairies of Iowa, Nebraska and Wyoming, cover all the Rocky mountain and Pacific coast states.

He does not believe that this additional month will change his belief that the Socialist party in this campaign is fighting with more unity than it has ever done before.

"The Socialist party has got its feet under it," declares Seidel. "We are fighting one thing, and that thing is capitalism. That is what the Socialists everywhere are fighting.

"I find that the great growth in our party membership has made the Socialist party more stable rather than temporarily unwieldly."

There is one portion of Seidel's talk that never fails to bring repeated and renewed cheering. It is where he shows that as a result of the growing solidarity of the working class the workers are learning to elect the officials that they nominate and place upon platforms which they themselves have built.

"Then," he declares, "we will pass laws that are beneficial to the working class and repeal those laws that are not beneficial to the working class. We will also have our own judges, and we will declare the laws that benefit the working class to be constitutional and all other laws will be unconstitutional. Then Socialism will be constitutional and capitalism will be unconstitutional."

After one week in the New England states, Seidel goes to New York City to take part in the big Madison Square Garden meeting next Sunday. He will then return immediately to Milwaukee, where it is understood they are planning a big home coming for the ex-mayor.

The Socialist movement of Pittsburg, Pa., and Buffalo, N. Y., are dubbed as being as much alike as two drops of water. They are both, however, developing fact and promise big things for the immediate future. It wasn't two years ago when Buffalo could only lay claim to about 60 dues paying members. Today Buffalo Socialists claim 1,100, and they are watching the national bulletins of the Socialist party closely to see that the remainder of the nation keeps up the same pace.

"Fingy" Connors, one of the king pins in the Democratic party, lives in Buffalo, and owns the Courier. It spoke of the Seidel meeting here as follows:

"Seidel packs hall at 15 cents a person.

"Thousands of women hear candidate for Socialist vice presidency accuse Bull Moose of stealing woman suffrage planks from Socialist party."

Then followed enough of extracts from Seidel's speech to fill the remainder of a first page column, which isn't bad for a Socialist mass meeting by a capitalist newspaper.

"The crowd was filled with enthusiasm," says the Buffalo Times, "and when the former mayor of Milwaukee entered the big hall he was cheered to the echo, the cheers and applause listing for several minutes."

The Jewish element among the Buffalo Socialists claim the nomination of Oscar Strauss as the Bull Moose candidate for governor of the state will not alienate the Jewish workers of the city from the Socialist party.

Seidel Sees Torch Parade.

Manchester, New Hampshire—Anti-Socialists and anti-free speeches took to cover here last night when 10,000 people crowded Concorn Commons in an effort to hear Emil Seidel. The heralded efforts to stop the Socialist capdidate from speaking here did not materialize.

When local police and city officials heard two months ago that Seidel was coming here, orders were issued that no halls were to be rented to Socialists and that no political meetings would be held on the Commons in this campaign. The Socialists immediately announced their intention to fight the decree and secured the support of the national campaign committee. The determined stand of Socialists caused a reversal of police decree and a permit was issued for the use of Concord Commons.

Winston Churchill, Progressive candidate for governor, showed his hand at the last moment, and announced he would also hold a meeting. It was of little amount, however, as the working class turned out unanimously to hear Seidel.

Delegations of several hundred Socialists, wearing red badges met Seidel at the train in spite of the fact that he arrived during the forenoon working hours. He was given three cheers at the station, followed by a parade to his hotel. A torchlight parade preceded the meeting.

Seidel At Brockton.

Brockton, Massachusetts—Following a long parade and two mass meetings last night, after Saturday's primaries, the Socialists have the leading position in the political campaign fight to regain control of this city.

Socialists held possession of Brockton from 1898 to 1902. A fight is now on to regain it.

The demonstration last night showed that the Socialist forces are stronger than ever. Several hundred women were in the line of march, carrying "Votes for Women" banners. The foreign population, consisting of Poles, Lithuanians, Jews, Scandinavians and Finns made a strong showing. Torchlights, banners, flags and transparencies made the procession a spectacular one.

Eight thousand people saw the parade. The halls were, by far, too small to accommodate the enormous crowds.

Vice Presidential Seidel and Gubernatorial Candidate Sawyer witnessed the parade from an automobile, after which they addressed the mass meetings. Sawyer confined himself to state issues, while Seidel treated on those of a national nature.

Seidel At New Haven.

New Haven, Connecticut—Six big meetings and over 100 miles of motoring through Connecticut was the total of Seidel's first successful day's work in two automobile tours of this state.

The last meeting of Seidel in the state was held in this city. Seidel was cheered by an audience of over 4,000 in Music hall.

Seidel spoke first at New London. This was followed by a noonday meet at Norwich. That afternoon he held an enthusiastic meeting at South Manchester. Bad conditions of roads made travel slow and several smaller plices were eliminated from the schedule.

DEBS AT CLEVELAND.

The Debs meeting in Central Armany last week Friday night was an eye-opener to many students of public affairs who have been so engrossed by the performances that they overlooked the Red movement. The great armory building never contained a larger audience and hundreds who came late were unable to gain admission. The fact that every person paid an entrance fee of 10 cents was another matter that was rather puzzling to non-Socilists, who have observed how difficult it is for the old parties to hold truly great meetings, even though no admission fee is charged or collection taken and bands are employed to bring out the crowds. However, the Cleveland meeting was only a repetition of one long string of large and enthusiastic mass meetings addressed by Debs from coast to coast, and Seidel's meetings were nearly as great. These gatherings are the best evidence of the real growth of socialistic sentiment, and that too, in the face of the loudest, noisest professions of "progressiveness" and good behavior on the part of political demagogues and betrayers of the people that this country has ever known. It looks very much as though the scheme to hold down the Socialist vote by all sorts of hypocrites joining in a cry for "progress" will fail miserably and that the professional politicians will receive some rude jolts.—Cleveland Citizen.

LEARN ABOUT ORGANIZATION

Workers in Iron and Steel Industry Can Protect Themselves.

The individual workman today is helpless. He can not increase his wages or shorten his hours of labor by his own efforts. But wages can be increased and hours of labor shortened if the individual workman will combine with his fellow-workmen in a labor organization.

The labor organizations admit to membership all workmen without reference to color, creed or nationality, whether they be the highest skilled or common laborers. The labor organizations seek and do get for the men who join them better conditions of labor, shorter hours, and better wages. But the men who labor can not get any benefits for themselves unless they make common cause with their fellow-workmen; Individual efforts are weak at best, but "in union there is strength."

There are 2,000,000 members in the American Federation of Labor. The workmen retain their membership in the American Federation of Labor because they have all received increases in wages, shorter hours and better conditions under which to labor. Employers of labor pay the lowest possible wages to men who are not organized, because men are dealt with as individuals, and the bargaining power of individuals is extremely weak; and unorganized workmen are compelled to accept what the employer offers. The employer takes advantage of this and forces workmen to work for low wages—in other words, the employer sets the price for the labor which the workman has to sell.

Workmen who organize themselves in a labor union have sufficient strength to have a part in determining what wages they shall receive for their labor. Labor unions have a voice in setting the price upon the labor of their members, thus preventing the employer from establishing a wage that is below what the organized workmen, and find out the differences in wages and hours. This will prove that it pays workmen to organize.

In the unorganized Iron and Steel Mills of the United States and Canada, workmen laboring from ten to twelve hours a day, get about the following wages: Laborers, from $1.50 to $1.85 per day, and the mechanical tradesmen get from $2.25 to $3.00 per day, with no extra pay for overtime on weekdays or Sundays, no matter how long they work.

Now see what the organized men get, and determine for yourself what immense benefits are gained solely solely through labor organizations. Organized laborers and trades, working only eight hours per day, get: Laborers in the mines, average $3.62 per day. Building laborers, working at unskilled labor around construction of buildings, average $3.00 per day.

If these organized men had remained unorganized they would have still been working for about the wages paid by the Iron and Steel Companies to their workmen. You can verify these figures given in practically every industrial center of the country.

The men working for the Steel Company can get an increase in wages if they want it. But you will have to organize to get it. The Steel Company will not pay you any more wages than you are now getting, neither will it shorten your hours of labor until you form labor organizations for the protection of your fellow-workmen and youself.

You may be told of other schemes, but if you will investigate you will be convinced that the American Federation of Labor, with its large and increasing membership, has the only plan whereby substantial benefits are conferred upon its members.

If you want more money for your labor—Organize!

If you want shorter hours—Organize!

If you want better working conditions—Organize!

When you have read this circular give it to your fellow-worker and talk it over with him.

Advise your friends in foreign countries to remain there until you have had an opportunity, with your fellow-workmen, to establish a strong union and raise wages to the standard that is just.

Workmen in steel mills are entitled to higher pay. Organize and get it. The opportunity is here. Labor is scarce, and if you take advantage of the situation you and your fellow-workmen will have cause to be grateful for having combined in a labor organization.

Circular No. 3 will soon be issued, and you will have an opportunity to then organize. Watch for No. 3.

Fraternally yours,
SAM'L GOMPERS,
President, A. F. of L.
FRANK MORRISON,
Secretary, A. F. of L.

Indianapolis, Oct. 5.—The International Typographical Union maintains its old age pension upon a percentage basis, each member contributing one-half of one per cent. upon his earnings, and each month the local union transmits to the International headquarters the percentage payments of the members. This system permits the International Typographical Union to arrive at the actual amount of money earned by the entire organization. In the report of President Lynch, submitted to the last convention at Cleveland, Ohio, the following interesting data was incorporated, showing the earnings of the membership and the increases as they occur year by year. For the year ending May 31, 1909, the aggregate earnings were $40,293,738, with a membership of 44,921. For the year ending May 31, 1910, the aggregate was $45,602,944, with an average paying membership of 47,848. For the year ending May 31, 1911, the aggregate was $39,770,668, with an average paying membership of 51,098. For the year ending May 31, 1912, the aggregate was $53,378,902, with an average paying membership of 53,807. The average earnings per member has maintained a steady increase likewise. The average earnings per member during 1909 were $897. The average in 1910 climbing to $953. In 1911 the earnings per member forged ahead until the average per member reached $974, while 1912 showed another tremendous increase to $992 per member per year. The International Typographical Union has maintained its existence by persistence and a strictly trade union policy, without any ruffles, furbelows, or other fancy fixin's. No attempt has ever been made to settle the problems concerning the Typographical Union by any fantastic programs. While like every other organization it has its metaphysical dopesters, but the militant trade union principle is so firmly engrafted into the ethics of the organization that it has ever kept an even keel in the industrial waters. As shown by the figures quoted, which are not arrived at approximately, but are accurate to the minutest detail, it is revealed that as an investment the International Typographical Union stands as one of the biggest dividend paying organizations to its members, the history of this country or of any other country has ever seen.

Socialism believes in leisure. It will provide opportunity for everyone, not only to labor, but also to enjoy life in vacations and recreations.

If the people "voluntarily imposed restraints on themselves," as Republican spellbinders say they did when the Constitution was adopted, they have the same right to remove these restraints as they had to impose them. In other words, the democracy of the past cannot be right if democracy of the present is wrong.

CARPENTERS NOTES.

Washington, Oct. 5.—During the convention of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners a proposition to levy an assessment of 25 cents per quarter per member, recommended by President Huber, for a period of two years was concurred in. The convention adopted as minimum dues of 75 cents per month for beneficial members and 50 cents a month for semi-beneficial members. The convention authorized a donation of $50 per month for a term of one year to the National Women's Trade Union League for organization purposes, providing assurances are given that the women are to be organized under the banner of the American Federation of Labor. "Industrial Unionism" was the topic of a resolution and the convention concurred in the committee's report, which was unfavorable.

For every dollar given the worker there is a hundred dollars taken out of his hide.

Socialism comes to enable all to have private property and plenty to give them luxury.

Socialism is a star. It shines in the present night and speaks of the coming day.

Socialism will be the realization of all that capitalism has deprived you from enjoying.

Indeed, it is doubtful if in these days of the law's delays a condemned murderer would not be a safer insurance risk than a railroad brakeman.

Automobilists in this section are shouting for good roads, but we notice that some of these loudest shouters are tax dodgers.

Socialism is against the army of destruction. It favors the army of construction that shall do good and great things for teh uplift of humanity.

Socialism as a race movement calls woman to the work of uplifting the race, realizing that masters only uplift themselves.

$30,000 TO SEE HIM HANG.

"I'd give $30,000 to see A. L. Emerson hang." General Manager Sheffield Bridgewater of the Industrial Lumber Company is reported to have made the foregoing remark. The Association has deposited more than $100,000 to finance the conviction of Emerson and his imprisoned fellow-workers and has Burns and an able staff of lawyers directing the man hunt.

Three of our fellow-workers are already dead as a result of the Massacre of Grabow, and Emerson and Sixty-Three others have been arrested, charged with killing their own brothers, indicted for murder in the first degree, refused bail and are now in prison at Lake Charles, La., awaiting trial for their lives and liberties, facing death on the gallows or worse, servitude on the frightful penal farms and levees of Louisiana, than which, except it be the hideous convict mines of Alabama, there is no more horrible fate imaginable. But "BLOOD, BLOOD, BLOOD, AND MORE BLOOD!, this is ever the cry of the Southern Lumber Operators Association, and the braver the working man, the more incorruptible he be, the more fearlessly he champions the interests of his class, the sweeter his blood tastes to this Black Hand Society and the hungrier they drink it. For this reason, that they could neither be bought nor intimidated, Emerson, Leheman and their fellow prisoners are in jail today and the stage is being set to send them to the gallows or the levees.

TO ONE FATE OR THE OTHER THEY WILL GO UNLESS THE WORKING CLASS COMES AS ONE TO THE RESCUE.

Too long already the Lumber Kings of the South and their gunmen have been allowed to outrage the working class with impunity; too long already the reign that rules by divine right of pump guns, rifles and blacksnake whips has lasted.

Emerson's only crime is that he led the revolt of the Southern Forest and Lumber Workers against this inhuman system of peonage; for this reason the Association is working day and night to send him to the gallows.

What will YOU give to see that he DOES NOT HANG?

Stand by Arthur L. Emerson and these imprisoned and endangered boys NOW as they have ALWAYS stood by their class.

Act! Act! Act At Once!!!

Send all funds for the defence to Jay Smith, Box 78, Alexandria, La.

Toilers of the World, we appeal to you to help us save the lives and liberties of our boys and turn Sheffield Bridgewater's heartless beast into a pean of victory for the men who are blazing freedom's pathway through the swamps and jungles of the South, the fighting Lumberjacks of Dixie! We appeal to you!

The Initiative and Referendum is now a part of the Constitution of the State of Ohio. This is the direct result of the advocacy and agitation maintained for over three decades by the Socialist Party. It shows progress and we do not care who gets the credit for the accomplishment. There are many other things that will be written into the organic law of the Nation in the near future. The world moves.

Congressman Ned Taylor is a candidate for re-election and is mingling with the common folks very strenuously. He wants the job again awful bad, but the trouble is Ned doesn't know much. He made a speech in the Sixteenth Ward the other night. He spoke of the high cost of living but said he could offer no solution, only declaring that the tariff was not the cause. For a man who has been three terms in Congress Taylor is a joke. Yet this is the man the voters are asked to re-elect.

The Socialist Party has the only solution and our candidate for Congress, J. L. Bachman, voices not only the party's protest against conditions but shows in every speech the remedy.

WHAT IT ALL MEANS.

There is no doubt of the vast sums of money that have been given on one side or the other by the trusts, either to the Republican party or factions of it, or to the Democratic party or factions of it. But when the trusts were buying men, or "political principles," they were also buying more. They were in the market to purchase industrial power and this they got in full measure. It does not matter much about the gigantic corruption fund raised in 1896 by Mark Hanna—may God be merciful to all people in the great beyond. Neither does it much matter as to what happened in the succeeding Gubernatorial, State or National campaigns. The trusts are wise investors. They knew for what and to whom their money went.

Now that things are being investigated, and at a time it will do no good, it is interesting to remember back to another thing. That is the investigation of the connections between politics and insurance, between corruption and the "will of the people." At that time, there were several surprising things that happened. Chief among them was the wonderful loss of memory that occurred. Many famous people who were supposed to carry under their hats all that could be known were found not to know anything whatever.

About the same thing is happening at the present time. Those who are being questioned, can remember only that some one else is a liar. All else, especially what might be of importance, is forgotten. Little sums like $100,000, so easily forgotten by people who receive $8 a week, or $400 a year, or $100,000 in 250 years, are passed over as of no consequence by those being investigated.

It is an elevating and encouraging spectacle, one that should make us all cheerful and ready to proceed with our own business.

Mr. Morgan had to have office memorandum to let him know what he had spent. Mr. Roosevelt had to have ex-secretaries coach him as to what he had been given.

This is about all that has occurred in the investigations. While we may admit that those who did the investigating deserved their money, it still seems a pity that the Socialist Party is not taken as a model and the campaign donations published as they come in. That would obviate all this pernicious business, and the common people, about whom so much talk is made at present, would really know what is being done.

Without instantaneous publicity everything is lost. Who cares about what dead ones gave? What we want to know is what the live ones are giving and why. That would make an interesting story and one on which we could found estimation of the present campaign.

THE NEW CONSCIENCE.

The hope of human progress without violent revolution lies in the growth of a new conscience on the part of the masses.

There was a time when the victor slaughtered the prisoners he took in war. But a new conscience came to him. He discovered that it was wrong to kill human beings, so he enslaved them and let them live.

Then the conscience expanded again. Men came to see that slavery was wrong. They emancipated the slaves.

After another interval of time, another new conscience grew up in men's minds. They saw that it was not enough to emancipate their fellows, but that they must enfranchise them—allow them to have a part in making the laws under which they lived.

Today a new and nobler conscience is taking possession of the people. They are beginning to realize that precisely as it is wrong to permit the physical bully to knock down and rob his fellowmen, so it is wrong to permit the intellectual, the financial, or the economic bully to exploit his fellowmen by taking advantage of their necessities.

The big idea of this new twentieth century conscience is to establish economic justice for all those who labor; to give to toilers the full social value of their products and to end the priavte ownership of jobs.

The new conscience will emancipate the race. The new conscience is oScialism.

LET EVERY COMRADE AND SYMPATHIZER READ THIS AND THEN ACT.

You will now begin to make your fall purchases. In order to support this paper we must carry a certain amount of advertising each week. We have now many reliable firms advertising with us and we ask that each and every reader before purchasing look through the columns of this paper and purchase from these advertisers who use our columns, and be sure and let the merchant know that you came in because they advertise in this paper. Thousands of Red Tickets have been sent to your Ward Branch and you should supply yourself at once. If you can't get to the branch we will supply you from this office. Use your purchasing power to support your own cause. Every one of you intend buying something this week. See to it that you purchase every possible article from our advertisers.

How does the plank in the Socialist platform calling for "the collective ownership of land wherever practicable, and in cases where such ownership is impracticable, the appropriation by taxation of the annual rental value of all land held for speculation or xeolpitation" apply to the man with anything from one to three hundred acres where he is making his home? Might a man own a farm which he works and also another farm which he rents? If a man rents a farm he is holding it for the purpose of exploitation, or if he is holding a great deal of land idle he is holding it for speculation. In doing either he is depriving other people of a right to the earth which cannot be increased. If the public interest is so great that without the use of the idle land many are on the verge of starvation, public interest becomes paramount and the idle land may rightly be seized under present laws for, perhaps, a fair compensation and used for the public good. Taxing land for rent value would merely mean that renting would become unprofitable and the people would give up the land which they could not use. When people were few and acres abundant the holding of vast tracts of land was not so oppressive. As the people become more abundant and the land does not increase then the public rightly will assert itself whether Socialism comes or not.

INSTINCTIVE SELF-PROTECTION.

There will be howl, a prolonged, wailing howl, over the action of the Carpenters' Convention in refusing to seat a Deputy Sheriff who is also a working carpenter in Kansas City and who was apparently, a regularly elected delegate. In the Carpenters' Union there are many who are Socialists. Most of them are not, but they showed sure instinct in this case. They recognized the fact that a man elected on a capitalist ticket to such an office, or selected by a capitalist for it, is not a worker for the welfare of the working class. It cannot be summed up as an evidence of indlividual antagonism, for the question fortunately came in abstract form. The name of the man was unknown to most of the delegates. It was his office and the way that he attained office that counted.

The working class are suspicious of all non-working class officeholders.

This uneasy feeling, this instinctive recognition of the necessity of working class control of the powers of government, must of necessity soon formulate itself into a campaign for working class control that is far bigger than the present one. The turning down of the Sheriff was not an attack upon him. It was part of the fight against that form of government he represents. As such it was encouraging.

Former Judge Peter Satan Grosscup, who resigned from the Federal bench at Chicago after a disreputable career, has joined the Bull Moose party and will support Roosevelt. It is wonderful how "birds of a feather flock together." Grosscup is about the right material for a Teddy Progressive and matches well with some of the clan in Ohio.

Boosters' Department

By F. E. JOHNSTON

Up and at 'em. Only a few weeks left. From present indications all over this county, judging from the unbounded enthusiasm manifested at our meetings, our entire ticket will go through with a WHOOP and HURRAH.

Hundreds are flocking to our country meetings and one can see by the fire of enthusiasm in their eyes that at last they are beginning to see a ray of hope. Hope of a better day is being brought to the hearts of thousands, where before only black despair reigned supreme.

Let every comrade DO SOMETHING to aid NOW. The Campaign Committee has provided literature to distribute. Every one of us must SEE TO it that this literature is placed in the hands of the voters. There is money to raise to carry the fight right up to the eve of election. We want a balance left over to begin our next campaign, which will start while the ballots are being countey November 6th. Let every Comrade or sympathizer forward every cent you can possibly spare to the Campaign Committee. Address them care this office, and we will turn it over to them.

This is the kind of work that counts. Every one of us ought to be able to scare together at least $1.00 now when it is most needed and will do the most good.

THERE IS PLENTY OF WORK FOR ALL. Do what you can, and don't forget to push the subs for this paper, as that is also a very important item. "Everybody's doin' it now."

In order to help us keep our head above the campaign tide, purchase from our advertisers and use the red tickets or be sure and tell the advertisers why you purchase from them. Do this and you will be aiding your own cause.

The 10th Ward Comrades are always busy getting renewals or putting on new subs. They report that they never miss a renewal, unless the subscriber is broke. In such a case they always go back on pay day and get it.

That's the kind of work that carried the 10th Ward last fall.

The First Ward last January contracted to dispose of $100.00 worth of subs before the end of the year. At the rate they are going they will more than cover the mark.

The 13th, 14th, 15 th, 16th Wards are also doing their share towards helping us stem the tide.

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 8, 1912.
Comrade Editor, Dear Sir:
I am sending you under cover of this date, six subs for the Socialist for three months, with remittance for some, these to be used as a little more ammunition and rapid-fire (to send terror into the camps of the old parties. We are reds and know what to do on election day, and this is the reason the plutes are taking to the woods. It is such dynamite as The Socialist that our good capitalist friends fear.
More power to the reds.
Yours for political action,
COMRADE RUTAN.

DR. GEO. B. NYE, MEM. GENERAL ASSEMBLY MAKES CONFESSION

Implicates Legislators, Lobbyists and Business Men in Bribery Deal.

Representative Geo. B. Nye last Wednesday pleaded guilty to soliciting a bribe of $1000 from Representative B. F. Kimble of Adams county. Judge E. B. Kinkead, who presided at a former trial of Dr. Nye, when he was acquitted on a charge of soliciting a $1,500 bribe from State Printer E. A. Crawford, accepted the solon's plea of guilty, and, upon request of Attorney General Hogan and Prosecuting Attorney Turner, deferred sentence. Dr. Nye may never be punished if he repeats his confession to the grand jury and appears as witness against those whom he implicated in the confession. Five other indictments agains thim will be laid away until he has fully complied with his promises in this respect. If he should go back on his confession he may be sent to the penitentiary for five years.

What Nye Disclosed.

Lobbyists and interests who for years have been corrupting legislatures, named. These include men well known in business and politics, one a state official.

One lobbyist, who had a special following of both senators and representatives, with Dr. Nye at their head, named.

Dr. Nye's own income from graft in the legislature totaled $10,000 a year.

Statements of Burns detectives fully corroborated.

Names of persons who raised big defnse fund for indicted solons, told; also those maintaining Diegel family while senate sergeants-t-arms is in prison.

Names of several assemblymen not under indictment who participated in graft, made known.

A grand jury investigation is to be made forthwith. The expose of 1911, it is said, will be no more sensational than that expected when the grand jury reports.

We are getting respectable. Comrade Debs in writing his article for our next week's issue, dictated the letter from the office of Mayor Lunn, Schenectady, N. Y. It used to be, when a Socialist wrote an article for a Socialist paper, he usually did it from the City Prison or County Jail. Now he goes down to the mayor's office.

VOLUNTEERS WANTED.

Organizer W. E. Bues is anxious to secure volunteers to act as watchers at the coming election. Socialists are wanted in every precinct in the city and county. This is very necessary. All who will serve Tuesday evening, November 6, 1912, should communicate with W. E. Bues, Organizer, 108½ South High Street, Columbus, Ohio. Citizens 5323

BULL MOOSERS KNOCKED OUT BY SUPREME COURT

Republican Candidates Cannot Go On Progressive Ticket.

Bull Moosers were finally barred last week from placing the names of Republican and Democratic candidates upon their ticket.

In a ruling given Tuesday the supreme court of Ohio held that it had no powers to review the action of Secretary of State Graves, who last week held that candidates' names could not appear on the ballots of two parties. By this decision but two names will be left on the Bull Moose Franklin county ticket—Bale and Harbarger, candidates for the legislature. In many other counties of the state the tickets will also be more or less depleted.

Comrades Twining and Bues "Round Up" the "Reds" In Good Shape.

Comrades Luella Twining, one of our national speakers, went to Lockbourne last Monday evening, and assisted by Comrade W. E. Bues, held a meeting which resulted in the organization of a local at that place. The speech of Comrade Twining was a model A, B, C talk on Socialism and clinched the work that has been done at Lockbourne by the local speakers this year. Comrade Twining's work in Franklin county has been very effective.

REPLY TO MR. NAILOR.

Mr. Nailor in a statement made before council Monday night, said that "These sons of sunny Italy must learn to observe Sunday in the way Christian Americans do." We would like to ask Mr. Nailor who these Christian Americans are that he refers to. We know no Americans in this country but the Indians. This race we know to be the only real Americans, other than these we call Americanized Europeans, as we are.

By celebrating Columbus day Sunday, we are not violating any political or ecclesiastical laws, and by permitting us to have fireworks on that day we know that it is not inconsistent with the state laws. In Cleveland permission for fireworks can be had for any day.

We could have celebrated Columbus day Saturday, October 12, but our object in celebrating it on Sunday is to give all the Italians an opportunity to join the societies to make a larger parade and thereby pay greater tribute, honor and homage to our hero, the discoverer of the new world.

As to Mr. Hayden's question "as to whether Columbus was an Italian," we are surprised that a councilman of the city of Columbus is ignorant of the nationality of this discoverer of the new world.

FOR THE FINAL SPURT

By Winfield R. Gaylord.

The world is getting HUNGRY—dangerously hungry!

When the world gets too hungry, somebody always gets hurt.

Telling people to "eat grass" started the French revolution.

* * *

More food per capita is produced than ever before.

The labor of the World produces the food.

With the wages paid for that labor the World must buy food.

If wages go higher, the cost of producing food goes up, too.

The price of food is fixed by adding the profits of the idlers to the wages of the World.

The World's wages can never equal the price of the World's food—under this system.

The same is true of everything that the World makes—and must use.

The capitalists don't care what wages are—if they fix the selling price.

Capitalists used to suffer from over-production.

That was when they believed in "competition"—before the trusts came.

Sometimes the World could not buy the food at the market price.

Then prices had to go down, and the World got a little relief.

Manufacturers had to sell, to get their money back.

* * *

Now the trusts stop making food when the World cannot buy at the price.

Or—they store up the food, and hold it until the World buys—at the price.

Coffee, beef, oil, and other trusts do this on an international scale.

THE TRUSTS CONTROL PRODUCTION AND DISTRIBUTION AS WELL.

THEY DO NOT SELL FOOD NOW—UNLESS THEY GET THEIR PRICE.

AND THAT IS THE REASON FOR THE HIGH COST OF LIVING.

Prices go up with high tariff, low tariff—or no tariff.

As long as the trusts control production and distribution, the high cost of living will continue.

They will force it as high as they can—without starting riots.

The trusts may guess wrong on where the riots will start.

That is what has usually started revolutions—ignoring the danger line.

Socialists don't want riots. They want bread!

Being workers, they do not get wages enough to buy the bread they need.

Declining to starve quietly, they propose to change the rules of the game.

They know that control of the bread lies in the means of making bread.

Therefore they, who make the bread, want to own the means of making bread.

System is good—it saves labor. But it must save the laborer, too.

The Socialist party is busy getting control of the system.

They propose that THE PEOPLE SHALL OWN THE TRUSTS.

THAT IS THE FINAL ANSWER TO THE COST OF LIVING PROBLEMS.

* * *

Just now the farmers are getting the best of the increase in prices.

But the coming of the tenant farmer changes all that.

And tenants now operate one-third of the Milwaukee county farms!

Trade unions raise wages enough to help for a while.

But the change in machinery starts that fight all over again.

Co-operatives help those concerned in them, to some extent.

But Co-operatives cannot buy out the trusts—nor control them.

* * *

We must apply co-operation to the industries of the nation.

THE NATION MUST OWN THE TRUSTS.

If you don't believe that—vote any old ticket!

If you do believe that—VOTE THE SOCIALIST TICKET!

THERE IS NO OTHER ISSUE UNTIL THIS THING IS SETTLED.

SOCIALISTS IN ACTION

News from the World-Wide Movement of the Workers

NEWS FROM NATIONAL SOCIALIST HEADQUARTERS

The vote on National Committee motion Number 6 has been called off on account of the rule adopted by the Committee that no motions be submitted until after November 1 unless the proponents and seconds of the motion have the approval of a majority of the members-elect of the respective state committees represented by the members of the National Committee supporting such motion.

The National Committee is voting on the following question by the National Secretary: "Does Motion Number 3 apply to Lyceum lecturers with whom contracts had already been made at the time when the motion was adopted?"

Motion Number 3 is the motion which fixed the wages of speakers sent out by the National Office at six dollars per day and railroad fare.

The vote on the National Executive Committee motion that the National Secretary appoint a Territorial Secretary for Alaska for three months was as follows: Voting Yes, Haywood, Irvine, Spargo. The others not voting. No action taken.

The vote on the motion to appropriate One Hundred Dollars toward the salary of the Territorial Secretary had the same result.

Arthur Brooks Baker, who was appointed by the National Executive Committee to investigate the machinery and equipment necessary or desirable to establish a printing plant, is now making this investigation and will report to the Committee at its next meeting.

The amount received at the National Office for dues during the month of September was $5,384.85. The average membership for the first nine months of 1912, as evidenced by the dues received, was $116,492.

The new National Constitution went into effect October 4. It makes a change in the method of initiating national referendums. The new provisions are as follows:

"Motions to amend any part of this constitution, as well as any other motions or resolutions to be voted upon by the entire membership of the party, shall be submitted by the Executive Secretary to the referendum vote of the party membership, upon the request of at least three states representing at least 5 per cent. of the entire membership of the party, on the basis of dues paid in the preceding year, or of five states regardless of membership. The term 'state' as herein used, shall be construed to mean the membership of a state organization, the State Committee, or a duly authorized State Executive Committee.

"Such a referendum may be initiated by one State, and when so initiated shall remain open for ninety days from the date of its first publication, and unless it shall receive the requisite number of seconds within such period it shall be abandoned. The vote on every such referendum shall close sixty days from the date of its submission.

"References to revoke or amend or amend the provisions of this constitution may be instituted only one year after the adoption of such provisions."

The new constitution also contains the following provision in regard to exempt stamps:

"The National Office shall also issue to the state secretaries 'exempt stamps' free of charge, to be used by party members temporarily unable to pay dues on account of unemployment caused by sickness, strikes, lockouts or any other condition not within their control. In cases where husband and wife are both party members and only one of them is in receipt of an income the other may likewise be allowed to use such 'exempt stamps.'

"Any member desiring to use such 'exempt stamps' shall make application therefor to the financial secretary of his local organization, and such application shall be passed upon by such organization. 'Exempt stamps' shall be issued only to members in good standing who have paid dues for at least three months and who are by the same action exempt from the payment of dues to the state and local organization. The number of 'exempt stamps' shall not exceed 10 per cent. of the total number of stamps obtained by the respective state organizations. The acceptance of 'exempt stamps' by any member shall in no way disqualify such member from any rights and privileges of party membership."

Socialism will not lift you to freedom by the seat of the trousers; it will awaken you so you can get it for yourself.

NATIONAL CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE.

The National Campaign Committee will meet at Campaign Headquarters on Monday, October 7th, at which time the needs of favorable congressional districts will be considered.

Reports indicate that the enthusiasm is increasing rapidly in all sections. A certain apathy existing in some parts of the country for a while seems to have entirely disappeared and from all quarters now comes the cheering news that the comrades are up and doing.

Twenty thousand people heard Debs at Philadelphia and twenty-two thousand attended the joint meeting of Debs and Seidel at Madison Square Garden, New York City. Comrade Debs writes, "The Philadelphia and New York meetings were so great and so overwhelming that I am still dazed when I think of them."

Comrade Seidel made an automobile tour of Connecticut, speaking at a dozen or more points between his big meetings at New Haven and Hartford. Everywhere the factory workers turned out in great crowds to hear him. He reports unusual activity on the part of the state and local organizations and indications are that the increase of our vote in Connecticut will be amazing.

Victor L. Berger has just completed a most successful series of meetings on the Pacific Coast. He spoke at eight places in five days and to crowded houses in every instance. At Seattle he was introduced as the "Man who recalled Judge Hanford," and everywhere the first Socialist congressman was greeted with the greatest enthusiasm. The success of the meetings can be judged from the fact that the local organizations cleared twenty-five hundred dollars over and above expenses from the collections and admission charges.

The Keir Hardie meetings have been very successful and most glowing reports have been received of the good accomplished at Denver, Kansas City and other points. Comrade Hardie closes his tour with a meeting in Brooklyn on October 13th, and in New York City, under the auspices of the Intercollegiate Socialist Society, on the 14th. He plans to sail for England immediately thereafter.

The membership is not using the large Debs and Seidel campaign posters as extensively as they should. It is splendid advertising and can be put in places where nothing else would be allowed. They are 21x28 inches, lithographed in four colors with large pictures of the candidates and the slogan, "Working Men, Vote Your Ticket—Unite at the Ballot Box." We have a large supply just delivered and orders can be filled the same day they are received. In quantities of ten or more, 9c each.

GENERAL SOCIALIST NEWS.

Philadelphia Ledger complains that colored men are joining the Socialist movement in droves in Pennsylvania.

It is reported from San Diego that as a result of the free speech fight in that town the city treasury has become bakrupt.

The news comes from Oklahoma that the old party committees concere several counties to the Socialist party, and also that the S. P. will come in second in a number of other counties.

Ten thousand Poles, comprising the membership of the Slovenska Narodna Podporus Yeqnota, a fraternal organization, which has just held its convention in Milwaukee, have gone on record as officially subscribing to the principles of the Socialist party delegates. This convention was the fifth to be held by the order. The delegates will return to their homes in nearly every state in the Union to urge the membership to work for the interests of the Socialist party and to join the local branches, where there are branches, and where there are no branches the delegates will urge their organization. Over 80 of the 130 delegates belong to branches of the Socialist party. The convention also voted a large sum of money to be used in spreading socialism.

RAILROAD TELEGRAPHERS.

St. Louis, Oct. 5.—During the year 1911 President Perham, of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, together with system committees, succeeded in successfully negotiating thirty-seven schedules, including increases in wages and betterment of conditions. For the first six months of the year 1911 forty-one schedules have been secured. The comparison shows, as indicated, that the telegraphers are more than doubling the record made last year.

WISCONSIN NOTES.

The campaign in Milwaukee was fomally opened by the Keir Hardie meeting in the big hall of the Auditorium. About four thousand persons gathered to hear the message from the Grand Old Man from over the sea. Comrade Hardie recalled the time when he spoke in Milwaukee fifteen years ago and pointed out the tremendous growth of Socialism in those years. "Then," said he, "you were struggling for recognition. Now you are struggling for supremacy!"

The Milwaukee comrades, while they have good hope of carrying Milwaukee County this fall, will take no chances. They are going to put up a campaign which will break the records of all their previous record-breaking campaigns. They have already arranged for seventy-five Social-Democatic meetings in different parts of the county. These meetings will be addressed by speakers in all languages. Besides the English and German Socialist campaigners, arrangements are being made for Polish, Jewish, Hungarian, Bohemian, Italian, Lithunian, Slavonian and Russian speakers, so that every nationality may hear the message of Socialism in its own tongue.

Next Sunday, 80,000 copies of the Voice of the People, the Socialist campaign bulletin used in Milwaukee, will be left at the houses of the Milwaukee citizens. The Bundle Brigade is in good working trim, and this distribution will be accomplished in short order.

5,000 Campaign Books have already been sold in Milwaukee. 15,000 copies of "The Growing Grocery Bill" are now being distributed at the factory gates, and 15,000 picture posters are going up in the windows of houses and business places.

There has been a most irritating delay in getting Comrade Berger's speeches from the government printing office. Evidently Uncle Sam is in no hurry to get out Socialist literature. Tuesday we at last received our 50,000 copies which will all be addressed and enclosed in the franked envelopes in less than a week from the time they were received. This is rapid work, and most of it is volunteer labor. The Socialist women of Milwaukee are doing their share in this, as well as in the other campaign work.

To show what is being done in the outlying towns of Milwaukee County, I will say that last week 13 pounds of tacks were used daily to nail up Socialist cards and posters on the telegraph poles, barns and fences. And the comrades report that they nearly froze their fingers!

Meantime, the state outside of Milwaukee is not being neglected Comrade Carl D. Thompson, Ralph Korngold, Janet F. Korngold, W. A. Jacobs, R. C. McCaleb and W. A. Jackson are now touring the state. Besides, several local candidates are touring their respective districts. We hope for a large Social-Democratic vote outside of Milwaukee, and some surprises, delightful to Socialists and shocking to the capitalist politicians.

E. H. THOMAS,
State Secretary.

AGED SOCIALIST ISSUES DEFIANCE TO CAPITALISM

Mansfield Worker Writes His First Newspaper Article.

(By George Riddle.)

Everybody in Mansfield, Ohio, knows Daddy Craven. He is "the old newsboy Socialist who brings the paper and talk talks Socialism."

"Daddy" first became known in Mansfield during the 1908 campaign. The questions the little dark-whiskered old fellow asked the Socialist speakers showed such a singular insight into things that he at once become an object of curiosity and more than a little respect. It was learned that he was without a cent or a friend in the world; that he was temperate and a thorogoing and intelligent hater of capitalism. What little he had managed to save had melted away in a bank failure. He was gotten a job selling papers at sixty-five cents a day. Depsite his long hours on the street he has found time to distribute literature and talk Socialism. Traveling men all over the country who visit Mansfield know "Daddy," and many of them are his friends. Few of Mansfield's peanut politicians and embryo millionaires who try to make game of him but have suffered from his reproof and been impressed with his knowledge of the class struggle. Comrade Craven is one of the Socialists to whom the oppression of capitalism is a matter of real and bitter personal experience and to whom Socialism is a serious and sacred ideal. Following is a story of this man's life taken from a recent number of the Mansfield Educator. It is somewhat interesting in its "short and simple annals," and may typify in a way the autobiography many another working man might write with its story of privation and hardships:

DADDY'S LETTER.

This is the first time in my life that I ever wrote anything for a newspaper, and if I get my grammar twisted up some, I hope you will excuse me. I never had a chance to learn big jaw-breaking words, because I never had a rich pa to send me to college. The only education I ever got was in the college of hard work, observations and experience. But I have a few remarks to make, and I am going to tell it in my own, crude, unsophisticated way. I was born on a farm, from parents who were very poor. When I was just a little tad, our family moved to an Iowa farm, and our poverty became worse. I quite vividly remember that for one whole winter we lived almost entirely upon corn. My parents sent me at intervals to the district school, and the rations I carried in my old-fashioned dinner bucket consisted of simply parched corn. I wondered at that far away time why it was that the other boys and girls used to have so much pie and cake and other fine food, while I had scarcely anything. It didn't take me many years to discover the reason of these inequalities, and ever since I have been a revolutionist—a rebellious slave against this unjust and hypocritical capitalist system.

When just a little boy, underfed and undersized, I went out to work and make my way alone in the world—a poor, little half-orphan boy. From that time on, my life was one of continual drudgery, and seldom did I receive a kind word. After many years of honest toil, I managed by bitter self-denial and strict economy to accumulate about $1,400, which I placed in a bank that the "leading citizens" recommended as "reliable." Considering my meagre opportunities, I now felt that I had done remarkably well and would no longer need to slave quite so hard. But, lo and behold you, one morning I learned that the bank had failed and my money was lost. The savings of the best years of my life wiped out in an instant. Did these vultures and vampires that stole my money go to jail like ordinary crooks? No, rash youth—forget it. The last I heard of them, they were still eating their bread from the sweat of other men's faces, were good deacons in the church, and men of "brains."

About four years ago I strolled into Mansfield in search of a master. My vitality and energy had been given to the capitalist system, and I was no longer able to do very hard work. After many a fruitless serch for a job, in the bitter cold of winter, homeless and friendless, I was overcome with despair, and had firmly made up my mind to choose the potter's field rather than the poor house. Just as I had about given up all hopes, I came in contact with some Socialists. There I met such sympathy, and friendship, and assistance that I had never before known and which I will never forget. And while they were all working men and women, and therefore financially poor, they very generously did all they could to help me. Principally through their influence and efforts I secured a job selling newspapers, in which work I have since been engaged. The lucre I received for this work was not stupendously large, but I managed to beat the system by living on coffee, sugar and bread. Occasionally I would surprise my stomach with a piece of cheese or meat. Just as I was beginning to think that I could weather the gale a few years longer, about a week ago I woke up. The price of papers has gone up to such an extent that I can no longer make enough money to purchase the elaborate luxuries I mentioned above, so I guess I will have to quit this job and journey to pastures anew. I have been ordered to skiddoo from the B. & O. depot, my best selling point, and a police officer, at some one's behest, has ordered me off the city's street—the street that working men built. But I don't want anyone to think I am going to quit because of these latter edicts. I'll stand up and fight for the rights of free speech just as long as I have a drop of breath in my body. No; I've simply got to quit my job or quit eating. However, capitalism is crumbling and decaying, and Socialism is sure to come. I may not live to see it, but I find what little happiness I have in this world is the knowledge that the younger generation will share in its bounties. So stand by your principles, comrades, and never lower the flag. Thanking you one and all for past favors, I am yours for the revolution,

ISAAC CRAVEN.

THE MIGHTY HUNTER GOES A-FISHING!

By Winnie E. Branstetter.

We told you so!

Teddy is at it again!

Shooting Spaniards in the back? No.

Hunting baby monkeys? No.

Ordering out the militia to kill striking workingmen? No.

Lecturing working-class mothers on race suicide? No, indeed.

Upon all these subjects Teddy is strangely silent these days—inconceivable as it may seem—Teddy is silent, so silent that the populace fairly hears his silence.

Why this unprecedented silence? Teddy is fishing.

Fishing for nickles, dimes and votes.

Yes—even for the nickles, dimes and votes of the wives of strikers, of the mothers of child slaves, of the very women whom he chastised so unmercifully for not bearing more child slaves and soldiers for a brutal system of exploitation and militiarism.

During his last campaign, when the Harriman lines and the Harvester Company were financing his campaign, Teddy's reply to these mothers who desired a voice in the political and industrial life of our nation, was that it was no affair of the male voter, for us to decide the question between ourselves, and in the meantime that we not neglect our duty as women, to bear children, to glorify our country by producing more and more babies for the mill, the mine, the militia and the navy.

In 1907 when the Western Federation of Miners were waging a fierce struggle with the mine owners' association, when the very lives of union officials hung in the balance, then the only symbol of the sympathy which Teddy, chief executive of our nation, gave these workers was the hissing across the continent of the term "UNDESIRABLE."

In 1910 when thousands of girls and women in New York and Chicago were striking for a living wage and decent working conditions, Teddy was silent.

But political conditions have changed since then—for Teddy.

So Teddy has to hunt new fishing grounds.

And you are the fish, women of the working class, it is your vote and your small change he is angling for.

He is not a lone fisherman, remember, but has a goodly bunch of assistants, among whom are such well-known workers as Jane Addams and Mrs. Raymond Robins. These women, well trained in public life and politics, are organized, and they will spare neither money, time nor energy to elect their "Invincible Teddy." They are flooding the country with letters and circulars setting forth the WONDERFULLY, WONDERFULLY HUMAN issues of Teddy's platform.

These circulars unblushingly claim the Bull Mosers to be the first and only advocates of the initiative, referendum, recall and woman suffrage.

That the Bull Moose is the only party that is instructing its candidates to make suffrage a campaign issue.

All this in face of the fact that the Socialist Party always had a suffrage Party have always had a suffrage plank in state and national platforms. When Teddy was fighting against these very measures the Socialist Party was carrying on energetic state and national propaganda for them.

Women voters of America. Do not be mislead by the "BIG NOISE" or his ambitious assistants.

DIVIDING UP.

By N. A. Richardson.

If any person harbors the thought that he is going to get rich from the labor of his own hands—that is, by producing commodities himself, or by working for a wage—it is an evidence of his youth and inexperience. It will not require many years to dispel the illusion. In the legitimate business world there is but one way to amass a fortune—make men work for you and produce more than they are paid for producing—that is, by exploiting labor. If ten men do this for you, you will make some money; if a thousand, you will get wealthy, if many thousands, you may become a multi-millionaire. Of course, the term "legitimate business world" excludes the accident of mine location, inheritance, successful gambling, either with cards or stocks, etc.

For instance, we are told that the steel trust employs 125,000 men and declares annual dividends of $125,000,000. If so, that corporation nets from the product of the labor of each man annually $1,000. When the Standard Oil Company employs 12,199 men and declares dividends of $48,000,000, the labor of each of its employes must net the company $4,000. Of course, great machinery and thorough division of labor—modern methods—alone make possible such a labor product. But this is the way the vast fortunes are accumulated. If I own the machinery of production—the means whereby men must live—if I, in other words, own the jobs, I am thereby vested with power to compel laborers to divide with me daily the product of their labor. And if they are in great numbers, or if, by the aid of machinery, their producing power is multiplied many times, my share of the "divide" becomes a vast fortune; and a fortune cannot come from the legitimate business world in any other way.

Ignorance used to contend that Socialists believed in "dividing up," although no Socialist ever lived who contended for such a thing. The fact is, the Socialists constitute the only party in the world that does not believe in "dividing up"; and it is because, and solely because, Republicans, Democrats and all other capitalistic parties advocate a system of division such as we have already indicated, that Socialists are in the field to put an end to it. It is the dividing up process, absolutely essential to capitalism, that is putting the wealth of our nation into few hands. It is this process—the exploiting of labor—that converts the machinery of production into "a channel through which flows the wealth of the nation to the few who own the machinery." This is the only way such wealth can possibly be acquired.

If I average to produce two dollars' worth and am paid but one dollar for producing it, I am yielding to some one a part of this nation; and, as there are several millions of me, is it any wonder that the nation is rapidly passing into the hands of my exploiters? Certainly it is not, and it is equally certain that the only way to stop this transfer of the nation to the few is to stop exploiting. The current of wealth must be turned from the few to the many. This can be done in one, and only one, way—the many must own and operate the machinery, the public must own collectively and operate collectively, every means of production, every exploiting medium.

GENERAL STRIKE AS CLASS WEAPON CONSIDERED BY BRITAIN AND BELGIUM

The general strike as a weapon of last resort in the class struggle is being seriously considered by the workers of Great Britain and Belgium.

In Great Britain the organizations affiliated with the British section of the International Socialist Bureau are being called upon to decide whether they would order a general stoppage of work to prevent war.

In Belgium a general strike for universal suffrage has been ordered. The workers there have been asked to prepare for a strike lasting at least six weeks.

The manifestos in each case are inspiring in their revolutionary spirit. They ought to be read by every American worker. They are documents of the social revolution.

The Belgian Manifesto.

To the People:

Citizens—The Congress of June 30 decided, by a unanimous vote, to pursue with renewed ardor the struggle for pure and simple universal suffrage and to make preparation for the general strike.

The Labor party, in entering upon this new campaign, deems it its duty to set forth its motives to the country.

Universal suffrage is indispensable to the Belgian workers. Without electoral justice they cannot hope for economic justice. All other efforts toward organization, emancipation and moral and material advancement are blocked by crafty legislation, by sly attempts to subdue them, supported and instigated by the State. So long as the plural system of voting keeps the proletarians in the minority politically, so long will they be without means of liberation.

If they do not wish to cower like slaves under an eternal oppression, they must conquer, through universal suffrage, the means of exercising their legitimate influence in deliberative assemblies.

Moreover, thanks to the incessant propaganda, public opinion has pronounced in favor of the reform.

The Socialists have demanded it since their formation into a party.

The Liberals have rallied to it unanimously.

The Clericals did not dare to oppose it openly during the last electoral campaign. Indeed, certain of their candidates formally promised universal suffrage to their electors, and thus made certain of thousands of votes.

For Electoral Equality.

There is every evidence that a national referendum would, by an overwhelming majority, pronounce in favor of electoral equality.

If, in spite of all this, the party in power refuses to yield to the will of the country, what means remain to overcome its resistance?

Wait for an early election to remove it from power?

Experience has shown that it is assured of victory, due to fear and fraud, the effects of which are multiplied by our electoral system, due especially to the plural fraud, which permits the rich to stuff the ballot boxes with supplementary votes.

The workers do not intend to play the game over again with marked cards.

They will have recourse at once to their last resource—refuse to work if they are refused justice.

And they are preparing for the general strike, peaceful but formidable and irresistible.

It is not they who have desired the sufferings which this action may entail.

On the morrow of June 3 they curbed their legitimate wrath.

They desired, and they do still desire, to leave to the authorities the opportunity of doing spontaneously that which public opinion demands.

Use Lawful Right

They menace no one. They purpose to use a right which the law guarantees to them.

They know that no prosperity is possible without a minimum of justice. And they call upon all to aid them in obtaining universal suffrage, which alone can put an end to the malady from which industry is suffering.

But the workers are counting above all upon themselves, upon their tenacious and heroic will. Let no one forget that the strike cannot end in victory unless it is of long duration and truly general.

Let each prepare for a shutdown of at least five or six weeks; from today on make every saving that is possible.

Organize everywhere, accumulate resources.

A central committee has been designated. Local committees are being formed in all districts and in all communities. A few days hence the first steps taken will be published.

The co-operation of all is necessary for propaganda and the preliminary work.

It will not be sufficient to strike when the moment arrives, it is necessary now to lay the road open for [illegible].

The cause of universal suffrage is in the hands of the workers. The labor party demands that each one do his duty.

PREACHER DOESN'T FEAR "UNWASHED MASSES"

Boston, Oct. 1.—The danger at Lawrence is not from "the unwashed masses," according to Rev. Nicholas Van der Pyl, noted sociologist who has spent months studying conditions in the mill city. At a meeting of Congregational ministers here, Dr. Van der Pyl, under the topic, "Was the Treatment of Joseph Ettor Just?" said:

"The red flag carried by the strikers in Lawrence is not an emblem of anarchy, anti-patriotism nor revolution. It is a symbol of the red blood that floats through the veins of human beings, whose desire is to be treated like human beings. There would have been much greater violence at Lawrence last winter had it not been for the presence of Ettor. The conditions in Lawrence existed long before Ettor went there, and will prevail as long as the industrial conditions which caused them continue. The danger is not from the 'great unwashed masses,' but from their financial leaders and the men who try to corrupt the laws."

LABOR OF CHILDREN.

Washington, Oct. 6.—During the recent International Hygiene Congress, held in this city, Prof. Thomas Morgan Rotch, of the Harvard Medical College, stated that the labor of children should be adapted to the individual child, and if it has a physical development above the normal average it should be allowed to work in the class where this greater physical development is used, providing its mental conditions and requirements are above the average in the same proportion as its physical development. Miss Margaret McMillen, of the London School Board, stated that the confinement of growing boys and girls to a monotonous line of work makes it almost impossible for them to get any real enjoyment from life, even when they have a vacation. Among the monotonous child workers she cited newsboys, milk carriers, nurse girls, telephone girls, typists, shop assistants, forge workers, telegraphers, bakers' boys, and machinists' assistants. She said these kinds of work are producing new medical problems which must be met.

The Moosevelt platform declares for the conservation of human resources. Socialists would conserve humanity.

MUNICIPAL HOSPITAL IS SOCIALIST PLAN

Comrade Bohnert Introduces Practical Humanitarian Proposition in City Council.

It isn't always necessary for a resolution to pass Council in order to do some good. A few weeks ago Socialist Councilman Bohnert introduced a resolution raising the pay of washerwomen who wash bedding for the city firemen. The resolution was duly buried, but the women will get 15c more for each bed washed, as a result of Bohnert's move.

Bids were received on City Advertising from five publications.

The "Week" bid 75c per square for 1st insertion, 45c for subsequent insertions.

The "Times" bid 35c per square for 1st insertion, and 20c thereafter, going one better than the "Week" in giving its circulation as about 3000.

The Journal wanted $1.00 for 1st and 50c for other insertions.

The Socialist's price was 30c for the 1st and 15c for following insertions. All bids were referred to the committee without comment.

An ordinance was introduced by Comrade Bohnert to submit to the voters the question of using $300,000 bonds for the erection of a Municipal Hospital. This is a matter in which Columbus is sadly behind many other cities; private hospitals have been receiving large amounts of money annually from the city, while other cities have their own hospitals.

A special meeting of the Committee of the whole Council to investigate the affairs of the Public Service Department was called for Wednesday night, October 9. This is a matter which provoked considerable oratory last Monday night.

Political Situation from a Socialist Viewpoint

The campaign for the election of a national state and county ticket is now upon us. The situation that confronts the voters is one which has had few parallels in the history of American politics.

Old party lines are being broken up as never before. From all indications, the people have grown tired of a condition of boss-rule and are about to take the reins of government into their own hands.

In the political maelstrom this year, we find four political parties, each one bidding for the support of the electors at the polls next November.

That the common people of this country are honest, there is no question. They are searching for the truth. They are looking for the party that represents their ideals and honestly has their interests at heart. For that reason, it is our intention to here set forth a brief statement of the situation of each political party, trusting to the patriotism and good sense of the American people to judge which is worthy of their support.

We have first: The Republican Party.

It is a well known fact that no political campaign can be carried on without a campaign fund. It is also a well-known fact that those who furnish the campaign fund to put the politicians into office are the same ONES WHO PROFIT BY THE ADMINISTRATION WHEN IN POWER.

Back of the candidacy of Mr. Taft furnishing the finance to run his campaign, is the huge Rockefeller interests. While it is true, that the present administration has made a great show of "busting the Standard Oil," yet since it has been "dissolved" THE STANDARD OIL STOCK HAS GONE UP FROM $700 TO $900 PER SHARE. Already the Standard Oil monopoly has reached out like an octopus over our fair land, grasping everything in sight, holding within its relentless maw the power of life and death over the citizens of this country.

With the re-election of Mr. Taft, the trusts will continue to do business at the same old stand.

We have next: The Democratic Party.

Back of the candidacy of Mr. Wilson we have the Ryan, Belmont, Taggert and the corrupt Tammany Hall interests. These are the interests that are financing his campaign and are the same interests that will reap the benefit of his election. To the working class of this country, Wilson does not bring even the remotest ray of hope. He is not and has never been their friend, and has no sympathy or understanding of their efforts to win for themselves a little more of the product of their toil.

Perth Amboy, New Jersey (the state of which he is governor), the latest place where a strike occurred, has a long list of working class dead and wounded to its discredit, AND THE GOVERNOR DID NOTHING TO PUT AN END TO THAT DISORDER AND VIOLENCE.

Of all the candidates in the field today, Mr. Wilson is, undoubtedly, the most reactionary.

IN THE STATE OF OHIO, AND IN PARTICULAR THE CITY OF COLUMBUS, THE PEOPLE NOW HAVE A SAMPLE OF GOVERNMENT UNDER DEMOCRATIC RULE. The fact of the matter is, that in spite of the Democratic Party's attempt to clothe itself in the cloak of Progressiveism, it is the tool of the Big Interests and is being used in the guise of a Delilah to once more lead the people to their doom.

We have next: The Progressive Party?

Standing valiantly behind the candidacy of Mr. Roosevelt and financing his campaign, we have Mr. Morgan, of Steel Trust and Wall Street fame, and Mr. Perkins, head of the gigantic Harvester Trust. More money is being put behind the candidates on the Bull Moose ticket than any other ticket in the field, due to the fact that Mr. Roosevelt, during his seven years as President of these United States, was proven to be the best friend the trusts had ever had. THE TRUSTS FINANCED HIS CAMPAIGN FOR THE NOMINATION AND ARE NOW FINANCING THE CAMPAIGN FOR HIS ELECTION.

The Progressive Party as a party IS NOT ONLY NOT PROGRESSIVE, BUT IT IS REACTIONARY. In the aggregate, it is a middle class protest against trust domination. The middle class will furnish the votes and the trusts, in the event of Roosevelt's election, will take care of the administration. There is nothing in the record of Mr. Roosevelt and nothing in the platform on which he stands, some of the planks which he denounced as treason and anarchy when he was President, that will appeal to the intelligence of the American people.

We have last: The Socialist Party.

Back of the candidates on the Socialist Ticket, we find hundreds of thousands of men and women who are usually known as the common people. These are the ones who are financing the campaign and naturally they are the ones who will reap the benefit of the election of the Socialist Ticket.

While the other parties are talking much about "reform" and "handing things down" to the working class, the working class has started a political party of its own and are not aiming for a MERE PITTANCE of a little "SOCIAL REFORM," but for the entire product of what their labor produces.

The Socialist Party is a party of the working class, and we construe the term, working class, to mean all who work by either hand or brain, which includes laborers, professional men, farmers, artists, and all workers employed in industry. The Socialist Party, being the political expression of the working class, aims not at the busting or regulation of the trust, but at the root of the evil, which is the private ownership of the trusts.

The Socialist Party recognizes the trust as the greatest of all blessings, if properly owned, as it is the best and most efficient tool for supplying the people with food, clothing and shelter, that the world has ever known.

THE OBJECT OF THE SOCIALIST PARTY IS TO CHANGE FROM THE PRIVATE OWNERSHIP OF THE TRUSTS TO THE PUBLIC OWNERSHIP OF THE TRUSTS, AND DEMOCRATICALLY MANAGE THEM IN THE INTEREST OF ALL THE PEOPLE, GIVING EACH AND EVERY MAN AND WOMAN AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY TO PRODUCE FOR THEMSELVES AND THEN RETAIN FOR THEMSELVES, THE FULL PRODUCT OF THEIR OWN TOIL. Human progress can be made in no other manner.

You do not have to vote the Republican, Democratic or Bull Moose ticket to get the "reforms" they now promise you, as they will hand down "reforms" only as the size of the Socialist vote grows.

With this congressional district and county offices in the hands of the Socialist Party, the voters of this state will get a demonstration of what it means to have a party in power that does not believe in graft and whose every act will be controlled in the interest of the toiling masses of this county and state. Two years hence will find the three capitalist parties lined up under one head, fighting the Socialist Party, and then the real play will begin. As an American citizen you believe in justice, and a higher standard of citizenship, and these things can only be acomplished WHEN THE PEOPLE ARE ALL WELL CLOTHED, WELL FED AND WELL HOUSED. It is up to you, Mr. Voter, whether we shall make the first step towards industrial freedom or vote yourself back into four years more of slavery. You must think and act for yourself.

"TO GIVE VICTORY TO THE RIGHT, NO BLOODY BULLETS, BUT PEACEFUL BALLOTS ARE NECESSARY. IT ONLY NEEDS THAT A RIGHT THINKING MAN SHALL GO TO THE POLLS AND, WITHOUT FEAR OR PREJUDICE VOTE AS HE THINKS."—Lincoln, October 1st, 1856., complete works, Vol. 1, Page 497.

ONE EXAMPLE BRUTALITY BOYS' INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

"Modern" Method of Reforming Lads as Practiced at Lancaster—Willie Neff's Experience.

Most people who read the expose of the Boys' Industrial School last week are fully convinced that the management there is brutal in the extreme, but like many other exposures of a startling nature they are apt to stand and stare in amazement, dumbfounded and at a loss to knew what to say or do.

This article is intended to JAR all such loose from the SPELL OF AWE and start a STAMPEDE OF INVESTIGATION such as will turn those responsible for such atrocities out of the positions they hold and place therein men of honor, feeling and love for the unfortunate and oppressed.

Who of our Christian citizens could think that the great State of Ohio by its sworn officers would use the basement of a STATE CHURCH in which to store intoxicating liquors?

And then to think that the minister of the Gospel stood in the pulpit over a cellar filled with wine, knowing that young boys who had fallen victims to its effects had been thrown in that DUNGEON OF TORTURE, "The Maumee," and made to do all manner of unnatural things to humiliate and punish them, the defenseless wards of the State. If the Rev. Dr. John G. Schaibley did not know these things before he caused the statement to be published in the Columbus Dispatch, "that no brutalities existed," he should have known it.

Let the following affidavit and still others to follow tell YOU of the TRUTH of the situation at Lancaster Boys' Industrial School:

Affidavit.

State of Ohio, Franklin County, ss.

Mary A. Rader being first duly sworn, says she is of legal age and was formerly the wife of Wm. Neff, and that William Neff, Jr., who is now 16 years old, is a son of that marriage; that on the 3rd day of March, 1911, said Willie Neff (as he was called at home) was in school at the corner of West State Street and Starling Street, where he had attended regularly, when he was arrested by Officer Staley, of the Juvenile Court, about 9:30 a. m., taken to the Detention Home, No. 80 East Mound Street, and there he was charged with stealing; that on the same day about 10:00 o'clock he was tried before Judge Samuel L. Black, who forced him to testify against himself, contrary to the law which protects every person against incriminating himself, and without any opportunity to defend by consulting his parents or an attorney, which is accorded the deepest dyed criminal, he was convicted by Judge Black under threat if he did not testify truthfully against himself; that neither she nor any one else interested in the welfare of said Willie Neff was notified of the arrest, enforced incrimination and farcical trial and sentence of said Willie Neff until after it all over; that the first affiant knew of the arrest of her said son was when a young girl came and told her after said Willie had been sentenced; that she immediately went to the Juvenile Court to ascertain what her son had been arrested for and upon request by her of Officer Staley as to what Willie was charged with he replied by saying, "He has done enough," and that when she broke down and cried and demanded to know what the child was arrested for Officer Staley ordered her out of the room; that she requested permission to see her boy, but was refused; that about 12:30 p. m. the same day she returned to Juvenile Court and got to see him and learned from the boy what he was arrested for, which was for taking a quart bottle of milk from a porch and drinking it; that at 1 o'clock p. m. the same day Willie was railroaded on to the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster, but not as fast as he was railroaded through Judge Black's Court; that affiant or some member of her family visited Willie at the B. I. School every month on visiting days from that time until his release October 3, 1912, and carried him baskets full of good things to eat and tried as best she could to lighten the punishment of that infamous institution; that her son was registered as No. 1780, Hocking Family, with L. W. Hayes as the family officer; that the boy's record in the institution was reported to her by said Hayes as perfect for each month for the first eight months; that Willie had 7000 demerit marks against him when he entered the B. I. S. and under the rules was entitled to 300 demerit marks off for each month of good behaviour for these eight months; that after that a note written by one of the boys named ——— Ely and addressed to a boy named Furnace, in which note it was stated that "Neff" would call on him (Furnace), get some tobacco and bring it to said Ely; that Willie Neff knew nothing of said note, never saw it, but that it was supposed to have been lost (but affiant firmly believes it was PLANTED by Officer Hayes) and found and turned over to Officer Hayes by some one this affiant has never been able to learn who; that without giving said Willie Neff any chance to prove his innocence or face the boy who wrote the note or the boy to whom it was addressed, Officer Hayes reported him to Assistant Superintendent Roberts for 300 demerits off and a "beating"; that said Roberts refused to beat him for so trivial a matter and Officer Hayes required Officer Blunt to do the "beating stunt," which consisted of FORTY-FIVE licks with a leather paddle about THREE feet long, by THREE inches wide at outer end and split at outer end; that before the BEATING began he had to drop his trousers below knees and lift shirt above hips, bend over, place his fingers on toes of his shoes with every muscle of his limbs drawn tight; that Officer Blunt wielding the said paddle knocked him down each lick for five licks, but after that he was so numb and paralized that it was not felt and by bracing himself he stood for FORTY more licks under threat of more and harder licks if he did not brace up and take his punishment; that the BEATING was from the small of the MESSAGE FROM DEBS.

The Editor of The Columbus Socialist has been good enough to invite me to contribute an article to the special issue which is to appear at the time of our meeting there, and I would be only too glad to do so if I were not so fully occupied with my speaking engagements.

Each day is crowded full with demands, and it is utterly impossible to comply with them all. There has never been a year of such wonderful Socialist activity. East and West, North and South, the Socialists are holding meetings so great and so enthusiastic that they defy description.

This is certainly our year. The greatest auditoriums are inadequate to hold the people who pour out under the inspiration of Socialism to hear the glad message of the coming emancipation.

I do not doubt the Comrades at Columbus are filled with the same enthusiasm which prevails everywhere, and I am confident that the coming meeting will be great enough to make its influence felt throughout the Buckeye State.

With cordial greetings and hearty good wishes to all the Comrades, I am,

Yours fraternally,

EUGENE V. DEBS.

ROOSEVELT WOUNDED BY SHOT OF A MANIAC

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 14.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt was shot and wounded tonight as he was leaving the Hotel Gilpatrick for the Auditorium, where he was to deliver a speech.

His assailant, who later issued a proclamation saying that any man who wanted to be President for a third term should be shot, was all but lynched by a mob of 1,000 persons who had gathered about the hotel to see Colonel Roosevelt.

The assailant is evidently a maniac, for his proclamation, as he termed it, was incoherent in places, and the man gave evidence by a memorandum of the Roosevelt schedule that he had been following Colonel Roosevelt for a week, the first item on the schedule being a Carolina date on September 21.

The Colonel was at first supposed to have escaped uninjured, for after a momentary start he smiled, but putting his hand under his coat for a minute, was seen to wince for an instant, and then he moved forward, stepped into the automobile, spoke a word to his associates and in another instant the automobile was whirling away toward the Auditorium.

Schrank Not a Socialist.

In response to repeated questions from State's Attorney Zabel and Sheriff Arnold, Schrank declared that at no time had he been a Socialist or a follower of Socialistic theories.

The prisoner said, according to the Sheriff and State's attorney, that he had voted the Democratic and Republican tickets at various times.

"Never have I been a particular friend of any one political party," said Schrank, while being interrogated.

"I have switched from one to another, as my inclination to some local leader led me. Always I have been an independent in politics. No, nothing besides that. Just independent."

Tonight, State's Attorney Zabel asserted there were no grounds for reports that Schrank was or had been a Socialist, or a reader of Socialist literature.

SAYS VIOLENCE GAINS NOTHING.

Eugene V. Debs, Socialist, Deprecates Attack on Colonel Roosevelt.

Atlanta, Oct. 15.—Eugene V. Debs, Presidential nominee of the Socialist Party, made the following comment on the attack on Colonel Roosevelt in a speech at a local auditorium:

"It was with the deepest regret that I learned of the insane attack on Colonel Roosevelt's life. Every good citizen sympathizes with him and his family. While we differ with him in politics, we must deprecate this attack on the part of a madman and I am exceedingly glad to see that reports from Colonel Roosevelt's bedside show his condition is favorable. With all my heart I pray he may recover from this attempt to strike him down. I only wish every one could realize nothing ever can be gained by violence."

Chicago, Oct. 16.—The bullet wound inflicted in Colonel Theodore Roosevelt's chest at Milwaukee, Monday night, it officially was announced tonight for the first time, is healing normally without infection. The statement that no complications have shown themselves was made after a day during which the first successful X-ray picture of the wound in the Colonel's chest was examined by the surgeons. The fact developed that the would-be assassin's bullet fractured the Colonel's fourth rib. The missile remains imbedded, apparently in the bone. The fracture, however, it is stated, will not affect the treatment in any way but will be allowed to heal untreated, as will the wound.

Why Citizens of Franklin Co. Should Vote the Socialist Ticket

Possibly you, Mr. Votér, think the Socialist Party is just like other parties.

Perhaps you think if we get in power we will go on doing just as the two old parties have been doing.

We want to try and make it plain to you that the Socialist Party is different from all other parties both past and present.

First, we stand for the complete ABOLITION of the PROFIT SYSTEH.

Second, we will do all in our power while still under capitalism, "or until we get complete control," to aid the POOR, the CRIPPLED, the MAIMED and all those who through this system of robbery have been and are DEPRIVED of the NECESSITIES OF LIFE AND HAPPINESS.

Third, we will at all times try and curtail public expense, NOT AT THE EXPENSE OF THE WORKER, but to GIVE to him the BENEFITS ACCRUING FROM SUCH ECONOMY.

Fourth, we will advocate and work for OLD AGE PENSIONS, WIDOWS' PENSIONS, A STRICT EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY LAW, EQUAL PAY FOR MEN AND WOMEN, THE ELIMINATION OF CHILD LABOR, COMPULSORY EDUCATION, SAFETY OF WORKSHOPS, STRICT SANITATION where the workers are compelled to work and live, the eight-hour day, and any and all things which will be a benefit to the workers, who comprise 86 per cent. of the people.

Can we do more? Can we promise more? Oh, but you say, WILL YOU KEEP YOUR PROMISES? YES. We point with pride to one lone representative in Congress, Victor L. Berger, a comrade who made promises and kept them.

Bills introduced in Congress by him:

THE OLD AGE PENSION, THE ABOLITION OF THE AMERICAN HOUSE OF LORDS (i. e.), the U. S. Senate, a reactionary body for the purpose of killing radical legislation; THE IMPEACHMENT OF JUDGE(?) HANFORD, WHO RESIGNED UNDER FIRE; A RESOLUTION TO INVESTIGATE THE ACTS OF OFFICIALS AT LAWRENCE DURING THE STRIKE OF 30,000 OPERATIVES, thus winning one of the memorable battles of labor, in fact every time his voice has been raised in Congress it has been in the interest of the class he so ably represents—the WORKING CLASS.

Not once has he stood on the side of the ruling classes. Yet, you know, if you know anything, the temptations which he must overcome, BUT A SOCIALIST IS NOT FOR SALE. Do we want your votes? NO, NOT TILL YOU CAN GIVE THEM FREELY, knowing what you are voting for, and prepared to die in the cause for which the vote is given. When you know our philosophy you will give freely of your votes, glad to aid in the emancipation of the working class, no matter whether you belong to that class of not. We want you to vote intelligently, not for Bachman or Debs, but for Socialism. That kind of a vote will always stick.

Workers of Franklin County, it is time you were learning what Socialism is. It is time you were thinking of yourselves and not of Taft, Wilson or Roosevelt; these men represent just three wings of the capitalist party.

The hopes and aspirations of millions of people lie in you, and your ballot. If you use it intelligently you can bring joy and peace to the humble and lowly. You can drive poverty, gaunt and terrible suffering from this country and make glad the millions over the ocean who like you are struggling for liberty.

Won't you do it? Won't you think that unless you do you and yours will suffer? We ask you, we plead with you, not merely to vote our ticket but to read and think and then decide.

SHALL WE BE SLAVES OR SHALL WE BE FREE? YOUR VOTE WILL DECIDE.

SHORT TALK TO UNION MEN BY UNION MAN

We work together, we strike together, we win or lose together; but, when the real test comes against our capitalist enemies (don't think they are our friends), we DO NOT VOTE TOGETHER.

We perhaps get an increase in our scale, perhaps shorter hours, but do we really benefit, does not the cost of living increase much faster than our wages increase?

We have an uphill struggle to obtain the wages and working conditions that prevail in the different crafts, and it is only through organization that we maintain them.

Many days have we worried while our wage agreements were being considered by our "bosses." If they did concede our demands it was because they knew we meant it and were prepared to support it; and don't forget this, if we got our demands it WAS BECAUSE WE WERE ORGANIZED.

As we are organized on the industrial field, so the Socialist Party seeks to organize ALL WORKERS ON THE POLITICAL FIELD.

The "interests" have also organized, but for the purpose of boosting the prices on the necessities of life and comfort—food and clothing. This increase is equivalent to a reduction in wages. We would not stand for a reduction in wages from our employer, then why accept it from the "interests" represented by the politicians.

What can the union man expect from Taft but the militia and injunctions in labor troubles, in fact, anything to serve the corporations and interests that put up the coin to keep the system, represented by Taft, in power?

What can the union man expect from Wilson, who has made the remark that "the unions are the worst trusts of them all" and "a Chinese coolie is more preferable than a union man." And he represents the same rotten capitalist system that Taft does, and conditions could not possibly be one whit different than now, because he stands for the continuation of the present system, but to blind the working class throws out a few "sops" to catch their votes."

And Roosevelt! What a joke! The working man's friend(?). The representative of J. P. Morgan, Perkins, Munsey, McCormick, the scab newspaper publisher; the Steel Trust and other shining lights in the capitalist party too numerous to mention. Workingmen will surely not forget the Croton Dam strike in New York when he ordered out the State militia to drive the strikers back to work, when they were striking to enforce a shorter workday and better conditions. Roosevelt! FORGET IT!

The capitalist class have these parties just to fool you. Either party is good enough for them. So it makes no difference. Whichever of these tickets you may vote you help keep the master class in power.

Opposed to the capitalist party stands the Socialist Party, the party of the working class. The party that offers you the full social value of your product, social ownership of all the trusts, performances instead of promises, abolition of judicial tyranny, abolition of child labor—in fact, the one party that is looking out for your interests and for the interests o fthe working clas sas a whole. The party that is going to make this old world fit to live in and bring comfort and happiness to all.

Be a real union man every day in the year. You are free to do as you please, but if you are sincere you will drop the capitalist parties and vote with your class. Vote the eSchlist ticket and vote it straight.

A UNION MAN.

TAXATION WITHOUT REPRESENTATION

By M. C. Green.

Some time ago I called the attention of your readers to the fact that the Columbus Chamber of Commerce stole $6131.60 from the taxpayers of Franklin County. As there are probably 15,000 taxpayers in this county this only amounted to an average of about 41 cents per taxpayer. Now while we make great complaint about this amount, we readily overlook many of the big taxes we have to pay.

I desire to call the attention of the public to the immense tax we pay to one of the many trusts, without making any effort to stop the same. I refer to the railroads of this country. In the year of 1910, we paid this great trust $1,018,041,837.00, more than the service rendered was worth. As there are not more than 15,000,000 people doing productive labor in this country, this means an annual tax of almost $68 on each productive laborer. Now, if this amount was to be paid in cash as such tax it would create an awful howl from the people. But as it is collected in the form of profits we do not notice it so much. Take for instance the one item of coal, for which the miner gets about 70 cents per ton, and it costs about 10 cents per ton to load on cars, while the actual labor cost of transporting the same to Columbus does not exceed 35 cents per ton. This amounts to $1.05 per ton on cars here. Now, the cost of delivering the same is not more than 40 cents per ton, making the actual cost of a ton of coal, delivered in your coal house, $1.45, while you must pay $3.35. The difference, $1.90 is the tax you pay on each ton of coal you buy. As our forefathers fought eight years against "taxation without representation," I want to ask you, my fellow worker, what representation have you in fixing the amount of tax you must pay on coal, beef, flour, coffee or the other commodities which we must all have to live. Are you not proud of the act of your forefathers in their long and arduous struggle, in freeing themselves from kingcraft and "taxation without representation"? But do you think, if they should see you calmly submitting to the same oppression, they would be proud of you? Our forefathers had only one way to protest, and that was to take a gun and take chances on being shot or captured, but you have a weapon you can use to accomplish the same results (abolition of taxation without representation) without taking the chances your ancestors did. It does not require any courage, just common sense, that's all.

The day is not far distant, my fellow workers, when those who support the present profit system (capitalism) will be classed with those who supported King George III and were known as "Tories." How would you like to have your name go down in history as a Tory? There is only one way to prove you are not one, and that is by voting against the things all the patriarchs of 1776 fought against. Remember that every vote cast for a party representing the profit system is a "Tory" vote, pure and simple. There is only one way to fight capitalism, and that is to vote the straight Socialist ticket, and show that you belong to the same class of citizens that George Washington, Patrick Henry, Paul Revere and John Hancock represented in 1776. Remember that every candidate on the Republican, Democratic or Progressive ticket represents the same system of "taxation without representation" that King George represented in 1776.

Don't give your vote to Jimmy Ross, Mal Karshner or Willis Bowland any longer, but vote for yourself and fill the place of a man and not a ward heeler.

IN THE MAW OF MAMMON.

Railroad on High Wave of Prosperous Conditions.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Reports from the financial center of New York show that as a general thing the railroads in this country are increasing their earnings and net revenues. It is reported that the gross earnings of the Northern Pacific are expected to show an increase in gross of about $800,000 for the last quarter. The increase of the Great Northern was $1,500,000, or 16 per cent. Last year's gain for the latter road over 1910 was $356,000. September was the biggest month in the road's history, with gross earnings at the rate of $90,000,000 per annum. The Central of New Jersey, Reading's gold mine, showed an increase of about $500,000 in gross, of which $384,965 was saved for net, a gain of more than 25 per cent. The Norfolk and Western, Pennsylvania's protege, which may soon be absorbed by the larger road and have its 8 per cent. dividends guaranteed, showed a gain of $363,961 in gross and $142,693 in net. The Pennsylvania and its subsidiaries own something more than a majority of the Norfolk and Western stock, which is to say that they draw about $3,500,000 from it in dividends every year. Larger gross and net earnings for the year have been reported by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, but the surplus for the stock is only 8.84 per cent, against 9.88 per cent. in 1911. Payment, however, had to be made on $67,000,000 more capital. Income from holdings of other companies is $26,500,000, an increase for the year of 10 per cent. The October unfilled tonnage orders of the Steel Corporation shows another increase. An indication of the great activities in the iron and steel trade is the amount of the monthly pay roll for the Pittsburg district. In September this reached $25,000,000, compared with $30,000,000, the largest previous month in the history of the trade.

STORY OF THE DOLLAR.

Come all you Capitalists, if you want to hear
The story of the Dollar, you all love to dear.
Listen! while this story that I will unfold to you.
You all can not deny, for it is all true.
Did you ever think, as the hearse drives by,
That it won't be long until you or I
Will be taking a ride in that large black hack
Without any intention of ever coming back?
Did you ever think while grafting for gold,
That a dead man's hand a dollar won't hold?
You may graft and grab and try to save,
But you can not take a dollar along to the grave.

SECRETS OF THIS CAMPAIGN.

By Robert Hunter.

Why should Teddy serve the Steel Trust? And why should the Steel Trust now back Teddy?

Well, the facts are known that show Teddy to be an old friend and ally of the Steel Trust.

In 1907 the United States Steel Cororation openly and defiantly violated the Sherman Anti-Trust Law by buying the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company.

That company was, as every one knows, the most dangerous rival of the Steel Trust. Its resources have been estimated to be worth more than $500,000,000.

The country was in the midst of a panic. The Tennessee Coal and Iron Company was in a fight place, and the Steel Trust magnates saw the opportunity of their life to buy up their rival for a paltry sum.

It was declared in the United States Senate that; "Men have bought and sold, bargained and pilfered, since the dawn of time, but there is in recorded history no instance, in peace or war, of as gigantic a confiscation of property as the forced sale of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company to the Steel Trust for the sum of $40,000,000."

The story of this criminal business is told in the following letter of President Roosevelt to the Attorney General:

"The White House,
"Washington, Nov. 4, 1907.

"My Dear Mr. Attorney General:

"Judge E. H. Gary and Mr. H. C. Frick, on behalf of the Steel Corporation, have just called upon me. They state that there is a certain business firm (the name of which I have not been told, but which is of real importance in New York business circles), which will undoubtedly fail this week if help is not given.

"Among its assets are a majority of the securities of the Tennessee Coal Company. Application has been urgently made to the Steel Corporation to purchase this stock as the only means of avoiding a failure.

"Judge Gary and Mr. Frick inform me that as a mere business transaction they do not care to purchase the stock; that under ordinary circumstances they would not consider purchasing the stock, because but little benefit will come to the Steel Corporation from the purchase; that they are aware that the purchase will be used as a handle for attack upon them on the ground that they are striving to secure a monopoly of the business and prevent competition—not that this would represent what could honestly be said, but what might recklessly and untruthfully be said.

"But they feel that it is immensely to their interest, as to the interest of every responsible business man, to try to prevent a panic and general industrial smash-up at this time, and that they are willing to go into this transaction, which they would not otherwise go into, because it seems the opinion of those best fitted to express judgment in New York that it will be an important factor in preventing a break that might be ruinous, and that this has been urged upon them by a combination of the most responsible bankers in New York, who are now thus engaged in endeavoring to save the situation.

"But they asserted they did not wish to do this if I stated that it ought not to be done. I answered that, while, of course, I could not advise them to take the action proposed, I felt it no public duty of mine to interpose any objection.

"Sincerely yours,
"THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

"Hon. Charles J. Bonaparte,
"Attorney General."

Now the sum and substance of this whole situation is this: Teddy promised to keep his hands off while the Steel Trust committed this burglary.

There is no disputing the evidence that the President of the United States helped Gary and Frick and Morgan to break the law. He stood at one side and watched these gentlemen sandbag the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company.

One wearies of stories of graft and corruption. One tires of all this work of showing up the political tools of great corporations.

But in the present stage of rotten political conditions, no man can understand the real meaning of our political campaign without knowing who the candidates represent.

There is warfare between capitalists; there is jealousy, hatred and malice. Various grodps among the big pirates have their own special political agents, but if ever the goods were gotten on any man, we certinly have them on Teddy in this story of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company.

No man can tell the whole game today of the Steel Trust magnates. But it is not difficult to understand why George Perkins, Frank Munsey, Bill Flinn and the Steel Trust magnates, from Wall Street to Pittsburg, are backing that torch-bearer of reform, Theodore Roosevelt.

SANITARIANS OF LABOR.

Cincinnati, Oct. 19.—Representatives of the various labor unions in this city have formed an organization to be known as the "Sanitarians of Organized Labor," the object of which is to spread the gospel of sanitation. The work of the new society will be carried on with the co-operation of the health department. It will begin a systematic study of State laws and city ordinances affecting sanitary matters, and will endeavor to present the knowledge it acquires to the labor unions in the city.

BAKERS IN FIGHTING TRIM.

International Officers Putting Up Determined Fight.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The local Union of Bakery and Confectionery Workers at Scranton, Pa., is putting up a determined fight, assisted by organized labor of Lackawanna and Luzerne Counties, against a prominent baking company of Scranton. There is hardly a town or village in the counties mentioned in which the non-union baking firm's bread is not sold, and if the baking company continues to monopolize the field it means that the journeymen bakers will be compelled to continue to work at beggarly wages. The International Union of Bakers is now assisting in a campaign to thoroughly organize the bakery workers in the territory covered by the non-union concern, and special attention will be acorded to Wilkesbarre, Pa. The International Union of Bakery and Confectionery Workers is carrying on an extensive campaign to organize the unorganized bakers, and particularly directing their attention against the products of non-union concerns. Anti-bread trust conferences have recently been formed in New York City to cover the States of New York, New Jersey, and Connecticut, and in Cleveland to cover the States of Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Michigan. Also in St. Louis to cover the State of Missouri. Another organization of the same kind is formed in Boston to cover the States of Massachusetts, Vermont, and Rhode Island. The International Union of Bakery and Confectionery Workers has had a serious contest with the bread trust, but the officers of the international union have demonstrated a splendid ability in dealing with the controversy and are making good headway against the bread trust. These officers are continuously urging that organized labor throughout the country purchase only bread which bears the bakery workers' union label.

OHIO STATE BODY.

Cleveland, Oct. 18.—The Ohio State Federation of Labor will convene at Canton, Ohio (on October 14. It is expected that the convention this year will be one of the largest and most important ever held in the State. The success of the State Federation in securing a large number of provisions in the new constitution of the State favorable to labor has given the State body an impetus which will no doubt draw to it nearly all the organizations in the State now or heretofore having held aloof from it. The State Federation of Ohio has done valuable service in the past, and its power and influence is steadily increasing.

AN EDUCATIONAL CAMPAIGN.

By J. Mahlon Barnes.

Long have we waited for an awakening.
It is the Socialist Party harvest time.

This is an educational campaign. Millions of leaflets, tons of pamphlets have been sent out. All free, except for shipping charges.

Already six times as much has been spent for literature as was spent in the campaign of 1908.

Each day orders equal to the total received during a week, earlier in the campaign, pile into the office.

Every dime and dollar is needed to pay printers' bills. You would not want us to stop. Literature must flood the nation till election day.

Circus people sleep in the winter time. SOCIALISTS MAY SLEEP AFTER ELECTION DAY, BUT NOT BEFORE.

This is an appeal for you to do your part in this great campaign. Send your contribution direct to the Socialist National Campaign Committee, Chicago, Ill.

SPREAD THE LIGHT.

What pleasure a farmer must taken toiling all day in the hot sun producing raw material which the capitalist class, through another band of serfs called wage-earners, work into the finished product, and then sell at an enormous profit. For every drop of sweat there is a cool shade, a dinner party, a monkey banquet, a junketing trip through Europe, a titled wedding, or some other demoralizing event for the idle posterity of the capitalist class.

SOCIALISM IN ACTION.

By E. A. Palmer.
(Socialist Candidate for County Treasurer.)

The battle is on. Socialist comrades of every nationality have universally responded to the call "to arms." The working class, who do the useful work of the world, are rallying by the hundred thousands—yea millions—to this battle of the "Armageddon," as Mr. Roosevelt is pleased to call it.

Humanitarianism—Socialism in action—is the "white heat" of the revolution. Messrs. Taft, Wilson, Roosevelt, Garford, Taylor, Brumbaugh, et al, are the Pharaohs who are seeking to keep the people in bondage yet a little while longer. Messrs. Debs, Seidel, Berger, Ruthenberg, Bachman and others of the Industrial Revolution are the saviors of the proletariat—the great working class movement.

This battle of "Armageddon" will be fought to a finish—when every working man and woman will receive 100 per cent. value of their labor—one dollar for every dollar's worth of toil—when every child will have an equal opportunity with every other child for a complete education—when decrepit old people will be pensioned and have a humane home in which to live—when robust adult manhood will displace the child and mother in the factory, mine and store—when the PROFIT SYSTEM will be annulled and things be made for USE instead of PROFIT—when the WAGE SYSTEM, the BALL and CHAIN of HUMAN SLAVERY shall be abolished forever—when the "idle rich" will become useful members of society—when the militiamen of war shall become the husbandmen of peace—when our so-called representative (Republican-Democratic) government shall become a Socialistic Democracy-government of, by and for ALL the people—when the Initiative, Referendum and Recall (solely Socialistic principles) will forever silence the Grafter and the Lobbyist in the halls of legislation—when State and United States Senates shall be abolish—when all public offices shall be filled by a direct vote of the people—when the usurped power of the Supreme Courts shall have been restored to the people, and the will of the majority shall become the law of the land—when "every man's hand" will be OUTSTRETCHED TO HELP INSTEAD OF AGAINST his brother—when the teachings of the Christ may be made manifest in all human endeavor.

These are some of the victories to be achieved by the Socialists in this great war of "Armageddon."

The Shibboleth of our cause is CO-OPERATIVE COMMONWEALTH. The old partyites can not say CO-OPERATIVE, they say "COMPETITIVE" (see Judges 12:6), and by their speech they shall be annihilated.

A street walker is a girl who sells her body for money. A successful business man is one who sells his brains for the same thing. Editors and clergymen are persons who damn the girl and praise the man. We have all the pity possible for the unfortunate girl (although that won't help her any), but we despise the intellectual prostitute.

SOMETHING DOING AT DRIVING PARK.

The last outdoor sporting event of the season will take place at the Columbus Driving Park this coming Sunday, October 20th, when the widely advertised Political Burlesque Races take place.

It has been several years since the followers of the race game were given an opportunity to see real running horses in or near Columbus, but Sunday, the weather of course permitting, the best the racing world affords will be seen here. The horses numbering some 25 or 30 that have entered, will drop their individual names and assume those of the candidates on the national, state and county tickets. There will be a mile, a half mile, three-fourths mile, five and a half furlongs, and six and a half furlongs. In addition to the running races there will be foot races, mule races and a few motorcycle races.

Bill Taft, Woody Wilson, Gene Debs and Teddy R. will be burlesqued in the Presidential Sweepstakes. Satisfied Kircher, Smiling Jim Cox, General Bob Brown, Bull Moose Garford and Hurrp-Up Kircher will run for the Governor's stake. In addition to the above, all the candidates on the county ticket will be raced.

The gates will open at noon, the 4th Regiment Band of 25 pieces will dispense music and the races will start promptly at 2:30 p. m. The admission is but 25 cents to all and the grand stand will be free.

Tuberculosis kills between 60,000 and 70,000 in England every year. That is one out of ten deaths are due to this dread plague. The death rate is equal in the United States. It is specially the working man's disease. Socialism and the sanitary conditions under it will reduce it to a minimum.

Marshall, Wilson's running mate, is forced to the conclusion that the courts are failures. In a speech at the City Club at St. Louis he voiced the view and added that the courts were falling more and more into disrepute with the general public. Wherein he spoke the truth.

There are men who get tens of thousands of dollars for wearing trousers and women who get only three dollars a week for making them.

is his aim to "avert a revolution." They all know the issue and they are all alike.

THIRTY FAST HORSES

Are entered in the running races at Driving Park this coming Sunday (October 20). Admission 25 cents.

The Princess Theater, State and High Street, owned by Miss Lula Dixon, is now under the exclusive management of her mother, Mrs. Cromwell Dixon. Miss Lula is conceded to be the youngest proprietress of a theater in the world.

Mrs. Dixon is the mother of Cromwell Dixon, the young aviator who was recently killed while making a dangerous flight at Helena, Montana. The citizens of Helena, Montana, have just unveiled a $10,000 monument to the memory of the young hero.

The citizens of Columbus are making arrangements to erect a similar monument in this city.

Since Miss Dixon has acquired control of the Princess, $3,000.00 worth of improvements have been added. Starting Monday, October 21st, a big minstrel show will be staged, with an addition of six professionals, making a total of twelve people who will appear on the stage.

Courteous treatment has made this theater the most patronized 5 and 10 cent show in the city.

Comrade W. J. Hull gave a fine talk on Socialism in Fourth Ward at 426 Monroe Avenue, Friday evening, last week. Fourth Ward Branch meets at 426 Monroe Avenue every Tuesday evening.

POLITICAL BURLESQUE RACES

At Driving Park next Sunday, October 20. Admission 25 cents.

CITY COUNCIL MEETS BUT TROOPS NOT NEEDED

Old Party Leaders Seem to Be Looking After Political Plums.

Council Monday night talked of many things, but did nothing very epoch-making.

An appropriation of $1,500 was made to buy an automobile for the use of the Fire Department. The ordinance does not specify to what use the machine is to be put; the scribe knows of a neighboring city where such a machine was extensively used for some time by the worthy chief for joy-riding purposes.

Comrade Warren introduced a resolution for the appointment of a committee to act with the Service Director in the project of opening the State Fair grounds as a public park. The resolution was passed with no objection.

The following resolution was received from the Board of Health:

"Resolved, That the unsanitary condition existing in Alum Creek near the Main Street bridge, caused by emptying of sewage from both sides of Alum Creek, constitutes a public nuisance, and the Health Officer is directed to call attention of the proper officials to the same, and see that the nuisance is abated."

This is interesting as referring to the sewer into which the proposed Bexley sewer would have to empty. Director Kinnear is very anxious for the city to furnish the residents of Bexley with this sewage-disposal, although Bexley declines to enter the city.

Anton Fix, City Sealer of Weights and Measures, came in for quite a discussion. Anton has resigned, claiming he wasn't getting salary enough, and Council requested him to submit an itemized report showing what he had done to justify an increase of salary. Councilman Biederman thinks Fix is the best sealer the city ever had, while Councilman Alcott thinks he is a chair-warmer. The question is to be settled by the submission of the report.

SOCIALISTS IN ACTION

News from the World-Wide Movement of the Workers

GENERAL SOCIALIST NEWS.

The two Socialist Parties of Cuba bridged their differences over tactics and united.

State Representative Wooldridge, of Washington, formerly a strong Roosevelt shouter, has quit his foolishness and joined the Socialist Party.

Japanese army is now being honeycombed by the Socialists and strenuous efforts are being made by the government to stamp out the propaganda, but without much success.

At the recent annual convention of the Socialist Party in Germany it was shown that the dues-paying membership had risen to 970,000, an increase of 16 per cent. during the past year. The million mark will be passed in a few weeks.

In the University of Michigan there is a Socialist organization of 300 students that holds meetings every week and is distributing more literature than Democrats and Republicans put together. The Intercollegiate Socialist Society is surely doing effective work.

In the big Singer Manufacturing Co., plant at Elizabeth, N. J., a straw poll was taken and Debs had more votes than all the other Presidential nominees combined. This poll was not paraded under big headlines in the New York Herald and other papers that are industriously "feeling the pulse of the people."

When J. Keir Hardie returns to Murry England he will find a snug little legacy awaiting him to be used by the British Socialists to further their propaganda. Jane Keepeh, a woman 83 years old, died in Edinburgh, Scotland, recently, and left $38,000 to John and William Redmond and Hardie to be divided in equal shares for their respective parties.

Now comes South Africa with the announcement of a remarkable working class victory right in the heart of capitalistic power in that country. In an election for a member of the Provincial Legislature in Johannesburg the Labor candidate defeated his Conservative-Liberal "non-partisan" opponent by more than two to one. The workers are jubilant as a consequence.

WISCONSIN NOTES.

Never, in the memory of the oldest inhabitant, was there so quiet a presidential campaign as the present one. Where are the shouters and the banners? Almost dead silence rests on the capitalist camps.

The reason for this dead calm is doubtless two-fold. The people are dissatisfied and the interests satisfied with all the capitalistic candidates.

Meanwhile, in the midst of this profound quiet, the Socialists are the only noisy and busy ones. The Milwaukee Social-Democrats are getting out more literature than in any preceding campaign. Eighty-five thousand pieces will be distributed by the Bundle Brigade next Sunday. Fifteen factory gate meetings were held during the noon hour last week, and in spite of the miserably cold and rainy weather, the workmen swarmed out to hear and applaud the Socialist speakers.

The Milwaukee comrades are getting out in leaflet form an abridged copy of "The Growing Grocery Bill." It is found that a leaflet not too long to be read during the noon hour is the best kind of literature for use in the factories.

The Milwaukee Socialist headquarters during the last week has presented the cheering spectacle of a crowd of women Socialists hard at work for the campaign, writing, sending out literature and making themselves generally very useful indeed. If the Socialist women of other towns could realise how much good they could accomplish in campaign work of this kind, there would be many more Milwaukees scattered over the country. But if they do not realize it, perhaps this may be the fault of the comrades who have not given them sufficient encouragement to take their just place in the great class struggle.

Our speakers throughout the State report better and more enthusiastic meetings than ever before. Many new branches have been organized during the campaign.

One new campaign method adopted this year by the Wisconsin Socialists has been the wide advertising in the theaters. In eighty Milwaukee theaters and in a dozen theaters in other Wisconsin cities the pictures of the Socialist candidates and a few telling sentences suggestive to the voters will be thrown on the screen twice each evening for one month prior to election. This will reach many who would not read our literature. Perhaps it may start them thinking to some good purpose. Thus the campaign presents many sides of work, all of which we are endeavoring to accomplish efficiently and adequately.

E. H. THOMAS,
State Secretary.

DUNKLEMAN TREMBLES WITH FEAR FOR FUTURE

The Old Sardine Will Be Voting the Socialist Tick-Before Long.

Mr. Editer:

After thinkin this hear thing over and after takin a look around I can see a site thet makes me tremble with fear. There is no need fer the pore man to be agged on to riot and pillage; there is a more klever, slicker and a deal more awful danger.

In past time the thing what has kept them from takin by force what they wanted has bin nothin but the contintment, the respek fer society, the habits of publik honestie and the laws that we have made fer the werking peopul of this hear nashion.

But when I think of the kondishions today it makes me almost wish I was on my way to heven. The werkin man has not only bin edukated but they have give him the ballot. They are even tryin to have the wimen vote. In past times a feller might not have bin willin to steal but now you are teachin him a write way to git what don't belong to him. You are tryin to tell him thet he is the goverment an thet he has the soul power of makin the laws.

I want to say to you, thet the future of Demokracy hangs on this thing. Can the people who have gathered together the means of life instill into the people who produce the welth, a feeling of morality thet will make em respekt publik justice an propertie writes and thet will subdo and hold in bonds of law the restless, grumblin and dissatisfied mass of the pepul.

CLERGY FOR SOCIALISM.

One hundred and twelve priests and preachers in regular orders in England have declared for Socialism. The Reading Labor Advocate gives their names, residences and churches. They say in declaration:

"We declare that the Socialism we believe in involves the public ownership and management of the means of production, distribution and exchange, and is therefore essentially the same Socialism as that which is held by Socialists throughout the world."

There are some 700 clergymen in the United States who are declared Socialists. Yet, those who have a strangle hold on the religion trust and exclusive access to the ear and influence of the Almighty would "freeze out" as destroyers of religion, all who do not belong to the big religion trust.

THE GERMAN SOCIALISTS.

The party has recently held its annual convention at Chemnitz. One of the most important matters to come before the convention was the general strike in the event of war.

The dues-paying membership is put down at 970,118, of which 120,271 are women. There are 110 Socialists in the Reichstag out of a total of 397. The Socialist vote was 4,250,329, out of a total of 12,206,603. The number of daily papers controlled by the party is eight-six.

HOW ARE YOU GOING TO VOTE?

By J. O. Bentall.

"None of your business," you say. But it is my business.

Your vote determines to a great extent the conditions under which I am to live. If you vote right, I can live better. If you vote wrong, I must live accordingly.

And you are in the same fix as I am. Your vote is going to tell in your case, too.

If you vote right, it will be better for you. If you vote wrong, you will pay for it.

Don't fool yourself. Your vote is mighty important.

There is a bunch of crafty capitalist politicians who are after your vote. They know the value of it.

They are willing to spend millions of dollars for your vote. They wouldn't do that if it wasn't worth anything.

Your vote is worth millions of dollars to the capitalist class. Keep that in mind.

If you should vote for yourself and your fellow workers the capitalist class would lose millions, and you and your fellow workers would gain millions of dollars.

You ought to be wise enough to see that.

But how does your vote become so valuable? What makes it worth millions of dollars?

Just this:

The capitalist class, made up of the trusts and big interests, is in possession of the industries. This class owns the food industry, the clothing industry, the housing industry, the means of transportation and communication and other elements that make for the well-being and comfort of the people.

This class owns the raw material and the machinery of production.

This class owns the right to hire you and fire you. It has the right to pay you what it pleases and to work you as long hours as it pleases.

This class may raise your wages rather than to have a strike. It will do so if it is cheaper.

This class may shorten your hours, if that is cheaper than to quarrel with you.

But when your wages are raised your cost of living is raised so you gain very little, if any.

And when your hours are shortened you are speeded up so as to drain all vitality out of your system.

It other words, this owning class pays you on the average what it costs you to live and gives you enough extra so you may bring children into the world to take your place when you are gone.

You and your fellow workers sometimes complain and revolt. You are imposed upon, and remonstrate.

If you had your way you would not allow the small owning class to live in idleness while it makes you produce an abundance of necessities and luxuries for it.

If you had your way you would make laws that would give you what you produce and the idlers what they produce.

That is clear.

Now this owning class knows that and must protect itself. It therefore spends millions of dollars to make you believe that it is best for you to vote as it dictates.

This owning class has three parties this year. It has the old Democratic party, the old Republican party and the new Bull Moose party.

All these three parties belong to the big interests. Wall Street supports them. George W. Perkins of the International Harvester Trust is back of the Progressive party.

The owning class has three parties just to fool you. Either party is good enough for the big owners.

So it makes no difference. Whichever of these three tickets you may vote you help keep the master class in power.

It is not a question of men. That has nothing to do with it. A "good" man with a bad principle is no better than a bad man. In fact, he is a little worse.

Don't vote for men. Vote for principle.

And there is only one party that stands for the principle that will help you.

It is the Socialist party.

The principle that will help you is called collective ownership.

It is the principle that is based upon evolution in all life and especially in industry.

Since it takes a collectivity to run industry it is natural that industry should be owned by a collectivity.

When the collectivity owns the resources and the industries this collectivity will use these means for its own good.

The Socialist party stands for the collective ownership of the resources and the industries. It seeks to elect men to Congress, to the Legislature and to other offices from the County Supervisor to the President of the United States.

Some day we will win. Then the big world, with the inexhaustible resources and splendid machinery, will be made the property of the people so that all the people may supply themselves with both necessities and luxuries of life.

In that day there will be no idle class to rob the workers, for all who are able-bodied within reasonable age limits will help do useful work.

In that day there will be no poor and jobless, for we will have a chance to work whenever we want to and will get all we earn.

In that day there will be no shacks and hovels, for we will be able to provide ourselves with comfortable homes.

In that day there will be no naked or hungry, for we will produce plenty for all by honest labor.

In that day there will be no child slavery or women's sweatshops, for we will be able to divide labor into proper proportions and eliminate drudgery and hardship.

In that day there will be songs of joy and shouts of gladness, for the people will have come to their own heritage and will live in the happiness of a new civilization.

How are you going to vote? You are free to do as you please, but, if you are sincere and intelligent, you will drop the capitalist parties and vote the Socialist ticket, which is the only ticket for a working man to support.

Your vote is worth millions to the capitalist class if you vote its ticket. Your vote is worth millions to the working class if you vote the Socialist ticket.

What National Platforms Say Concerning the People

REPUBLICAN PLATFORM DECLARATIONS

"The Republican Party is now, as always, a party of advanced and constructive statesmanship. It is prepared to go forward with the solution of those new questions which social, economic, and political development have brought into the forefront of the Nation's interest. It will strive, not only in the Nation, but in the several States, to enact the necessary legislation to safeguard the public health; to limit effectively the labor of women and children; to protect wage earners engaged in dangerous occupations; to enact comprehensive and generous workmen's compensation laws in place of the present wasteful and unjust system of employers' liability, and in all possible ways to satisfy the just demand of the people for the study and solution of the complex and constantly changing problems of social welfare.

"In dealing with these questions, it is important that the rights of every individual to the freest possible development of his own powers and resources, and to the control of his own justly acquired property, as far as those are compatible with the rights of others, shall not be interfered with or destroyed. The social and political structure of the United States rests upon the civil liberty of the individual; and for the protection of that liberty the people have wisely, in the National and State Constitutions, put definite limitations upon themselves and upon their governmental officers and agencies. To enforce these limitations, to secure the orderly and coherent exercise of governmental powers and to protect the rights of even the humblest and least favored individual are the function of independent courts of justice.

"The Republican party reaffirms its intention to uphold at all times the authority and integrity of the courts, both State and Federal, and it will ever insist that their powers to enforce their processes and to protect life, liberty and property shall be preserved inviolate. An orderly method is provided under our system of government by which the people may, when they choose, alter or amend the constitutional provisions which underlie that government. Until these constitutional provisions are so altered or amended, in orderly fashion, it is the duty of the courts to see to it that when challenged they are enforced." * * *

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM DECLARATIONS

"We repeat our declarations of the platform of 1908, as follows:

"'The courts of justice are the bulwark of our liberties, and we yield to none in our purpose to maintain their dignity. Our party has given to the bench a long line of distinguished justices, who have added to the respect and confidence in which this department must be jealously maintained. We resent the attempt of the Republican Party to raise a false issue respecting the judiciary. It is an unjust reflection upon a great body of our citizens to assume that they lack respect for the courts.

"'It is the function of the courts to interpret the laws which the people enact, and if the laws appear to work economic, social or political injustice, it is our duty to change them. The only basis upon which the integrity of our courts can stand is that of unswerving justice and protection of life, personal liberty, and property. As judicial processes may be abused, we should guard them against abuse.

"'Experience has proved the necessity of a modification of the law relating to injunction, and we reiterate the pledges of our platforms of 1896 and 1904 in favor of a measure which passed the United States Senate in 1896, relating to contempt in Federal courts, and providing for trial by jury in cases of indirect contempt.

"'Questions of judicial practice have arisen, especially in connection with industrial disputes. We believe that the parties to all judicial proceedings should be treated with rigid impartiality, and that injunctions should not be issued in any case in which an injunction would not issue if no industrial disputes were involved.

"'The expanding organization of industry makes it essential that there should be no abridgement of the right of the wage earners and producers to organize for the protection of wages and the improvement of labor conditions, to the end that such labor organizations, and their members, should not be regarded as illegal combinations in restraint of trade.

"'We pledge the Democratic party to the enactment of a law creating a department of labor, represented separately in the President's cabinet, in which department shall be included the subject of mines and mining.'"

BULL MOOSE PLATFORM DECLARATIONS

"We believe that the issuance of injunction in cases arising out of labor disputes should be prohibited when such injunctions would not apply when no labor dispute existed.

"We also believe that a person cited for contempt in labor disputes, except when such contempt was committed in the actual presence of the court, or so near thereto as to interfere with the proper administration of justice, should have a right to trial by jury.

"The supreme duty of the Nation is the conservation of human resources through an enlarged measure of social and industrial justice. We pledge ourselves to work unceasingly in State and Nation for: Effective legislation, looking to the prevention of industrial accidents, occupational diseases, overwork, involuntary unemployment, and other injurious effects, incident to modern industry.

"The fixing of minimum safety and health standards for the various occupations, and the exercise of the public authority of State and Nation, including the Federal control over interstate commerce, and the taxing power, to maintain such standards.

"The prohibition of child labor.

"Minimum wage standards for working women, to provide a living wage in all industrial occupations.

"The general prohibition of night work for women, and the establishment of an eight-hour day for women and young persons.

"One day's rest in seven for all wage workers.

"The eight-hour day in continuous twenty-four-hour industries.

"The abolition of the convict contract labor system.

"Substituting a system of prison production for governmental consumption only.

"And the application of prisoners' earnings to the support of their dependent families.

"Publicity as to wages, hours and conditions of labor.

"Full reports upon industrial accidents and diseases, and the opening to public inspection of all tallies, weights, measures and check systems on labor products.

"Standards of compensation for death by industrial accident and injury and trade disease which will transfer the burden of lost earnings from the families of working people to the industry and thus to the community.

The protection of home life against the hazards of sickness, irregular employment and old age through the adoption of a system of social insurance adapted to American use.

SOCIALIST IMMEDIATE DEMANDS

Unemployment

The immediate government relief of the unemployed by the extension of all useful public works. All persons employed on such works to be engaged directly by the Government under a workday of not more than eight hours and at not less than the prevailing union wages. The Government also to establish employment bureaus; to lend money to States and municipalities without interest for the purpose of carrying on public works, and to take such other measures within its power as will lessen the widespread misery of the workers caused by the misrule of the capitalist class.

Industrial Demand

The conservation of human resources, particularly of the lives and well-being of the workers and their families.

1. By shortening the workday in keeping with the increased productiveness of machinery.

2. By securing to every worker a rest period of not less than a day and a half in each week.

3. By securing a more effective inspection of workshops, factories and mines.

4. By forbidding the employment of children under sixteen years of age.

5. By the co-operative organization of the industries in the Federal penitentiaries for the benefit of the convicts and their dependents.

6. By forbidding the interstate transportation of the products of child labor, of convict labor and of all uninspected factories and mines.

7. By abolishing the profit system in Government work, and substituting either the direct hire or labor or the awarding of contracts to co-operative groups of workers.

Political Demands.

1. The absolute freedom of press, speech and assemblage.

2. The adoption of a graduated income tax, the increase of the rates of the present corporation tax and the extension of inheritance taxes, graduated in proportion to the value of the estate and to nearness of kin—the proceeds of these taxes to be employed in the socialization of industry.

3. The abolition of the monopoly ownership of patents and the substitution of collective ownership, with direct rewards to inventors by premiums or royalties.

4. Unrestricted and equal suffrage for men and women.

5. The adoption of the initiative, referendum and recall and of proportional representation, nationally as well as locally.

6. The abolition of the Senate and of the veto power of the President.

7. The election of the President and the Vice President by direct vote of the people.

8. The abolition of the power usurped by the Supreme Court of the United States to pass upon the constitutionality of the legislation enacted by Congress. National laws to be repealed only by act of Congress or by a referendum vote of the whole people.

9. The abolition of the present restrictions upon the amendment of the constitution, so that that instrument may be made amendable by a majority of the voters in the country.

10. The granting of the right of suffrage in the District of Columbia with representation in Congress and a democratic form of municipal government for purely local affairs.

11. The extension of democratic government to all United States territory.

12. The enactment of further measures for general education and particularly for vocational education in useful pursuits. The Bureau of Education to be made a department.

13. The enactment of further measures for the conservation of health. The creation of an independent bureau of health, with such restrictions as will secure full liberty to all schools of practice.

14. The separation of the present Bureau of Labor from the Department of Commerce and Labor and its elevation to the rank of a department.

15. Abolition of all Federal district courts and the United States Circuit Courts of Appeals. State courts to have jurisdiction in all cases arising between citizens of the several States and foreign corporations. The election of all judges for short terms.

16. The immediate curbing of the power of the courts to issue injunctions.

17. The free administration of the law.

18. The calling of a convention for the revision of the constitution of the United States.

Such measures of relief as we may be able to force from capitalism are but a preparation of the workers to seize the whole system of socialized industry and that they may thereby lay hold of the whole system of socialized industry and thus come to their rightful inheritance.

INHUMAN TORTURES INFLICTED ON HELPLESS BOYS

Some More Facts from Boys' Institution of Slavery at Lancaster—Unspeakable Doings are Shown Up.

GRAPHIC STORY OF YOUNG LAD

This paper is more than elated over the results of the expose of corruption and brutality at the Ohio State Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster. The fellows who were hit in the issue of last week and week before are howling loud and long. The CUR that is hit always HOWLS. They not only howled in their kennels but some of those hit the hardest came into the presence of respectable people and howled until those who heard the howls concluded some one had hit a sore spot or at least a very tender spot. If the fellow who was hit and came into the office of The Socialist last week and made threats what he would do if any more was published about the Boys' Industrial School thinks he or those who pay for such dastardly threats can scare a "Socialist" he and they are mistaken. We have started in to SHOW UP that institution of INIQUITY and with it any one who comes in the path of INVESTIGATION and it matters not if he be an official, preacher, Christian or hypocrite, so if you do not want to be included in the expose take to the woods before we get the camera or dictagraph trained on you.

Last week the special staff of this office sat in the Juvenile Court and saw Judge Samuel L. Black compel some half dozen children to testify against themselves under threat if they did not. Why do those children not get the same SQUARE DEAL under our constitution in Judge Black's Court as an adult criminal who is able to protect himself? Why is no attorney appointed to defend these children the same as for adult criminals? Why are they not told that they need not testify to anything that would incriminate them or that they need not take the stand at all under our constitutional guarantee? There was not a single case that came before Judge Black at that time in which he did not violate his oat as Judge to uphold the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of Ohio by compelling the accused to testify against himself and yet Judge Black says Socialists are anarchists and goes on defying the constitution and sentencing unfortunate and unprotected youth to the (B. I. S.) Boys' Institution of Slavery, as we will show before this expose ends. Better subscribe for this paper, 25 cents for three months, and learn what happens to your boys when sentenced by Judge Black.

AFFIDAVIT OF WILLIE NEFF AND MOTHER.

That one punishment in "The Maumee" was to SQUAT and balance yourself on the dips of the toes with arms outstretched, and turn hands back and forth for THIRTY minutes (called "Full bend and arm movement"); that another punishment was to SQUAT, rest on balls of feet, fold arms and by BOBBING UP and down WALK like a turkey for thirty minutes (called "TURKEY TROT"); that another punishment was to rest toes on floor, bend over with hands on floor and let head and body down with head between hands, but body kept rigid until nose touches floor and, rising again and again for thirty minutes (called "PUMPING on the BLOCK"); that another was to place hands on hips, body erect and SQUAT until rump strikes heels, moving UP and DOWN in quick succession for thirty minutes (called "PUMPING UP and DOWN"); that another punishment was to stand with feet together and fists on breast and PUMP up and down at same time straddling legs wide apart and extending arms full length and bringing feet and fists to first position and repeating again and again for thirty minutes (called "Side Straddle and Hop"); that another was to jump up and down putting one arm forward and leg back and the other arm forward and other leg back, repeating for thirty minutes (called "Forward Straddle and Hop"); that another was to stand erect with hands extended forward, palms together, raise body on tip-toes and at same time extend both hands full length, outstretched to rear and repeat over and over for thirty minutes (called "Tip-toe and Backward Arm Movement"); that another is to run around the room and jump over a bench as you come to it on each side of the room for hours at a time and if exhausted and you catch toe on bench and fall they place two benches and you have to jump over both of them or take a beating or both; that there are several other punishments equally as severe; that there is an officer directing all punishments and all those in "The Maumee Dungeon" have to perform at the speed set by said officer calling one, two; one, two, etc., increasing in speed by calling DOUBLE QUICK and FASTER, FASTER—no matter what the age of the boy, his condition of health or the offense he committed; that all those in "The Maumee" had to sleep on beds with no ticks or mattress, only comfort and sheet under them and sheet and comfort over them; that they had to get up each morning at 6:30 o'clock and eat breakfast in "Maumee Style" by squatting, balancing body on tip-toes, holding plate with one hand and eat with the other; that in the "Maumee" no meat is ever served and nothing else fit to eat; that as soon as breakfast is over they have to begin the punishments and as soon as one is over start right in on another and keep it up till noon, when only half hour is given to eat and they have to begin the punishments again and keep it up till 5:30 p. m. day after day; that said William Neff, Jr., was punished in said "The Maumee" for TEN DAYS for drinking and getting drunk on the same CHURCH BASEMENT wine that some of the officers got drunk on to nerve them up to administer those cruel punishments; that on Saturday, September 20, 1912, Family Officer Lafayette William Hayes went to Lancaster and got beastly drunk and on Sunday, September 21, 1912, beat said William Neff, Jr., with a curtain pole because William told him he and another boy were just playing when he accused them of fighting; that his right arm was bruised until black and blue, hips and shoulder blade were bruised and beaten and he slapped him in the face; that Dr. John R. Wood made examination of his said injuries Saturday, October 5, 1912, for use in connection with this affidavit.

Affiant further says her boy was always a dutiful son and attended school regularly and sold papers mornings, evenings and Saturdays before he was arrested and was in school when arrested, and that he got a position and went to work in two days after he came home from said awful institution; that some of the facts herein stated are known only to said William Neff, Jr., and some only to affiant and some to both, and their joint oath is intended only to cover the facts known to each.

SOCIALIST LOCAL AT HILLIARDS.

A Socialist local was organized at Hilliards by Comrade Luella Twining, national speaker, and Comrade W. E. Bues, county organizer. Meetings have been held at Hilliards about every two weeks for the past three months by our "home talent" speakers. Strong Socialist sentiment exists in and around Hilliards and it will show upon election day.

WHO IS JOHN SCHRANK, WOULD-BE ASSASSIN?

Although some of the capitalist newspapers have maliciously reported that John Shrank, the man who shot Theodore Roosevelt at Milwaukee on Monday, October 14, was a Socialist, the real facts are as follows:

1. Schrank is a Democrat.
2. Schrank is a Tammany man.
3. Schrank never voted the Socialist ticket.
4. Schrank several times voted the Republican ticket.
5. Schrank is a member of the Roman Catholic Church.
6. Schrank read exclusively the New York Herald and the New York World.

These facts have been learned during the examination of Schrank by States Attorney Zabel at the arraignment of the would-be assassin before Judge Neelen at Milwaukee on October 15.

BETTING FAVORS BACHMAN.

We are informed that a number of bets have been made in town that Bachman, the Socialist candidate, will have as many votes as Taylor and Brumbaugh for Congress in certain precincts in this city.

A CORRECTION.

Through a mistake the name of Comrade J. F. Bohnert appeared in last week's Socialist as one of the owners of this paper. Comrade Bohnert disposed of the stock he had held in The Socialist Publishing Company in December of last year before he became a member of the City Council.

Frank A. Munsey, the publisher, testified to the Clapp committee that his total contributions to Colonel Roosevelt's campaign this year had been $118,005.73. His pre-convention contributions to the national campaign totaled $67,000, and the balance was given to the state committees.

SOME STATEMENTS ABOUT COLUMBUS MILK SUPPLY

Affidavit Submitted About Methods and Processes Used in Lacteal Factory

Socialists should at all times try, when criticising men as public officials, to keep clearly in mind that it is not the personal character of the man nor the personal acts of the official to be censured except in so far as the personal character and personal acts of the official tends to corrupt society or in some way is an injury to the public welfare.

We are still under the capitalistic system and the public official is as much the product of the system as any other member of the system, and he is helpless to direct his cause only to the extent to which he fights the system.

Prosecuting Attorney Edward C. Turner has been as efficient an official as has filled that office for years and as a gentleman and townsman this paper does not hesitate to commend him. With all those cases of graft, bribery, etc., on his hands and with his success therewith this paper is lothe to even criticize his public acts. We also apologize for mentioning at this late day in the campaign anything that might reflect upon his office, for the reason that he may not have time to answer if he feels called upon to answer, but we have been holding up certain facts in our possession for some weeks pending the investigation of the high cost of milk, scarcity of cows, low grade of milk, etc., etc., hoping that Mr. Turner might get at the facts of the milk situation and this duty to the citizens of Franklin County on the part of this paper be uncalled for, but the probe Mr. Turner conducted fell so far short of the desired results that we must give the public the benefit of the facts in our possession and call upon Prosecuting Attorney Turner to get busy on the facts herewith submitted under oath.

Now a few facts at random in the interests of dairymen who produce real milk by the process of real cows, pasture, mill feed and water all fed into the mouths of real live cows and milked from real cows the old way instead of milk produced from up-to-date modern machinery artificially produced.

When we remember that ten years ago wheat sold for $1.00 per bushel and bran and mill feed for 90 cents per hundred and now wheat is 90 cents a bushel and bran $1.60 per hundred, and other things so changed that the farmer sells his produce at the price fixed by capitalists and buys the manufactured articles also at the capitalists' prices you will more readily understand that from October to May the feed necessary for real milk from really cows costs more than the dairymen can expect the families of laboring men to be able to pay.

There is no question but that there is a concerted effort on the part of some to make conditions so rigid under the inspection laws that all small dairymen will be forced out of business and the big milk companies will control the business and then the public will be at the mercy of those who control the milk business the same as all other business, and then Socialism will be the only remedy by which the milk trust must be owned and operated by all the people in the interest of all the people; instead of owned and operated by a few in the interest of the few and against the health and safety of the many as is being done today in Columbus, if the facts sworn to in the following affidavit are true:

Affidavit.

State of Ohio, Franklin County, ss.

John W. Mason being first duly sworn, says he was employed at the plant of the Pure Milk Company, No. 248 East Town Street, from about May 4, 1910, to about July 20, 1912, as ice cream maker; that during that time he constantly made ice cream from homogenized cream; that there is a city ordinance, introduced into Council by Socialist Councilman John Bohnert and passed, requiring that all ice cream made from homogenized cream should be so labeled before sold; that none of the ice cream so made by said Pure Milk Company was so labeled; that the process of homogenizing milk consists of mechanically bringing butter back to cream by mixing butter (frequently rancid) with skim milk or water or both (principally water) in proper proportion (300 pounds of butter to 200 gallons of skim milk or same amount of water), heated to a temperature of about 160 degrees and run through a machine called a homogenizer; that on or about August 1, 1912, affiant called Dr. Kahn, at head of Board of Health, over telephone and asked him what the law was concerning the use of homogenized cream for ice cream. Dr. Kahn said that homogenized cream used in making ice cream should be labeled "Homogenized"; affiant says he asked Dr. Kahn, "What about the Pure Milk Company," he says, "They are not using homogenized cream for ice cream. Affiant asked him where he got his information and he says "The Pure Milk Company tells the Board of Health they are using their homogenizer to run their 'mix' through to make a smoother cream." Dr. Kahn asked affiant his name and said he would investigate; affiant replied it was not necessary to know his name to do the investigating and he said they would send the inspector to investigate; they sent the inspector one night about 9:00 o'clock and found the homogenizer in operation in charge of Earl Herrington, a colored man; that when affiant commenced work at said Pure Milk Company there was no colored men employed in that department, but when affiant left said plant his place as ice cream maker was taken by a colored man, named George Hicks, at higher wages than affiant for same work; that at this time all the men employed in that department are colored; that affiant has no prejudice against the colored race and makes this statement because he firmly believes said Pure Milk Company places such a low estimate on the integrity of the colored man that he can be threatened or purchased not to expose the illegal way of conducting said business; that last winter during the month of January there was brought to the Pure Milk Company's plant several barrels full of butter which was so stale that it had a green mould all over it so that it was not recognized as butter by any one who did not know the fact; that said butter came in from The Farmers' Poultry Commission Company, located at Lazelle and Walnut Streets, Columbus, Ohio, in which company the manager of the Pure Milk Company is interested; that said butter was worked over and returned to said The Farmers' Poultry Commission Company for sale to the public; that when said barrels of butter came in the foreman of the Pure Milk Company remarked, "That is pretty looking stuff to be brought in here where all the employes can see it"; that formerly the said homogenizer was on first floor open to be seen by all the employes nd the public who visited the plant, but said homogenizer has been moved to the second floor in an obscure room visited only by the one in charge thereof; that while affiant worked in said plant said homogenizer was operated only at night and he is of the firm belief that said homogenizer is still in operation and has not been abandoned, and further affiant saith not at this.

GANG LINES UP AGAIN AGAINST LOWEST BIDDER

Solicitor Bolin Repeats His Rotten Decision Against "The Socialist" as a Newspaper—There are Reasons.

COUNCIL DODGES CITY PRINTING

Council meeting Monday night was short but thrilling.

The show of the evening was presented on the occasion of the consideration of bids for the city advertising for the coming year. The committee's report provided for rejection of bids received, calling for new bids, and conducting an investigation of the circulations of the bidders. Of these there were four—two high ones and two low ones. According to estimates of the City Clerk, the bids of the several papers would cost the city, if accepted, as follows (in round numbers):

Ohio State Journal, $10,151.
The Week, $10,237.
The Times, $3,226.
The Socialist, $3,750.

The law requires that the main part of the advertising be given to two papers of "opposite politics." Solicitor Bolin ruled that the Journal's bid was not legal because of its form, also that the Socialist is not a paper of "opposite politics." (This statement will be pleasant news to some who imagine that the Socialist has been "opposing" them rather energetically.) In the course of the debate it developed that the "Times" is a paper whose existence seems to be largely imaginary, and that the Journal's bid is exorbitant; not to speak of the "Week," which of course never considered itself a newspaper until C. C. Pollock discovered that he might as well be getting a little money from the administration, since the said administration is so largely a debtor to him. And if the Solicitor is right, and the "Socialist's" politics are not "opposite" to his own(!) then each bid has something wrong with it. In this state of affairs, Councilman Sherman "said something" when he reminded the members that nobody ever reads the city advertising wherever it is published, except a few contractors and others who would be perfectly able to spend a cent for the Times or even the Socialist if they wanted to read the city's ads. So evidently, since the law requires that some of the city's money be practically wasted, it would seem to be the part of wisdom to waste as little of it as possible by accepting the lowest bids.

Not in Karb's Council, though. Not much. Comrade Bohnert's motion to accept the two lowest bids (Times and Socialist) was promptly rejected. So likewise was Connolley's motion to grant the contracts to the Journal and Times. Even the committee's recommendation to investigate the circulation and call for new bids was defeated. It was supposed, by the way, that the committee might be actuated by a desire to give the "Week" another chance to meet the "Socialist's" bid, as it did last year when it had to.

Altogether, the Republican and Democratic solons seems to be confronted with the very knotty problem of how to keep their "stand-in" with their own crowds, and at the same time not be ashamed of themselves and their votes.

Comrade Bohnert's motion giving the advertising to the lowest bidders, the Times and the Socialist, was defeated by the following vote:

Yeas—Bohnert (S.), Ellis (D.), Hayden (R.), Reinhard (D.), Sherman (R.), Warren (S.), Wilson (S.), Zimpfer (S.); total 8.

Nays—Alcott (R.), Baldridge (R.), Barry (D.), Biedermann (D.), Connolley (R.), Griffin (R.), Lucks (D.), McGuire (R.), Nailor (R.), Stribling (R.), Wegman (D.); total 11.

An ordinance was passed directing the issue of $350,000 bonds for rebuilding the Fourth Street viaduct, which was declared unsafe some time ago. This means that during the construction of the new viaduct the North Side will have only High and Front Streets to connect it with the rest of the city, which was exactly the condition forseen by the Socialist when it supported the Third Street viaduct proposition.

The resolution to erect a viaduct on South Parsons Avenue instead of a subway, as originally planned, was postponed for a week.

Councilman Bohnert (Socialist) presented a resolution providing for a special election on the issuance of $300,000 bonds for the erection of a City Hospital. As stated last week, Columbus treats its sick people in the good old medieval style. One would hardly entertain a proposition to abolish the City Fire Department and instead let the city contribute annually to the support of a "Catholic Fire Department" and a "Protestant Fire Department." Yet that is what we are doing with the hospitals, and must keep on unless Bohnert's proproposition can be pushed through.

WILSON NOT AFRAID OF HARVESTER MONEY IN CAMPAIGN.

A Few Facts About the Use of Cash in National Politics.

Before the United States Senate campaign contributions committee Mr. Dodge gave details of his collection of $35,000 for the Wilson fund from "Princeton Friends," who included Cyrus H. McCormick and Thomas D. Jones of the International Harvester Company. He said that while these contributions were expected to call forth criticism, Governor Wilson, to whom the question was submitted, agreed to accept them. It seems that the immaculate professor is not afraid of International Harvester money. The pretenses of the Democratic standard-bearer to such high political morality are knocked into smithereens by recent revelations.

Lavish use of money by the supporters of President Taft and the other side in the Michigan primary campaign was charged before the Clapp committee by James O. Murfin, a Detroit lawyer.

"It is a matter of general knowledge that the primaries in Detroit this year were the most corrupt on both sides that were ever known," said Murfin. "It was just as bad on one side as the other, but our people were the most skillful and we got the delegates. But both were absolutely rotten.

CARDINAL GIBBONS AND COMPETITION.

By L. P. Schuweiler, Member Court, No. 288, Catholic Order of Foresters.

In a statement given out by Cardinal Gibbons recently, in which he attacked Socialism and public ownership, he said "Competition is healthy and we should have it." What kind of competition his eminence refers to I am unable to say, but if he means competition for wealth, which is at the present time very interesting to some, or for work, which is taking up the time of the masses, then I must say that there are many who fail to agree with him.

Competition is healthy only for those who are fortunate enough to come out on top in the struggle, while those who are defeated are left to starve, beg or steal. To the masses it means merely a struggle for life. Competition is good where the competitors are evenly matched. Our present competitive system is all one sided. Slaves can not compete with their masters. Subjection will not allow it. What good excuse can be offered for this system of competition we are now bound to, and which the Cardinal wishes to continue? Is there a single wrong that can not be laid at its doors? Investigation will prove that competition is directly or indirectly the cause of the greatest part of our social troubles.

Competition is hell.

Competition is war.

Competition conflicts with the teachings of Christ.

Competition breeds hatred.

Competition creates murderers.

Competition creates selfishness.

Competition is a kind of gambling.

Competition makes paupers.

Competition created child labor.

Competition is taking woman out of the home and placing her in the factories and mills.

Competition is responsible for the "white slave" traffic.

Competition is leading women and men to sell their bodies and souls.

Competition is making a few rich, and the many poor.

Competition is the cause of the waste of millions of dollars in wealth yearly.

Competition is to blame for the high cost of living.

Competition causes graft.

Most of our industrial disasters may be laid to competition.

Competition led to the Titanic disaster.

Competition led to the McNamara crime.

Competition creates strikes, lockouts, riots, and every other form of labor trouble.

Competition is the cause of low wages and bad working conditions.

Competition is to be blamed for adulteration and poisoning of food.

Sin of every description breeds, fattens and matures in this competitive system of ours. With this fact staring us in the face who will dare say that such a system is agreeable to God?

Competition is antagonistic to the Christian ideal—brotherly love.

Competition makes a farce of God's commandment, "Love thy neighbor as thyself." Competition in itself is a sin. Sin breeds sin. He who sanctions and tries to perpetuate sin, sins. He who upholds a competitive system, as our present social order is, makes a mockery of the teachings of Jesus Christ. He who says that we should be satisfied with competition should beware, for that man laughs in the face of God. How can one who professes to be a representative of our Father in Heaven support such a devilish, un-Christian institution as the competitive, capitalistic, gold-worshiping system we are now tied to.

The only remedy for present evils offered by Cardinal Gibbons, is regulation of the trusts. This is indeed ridiculous. Leaving out the seriousness of the matter it becomes laughable. Why, Cardinal Gibbons, regulation is a failure. Every one knows that. There is only one way to regulate anything properly, and that is by owning it. Big business has long ago found that out. It has come to the conclusion that the best way to regulate its small competitors is by gobbling them up and owning them. The trusts are putting an end to competition through regulation by ownership.

Now the question is, shall we allow the trusts to monopolize all and also regulate us or shall we regulate the trusts by owning them ourselves?

That is the issue.

Competition will pass away in spite of the protection it is receiving from certain reactionary hypocrites.

If Cardinal Gibbons would devote more time to economic and social problems, and less time to trying to please the money powers, he would be in a better position to give moral and spiritual advice.

The environment of his eminence is against him. His associates are wealthy, and he finds it to his interests to say only that which pleases them. Competition is healthy for Cardinal Gibbons because he is at the top. But while he continues to hang onto the present system, we Socialists will continue to work for its destruction so that we will have a better opportunity for healthy brains, healthy bodies, healthy souls, and healthy surroundings. The Cardinal and his dollar-seeking cronies may keep their healthy purses which have been obtained off the surplus produced by the working class.

Cardinal Gibbons, take your choice—Competition and hell or co-operation, and in time a "Kingdom of Heaven on Earth."

SOCIALIST CANDIDATE REPLIES TO HAMILTON COUNTY VOTERS' LEAGUE.

The Voters' League of Hamilton County sent to C. E. Ruthenberg, Socialist candidate for governor, a request for information in regard to his personal qualifications for that position. The following is Comrade Ruthenberg's reply:

Hamilton County Voters' League,
Cincinnati, Ohio.

Gentlemen:

I have your letter asking for information in regard to my qualifications for the office for which I am a candidate. You say in your letter that your purpose for asking for information in regard to various candidates is to acquaint yourselves "with that information which will enable us to vote intelligently and judiciously at the coming election—for those candidates who possess the highest moral, intellectual and political qualifications." While I have no objection to giving you the information you desire, I do not want anyone to vote for me because of "moral, intellectual and political qualifications."

I am the candidate of the Socialist party. This party is organized to bring about a revolutionary change in our industrial system. The Socialist party points out that the evils of our present social system—poverty, child labor, unemployment, political corruption and graft are the result of the ownership by a relatively small group of capitalists of the things upon which all the people are dependent for a livelihood. It says there will be poverty and child labor as long as there is a class which can secure greater profits through the labor of children and through low wages paid their parents; that the profit system must keep in existence a large army of unemployed to use as strike-breakers when the workers try through their industrial power to force better wages and working conditions from the capitalist class; that political corruption will continue so long as there are private interests to prey on the public.

It charges that the profit system is ethically wrong; that all profits, whether in the form of rent, interest or dividends, are the result of the robbery of the working class. Its purpose is to sweep out of existence the evils of the profit system and to end the exploitation of the working class by establishing through the use of the organized power of the working class an industrial democracy in which the people will collectively own and democratically manage the mines, mills and factories, the railroads and other means of social production and distribution. As the candidate of this party I am merely one of the mediums through which those who approved of the principles can express their approval.

Furthermore, if elected to office a Socialist candidate becomes merely the instrument through which the Socialist party administers the office he holds. His work is subject to direction by the party who use the initiative and referendum to express their will. Before the nomination of any Socialist candidate is accepted to the election board he signs his resignation as a candidate and from the office for which he is nominated and a pledge to obey the mandate of the party. In case a violation of the party principles or refusal to obey the party mandates, he authorizes the presentation of his resignation.

Taking these facts into consideration you will readily understand why we do not want any one to cast his ballot for our candidates because of personal qualifications. "In order to vote intelligently and judiciously" so far as the Socialist Party is concerned the members of your organization should read its platform in place of seeking information about its candidates.

Therein we differ from the Republican, Democratic and Progressive Party. Our candidates are not the issue. We ask the approval of our candidates because they are the representatives of a party which is working for a social revolution which alone can solve the industrial problems we are now facing.

A vote for our candidates must be a vote for our principles.

Respectfully yours,
C. E. RUTHENBERG.

HUMANITARIANISM OF THE TYPROGRAPHICAL UNION MOVING PICTURE SUBJECT.

Washington, Oct. 12.—The Thomas A. Edison Company has just released for production in motion picture theaters throughout the United States a film entitled "A Curable Disease." The prominent feature of the pitcure is taken from the Union Printers' Home, at Colorado Springs, Colo. It is a strong, dramatic story, and deals with the "white plague," showing the conditions that arise in the life of a young linotype machine operator who contracts tuberculosis while working on a New York daily. As in nearly all films of this character, there is woven through it a love story. The principal figure is depicted as showing his deep affection for a young girl, and eventually his engagement and preparation for marriage. All goes well until within a few days of the wedding, when the machine operator hears from the doctor that he has become a victim of the dread disease. With the admonition of his medical adviser that he should not marry until cured, he takes advantage of the opportunity, which the International Typographical Union presents to all of its members, by immediately seeking entrance into the Union Printers' Home at Colorado Springs. The film then portrays all of the interesting points in connection with the home, "whose bounty is unpurchasable." The American Federation of Labor has just been notified in advance of the contemplated distribution of the film in order that publicity might be given through the Weekly News Letter to the organizations of labor throughout the country. Local organizations of labor desiring to have this film displayed should consult local moving picture theaters and inform the management of the existence of this film and the company which is in possession of it. A picture of this kind cannot but help to materially assist in informing the general public of the great work which is being done by the trade unions, and which, to a very large extent, is unknown to but very few outside of the trade unions themselves.

With just one lone oScialist in Congress the workers scared Perkins and Roosevelt so bad that they stole a whole lot of the Socialist Party immediate demands. Just to see what will happen let you workers put about twenty in Congress. There would be one awful time in the camp of the capitalist crooks.

Evolutions and Revolutions do not kill institutions—they bury them.

A TARIFF PLANK OF THE BULL MOOSE.

By Robert Hunter.

I find in the platform of the Progressive Party the following rotten timber:

"Primarily the benefit of any tariff should be disclosed in the pay envelope of the laborer."

Now for fraud, deceit, delusion, trickery and hokuspokus, I have never seen the equal of that.

I am willing to credit the leaders of the Progressive Party with the most stupendous ignorance the world has ever known, but I can't let ignorance cover that.

The Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, Theodore Roosevelt, George W. Perkins and Frank Munsey all know that that plank is 24-carat fraud.

When Andy Carnegie wanted a high tariff he bribed labor leaders to come to Washington to plead for a high tariff. They told the committees in Washington that Labor demanded protection from foreign labor, and that a high tariff would give it.

Well, the Steel Trust got protection and with each year of protection the pay envelope of the steel-worker grew thinner and thinner.

Two highly protected industries are steel and textiles.

If you will read the Pittsburg Survey you will find that in the steel industry the wages approach the point of starvation.

Last spring there was a strike in the textile trades in Lawrence, Mass. Did you read the scale of wages paid there? And did you examine the pay envelope of the workers in that trade?

A tariff may be good or bad; it may or may not generally benefit the community, but no tariff that was ever made had the slightest effect upon the actual contents of the pay envelope.

A tariff may affect the cost of living, but it will not raise wages in any industry. You could put a tariff of a million per cent on steel and it wouldn't raise wages one penny.

Go to Pittsburg or to Lawrence. Go and watch the child laborers that work in the South. Go and visit the hovels of the miserable toilers in Birmingham, Alabama and you will learn volumes on how the tariff does not affect the pay envelope.

Most political lies have some justification; most political deceits have some debatable points, but this plank is the sheerest and nakedest fraud that I have ever seen.

There is just one thing that can raise wages, and that is trade union organization.

The highest wages in this country are in the building trades, and those high wages are due to trade union organization.

To be sure highly skilled men may keep up wages without organization because skill is a barrier that performs the same service as organization.

Everybody can't take a skilled job and therefore highly skilled workers suffer little competition. But where great skill is not required the only thing than can affect the pay envelope of the worker is a powerful labor organization.

If the steel workers' union had kept out of the hands of Andrew Carnegie and free from the corruption of certain Pennsylvania bosses that union would have raised wages—tariff or no tariff. Wages would have marched up with the growing power of trade organization.

This tariff plank is intended of course to catch the Labor vote. It is intended to deceive the mass of working men. It is a plea to their self-interest. It is the full dinner-pail business all over again.

But, fortunately, even working men are beginning to think! And they remember—remember, for instance, Homestead and Bethlehem and Lawrence.

CHILDREN OF THE LOOMS.

By William Francis Barnard.

Oh, what are these that plod the road
At dawn's first hour and evening's chime,
Each back bent as beneath a load;
Each sallow face afoul with grime?
Nay, what are these whose little feet
Scarce bear them on to toil or bed!
Do hearts within their bosoms beat?
Surely, 'twere better they were dead.

Babes are they, doomed to cruel dooms,
Who labor all the livelong day;
Who stand beside the roaring looms
Nor ever turn their eyes away;
Like parts of those machines of steel;
Like wheels that whirl, like shuttles thrown;
Without the power to dream or feel;
With all of childishness unknown.

Brothers and sisters of the flowers,
Fit playmates of the bird and bee,
For you grow soft the springtime hours;
For you the shade lies 'neath the tree.
For you life smiles the whole day long;
For you she breathes each breath in bliss,
And turns all sound into a song;
And you, and you are come to this!

Is't not enough that man should toil
To fill the hands that clutch for gold?
Is't not enough that women moil,
And in life's summertime grow old?
Is't not enough that death should pale
To see men welcome him as rest;
But must the children drudge and fail,
And perish on the mothers' breast?

See, lovers, wed at tender eve;
See, mothers, with your new-born young;
See, fathers—if ye can, believe;
From infant blood, lo, wealth is wrung!
See homes; see towns; see cities; states;
Earth, show it to the skies above!
Lovers who pass through rapture's gates,
Are these, are these your fruits of love?

O man, who boast your lands subdued,
Your conquered air, your oceans tamed,
Who mold all nature to your mood.
Look on these babes and be ashamed!
Dull looks from out each weary face,
Cold words upon each little tongue—
Dead lives that know not childhood's grace,
Grown old before they can be young.

Hear, world of Mammon, brutal, bold,
Gorging with life the maw of greed,
Measuring everything by gold;
The good deed with the evil deed—
The pangs of suffering childhood's
Now coined in coins to fill a purse,
These things shall haunt you everywhere,
And rest upon you for a curse!

BIGGER THAN EVER.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 19.—The United Mine Workers of America continue to grow, and in September, 1912, reached the largest paid-up membership ever recorded in the history of the organization. The high-water mark of the coal diggers is 336,980 members in good standing on September 30, 1912. This vast membership gives added proof of the efficacy of conducting a labor organization along modern business lines. The miners' organization probably has more agreements with employers in force, and more members involved under these agreements than any other organization in the American Federation of Labor. The facility with which these agreements are carried out, and the methods adopted to carry into effect their provisions, as well as to protect every interest of the miners, has secured for the United Mine Workers stability, power, and influence which is of inestimable value in dealing with the coal operators of this country. Unorganized coal fields are being constantly invaded and year by year the nonunion coal miners in large numbers are taking their position with the organized miners of America.

THE ISSUES.

What are the real issues in this campaign? This is the question being asked by thousands of thoughtful voters from one end of the land to the other. Tariff, trusts, high cost of living, honesty in politics are among the most discussed. Congress is stirring up the country by showing who furnished the funds in the campaigns of 1904 and 1908 and the nominating campaign of 1912. When you look over the list of "patriots" (?) who are furnishing the funds for the capitalist parties you can readily tell who said parties are controlled by. Judge W. S. Metz of Wyoming once said to me in reply to a query, "The Democrat party is in favor of a tariff for revenue and incidentally for protection, while the Republican party is in favor of a tariff for protection and incidentally for revenue." I think this is the best statement of the positions of these parties, on the tariff, I have ever heard. Which side should a workingman waste his time in supporting on the tariff question? Oh, you say, there is a difference on the trust question. To this you will agree. Taft by surrounding himself with a lot of trust attorneys has been busting trusts for the past three years, and every time he "busts" one we pay a higher price for the products of said trust. It required twenty-six cabinet officers to fill the eight positions under Roosevelt, which plainly shows that the Colonel is so changeable that nobody can tell today what he will do tomorrow. Then we have the Professor (Wilson) who in a recent address said he would make the trusts carry the water in their organization as a handicap, but failed to say whether it would be permitted to use a yoke, such as the Chinamen use in Panama, or a goat skin. We will make the prediction right here that if he is elected the trusts will carry their water in the latter and that the workingmen will be the "Goats" that furnish the skins. They offer no remedy for the high cost of living, as every attempt to reduce it would interfere with that sacred thing called "Profits." Mayor Shank of Indianapolis gave a demonstration of how it could be done by reducing the selling price of potatoes from $1.40 to 75 cents per bushel, but his demonstration only lasted until he was seen by the "Powers that be," after which he went out of the "Potato business." But when Mayor Lunn of Schenectady, N. Y., went into the ice business and reduced the price of ice from 40c to 25c per hundred, the combined force of the ice trust and the corrupt supreme court failed to put him out of business. Why was Mayor Shank so easily put out of business and why was Mayor Lunn enabled to withstand the bombarding? Mayor Shank was elected by big and little business men whose sole object is getting "profits," while Mayor Lunn was elected by the workingmen, who earn all these profits which they must give to capitalism. Each of these mayors stuck to the people who they represented. Remember there is but one party which represents the working class in this campaign, and the man who works for a living can only protect himself by casting a straight Socialist vote at the coming election.

A DEBATABLE POINT.

Schrank has a rosary which he refused to part with. He wears it about his neck, tied with a short string. When he was first taken to the county jail he was asked to turn it over to the jailer because it was feared that he might use it to attempt suicide. He protested so vigorously that Sheriff Arnold permitted him to retain it.—N. Y. Tribune News item.

We are unfeignedly glad that this unfortunate man was not deprived of the consolations of religion by the usually heartless and sacrilegious minions of the law. And it is highly satisfactory to know that the respect for sacred things displayed in this case will distinctly assist in dispelling the pessimistic view held in many quarters that this nation is rapidly becoming a godless and secular community and steadily sinking into the mire of infidelity and atheism.

The idea of a man wearing a rosary attempting to commit suicide at all is quite as ridiculous as the idea that he could use it as an instrument for committing suicide. Such people never commit suicide, though it seems they may commit, or at least attempt to commit, other offenses nearly as bad as that of shooting at Theodore Roosevelt.

But suppose Schrank had had a copy of Marx's "Capital" concealed upon his person instead of a rosary, how would it be then? Would the Sheriff have been justified in depriving him of it upon the ground that he might commit suicide with it, by attempting to read it and thereby generate a fatal brainstorm?

Of course, the possession of such a book would amply explain his attempt at murder, but it is a highly debatable point if it would necessarily produce suicidal mania as well.

This is a complicated but important question, and should be of the greatest possible interest to all who desire the discussion of a "Live Issue."

The admission that Dan Hanna had put up $177,000 for the Bull Moose organization, and wanted to get control of the Republican organization and have another such organization as his father had, is about enough to satisfy many Ohio Progressives that what Dan Hanna wants and Walter Brown is trying to buy is something real Progressives don't want at all.—Citizen.

The Socialist rises to ask as to how much of that $177,000 it took to buy some of the noble patriots (?) who are howling so loudly for the Progressive party in Franklin County. Men like Mal Karshner and Tom Clark are not in business for their health.

UP GOES THE COST OF LIVING.

Up! Up! Up!

That's the story of the cost of living, as every housewife and family man knows, and as the bureau of commerce and labor at Washington has just shown once more in two bulletins just issued.

The average increases in the cost of food between the years 1890 and 1912 is approximately 30 per cent. The increase in the price of meats amounts to nearly 65 per cent.

Between 1890 and 1911 the increases are as follows:

Meats, 62.3 per cent; lard, 47.5 per cent; hens, 47.5 per cent; wheat flour, 16.1 per cent; corn meal, 45.3 per cent; eggs, 49.8 per cent; butter, 32.4 per cent; potatoes, 44 per cent; sugar, 2, and milk, 32.2 per cent.

Increases Over 1911.

The increases in prices of 1912 over those of 1911 are:

Meats, 13.3 per cent, bacon being the only meat which has decreased, the price having declined one-tenth of 1 per cent during the year; lard, 11.3; hens, 3-8; wheat flour, 10.7; cornmeal, 127.; eggs, 11.8 per cent; butter, 16.3 per cent; potatoes, 7.6 per cent; sugar, 5, and milk, 2.4 per cent.

The chief reasons given for these increases are the desertion of the agricultural industries by the people and the middle man's profit.

Fifteen most important articles of food, as well as coal, comprising two-thirds of a workingman's needs, were investigated by the bureau. In many cities the investigators gathered statements of merchants on the cost of living and specimens of these are published in the report.

During the last decade prices of potatoes changed most and sugar least. Their advance were 111.9 and 8.5 per cent, respectively.

Bacon Shows Decline.

During the last year bacon, which decreased just one-tenth of one per cent, was the only one of the 15 principal articles of food that showed a decline in price, while nine of the 15 advanced more than 10 per cent. Of the 15 only eggs, butter, milk and sugar were lower, but the price of three of these is normally lower during summers than during winters.

Coal Also Advances.

Coal also advanced considerably in some cities. The price of April 15 as compared with a year before was higher for Pennsylvania anthracite, stove size, in 38 out of 39 cities from which reports were secured, and there was no change in the price of the remaining four cities.

The net prices of gas for household use on April 15, compared with the previous year, showed that reductions ranged from 5 to 15 cents for manufactured gas among 54 companies in 36 cities and practically unchanged among the natural gas plants.

Congressman Ned Taylor, who is a candidate for a fifth term as the representative from this district, says he has no solution for the high-cost-of-living problem. The Socialist party has a solution and Comrade J. L. Bachman is our candidate for Congress. He has been presenting the Socialist solution to the public for years. Now we propose to send him to Washington to voice the mandate of the party in the capitol.

Boosters' Department

By F. E. JOHNSTON

"If I thought that Socialism was right I would vote for it, if I was the only one voting for it in this country." So spoke a young business man in conversation last week. Such men are honorable antagonists, and prove that the only thing, the most necessary thing to do is to educate the people to the principles for which we stand.

There are hundreds of thousands of people in this country who honestly believe that Socialism is wrong, but the moment that we can convince them that Socialism is right, that it is the only remedy for the ills that now afflict society, just that soon will they line up with us, and fight with us, side by side, for the emancipation of the human race.

There is a great moral proposition involved in this movement. In a sense it is a great moral uplift. It is going to place the world on a higher plane of morality and civilization than we have ever known. The human race, under the beneficent influence of Socialism, will rise to heights undreamed of. Nothing can stop us. The world is ours. On to victory.

Now, Comrades, let us all boost the circulation of this paper. Everyone should turn in at least one sub. next week. Roll 'em in. We will take care of them.

In making purchases don't fail to purchase from those merchants using our columns and give them red tickets or notify them why you purchased from them. This is one of the best weapons at our command to support our own paper.

Comrades: Enclosed find 80c in stamps and 80 names. You know the rest for Oct. 19th. There is something doing or going to be done about the 5th of November. I can't make much noise, as I am but R. F. D. carrier, so please don't expose me.

Judge from the way the above Comrade is working he is making about the biggest noise in his end of the state. In fact, about Nov. 5th the echo will be heard around the world.

Judging from the work now going on throughout the state, the Plutes will get a drubbing Nov. 5th that will make them yelp. On to the State House, and from there to the White House.

SOCIALIST VICTORY COMPLETE IN BATTLE FOR FREE SPEECH; STRIKE SPREADS AT LITTLE FALLS, N. Y.

Little Falls, N. Y., Oct. 21.—The free speech fight in this city which arose but of the arrest of Mayor George R. Lunn, the Socialist executive of Schnectady, when he attempted to address a meeting of strikers of the Phoenix Knitting Mills in Clinton Park last Tuesday, has been won by the Socialists.

The temporary suspension by the officials of this city and Herkimer County of the constitutional right of freedom of speech, and assemblage was lifted today when a meeting which was held in Clinton Park under the auspices of the State Executive Committee of the Socialist party, and at which Charles Edward Russell, Socialist candidate for Governor; Gustave Strebel, candidate for Lieutenant Governor; Carrie Allen, candidate for Secretary of State; Henry L. Slobodin, candidate for Attorney General; Mayor Lunn and John T. Vaughan, a Socialist State organizer, spoke.

Fully 1000 persons were on hand to give the Socialist free speech fighters a rousing reception. Each speaker was greeted enthusiastically, and the remarks of the speakers were met with frequent outbursts of applause. It was an indisputable indication of the fact that the people of this city have been and are with the Socialists in their fight for the right of free speech and assemblage.

James Barry, one of Lunn's attorneys, and candidate for County Judge on the Socialist ticket in Schenectady, presided at the meeting.

The local authorities did not even make an attempt to prevent the holding of the meetings. It is more than evident that they are mighty glad that an avenue out of the fight which they precipitated has presented itself.

In his speech, Mayor Lunn declared that the Socialists had won a big victory for free speech. He reiterated that the cause of the strikers in the Phoenix Mills is a just one and that he is today as ready to aid them as he was when he came here last Tuesday. All the other speakers echoed his remarks. A collection was taken up for the strikers.

A great many Socialists and persons who have been following the course of the free speech fight here came to today's meeting from different points nearby. Sprinkled liberally throughout the crowd were persons who were wearing the red buttons of the Socialist party or Socialist campaign buttons.

The speakers were unsparing in their criticism of the authorities who had attempted, though unsuccessfully, to suspend the Constitution in Little Falls.

The likelihood of a strike in the local textile mills before the week is out is increasing momentarily. Throughout the entire section of the State the spirit of discontent is prevalent among the textile workers. When the impending strike occurs, it will involve not less than 20,000 persons.

The strikers have prepared formal demands which will be presented to the mill owners soon.

You workers have often heard about the "mistakes of Moses," but did you ever hear about the mistakes of the "Good Friends of Labor"? You fellows want to read a working class aper—The Toilers' Defense—and get sent.

USE THE RED TICKET.

The Socialist has distributed thousands of red tickets to our readers and has more to be given out. When you buy anything from a dealer who advertises in this paper, hand him the red ticket. He will understand it. The time has come when the purchasing power of the working class must be used to boost its own paper. Get busy with the red tickets.

A TARIFF FOR PROFIT STORY DURING THE TAFT ADMINISTRATION.

A large family living on the brink of want in a rural district of this grand old state (Ohio) was informed late Saturday night that the preacher would take dinner with them after services Sunday morning, the services being held in an old church about a mile from the large family's home. The family, not having any meat or yellow-legged chicken, decided to send the boys out bright and early Sunday morning to dig out a groundhog. The boys dug out several holes, but failed to get the meat they were after, so they became desperate, as th time was fast approaching when Mr. Groundhog should be on cooking. So they finally located a hole where the indications looked favorable for the much-wanted groundhog, the hole being on the roadside. The boys get busy as tropers digging out this hole, when the preacher (unknown to the boys) came driving along and stopped to inquire why the boys were working on Sunday. Boys said: We are digging out a groundhog. Preacher said: Do you think you will get him? Boys said: Get him, hell-and-damn-nation, have to get him; preacher is coming and we have no meat. The preacher drove on towards the boys' home ignorant of the fact that he could help the family more by preaching tariff for revenue rather than tariff for profit and hell and damnation fire and brimstone in the other world.

AN OLD MOSSBACK AWAKE.

Me for the Socialist platform.

COXEY AT NELSONVILLE.

Nelsonville, O., Oct. 14, 1912.

The Socialist, Columbus, O.

Local Buchtel and Local Nelsonville celebrated Socialist Sunday with no less a personage for speaker than General Coxey of "good roads" fame, who spoke in Buchtel in the afternoon and at Nelsonville at night.

After hearing the forceful argument of Comrade Coxey, one would suspect that the boy who laid down the red hot horseshoe without being told, was a philosopher as compared with the voter who, after hearing Coxey's address, could still adhere to the old Repubocrat party.

When Coxey ran for Governor he advocated the I. and R. and now after many days the bread he cast upon the waters at that time has returned and we have the I. and R. written in our State oCnstitution.

Coxey flayed the upholders of the present system in good style. He delivered solar plexus blows to Teddy of the Steel trust and to Woody of the Tobacco trust. He showed up the Bull Moose Roosevelt and the Bull Durham Wilson. He turned the lime-light on Bryan and did not forget our State Senators, some of whom are in the pen and others on the way. It looks like present developments may lead up to the conclusion that we sent the wrong crowd to the State House; that it would be an improvement to put the convicts in the State House and the Senators in the pen. An anarchist is a person who does not respect the law. If we have illegally made lawmakers, the laws they made should be sent to the pen along with them before we all become anarchists.

When Coxey went to Washington he was put in jail, but the next time we go they will put us in the White House.

A chicken has more sense than the average man. The chicken breaks its own way out of the shell; a man waits for some one else to do it. That is wrong, for in breaking the shell the man inside may get such a clout on the head that it will knock his brains out.

The Athens County locals, thirteen in all, are going to have a rally in Athens, November 2d, where Comrade Coxey will be the speaker for the occasion.

W. W. GREEN.

The heirs of the William Monypeny estate have filed the deeds with the county recorder for the property on High Street, corner of Poplar Avenue, 185 feet on High and 140 feet on Poplar, to J. A. Metcalf, President of The Capitol Clothing Co. This is the only mercantile establishment in the United States with a capitol dome, an exact reproduction of the Capitol at Washington. On the dome there are 1000 electric lights and when lighted up presents a most beautiful display. Mr. Metcalf is proud of the fact that it was the workingmen of Ohio who made it possible for him to build this building and that is it State-wide known as The Greatest Workingman's Store in Ohio.

You workers should take a lesson from the "tumble bug." It's more push your need at election time.

Ignorance is said to be bliss. That no doubt is the reason why the average voter is so supremely happy.

The workingman is everybody's friend but his own. It's time that he wakens up to his own interests.

Just as long as you offer girls rags and poverty for honest labor, and luxury for the sale of their virtue, you will not do away with prostitution.

A hungry man, willing to work and who is unable to find employment, is an indictment of the system that breeds millionaires and tramps.

Some fellows that yap about what Socialism is, know about as much about the principles of Socialism as a dead Tom cat knows about short division.

"Friendly Day" is drawing near, and the slick old party politician is about shaking hands. You see they need the votes of labor to help land them next to some political graft.

TUBERCULOSIS SUNDAY TOMORROW

Typographical Union Asks Ministers to Aid in Fighting White Plague.

Consumption kills 900,000 people a year in the United States, or one every three minutes. It kills one-tenth to one-seventh of all our people. It kills one-third of all who die between the ages of 15 and 45. It costs in dollars and cents over $500,000,000 a year, in the loss of life and labor to the United States. Not less than 1,000,000 people, it is estimated, in this country are now suffering from it. Among the most important predisposing causes are bad living and working conditions. Tomorrow is to be observed as Tuberculosis Sunday.

The day is to have national observance. The International Typographical Union has given the day special notice. This union has been one of the most active crafts or organizations in the country in attempting to stamp out tuberculosis. For many years the printers have maintained an international home at Colorado Springs for those of the craft who have been stricken with the great white plague.

Columbus Typographical Union No. 5 is endeavoring to get the ministers of Columbus to give the occasion special attention by giving sermons upon the subject.

ARE YOU HONEST AND SINCERE?

By John M. Work.

If so, you should be a member of the Socialist Party.

The Republican, Democratic and so-called Progressive parties are neither honest nor sincere.

Each of them pretends to be run in the interest of the common people.

And each of them is in fact run for the benefit of the capitalist parasites, big and little.

In each of them a public office is a private snap. Men seek the offices, instead of letting the offices seek them.

These officeseekers constitute one of the most nauseating nuisances of the age. They display the most unlimited gall and shameless selfishness in imposing themselves upon a long suffering people. They make false and hollow pretenses of standing for the public good. The public good is in fact the least of their troubles. Their object is to secure the spoils of office and feather their own nests. There is no deception so low that they will not stoop to it in order to secure a nomination or to fool the people into voting for them. They are blatant demogogues. They get their campaign funds from the capitalists. They are the political representatives of the capitalists. They talk mighty big and do mighty little.

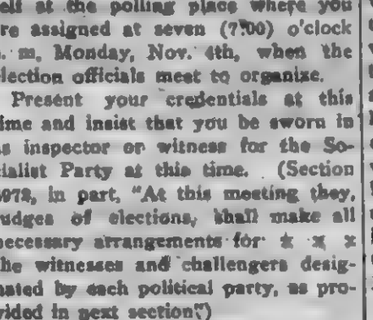
They are not honest and sincere.

On the other hand, the rank and file of the Republican, Democratic and alleged Progressive parties are for the most part honest and sincere men and women.

They ought to vote for an honest and sincere party.

During the past few years, thousands of men and women who have the real good of humanity at heart have been thinking about public affairs. In the libraries the books on civics, sociology and economics have been in constant demand. These people have been groping—groping toward the light. Thousands of them have found it. They have come into the Socialist movement.

There is no other place for an honest and sincere person to land, if he investigates and tries to find out the truth.



Millions of honest and sincere people are still groping. They, too, will find Socialism and adopt it in due time.

Sham, pretense and hypocrisy can hold sway for a long time. But the truth always puts them to rout in the end.

A paid-up membership of 338,980 on September 30th, in the U. M. W. of A., is a hot answer to Divine Right Baer that the miners have no organization worth talking of. The coal operators have another think coming when it comes to "busting" the mine workers' organization.

Pigs are Pigs. And men are men. But there is a vast difference between pigs and some men. All men are supposed to have brains, but we seriously doubt that ALL MEN have brains, especially after reading some of the stuff that is put up as an argument against Socialism.

SOCIALISTS IN ACTION

News from the World-Wide Movement of the Workers

NEWS FROM NATIONAL SOCIALIST HEADQUARTERS

The National Office recently received a gift of forty-seven dollars' worth of gold dust from Local Deadwood, Alaska, to assist in defraying organizing expenses in that territory. After placing the curiosity on display, it was turned into cash.

Local Portland, Ore., has sent to the National Office the sum of $103.60 for the Ettor-Giovannitti defense fund. The amount was the result of a collection taken at a meeting attended by about 3000 people.

State Secretary Dietz, of Louisiana, reports nine locals with a total of 82 members organized in that state during the month of September.

State Secretary Stewart, of Idaho, reports as follows:

"O. F. Palmerton has been expelled from the party for taking subscriptions for 'The Inland Empire Echo' and failing to turn in the money, borrowing property and not returning it, attempting to take a part of collection and literature from a fellow Comrade, registering at hotels as other Comrades and causing much disruption in the movement."

J. E. Snyder is of the opinion that the five or six months' organizing campaign in the South, which he has been carrying on in co-operation with the other Southern organizers and the state secretaries, will result in at least three hundred locals.

An intellectual prodigy at Rochester, N. Y., has sent the National Office a copy of "The Growing Grocery Bill," with the followingg illuminating comment written through it on the margins of the page:

"All lies. Neither Morgan, Rockefeller or Armour are any more responsible for the growing grocery bill than you or I. If a lot of you ranting Socialistic fools would get to work and produce instead of consume, the price of groceries would come down. Dr. Crapsey is one of them. Were ten farmers instead of one producing, the grocery bill would be less and you know it as well as I. The people of the United States are paying more for what they do not get any return from than what they do. For instance, they are supporting a lot of ranters who go about devouring the earnings of the wage earners and produce nothing. If you fellows lived up to the ten commandments and the sermon on the mount, there would be less trouble and more peace and prosperity."

Too bad that a million and a half copies of this book have been put into circulation.

After receiving this body blow, the National Office is all up in the air as to whether it should go out of business or not.

A COMPANION TO TRUTH.

A Boy's Estimate of Eugene V. Debs. By Robert Hunter.

I remember as a little lad of eight or nine years, walking with my father in one of the streets of Terre Haute. A tall, slender, handsome young man stopped to talk with my father. At first I was fascinated by the way they grasped hands and looked into each other's eyes. I was then impressed by their animated conversation. But they talked on and on until it seemed to me hours in length; and finally I began to tug at my father's coat-tails, urging him to come on. After awhile they parted, and my father said to me very seriously, "You should not interrupt me, Robert, when I am talking. That young man is one of the greatest souls on this earth, and you should have listened to what he said."

From time to time afterward I heard of 'Gene, and many were the stories told of him. Everyone spoke of his friendship for the poor. He could not keep money in his pocket. His wife says he always gives away his clothes to those who come to his door; and he gives his best suits, never his old ones.

Once I was told he had a gold watch of considerable value which had been given to him, and a fireman who had been out of work for some time stopped to say that he had a job offered him on the railroad, but he would have to have a watch before he could go to work. Immediately 'Gene took out his gold watch and gave it to the man, telling him to return it when he was able to buy one for himself.

These and countless other stories are told by his fellow-citizens. Many of them do not understand Gene. His views and his work they cannot comprehend, but every man, woman and child in that town loves him with a devotion quite extraordinary.

They say that a prophet is without honor in his own country, but in Terre Haute you will find that however they misunderstand the work that Gene is doing there is not one who does not honor and love him.

Ask anyone. Go to the poor, the vagrant, the hobo. Go to the churches, to the rich, to the banker, to the traction magnate. You will find that every single one will say that Gene has something which other men do not possess. Some will say he is rash, unwise and too radical. Others will say that he is too good for this world, and that his visions and dreams are the fanciful outpourings of a generous but impractical soul. But ask them about his character, his honesty, his sincerity, and unconsciously many of them will remove their hats.

Some of these estatements will seem an exaggeration. But one cannot avoid that in speaking of Gene. When one who knows him makes any statement, no matter how moderate, it will seem to others who do not know him an exaggeration.

Gene has followed Truth wherever she has led. He does not ask what is politic, what is wise, what is expedient; he only asks what is truth. He loves Truth beyond all things. She is his absolute mistress, and he has gone with her from riches to poverty, from popularity to unpopularity. He has gone with her out of great positions into small positions. He has stood up for her against all men. For her he has seemed at times to sacrifice all earthly gain and to accept without one pang of regret misunderstanding, misrepresentation and almost universal condemnation. For her he has been momentarily one of the most popular men in the country, and for her he has been momentarily one of the most unpopular men in the country. He has been her companion when everyone believed in her, and he has been her companion when to believe in her meant to go into prison stripes, behind iron bars.

Sometimes I have differed with Gene. I have said to him that what he was doing was unwise, impolitic, dangerous. At such times, under such criticism, he is always kindly but undeterred; and it is his conscience that answers you back and asks, "But is it right? Is it true?"

Shortly after I left college I went to live in one of the most poverty-stricken districts in Chicago. One Sunday it was announced that Eugene would come there to speak. Thousands came to hear him, and overflowing the hall a multitude waited outside to hear him speak from a truck. After waiting for two hours, perhaps, Gene came out and began to speak. Most of the audience were foreigners who could hardly understand a word of English, and as I heard his beautiful words and saw their wistful, earnest faces I felt that something more powerful, penetrating and articulate than words was passing between the audience and the speaker. For a moment it seemed to me that a soul was speaking from the eyes and frame of Gene, and that, regardless of difference of language and all the traditional barriers that separated him from the multitude about him, they understood and believed all he said. I remember how my heart beat and how tears began to flow from my boyish eyes. I was ashamed for fear some one would see me. And it was not because of anything that Gene was saying. It was solely because of something back of the man, something greater than the man, something bigger, more powerful, and more moving than any words or expression. And after the thing was over I went to him, helped him on with his coat, and fondled him as I would my own brother. And as we went away together there kept coming into my heart the words of Ruth:

"Entreat me not to leave thee or to return from following after thee. For whither thou goest I will go, and whither thou lodgest I will lodge. Thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God."

THE BOOMING CAMPAIGN. FAITH AND FUNDS. By Carl D. Thompson.

The present campaign has outdone our faith and our funds.

We had faith in the opportunity and faith in the membership of the party. Both have made good.

We took the measures as best we could beforehand. And we measured big. But the opportunity is proving far greater than we dreamed.

We decided to make literature the special feature of the campaign.

The party had given us the best platform that has ever been written in America. Debs and Seidel gave us the best letters of acceptance that ever presidential candidates put forth. Then one after another of our writers put out the best that was in them.

So we printed literature.

Not by the ten thousand.

We printed by the hundred thousand and by the million.

But the way the Socialists of this country have fed that literature to these United States is a marvel.

They fed from both sides without cutting the bands. They fed it in single pieces, in thousand lots, by the wagon load.

And always came back for more.

There's the rub—they came back for more. And here we are today with a month of the campaign still left—and our orders for literature still piling up—and sure to increase.

We have gone the limit. The funds do not keep up with the demand.

Comrades, what shall we do?

Shall we open the throttle or shall we not?

Shall we give them more?

We should have at least $10,000 more to supply all the literature the Comrades need and can use and to finish up the tours of our candidates and speakers—which have also been by far the most successful and effective ever attempted or possible.

Shall we plunge ahead?

Shall we keep our armies supplied?

The regiments need powder. They are shouting at us out of a thousand letters; over a hundred wires; like strong men who run a race, "Give us literature—more literature"?

Shall we give it them?

Dollars and dimes say "Yes."

Silence says "No."

Send your contribution to the Socialist National Campaign Committee, Chicago, Ill.

WHO CONTRIBUTES THE CAMPAIGN FUNDS.

All the capitalist parties are having a merry time, each seeking to outdo the other in their charges against each other of serving special interests, how each have received their campaign fund from the Morgans, Ryans and Belmonts, Standard Oil and like interests.

It is gratifying to note that there is one party who asks nothing from those interests, and were such a thing to happen—that any of such interests did contribute to their fund—they would refuse to accept it, THAT party is the SOCIALIST Party.

A political party refusing money because it does not consider the givers of it, nor the purpose in giving it clear, is a strange thing. There is no mere speculation about this, however. It is a fact. The Socialist Party has returned donations, in the past, to persons who contributed because they considered it tainted, and would do it in any campaign for the same reason. The party sails under no false colors. "NO COMPROMISE" is its motto. The Socialist Party—there is stands! The Party of the Working Class.

The workers are beginning to appreciate the need of financing the party of their class as is shown by the response coming from the appeal made by the Campaign Committee to the unions. Local unions of every craft are donating money to the Socialist National Campaign fund. The Brewery Workers' Union, in convention at Denver, voted One Thousand Dollars, and the daily mail brings donations from the Miners, Molders, Machinists, Blacksmiths, Car Workers, Printers, Pressmen, Carpenters, Bookbinders, Shoe Workers, Brewery Workers, Plasterers, Switchmen, Cigar Makers, Painters, Iron Workers and others—not in large sums, but each a testimony to the growing political solidarity of the working class. Donations are also being received from the Workmen's Sick and Death Benefit Society, the Workmen's Circle and other fraternal organizations of the workers. The Socialist campaign is surely a tremendous one. Tons of literature are being sent out from the headquarters of the Committee, made possible by these contributions.

Any local labor union that has not contributed, desiring to aid in this campaign of education, should hurry its assistance to the campaign committee.

Every penny received is published in the Monthly Bulletin of the party, showing where the funds come from and how expended. This is as it should be and ought to be gratifying to the workers to know that one political party has nothing to conceal. It can truly be charged that the Socialist party stands for the working class. The party will admit the charge.

Every indication warrants the belief that the Socialist Party will make wonderful gains in this election, and that the literature of the working class might be sent all over the nation. The awakened intelligent worker, by and through his organization, is doing his part to that end by contributing to the Socialist Party.

The money should be sent to the undersigned.

GRABOW "CONSPIRACY"

At 11:40 a. m. Monday morning, October 7th, in the District Court of Calcasieu Parish, Louisiana, Judge Winston Overton presiding, began the trial of President A. L. Emerson, Organierd Ed. Lehman, John Helton, R. H. Chatman, Edgar Hollingsworth, Louis Brown, Jack Payne, Ed. Ezell and C. Havens, the nine members of the Brotherhood of Timber Workers the Southern Lumber Operators' Association has picked out to victimize in order to crush Unionism throughout the South. The whole of the first day was taken up in preparation and in a fight made by Judge E. T. Hunter, leading counsel for the defense, for time, about two weeks, in which to ask the Supreme Court of Louisiana for a writ of mandamus setting aside the District Court's order severing the cases of the nine men on trial from the balance of their 55 brothers who had been indicted jointly with them for "conspiracy to murder." The Court admitted Judge Hunter's contention correct law, but refused to grant the petition, mainly on the ground that it would be impossible to try the 58 accused all together, because the law gave them 1044 challenges. Judge Hunter pointed out to the Court that that was not the fault of the accused, that they had not indicted themselves and were not responsible for the blunders of District Attorney Joseph Moore or for those of the persecuting Attorney for the Southern Lumber Operators' Association, Congressman A. P. Pujo, but the Court still refused and ordered the nine men to trial for the murder of the Lumber Trust gunman A. P. Vincent, who was killed in the battle at Grabow, La., when the mass meeting of the Brotherhood and its farmer allies was fired on from ambush by the private thug army of the Association on the 7th of last July.

The whole of the 8th passed with no juror accepted. The only excitement occurring during the day being Judge Hunter's first romping of the Burns Detective Agency, which sent a thrill over the whole audience and brought the first cry of "Order in Court" from the sheriff. There was nothing else of interest, except the evident intention of several Association suckers to do their best to get on the jury, many of them testifying that they had hardly heard anything of the case, were not prejudiced, even against Emerson, and this though they lived in the heart of the "infected territory," as the Association calls Union county, worked for such notorious labor haters as the Industrial and Long-Bell Lumber Companies, were or had been members of that lawless organization called "The Law and Order League" and "Knew what their bosses" wanted done with the boys. All failed, however, and public sentiment beginning to grow, none have since shown the same eagerness. Judge Overton put most of them out of the jury box on his ruling, announced at the beginning of the trial, that he would allow no one to serve on the jury who was a member of the Association or in such a position as to be under its domination, or who was a member of the Brotherhood.

The morning session of the 9th saw the first juror accepted, John Hagin, farmer, who entered the box at 10:25 a. m. The second juror, Albert Derouen, farmer, was accepted at 11:20 a. m. The third juror, S. W. Mack, farmer, at 2:30 p. m. At 3 p. m. the panel of jurors was exhausted, and Judge Overton adjourned court until 9 a. m. of the 10th, after ordering Sheriff Reid to summons 288 de tailbus jurors for service.

On the evening of the 9th, Judge Hunter charged the Burns Detective Agency with trying to fix the jury. This was the first real sensation of the trial. Persecuting Attorney Pujo was immediately on his feet wildly protesting against Judge Hunter's fierce assault, proclaiming Burns a tin angel of purity, the saviour of society and demanding that the "Old Roman" produce "proof" of his charges ,this tho' Burns' local manager had sat back of the Prosecution all during the trial with a list of some sort in his hands, which he consulted every time a fresh set of jurors entered the box, mysteriously whispering to the State every time a doubtful juror was under examination. W. R. Kinney, the Burns manager, also protested his innocence and the saintship of his "valiant" chieftain, but has not been one-half so cocky since the old Judge "broke loose." Every time Judge Hunter rises now and says, "Yo' Honor," the Prosecution and Persecuting Attorneys go up in the air, for the Judge is fighting this case with as consummate ability as even Clarence Darrow has ever fought in Court, not even excepting the great battle for the life and liberty of Wm. D. Haywood.

The session of the 10th was decidedly interesting. On that day, for the first time in its nefarious history, the Burns Detective Agency was made to "take water," Judge Hunter having driven them into a corner and brought them begging on their knees. On this day, too, the first American Federation men entered the jury box for examination, but the Prosecution challenged every last one of them, as it did F. M. Dietz, brother of State Secretary Deitz of the Socialist party, the Persecuting Attorney nearly having a fit every time the word "Union" was mentioned. Many jurors were also asked by the Prosecution if they had read "The Rebel," "The Rip-Saw," or "Appeal to Reason;" if they had "heard Emerson, Haywood, Creel or Covington Hall speak." One juror being challenged peremptorily by the State because he had read one copy of "The Rip-Saw." Are we growing, "little brothers of the clod?" Well, it looks so! and we will grow faster than Jack's beanstalk if you will only rush into Secretary Jay Smith, Box 78, Alexandria, La., the funds we so bodly need to defend our brothers now on trial. Lack of funds alone can beat us. Rush them in. We are trying to do our duty down here. Try to do yours out there, and try to do it now, today. Late in the evening two more jurors were accepted in rapid succession, Duffy Holland, farmer, and W. E. Whitfield, furniture salesman, making five in the jury box when court adjourned at 6 p. m.

The biggest thing for the defense, and a thing of grave and vital importance to every labor organization in the jurisdiction of the United States, was also brought out on this day when Judge Hunter forced the State to admit that it "intended to try to convict" the nine men now on trial for "conspiracy (mark this well) to murder" and mainly on "circumstantial evidence." Mark this, all you toilers of America, mark it well: By their own admission they are trying to put Emerson and his associates over on a charge of "conspiracy to murder" and mainly on "circumstantial evidence," and the "murder" they are charged with is the killing of A. P. Vincent, a whiskey-crazed Lumber Trust gunman, who fell while firing right and left into a mass meeting of Union men, women and children with a pump gun loaded with buckshot.

If these nine Union boys can be convicted on such a charge, then no labor Union or political party can hold a public meeting or voice its cause anywhere in the United States, for all the Bosses would have to do to crush opposition would be to have the meeting shot-up, the Unionists arrested, indicted and convicted for "conspiracy." Stop it! and stop it now!

Clan of Toil, awaken!
Rebels of the South, arise!

RIP-SAW MARKET QUOTATIONS—REPORT OF CAPITALIST TRADE IN GENERAL

Both Goldstreet's and Gun's agencies report foreign and domestic exploiting prosperous, with harvest hands, tenant farmers, mill, factory and mine workers furnishing good picking. Gold is quoted high. Human life, below par.

Good, able-bodied male wage slaves continue steady, with supply far above the demand. Prices range from $1.00 to $1.50 per day.

Female factory slaves, adults, in good condition, $4 to $7 per week. Consumptive and old women at $3 to $4.50.

Child slaves, male, ages 6 to 16 years, in good demand and the market strong. Quoted at $1.50 to $3 per week.

Child slaves, female, ages 6 to 16 years, range from $1.25 to $3.50 per week. Market good and supply abundant.

White slaves in big demand—fine specimens quoted from $15 to $100. Procurers report steady trade. Street walkers, worn and diseased, in fair demand, for cheaper trade.

Poisoned food, mostly the benzoate of soda and embalming fluid varieties, steady and demand forced.

Murderers in steady demand with supply getting short. Government making continual bids for young and sound murderers for foreign service in both army and navy. Prices from $16 to $30 per month, with board and clothes, tobacco, booze and religion thrown in.

War material and killing machines in heavy demand. Manufacturers of all sorts of manslaughter implements report brisk trade. Prices steady.

Thugs and gunmen, strikebreakers and strong men active; supply good. Prices steady.

Priests and preachers who cater to the capitalist trade and conform to the market rules in good demand. Chaplains for the killing companies and regiments rating high.

Common, ordinary political liars, with legal training, in good demand, especially for the Chautauqua trade.

Supreme Court judges quoted higher than ever. Market soaring. Prices range from $50,000 to $500,000 for prime articles. Ordinary judges plentiful and in good demand. Prices steady.

Booze, bibles and blundgeons, cannon and rifles, embalmed beef and bullets, religion, delirium tremens and shoddy, all in wholesale consignments for heathen export trade, in heavy demand by missionaries, bible societies and Big Biz Profits large and trade reported brisk.

Chattle mortgage fiends, money sharks and usuers plentiful. Demand steady. Prices high.

American heiresses continue to bull the market for foreign dukes. Quotations run high. Prime stock of dukes with registered pedigree being as high as $10,000,000. Scrub stock, run down and scabby, bring from $20,000 to $100,000. Princes running from one-half to two-thirds royal blood are quoted slightly higher than full-blooded dukes.

The divorce market is quoted steady and easy and doing a big business.

Swindlers and defaulters abundant and supply steadily increasing. Heavy demand.

Disease, insanity and suicide plentiful. This year's crop, from present outlook, heavier than ever before.

Poverty, misery, degradation, hunger, cold and want continue to furnish a large crop of willing wage slaves. Such as not needed are dropped into the criminal and vicious class and generally locked up. Plenty of jails and penitentiaries are being continually constructed.

Superstition, hambug and ignorance reported on the decline, and thus causing some uneasiness among the heavy traders in human flesh. Public schools are largely blamed in some religious quarters for this unfortunate state of affairs.

General poverty still continues to exist among the ones that create all the wealth, and wealth still continues to flourish amon gthose who create all the poverty. Next November the President will issue his regular Thanksgiving proclamation for this prosperous condition of society, and ask that the people in general assemble in their respective places of worship and pray Almighty God for the thing to continue. Fear is expressed in high trading circles and in some religious quarters that the Socialist movement is likely at some future date to interfere with the present divinely ordained system of the human trade market. Outside of this fear conditions are fair to middling.

It has been considered advisable on the part of heavy traders to organize a third political party in order to hold the market steady and help head off the Socialist slump. The wisdom of this move is greatly appreciated by the big traders, gamblers and swindlers. God's blessing, through His regularly ordained priests, has been invoked upon this new party with the same earnestness that has heretofore blessed the two older organizations.

The Venal Press—Hearst Its Prophet.

A crank—a crazy man harboring a supposed dream revelation—attempted to take the life of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt on October 14.

Hearst's paper, the "Chicago Examiner," on Tuesday, October 15, yelps: "This outrage occurred in the city of Milwaukee, the hotbed of Socialist agitation."

It was Hearst who was charged by the Roosevelt administration, when Hearst was a candidate for governor of New York, with having incited the assassination of President McKinley.

It is the old cry of "Stop, thief," and again shows that capitalism and all its divisions unite against Socialism.

Hearst and his class most fear the election of Comrades Berger and Gaylord to congress from Milwaukee. All lies, all frauds, all crimes are therefore justified to prevent the election of working class representatives.

Of all crimes the one most heinous is to poison the minds of the people. That is and has been the specialty of William Randolph Hearst.

GENERAL SOCIALIST NEWS.

Last week municipal elections were held in the state of Connecticut, but the capitalistic press associations had no more to report about the results than if the contests had taken place in Zanzibar. The reason is plain. The Socialists elected every one of the city officials; in Plymouth they elected 14 local officials and came within five votes of beating the Republicans for first place; in Manchester the Socialists elected one candidate and gained 30 per cent, while the gain in Rockville was 25 per cent and in the same proportion in other places. These are the "straw" votes that count for something.

Here are some real straw votes showing which way the wind is blowing as far as the Socialist party is concerned:

Alaska—Where no ticket was in the field four years ago, in the election held in August, cast 1650 votes, running second in a total of 7000.

Vermont—Election held in September registered 1181 Socialist votes as against 547 in 1908.

Maine—Election held in September records 2561 Socialist votes as against 1498 votes in 1910.

Arkansas—Election held in September turns in 13,409 Socialist votes as against 5842 in 1908.

GOOD FOR BAKERS.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 19.—The Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union has, during the fiscal year from Sept. 1, 1912, paid the following benefits to its members: Strike benefits, $22,132; sick benefits, $30,169; death benefits, $4035; for organization, agitation, and educational purposes, $28,484; making a grand total expenditure of over $90,000. During this period 28 new local unions were organized and 4510 new members accepted, with 548,101,500 union bread labels issued. One hundred and fifty-five local unions submitted their working agreements during the period mentioned, and while in some localities strikes had to be resorted to, in others agreements were signed by employers, without any controversy. Day work has been established in a number of smaller cities, while in some of the larger cities the eight-hour day is now in vogue. As a general summary the Bakers' International Union has made splendid progress during the past year, and testifies to the faithfulness, loyalty, and ability of the international officers of that organiation.

THE BLACKS ARE AGAIN AFTER LOCAL DAYTON.

In spite of the facts that the State Executive Committee, dominated by the Kerr-Haywood followers in Ohio had been recalled, the Blacks have initiated and had sent out a referendum to expel Local Dayton from the party organization and certain members in Local Cleveland are behind this effort and they show, as they have for years, a greater desire to rule in party affairs than to help the cause of Socialism.

Local Dayton has never faltered in its activity whether connected with the State organization or not. This latest attempt to discredit a loyal section of the party will fail, for we believe that the membership in Ohio will not stand for such spiteful, vindictive tactics as have been used by members of Local Cleveland.

Every Socialist in Ohio should be fully informed as to the situation before voting upon this referendum. It was a shrewd trick of the "Blacks" to have the Dayton recall sprung just before election when the locals are busy with campaign matters and the membership pays little attention to internal party affairs. The scheme will not work, however.

GENE DEBS WINS RACE.

About 3500 people went to the Driving Park Sunday to see the political burlesque horse races. None were disappointed in the burlesque. In the presidential running race Gene Debs was victor by a large margin, with Taft second, Wilson third and Roosevelt a poor fourth. The match was between four work horses. Debs, the Socialist candidate, could not help but win in a purely working class contest, whether men or horses.

STATE REFERENDUM "E."

Result of Referendum to Recall S. E. C.: Yes, 1080; no, 900.

Thus, by a substantial majority the Ohio Socialists have lined up loyally with the National Socialist movement and rebuked the disruptive tactics and "peanut politics" of the Kerr-Haywood group.

Let every Ohio Socialist realize that our little family squabble can be settled after November 5th. Meantime, we should all work shoulder to shoulder to defeat the common enemy, and elect the entire Socialist ticket from Comrade Ruthenberg down. Press the fight against capitalist! Any local that gets ahead of Local Dayton in this work is going some.—Dayton Socialist.

PROBATE JUDGE BLACK IS CALLED INTO COURT

The Court of Public Opinion Will Rule Upon His Deeds as an Official —A Calm Review of Conduct.

Beginning some time in January, 1912, "The Socialist" has from time to time published some of the official acts of Probate Judge Samuel L. Black. The Socialist ha dealt with his public acts only and have not even intimated any shortcomings as to his personal character, notwithstanding much might have been said along that line. It is very seldom that a man of questionable personal character can be trusted in public office and with this remark we pass up the matter of personalities.

In January we complained about Judge Black sentencing Gladys Crawford and Marie Bartlett to Cincinnati convent without a hearing at which the parents of the girls could be heard. We followed those girls to the convent and finally by a round about course saw the mother of Gladys once more clasp her daughter in her arms after she had by hook or crook gotten the tribute together in the sum of $50, out of which it was said in a letter over the signature of a certain attorney of Columbus, that "Of course Judge Black gets a pull out of this $50," and to this day Judge Black has not denied the "pull." If Judge Black got a pull for letting Gladys out of Price Hull convent, can be complain if we sort of suspicion that he "got a pull" to put Gladys Crawford in the convent?

Because the mother of Marie Baltlett would not join with the mother of Gladys and put up some "dough" Marie is still at Price Hill convent, and we are informed that Marie had her hand mangled in the laundry where she worked here a few days before she was sentenced there, and for want of treatment and care at the convent her fingers were nearly lost and that she had both limbs scalded in the laundry at Price Hill ocnvent and now sits on a chair and sews all day and is compelled to do her work just the same, but the efficient (?) officials in the Department of Inspection of Workshops and Factories know absolutely nothing of the case because he don't inspect religious (?. institutions.

This paper charged Judge Black with sending Joe Myers to the workhouse for one year when he worked for the Bromwell Wire Goods and Brush company for 30 cents per day, while the county of Franklin paid his sick wife and five helpless children 40 cents a day to live on and paid for the bed Joe slept on, the clothes Joe wore and the food Joe ate, and the private corporation above mentioned exploited Joe Myers and his innocent children out of the difference between what Joe's services were worth, say $3.50 per day, and 30 cents per day, being $3.20 each day, taken out of the mouths, the muscle, the brain, the education, the Christianity, the citizenship of those five helpless children and a loving, prayerful mother. Tell us, oh you hypocrites, who is breaking up the homes? Is it the Socialists or is it the saint who calls Socialists infidels, free lovers and anarchists?

This paper has charged Judge Black with sentencing girls to Price Hill, Cincinnati, instead of to the convent at corner of Broad street and Sandusky street, Columbus, Ohio, for no other reaason than to place them beyond the reach of their parents who are too poor to go to see them or put up security for costs in habeas corpus proceedings, the more easily to arrange for "a pull out of a $50 fee, etc.," and have asked Judge Black, through this paper, to tell why he did not send these girls to the convent here and the Probate Judge at Cincinnati send the girls to the convent there, but Judge Black has failed to give any reason, and so he cannot complain if we have a sort of suspicion that there is a "pull" there, and as the old darkey said, he gets "a pull a comin' and again."

This paper charged Judge Black with sending a married woman to the Girls' Industrial School at Delaware without a hearing, while her husband (a railroad man) was out on his trip, and when the husband returned and he and his sister called on Judge Black to secure her release and protest against such outrage, Judge Block threatened to send the husband to the penitentiary and the sister to the workhouse, and only the power of Governor Harmon secured her release after The Socialist had exposed the deal, and Judge Black remains silent as to the charge.

This paper has charged Judge Black with sentencing boys to the Boys' Institution of Slavery at Lancaster, Ohio, for trivial matters, like stealing a bottle of milk and drinking it because he was hungry, without the parents of the boys knowing of it till after they were sentenced and Judge Black remains silent.

This paper has charged Judge Black with bringing both boys and girls before him and compelling them to testify against themselves and if they refused he threatens them with sentence anyway, while the constitution of Ohio says no citizen shall be required to so testify as to incriminate himself, even in a civil case, but in Judge Black's court the unsophisticated children have no constitutional rights which he is bound to respect. Even the Catholic Democrat who shot Roosevelt gets a square deal from the wielder of the Big Stick, but the poor, unfortunate orphan in Judge Black's couurt hear these familiar words: "Oh, yes you do now, you know all about it, come on and tell the whole truth or I will have to send you over." The poor little waif doesn't know there is any constitution for Ohio and Judge Black has forgotten it, if he ever knew it, and so the little fellow comes across and incriminates himself when the law says the state of Ohio assumes every man (yes and baby) is innocent until proven guilty.

Under all these charges Judge Black remains silent and contents himself the last two weeks before election by advocating playgrounds in Columbus for the children in the Price Hill convent at Cincinnati, Ohio, and the boys in the Industrial Home at Lancaster, Ohio. A great idea that, eh, Judge? Leave the children at home and not send them to such institutions of slavery and they will find a playground all right.

This paper charged Judge Black with closing down the juvenile court for selfish motives on his part and on the part of his chief probation officer, Virginia Murray, and proved it when the Socialists of Franklin county offered to take charge of the juvenile court and pay all expenses thereof until the next appropriation was available, and turn the offices over to the next duly elected Probate Judge on January 1, 1913, and by backing up the offer in writing, signed, forced Judge Black and his backers to open up the Juvenile Court within a very few days with donations from Bishop J. J. Hartley, Dennis Kelly, The Catholic Coolumbian, the Hershey Rice Manufacturing Co. and a few more philanthropists who are also supporting Judge Black in his fight for re-election, and the purpose of which is not hard to guess.

Under all of these charges Judge Black has remained silent, but not to be deceived, Judge Black and his supporters will pull off a roor-back at the last minute after this paper has gone to press and unable to answer, in which Socialists will be called all manner of names. But it is for you to remember that Judge Black has had since last January to reply to same charges and all along up til last week. We are publishing no new facts in this issue, as we proposed to give Judge Black ample time before election to answer the charges made against him. He has not done so. If he does after we go to press then he is not honest nor fair with you nor this paper, and deserves defeat on November 5.

SOCIALIST MOVING PICTURES.

The management of the Columbus Theater on High Street, just south of Town Street, has agreed to run all day Monday the moving picture "Debs and Seidel and 100,000" at Riverview Park. This is a picture that all Socialists and their friends should see.

WARNING!

One of the tricks of the old parties is to spring some campaign lie just before election in order to influence a voter against the awakening giant of Socialism. This scheme was worked last fall in the municipal campaign. Just how much it affected the Socialist vote is hard to estimate.

Just now we wish to warn the people against any eleventh-hour stories that may be circulated against the Socialist party, its candidates or workers. The Rep.-Dem.-Prog. bunch will stoop to anything to defeat or discredit Socialists.

BE ON YOUR GUARD.

The Columbus Socialist has arranged to print a special edition next Monday in case the enemy resorts to its old-time tactics. We will flood this city and county with a paper for every voter.

We are aware of the plots now on foot and defy the plotters.

VOTE THE SOCIALIST TICKET STRAIGHT.

WHO BACKS THEM!

Taylor is backed for congress by Willis G. Bowland, the Chamber of Commerce and every gangster in this district.

Brumbaugh is backed by Jim Rees, the most corrupt political boss in the state of Ohio today.

J. L. Bachman is backed by the Socialist party and thousands of radical citizens who are angry at the entire system of capitalistic bossism.

NOTICE.

Mass convention of Local Franklin County will meet at Labor and Trades Assembly Hall, 121 1-2 E. Town St., Sunday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. All who have volunteered to serve as watchers at the polls on election night are requested to be present to receive instruction in this work.

Mass convention of Local Columbus will convene immediately upon the adjournment of the convention of Franklin County. All are invited.

ELECTION RETURNS.

The County Central Committee has engaged Varian Hall on the third floor of Brent building, High and Town street, where the returns of the election will be received by wire Tuesday night.

Bring your friends and hear the returns.

BIGGEST ASSEMBLY OF YEAR GREETS GENE DEBS

Mighty Multitude Was Out to Hear Socialist Candidate for President at Memorial Hall.

DEBS' VOICE IN BATTLE.

The workers must come to realize that what is done for them must be done by themselves.

If you know the capitalist politician as well as he knows you, he will soon be out of business. His success is due to his flattery of your ignorance.

Some people think Socialists are harmless dreamers and theorists not to be feared, but all agree we are more respectable than we were ten years ago.

The laws of evolution have decreed the downfall of the capitalist system. The handwriting is upon the wall in letters of fire. The trusts are transforming industry and next will come the transformation of the trusts by the people.

There would be no subject class if it were not for the fact that the ruling class keeps it in ignorance. Our hope lies in the subject class becoming conscious of their condition and by education and cooperation free themselves from the industrial condition of which they complain.

In the coming social order based upon the social ownership of the means of life and the production of wealth for the use of all instead of the private profit of the few, for which the Socialist party stands in this and every other campaign, peace will prevail and plenty for all will abound in the land.

We are getting ready for 1914 campaign. As long as there is one human being homeless or destitute there can be no rest.

The Debs meeting at Memorial Hall last Saturday night showed plainly that the working class of Columbus and vicinity is standing true to its class conscious mission—its own emancipation. Four thousand people filled the great auditorium upstairs and down. Every person present had paid 10 cents admission and in response to Comrade J. L. Bachman's appeal, the audience contributed $138.74 in the collection, besides buying liberally of the literature for sale by a score of solicitors.

Comrade D. J. Farrell, our Legislative candidate, was the chairman and when he faced the vast audience the cheers were immense. He introduced Comrade J. L. Bachman, candidate for Congress, whose only duty was to call for the collection. This was turned into an ovation for Bachman as the representative of the party on the district ticket. He had to make a speech and the applause which greeted it indicated that those present had no doubt as who would set in the next Congress from the Twelfth.

Debs Appears.

Suddenly but quietly a tall, stooped-shouldered man walked upon the stage and then the crowd let loose. It rose, it cheered, it waved thousands of red flags, it cheered some more, stopped about two minutes and then took a notion to cheer some more. The man was Eugene V. Debs, Socialist candidate for President. For an hour and a half he held the vast throng to the closest attention and provoked the most sincere cheers that ever rang in Memorial Hall.

No synopsis of his speech could do justice to Debs, for the mighty personality of the man gives ten-fold force to what he says. In part he spoke as follows:

Debs' Address.

"I am just back from West Virginia," he went on, "where a civil war

THE RED FLAG EMBLEM VIEWED HISTORICALLY

In All Ages and Times It Has Been Sign of Advancement of Human Race

Every daily paper in Columbus emphasized the fact that thousands of Red Flags were carried in the Socialist parade last Saturday night and waved at Memorial hall during the Debs meeting.

A year ago much ado was made over the fact that red predominated in the last Socialist parade of the 1911 campaign. For the benefit of all we publish the following official declaration prepared by a committee selected by the party organization:

The statement reads:

The shield of his mighty men is made red, the valiant men are in scarlet, the chariots shall be with flaming torches in the day of his preparation, and the fir trees shall be terribly shaken."—Bible, Nahum: xi, 3.

"The Socialist movement is the greatest political organization of all the ages, and is co-extensive with what is known as the civilized world.

"This organization stands for the common brotherhood of man, irrespective of condition, sex, color, race, creed or nationality. It is opposed to all tyranny, oppression and exploitation. It proposes to secure industrial freedom to all the people by restoring to them their birthright of nature's means which are necessary to provide for the wants and necessities of man. It is therefore fit and proper that a movement so broad, with a motive so high, should have a suitable emblem.

Lore of Ages Examined.

"The question then, naturally arises what would be the most suitable emblem for adoption by this world movement. Seeking through the pages of history, sacred and secular, mythology and psychology, it has been found that red has always stood for life, honor, charity, sacrifice, ardent passion, heroism, energy, sincerity, sacred devotion, defiance to tyranny and oppression, and devotion to liberty, equality and fraternity.

"Some scientists have called red the primitive color. It is the most striking and the first that attarcts children. Red, with its complement, green, is nature's dominant color, as shown in fruits and vegetables which produce the life blood of man and beast. Under the red rays, most plants thrive and grow as by the stimulus of fertilizer. Red stimulates the blood and is said to heal many diseases, especially of the skin, as smallpox, measles, etc.

Popular for Centuries.

"Red has been the dominant color of all tribes and nations and of all religions, except the Mohammedan Pliny, the historian, states that the early pictures were painted in various reds, and that early apostles and saints were clothed in red, their sacred color. Red was the sacred color of Thor, Jupiter, Ceres, Proserpine and many other Northern and Southern gods

"The red banner with the white cross and the white banner with the red cross were the standards carried by the early Christian crusaders.

"In the Roman Catholic church red symbolizes the language of fire and blood and indicates burning charity and the martyr's generous sacrifice. Pope Innocent IV, at Lyons, in 1245 A. D., designated the red hat for cardinals, as signifying a readiness to shed their blood in defense of the church. The tunic of the papal guards is red, signifying devotion and protection to their spiritual adviser.

Used in Feudal Ages.

"The primitive Germans, Australians, Indians, Chinese and other tribes and nations used red to adorn the body and face as a symbol of love and protection against evil influences. During the feudal age, in France and other countries, the wearing of red garments was the exclusive privilege of the royal family, and red shone in the glory and pomp of empire.

"The Royal Arch degree in Freemasonry is the red degree. The third degree of the Improved Order of Red Men is crimson, representing sincerity. The third degree of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows is the priestly degree represented by red. The knight of the red garter is the highest honor that can be bestowed in England. The red ribbon is the emblem of the French Legion of Honor, which, beyond doubt, is considered the highest honor that can be bestowed upon man. Red is the emblem of the Red Cross Society, which has done much to alleviate the horrors and suffering of war, and is still engaged in relieving human suffering throughout the world.

"In the flag of all nations red is practically the dominating color.

"The red flag was carried by the dockworkers of England and waved over the lions at the foot of Nelson's monument in Trafalgar Square, and it was carried at the burial of Cardinal Manning at Kensal Grove.

"The red flag was the emblem of the working people in the ancient communes or fraternal organizations of Rome and Athens, and carried by the Roman legions into Spain, France, Great Britain and other neighboring countries. The trade organizations of these countries thereafter nearly all adopted it, among them being the marble cutters, masons, carpenters, saddle and bridle makers, confectioners, cheese handlers, cutlers, silk workers, glaziers, weavers, shoemakers, tanners, glovemakers, furriers, painters, hatters, surgeons and apothecaries, who were listed among the lower classes—all these and many more had the red banner.

Flaunted at Bunker Hill.

"In the French revolution scarlet or red was the color of the apostles of liberty, equality and fraternity.

"General Putnam raised the red flag on the day after the battle of Bunker Hill. At the battle of Long Island, Aug. 26, 1776, Captain Rahl, of the Hessian regiment, captured from the Americans a red flag with the word 'Liberty' inscribed within its crimson folds. At the battle of White Plains, Oct. 28, 1776, the Americans carried a red flag of the Bedford minute men, which is now at Bedford Library in Bedford, Mass., with red and had upon it an outstretched arm with an uplifted sword.

"Count Pulaski's legions carried two red flaggs at Savannah, now in the possession of the Maryland Historical Society. In honor of this Polish partiot our poet, Henry W. Longfellow, wrote an inspiring poem, of which the following is a part:

In Poetry Also.

Where, before the altar hung
The blood-red banner, that with prayer
Had been consecrated there—
Take thy banner—and if e'er
Thou shouldst press the soldier's bier,
And the muffled drum should beat
To the tread of mournful feet,
Then this crimson flag shall be
Martial cloak and shroud for thee
The warrior took that banner proud,
And it was his martial cloak and shroud.

"Colonel William Washington carried the red flag at the head of his cavalry troop and it was waved in victory at Cowpens, Jan. 17, 1781, and at the battle of Eutaw Springs, Sept. 8, 1781. This flag was made by Jane Elliot, afterward Colonel Washington's wife, and is now preserved at the armory of the Washington Light Infantry Corps at Charleston, S. C. In commemoration of this flag Rev. E. C. Edgerton recited the following poem:

Socialists Proud of Red.

Unfurl the glorious banner
Which as Eutaw shone so bright,
And, like a bazling meteor swept
Through the Cowpens deadly fight.
Sound, sound your lively bugles,
Let them pour their loudest blast,
While we pledge both life and honor
To stand by it to the last.

"In conclusion of all these facts the Socialist movement has wisely chosen the red banner as its emblem, as representing its high and noble purposes and signifying the true brotherhood of man.

"J. L. BACHMAN.
"PETER KINNEAR.

MAN WHO SHOT ROOSEVELT WAS DUES-PAYING REPUB.

Milwaukee Oct. 28—After the capitalist press has so loudly charged that the man who shot Roosevelt was a "Milwaukee Socialist" or a "crazed Socialist," it must be rather mortifying to them to find that he was not only a Republican, but a dues-paying Repubblican. He held a card as a member of the "Republican Union, 20th Assembly District, 165 East 81st Street, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, 1909." This card was endorsed with receipts for dues paid by Schrank to the Republican Union. The writer of these notes has seen this card, which has been photographed. The photographic facsimile has bbeen published in the Milwaukee Leader, the Milwaukee Socialist daily. But do the capitalist papers correct their false charge, and admit that this poor wretch was no Socialist? By no means! This lie, once set a-going, will probably keep on its forward march, along with the free-love and anti-religious slanders as long as there are plenty of "suckers" who solemnly swallow without the slightest investigation every calumny against Socialism and the Socialists. These are the mighty props of the capitalist system!

During the first three weeks of October, 640,000 pieces of Socialist literature were distributed in Wisconsin from house to house, at the factory and at meetings. Of these 300,000 pieces were distributed in Milwaukee county alone. This does not include Comrade Berger's speeches, which have been sent out through the mails.

A constitutional amendment to give women the right of suffrage in all elections will be submitted to the voters of Wisconsin on election day. Accordingly, the Social-Democrats will get out a special suffrage number of the Milwaukee Leader next Monday. This number will be sold on the street corners by girls and women. It is expected to have a large sale.

PASS PROSPERITY AROUND

By Paul H. Castle.

A few campaigns ago the G. O. P. had for its slogan "The full dinner pail." "The full dinner pail" racket worked all right, for the workers put the G. O. P. in power. But there seems to have been a misunderstanding among the workers as to the intent of this great campaign slogan, for the capitalists were the only ones who got "the full dinner pail."

Now comes another great campaign slogan by the Bull Moosers. It is very catchy and is guaranteed to work up considerable enthusiasm among the members of the G. O. P. bucket brigade. This slogan runs: "Pass prosperity around."

But if the old bucket brigade would only profit by a little past experience they would inquire carefully to ascertain to whom the Bull Moose intended to pass the plate of prosperity.

Now a campaign cry is always the cry of those who are paying the campaign expenses. Well, here we have Mr. Perkins and Mr. Munsey giving $15,000 and $25,500 at a clip for the Bull Moose campaign expenses. Who are these gentlemen? Mr. Munsey is a large stockholder in the Steel Trust. Mr. Perkins is a director and large stockholder in the same trust. Now, do these men really believe in passing prosperity around to their steel workers? Hardly, I guess, when the average annual income per male head of family in the iron and steel industry is only $409. If they want the prosperity plate passed around to their workers they do not have to organize a brand new political party to get it done. They can go to work on the Executive Committee of the U. S. Steel Corporation. Some of these workers are now saying, "Please pass us some prosperity," and those most insistent in the demand and who are attempting to get their comrade workers to unite with them in this request are being jailed. What else could they expect? That is what has been happening to the old bucket brigade ever since the G. O. P. started the "full dinner pail" slogan. These brigadiers thought the G. O. P. was talking about their dinner pail, but when they got to doing effective work to get it filled up they found out their fatal mistake.

Now, boys, do not make the same mistake again. Mr. Perkins and Mr. Munsey want prosperity passed around all right, but they will eat at the first table and take the first serving. As to the workers—well, the bones are good enough for them to pick.

THE WEARING OF THE RED.

By Helen West.

Oh, Comrade dear, and did you hear the news for us who toil?
The holly is forbid by law to grow in U. S. soil;
So Christmas day no more we'll keep; its colors must be hid,
For we have broken heads galore for wearin' o' the red.
I met up with Jimmy Higgins an' he took me by the hand
And he said: "How's this fool country; and for how much will we stand!
We're not to have blood in our veins,
nor thoughts within our head
While they murder men and women for the wearin' of' the red."
Then if the badge we wear must bear
th' oppressors' white and blue
Let it remind us how, compared with us, they are so few;
And each time they snatch our flag away and throw it on the stones
More workers rush to lift it to a future free from drones.
When is no wanton waste of life, nor needless human woes;
When all mankind are working-class
and all mankind repose;
Then I will changeg the color worn
in honor of our dead,
But till that day, please God, I'll stick to wearin' o' the red.

REMEMBER IT!

By John M. Work.

The present industrial system—capitalism—with its private ownership of the exploiting industries, enables the private owners to secure for themselves the bulk of the value of the labor of the masses of the people.

All the great social evils of the day—poverty, overwork, lack of work, child slavery, prostitution, intemperance, crime, immorality, excessive luxury, material groveling, disease, waste, graft, bribery, lockouts, injunctions, police and military oppression, judicial usurpation, food adulteration, degeneracy, parasitism, intellectual prostitution, pessimism, ignorance—all these are primarily due to the private ownership of the exploiting industries—capitalism.

The only remedy for these evils is the collective ownership and control of the exploiting industries—Socialism.

The Republican, Democratic and Progressive parties each stand for the continuation of capitalism.

The Socialist Party stands for the abolition of capitalism and the introduction of Socialism.

The Republican, Democratic and Progressive parties are therefore opposed to your interests.

And the Socialist Party stands directly for your interests.

Say, brother worker, how are you going to vote in November? Have you thought over the matter? Don't make the mistake and vote for something you don't want, for you are just likely to get it.

When you workers go to the voting place on November 8th, to cast your ballot, please remember that "Teddy the Terrible" has classed the workers who go on strike for better conditions as "undesirabble citizens."

About the only thing Socialists propose "dividing-up" is an equal opportunity to work, and a chance to enjoy the profits of their toil.

BILL, DEBS AND LINCOLN.
By Jerry's Partner.

"Hello, Jerry," said Bill Bonehead, as he leaned over the fence to chat with his neighbor. "They tell me Debs is not a member of any church. Is that so?"

Uncle Jerry had just finished loading his corncob pipe, and a he applied a lighted match and vigorously puuffed to force a draft thro the nicotine soaked veteran, he managed to grunt "Uh-huh."

"Then I'll never vote for him," exploded B. B. "I'll vote for a Christian."

Having succeeded in getting his cob to going fairly good, Uncle Jerry drew forth from its lurid interior several great clouds of vile smoke which the wind seemed to mischievously whisk into the face of Bill, so that patriotic gentleman coughed violently and changed his position for a safer one—from the volcanic emissions of Uncle Jerry's pipe. Then Jerry stopped suddenly and looking at Bill B., said, "Bill, seems to me you always kind of admired Abe Lincoln, didn't you?"

"Yes, sir, erry, Abe Lincoln was the greatest and best man America ever produced."

"Good Christian and all that?"

"Well I should say so."

"Think you'd vote for him, Bill, if he was runnin' for President this year?"

"You just bet that ornery old pipe of yourn, I'd vote for Abe, Democrat that I am."

Sure?"

"Sure! Certainly, but what you grinnin' about, Jerry Jinger?"

"Oh, Nothin', only Abe Lincoln wasn't a member of any church, and said there wasn't any in existence he'd join. What's your hurry, Bill?"

PASSING COMMENTS.
By Allen Cook

The Democrat, Republican and Bull Moose parties are

Three parties with a single thought

Three thieves that steal as one.

The Democrat, Republican and Bull Moose parties all stand for the infamous system of capitalizalism and are against the social ownership o the means of life. In other words, they all three favor the exploiting of the working class. These three parties are but the sub-divisions of the one great capitalist party and are all fighting Socialism which would emancipate the workers.

"$50.00 reward is offered for any man who can give a sane, unselfish intelligent reason why any working man should not vote the Socialist ticket at the coming election.

The above reward has been printed as a standing offer in Stark county for more than a year. Yet no answer has ever been tandered for the rward. Why don't some of these smart opponents of Socialism go aftr the $50.00?

Why is it that with all the marvelous machinery of production, our wonderful means of distribution, our increased knowledge in the arts and sciences, and with our unbounded natural resources, we still have in this free America of ours millions of people in abject poverty? Dear reader, it is because one class of our people owns all the machinery and natural resources and does no work except to gather in the wealth created by the other class. The other class makes all the machinery, does all the work and has practically nothing in the world bdut a living, and a mighty poor living at that. The rich who own all the tools and other means of production upon which the worker depends fr a living, owns the worker. The workers are finding this out today.

Socialism is the only remedy for this evil.

The workers manufacture the guns, mold the bullets, polish the bayonets and then place them in the hands of thir sons to thir own datruction when they strike for a higher standard of living. They make the policemen's clubs and put them in the hands of their oppressors to have their own brains battered out when they go on strike. Wise guys, these working people are! Don't you think so, Mr. Worker.

Every working man in the United States should vote for the Socialist Judges from Supreme Court dows to Justice of the Peace. The courts are used today as instruments of capitalism to rob and oppress the workingment. Under Socialism courts would be used for the administration of justice. Today the Goddess of Justice is always on the outside of the court house. Under Socialism she would be brought on the inside of the court house. Under capitalism the goddess of Justice is always pictured with a big rag tied over her eyes. Under Socialism the rag would be torn from her eyes so that she might see where justice belongs.

Th system of capitalism has produced an army of 900,000 convicted criminals; an army of 600,000 public prostitutes who have been driven by economic conditions into the red light districts of our country to sell their souls upon the auction block of lust to earn enough to feed, clothe and shelter themselves; an army of 7,000,000 women wage slaves working in our mines, mills, sweat shops and factories at $272.00 year to keep the wolf from the door; an army of 3,000,000 child slaves whose little bodies are being ground into gold to fill the coffers of the predatory rich and great corporations; an army of hundreds of thousands of insane who have lost their reason through want and the fear of want; an army of 600,000 of God's children are killed or mangled every year in the industrial system of the United States, which means one per minute night and day through the entire year with 76,000 extra thrown in for good measure.

Yet they tell us that Socialism is irreligious. I say to you that the system of capitalism which creates such conditions as above enumerated is as irreligious as hell and no man can be a Christian who advocates it or votes for the system.

„If the working people ever win the battle that will give to them the full reward for their toil, they will have to unite not only in the shops, factories, mines and fields, but at the ballot box as well. There is no sensible reason why this cannot be done. The interests of all producers of wealth are the same, whether farmer, miner or wage earner in the cities. But the capitalist class keep the working class divided into Democrats, Republicans, Bull Moose, into Protestant, Catholics, Jews, Gentiles, Americans and foreigners, and keep them fighting themselves year in and year out instead of fighting their enemy who is exploiting them. The capitalists never divide in this way. Protestants, Catholics, Jew, Democrat, Republican, Bull Moose, American and foreign capitalists all unite as one man when their interests are at stake. The workingman who cannot see these facts is as blind as a bat and dumb as an ox. Workingmen, what interests have you in common with the Rockefellers, Morgans, Guggenheims, Perkins, and Dan Hannas that you vote the same ticket they do? Wake up once in your life and vote for your own emancipation and throw your masters from your back. Vote for Debs and Seidel and the ticket of your class. Vote for Socialism under the arm and torch.

ROOSEVELT AND WILSON

Both Opposed to the Interests of Organized Labor.

To learn the real opinions of a man seeking office, don't consider what he says during the campaign, but what he said or wrote before he aspired to the pie counter. This is the only sensible way. A politician will say anything when he is trying to land an office. But what he says or writes in private life has weight.

So, therefore, if you want to know the opinions of a Roosevelt or a Wilson on labor matters, look up their records before each declared himself to be the only fit person to occupy the White House the next four years.

When he was Governor of New York, Roosevelt sent the troops to Croton Dam to break the strike of the laborers who quit work because the contractors had refused to give them the eight-hour day, as the State law required. After the strike had been broken, Roosevelt sent this telegram to Gen. Roe, who was in charge of the militia:

"Executive Chamber,
"Albany, N. Y.,
"April 25, 1909.

"My Dear General—Let me congratulate you on the admirable manner in which you have handled the strike.
